FRANCE CHANGES COMMAND RIFFIAN WAR

AMUNDSEN GIVEN GREAT HONORS ON HIS RETURN FROM NORTHERN FLIGHT

Change of Command War Against Riffians by France After Loss

PARIS, July 6. — Supreme Command of the Moroccan troops is to be taken from Marshal Pyautey, Governor General of Morocco, and entrusted to some other general, probably General Guillaumat, who leaves immediately for the front.

Reports from Morocco received here today, which have caused the sudden change in the plans of the war department, state that Abdel Krimis, head of the invading Riffian tribesmen, is scoring more successes along the battle line, one of the causes of which is the defection of certain native tribesmen which heretofore have supported the French.

FARMERS AFTER LOWER TARIFFS

Declare They Benefit Little But Suffer Much From Imposition.

WASHINGTON, July 6. — Rumblings of dissatisfaction among farmers of the Northwest states over conditions which they declare are due to the present tariff, are manifesting themselves in administration circles here.

Threats that agricultural forces will combine to make a grand assault on existing high tariff rates are heard and are giving republican chiefs worry.

Farmers in the northwest and in the west feel that the tariff on agricultural products is proving of little benefit to them and declare high rates on manufactured articles are forcing them to pay excessive prices for what they purchase.

In apprehension lest agricultural states revolt against the existing tariff rates, it is reported Old Guard republican leaders and the administration will seek to remedy the situation next session.

MINING ACTIVE IN THE YUKON

Treadmill-Yukon Co. Taking Out
Ore by Means of Tractors

A Kastner, of Dawson, owner of the Dawson News, spent a few hours in Rupert on Saturday en route south on the Princess Louise. He expects to be away some time and before returning will make a trip to eastern points.

In speaking of the mining development in the north, Mr. Kastner said that the Mayo camp still held out very well and at present time there are about 150 men employed by the Treadmill-Yukon Co. The Company is working at the 600 foot level at the present time and a fine grade of ore is being taken out. An improvement in transportation has been effected, and the ore is now taken out the 42 miles to the steamship landing by caterpillar tractors and thus a saving of about 50 per cent has been made in costs of getting the ore out.

In addition to this company there are about forty independent claims in the vicinity and many of these are working in a small way, in an endeavor to prove up their property. When the ore is taken from the claims, the Treadmill-Yukon Co. purchase the same from the local miners, and thus enable them to keep up the development of the territory.

There has also been a good discovery of low grade ore in the Keyno district. Although this is a low grade proposition, yet the quantity available would seem to make it of commercial value as far as working the property is concerned. Taken altogether the prospects in the north are as bright as could be expected.

RAILWAY RATES REVISION NOW

Premier Oliver Says Abolition of Inequalities First Work of Board

VICTORIA, July 6. — Before attempting to remodel Canada's freight rate structure the Railway Board will take immediate action to remove some of the chief discrepancies in the present tariffs. This is the expectation of the British Columbia government, Premier Oliver stated.

The first probable action of the board, the Premier believes, will be to instruct railway companies to file new tariffs for Western Canada in conformity with the legislation passed by parliament recently and designed to bring about complete rate equalization. The effect of this move would be to adjust conditions on the prairies, where complete rate confusion prevails now.

The Crow's Nest Pass rates apply on some lines in the West and not others built since the Crow's Nest Pass Agreement was first brought into effect. As a result, farmers in one town may pay a certain rate on goods purchased in the East, while the inhabitants of another nearby town, at an equal distance from the point of shipment, pay an entirely different rate. This condition, Mr. Oliver anticipates, will be removed by the Railway Board almost immediately.

TOLL OF LIVES IN EASTERN CANADA AS RESULT ACCIDENTS

OTTAWA, July 6. — Water and automobiles took heavy toll of lives in Eastern Canada at the week end. There were eight drownings in Ontario while deaths from auto fatalities reported total five. In every case the drownings were victims of bathing. Two were double tragedies in which two members of one family lost their lives.

SHIP HERRING TO THIS PORT

Alaska Herring To Be Handled
By C. N. R. Says Minneapolis Man.

J. M. Griffith, representing the Kildall Co., with headquarters at Minneapolis, who are large importers of herring and other products, arrived in the city from the north on the S. S. Princess Royal yesterday morning. He has been in Alaska territory for some little time making arrangements for a supply of Alaska herring for his firm. The fish will go east through this port.

