FLOODS CAUSE DEATH AND DESTRUCTION

SIR HENRY THORNTON SAYS CONFERENCE NECESSARY ON PEACE RIVER RY.

Devastating Floods in China Cause of Thousands of Deaths And Leave Millions Homeless

SHANGHAI, Aug. 13.—Millions of people are homeless and at least 50,000 persons are drowned in devastating floods which are sweeping wide areas in China and submerging tens of thousands of villages.

Thousands of refugees are pouring into Pekin from the devastated areas.

It is difficult to get even an approximate estimate of the fatalities, but about fifty thousand is said to be conservative.

Unusually devastating floods with accompanying widespread property destruction have been reported from various sections of China during the past few weeks culminating in this latest inundation which is causing such widespread destruction of life and property.

ARE OPPOSING POLICE WORK JOHN OLIVER IS MYSTERY

Preliminary Joint Meeting Held Still Investigating Death of Girl at Shaughnessy Heights: Chinese Examined

NELSON, Aug. 13.—At an informal open meeting of members Sing, the house boy at the home of the Conservative, Provincial of R. P. Baker, Shaughnessy and Labor parties it was unanimously decided to call the executive last evening, conjuring up of the parties to a joint consciousness of Klu Klux Klan activities to be held tonight to determine, was returned to his eminence on the procedure leading to player's residence today. He had the placing of a joint candidate merely been arrested by the police in the field to oppose Premier Vincent police and questioned re Oliver to be guarding the death of Janet K. held here on August 23. From Sing, the nurse girl, who was the unanimity of those present it found dead at the Baker residence anticipated that the executive some time ago. Sing discovered will decide to call a joint conference at the earliest possible date.

An inquest was held following the death and the jury returned a verdict of death from natural causes. The matter was then taken up by the newspapers with the result that facts were brought out indicating that possibly death had been the result of foul play. Since that the police have been working on the case.

TYSON GOON IS ARRESTED

Chinese Teller of Bank of Montreal Alleged to Have Taken $47,000

VANCOUVER, Aug. 13.—Tyson Goon, the 28-year-old Chinese bank teller, appeared in the police court today on a charge of embezzlement and the case is remanded for a week.

It is alleged that defalcations from the Chinese branch of the Bank of Montreal amounted to $47,000. Horse racing and other forms of gambling are alleged by his friends to have been the cause of his downfall.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 13.—After plans had been completed for the United States world flyers to hop off for Greenland a disquieting report arrived from the cruiser Raleigh, which stated that the harbor at Angmagssalik, Greenland, was too small and was nearly filled with floating ice and was in the district examining place. Probably a new place will be selected.

FLYING PLANS TO BE CHANGED

Harbor Proposed in Greenland Coast Not Large Enough and Filled With Ice

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 13.—After plans had been completed for the United States world flyers to hop off for Greenland a disquieting report arrived from the cruiser Raleigh, which stated that the harbor at Angmagssalik, Greenland, was too small and was nearly filled with floating ice and was in the district examining place. Probably a new place will be selected.

FAIR GETTING GOOD SUPPORT

Judges are Appointed — Board Had Regular Monthly Meeting Last Night

Several prospective exhibitors from Vancouver have been making inquiries with a view to having special entries in the forthcoming Prince Rupert Fair and good support in the way of donations is being accorded by various commercial firms both here and outside it is reported at the Fair Office. One of the exhibits that may come from Vancouver is a big poultry display.

The following judges to officiate at the Exhibition have already been appointed:

Minerals—A. G. Garde, Smithers.

Dog Show—Stanley Dorrell, Port Essington.

Fruit and flowers—R. P. Murray, government horticulturalist, Victoria.

Field crops and vegetables—J. B. Munro, Department of Agriculture, Victoria.

Poultry—H. Reid, Department of Agriculture, Victoria.

Domestic Science—Miss M. Launder, Department of Agriculture, Kamloops.

A judge will also be supplied by the government for the five stock.

The regular monthly meeting of the Fair Board took place last evening. Business was largely of a routine nature in perfecting the various plans in connection with the exhibition. The directors present were President Joe Greer, Vice-President Ben Self, Honorary Secretary Frank Dibb, George W. Kerr, D. J. Jabbour, Ald. R. F. Perry, Ald. G. V. Evitt, H. M. Daggett, John Bulger and Managing Director D. McD. Hunter.

