Indian Boy Hanged by Legs With Hands Tied Behind Him and Left to Freeze to Death Then Buried

Legislative Library,
Parliament Buildings,
Mar. 31/24

Five Nomads From North Brought by Mounted
Police on Steamer Princess Alice
Bound for Okalla

FOUND BODY IN UNCANNY MANNER

Natives Have First Contact With Civilization and are Filled With Wonder and Suspicion

Under guard of a detachment of Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the steerage of the steamer Princess Alice there is entering the realm of civilization for the first time four Indian men and a squaw from the upper reaches of the Liard River who will go to trial for the murder of an Indian lad. Having traversed from Liard to Telegraph Creek, over the great divide between the Mackenzie and Stikine River systems, a distance of something like 265 miles by canoe and on foot and thence 160 miles down the Stikine River by gasboat, the party of Indians and police passed through here yesterday afternoon bound for Okalla Prison. The prisoners are Edy, a squaw; her three brothers, Dan, Jimmy and Clem, and another Indian, Big Aleck. Their escort consists of Inspector T. V. Sandys-Wunsch and Constables H. W. Neville and C. R. Martin of Vancouver.

Strange Case
The murder case, in which these five Indians are involved and which may be heard in Prince Rupert at the next Assizes, will be one of the strangest that has ever come up in the British Columbia courts. Because he was believed to have been a necromancer, a seventeen year old Indian lad named Moccasin had his hands tied behind him and was hung up head downwards and left to freeze to death when the temperature was below zero last winter. The crime is alleged to have been committed by the Indians under arrest while they were encamped forty miles below Laird post. They are nomad Indians from the Nelson River. Later the unfortunate youth was taken down and buried.

Frank Bass, storekeeper in charge of the Hudson Bay post at Liard, reported to government authorities that Big Alex, a Cree Indian from the Mackenzie River, had told him of the murder of the Indian boy. Superintendent R. S. Knight of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at Vancouver sent out the patrol headed by Inspector Wunsch to investigate. The officers passed through here last June on the way north to Wrangell from which place they went by river boat to Telegraph Creek. From there on, (continued on page five)

HERO'S DEATH STEWART MINE

Blacksmith Tried to Rescue Comrades and Died in Attempt

Overcome by power gas in the shaft of the Riverside mine at Stewart, a man named Atkins later succumbed at the hospital there on Sunday last according to word received in the city yesterday on the steamer Cardena which took the remains of the dead man to Vancouver accompanied by the widow. It appears that Atkins, whose duties as a blacksmith kept him on the surface, learned that several miners in the shaft were in distress from the fumes. He went down but was unable to effect a rescue and was also overcome. Finally, all the men were taken out in an unconscious condition. Atkins died some hours later in the hospital.

TRITES BONDS STEWART CLAIM

Bear River Property to be Worked with A. St. Clair Brindle in Charge

WIDE ORE FISSURE
Contract Let for Driving Tunnel During Winter: Across Ridge from Premier

Having bonded a new discovery on the Bear River immediately across the ridge from the Premier mine and about opposite the Dunwell and completed all arrangements for the immediate starting of development work which is in charge of A. St. Clair Brindle, the well known Victoria mining engineer, A. B. Trites, for a long time prominent in connection with mining development at Stewart, passed through the city on the Cardena yesterday afternoon returning to Vancouver.

The property, which was bonded by Mr. Trites from Mr. and Mrs. William Dann, Jim Douville and Frank Riva after a careful examination by Mr. Brindle, contains a wide fissure vein of high-grade silver-lead ore assaying 8267.40 to the ton. The vein has been traced on the surface over 1200 feet in one direction from the discovery. Indications are that the vein is very wide containing concentrating as well as high grade ore.

Before leaving Stewart, Mr. Trites let a contract for 500 feet of cross-cut tunnel to tap the vein at some 700 feet below the apex. In addition a crew of men has been put on to build trail, camp and open up another level that will follow in on the ore body at the point where the showing is most promising. The property, which consists of 18 claims in two groups, is ideally situated from a working and shipping standpoint and has plenty of timber and water power.

CITY OF PRINCE RUPERT

Take notice that Hays Gove Avenue from Sixth Avenue to Conrad Street will be closed for three weeks commencing Monday, October 13. Residents are requested to get in their supply of coal, etc., before that date.