Mr. Griffith said that the Alaska herring from the southern part of Alaska has been gaining in favor in the middle west to the extent that it has a much greater demand than any from other parts and it is necessary to get this product on the market with the least possible delay. Accordingly arrangements have been made with the Canadian National officials to take care of any freight offering in this direction. The Northland Transportation Co., of Ketchikan, will run the Bellingham from Petersburg and other points to take care of the business, and should more business offer, will add another boat as well to provide for the same.

Mr. Griffith said that the demand for mild cured herring was limited to the Jewish trade, and that the Scotch cure was also limited, and more or less of a speculative venture, but that for the Norwegian hard salted herring there was a large and growing market.

It is expected that the first shipment will arrive in the city very shortly and will be shipped in bond over the C. N. R.

Fish Detained Account Big Passenger Train; Worry to Fish Dealers

Fish dealers are much worried by a recent ruling of the Canadian National Railways management in refusing to take more than five car loads of fresh halibut on a passenger train on boat days. This morning eight cars were loaded in readiness for shipment and only five were taken, the other three being held over until tomorrow. As the fish in these cars came in here Saturday and there was no train yesterday the delay in transportation is very serious, the dealers claim and seriously threatens the halibut business at this port.

The railway will not take more than fifteen cars on a passenger train and this morning there were ten passenger cars. As a result only five express fish cars could be taken. The other cars are held back.

The ruling came in more than a week ago but this is the first case that has come under it and efforts are being made to induce the railway company to change it or to make provision in some way for the rapid shipment of the halibut on its arrival.

The machinery includes vats and cookers, which will be installed at the local plant immediately upon arrival to take care of the increasing business.

The tug is expected back with the machinery some time tomorrow.

Contained at Sandspit
From Fire.

SKIDEGATE, July 6. — Last week a disastrous fire occurred at Sandspite, Moresby Island, when the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Rudge was burned to the ground and all the contents destroyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudge have a family of ten children, and some of the older ones were working at the Lowe Inlet cannery. The oldest daughter and four little ones were at home at the time of the fire. The daughter had gone on an errand to a neighbor and while she was away the stove collapsed and the fire resulted. There was no insurance so the family is left with nothing but the earning from the short cannery season.

The people of the islands are lending aid to the extent of their ability.

Basilica Linea Abdominalis.

One of the trends of modern times is the desire of men and women to retain their youthfulness. Everyone has heard often enough about women painting and powdering and using clay and massage and employing beauty specialists. Most women take some steps to correct the irregularities brought about by the ravages of age and unwise methods of life. Fat women reduce and thin women try to get fat.

Of late, however, men have been less insistent about caring for their figures. Douglas Fairbanks, the eminent movie actor, has at his home a gymnasium which he calls "Basilica Linea Abdominalis" or the temple dedicated to the reducing of the waist line.

Men today do not like to have an extended waist line. Some of them are severely afflicted by hereditary tendency. Their fathers and mothers had extended waist lines and as soon as they settled down to business or professional life the waist showed signs of increasing until it became most difficult to keep it down and in many cases hope of improvement was given up. Others made determined efforts and by means of much dieting and strenuous exercise succeeded in lessening the weight and measurement very considerably. With some people fear of fatness is a continuous nightmare. It comes in spite of them.

To correct the waist line we would suggest that the young man start early and see that there is no leup through life. Abdominal exercises are a great help and reasonable diet also is an aid. Athletic sports and games are useful but they should be played instead of being watched. To watch a game does not help to keep a person fit.

Sports Are Better Than Exercises.

Sports are always better for keeping a person in condition than exercises designed for that purpose. Play any of the games and the mind as well as the body is refreshed by the entire change from the ordinary occupations of life. The person who can play well with moderation is one who will live long, other things being equal. A great many may not care for football, baseball, tennis or swimming, though it is difficult to understand how a real man can go through life without being fascinated by one of these sports. Just an outing at the beach or a fishing trip gives plenty of vigorous exercise and keeps the person from becoming stale.

Not Let Recreation Take Place Of Work.

