ITALIAN PREMIER IS STILL ON AGGRESSIVE SUIT BROUGHT BY NURSE GIRL AGAINST MILL MANAGER FOR DAMAGES

War Declared on Free Masonry and all Such Orders by Mussolini

ROME, Jan. 13.—Although the eagerly awaited session of the chamber of deputies proved disappointing to sensation seekers, the sitting was important in that it again revealed Premier Mussolini in the role of aggressor.

Mussolini presented a bill designed to deal a death blow to free masonry in Italy. It provides that all secret societies and clubs must file with the police copies of their constitutions, rules, regulations and the names of their officers and members.

The police surprised and arrested 33 Communists who were christening a red flag and decorating it with the hammer and sickle.

ELECTION NOT LIKELY SOON

Speech of Premier Disposes of Suggestion of Short Session

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—The speech of Premier Mackenzie King at Toronto last night is regarded in political circles as disposing of the report that the government plans a short session of the House with a general election in the early summer.

From his outline of sessional work it is apparent that railway freight rates will be the dominant issue demanding long consideration.

The Premier's hint that the government may have gone a little too far in reducing taxation and that time should be given to tariff changes to work out their effect, is regarded as significant.

GERMAN TRAINS IN COLLISION

SEATTLE, Jan. 13.—The extradition of Charles Morris, wanted by the British Columbia police as a suspect in the murder of Capt. CITY COUNCIL HAS ITS FINAL MEETING

Work of Year was Wound up at Session Last Night Lasting Less than 15 Minutes

The 1924 city council wound up its business for the year at a session last night which lasted less than 15 minutes. There was a full attendance with the exception of Ald. Collart who was indisposed. City Treasurer Matheson, was called upon to keep the minutes in the absence of City Clerk E. F. Jones, also indisposed.

Business consisted of the receiving of reports from the fire chief for the month of December and the year 1924, passage of accounts totalling $2,875.57 for the week ending January 10 and filing of the report of the superintendent of utilities on capital expenditure involved in the light and telephone departments during the past year.

The only feature to relieve the drabness of routine business was the passage of a vote of thanks just before adjournment, on motion of Ald. Clapp and seconded by Ald. Casey, to Ald. Perry in recognition of the time and efforts he had devoted to his duties during the past year as chairman of the Board of Works.

LASCELLES COMING TO CANADA SOON

LONDON, Jan. 13.—So successful was the recent visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada that Princess Mary and her husband, Viscount Lascelles, have virtually decided to make a trip to Canada next year. It is reported authoritatively that the trip will be informal in every way.

UNEMPLOYED NOT WANTED

Problem of Looking After 2,500 Out-of-Works Looks Big to Vancouver

(Special to Daily News)
VANCOUVER, Jan. 13.—Vancouver will not make things very comfortable for out-of-works. She does not want them. Alderman J. A. Garbutt, chairman of the police and relief committee, has something like 2,500 men on his hands, but most of them are single and many have blown into town with a wad, spent it almost overnight and now must starve unless they are fed by the city or given remunerative employment.

The city will provide for the married men on work provided for in the recent bylaws, but the single men must shift for themselves. It is thought that in most cases they have no reason to be destitute and many could get work on relief provided by the provincial government at Point Grey.

Alderman Garbutt would like authority to keep unemployed from drifting into the city but, failing that, his motto is not to make it too attractive for them here.

INDIAN LIQUOR CASE DISCUSSED

Milton Gonzales Appearing in Court of Appeal at Victoria

VICTORIA, Jan. 13.—The Court of Appeal has heard argument asking for the quashing of the decision of Judge Young, dismissing the conviction of William G. Cooper of Maricelton, who it was proved sold liquor to Franco Alfred, an Indian, but who was proceeded against under the Government Liquor Act. W. D. Carter, deputy attorney general is appearing for the crown and Milton Gonzales for the defendant respondent.

The main contention was as to whether the Indian Act, being a federal measure, overrode the provincial act or whether either one applied. If the latter is correct the decision of the county court judge will be upset. If it is shown that the prosecution should have been brought under the Indian Act and could not be brought against an Indian under the provincial act, then the case remains dismissed.

