Several Fires Reported on Property of Company; Troops Rushed to District; Power House Wrecked

SYDNEY, N.S., June 12.—Several thousand miners, who are on strike in the Glace Bay district, are reported this morning to have looted the stores of the British Empire Steel Corporation in the vicinity of New Waterford where the battle took place yesterday between police and miners, which resulted in the death of William Davis, 35 years of age, a miner, who was shot dead when the miners rushed the police and dangerously wounded Gilbert Watson, who was shot in the abdomen and when two score police and miners were injured.

C.G.M.M. WINS IN BIG CASE

Effort to Make Them Responsible for Insurance on Cargo Fails

VANCOUVER, June 12.—Rejecting all contentions of plaintiffs, the Western Assurance Co. of Toronto and New York, Mr. Justice Murphy in a judgment handed down yesterday dismissed the action against the Canadian government Merchant Marine to recover $16,000 for insurance on a lumber cargo which the plaintiff paid to four consignees in Japan after the cargo was lost, when the Canadian Exporter founded in July, 1921, off Columbia River.

Similar claims pending against the C.G.M.M. aggregate $250,000. The judgment states that the ship was in a seaworthy condition and places the blame for the wreck on the poor judgment in navigation by Captain Bradley and first officer Campbell.

FIVE DROWN SHIP AT SEA

ATLANTIC CITY, June 12.—Five persons are believed to have been drowned last night when 30 passengers and the crew of a pleasure boat were forced to jump overboard when the vessel was suddenly enveloped in flames eight miles at sea.

Coast guard boats saved 25. A lighted cigarette dropped down the hatch is said to have been responsible for the blaze.

CHINESE WALK OUT ONCE MORE

SHANGHAI, June 12.—Fifteen thousand Chinese mill workers who had struck and later returned to work walked out again tonight. A recrudescence of the strike is considered likely as the immediate result. There were disorders at Hankow where nearly a dozen Chinese had been killed in a series of riots.

HABEAS CORPUS IS ADJOURNED

VANCOUVER, June 12.—A habeas corpus application made on behalf of Wong Foon Sing was adjourned until Tuesday. When it was called in Supreme Court chambers this morning adjournment was asked by the crown and not opposed by J. H. Senkler, defense counsel.

It is understood that W. D. Carter, deputy attorney general, will oppose the motion of Senkler, who will argue that the crown did not produce evidence at the preliminary trial connecting the Chinese with the death of Janet Smith.

The libel charge against J. S. Cowper will come up Monday.

The case of Claude Vincent Symes, taxi driver, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of little Norma Munro when he ran her down with his Ford automobile on Fifth Avenue East on February 12 last, went to the jury late this afternoon. The evidence was all in at 12.45 when the luncheon recess was taken. At 1.45 court resumed, the addresses of counsel and the charge to the jury following. Attorney General A. M. Manson is prosecuting with L. W. Palmore defending.

Accused having been arraigned and the jury empaneled after a plea of not guilty had been entered before the six o'clock recess, the court room was crowded when at 7.45 last evening the taking of evidence in the case commenced. The great amount of local interest in the case was thus reflected.

The jury selected was as follows: W. H. Derry (foreman), W. Gratton, J. A. Smith, J. T. Ballinger, H. McEachern, C. J. Lindquist, F. Salter, W. Longwill, K. A. Rood, M. M. MacLachlan, J. Hunter and P. J. Ryan. W. H. Sherman, F. W. Wesch and J. E. Dyer were challenged by the defence and S. Wood and J. J. Gillis by the crown. Mrs. Emily Morris and J. W. Crown Case Outlined
In outlining the case for the crown, Mr. Manson said that from time to time people were called upon to sit at trial on their fellow citizens. It was a custom of long standing, which Expressing themselves as impressed with the evident signs of increasing development in the mining industry, Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, and Hon. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, who passed through the night before last, said the present movement is bound to result in a general speeding up of industry of all kinds.

"At Stewart, which the remarkable success of the Premier mine has brought to public attention as a potential field of great possibilities, the greatest optimism prevails," said Hon. Mr. Sloan, whose long and practical mining experience particularly fitted him to judge conditions.

"With a season three weeks ahead of last year work on many promising prospects has been got under way under most favorable conditions. The government of British Columbia, recognizing that the most important factor in the development of the mining industry is the provision of adequate transportation facilities by the opening up of roads and trails, will lend its aid in every possible manner to meet the legitimate needs of the district. It was to that end that Hon. Dr. Sutherland and myself made the trip. The two departments co-operate in the providing of trails and roads and it is our desire to meet the growing demands of those sections."

Underground Workers at Nanaimo Mines are for Returning to Jobs

Open Vote of 257 to 147 in Favor of Accepting Cut in Wages Proposed by the Company

NANAIMO, June 12.—An open vote taken late yesterday among underground employees of the Western Fuel Corporation decided by 257 to 147 to accept the wage cut recently announced by the company in favor of returning to work. This was the second vote taken yesterday.

The previous afternoon a meeting of miners balloted on the wage question, the vote being 257 for acceptance and 359 against.

When the vote was announced at the afternoon meeting a motion was passed rescinding the ballot and an open vote was taken, resulting as stated.

It is said that this practically leaves the matter up to the surface workers who number 400 and it will take a day or two to ascertain their views.

Immunity to Strikers
NANAIMO June 12 (noon)—By granting complete immunity to strikers who took part in the strike, the Western Fuel Co. assured resumption of the working of the mines today. Surface workers are expected to follow lead of underground men.

