Late With Highway Building; Ottawa To Extend 1956 Date

British Columbia possibly complete its the Trans-Canada highway by the target date of reported here today. Works Minister A. P. expected to go to the deadline. Columbia has barely 500-mile section of highway, which is mostly high terrain. agreement with government called in seven years cost of about $40,000,000 to $45,000,000 required. The route of the highway winds through country that has no comparison in any other province. The Fraser Canyon section, coming from the interior to the coast cost $1,000,000 a mile in some cases. In the Big Bend country near the Alberta border, it would cost $1,500,000 to repair a highway that would probably only be used for a short time. The provincial government is contemplating changing the route there to allow flooding of the area for power development.

Fully Clothed Doukhobor Women Stage Demonstration

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Womenfolk of the Radical Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect milled fully clothed Friday on lawns in front of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters here. They said they were protesting treatment received by husbands and sons sent to the penitentiary for arson and parading in the nude. At nightfall the "day of protest" ended and 30 women returned to their homes at neighboring settlements of Grand Forks, Gilpin and Krestova. There were no arrests. To soothe the protesting women, RCMP sent a radiogram to penitentiary officials at New Westminster. Police read the reply which said the "Sons of Freedom" prisoners were getting the same treatment as other inmates. Spokesman for the group said freed prisoners "don't say much" when they return home but that their bodies show mistreatment. Women also protested the lack of success in finding a new home for the radical Freedomsites, away from British Columbia's Kootenay area, in which Nelson is located.

Lemon Hands Defeat to Cellar Club

NEW YORK (CP)—Bob Lemon and Luke Easter combined their talents Friday to give Cleveland's pennant hungry Indians a 4-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers in the American League's only day game. Lemon restricted the Tigers to six hits in posting his 17th victory of the season and his ninth in his last 10 decisions. Easter locked it up for Lemon with a two-run homer in the sixth inning, his 23rd of the season. Virgil (Double No-Hit) Trucks started against Lemon but any dreams he envisioned of a second straight no-hitter were shattered in the first inning when Harry Simpson beat out a hit to short, moved to second as Easter walked and scored the game's first run on a double by Al Rosen. Chicago Cubs defeated Brooklyn's pace setting Dodgers 4-1 in a lone National League day game. The loss cut Brooklyn's lead over runner-up New York Giants to nine games.

3-Point Offer Proposed By Truman, Churchill

WASHINGTON.—Britain and the United States today proposed a three-point settlement of the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis, including a grant of $10,000,000 from the U.S. to Iran. The offer was made personally by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill to Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh. The extraordinary personal participation by two western leaders stressed, the gravity with which London and Washington regard the possibility of Communist seizure of power in that strategic Middle Eastern country. The President and Prime Minister Churchill said they "sincerely hope" the proposals for action will meet with Mossadegh's "approval and result in a satisfactory solution." The three proposals in their essence are: Submission to a world court of the question of compensation to be paid to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company for its property in Iran, nationalized 18 months ago. Claims and counter-claims of both Iran and the AIOC are to be fully considered. Appointment of "suitable representatives" for the Iranian government and the AIOC to negotiate "arrangements for the flow of oil from Iran to world markets."

Unions Get Closed Shop In Railroads

WASHINGTON (CP)—Representatives of eastern United States railroads and 17 non-operating rail unions agreed Friday night to the union shop requiring employees to be members of labor organizations. The proposition was under intensive negotiations for several months since the government board recommended the union shop make compulsory union membership arrangement for all railroads in the United States. The unions sought joint negotiations with all carriers as a group but wound up in separate talks with the eastern railroads. Southeastern railroads had refused even to talk with the unions on the matter. Negotiations have been held with western carriers also but these talks recessed recently on an indefinite basis. If Iran accepts the first two points, this is proposed: (a) AIOC will release for immediate sale $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 of oil now held in Iran by a sort of legal blockage. (b) Britain will relax restrictions on exports to Iran and on Iran's use of British sterling. (c) The U.S. will make an immediate grant of $10,000,000 to the Iranian government to assist in their budgetary problem.

