MACKLAREN NOT FOUND BUT THOUGHT ALIVE

LIBERALS MAKE ANOTHER GAIN IN MACKENZIE RIDING FROM ABSENTEES

Premier Protests at British Government for Keeping Him in Dark

OTTAWA, July 17.—There was an angry scene in the House of Commons this morning when Premier Mackenzie King was being questioned regarding the representation of Canada at the inter-allied conference. He outlined the communications that had passed between Ottawa and London and intimated that the Canadian government was awaiting further advices from the British government, when Arthur Meighen, leader of the opposition, read a press dispatch bearing on the conference. Premier King replied that he had not seen the dispatch, adding "I want the House to know and I want the British government to know that we are receiving information as to what is happening in regard to Canadian representation from press dispatches read by the leader of the opposition." Premier King protested against the press getting information with regard to what was taking place which was not given to the government of the country, and which the government was not in a position to reply to.

REDISTRIBUTION BILL PASSES THE COMMONS

Session of Parliament Nearing Its End as Most of Important Business Completed

OTTAWA, July 17.—The House of Commons last night put the redistribution bill through its final stages and it now goes to the Senate.

The session is nearing its end as most of the important business has now been completed.

The visit of the Prince Rupert Elks to Ketchikan is getting a lot of publicity in the press of that city and apparently a great deal is expected of the local minstrel company. The ball game should prove an interesting one.

FISH BUYER IS HELD UP

Robbed of $500 by Two Bandits at Juneau One of Whom was Masked

Two men, one masked, held up Ole Jackson, aboard the gas-boat Jiggs, shortly after midnight in Auk Bay at Pelton Cove, and made their escape with $500 which Jackson had in a sack to purchase from trollers, says the Juneau Empire.

Jackson telephoned the information of the hold-up and robbery to town last night and reported it to the United States District Attorney's office this morning and officers are now making a search for the two sea bandits.

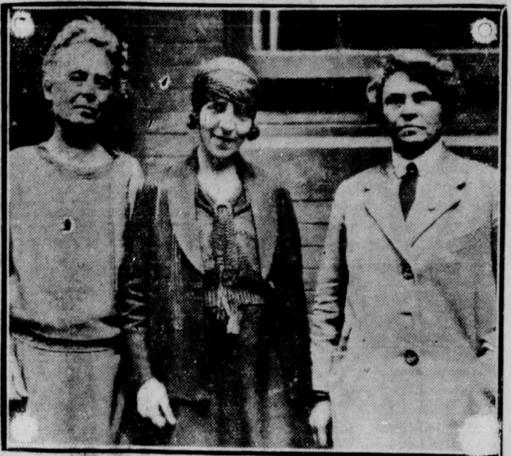

Ole Jackson, who is a buyer for H. R. Thompson, of Juneau, left on the Jiggs from the city dock about six o'clock last evening going over the bar to Pelton Cove where he anchored for the night. About 7 o'clock, Jackson turned in ready to make an early start this morning for Hoonah and adjacent places to purchase fish from trollers.

Sometime between midnight and one o'clock this morning, Jackson was awakened by the door of the cabin being opened and immediately a gun was stuck in his face. The holder of the gun, who had a handkerchief tied across his face, pulled a flash light, cast the rays about the cabin and saw a bag of money containing the $500 on a table, seized it and passed it out to a waiting companion on the dock.

Jackson was warned to keep perfectly still. The masked man took a hot-shot battery from the engine and threw it overboard.

Jackson asked him what he did that for and the masked man replied: "I missed you the last time."

The masked man backed out of the cabin, sprang into a skiff and disappeared down the bight and in the direction of Spuhn Island.

This afternoon he will visit the dry dock and the Canadian Fish & Gold Storage plant. Mr. Rustgard says that the bill amending the Jones act is still pending and it has not yet been reported upon but will come up again next winter.

OLD ENGLISH HOMES ALLOWED TO DECAY

LONDON, July 16.—Sir Rider Haggard writes to The Times deploring that the roofs of old English country mansions are rotting and falling in because the owners cannot afford to keep them up and there is no one to buy them, and that with them disappears the old English country life of which they were the center. The contents of these old houses as they have never done before, and popular belief is that most of these valuables are bought in by London art dealers for their American customers.