There are a few immoderate persons who allow their recreation to interfere with their work. Recreation fills their life instead of filling their holidays. A person's work should fill the life and be the main consideration all the time. Once the recreational activities are introduced into the business house, the shop or the factory, the work suffers. Each has its place but sports and games and other recreations must always be kept subordinate. The wise employer does not allow any encroachment on his time by employees who become enthused with outside activities.

Some Never Succeed; They Live For Recreation.

Some people never succeed in their business or profession. They allow outside activities to dominate their lives. With them recreation is a profession and work is simply a side line. They should be professional sportsmen but the probability is that if they were, they would make work a recreation.

We are attracted by the new and when a person takes up a new sport or revives an old one and becomes enthused over it, there is a great tendency to give up everything else for it and to forget the main object of life. This has to be guarded against.

EXCURSION TO KETCHIKAN WAS MUCH ENJOYED

Local People Helped Alaskans Celebrate Their National Holiday.

The C.P.R. S.S. Princess Royal arrived back yesterday morning about 9.30 with over two hundred tired excursionists. Everybody reported a very fine time experienced in Ketchikan, and a very fine celebration was put on by the citizens in honor of their natal day. Part of the program consisted of a parade in which the local pipe band participated, to the very great amusement and interest of the people generally. The parade was featured by several floats in which various organizations and lodges took part, and there were many floats of an original and beautiful character. The first prize went to Eagle's Lodge, while the Boy Scouts were accorded second place.

The afternoon was spent with games, both Anxox and Rupert, losing to the Ketchikan players, and in the evening, after the regular show, the Elks from Rupert put on a midnight frolic in the Coliseum. The program did not get under way until 11.30 and as the boat was billed to sail at 12.30, the program had to be cut short in order to be sure of arriving back in Rupert on time. As the Ketchikan time is one hour behind that in Prince Rupert, this meant that the boat was really sailing an hour and a half later than it was intended. Nevertheless there are many who were very disappointed that it was not possible to stop over for thirty minutes more to complete the concert.

RUBY MAE BACK FROM SEATTLE

Local Party Makes Round Trip To Puget Sound; Arriving Home Saturday.

After a delightful two week's gasboat trip down the coast, which took them as far south as Seattle and Bellingham, Charlie Gurrie and Sydney Hunter returned to port on the former's power boat Ruby Mae on Saturday evening, making the run from Vancouver under pleasant weather conditions in around 72 hours, actual running time.

Going down the coast, stops were made at Butedale, Bella Bella, Hardy Bay, Namu and Powell River, the Ruby Mae picking up a disabled American schooner bound for Siberia off Namu and towing her in. Arriving at Vancouver the mariners proceeded to Blaine, Washington, taking the motor bus from there to Bellingham, Everett and Seattle, at which points stop-overs were made.

Returning from Vancouver the weather was ideal, although the Ruby Mae got a little shaking up in Queen Charlotte Sound, China Hat was reached on Thursday night in time for the boys to attend a religious native service conducted by Dr. Spencer and Capt. W. Oliver, missionary.

The run in on Saturday was made from Lowe Inlet, the last stopping place on the trip.

ANNUAL DANCE WAS GIVEN AT BUTEDALE

Cannery Enlarged and Two New Boats Added to Fleet.

BUTEDALE, July 6.—The opening of the fishing season was celebrated by the annual dance given here by the Canadian Fishing Company, which was attended by two hundred people. It was held in the can loft here and a most enjoyable time was spent. Among the visitors were guests from several of the adjoining canneries and camps.

A. E. Coffey and his son, who have been painting the town of Butedale red for the past two months, left Saturday for Wales Island with three paint pumps, gas engine and other paraphernalia for his work, including a paint gun. Butedale is now all red except the customs house, which is green.

The Butedale cannery has been enlarged this summer and new machinery installed and it is looked on as one of the best canneries in B. C.

Two new boats of the seine boat type, built in Vancouver for the Canadian Fishing Company, arrived here during the week and will operate out of here. They are each of 31 tons register with full diesel engines. They are the Skedams, Capt. R. Cadwallader, and the Katsun, Capt. Taylor.

PRIESTS LEAVE WESTERN TOUR

French Catholic Party off Today on Trip of Exploration to West

MONTREAL, July 6.—The second annual tour of the Liason Francaise from the province of Quebec to Western Canada left Montreal Saturday morning over the Canadian National Railways. The party, numbering approximately 120, comprised largely parish priests from various parts of Quebec, but there are also several men prominent in public life in Eastern Canada including the Hon. M. A. Sauve, leader of the opposition in Quebec and L. Brown of the Quebec department of agriculture.