The new wiring in the Fair Building it is said will provide for a much improved system of lighting in the hall. Lamps will be installed this week in readiness for the reception there that is to be accorded Squadron Leader Stuart MacLaren and his companions of the British round-the-world flight.

Home Building a Problem Worthy of Attention Says W. J. Alder Visiting in City

The idea of home owning must be encouraged if cities are to be built in Canada and this applies very especially to Prince Rupert declares W. J. Alder, the well known property owner, who is here paying his annual visit of inspection to holdings in the city. It looks as if there must be a return to the old system of home investment companies where money is loaned out to those desiring to build homes. Mr. Alder is inclined to bemoan the general inclination of today for people to buy cars before owning homes. In five years' time, the purchaser of a car has nothing to show for the money he spends today. If he buys, he has a home for all time.

Mr. Alder notes a need for proper housing accommodation in Prince Rupert. He thinks that the board of trade or some such public body should take up with officials the question of having them erect homes for their employees here.

This would be a step in the direction of relieving the present housing shortage.

Mr. Alder suggests that the city might float bonds for the present while President Joe Greer, Vice-President Ben Self, Honorary Secretary Frank Dibb, George W. Kerr, D. J. Jabbour, Ald. R. F. Perry, Ald. G. V. Evitt, H. M. Daggett, John Bulger and Managing Director D. McD. Hunter.

That Victoria is getting more benefit from the tourist business this year than ever before and that business conditions in the B.C. capital are better than has been for some time, is the opinion of Mr. Alder. He says he talked to a number of merchants there recently and they said business was good. There are more tourists than ever before and this year they seem to be spending more money than usual.

Mr. Alder will be spending a few days in the city and will then go east. He will visit Winnipeg, his former home in Tennessee and will then proceed to California where his sons are in business. William is in the real estate business and George is employed by the Swift Co.

Conference Will Decide on Peace River Railway Policy Sir Henry Thornton Says

GRAND PRAIRIE, Aug. 13.—Speaking at a meeting of settlers of the district, Sir Henry Thornton said while he favored transportation relief for settlers he was unable to give any promise that relief would be afforded as final decision rested with the Dominion government. He said before a definite decision was reached it would be necessary to have a conference of the five parties concerned: Alberta, British Columbia, the federal government and the C.N.R., and the C.P.R., and on the decision of the conference transportation relief for the Peace River country would be placed.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF MRS. DAWSON

Church Too Small to Hold Those Who Would Pay Respects to Deceased Lady

The number of those attending the funeral yesterday afternoon of Mrs. F. G. Dawson was limited only by the size of the church. The Presbyterian building was packed to the doors with those who wished to pay respects for the last time to a lady who was held in the highest esteem in the community.

Rev. H. R. Grant officiated and members of the Rotary Club and also of the Daughters of the Empire attended in a body. The pall bearers were D. G. Stewart, L. W. Patmore, P. W. Anderson, J. G. Steen, John McRae, and George H. Munro.

So many people sent flowers that it was necessary to make special arrangements to display them. At the choir rail was a sloping bank of flowers all across the church and possibly ten feet high with the coffin in the centre also covered with wreaths and crosses. In the centre of the bank were two outstanding floral tributes, the rotary wheel done in the colors of the club and the I.O.D.E. shield, the latter made and sent by officers of the order. Others were equally beautiful if not as unique.

In his address to the congregation Dr. Grant referred to the outstanding qualities of the lady now deceased and emphasized that with joy they should realize the fact that transition to a better world had taken place. He dwelt upon the unselfish life which had brought happiness to many.

Mrs. Jarvis McLeod sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and S. K. Campbell "Shadows," both most effectively. Members of the Rotary Club helped in carrying the flowers both in the church and at the graveside. At the latter place the Daughters of the Empire were represented by their four respective regents and standard bearers and the large Union Jacks lent a touch of color to the solemn occasion.

Street Difficulty Being Overcome.

Everyone in Prince Rupert must realize the difficulty in the matter of street work with which the city council has to deal. Most of the wooden roads were built about the same time just after the townsite was cleared and many of them were replanked later. Now the underpinning has rotted away and they are unsafe for traffic.