Vancouver Mill Manager Sued for Removing by Force Nursegirl Who had been Dismissed and Paid

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13.—In the supreme court yesterday was disclosed an action which promises interesting developments. The plaintiff is Miss Lily Ralph and she claims $10,000 damages to compensate for alleged injuries received when she asserts W. F. Hanbury, manager of the Hanbury Timber Products Limited, caught hold of her feet and pulled her feet foremost along the floor down stairs and out into the street.

Mr. Hanbury in defence stated that he dismissed for good cause plaintiff, who acted as nursemaid, paid her wages due and requested her to leave. She refused to leave and he gently laid hands on her and removed her from the premises, using no more force than was necessary.

The trial has been adjourned until February 11.

Log Scalings for Year 1924 Exceeds the Previous Year Including Piles and Poles

In spite of the fact that a number of the mills were closed during the later months of the year, the log scalings for the year just closed have been almost as high as for the previous year. For the year ending December 31 the total, as recorded by the local forestry department, was 171,592,993 board feet as against 183,287,904 feet for the previous year. In addition there was a large cut of poles, piles and railway ties, the aggregate of which exceeded last year's by many million board feet and brought the total production for 1924 well over that recorded in 1923.

Scaling figures were as follows:

The scalings for the month of December were not very heavy, the total being 20,285,452 board feet of all varieties. In addition there was about a quarter of a million feet of poles, and some piles and ties.

EQUAL FREIGHT RATES COMING

Premier Mackenzie King Says It Will be Before Parliament at Session

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—Premier Mackenzie King, speaking here last night, indicated that the big business before parliament at the coming session would be transportation problems, particularly as they affect freight rates, and that the tariff will be left alone. He said there must be equality of freight rates in the Dominion as far as the government or government agencies could make them.

Regarding immigration, Mr. King said 300,000 people had been brought to Canada within the last three years. The talk of the exodus to the United States was as exaggerated as it was unpatriotic.

SHOOTING TOOK PLACE IN INDIA

Wealthy Merchant Killed and British Officer Wounded at Bombay

BOMBAY, Jan. 13.—A shooting affray in a fashionable residential quarter of Bombay resulted in the death of Abdul Kadir Dawla, a wealthy merchant, and the serious injury to Lieutenant-Seafield, an Englishman named Matthews, and a woman.

Dawla, accompanied by the woman, and Matthews were motoring when they met another party in a car who began shooting.

Four British officers rushed to the rescue and captured one assailant. The others escaped.

The reported shooting is attributed to the Pathan menace which is causing serious apprehension.

DELAY SUGGESTED IN APPEAL OF DR. BOAK

Appeal Judges Object to Setting Case Over to Next Session of Court

At the sitting of the Appeal Court it was suggested by Counsel for Dr. Boak, under sentence of imprisonment for manslaughter and at present on bail, that a postponement of the appeal to the next sitting of the court might be asked.

Both Chief Justice Macdonald and Mr. Justice Martin stated that they would not allow any postponement except to place the case at the foot of the list. The former said it was not in the interests of justice that there should be long delays from the trial to the appeal. The appeal must be got ready as soon as possible.

W. J. Taylor, K.C., is appearing for Dr. Boak.

FIRE REPORT
EXCELLENT ONE

Chief Macdonald Complimented on Showing Made by his Department During Year

VERY LITTLE LOSS

Shows Need of Keeping Brigade in State of Efficiency in City

Showing that property to the value of $320,000 had been involved but that the loss from fire during the year 1924 had been but $4,367.92 all but $27 of which had been covered by insurance, Fire Chief D. H. Macdonald submitted his thirteenth annual report to the city council last night. During the year 49 alarms had been responded to, 6,000 feet of hose had been laid, 200 gallons of chemicals and 100 feet of ladder had been used. Inspections made by the department had totalled 300, notices had been given to 175 persons, and several buildings regarded as fire hazards had been removed. The apparatus at the end of the year was the same as at the first with the exception of the Reo speed wagon which had replaced the Ford truck and which was giving good service.