PATTULLO URGES TO MORE PIONEERING

Men He Thinks Should Leave Cities and Strike Out For Themselves

VICTORIA, July 17.—In a spirited address here, Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands, maintained that British Columbia was the finest place on earth for the young man. He urged more young men to leave the cities and do a little pioneering, claiming that in this way many who would otherwise be working for wages twenty years hence could accomplish big things for themselves. The minister said there was room for thousands of prospectors. If he were a young man, he said, nothing would suit him better than to tie up to an experienced prospector and hit for the hills. The lumbering industry held good openings for the young man who would go into the woods and learn the business thoroughly. He could own a mill of his own in due time.

"Fishermen operating out of Prince Rupert are getting rich," said Hon. Mr. Pattullo. "And there is room for lots more. Working on the land today is a picnic compared with the days of the pioneer."

Stuart MacLaren Still Missing, but Believed to have Landed Safely

TOKIO, July 17.—Although no news had been received up to this afternoon of Squadron-leader Stuart MacLaren and party, British round-the-world flyers, no anxiety is felt here as to their safety. It is believed likely that they landed at some intermediate point in the Kuriles far from radio or other communication with the outside world. Broughton Bay, Shimushiro Island, where the advance party for the flight laid down a fuel supply base, is believed to be the most probable point of landing. Japanese destroyers have been searching without finding a trace of the missing plane. The party includes, besides MacLaren, Flying Officer Plenderleith, Sergeant Andrews and Lieut.-Col. Broome who joined the party when it left Japan. It was Col. Broome who laid down the supply depots.

ATLIN ENGINEER MINE IS BEING DEVELOPED

Andrew Sostad, a Practical Mining Man, Has Charge of Development and Will Install Mill

(Special to Daily News)

ATLIN, July 17.—Considerable development work is now going on at the Engineer Mine. This property has been acquired by New York interests, and the development work is being carried out under the supervision of Andrew Sostad, a thoroughly practical mining man, who has been on the ground since last October and has made a big showing in that time. A 900 foot tunnel to connect with the main workings at a level of 80 feet above the lake is nearly completed, and work has been started on a 50 ton stamp mill, which it is expected will be finished within two months.

Preparations for the development of a water power, and the construction of a power line are also under way.

As this mine, although only developed in a small way so far, has produced some very rich high-grade ore, big things are looked for when mining operations are in full swing.

They were issued simultaneously with the new salmon fishery regulations and are effective now.

Protection for herring is provided from Kodiak to and including Prince William Sound, in which areas the principal portion of the Alaska herring industry is located. Close seasons are established in the Prince William Sound and Cook Inlet areas only.

DAILY EDITION Thursday, July 17, 1924.

Importance Of Advertising.

The importance of advertising in accentuated by the fact that last Sunday in the London churches at least two clergymen preached about it, the special occasion being the visit of the advertising men of the Empire to Wembley.

Advertising is now looked upon as one of the modern developments and is used in almost all walks of life. In the animal world the male advertises his charms by special decorations, this being especially evident in birds where particularly bright feathers adorn the male bird. Among mankind women advertise by artificial adornment. Politicians are always advertising and so are labor leaders, religious leaders, and business leaders.

When the Bolsheviks took charge in Russia, one of the first things they did was to seize the newspapers and enforce the publication of such news as would advertise them and their doctrines. Also they used the schools to advertise their peculiar tenets and principles.

During the world war every country used advertising to a great extent and much of the war spirit was kept up by doing so. There is scarcely a walk of life where advertising may not be useful.

No Wonder The Businessmen Use It.

In view of the usefulness of advertising in all the phases of life, it is no wonder that businessmen have seized upon advertising as a means of putting before their prospective customers the desirability of purchasing their wares. Most progressive merchants are advertising today and they find it pays. Every large departmental store keeps the public informed of its special offerings and with good results. One new customer means a great deal to a businessman. If advertising gets one, that one sometimes brings several others and the movement toward business building goes steadily on. Nothing succeeds like success and the merchant who does the business is the one to whom the crowds look.