The city had four alternatives. One was to close the streets and leave the people without means of getting to their homes; another was to rebuild the plank roads; a third to grade the streets, and the fourth to make them semi-permanent as was done with Fifth Avenue. In most cases the city council is adopting the semi-permanent method and the results so far have been excellent. The difficulty is to cope with the whole situation. A good deal of patience will be necessary on the part of the residents in some districts where transportation is difficult. Finances as well as conveniences have to be considered and, so far as can be seen, the city is doing excellent work with the means at its command. Mistakes may be made. The work here is very difficult. The main thing is that little by little the city is being given a modern appearance with modern conveniences of transportation and that in the course of a few years we shall have a road system that will serve us well and will present a good appearance to visitors.

Pleased With This City.

A number of visitors who have been here recently have expressed themselves as pleased with the appearance of the city. They have commented on the manner in which buildings are painted, gardens kept and especially on the new roads which have been recently built. Everything looks prosperous, and that is a great thing. We must carefully avoid any appearance of running down at heel. Possibly the city looks better today than it has ever looked before. Citizens who are aiding in this work by putting their places in order are to be congratulated. The example of one person on a street is often enough to set everyone else there working.

Few Shacks Should Be Pulled Down.

Complaint has been made that there are a few shacks in the city that should come down. They are unpainted and unpleasant of appearance and not only destroy the uniformity of the city but also have a deteriorating effect on adjacent property. The city regulations in regard to such property should be strictly enforced. It is done in other cities and should be done here. We cannot afford to have anything here that makes the city look shabby and uncared for.

Many Complaints About Oiled Streets.

Many complaints have been made to this paper about the present condition of the streets. Individual cases of considerable damage to carpets and mats have been cited and complaints have been loud and long. It is pointed out, however, that it will be only a few days before the streets will be in good condition and then we shall be glad to have had the inconvenience because of the benefits that will follow.

In other cities oiling has been done in a similar manner and in some cases has had to be discontinued owing to the large number of suits brought against the city for damages. In one city, that shall be nameless, a person fell down and spoiled a new suit of clothes and collected the price from the city. Then came a deluge of accidents. People were falling all day and coming to the city asking for new clothes to replace those injured.

It is suggested that there must be a way of oiling streets without bringing about a condition such as that which has obtained here during the past few days. We do not know anything about it, but hope that if there is a better way it will be discovered before next year.

MANY PEOPLE ARE JUST LUMPS OF BEEF

Lady Correspondent of Paper Stands for Art, Love and Romance to Stop Suicide

A correspondent of one of the southern papers discusses the relation of art to suicide as follows:

"Reading in your issue of the 12th a leader on, "Child Suicide in the United States," might I express the opinion that the sinner in these cases is not the child but the parent who would thoughtlessly bring a child into an atmosphere where there was neither love or romance — two necessities of life. The eugenists prate a lot about the right to be well-born, by which they mean the right to be a good lump of beef. The happiest and finest minds are by no means found always in first-class, beefy bodies."

British Association Hears Address on Psychological Subject at Toronto

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—"I have a feeling that I have gone through all this before." T. MacCurdy, of Cambridge University. "Deja vu," as the phenomenon is known to psychologists, is caused by the activation of an unconscious memory of a real event, a fantasy, or a dream, which is some way resembles the coincident, conscious perception.

"This memory, although stimulated, does not enter into consciousness as such, but affects it only as an obsessive feeling of familiarity," Dr. Drever said. He has been able to shed further light on deja vu by his observations of the "perplexity" type of insanity cases, which are characterized by a peculiar feeling analogous to the psychic experience of normal beings.

In studying the perplexity cases, the mental processes which result in the dubious attitude are easily discovered, and the mechanism of the production of deja vu is revealed at the same time. The results are important owing to the bearing which such factors have on the understanding of the nature of normal recognition.

NO CAUSE FOR LEAST ALARM

Economic Condition in Britain Will Adjust Itself Says University Professor

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—The economic outlook in Great Britain need give no cause for alarm, it was indicated by Prof. A. L. Bowley, of the University of London, who compared in the economics section of the British Association today economic conditions in the British Isles at present and 10 years ago, in respect of population, employment, prices, wages, income, production and trade.

"The standard of living is at present re-established at the pre-war level, although working hours are reduced," he said. "Necessary imports are obtained in return for reduced exports. The problem of employment is still one of post-war adjustment. In a few years' time the increase in the number of the employable population will be checked.