The chief referred to the faithful service that had been given by his staff during the year and emphasized the necessity of maintaining the department's efficiency in view of the general frame construction of buildings in the city. The chief also expressed his thanks to the city council, police department, press and public generally for assistance and courtesy.

The report also showed that the expenditures for the department during the year had totalled $15,852.91 including salaries at $12,924.

In moving that the report be filed, Ald. Macdonald expressed the opinion that it was one that the chief and his men might well feel proud of. It was indeed a tribute to a brigade, which he regarded as being second to none other in the province.

The report of the chief for the month of December showed that there had been five calls with no loss, expenses totalling $1,124 including $1,077 salaries. The report recommended the laying of six inch water mains on Eighth and Fifth Avenues West. Mayor, Newton and Ald. Gasey suggested that Seventh Avenue West and Ninth Avenue should also have better protection.

This Is A District Of Opportunities.

Canada is a land of opportunities but it is probable there is no part of Canada in which opportunities are more numerous than in northwestern and central British Columbia. Possibly mining opportunities are the most numerous because mining is just in its infancy here and yet a number of mines have been in active operation while dozens of others are only awaiting transportation or the arrival of sufficient capital to change them from prospects to shipping mines. For the mining man, who knows anything about the game, the field is an extensive one and full of possibilities. To the man with capital who would invest there is also plenty of scope but he must choose wisely and on the advice of an expert.

Should Be Number Of Mills Here.

Lumbering is another fruitful field for the person looking for opportunities. There is in Prince Rupert a large mill that has just changed hands and will be in full operation soon. There is room, however, for a number of smaller mills which might utilize the assembly dock for the shipment of the product by water and also ship such as the market demands by rail. The ideal place for a lumber mill is where rail and water meet. In time there will be pulp mills, box factories, shingle mills, laminated wood mills and other factories at or near Prince Rupert, as well as lumber mills.

Logging contracts may be secured in the Prince Rupert District to cut for local and outside mills. Also contracts may be secured for getting out poles and ties. Here are opportunities for the right men.

Fishing Greatest Industry Of District.

Fishing is the greatest industry of the Prince Rupert district. The Skeena River is the best salmon river in British Columbia by long odds and some small streams are holding their own well. Deep sea fishing shows no diminution in the supply, although vessels have to go farther for their catches than formerly. There are great opportunities in connection with the cod and herring fisheries while clams and crabs may be canned with profit.

Opportunities For Big Enterprise.

Those who are looking for big enterprise will find them in the manufacture of pulp paper or the installation of power projects. There are a number of points in the north where pulp plants might be profitably operated and it is to be expected that several paper mills will yet be established on this coast. The amount of pulp timber is immense and has as yet scarcely been touched. The demand for newsprint is steadily increasing. In the neighborhood of Prince Rupert there will have to be a power plant of some magnitude soon. The city will need a great deal of electric power and any industrial establishments will soon consume all that can be produced at any one plant. There are splendid power possibilities on the Estall River and at other points where the power may be generated.

Other Plants Will Be Needed Soon.

Other industrial undertakings will operate in the neighborhood soon. When a grain elevator is built the next step will be to establish a flour mill here. Brick making plants will be needed. A smelter will be required to handle the ore of the district, the iron deposits must be developed and steel works established. Wood working establishments will be necessary and almost every kind of factory could operate at this terminal point.

In commercial life, possibly the greatest need soon will be a wholesale hardware house. At present the nearest is at Vancouver. Other commercial undertakings must be investigated by those requiring them but in a growing city such as this there are always opportunities and they are well worth looking into.

STEAMER NEEDED

Editor Daily News,

Allow me a little space in your valuable paper in regards to the halibut industry, it being close to the opening season when all the fleet will be going out. As I pointed out, a few years ago, the time the halibut boat Nollad was lost with all her crew, we had not a vessel here to send out to look for her.

Seeing that Prince Rupert is one of the largest, if not the largest fish producing city on the Pacific coast, I think it is nearly time that Prince Rupert should have the head office of the fishery department here instead of it being in Vancouver. Surely we are entitled, from the revenue we produce, to have one of the large fishery patrol vessels here for life saving and the rescue of property during the winter instead of having them lie in Victoria, where they use them for yachts or excursion boats.