Sabre Jets Down 5 MIG's In Air Battle

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—The United States Fifth Air Force said U.S. Sabre jet pilots shot down at least five Russian-built jets and damaged 12 others today in violent clashes near the Sulhio dam and Sinulju in extreme northwest Korea. A swarm of 100 Red jets crossed the Yalu river from Manchuria less than 24 hours after United Nations fighter bombers in record number Friday dealt North Korean capital of Pyongyang one of the heaviest blows of the war. Seventy-nine Sabres engaged the Red jets—largest Communist air armada to appear in months. The fiery battle upped the U.N. toll for August to a record of 32 MIGs destroyed. Three probably were destroyed and 42 damaged—the best monthly record of the war. U.N. losses, if any, were not announced. They will be covered in the weekly summary due next Friday.

Labor Day Message

IN HIS MESSAGE for Labor Day, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, the second biggest labor body in Canada, stresses that of uppermost importance at this time is avoiding a third world war.

While armament and means of defence are a necessity, they primarily present a negative tactic, says Mr. Mosher. The threat of Communism can best be eradicated by raising the standard of living in countries where Communism can be nourished, for it appeals to the poverty-stricken masses on the ground that it would provide peace, freedom and prosperity for them.

Instead, it gives them dictatorship, secret police, slave-labor camps and exploitation.

If war is to be avoided or averted, says Mr. Mosher, the most effective action is to raise the standard of living for the hundreds of millions of dispossessed people in the backward nations.

"They must be given food and tools, and, most of all, a hope for the future. Their belief in and acceptance of democracy and the institutions which have been built upon it will depend upon what we in Canada and similar nations are prepared to do in this respect."

Mr. Mosher has a strong point there. We have no quarrel with democracies; neither are the democratic nations out to conquer others to force democracy down their throats, but we are forced to resist aggression of Communism anywhere to protect ourselves.

If we can thwart Communistic aggression by planting the seed of democracy among the people of its target areas, we will have landed the first blow, and without the use of armament.

UNDER OUR ROOF

By JOHN STURDY

Yesterday morning, Hamish and Little Augie and Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.) and I were sitting on the steps of the Vancouver Court House, wondering how we would ever get to Prince Rupert and Alaska (our departure has been delayed for a number of reasons, including the perfectly valid one that we are penniless), when a little man rushed up to us, waving a yellow envelope, and asked:

"Don't give him your right name!" said Little Augie, who is always frightened when he sees anyone in uniform.

Well, the man already knew my name and furthermore he was a telegraph messenger, not a policeman, and it turned out that my wife had relented and wired us the necessary funds to get out of Vancouver.

Of course, there was a rumor that we would be asked to leave Vancouver, anyway, under the terms of something they call a "floater", but that would involve legal complications, so as soon as I had the telegram in my hand we high-tailed it for the nearest telegraph office.

When I had the money in my pocket, we ate, something we have not been doing for several days, and then Hamish asked me if he could have a couple of dollars.

"What for?" I demanded.

"To buy the flour," Hamish said.

"Don't be silly," I said. "What would you want flour for?"

SOURDOUGH

"Well," said Hamish, "we are bound for Alaska, aren't we, and if you think I'm going to travel the Trail of '98 without any sourdough, you're crazy." "Quite right, old boy," put in Col. Skeffington-Smutts. "And you'd better give me a few dollars too, so I can buy a poke. I refuse to go to Alaska without a poke."

"And what do you want?" I asked Little Augie. "An ice-pick, I suppose?"

Little Augie shuddered.

"Please don't ever mention that word," he said. "It reminds me of the old days in Chicago when some very nasty characters used an ice-pick on my second cousin, Big Moxie, with rather permanent results."

Well, I bought flour for Hamish and a poke for the Colonel and an ice-cream cone for Little Augie, and we started off for the pier. Hamish said he knew the way to the boat for Prince Rupert and Alaska, and when he saw a lot of loggers going down a ramp he said that must be it.

Personally, I didn't think much of the vessel. In the first place I couldn't find our cabin number, and in the second you?

place I couldn't find the purser. There were a lot of people aboard, sitting around eating oranges, but they certainly didn't look like a happy band of tourists embarking for an Alaska cruise.