GIANTS WIN THIRD GAME

Bentley Pitched Seven Good Innings of Good Ball and Scored Home Run

WASHINGTON OUTPLAYED

Leon Goslin Made His Third Home Run of World Series For Senators

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Jack Bentley pitched seven innings of good baseball for the Giants today and, besides, made a home run in the fifth inning with Gowdy ahead of him so he was largely responsible for the New Yorkers winning their third victory of the World Series over the Washington Senators by a score of 6 to 2 in spite of the fact that he was replaced in the eighth inning by Hugh McQuillan after he had allowed Leon Goslin, the Washington outfielder, a home run—Goslin's third of the series. Unfortunately for Washington, there was nobody on bases when Goslin made his circuit clout.

It was all New York's game from start to finish and the Senators never had a look in. The Giants made thirteen hits and played errorless ball. The Senators made nine hits and two errors. Three safe hits and a walk in the eighth gave the Giants three runs.

The batteries were:
New York—Bentley, McQuillan and Gowdy.

Washington—Walter Johnson and Ruel.
Johnson was given an enthusiastic round of applause when he entered the box at the first of the game.

The score by innings was as follows:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Wash. 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 0—2
N. Y. 0 0 1 0 2 0 0 3 x—6

Fire Chief D. H. McDonald and members of his department visited all the city schools this morning and conducted fire drills. It took an average of 45 seconds to clear Borden Street, Booth and King Edward Schools of teachers and pupils. This is considered satisfactory.

This is Fire Prevention Week and the subject is being lectured on by all principals.

Great Public Interest Taken in Sitting of Imperial House of Commons in London Today

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Public interest in the re-assembly of parliament and in its expected momentous sitting today when the fate of Great Britain's first Labor government depends upon the result of the Conservative vote of censure and the Liberal amendment to the motion is further increased by the announcement this morning that the King is cutting short his holiday at Balmoral and is leaving there tonight to arrive in London tomorrow morning to be available should a crisis arrive which would necessitate the ministry calling upon him.

Long before the House of Commons opened this afternoon a huge throng gathered outside the Parliament Buildings. When the speaker took the chair at 2.45 there was an air of suppressed excitement and grave expectation prevailed in the chamber.

Passengers Looted Ship in Chinese Waters and Carried off Large Sum in Currency

SHANGHAI, Oct. 8.—Thirty-one passengers who boarded the steamer Wing Sin here when she left for Choo Fow took armed possession of the vessel and forced Captain Torgenson to sail to an isolated inlet near Hong Kong where they looted the ship, carrying off $300,000 in Chinese currency. One member of the crew was killed and one injured in firing which occurred when the ship was seized.

Discoverer of Eagle Creek Gold Diggings was in City Yesterday

No Good to go in Now as Food and Water Shortage Probable: Refuses to Sell His Claims

William Grady, who with Henry Ford made the discovery of placer gold on Gold Pan Creek which led to a stampede into the Dease Lake district, was a passenger going through on the Princess Alice yesterday afternoon bound for his home in Peterborough, Ontario, where he will spend the winter.

KODAK MAGNATE HAD GOOD HUNT

George Eastman and His Party Returned South Yesterday
—Took 23 Big Animals
of Various Species

After having taken 23 animals including moose, caribou, grizzly bear, mountain goat, and sheep during a seven weeks' trip to Telegraph Creek and the Cassiar Mountains, a big game hunting party consisting of George Eastman, the Kodak magnate of Rochester, N.Y., and his friends of the same city—Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Eastwood and Dr. Audley D. Stewart—passed through on the Princess Alice yesterday afternoon returning south.

It was a very satisfactory trip, said Mr. Eastwood in speaking to a Daily News representative, and was marred only by a great deal of rain towards the end. He was particularly enthusiastic about the country from a scenic standpoint.

Eight Indian guides and a white guide, Ira Ward from Montana, accompanied the party from Telegraph Creek into the wilds. All equipment except the horses was taken in by Mr. Eastman's party.

TWO WERE FINED UNDER GAME ACT

The hearings in the police court before Magistrate McClymont following the arrests of Indians in the Western Rooms Monday night charged with infractions of the Game Act proceeded yesterday afternoon and this morning. The results were that Robert Green was fined $25 for attempting to sell game, W. J. Robinson was fined $25 for having deer meat under one year old in his possession, and Eli Green and David Green were dismissed. Another case in the same connection is pending and will be tried tomorrow morning.

BALL PLAYERS WILL GET NICE WAD FROM THE GATE RECEIPTS

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Washington and New York players will divide $248,319, it was announced after the fourth game of the world series last night, from which the players will receive a share of the receipts. The winners get $148,992 and the losers the remainder.

GUEST OF FORD

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—It is announced that the Prince of Wales will be the guest of Henry Ford on October 14 when spending a day here.