Newspapers As Useful Media.

Newspapers are used a great deal in connection with advertising. It is part of their business to sell space to those who wish to buy. Yesterday this paper sold a space on the front page to Mayor Newton to publish his challenge to Alderman Colbart. Also space is sold to merchants, politicians, or any who will buy, as long as the object is a legitimate one. Publishing a newspaper of the size of this one here costs nearly four thousand dollars a month and it is only by selling advertising that it can be kept up to its present state of efficiency.

Circulation Is Guaranteed.

The circulation of this newspaper is absolutely guaranteed. Anyone wishing to check up the figures may do so at this office at any time. Twice a year they are carefully checked up by a bureau of national advertisers when subscription receipts are produced, paper receipts checked and every possible means taken to verify the figures as published by us.

Yesterday the circulation of the Daily News was 1861. The press run was 1894. Of this number 535 were sold on the streets or at local news stands and are all considered to be street sales. This in itself is a large circulation. Part of the edition goes to interior towns and to the towns and camps of the district along the coast. The paper advertises Prince Rupert, its merchants and people and also its commercial advantages. This newspaper is the best advertisement the city has. It also might prove to be the worst advertisement. It records the doings of the townspeople and what they do is an indication of what kind of town this is.

All this proves that it pays to advertise, whether it be the city, the climate, the business, the bank, the church, the sport, or political principles.

PIED PIPER IS CLEVER YARN

Picture to be Shown Here at Week End is by Tarkington

Jack Malone, who has followed the sea for a living, is especially popular with the children of the New England shipping town of Oldport. He is their "Pied Piper." Arriving home on the S.S. Langland, he meets Patty Thomas, the pretty school teacher and daughter of the mayor of the town. Charlie Crosby, second mate of the Langland, always has claimed Patty as his girl, the rivalry between the men becoming rather acute.

Charlie gains the disfavor of Capt. Clarke for his drinking while ashore and Jack is promoted to his position. Crosby shows his resentment by trying to brain Malone with a boat hook, but the Captain sees the move just in time to ward off the blow with his arm, which is broken by the impact.

The Langland Founders

A great storm is encountered at sea and water gets into the ship's boilers. Jack, with the Captain disabled and drinking heavily to forget his pain, and with Crosby in irons, decides to release the latter; he needs every man. But all of Jack's heroic efforts cannot save the Langland. The Captain and Charlie get into life boats while Jack and the engineer succeed in launching the last boat and are picked up by a tramp steamer bound for Samoa.

In the meantime, Charlie returns to Oldport and spreads the report that Jack and the Captain were drunk and that he tried to save the ship and couldn't. The townspeople turn against Jack and Capt. Clarke, that is all save Mr. and Mrs. Malone and Patty, whose heart has been won by the lovable Jack. The children, too, continue to love him as before.

Upon his return, Malone endeavors to bring Clarke back into the good graces of the community and finally lands him another ship. When he goes to the captain's room, he discovers that he has gone to the town's only blind tiger with Charlie Crosby and has been there all night playing poker. Jack accuses Charlie of getting the Captain drunk—there is a fight and Malone gives Crosby a beating.

Jack in Bad

While he is taking the staggering Captain to his room, many persons see him. There is a buzz of excitement. All believe that Jack and Clarke are drunk again. Even Mrs. Malone and Patty are terribly alarmed. Mr. Thomas and several of the leading citizens hold a meeting to draw up an order that Capt. Clarke must be driven out of town or go to jail. Charlie's father rushes into the gathering and tells the committee that Jack Malone has assaulted his son. This brings an order for Jack's departure also.

Truth Will Out

When Jack arrives home, his father tells him that he has been drunk and that he will have nothing to do with him. Jack prepares to leave on the ship. He stops to say goodbye to Patty. She also believes he was in disgrace and Jack tells her that he will never come back to town now that he knows that she does not believe in him.