"Certain adjustments in distribution of occupations and in relative wages are necessary, but till European affairs are more settled it cannot be foreseen whether an increase in external or internal trade should be the objective.

"Meanwhile there is little development in home industry and it is doubtful whether output can

POLICE SEIZE CAPTURED BEAR

Ursus Kermodei Becomes Property of Crown at Beacon Hill Park

UNDER OBSERVATION

VICTORIA, Aug. 13.—On a fair way to rival in fame the she-bear that occupies so prominent a place in the mythical stage of the history of Rome, the white she-cub at Beacon Hill Park has now become the property of the Crown.

A formal order of Police Magistrate Jay has been made confiscating the cub and giving it into the care of the curator of the Provincial Museum. The order was made by the magistrate on an application made on behalf of the Provincial Police by Major Bruce Irving.

Close Season Captive

The cub is declared by the police to be a safe one and has been seized under the provisions of the Game Act, it having been illegally in captivity during the close season.

A great deal of interest surrounds the bear owing to the fact that it is the first of the Ursus Kermodei which has been taken alive, and as such has attracted the attention of a wide circle of scientists throughout the continent. The species is a rare one, confined as far as can be learned to the islands of Princess Royal and Gribble.

As far as the history of the captive is known to the police and the Game Board, the cub came into the possession of Indians, who, in turn, sold it to O. W. Flowers, of Ocean Falls, who paid $60 for it, and then applied to the Game Board for a permit to allow his holding it.

Took It to Vancouver

Mr. Flowers, in turn, brought the cub to Vancouver and made an offer to sell it to the caretaker of Stanley Park, asking $100 for the animal. The deal did not go through, and the bear was left in the care of the caretaker of the park there.

The next stage in the proceeding was that, acting for the Game Board, the Provincial Police in Vancouver took out a search warrant and seized the cub. Following this it was brought here and temporarily placed in charge of the curator of the Museum, who was made the official custodian by order of the court.

ROSE HARBOR IS LEADING

One Station Gets 127 Out of Total of 272 for Whole Coast

VICTORIA, Aug. 13.—Rose Harbor is leading in this season's catch of whales so far, according to a report received yesterday by Captain La Marquand, of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation. Whales are running well this year but weather conditions have been unfavorable to the whalers in the north, especially during the past two weeks. Thick fog banks have prevented the whalers from locating any big herds.

So far this season 272 whales have been caught, and of this number the Rose Harbor boats caught 127. Kyuquot whaling station, on the west coast of Vancouver Island, comes second with 98 whales, and Naden Harbor, in the Queen Charlotte Islands, and the smallest of the three, comes last with 47 whales.

Sei Whales Plentiful

Sei whales are the most plentiful and the northern waters are proving prolific. Of the 272 whales caught so far this season 100 of them have been Seis, with the sperm whale coming second. A few finbacks, humpbacks and sulphur whales have also been caught. England is proving the best market this year for whale oil, while the United States is making a strong demand for the sperm oil. Several shipments of the whale oil have already been sent to Glasgow by the C.G.M.M. freighters, while the intercoastal steamers are delivering the sperm oil to Cincinnati and Hamilton.

Liners Sigh Herds

Reports have been received from deep-sea liners entering this port that large herds of whales have been sighted. The Empress of Canada had an especially exciting experience on her last trip from the Orient when she had to steer clear of several schools of these sea monsters, but eventually fell foul of one herd and was furiously attacked by a fifteen-ton bull, who met his death quite heroically on the bow of the liner while trying to protect his cows.

Captain La Marquand is hoping to benefit by these reports and is in hopes of getting better weather. The whalers, he stated, will not return until about October, so that there is yet time to make a real good catch.

Whale meat looks and tastes like beef. The use of whale meat for human consumption is by no means a new institution. The old-time American whalers out of Nantucket and New Bedford regaled themselves on tasty whale scraps while they were trying out the carcass for oil.

The catching and canning of whale meat is now a recognized Canadian industry on the Pacific Coast, and two stations and canneries are located on Vancouver Island's west coast, and shipments of canned whale meat are being sent to the European and Oriental markets in increasing quantities.

The Japanese especially are very fond of whale meat. A delicacy in Japan is salted whale tails and nearly every Japanese liner that leaves this port from now until the end of the fall will take out small consignments of salted whale tails.