When they sent to Victoria for the patrol boat to look for the Nollad they had to hire a pilot to take them to the west coast. They might be all right for deep water but what we want is men in charge with local knowledge. We have fishermen here with knowledge of the coast among the finest navigators in the world and there is no need to send to the old country for them. They are looking for jobs.

Of course we will always have shipwrecks in a fishing community, but it is protection of life and property we want. The breaking adrift of the barge Bingham in Hecate Straits is an illustration. We had no vessel to send to assist her or to save her crew. Eventually we found the S.S. Newington, the local lighthouse tender.

Now I maintain, and any nautical man will agree with me, that the Newington is no sea vessel to send out to Hecate Straits in a gale of wind. Perhaps she is all right taking stores to lighthouses this side of the straits, but even then she must avoid being caught in a gale. I was on her in Queen Charlotte the first time the Government got her but she was made worse by putting more houses on her deck making her top heavy.

The Malaspina they say is a good boat. She was here about six weeks ago. I hope our M.P.

TRAVELLED THE WORLD BUT 'Never Found Anything to Equal Zam-Buk'

Mr. Henry C. Davis, a widely-travelled railway engineer, now of South 17th St., Kansas City, U.S.A., writes that he has found nothing in any quarter of the globe that compares with Zam-Buk for healing. He says:—"As a first-aid I have used Zam-Buk in innumerable instances for cuts, wounds, bruises and similar injuries sustained in my engineering work.

A REAL ANTISEPTIC HEALER.

"I also tried Zam-Buk for a rather common trouble in this country—skin poisoning by poison ivy. Disfiguring sores appeared on the hands, and other parts of the body after being in contact with the poisonous plant. Zam-Buk speedily cooled the affected surfaces, drew the poison right out, and healed my skin perfectly.

"Another time, whilst travelling, I suffered from a virulent outbreak of eczema, contracted through careless use of a public towel. I had medical advice and tried in addition on many special remedies without finding the hoped-for relief. Zam-Buk treatment took away all the pain and burning irritation, and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores. It made my skin quite well."

A GOOD WAY TO INCREASE BUSINESS

Many advertising messages fail to attract attention because they are either unattractive or are too stereotyped.

This is the opinion of one of our busiest and most successful business firms—Albert & McCaffery, Ltd. They have succeeded in interesting many new customers in the story of the famous Nanaimo-Wellington coal and since the coal itself lives up to its reputation these customers are coming back daily for more. Nanaimo-Wellington coal is the premier fuel for the fireplace, range and furnace. More heat—less ash—no rock or clinkers.

You should try Nanaimo-Wellington as soon as your present supply gets low. Better still, if you order some now you can test it out with the coal you are now using. Nanaimo-Wellington stands supreme when a comparative test is made.

To secure a supply phone Albert & McCaffery Ltd., who are sole agents here. Their phone numbers are 116 and 561.

WHITE BEARS ARE NUMEROUS

Joe McPhee, Customs Officer at Butedale says they are Good Size on Princess Royal

That the white bears known as Ursus Kermodei are quite common on Princess Royal Island and that some of them are larger than is the general impression is the information given by Joe McPhee, customs officer at Butedale, who is in the city, and who is returning to the cannery this afternoon.

It was near Butedale that the bear, now in captivity at Victoria was caught. The one taken was one of several seen at that time and Indians and hunters have at various times seen the bears. After being caught it was kept for some time at the cannery before being sent to Victoria.

The specimens, which first attracted the notice of scientists, were taken on Gribble Island, adjoining Princess Royal. They were described by Frank Kermode, curator of the provincial museum at Victoria and Dr. Hornaday of the museum of natural history in New York decided that it was a new and distinct species. Four specimens are mounted in the provincial museum at Victoria and one young one is in captivity at Beacon Hill Park, Victoria, the one that was caught near Butedale.

The white bear is no relation whatever to the big polar bear. It is smaller than the ordinary black bear and is said to be a species that is gradually dying out and is found only at certain favored places on the mainland. It is of a creamy white color.