After he leaves, the children Malone had sent to Patty with a box of candy arrive and tell her that they walked home with Jack after he had taken the drunken man to the hotel. This opens Patty's eyes and she sees her mistake. She tells her father that they have done Jack a grave wrong. An effort is made to stop Jack.

Just as the boat is leaving the dock, Patty rushes down to the water's edge and tells Malone that she knows he is guiltless and that she will be waiting for him. The ship moves away with Patty throwing kisses to Jack who returns them, promising an early return home.

The story is written by Booth Tarkington.

ANOTHER MAN FOR PRESIDENT

Washington Resident Sets Forth an Interesting Program on Which he Asks to be Elected

SEATTLE, July 17.—At Prosser in this state is a man who wishes to be president of the United States. His name is J. J. Kennedy and he has put himself forward as a candidate with the following program which is unique and interesting:

1. Limiting inheritance to $25,000.
2. Grading and limitation of land holding.
3. The government doing all the banking business.
4. The elimination of the idler and the parasite.
5. The abolition of capital punishment.
6. The abolition of the board of trade and stock exchange.
7. A uniform divorce law.
8. Government and employees to own all public utilities on 50-50 basis.
9. The principle of self-confession for offense against the law.
10. The application of the Golden Rule as the law of all adjustments.
11. Every person assessing his own property with right of government or individual to take same at 10 per cent or 20 per cent above given in value in 30 or 60 days; the property not given in becoming the state's.
12. The abolition of life insurance.
13. The abolition of tobacco with the death of this generation.
14. The limitation of the power of money to earn wealth or fortune; giving it its proper function—the exchange of things of actual value. Its earning power to be made democratic through government banks only, that will loan at 5 per cent and pay 3 per cent on deposits.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

Cricket flannel trimmed gaily with blazer stripes of braid is an English sports cousin that has met with a great welcome in fashionable American circles.

For Summer sports dresses quite the smartest material is the so-called "cricket" flannel used in plain colors or in white trimmed with bright bands, or in the characteristic wide blazer stripes trimmed with a plain color, or with the blouse of the stripe and the straight skirt of the plain flannel. Gray and bran-colored flannels are trimmed with yellow; tomato, henna, Lavin and powder blue with white; white with red and yellow, with yellow and royal blue or with apple green and brick-dust. The skirt is narrow for tennis but very nice for golf.

BRIGHT FUTURE FOR BUILDING TRADE HERE

Carpenters' Union Hears Address from International Representative at Meeting Last Night

The regular semi-monthly meeting of the Carpenters' Union was held last night in the Carpenter's Hall, Chas. Taylor, president, in the chair. During the evening an address was given by Thomas Davis, International representative from the Carpenter's Union of British Columbia, of Victoria. In his address Mr. Davis incidentally illustrated the importance of grain elevators to a port. In reviewing the employment situation for carpenters in Vancouver he stated that at times there were as many as 600 carpenters employed in connection with the wheat carrying fleet for weeks at a stretch. Mr. Davis predicted a bright future for the building trades in this province.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR MR. AND MRS. D. ROSS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ross, 861 Summit Avenue, was stormed last night by fifteen people and successfully held, the occasion being a surprise party. The evening was delightfully spent in dancing, music, and community singing. Delicious refreshments were served at midnight after which dancing continued until the early hours. A happy evening was brought to a close with the singing of "They are jolly good fellows." Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Dave Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Andy McDonald, H. C. Gill, E. A. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Reith, W. McCallum, Sid Webb, H. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sturgeon, Miss Elizabeth Sturgeon and K. S. McQuaid.

Sport Chat

The second game in the Stuart Shield series is scheduled to take place this evening, on the Acropolis Hill grounds, between the Sons of England and the G.W.A.V. With the exception of Campbell in the half back line, who is replaced by Macpherson, the Vets have the same team in the field as annexed the coveted Dominion Day cup and if the team plays up to form it will doubtless give its worthy opponents a good run. However, that assumption is problematical as the Sons of England have rearranged their team and it is on the cards they may turn the tables on the soldiers. The game will doubtless be one well worth watching and a good crowd of soccer enthusiasts should be on hand to witness the struggle. T. Jones will referee the game.