The trip is under the direction of the Rev. Father J. A. Ouellette, director of the Federal Bureau of Colonization Missionaries, by which it was organized.

Two Fold Purpose

The tour has a two fold purpose, one of these is to carry a message from the French Canadians of Quebec to those who have left this province to settle in Western Canada. The second is to allow parish priests to see the agricultural districts of the West for themselves so that they will be better able to give information to those of their parishioners who frequently appeal to them for advice when they are contemplating migrating to other parts of Canada.

Quebec City will be the first stop. There an official representation will be tendered the party by the government and they will have an audience with Cardinal Bezin from Quebec and the party will continue west, stopping at Senneterre, Amos, L'Assommoir, Cochrane, Moonbeam, Minaki, and other points en route to Winnipeg, which will be reached on Wednesday.

Many Stops Off

From Winnipeg to Edmonton a number of places will be visited including Holey, Prince Albert, Duck Lake, Rosthern and Legal.

En route to Vancouver from Edmonton a stop will be made at Lake St. Anne and Kamloops and on the return journey a stay will be made at Jasper Park Lodge. Other stops in the return journey will be at Saskatoon, Regina, Gravelbourg, Radville, Winnipeg and Rainy River. The party will reach home on July 22.

N. Pringle will sail on the Princess Charlotte on Wednesday to make the round trip to Vancouver and return. When in Vancouver he will attend the sessions of the Gyro International convention.

WEEK AT THEATRE

Monday and Tuesday 'ONE YEAR TO LIVE' Comedy: Oh, What a Flirt International News. Wednesday and Thursday Colleen Moore in 'So Big' Pathe Review. Friday and Saturday 'NORTH OF 36' Comedy. Topics of the Day.

ONE YEAR TO LIVE SHOWN IN PICTURE

Story of Girl Who Was Told Her Days Were Limited Said To Be Realistic.

'One Year To Live,' M. C. Levee's First National production which will be here tonight, is a story dealing with a girl who is told that she has only one year to live and proceeds to live it as recklessly as she knows how. The expected thing would be that the essential and most poignant parts of that one year are left to the imagination. 'No such thing in 'One Year to Live,' Director Cummings has retained every portion of the John Hunter story which newspaper reporters would refer to as 'stark realism.'

Aileen Pringle, as Elise Duchanier, is shown debating with herself whether she shall die without her high and fast fling at life. When she finally decides what she does decide, the camera trails her. When Antonio Moreno, in the role of Tom Kendrick, refuses to accept the love of Lolette, a celebrated Parisian dancer played by Rosemary Theby, it is shown why. The fact that she loves Brunel, interpreted by Joseph Kilgour, is conveyed delicately of course, but without mincing of words. Let him who wants pure and unadulterated description and coherence in his entertainment look to 'One Year to Live' as a brilliant example. In it is embodied frankness of expression.

COLLEEN MOORE IN DRAMATIC ROLE AS WIFE OF DUTCHMAN

Story of Woman and Her Baby Son and How She Protects Him From Another Woman.

Colleen Moore has been called the 'living library' of Hollywood because she has produced screen versions of so many popular novels.

Her latest picture, 'So Big,' is an adaptation from Edna Ferber's 'best seller,' to be shown at the Westholme on Wednesday and Thursday.

In 'So Big,' Miss Moore is declared to have done her best screen work. The story, based on life in the old Dutch settlement near Chicago in the latter part of the past century, gets her away from the frivolous flapper roles with which she has been associated. It presents her as the wife of a stolid Dutch farmer, toiling amidst the cabbages and radishes of a truck garden.

A baby son is all that makes her life worth while and, as she toils, she visualizes the time when he will become 'so-oo big' in this world of affairs. Surprising Role.

It is a surprising role for young Miss Moore, and it grows more surprising as, with the passage of years, she is seen slowly transforming into a middle-aged woman. Nothing could be so remote from the gay and giddy flapper of yore. The story permits the mother to all but realize her life's ambition. Her baby, now a man, stands at the portals of fame as an architect. But as he does so, a woman enters his life—a married woman of wealth who would drag him into disgrace and failure through an elopement. It is then Miss Moore, rushing to the rescue of her baby-man, facing his would-be despoiler and finally dragging him back to the pathway of her ambitions, reaches the pinnacle of emotional heights. Pre-view critics of the film say nothing like it has ever been screened.