As the discoverer of the gold at Gold Pan Creek, Mr. Grady is confident that there will be much development and much money made there but he points out that the extent of the gold is yet to be proven. His own personal optimism is confirmed by the fact that he refused an offer of $25,000 for his claims. Mr. Grady scoffed at the idea of selling out himself. There has been a good deal of exaggeration in connection with the stories coming out about the strike, he says. There have been no pans with two ounces of gold, he declares, but the pans do run well over 25c.

Gold Pan Creek, on which Grady and Ford made their discovery, is only about eight miles long and empties into Little Eagle Creek which in turn is tributary to the Dease and Liard Rivers. Lying ninety miles north-east of Telegraph Creek and 12 miles from the Dease Lake wagon road, it is comparatively easy to reach and the gold may be easily taken out. Gold Pan Creek is ideal for placer mining as it cuts through the formation and is from five to eight feet deep. It is thus really a poor man's creek. The formation is schist, greenstone and porphyry. The schist being decomposed gives a soft bed rock. The creek has a grade of five per cent and there is sufficient water supply for all sluicing purposes. Of course, it freezes up in the winter. Timber and wood are scarce in the immediate vicinity.

Pieces of gold weighing from 10c to $5.00 were taken out by Grady and Ford but not from the bed rock.

ANYOX MOOSE CELEBRATION

First Anniversary of Founding of the Lodge Occasion for Banquet and Presentation

ANYOX, Oct. 8.—One year old on Saturday last, Anyox Lodge, No. 1412, L.O.O.F.M., celebrated with a banquet in the Elks Dug-out, at which all the local members were present. A very elaborate program was prepared and carried out, one item not on the program being the presentation to Mr. Spragg, who is leaving Anyox, of a gold watch and chain in consideration of his services as secretary. J. E. Ellis made the presentation on behalf of the members, and Mr. Spragg replied suitably on accepting the token. A tasty little dinner was provided and the program carried out successfully. It was as follows: Overture, Moose Orchestra; toast, "The King," proposed by Dictator J. G. Ellis; selection, Moose orchestra; song, J. Murdoch; toast, "Mooseheart" proposed by Prelate J. Herdman; selection, Moose orchestra; recitation, D. Bartholomew; toast, "Anyox Lodge, No. 1412," proposed by Vice-Dictator J. Kirkwood; selection, Moose Orchestra. Banquet committee, D. Cleal, J. Hart, L. Dodds, M. McLeod, O. J. Hutchings, J. Tierney and J. Wilson.

ENGAGING A LAWYER

An American lawyer was sitting at his desk one day when a Chinaman entered.

"You lawyer," he asked.

"Yes. What can I do for you?"

"You good lawyer?"

"I hope so."

"How much you charge, if one Chinaman killum nother Chinaman, to get him off?"

"Oh, about $500 to defend a person accused of murder."

Some days later the Chinaman returned and banged down $500 on the lawyer's desk.

"All right," he said. "I killum."—Daily Express.

the prospectors who went into the district following the news of the strike could do little else than stake claims. Some prospectors' equipment has, however, been taken in and there will be some work this winter by those on the ground so as to get an early start in the spring.

Plans are already under way for the opening of two stores and a restaurant in tents at the diggings in the spring. Gold camp prices will prevail. It is estimated that flour will be sold at $40 a hundred and other commodities in proportion. Considerable whipsawed lumber will be taken in this winter, some to be used by those taking it in and some sold at high prices. Arrangements are already being made for dog team freighting to the camp this winter. The Barrington boat service up the Stikine closes for the winter this week, an extra trip having already been made from Wrangell on Monday to accommodate a number of passengers from Seattle who arrived to go in. The Hudson Bay Company sent up an extra shipment of supplies on account of the gold discovery and it was necessary for Capt. Barrington to put both the river boats into service during the closing days of the Stikine River navigation season.

There is plenty of wild game in the district including caribou, moose, mountain goats, rabbits and grouse.

There are a number of other tributaries to Eagle Creek which look fully as good as Gold Pan and it is anticipated that, when development work starts in the spring and bed rock is reached, there will be the biggest rush to the North that has occurred in twenty years.

Automobile trucks are used in the summer on the Telegraph Creek-Dease Lake road as far as the head of Dease Lake which is only a short distance from the diggings.

VERSE COMPETITION ENDS THIS WEEK

Will be Open Until Saturday Night When the Judges Will Commence Work

The verse competition will remain open all this week and close on Saturday night. Early next week the judges will get busy and the prizes will be awarded. Those intending to take part in this contest should send in their verses at once. Here are one or two that have arrived:

The verse must have to do with some form of animal life such as a bird, fish, animal, insect or germ. It may take any form desired such as an ode, a quatrain or even the popular limerick. Three prizes will be offered, $5 for first, $3 for second and $2 for third.