The following teams will be fielded:

Sons of England: Shenton, goal; Lambie and Dick Howe, full backs; Hodgkinson, Cameron and Bales, half backs; Geo. Hill, jr., Mathieson, P. Finker, Dickens and Geo. Howe, forwards.

G.W.A.V.: Knox, goal; Lord and Barton, full backs; Macpherson, Murray and Hunter, half backs; Robertson, Russell, Norwood, W. Mitchell, Johnson, forwards. Reserves: Findlay, Campbell and Gervich.

late for swimming from the outlook today it would seem that we are in for a spell of sunshine when undoubtedly many people will be at the lake. When a person is just able to swim enough to keep the head out of the water he is apt to disregard all caution and get too far out of his depth, thereby causing unnecessary effort in getting back to the float and swallowing a lot of water. This sort of thing is apt to shake confidence in himself. It is always a good plan to take a leader into the water and then swim directly back to the float. A beginner should never swim away from land but always toward it. The same thing applies to those who are not far enough advanced to plunge into deep water. In this case they should walk out until they begin to feel their feet rising and then make their swimming efforts to the shore. In this way their feet will always be able to reach bottom and they will be safe. When the hands and feet begin to numb it is always wise to leave the water and take a brisk rub down with the towel.

The following courteous letter was received last night:

re "Sport Chat"

I am entirely in agreement with the spirit which prompted the article in tonight's paper, and as I was the player who committed the foul against Alex. Mitchell, I desire to convey through your paper my deep regret for my action. I lost control of myself and apologize for my unsportsmanlike conduct. I have learned my lesson and hope to play the game in future.

TERM IN JAIL FRAUD CHARGE

Got $10,000 by False Pretenses Says Court of Plausible Crook

WINNIPEG, July 16.—Following a series of financial adventures which began in London, England, included many points in western Canada in his itinerary, E. P. Freeman, one of the most plausible "crooks" and military imposters has been run to earth.

He is now serving time in a United States prison for manipulating worthless cheques, after extensive operations in many states of the Union.

Freeman is well remembered by business men, veteran organizations, military authorities and police of many cities in Western Canada. He came to Winnipeg early in October, 1923, under the name of Kenneth MacLellan, V.C., M.C., D.S.O., bearing excellent references from former employers in England.

For a time after his arrival, Freeman spied out the land seeking such a position as would become a man with alleged distinguished military record. During this period he occasionally adopted the titles of Lieut.-Col. and adixed to his signature the military honors of foreign lands.

Commercial Traveller

So good an impression did the "colonel" create that he was employed by several influential firms in Winnipeg as a commercial traveller to cover western territory. Prior to his departure to the district assigned him, Freeman attempted to obtain sums of money on the strength of his military standing. He also addressed several of the fraternal and local service organizations, but eventually was branded as a "fakir" by veteran bodies and military authorities.

City and provincial police endeavored to locate the masquerader, but he proved a "will-o'-the-wisp." Tidings of him came at various times from points all over Western Canada. He was known to have stayed at one of the leading hotels in Calgary, Alta., and maintaining his bogus rank, proceeded to the Pacific coast, adding additional victims to his list as he moved on.

The authorities stuck with determination and persistence to their task of investigation. It was discovered that he had made his way into the United States, where it is said he continued his activities.

Met Waterloo

Finally he reached Buffalo, N.Y., and ultimately was arrested in that city on a charge of obtaining $10,000 by false pretenses. Freeman was convicted and given an indeterminate sentence of three years in prison at Auburn, N.Y.

VANDERBILT AT ALBERNI

Los Angeles Boy Publisher Writes Editorial from British Columbia Holiday Resort

In an editorial article in the Los Angeles Illustrated News which he owns and edits, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., writes from Port Alberni an editorial article as follows:

"Twilight in the Great Northwest. You, who will travel up here this season on your vacation, will take back home with you something of the essence of the beauty of the enchantment of this time of the day in this great country.

"In California night comes up like thunder after the setting of the sun, but here, for many minutes, after for hours, after the sun has totally disappeared, there is still plenty of light. Your publisher is writing these lines in the twilight and it is past 10 o'clock. It makes one think. The realization of things is stronger, more forceful, more real.