NORTH OF THIRTY-SIX IS WEEK END PICTURE

Story of Texas Trail and of Girl Who Led Big Cattle Drive Northward.

It is of the Texas trail that Emerson Hough writes and he has made from it a true epic of the pioneers.

He pictures a country wild, almost lawless and moreover just then ravaged and disheathered by the recent Civil War.

With an amazing, prodigious effort the Texas cattlemen were seeking their market all the way to Kansas, where the railroads from the east were reaching.

In a glorious production Irvin Willat depicts what came about when Taisie Lockhart, owner and manager of her own vast ranch in the Lone Star state, found herself no better than a dead broke heiress, with no means of disposing of her herds.

But Taisie possessed the true spirit of the pioneers. Word came that way up 'North of 36' a market beckoned. With her 4,500 cows, 16 cow hands, 19 kinds of rifles and six-shooters and 115 saddle ponies, Taisie made the start—with all the terrors of the wild, uncharted way ahead.

It is with this desperate adventure that 'North of 36' deals. And through this great panorama one sees the group of ragged, snowey men, the glorious girl at their head, the ox carts and the sea of long-horn cattle, accomplishing one of the greatest deeds of pioneer bravery and daring.

'North of 36' is to be shown here at the week end.

Archdeacon Rix, administrator of the Anglican Diocese of Caledonia, sailed on the Princess Alice en route to Atlin. He expects to be away from the city for about three weeks.

RUSHING SILK TO NEW YORK

Canadian National Making First Shipment of Valuable Cargo From Orient.

WINNIPEG, July 6.—Making what is believed to constitute a record run for the distance between Vancouver and Winnipeg, a special silk train comprising 2,300 packages of silk from Vancouver to New York passed through Winnipeg at noon Friday, just 37 and a-half hours after leaving Vancouver. Canadian National officials cite this as a record in rapid transit of this commodity which is of such value that every minute consumed in transit counts.

The silk, which was a shipment from Yokohama to Vancouver was unloaded from the Blue Funnel Line Steamer Tyn-dareus at the Pacific coast port on July 1, leaving Vancouver at 20.50 or ten minutes of nine that evening the shipment was rushed through, arriving at Winnipeg at 12.20 p.m. Friday.

The speed with which the shipment moved may be gauged from the fact that at no terminal along the line was there a halt of more than four minutes for the changing of engines on this, the first Vancouver New York silk special handled over Canadian National routing.

Thirty-seven hours and thirty-seven minutes were consumed from the time the silk was loaded at Vancouver until the train bearing it pulled out of Winnipeg station. From Winnipeg the shipment goes over Canadian National lines to Buffalo and thence over D. L. and W. to New York.

Silk shipments are the subjects of great competition between the various railways on account of the special rate which such shipments pay to secure the speediest delivery. It is felt by Canadian National officials that with the splendid time made over the western end of the run the complete schedule will compare very favorably with the deliveries which any road has thus far been able to make at New York.

On Halibut Banks with Fishermen

Boy tells of trip made from Prince Rupert; published in the Family Herald and written by Holland Cox

A brown speckled gull floated through the air to perch on the dock railing. She cocked her head to one side and eyed the platform below; then hopping down, selected a halibut head and soared off to consume it at leisure on the ridge pole of the fish packing house.

Larry, standing in the shadow of a post unnoticed, gazed wistfully after the bird. "I wanta go to sea and have some fun," he thought, "and all I do is to go to school and meander up and down the docks and see other people having it. Even the birds have a better time than I do."

A fishing boat, which had been but a blur a few minutes before, now chugged comfortably up the harbor and drew alongside the dock to tie up. Five men swarmed about her small deck, and in a few minutes the hatch cover of their tank was off, they had donned yellow oilskins, high rubber boots, and mittens, and were shovelling cracked ice overboard from about their fish.

"Big catch, Olsen?" a man called down to the newcomers. "It bane fair. Whether was pruttly rough outside. . . All set up there?"

"All set," and the work of hoisting the enormous halibut into the packing sheds commenced.