MCMEEKIN EXPLAINS RECENT SUGGESTION

Thomas McMeekin who urged the Board of Trade to put some younger men on the Council of the Board of Trade at its recent meeting explains to the Daily News that the expression he used was "hunch" and not "gang" in connection with the men who had been chosen year after year for the position. He says he considered it better there should be some new men on the council of the Board and in doing so, he meant to cast no reflections on those who had done the work in the past.

Eye-Witness of Trouble at Metlakatla in 1882 Blames Late Bishop Ridley for it

(By C. Harrison)

Before I came to British Columbia for a few months I was curate at St. Thomas', Stepney, London. I intended to go out to Calcutta under the auspices of the Church Missionary Society. In fact, I had my passage booked on the P. & O. Liner Eldorado, and had also provided all my wardrobe. Before the time of my departure, however, I had a serious illness and, on my recovery, the Medical Board refused to allow me to proceed to my destination and ordered me to the North Pacific coast until I fully regained my health and strength. After several prescriptions from friends in England, my wife and I left Liverpool in the S.S. Alaska, belonging to the Union Line, and eventually arrived in Victoria November 24, 1882.

When we arrived we found that the only steamer then running up the northern coast was the Otter, then owned by the Hudson Bay Company. This vessel was then in her winter's quarters as the company only allowed her to run during the fine weather months of each year. This being the case, we were compelled to stay in Victoria until we could get a chance to go north on some other vessel. We stayed at the old Douglas House, which at that time was the best boarding house in the city.

Three weeks after our arrival in Victoria, the late Mr. Saunders intended to send his auxiliary steam schooner Dolphin as far as the Skeena River. My wife and I secured our berth on her, but before she left I was taken suddenly ill with a severe attack of typhoid fever. On my recovery the American steamer Idaho was in the Victoria harbor preparatory to making her mid-winter trip to Wrangell. Captain Carroll was the master. I saw the captain and asked him if he would land us at Metlakatla as he passed by that village. This he arranged to do if I could secure a "special permit" for him to do so. I then saw the collector of customs, the late Mr. Hamley, and he very kindly granted me the necessary papers.

Ridley vs. Duncan

We were ten days in making the trip between Victoria and Metlakatla, the present day steamers now make the trip in thirty-six hours. We arrived there three or four days before Christmas. On our arrival we found all the Indians in a great state of excitement. They were divided into two parties. About eight hundred remained faithful and true to Mr. Duncan, the pioneer missionary among them, and the balance threw in their lot with Bishop Ridley. Bishop Ridley got his own way, and Mr. Duncan took his Indians to a fine island in Alaska and there founded the finest town controlled entirely by Indians that can be seen anywhere either in Canada or the United States of America. He named the place of his new abode New Metlakatla.

From Christmas 1882 to the end of 1884 was the time of the bitterest struggle and animosity, and I was present in most of the proceedings between the two parties. My opinion is that the bishop was entirely in the wrong. Mr. Duncan had brought these Indians together from Port Simpson and elsewhere and had formed a Christian community at Metlakatla. He is who first founded Metlakatla. He had rescued the Indians from the heathenish districts and from the influence of the medicine men, and for more than twenty years before the bishop's arrival had done his utmost to instill in them the doctrines of Christianity. They had by their own endeavors erected a magnificent church, school house and several industrial buildings, including a very fine cannery. When Bishop Ridley arrived on the scene they were in a fair state of prosperity. I can definitely prove that all were happy and contented under Mr. Duncan's jurisdiction.

Tackled Wrong Man

The bishop was sent out by the Church Missionary Society, and this society had paid Mr. Duncan his salary; consequently Dr. Ridley when he was appointed Bishop of New Caledonia imagined that he was head over all, and that all must obey his orders or resign. He tackled the wrong man when he began to give his orders to Mr. Duncan and to the Indians that he had rescued from heathenism. In my opinion the bishop was very arrogant, as he presented on his arrival to dictate to Mr. Duncan what he should do in regard to the people that he (Mr. Duncan) had been trying to civilize for twenty years, and with whose social position and condition he was of all men on the coast at that time the most intimate. The bishop maintained that as the Indians had received baptism they were capable of being communicants. Mr. Duncan demurred and said that they were not sufficiently instructed in the rituals of the church to receive this sacred ordinance, and the consequence was the breaking up of the finest Indian village in British Columbia. The departure of Mr. Duncan and his Indian followers to Alaska was a severe blow to the authorities of the Church Missionary Society and a heavy loss to the merchants of Victoria from whom they purchased all their supplies.