Glow of Sunset

Your publisher is seated on a huge mossy rock looking up along a narrow valley of water, an arm of the lake that stretches for miles and is full of shadows, to a great mass of mountains lifted into sunny summits. There is a glow of sunset more golden than any other thing in the world. On the left of the lake one can see the purple haze steal out softly, silently from the hills and creep higher up the slow, quiet slope of the mountains—up the mountain walls that stand steep and dark on either side of the lake.

Night has come to a portion of the lake, yet the high snows are still golden in the sunset. The steep walls on either side of the lake are all lost in night, but great wide crests above them are changing from golden to crimson and from crimson to ash as though the sun had burnt out.

Something Greater

In the most intense moment of the twilight, one has a sense somehow of the beauty of things sinking deep into one's soul as in a great, voiceless, never-to-be-worded ecstasy and praise. One seems to feel that whatever else of life fails, each hour here can bring new lights and shadows, a love of people, of life, of service, of something greater than one's own small part in the rendering of it.

It seems as though the great, vast world was made for one to turn to, to find the fullness of giving and of receiving, of helping to give and to be taken. A sense of sharing, of taking up one's own part, of making one's own way in a great sphere through a dim realization of unity and eternity which alone make life worthwhile.

And behind one, a great ball of opalescence is rising—the cold, grim moon. It seems to hang in the twilight; stay with one marvelous black pine tree, green, then black, against the orange; and suddenly across the moon and the pine a great wild goose has taken its heavy flight. Like us who live in the cities, it comes from places of noise and is looking for some way to escape from turmoil and dinginess. There must be some refuge somewhere, somehow.

Then night closes softly around and the chill of the lake arises again. Darkness has come, another night has begun; we are ready for dreamland. What of tomorrow?

NAVAL REVIEW END NEXT WEEK

Nearly Two Hundred Vessels to be Reviewed by King George at Spithead

LONDON, July 16.—On Saturday of next week there will be a monster review of the fleet by King George at Spithead. The vessels assembled then will be more numerous and of greater gross tonnage than the total assembled to be reviewed by the inspection of the Dominion premiers last November.

Preparations are being made for excursions to the south of England from all parts of the Kingdom and from the European continent.

The total number of vessels to be present will be 197 of which 81 belong to the Atlantic fleet, 86 to the reserve fleet and the remainder to the instructional departments. There will be ten battleships, one battle cruiser, nine light cruisers, two aircraft carriers, 100 destroyers, 28 submarines, 36 mine sweepers, and 11 depot ships.

More Available

Large as this list is, it does not include all the available ships of the Royal Navy in commission. Notable absentees are the battleships Ajax and Thunderer, the ships of the senior officers in the Reserve Fleet at the Nore and Plymouth respectively; the depot-ships Hecla, Dido, and Blenheim, and the monitors which are now employed as turret drill ships. Nor is any mention made of the drifters which are attached to the various squadrons for transport and supply purposes and which played a useful part in the war. The number of admirals flying their flags will be six, headed by Admiral Sir John M. de Robeck, the Atlantic Fleet Commander-in-Chief, or seven if, as at the Coronation Review, the Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth (Admiral Sir Sydney Fremantle) also moves his flag from the Victory to a seagoing ship for the occasion.

STOCK ISLANDS FUR ANIMALS

Alaska Industry to be Developed Through Agency of U.S. Government

JUNEAU, Aug. 17.—After attending the organization of the Fur Farmers on Kodiak Island and making a reconnaissance of the island and other islands in the vicinity, E. P. Walker, chief of the biological survey, and chief fur warden of the territory, is planning to ask congress for an appropriation to stock these places with wild fur bearing game. Walker has just returned to his headquarters here.

In the reconnaissance Walker went as far west as the western extremity of Shoepack Island. He states that the conditions prevalent on these islands show that marten, mink, beaver, land otter, will all thrive in all the island streams. Also, Walker stated that elk, moose or deer would find conditions very suitable for their life.