Discharging the Fish

Larry watched, fascinated. He saw the crane above his head swing out over the hatch, its heavy rope net flying loose; saw it dropped into the tank, openen out there by two men; saw five giants of the Pacific hauled on to it, the ends of the net brought together and caught on a hook; then the great mass lifted clear of the deck and swung on to the platform in the shed beside him. Here two more men worked, one with a long stick having a sharp hook at one end for yanking the slippery halibut towards his companion, sorting the sizes; while the second man, with a wicked heavy knife, slashed off the heads of the fish.

swells and the crew commenced to trail the long lines overboard from a wooden erection which guided the ropes without snarling, for the hooks at regular intervals would otherwise catch each other.

"We're lucky to get the her- ring bait," Big Sam Stevenson commented, as he baited the hooks rapidly. "Helvig's held up for lack of it."

Long bamboo poles, with red flags at their tops, were attached at intervals to buoys and when a mile or so of line had gone overboard the Gentle Annie moved on again to repeat her performance until all the lines had been baited and thrown into the ocean.

And now began the hauling in, and Larry's excitement was intense. When the first fish was brought aboard—a great 200-pound halibut, too big to go into the hatch comfortably, wearing its head, so off it came. Then the body was opened and cleaned and the work went on merrily.

"It's great!" exclaimed Larry. "Say, I'm glad I came."

Smear and Smelly

He was allowed to help clean the big fish, and soon was a smeared, smelly, disreputable thing, his own mother could not have recognized. In a few hours he felt himself a hardened old seaman, up on technicalities, and the equal of any. But the treacherous calm with which their fishing had commenced lasted only a few hours, and the captain's sage advice—"A blow comin', better eat while we can"—was heeded, for no man knew, once a storm came on, just when he would be able to satisfy his hunger again. So they ate the excellent food served on tin plates, and drank the best of coffee from battered cups, and then came the promised blow.

Larry hung on grimly—it was all he could do—but he wondered how human beings could live and work under such conditions. "These halibut fishers be nigh inhuman," an old dock habitue had once confided to him, "and they're what makes real fightin' navy men." Larry remembered this and began to realize why it was true.

A Rough Day

The Gentle Annie belied her name a thousand times that weary day, and there were hours when Larry thought longingly of quiet houses on firm earth, of soft beds and regular meals.

"D-do you think we'll ever get back to p'port again?" he chattered, clinging to the wheelhouse, the rail, his bunk—anything his hands touched. Nelson grinned good-naturedly. "Dunno, we allers have so fur." It comforted Larry a lot to ponder that reply; it seemed to promise safety.

He got his share of buttered rusks and managed to consume them, but drinking had to be postponed; when Annie was exercising the man fletcherized a lot without much liquid assistance.

Once the tempest had blown out and the sea calmed down somewhat, the boat ran south again to her temporarily abandoned line. How the captain found them, their red flags bravely flaunting, mere specks on the heaving waters, Larry could never figure out. And as the long lines were brought in over the guider, and the fish appeared one after another, the boy buckled into the work like a veteran and labored until he was utterly exhausted. He had eaten little, and slept less his eyes closed again and again, until finally will power ceased to function and the boy fell asleep among the fish.

Another Blow

"Poor kid—he's dead beat. Hey, Nelson, heave him into a bunk!" the captain ordered. When Larry awoke, hours later, he was mortified to find that while he had been sleeping the men had been working steadily, and the hatch was nearly filled.

"Another blow comin'," the captain announced. "We're going to take no chance of our catch going stale. It's back to port for us," and with gear aboard, and hatch cover down, the Gentle Annie made all haste for the packing plant.

"Is it like this every trip, Nelson?" Larry asked, as they sped before the breeze, engine chugging merrily.

"Naw. Sometimes it's real rough and we don't get nothin' worth while."

"Real rough! Say—what do you call this trip—a pleasure excursion?" the boy demanded, eyes wide with surprise.

"Oh, it was a little rough once there, but nothin' to worry about. Sometimes it gets real bad, and then it ain't very pleasant."

"Sometimes it gets real rough, eh? Well—"

Don't Judge from Appearances!

THE earth looks flat enough! That's why so many thousand years came and went before our ancestors even suspected the terrestrial globe of being round. Their eyes deceived them!