The verses will be published as submitted but the name of the author will be reserved to be used only in case of his winning a prize.

The verse should be neatly written on one side of the paper only and addressed to "Competition Editor," Daily News. No manuscripts will be returned.

J. D. Galloway, resident mining engineer, has returned from a month's trip to the Manson creek country. He says that anyone who knows anything about placer mining and who will work can make better than wages by hand mining there.

All records for continuous rain in this district have been broken this fall. There has been hardly a dry day for the past six weeks.

Atrocities being committed by the Germans seem to be but a part of their adapted war methods. Hideous rules laid down by Bismarck are being followed out to the letter by the Kaiser's forces.

In a few minutes over four days, the first shipment of fresh halibut ever dispatched over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway reached Chicago last week. It arrived in first class condition and created an immediate demand.

A man, whose name is not known, died in the General Hospital last evening. He was picked up by the police on the street three days ago and subsequently did not regain consciousness. There was nothing to identify him other than the tattoo mark "G.M." on his arm.

COMMON SENSE IS THE MOST UNCOMMON

Be that as it may, it is a matter of considerable interest that more and more householders in Prince Rupert are using common sense in making comparative coal tests for themselves.

Common sense says that although many coals may be good there can be only one BEST coal—the one lasting longest, giving the greatest heat, showing smallest ash deposit and being free from rock and clinkers. We believe the public has pronounced an undeniable verdict that "NANAIMO - WELLINGTON" is the BEST. This is also proved by the heavy demand that is being made daily upon Albert & McCaffery's stock of this famous coal. Watch our delivery wagons and be convinced that we are selling most of the coal in Prince Rupert. There's a reason. Ask the woman who burns it.

Phone 116 or 564 for a trial order. Satisfaction guaranteed. Prompt delivery.

Don't forget Albert & McCaffery are sole agents for "Nanaimo-Wellington" coal.

REASONS FOR CHINA'S WAR

Rival Lords Try to Gain Ascendancy Throughout Country by Military Control

UNION OF FORCES

General Wu Pei Fu, Head of Constitutional Army Attacks Southern Forces

VICTORIA, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press).—Will China's new war prove merely another comic opera affair such as Chinese soldiery alone seems able to produce or will it become a vast struggle between the dominant powers of the Far East—a menace to the peace of the entire world?

The real powers in China today are the Tschuns or military leaders each commanding armies sufficiently strong to accomplish a great deal independent of the recognized government of the country, and these Tschuns are so given to issuing proclamations vilifying their opponents and exaggerating their own strength and high principle that the news from the war front may for a time give rather a bewildering picture of the situation.

Not For Shanghai

There is every reason to believe that the war is not solely for control of Shanghai, according to word brought here by prominent business-men from the Orient. Under the surface, it is said, there are far more important considerations and whether these are allowed to come into the open and become the acknowledged objectives of the rival leaders will depend upon the development of the combat, either as a purely local affair or a military snafu of consequences sufficiently disturbing to engage the close watchfulness of the great powers which so far are not directly involved.

To Canada, which has so much to gain from the maintenance of peace and industrial and commercial development in the Orient, this new struggle has particular concern, and it may be interesting to know that the Chinese residents of Canada's Pacific coast who have had opportunity of following the trend of events and examining them in their proper perspective believe that a real war, involving millions of soldiers and enormous quantities of munitions, is rapidly materializing.

Backed by Japan

The opinion has grown since the announcement that Sun Yat Sen, the Cantonese leader, has decided to enter the crisis, and that Chang Tso-Lin, Manchurian dictator who is backed by Japan if his enemies are to be credited, is sending his troops south from Mukden to engage his old adversary, Wu Pei Fu, at present leading the Chi-Li forces.

There are three main spheres of influence in China today. At Peking there is a constitutional government, with president, premier and legislature. This is officially recognized by the foreign powers. At its head, nominally, is President Tsao Kun. But the real power in Peking lies in the hands of General Wu Pei-Fu, President, premier and legislature are said to be mere puppets, for General Wu controls the constitutional army.

Again One Man

At Canton, too, there is a constitutional form of government, but the power there is likewise centered in one man—General Sun Yat Sen, president of the Republic of South China.

At Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, General Chang Tso-Lin reigns as dictator of Northern China.

Each of these three generals holds a varying number of provinces in allegiance; and the story of China's troubles in recent years is mainly the history of each general's ambition to win control over the whole country, an ambition each has proclaimed to be the idealistic aim of "unifying China."