As soon as the biological survey could complete its report, Walker continued, the bureau will ask congress to appropriate a sufficient fund to stock Kodiak and the other extreme islands with wild fur bearing game, and less wild fur animals than any of the other outlying coast districts. Therefore it is the intention of the bureau to devote

WARDROBE WISDOM

Introduce Fur Bearers

"While my mission was principally to attend the meeting of the fur farmers," said Walker, "I also looked into the advisability of introducing valuable fur bearing and game animals into the Kodiak group. The residents of the islands have no fur bearing animals in a wild state save the red fox, land otter, ermine and large brown bear. After covering practically all of the island groups I have determined that mink and marten would thrive in many portions. Game propagation is being worked on, and if the thing is practicable and advisable, before next session of Congress, I will submit a comprehensive report on conditions, and the bureau will then try to get funds for the purpose of stocking the islands. Because of the scarcity of game and fur bearing animals in this favorable district, the bureau will favor giving them precedence over other sections until such time as enough of these animals have been stocked to insure a steady supply. Deer, moose and elk would probably thrive on these islands, and their presence would insure both sport and a constant meat supply in season."

THE AD THAT SAVED A CITY

Rome was being attacked. The massive walls were breached. The enemies pressed hard on every side. To the north, the invaders crept stealthily through the night to storm the gates. In the dark, they stumbled on a flock of geese. The fowls cackled loud and long---the sentries heard---and Rome was saved.

Advertising is continually saving something for someone. It will save for you, too, if you use it properly.

It will save you money by pointing out real bargains, by telling you of true values, by giving you prices to compare and by telling you how much you should pay.

It will save you time and effort by telling you exactly where and when to go for what you want to buy. You don't have to "shop around."

It will save you disappointment by telling you just what you can expect from your purchases. Every time a merchant or manufacturer advertises, he obliges himself to sell you goods that fulfil his claims. He knows it doesn't pay to advertise unworthy wares.

Read the advertisements as a plain, every-day business proposition. It is a duty you owe yourself and your purse.

THE ADVERTISEMENTS WILL HELP YOU SAVE

Callers—Is your mother engaged?
Betty—I think she's married.

CIVILIZATION IN THE JUNGLE

Yucatan Once Had City With Temples and Pyramids and Art Work

WASHINGTON, July 17.—Excavation of Chichen Itza, the once brilliant capital of the lost Maya race, a civilization of American aborigines that reared an amazing culture on this continent before the dawn of the Christian era and then disappeared, bequeathing to posterity a vast riddle of ruined temples and stately pyramids, has been begun under the direction of the Carnegie Institute of Washington.

Mystery of Origin
An expedition sent into Yucatan, the site of the Mayas' greatest cultural achievement, early this spring, has sent back to the Institution here its first report of actual progress on the task of digging the ancient metropolis from its jungle covered grave in a genuine effort to solve the mystery of the origin of the people who built it.

Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, associate of the Carnegie Institution in Middle American Archaeology, is head of the expedition, which reached Chichen Itza May 18. Since that time the excavators have devoted their unrestricted attention to uncovering a group of pyramids and temples in the very heart of the buried city, known as "The Court of the Thousand Columns."

Carved Columns
Part of this has already been reclaimed, the excavators coming upon beautifully carved columns, whose numbers led to the name ascribed to the court above. In the course of their excavations the archaeologists, Dr. Morley wrote, found a great mosaic which had once graced the entrance to one of the temples in this court.

"Chichen Itza originally covered an immense extent," Dr. Morley wrote. "The civic and religious center containing the temples, palaces, pyramids, market places, ball courts, terraces, tombs and plazas alone covered an area two miles long by a mile wide. But beyond this in every

IRISH SITUATION IS NOT VERY ENCOURAGING

Pugnacious Telegram Sent to Colonial Secretary by Secretary of De Valera

LONDON, July 16.—An announcement that the remaining Irish leaders who are now in prison for sedition and similar charges, including Eamon de Valera and Austin Slack, will be released this week, is arousing considerable speculation with regard to development in the Free State. Mr. Rutledge, secretary to De Valera, sent a pugnacious telegram to the Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, colonial secretary, following the latter's statement that the labor government would not countenance any steps to establish a republic in Ireland.