No colored streamers, or anything.

"This is depressing," I remarked to Hamish.

PRIMITIVE

"Well," he said, "life is still pretty primitive in the North."

I was debating that point with myself when the ship sailed.

So I sat down among some of the people who were eating oranges and waited for the purser to come along. I had always heard that it is etiquette to make yourself known at the first opportunity to your fellow-passengers on a long cruise, so I turned to the man next to me and said: "My name's Sturdy."

"So what?" he said.

This nonplussed me a bit, but I recovered manfully.

"Lovely weather for a cruise," I suggested.

The man just stared at me.

"Are you going ashore in Prince Rupert?" I enquired, determined to be nice.

END OF LINE

His eyes got big and round.

"I think the side trip out of Skagway ought to be thrilling," I said.

The man rose to his feet. He gave me one last terrified look and ran to the other end of the boat.

I shrugged my shoulders. You meet all kinds of people on a cruise. It was at this point that the boat slowed up and I turned to the man on the other side of me.

"I wonder why they're stopping," I said.

"Well," said this man cheerfully, "if they didn't stop we'd be in a load of trouble. This is the end of the line."

"What line?" I demanded.

"The ferry line," the man said. "I don't know whether you realize it, mister, but we have just arrived in North Vancouver."

Hamish, Hamish—where are you?

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

Bull Frog Croaked On

HOLLYWOOD, California.—Surely this must be the only city of three million people in all the world where you can hear a bull frog croak all night long, earthquake or no earthquake.

In this Spanish style house on top of a hill that looks right down on some of the big movie and television lots of Hollywood we can also see the whole layout of the great city of L.A. Yet here in the patio where I write this I feel as if I were in some rustic retreat in the woods of British Columbia.

They really do have a unique style of outdoor living here in California. Instead of having their back gardens wide open to the gaze of all comers, so that you are on exhibition like goldfish in a bowl, they have out-Englished the English for hedges, fences and the makings of privacy.

DON'T believe that old saw that familiarity breeds contempt. Down here in southern California they are naturally quite familiar with earthquakes, for they have plenty of them. But they have a healthy respect for those earth-shakers. This summer they have had two fairly severe ones—the latest being yesterday afternoon where several people were killed and damage ran into millions in Bakersfield.

Right here in the middle of last night we ourselves had a little tremor. (The natives here insist it is tremor and NOT tremble.) The wife has some of extra animal instinct which tells her when these things are coming—she gets a sort of seasick feeling, she says. Anyway, she was wide awake. Suddenly we felt the whole house begin to heave and shake, and we heard that eerie rumbling noise that you never forget, once you have experienced an earthquake.

The shaking lasted a couple of minutes, but never reached the severity of the ones we remembered from Montreal in about 1933, or Vancouver two years ago.

I swear by all the gods that the old bull frog never missed a single croak. I distinctly heard his when the rumbling first started and I heard him again as it finished.

THEY TELL some amusing tales here of the by-products of the July earthquakes. It set off all the numerous burglar alarms in town, made all the church bells ring, and stopped every hand-wound clock in the whole area. I heard of one family out on a camping trip, sleeping beside a stream. When the quake was over the father and son had been jolted about 40 yards apart, their car had been bounded another 60 yards distant. The stream had suddenly doubled or tripled in width.

OF COURSE, if you are in the centre of a severe quake there is nothing funny about it. Jim Day, managing editor of the Bakersfield Californian, gives an eyewitness report of yesterday's experience in his city.

"I saw people stagger into the street—bouncing up and down as they walked along, canopies and signs on stores shattering and falling—and in the background a great rumble, low and deadly."

THE PEOPLE of L.A. are remarkably well informed on the scientific background of the quakes. They are also the world's prize optimists. The papers, for instance, report that Fontana's water supply has been much improved since the July quake released extra underground springs.

Quick Search Saves Sailors

TOKYO (AP)—Three United States warships began an almost immediate search last Wednesday night for survivors of the Navy tug Sarsi, which hit a mine off Korea and sank without a chance to call for help, the Navy said today. Quickness of the search was probably largely responsible for 92 of the tug's crew members being saved. Four of the survivors—due at Sasebo Navy base in southern Japan today—were seriously hurt.