Are Allies

The war, then, is rooted not so much in clashing political opinions as in the intrigues of three powerful generals for personal supremacy. Two of these, however, Sun Yat Sen in the south, and Chang Tso-Lin in the north, are at present allies, united against Wu Pei-Fu, the constitutional leader.

Two years ago Chang Tso-Lin attacked Peking with his Manchurian troops, but suffered a Probably one of the most astounding bits of news with a sporting tinge, that filtered through the regular news channels of the Canadian press is that which tells of how Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, has "got religion," and set himself up as a revivalist. Johnson's last public appearance in Canada was a pitiful exhibition of fighting which he gave in the St. Denis Theatre, Montreal, with Home Smith this spring, and which alienated the good feeling which many people there still had of him, notwithstanding his peculiar career. It is understood that he tried to make his Canadian debut as a revivalist in Hamilton, Ont., but that some of the congregation of the colored church there strongly opposed his appearance as such in their pulpit.

OUT AFTER DUCKS

Little Account of a Sunday Trip Illustrating the Difference Between Sport and Work.
 (By H. F. Pullen.)

The difference between sport and work is all in the mental attitude. Any of us would object to getting up in the middle of the night to work unless he were a doctor and then he could charge enough for the service to make it worth while. Those of us to whom a dollar an hour looks big would kick like steers if we were asked to get down to the office at four o'clock in the morning. Yet in the name of sport four o'clock is quite an attractive time to turn out. Five is rather late and six is only the hour at which amateurs at the game would think of showing up.

GOSLIN ACCOUNTED FOR FIVE RUNS IN YESTERDAY'S GAME

Four Hits in as Many Times at Bat and Got Second Home Run of Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The Washington Senator's win over New York Giants yesterday was the most decisive of the series. Leon Goslin, slugging pride of the visitors, accounted for five runs. He hammered out four hits in as many times at the bat, including his second home run of the series, which scored two runs ahead of him in the third inning. This gave Washington a lead which it never relinquished.

BRITISH BIG GAME HUNTER RETURNS

Major P. M. Stewart Arrived from Cassiar Country this Afternoon and Will Visit Jasper

Major P. M. Stewart, noted big game hunter and author of London, England, returned to the city on the Princess Alice yesterday after spending six weeks in the Cassiar country and connected with the five o'clock Canadian National train for Jasper Park where he will hunt. From Jasper he will proceed to Vancouver and, being joined by Mrs. Stewart will sail on October 23 for Australia.

Sharp on Time

It was quarter to two before I finally climbed between the sheets, tired after a somewhat strenuous evening. At four the alarm sounded and as I did not hear from the others I gave Tommy a ring. He stuttered a little but said he'd be there and on time we met at the eat joint. Bill had not been heard from. Tommy went to fetch him and found that he had set his alarm for five instead of four. He capitulated, however, and soon arrived to join in the slaughter of the hot cakes.

Then there was the question of the gun. I had arranged to borrow one and the good lady who lent it said she would put it outside in the hall. It was not there so what was I to do but call her out of bed at that unearthly hour and have her get the gun for me.

Arriving at the boat house we could see another party wandering around in the dark getting a boat under way. This was cheering. We were not the only fools in town and we told them so, much to their amusement.

Two Officers
 At the boat Bill undertook the work of chief engineer and Tommy was helmsman, but as Bill was chief, I started the engine while he manipulated the needle valve. That worked pretty well and soon we were heading out into a thin fogbank and as we looked at our watches we saw that it was just half past five and the day before us. Bill relinquished his post at the engine and Tommy gave up the tiller, and I, being older and only an A.B., while they were officers, tried to get a course by the city lights behind, and later by a lone star that pierced the fog from overhead. The boys had been dancing all evening and naturally were rather tired and two hours it must be admitted is rather short for a night's rest.

Approaching Metlakatla the dawn was breaking and we could see an occasional flock of ducks passing. We were all wide awake now and looking at the guns and thinking of Duncan Bay, and visions of flocks of mallards and perhaps a goose or two.

Stalking the Duck

Arriving we decided to leave the boat and they would remain at the bay while I walked along the beach to Swamp Island where they would later pick me up. We set off bravely and pretty soon I heard a couple of shots and could hardly keep myself from returning to see what they had. There were ducks in the water all along the beach but too far off. Then I saw a lone duck near shore and, getting a rock between him and me I commenced to stalk him. He was a little suspicious and as I approached I saw him dive. That was my opportunity. I rushed forward without hiding and by the time he came up, was well within gunshot. Without giving him a chance to rise from the water I fired and killed him with the first shot. Unfortunately, however, the tide carried him away from shore and I never recovered the game.