The coming byelection in County Mayo is generally regarded as an index of the political barometer. It is feared that the general business depression throughout the Free State may induce many wavering voters to vote for a republic. The number of bankruptcies and the distress throughout the congested districts of the west is positively appalling.

Labor is rapidly drifting towards the danger zone of extreme radicalism. The immense destruction which is the result of the civil war has aroused fears that British capital will not be available for investment in Irish enterprises. The Free State is taking steps to interest Germany in financing several large schemes of development, especially in connection with a great power scheme. The weakness and inexperience of the government is daily aggravating the situation.

CLERGYMEN PREACH ABOUT ADVERTISING IN LONDON CHURCHES

LONDON, July 17.—The ethics and use of advertising as novel subjects of pulpit oratory struck strangely upon the ears of the congregation assembled on Sunday for the morning service in both Westminster Abbey and the Westminster Roman Catholic cathedral.

True the services were devoted to the overseas visitors to the international advertising convention and the congregations largely consisted of English speaking delegates from the United States and the dominions, but that the Bishop of Durham in Westminster Abbey and Father Knox in the cathedral should have chosen such worldly subjects as the themes for their sermons was considered as showing the tremendous hold which the convention has already established upon the consciousness of the British people. The Bishop of Durham dwelt on the enormous influence of advertising on modern life. He said the presence of so many delegates of the convention implied an assumption that their business had a direct relation to those sublime verities which the church existed to confirm.

TRADE OF ALASKA IS ON INCREASE

ANEAL, July 17.—Totalling $2,486,993, Alaska's export trade last month was almost $200,000 larger than in June, 1923, and approximately $1,000,000 more than June 1922, and $1,500,000 larger than the same month in 1921, according to the monthly summary of export commerce issued by Collector of Customs John C. McBride.

The value of the products of the fisheries industry last month reached $1,318,642, an unusually high figure for the month. Copper ore shipments were valued at $881,312 and representing cargoes aggregating 6,314,244 lbs.

WHEATLEY TELLS OF BRITISH HOUSING BILL

Does Not Discourage Private Enterprise but Tends to Promote It

LONDON, July 17.—Hon. John Wheatley, minister of health in the British Labor government, in explaining the housing bill passed by the government, said the main object was to secure continuity in the building of working class houses. The essentials of the bill were a treaty with the building industry, a treaty with the local authorities, and a charter for the tenant. Parliament was asked to guarantee financial support for 15 years to enable the industry to expand its resources in men, materials, and finance, and to become once more what it ought to be, a pillar of the nation. The industry undertook to provide houses in certain numbers according to a definite program at reasonable prices. The basis of the agreement with the building industry was the production and delivery of working class houses.

The government, he said, were leaving the production of materials to private enterprise. Further than that, they proposed to use the machinery of the Trade Facilities Act to develop the production. Short of a system of nationalization, the government had done everything possible to ensure that the production in abundance of necessary materials would be realized. The public had a serious interest in seeing that prices and costs of housebuilding which would lead directly to an increase of rents did not take place, and he defined in detail the measures taken to secure that end. The proposals did not discourage private enterprise. They did more to promote it than any measure which had been before the House in recent times. His policy was to get houses.

METHODISTS OBJECT TO ROYAL FAMILY'S INTEREST IN RACES

LONDON, July 17.—The royal family has been criticized by a sect of their subjects because of the royal fondness for the race-course. While a part of the nation stands by to applaud the sporting instinct which brings their majesties to mingle with the thousands of Englishmen at the courses, the Primitive Methodist conference at Newcastle recently passed a resolution decrying the liaison between Buckingham Palace and Newmarket.

The resolution expressed the attitude of the conference as "viewing with grave concern and pain the increasing close association of royalty with the turf."

Members of the royal family were more personally referred to in the discussions which took place before the adoption of the resolution. The Prince of Wales as the most adventuresome member of the royal family, came in for most of the unfriendly criticism, but even Queen Mary was criticized for lending her presence to the grandstand.