WARRIORS MEET!

Gifts were exchanged aboard a warship this week. Chief Khat-salano, venerable head of the Capliano tribe, was welcomed on HMS Sheffield by Vice-Admiral Andrews and Commodore G. T. Inglis. The bowed and wrinkled chief, wearing fringed buckskin and crowned with eagles' feathers, presented a model Indian war canoe. In return for this honor, he was given a handsome replica of the flag-ship's crest.

The former king of Egypt who went to dwell in Italy, might have foreseen vexation of soul. He's discovering he has more aviroudpois than money. He's two weeks behind in his hotel bill, present balance being nearly five thousand. Small wonder, seeing top floor suite is occupied by himself and wife, three daughters, a baby, an old eking of something or other, and a large retinue of officials and handy men.

Another Russian spy plot unearthed in Montreal. It's only a few years ago a sensational prosecution in that city sent schemers from Moscow to the pen. This time, they seek the low down on defences?

A freight vessel, not from Japan, but somewhere in the vastness of the Orient, is due in Prince Rupert this afternoon to load barley. Her skipper is English, and crew Chinese. This city has always emphasized the advantages of trading through this port. Here's another example. One could almost call it international.

Salvation Army Serves All Regardless Of Race, Creed or Color—Commissioner

A man who makes more than 400 speeches a year, William R. Daiziel, commander of the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda, arrived in Prince Rupert today.

He will lead the annual congress of all branches of the Army in central and northern B.C. which opened here last night.

Commissioner Daiziel, making his first trip to this city, arrived on the Princess Louise after a flying trip from Toronto. After the congress here he goes to Newfoundland before returning to Vancouver for another conference.

Speaking of the work of the Salvation Army, the commissioner said "race, creed and color are not the concern of our workers. When anyone needs help, he's open to all that can be given in Salvation Army service."

"The influence of the Army is far greater than the numbers engaged in our work," he said, adding that all services during the congress are open to the public.

This morning delegates met in private, however, to review work in this part of B.C. and confer on promotions.

The commissioner, who has seen service in varied avenues of the Salvation Army, stressed that "standards, moral and spiritual life" are the major concern of the organization.

Mr. Daiziel spent nine years in Australia and was in command of field work in Great Britain from 1946 to 1951. He was greeted on his arrival here by Major W. C. Poulton, who heads the Salvation Army in Prince Rupert.

Q How Can I Start An Investment Programme?

A By Planned Savings Through Life Insurance.

The basis of an investment plan in most cases should be life insurance. It meets in a sound and regular way the real objectives of investment—savings for the future, a retirement income and money for your family should anything happen to you. What is more, life insurance achieves these ends economically and without worry or risk. Discuss with a Mutual Life of Canada representative a life insurance investment plan for your future.

Queen May Pick Colorful Items for Coronation Day

LONDON (CP)—When Queen Elizabeth II returns from Scotland in October, final decisions will be made on the Royal Regalia for the coronation next June. Meanwhile there is considerable speculation.

Many believe that the purple velvet robe of state in which the queen leaves Westminster Abbey to drive through the streets will bear emblematic gold embroidery like that of a queen consort.

Kings don't wear embroidered robes of state, leaving this to their queen and her mistress of the robes—traditionally a duchess.

Such embroidery is dictated by national commonwealth traditions, and its form is settled by the coronation council. The six-yard-long robe worn at her coronation by Queen Mother Elizabeth was embroidered at the Royal School of Needlework.

FABULOUS ROBE
Lined and bordered in ermine, it is worth several thousand pounds and was recently placed in Kensington Palace museum, together with the coronation robes of the late king.

It is customary for her Majesty to arrive at the Abbey in a crimson parliamentary robe. For crowning, the Sovereign wears cloth of gold. The Queen, however, may decide that the gold mantle worn by her father is too heavy. First worn by George IV, it is richly embroidered with Tudor roses, shamrocks, thistles and silver eagles.

table was centred with a beautiful three-tier wedding cake in white and delicate blue icing, surrounded by tulle and banked by candles. The serving table was covered with an exquisite glass cloth, centred by a cut glass bowl of white asters and baby's breath and white candles.