That was the first of four that I killed and later I found that Bill had three. There was other shooting, however. Rounding a corner a crow came close overhead. The first shot made him dodge and the second brought him volplaning to the beach where I found him dead when I came up. There were a number of other attempts to slaughter the birds but they seemed to fly away, frightened by the noise doubtless.

Lunch

At Swamp Island there was little sign of birds. After wandering for some time, I kindled a fire and almost before I knew it was sound asleep alongside. But not for long. In ten minutes I was awakened by intense heat and found my pants leg afire but not seriously damaged. Again I slept and enjoyed a rest until half past eleven, when I began to feel that lunch would be the right thing. Unhappily it was in the boat and the boat was not in sight. It was noon before I spied the little craft moving in the distance and heard the pleasant chug chug of the engine. It was a pleasant sound and brought cheerful thoughts of lunch but not until we had returned to Duncan Bay did we eat and then we had to fetch water and boil the kettle. However, everything comes to those who wait. If lunch was delayed, it was all in the name of sport. We were enjoying ourselves, not working. Work on Sunday would be a hideous thing to do. None of us would be guilty of such a thing except under extreme provocation, but sport is different.

there was always a pair of these birds around, flitting under the logs or among the low bushes. There were ducks and grebes and murrelets and now and then a guillemot, but most of the guillemots, which were so plentiful in the early summer, seemed to have departed. One little yellow warbler was seen at Swamp Island, a few eagles, a number of crows, an occasional kingfisher, a flock or two of small plover or snipe, gulls galore, a few geese and a couple of western winter wrens. There were deer tracks on the beach at one place but I did not see any animal of any kind.

The Killers

Our bag was small but we had plenty of good exercise. Also we were part of the army of killers who go out every Sunday in the autumn, ready to shoot at ducks or geese or deer or any kind of animal fit for food. We had reverted to type. ## PRINCE GEORGE

James Briden, who settled in the Peace River district with his family some years ago, is trekking out by way of the Pine River Pass. When he reaches Vanderhoof, he will travel the rest of the way by covered wagon to the state of Washington where he will remain.

The by-law authorizing the expenditure of $2,000 for school renovations was passed by the property owners last week, the vote being 70 votes in favor and thirty against.

About 220 parcels of city property reverted to the city at the tax sale last week. Only two parcels were sold. The sale resulted, however, in taxes in arrears being paid at the last moment on about 49 parcels.

Firelast week destroyed lumber and slabwood to the value of about $5,000 on the Brian Brisco mill site south of the city.

J. M. Gibson, district forester, has married last week at Edmonton to Miss Lillian Corbett, Fernie high school teacher. They are honeymooning at Stuart Lake.

J. O. Wilson has returned from a trip through the Peace River district. He went in by Summit Lake and came back by way of Grande Prairie and Edmonton.

INDIAN BOY HANGED BY LEGS WITH HANDS TIED BEHIND HIM AND LEFT TO FREEZE TO DEATH THEN BURIED.

the trip into the wilderness to the scene of the alleged murder was one of hardship but Fort Liard was reached after traveling hundreds of miles on foot with pack dogs and navigating the swift waters of the Upper Liard in a canoe.

Police Fired At
Big Aleck became apprehensive when he was finally located by the officers and flatly denied that a boy had been killed in the vicinity. The officers remained encamped near the Indians notwithstanding their evident hostility. A few days after their arrival, one of the Indians fired at Inspector Wunsch. The officer did not return the fire although he holds a world's championship for revolver shooting and could easily have dropped the fleeing Indian. One day about two weeks after the officers had arrived on the scene, they came upon a hole which had been scratched out by wolves to some heavy old planks. They made a large opening and, upon removing the planks, the policemen found the body of a boy with his hands tied behind him.

One of the Indians happened along as the body was being dug up and was terrified, apparently believing that another witch had told the officers where the body was buried. The Indian also believed that he heard the dead boy speak to the Mounted Police who had dug him up. After that it was easy to get a confession from the Indians. The confession was that Edy, the squaw, with the assistance of her brothers, had tied the boy Moccasin up head downwards to drive evil spirits away because Big Aleck had had a dream that the boy was a necromancer. A girl named Lucy came along and found the boy before he was dead and cut him down. Having been suspended thus for six days he, however, died that night and subsequently was buried.