Don't depend on appearances to guide you right. Don't buy goods on the strength of looks alone. Merchandise with a well-known name has the call. Only the maker of a good product can afford to advertise his name. Attempts to popularize unworthy goods cannot succeed.

Wise merchants and manufacturers seek the good papers to tell the stories of their wares. The publishers seek the reputable advertising for their readers guidance. Well-informed buyers seek news of good merchandise through the columns of the best papers.

This proves the value of advertising. Neither advertiser nor publisher can prosper without your patronage. Therefore, it is to their advantage to cater to you. They do it, too.

It is distinctly to your advantage to be guided by the messages they lay before you—the advertisements.

"How was the weather?" asked his father, "I was down to Vancouver and we had a pretty bad shaking crossing the Straits."

"Oh—the weather was pretty smooth outside. Of course, we tossed a bit, but nothing to worry about. The Old Man expected a blow so we came back with what we had," Larry replied, off-handedly.

"Some of the boys said they'd had a rough time. We asked them when they came in. I was worried about you," said his mother.

"Oh," he said airily—"It was pretty smooth. Sometimes it does get real bad and then it isn't very pleasant—no thank you—no doughnuts!" He ended abruptly, his skin growing pale as he left the table, "I've had all the supper I need."

Weather Was Smooth

Once in the land-locked harbor the Gentle Annie hustled to the dock. The men got into slickers and high boots, while the captain went to sell the catch; and Larry, swelled with pride as he donned his fish soaked duds and prepared to take his share of the work. There were some boys of his own age in the dock, looking down.

"Big catch, Nelson?" a man called from above.

"Oh, it's fair, weather was pretty smooth outside. The Old Man expected a blow, so we came with what we had. . . All set up there?"

And presently the hoisting and sorting commenced.

At five o'clock that afternoon Larry walked up the hill to his home carrying a couple of "chicken" halibut for his family's supper. They were only about ten pounds apiece and the heads had gone, but Larry thought they weighed a ton. He stumbled up the veranda stairs and opened the door.

"Well, I'm back, mother. Brought some halibut for supper," he said.

"Mercy me!" exclaimed the mother, "Aren't they nice. . . Larry,"—sniff, sniff—"get into the bathroom and turn on the hot water tap and wash!!!"

Which he did.

CLOSE MATCH IN KETCHIKAN

Local Ball Team Lost By Only One Run on Saturday.

Ketchikan won again from Prince Rupert by a score of five to four, at the return game in the Alaskan city, Saturday. The game was close at all times and the team from here played good ball. Schenkler, for Rupert, pitched good ball and was given good support by his team mates. Balfour and V. Menzies were a great source of annoyance to the Ketchikan battery and are really responsible for the closeness of the score. Balfour on one occasion stealing home from third base and tying the score.

An unfortunate incident occurred in the game when J. Ratcliff, who was playing centre field for Rupert, was struck by a batted ball in the eye. He had run in considerable distance to take this high one, and, while looking up for an instant lost sight of the ball, which landed straight in his eye. He was removed to the hospital and the X-ray was used to ascertain if there had been any serious damage, which fortunately was not the case. He was able to return with the party and today is feeling fine.

METLAKATLA VICTORIOUS

Wins Both Baseball Games From Prince Rupert on Holiday

The baseball teams which went from here to play at New Metlakatla went down to defeat by scores of 11-10 and 16-0. Upon arrival at Ketchikan, there was a launch there to meet the local teams, and immediately they proceeded to New Metlakatla for the series.

The first game was rather good although both pitchers were hit quite freely, which accounted for the large score. In the second game Rupert team had no pitcher who could stop the slugging of the Metlakatla boys with the result that they piled up a score of 16, while the local boys were not able to cross the plate. In the second game nearly everyone on the Rupert team entered the box in an endeavor to stop the onslaught, but it was of no avail.

The first game was pitched by A. Roy.

OCTOGENARIAN BISLEY COMMON

Tells of Incidents at Famous Rifle Meets Since Opening in 1860

LONDON, July 6.—(By Canadian Press).—Never to have missed a single meeting of the National Rifle Association in all the 65 years of its existence, and still an eager competitor in one at least of the matches! This is the wonderful record of R. T. Gaiger, of Morlake, near London. This year Mr. Gaiger, celebrates his 85th birthday. He is looking forward once again to occupying his old tent, and to doing a strenuous fifteen hours a day in the Statistics Department on Bisley Common, when this year's Bisley opens today.