Mrs. Basil Prockter and Mrs. J. R. Elfert poured and Mrs. C. Mills cut the cake after the bride and groom had cut the first slice. Serviteurs were Mrs. William Bond, the Misses Gerry and Julie Prockter, Miss Marnie Bulger, Miss Diane Kennedy, Miss Joyce Strand and Miss Pat Mitchell.

Mr. Anfield was master of ceremonies, reading numerous telegrams from relatives and friends. The toast to the bride was given by Canon Prockter and responded to by the groom. Mr. Bond proposed the toast to the bride's attendants.

The couple left on the Prince Rupert en route to Yellow Pt., Vancouver Island, for their honeymoon. Upon their return they will reside in Vancouver.

For her travelling costume the bride chose a three-piece blue tweed tulle, small black velvet toque with ostrich tips and matching snakeskin shoes and accessories. A corsage of yellow and pink rosebuds completed the costume.

Both the bride and groom attended the University of B.C. where the groom graduated in commerce and forestry. Mrs. Smith, the groom's mother, is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Holtby for the next week, when she will return to Calgary, via Vancouver.

LONG-HAIRED AFRICANS
JOHANNESBURG (CP)—South African barbers are worried by the long-haired fashion that has started among their male customers since an increase in haircutting prices three months ago. "They look like long-haired primitives," grumbled one barber.

Impressive Ceremony Joins Holtby-Smith at Cathedral

An impressive and beautiful wedding of wide-spread interest in B.C. and Alberta took place on Thursday evening at 8 p.m. in St. Andrew's Cathedral, when Monica Sybil Holtby, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lionel Holtby, became the bride of Arthur Brett Smith.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Basil Prockter. Bride is the daughter of pioneer residents of Prince Rupert and the granddaughter of Mrs. A. R. Holtby, now of Quebec, and the late A. R. Holtby, and also the granddaughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Johnson Gibbins, pioneer residents of Vancouver.

The groom is the younger son of Mrs. Arthur William Smith and the late Mr. Smith of Calgary and is a grandson of pioneer residents of Golden, B.C.

The cathedral was tastefully decorated with late summer flowers in pastel shades. The bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of a march by Mendelssohn, played by Mr. Robert Chidwick.

She looked radiantly lovely in a wedding gown designed by herself—white swiss lace over pleated ice blue and white French tulle and satin. It had a fitted bodice with stand-up collar and lily point sleeves, three-quarter lace skirt, with floor length white and ice blue pleated tulle sweeping to a short train.

She wore a swiss lace Juliet cap with fingertip veil of ice blue illusion French tulle, and her grandmother's earrings of sapphire completed the ensemble. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and pink rosebuds, white asters, forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

The three lovely bridal attendants, university and school friends of the bride, looked graceful in their smoky blue gowns of taffeta and tulle—Miss Barbara Barnes of Vancouver as maid of honor; Miss Yvonne Morin and Miss Jean McAfee as bridesmaids. They were gowned alike, in star sapphire taffeta bandeaux edged with tiny flowers in varying shades of fuschia. The maid of honor's was of a lighter shade of the same blue. They carried colonial bouquets of white asters and fuschia gladioli buds with fuschia-colored streamers.

The groomsmen were Mr. William Bond, a university friend of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Jack Breen and Mr. Bruce Mills, school friends of the bride.

The bride's mother chose a gown of soft grey lace, floor length, pink feather hat and accessories and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds. The groom's mother wore a navy blue lace floor length gown and hat with dove grey accessories. She also wore a pink rosebud corsage.

The reception was held in the Legion Auditorium, which was prettily decorated with summer flowers and candles. The bride's —Foot Lights—

By LILIAN MILLER

In the spring a "young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love," but in the fall enthusiastic hams turn their thoughts, not so lightly, to grease paint and bright lights.

That brings to my mind a vision of Little's Theatre's desperate struggle last year to even get one foot on the bottom rung of the ladder of success.