Six Weeks on Trip
The Indians involved were then arrested and given preliminary trial at Liard with Inspector Wunsch as magistrate. They were committed and the next step was to get them out to the higher courts. By the time they reach Vancouver, they will have been nearly six weeks since leaving Liard. On this trip, the Indians are having their first contact with civilization and some strange stories as to their conduct while en route arrived with them. On

Like Children
The prisoners, as seen by a Daily News representative on the Princess Alice yesterday, appeared like children mentally. They frequently laugh when talking to each other and watch with the calm disinterestedness that a quiet animal would on people about them. Apparently they have no consciousness of guilt or apprehension as to the punishment that may be meted out to them if they are found guilty. While not sleeping on the boat, they pass away the time by looking at pictures in magazines. They cannot read. The men smoke pipes and the woman suckles a child which, though two years of age, has not yet been weaned. This is common, however, in the north and it is said that children, even four years of age, eat raw meat and are alternately fed at the breast.

The prisoners talk a little English but are primeval in appearance. They all wear moccasins and the men are fitted out with cheap coats and overalls from the trading posts. Their hair is unkempt and, although they look dirty, the officers say they are at least not verminous. They are small in stature but undoubtedly of some physical strength. The squaw is typical with her colored clothes and red handkerchief around her head. Under guard constantly, they spend most of the day lying on their beds and eat at the steerage table in the centre of the bunk-lined hold.

Believe in Witchcraft
It is a matter of common knowledge among the prospectors in the Liard district that the Indians throughout the vast stretches of the Yukon and Northwest territories and Northern British Columbia believe in witchcraft and are likely at any time to torture or murder any one of their number suspected of being the friend or companion of evil spirits. Especially have such outrages been attributed to the nomad Indians such as the prisoners are.

A girl is said to have been hung up by one foot and one arm for three or four days. When the evil spirit was supposed to have been driven away, the girl was cut down and, on account of the summer weather she survived. Thereafter, however, she moved about like a crab walking on one foot and one hand, using the injured arm

While very simple styles of dress prevail at all hours, it is a graceful acknowledgment of the importance of a wedding, a luncheon or a reception to wear a formal type of dress. Even these gowns are far from elaborate, but their draperies, overdresses, graceful sleeves, etc., have a certain elegance that is very delightful. The really formal afternoon gown is always made of a silk material—crêpe satin or moire. Later in the year velvet will be used. The colors for afternoon are black, French gray, mouse, occasionally green and sometimes brown. The beige and string shades are very smart.

and leg for balancing herself. Another case was that of a seven year old boy who had his ear cut off because his brother was sick. Hanging and torturing members of the tribe having failed to drive away the evil spirits that were causing sickness and disease, one Indian resorted to hanging his dogs at the rate of one each week. He was restored to health only after he had hanged his entire dog team.

Convicted White Man
While on this patrol, the Mounted Police also convicted a white man, Ambrós Jones, on a charge of selling liquor to Indians. It was the first time since 1892 that police had visited the upper Liard. On this occasion, the Mounted Police were asked by the Provincial police to investigate. The patrol travelled nearly a thousand miles in three months on foot and by canoe and brought their prisoners from three hundred miles north of Telegraph Creek. Coming out, the going was very bad on account of heavy rains but it took only five days from Dease Lake to Telegraph Creek.

This expedition was one of no unusual note in the adventurous career of Inspector Wunsch not only in the Mounted Police but in the Great War. He holds the permanent rank of captain in the British Army and in 1922 won the world's revolver shooting championship. At the first of the war he enlisted in the Belgian Army and in 1915 transferred to the British.

INTEREST IN THE LIBRARY INCREASING

More Books Being Taken Out Than Ever Before And Donations Being Made.

A general increase in interest in the public library was reported to the board last night at its regular monthly meeting.

New registrations of borrowers had increased during the month of September by 61 while only one had cancelled. This makes a total of 1,628 registered although all are not active borrowers.

During the month there had been received by gift of 29 books and by purchase 68, while four had been discarded. There are now on the shelves a total of 4,052 volumes.

The total circulation during the month was 2,567 volumes compared with 1,956 last year for the corresponding month. The daily average was 106.9.

The question of gifts of books to the library was discussed and it was mentioned that the library was always glad to have books not being used by the owners. While sometimes they duplicated volumes already on the shelves they were found very useful.

The board decided to paint the outside of the building, provided there was money enough to the credit of the board and also to order a few more books in the near future. A special meeting of the board will be called to deal with these matters.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Macleod and family leave on tonight's train for Moncton, New Brunswick.

PRINCE DROVE ENGINE ON WAY TO VANCOUVER

Took Charge of Train at Boston Bar and Remained on Locomotive Until Stout Reached

VANCOUVER, Oct. 8. — En route from Jasper National Park to Vancouver, the Prince of Wales took over the job of running his own special train.