MONEY LOST ON GIBBONS FIGHT

Promoter Gone to Country Suffering Nervous Breakdown, Says Sketch

LONDON, Aug. 13.—The Daily Sketch says today the fight between Bloomfield and Gibbons on Saturday resulted in a loss of £12,000 to the promoters. The receipts were £15,000, expenditure £27,000.

Gibbons is claiming that £8,000 is still due to him and the preliminary fighters are after their money.

Major Arnold Wilson, the promoter, has gone to the country suffering from a nervous breakdown.

BARNYARD GOLF IS POPULAR SPORT

Students at University of Michigan Like It Better Than Baseball

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 13.—Horseshoe pitching is more popular than baseball with University of Michigan students participating in intramural athletics, statistics compiled by Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics, have revealed.

The report shows that 670 found diversion in the ancient and honorable game of barnyard golf, while only 150 sought to emulate Ty Cobb or Babe Ruth.

Of the more than 8,000 students participating in intramural sports, 4,300 have shown a favoritism for basketball, and 1,178 for playground ball. Speedball, drawing 900, comes next in line and bowling, with 717 students regularly on the alleys, is fourth.

Gymnastics was the least popular, only 35 participating. Indoor baseball attracted but 50.

SAWFLIES ARE ALL FEMALES

That is Not Quite True But Nearly so as Males are Scarce Among Them

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—In at least one species of insects, the females appear to be quite capable of reproducing themselves more or less indefinitely. This is the outcome of researches performed by A. D. Peacock, of Armstrong College, Newcastle, who addressed zoologists at the British Association. Mr. Peacock has found that the sawfly, common in Canada and in England, will reproduce asexually, but that the new insects are nearly all females. Of 600 fatherless individuals which were bred in the laboratory in this way, all but four were females. In the case of the anomalous four eggs, two received the stimulation necessary to start division by immersion in a 2 per cent solution of epsom salts; one was placed in warm water; one started to grow spontaneously. The presence of the males is by no means indispensable for the production of young insects, the investigations show. "Male sexual instincts are not so potent as in other species," Mr. Peacock explained. "The females ignore the males." When the scientist finally saw what he thought was a genuine pairing, he traced the development of 22 eggs which were laid subsequently. Of these, 19 pupae were reared, and 17 adult females were derived. This strange resulted to the belief that the fertilization in this case must have been similar to the parthenogenetic or asexual reproduction, which had previously been observed.

LECTURE ALMOST SENDS REPORTER BUGS

Turns in Report But Does Not Know What It Is all About

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—That contributions to the scientific programme of the British Association are often more interesting than is popularly supposed has been the experience of many of the press reporters and non-scientifically minded citizens who have attended the meetings. Attracted by the title of a paper in the Zoology section, a pressman joined the audience and obtained the following verbatim report of the proceedings:

"Grylloblatta, a remarkable synthetic genus of Orthopteroid insects discovered in 1913, combines characters of most of the lower ptergot orders with certain features suggestive of the Thysanura. Recently a few live specimens have been obtained and preliminary studies of the internal organs made."

Resembling a stone-fly larva in general appearance and in the structure of the head capsule, thoracic nota and slender jointed cerci, it approaches the cockroaches, and termites in the mouth-parts, legs, cerci and genitalia, but has a prominent exserted ovipositor like that of a long-horned grasshopper, and possesses also certain characters suggestive of Mantids, Phasmids, Embids and Dermaptera (earwigs). Orthopteroid also is the presence of styli throughout life in the male and in the immature stages of the female, but the division of the sternum of the 9th abdominal segment of the male, which bears the styli, into median sternite and lateral styligerous coxites, is a primitive feature suggestive of certain Thysanura. (applause)" Another Thysanurid character is the apparent independence of the tracheal systems arising from each abdominal spiracle, and the absence of muscles connected with the latter is also noteworthy. The general features of the internal anatomy, which have been only partly worked out, confirm our conclusions as to the systematic positions of Grylloblatta as based on the study of its external structure." that many types of reproduction other than the orthodox method, are possible in the case of the sawflies, but in summing up the peculiar ease of preponderance of females, where pairing had been observed, he said: "In rare, and probable unnatural pairing, the female dispenses with fertilization, or its 'femaleness' suffices to destroy the 'maleness' introduced by the spermatozoa."