We began in the fall with a gallant try at a three-act play. It fell dead before lines were even learned, and left us with our feet knee-deep in muskies. Then we fell flat on our face when we slipped on that banana peel, "The Fido Murder Mystery."

With a great deal of puffing and panting, we pulled ourselves up to that first rung with "Death Writes a Message" and "From Five to Five-Thirty."

This year's plans are still waiting for us to take them from the second step, but we're having trouble reaching that high.

Little Theatre meets at the Civic Centre on Mondays at 8 p.m.

BREAD FROM HEAVEN
by HENRIETTA BUCKMASTER
(Available at the Sargent Memorial Library)

A young man and a child walked into a New England village on a spring day. Who they were and where they came from no one in the town knew. As the months went by their story slowly emerged—a story of such violence and horror, courage and faith that it shocked the villagers into action. But when the storm broke it was the townspeople, and not the strangers, who stood trial.

Karel knew what he wanted from the village: peace and safety for himself and the mysterious, mutilated child whom he called his brother; payment in goodness for his sufferings; proof of man's humanity to man; and, above all, an answer to the enigma of his own soul.

The quest began hopefully. Well-meaning Mrs. Stillwell made a cause of him. Kind Mr. McVitty offered work and shelter. The Murrays gave him understanding out of their own troubled hearts; and Julie offered him a rare and innocent love.

But, there were barriers, too, as Karel discovered when he gave friendship and sympathy to hapless Roi Arroy, whose idyl was a scandal to respectable citizens. Whispers became talk; talk became idle indignation. And when Roi committed a crime it was Karel, not Roi, who paid for it.

In the crisis that followed, Karel learned that the village was a miniature world, with hatred and prejudice existing side by side with love and goodness, and that the human spirit filled with love, can survive all evil.

ORDAIN SINGER — Oscar O'Brien, 60-year-old former director of the French-Canadian Alouette singing quartette, is to be ordained a priest in the Roman Catholic order of Benedictine Fathers at St. Benoit du Lac Monastery, near Sherbrooke, Que. Brother O'Brien, who entered the monastery seven years ago, was widely known for his arrangements of hundreds of Canadian and French folk songs, many of which he composed. Under his direction the quartette played a command performance before the late King George VI and Queen Elizabeth when their majesties visited Canada in 1939. (CP Photo)

When a recipe calls for blanched almonds this is how to prepare them. Cover the almonds with water and bring to a full rolling boil. Drain off the water. Remove the skins by pressing each almond between thumb and forefinger. Do this carefully so the almonds don't pop out of their skins like tiddly winks.

You can silver almonds expertly this easy way. Split a blanched almond into halves with the aid of the point of a paring knife. Then place each almond half, side down on a cutting board and cut into about 3 or 4 long pieces.

Better put down raisins on your shopping list for things you will need for school lunches. The small packages go over big with the kids and supply them with a good source of quick energy.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Fall in Love With One Play And You'll Miss Another

Here is another hand where Mr. Abel fell in love with one line of play, with the result that he completely overlooked a necessary safety play.

Mr. Meek won with the king and ace of diamonds and led a third round of the suit. Mr. Abel ruffed and checked his chances. He still had possible losers in spades and clubs. After some thought he came up with this solution.

Instead of trying to guess the location of the queen of clubs, he can cash his two high spades, strip the heart suit in three leads and then throw one of the opponents on lead with a spade.
At that point a heart or diamond return would give him a ruff and a club return would give him three tricks in that suit.

All of this, of course, is based on the trump suit breaking no worse than 3-1. Mr. Abel was quite proud of this plan and at the fourth trick led a small spade and put up dummy's king. When Mr. Champion showed out, he had no way to make his contract.

He was so fascinated with his proposed strip and end-play that he forgot the standard safety play with this trump holding, which is to lead first the high honor from the hand with two honors. Leading the ace of spades first would have held Mr. Meek to one winner in the suit.

When Mr. Meek did get in with a spade there was a remote chance he would lead a club, taking the guess out of that suit. And even if he didn't the odds would be very much in fa-

Bella Bella Area Opens

Bella Bella area of the Northern district opens to all salmon net fishing this weekend following a closure for conservation, the Fisheries Department announced today.