The Prince mounted the engine cab at Boston Bar, B.C., and introduced himself to the regular engineer and to Master Mechanic Austin, who was riding the engine. His Royal Highness, with a copy of the train orders before him and his eye on the second hand of his watch, started the train out of the divisional point on the dot, opening up the throttle and pushing the reverse lever ahead.

Makes Smooth Start

It was a good start, without any slack or jar. As the heavy steel train proceeded through the yards it gathered speed, but about one mile out from Boston Bar cattle were observed on the track and the Prince slowed down the train and blew the warning whistle. The cattle moved off into the bush, and with the release of the brakes the big locomotive, No. 5116, swung again into her stride. The route lay along the south bank of the Fraser, the roadbed following the twisting pathway of the river with the swirling waters a hundred feet below. No better spot could have been designed to give the royal locomotive engineer a real thrill. With the high mountains on each side, the train swept on through heavy rock cuttings and through a series of tunnels.

Seven miles from Boston Bar, Bell's Gate was passed, and the Prince could not restrain his anxiety to view the spectacle of the waters of the Fraser being held into the narrow confines by the great masses of rocks.

Outs at Stout

For a couple of miles the speed of the train was slackened and His Royal Highness peered from the locomotive cab down into the gorge. For twelve miles more the Prince remained in charge of the engine, dismounting when the train stopped at Stout, B.C., and proceeding back to his car, the "Balmoral."

MANY PASSENGERS ON PRINCESS ALICE

Hundred People From Yukon and Big Game Hunting Parties From Stikine Included in List

Many interesting and well known persons were included in the passenger list of the C.P.R. steamer Princess Alice, Capt. R. Thompson, which was in port yesterday afternoon from 3.30 to 5 o'clock southbound to Vancouver from Alaska ports. There were close to 100 persons coming out of the Yukon for the winter and no less than four big game hunting parties which have been in the Cassiar district. Also there was a detachment of Mounted Police taking south from the headwaters of the Liard River five Indians who will be charged with murder.

The four separate big game hunting parties were headed by George Eastman, the Kodak magnate of Rochester, N.Y., C. H. Meller of California, Charles Lemp of St. Louis and Major P. M. Stewart of London, England. All reported good success. Major Stewart got off the boat here and proceeded by train to Jasper.

Included in the list from the Yukon were three river boat skippers—Capt. J. McLeod, Capt. McCann and Capt. Raabe. Officials of the White Pass Railway will soon be coming out in force with the close of navigation which is expected at an early date.

This is the last trip of the Princess Alice. She is now to be replaced by the Princess Mary for the winter.

C.P.R. steamer Princess Ena, Capt. Thomas Cliffe, arrived in port from Alaska at 4.30 yesterday afternoon and spent the night at Tucks Inlet loading 1300 cases of salmon. The vessel proceeded early this morning to Sunnyside where 5,000 cases will be loaded after which she will sail for Vancouver via Rivers Inlet.

AMERICAN GIRL IS PLEASED WITH ENGLAND

Tells of Her Impressions in Article Published in Newspaper

Miss Fanny E. Holtzman, an American barrister, writes in an English newspaper:

"My visit has been one of unsurpassable joy, never-ending surprise, and exaltation. England to me is a land of history, a castle-country of knights and princesses. There is in all of us, I think, that spark of romance that will never die, and that will keep alive in our minds and imaginations the pictures of other lands and times for ever. For this reason, being an American, England has been to me like some colorful phantasmagoria; staying here in London, or visiting any one of the numerous castles and baronial homes, the forgotten facts in my school books have returned to me; all the old thoughts, fancies, and dreams have been resurrected. Particularly have I been impressed by your titled people.

In America we have an idea that English Royalty stands for snobbery, that every Englishman is cold and reserved. On the contrary, I found every Englishman warm-hearted and courteous, your Royalty the 'elegance of simplicity.' I stepped into a page of 'Ivanhoe' when I spent a number of days at Belvoir Castle, the home of the Duke and Duchess of Rutland. I never imagined, and no other average American might imagine unless experienced that such grace of manner, such simplicity, could exist in any such place as a castle. The royal things of life, which usually are the simple things, are appreciated, spoken of in terms of sympathy and understanding."

Passengers sailing for the south on the Cardena yesterday afternoon included Mrs. James Haslett, A. M. Kipp, J. Field Strang, N. Robinson and L. Nicholson for Vancouver and E. Hunter and J. A. Lange for Swanson Bay.