A slight deafness is his only disability. He is one of the first up of a morning in this camp of early risers. Mr. Gaiger is very insistent that moderation in eating and drinking is largely responsible for his enjoyment at 85 years of the health and good spirits of a man of 40. Several of Mr. Gaiger's family are happily settled in Canada.

"Yes, I have certainly seen a good many changes in the N.R.A. meet," said Mr. Gaiger to The Canadian Press. "Queen Victoria opened the first meeting on Wimbledon Common in 1860."

It was the fashion for a good many years to have a review of the volunteers, with the old style of "sham fight," on the last day. The ex-Kaiser was present at one of them.

"As for the actual shooting, well, we had the muzzle-loading long Enfield. There were only two stages for the King's Prize, and anybody who made 45 out of an aggregate of 60 was considered to have done very well. A lot of competitors never got on the target at all with that kind of weapon.

"The targets for 30 years were of iron, and the marking used to be done with flags of different colors—white for bulls, red for centre and so on. In the early days it was sometimes possible for a crooked competitor to 'make it all right' with a crooked marker. Such a dodge would nowadays be impossible for a range officer can alter the arrangements on his butt any time of the day.

"Competitors were obliged for many years to fire in uniform. If they had so much as the top button of their tunic loosened—and the early tunics were heavy—they were liable to be disqualified. Permission was given later for firing in undress uniform. Still later uniform was compulsory only at the 200 yards range, and for many years now firing has been allowed in pretty well any dress the competitor pleases.

"The Canadians first sent a team to Wimbledon in 1871. Canada is the only Dominion or Overseas portion of the Empire to send a team regularly, although we used to have a team from Belgium for special matches even in the Wimbledon days.

"The move from Wimbledon to Bisley came in 1890. Wimbledon had rapidly grown as a suburb of London, and the people objected to the great crowds which were attracted there by the N.R.A. meeting."

Sport Chat

Jack Kearns, of whom everybody interested in sport has heard at one time or another, and who made himself rich by managing Jack Dempsey, is like a pugilistic manager without a country.

Though he is actually the manager of both Dempsey and Mickey Walker, another champion, no one is paying any attention to him just now, because he doesn't legally exist in the eyes of the New York Boxing Commission, from which other boxing commissions pretty well take their cues.

This is caused by the fact that Dempsey refused to pay any attention to order of the Commission to accept the challenge of Harry Wills, the colored heavy-weight, who once made a tour through Canada about two years ago.

Under the Commission's ruling he is not allowed to act for Walker, and is not even allowed to see him fight, though he probably might get in disguise.

Even women have done that days it was sometimes possible for a crooked competitor to 'make it all right' with a crooked marker.

The team to represent the Sons of England in the football game against the Vets tonight consists of Hattie and Kelsey, R. Howe, Hodgkinson, Bales, G. Howe, Farquhar, Johnson, Dickens, Waugh, Hanson and Cameron.

PRINCE GEORGE

Some three thousand people were lined around the race track, or crowded into the grandstand, on Wednesday to witness the opening of the first stampede in Prince George? H. G. Perry, M.L.A., formally opened the stampede.

Alexander Smith, the retiring principal of the Prince George school was presented on Friday with a handsome pair of cuff links by the members of the teaching staff.

A special meeting of the Board of Trade has been called to make arrangements for the reception of the members of the Vancouver Board of Trade, who will arrive in the city on July 25.

The prize winner for the best decorated car in the stampede procession was Mrs. J. O. Wilson.

F. S. Hodgson, until recently a member of the local city police force, returned to the city on Tuesday from Edmonton. He will make his home in Prince George.

A meeting of the Cariboo automobile association will be held on Friday to discuss important matters.

SANDY'S PRESENT.

Sandy was engaged to a girl who a few days before her nineteenth birthday succumbed to the prevailing craze, and had her hair shingled. All her girl friends congratulated her on her improved appearance, and it was therefore, without any misgiving that she showed herself to her sweetheart.

But Sandy viewed her with grave disapproval. "It is hard on me, lassie," he wailed, "verra hard! After I've just bought ye a packet a' hairpins for your birthday.