It is the only complete area open to net fishing in the district.

Other partial areas now open include Whale Channel, Fisher Channel, Fitzhugh Sound, to seine fishing; Dean Channel, Bella Coola and Namu open to gillnetting; Rivers and Smith Inlet, open to all net fishing; Skeena River and small portion of the Naas, open to gillnets of 6 1/2-inch mesh.

More than 108,000 sockeye have passed the counting fence into Babine Lake passing the Babine slide which cut off most of the sockeye migration last year.

A freighter commanded by an Englishman with a Chinese crew is due in Prince Rupert this afternoon. The vessel is to load a cargo of barley. She is called the "Ocan Venus" and while not from Japan, she is known to be coming from some port in Asia. This is believed to be the first time a steamer having a British skipper and a Chinese crew has come here.

Sailing to resume her duties in the Atlantic, HMS Sheffield cleared from Vancouver Thursday after more than a week's visit to British Columbia. The cruisers' flag station is Bermuda, and she is due there in October. More than ten thousand visitors boarded the warship.

Packers in port during the week included the Dagny, the Robert Eugene, the Cape St. Elias of the Victoria Fisheries, and the Silver Wave, of Pelican, Alaska.

Tuna fishing has been anything but active down the coast, during the summer. This applies off the Washington and Oregon coasts, the report being made by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service vessel "John N. Cobb."

British trawlers now and then succeed in sailing into trouble. The Grimsby ship, Valafell was recently arrested for fishing off the Russian coast and fined 300 roubles. That's £27. Another, the Brontes, was seized by an Iceland inspector and fined 75,000 kroner and equipment confiscated, and the Royal Marine was ordered to pay fines and damages amounting to 163,500 kroner.

After next Tuesday it will be a good many months before the SS Prince George is seen again at Prince Rupert. After a summer, covering the Alaska and north B.C. tourist schedule, she will return for duties south.

A ship, according to the American Admiral Nimitz, is a "she" because she loves to rest on the bosom of a swell.

TO CENTRAL AMERICA—

Msgr. Paul Bernier, 44, of Quebec City has been appointed Apostolic Nuncio of Costa Rica and Panama and titular Archbishop of Laodicee, Msgr. Bernier has been in the Central American Republic of Panama since 1948 as Charge d'affaires at the nunciature.

Shipyard Men Laid off Work

VANCOUVER (CP)—A union leader said Friday that 1000 men had been laid off by Vancouver shipyards in the last 10 days.

Bill White, president of the Marine Workers and Boiler-makers Union, local 1 (CCL), said the men have been told they may be rehired in November if there is work for them.

Officials of Burrard Drydock Company would not comment immediately.

First Cobalt Bomb Sent To Vancouver

WINNIPEG.—A radioactive cobalt bomb for the treatment of cancer passed through here by rail today on its way to Vancouver where a British Columbia clinic will shortly begin using it in the fight to kill cancerous growth on human beings.

The bomb, housed in a massive 7000-pound structure built by an Ottawa firm, is being carried in a sealed car under special orders. If the cobalt were not shielded and controlled, it would give off 100,000 times the radiation a person standing two feet away could safely absorb.

The huge machine, which is sold for $48,000, only contains the weight of cobalt equal to that of 10 nickels. It is the first such therapy unit built by Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. in the Ottawa suburb of Eastview, but within a year the company plans to procure the units at a rate of one a month.

X-ray equipment, which has been used in the fight against cancer up to now, costs from two to five times as much as the cobalt 60-beam therapy unit. Demand for these units is heavy and orders have been pouring in from Canadian and United States hospitals.

Only two other similar machines are operating in Canada at the moment. One is housed at the University of Saskatchewan; the other—built to Atomic Energy of Canada specifications but not by it—at a London, Ont., cancer clinic.

MEN AND TREES

Jack Steele, Montana-born but a British Columbian for over forty years and a logger for over thirty, is a boom foreman. Married, with one son and two daughters, Jack's job, and his family's livelihood depends on a perpetual stream of logs pouring out of the woods and into the booming ground. Directly or indirectly, the livelihood of every British Columbian depends on the forest resource.