The bishop, however, thought otherwise, and in an address he made at Metlakatla on the occasion of three addresses and testimonials having been presented to him by the clergy and laity, said "That you were about to show me some mark of your confidence I had been made aware, but I had not the slightest hint you were going to present this address of your esteem and affection. Much as I value these costly gifts, they are as nothing compared to the unity of feeling and spirit which prompted the giving of them. It seems like realizing a vision of impossibilities. It's a celebration of triumph on the battle field. On this point of land has been fought out a battle that has won not only religious but civil liberty. The addresses are full of reference to the long and painful conflict. But for this I should not even now allude to the defeat of those who formerly terrorised over the northwest coast. Very few at the time realized the true nature of the struggle. The general public believe me to be animated by merely ecclesiastical ambition. The newspapers with but one exception were unsparring in their vituperation. Only you living in the district, including a small band of much abused Indians, knew the actual state of the case, and my memory will ever gratefully retain the pleasant recollections of sympathy and offers of personal assistance in many an hour of peril. I was not surprised that some churchmen counselled me to give up the unequal struggle, though history might have convinced them that much more formidable obstacles to human progress had again and again been overcome by a determined faith in the ultimate triumph of truth. Now there is peace, unity and concord, for which on behalf of the church which I here represent, even more than my own, and yours, I humbly thank Almighty God."

Free-For-All

I shall now quote a short account from my diary in regard to these troublesome times. On Wednesday, December 27, 1882, as the bishop and Mrs. Ridley walked in front of Mrs. Harrison and myself on our way home from a feast in the house of a chief named Paul, as we neared the corner of the churchyard I noticed a body of men were stationed there. As we approached one of them came forward and placed his hand before the bishop's eyes which he pushed away with his head. Chief Legaic then came and put both of his hands on the bishop's shoulders. The bishop pushed him to one side, and as he attempted to reach the mission house the whole crowd got round us and prevented us from moving a step, although they allowed the ladies unmolested to pass on. This they did and Mrs. Harrison called for reinforcements from the mission house as she imagined they were going to kill the bishop. An Indian named Huson struck the bishop a blow on his chest and then ran among the crowd. Immediately another Indian named Sitka Jim came forward to try and strike the bishop a second time. The bishop repelled his blow and struck him with a well directed aim, which sent him reeling against the prison. I was struck on the chest and back several times, also kicked, but did my best to pay them back in their own coin. Four men about this time surrounded the bishop and acted as a body guard, but even then some of the Indians continued to push their legs through and kick the bishop.

The jail at that time was situated about one hundred feet in front of the mission house, and as we neared that building, Legaic went up the steps, turned the key in the lock, and liberated the two prisoners whom the bishop had imprisoned that morning for stealing a drum. He then touched his hat with two of his fingers and said, "you see who is master now." When the body of Indians surrounded us I thought it was their intention to drive us down to the beach where they evidently had a canoe ready without paddles or oars and compel us to get into it and thus send us adrift. During the whole of the disturbance Huson kept shouting "that's to do the way the bishop," meaning evidently to say that is the way of the bishop always fighting.

Gun Boat Arrives

On account of these troubles an American gun boat was placed at the disposal of the Canadian government, as there was no British gun boat at that time in Esquimalt Harbor. This vessel arrived at Metlakatla on January 17, 1883, and Dr. Powell, with Mr. Anderson were the two magistrates that were sent up to make enquiries concerning the late disturbances and to punish the offenders. Their penalties were very lenient: Huson and Legaic were fined ten dollars each, and Sitka Jim, being the worst offender was fined twenty dollars.

(Editor's Note — This is the twelfth of a series of articles by Mr. Harrison. The thirteenth, telling of his arrival at Massett from Metlakatla in 1882, will appear in an early issue.)