ROYAL COMING FOR KETCHIKAN

C.P.R. Steamer to Carry Prince Rupert People to Alaskan City Next Month

The Elks have been successful in chartering the C.P.R. steamer, Princess Royal, to take a big Prince Rupert excursion to Ketchikan on July 4. She will leave here about midnight on July 3 and leave Ketchikan about the same time on the night of July 4, arriving home on the morning of July 5.

The vessel has sleeping accommodation for 216 and can carry 700 passengers.

It is proposed to take over a show and a baseball team. Also an effort will be made to take a representative body of citizens to take part in the big Fourth of July parade.

The Ketchikan ball team is expected here for July 4 and it is very likely the Princess Royal will be again chartered to bring a big excursion of Ketchikan people here for the fair. Five hundred have been promised for that occasion.

PAUL POLLARD IS ACQUITTED

Jury Holds Him Not to Blame for Death of Norman Clelland near Bella Coola Last December

The second acquittal at the present session of the Supreme Court Assizes in progress here was recorded yesterday afternoon when, after a retirement of over two hours, the jury in the case of Paul Pollard, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Norman Clelland in an automobile accident near Bella Coola on December 8 last, returned with a verdict of not guilty. Accused was then discharged without further formalities. After a lengthy charge by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald, who stated that the crux of the situation seemed to be whether or not there had been time for accused to avert the accident after he had seen the truck in front of him slow down, the jury went out at 2.53. It returned at 5.10 with its verdict.

Parking Bylaw Being Considered.

The parking bylaw is at present before the police commission and later the city council will wrestle with it. By that time it is to be assumed it will have reached such a stage of perfection that it will be at least operative and beneficial.

The bylaw is designed to present merchants and others being annoyed by having cars parked in front of their places of business all day. It is also designed to keep crowded streets as free from traffic as possible. It may be made useful but it also may be made annoying.

At present there is plenty of room on the streets, as long as there is reasonable judgment used in parking places. The downtown streets look much busier with the cars there than if they were relegated to lanes or side streets. The city should have power to regulate them without having to wait for individual protests from merchants. At the same time regulation should be such as not to be annoying. The taxis are a great convenience to the public and this should be borne in mind in connection with any action that may be taken.

Use of Poison Gas in Warfare.

The international conference at Geneva has decided against the use of poison gas in war. That is all very well until some war-mad nation gets on the rampage. Then all regulations are thrown to the winds and the nation sets out to win the war by fair means or foul.

If war is to be regulated, why not have the chief performers inclosed in a squared circle where they could fight it out according to the Marquis of Queensberry rules or with swords or pistols, while the interested parties gather around and watch the game. To restrict warfare is to prolong it, unless it is restricted much more than is proposed by the international conference.

War Too Fearful For Any To Begin.

War is becoming a fearsome thing. There is no glory in it any more, and there is always the possibility that some new invention will make it possible to wipe out a whole nation at one fell swoop. Poison gas and bacteria are incidental. Possibly something much more dangerous will be invented soon or possibly has already been invented.

Politeness A Great Asset in Business.

Politeness is a great asset in business or in any other walk of life. It costs nothing and once the habit is acquired it is not even an effort. It is one of the marks of a gentleman.

The businessman who is polite to customers is likely to get business. Sir Henry Thornton has been trying to train the C.N.R. employees in the art with a great deal of success. It might be extended to other branches of government service.

To be polite a person does not need to be easy to victimize. He may insist on his rights and be firm in his dealings but at the same time do it without unduly injuring the feelings of those with whom he deals. The Orientals carry it to the extreme, so that it sometimes seems like deception. The happy medium is the best, even in this.

EARLY CLOSING DELEGATION

Retail Merchants Ask Stricter Enforcement of Closing Bylaws

OBJECTION TO PEDDLING

Asking that the early closing law be more strictly enforced, three representatives of the Prince Rupert Retail Merchants Association, Messrs. Hill, McMeekin and Minns, met the police commission yesterday afternoon. They explained that the bylaw in regard to closing was all right but that it was not enforced.

George Hill outlined the position of the merchants. The chief complaint was against Chinese merchants and the fur dealers. They had no objection to a person doing a fur business but some of them were dealing in other wares. He understood that if they kept open, the fur section must be kept separate from the other.

T. McMeekin said it was not fair to the other merchants who obeyed the law for some to break it. They also objected to peddlers operating on a license of $10 as had been the case. It provided that when selling goods not raised themselves they should pay $50.

It was decided by the commission to strictly enforce the closing bylaw and so instructed the chief of police. Also it was ordered that peddlers, not selling produce raised themselves should pay a $50 license fee.

Chief Vickers asked for another man in order that such things as this might be attended to. This was held over until next meeting.

TWO DECREES OF DIVORCE ABSOLUTE

Henry Collinson of Kitkatla and Frank Biddlecome of Prince Rupert Obtain Freedom from Marriages

Two decrees of divorce absolute were given yesterday afternoon at the Supreme Court Assizes by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald.

Henry Collinson of Kitkatla obtained his freedom from Maria Collinson whom he married at Prince Rupert on August 25, 1917. The wife was formerly Maria Smith of Massett. Records of their marriage not being obtainable, a photograph was produced of the wedding group who had partaken of a feast at the time in the Central Hotel. R. E. Benson, photographer, was called to prove the photograph. Matthew Yeomans, a Haida Indian, was another witness in support of the petitioner. Frank Jones, a white man, was cited as corespondent. L. W. Patmore appeared for the petitioner and Charles P. Ryan acted as interpreter.

Frank Biddlecome obtained a divorce from Elizabeth Flora Stephens Biddlecome, whom he married at Kinloch in January, 1914. H. W. Birch, secretary of the Prince Rupert General Hospital, was called as a witness in support of the petitioner. No corespondent was named though apparently there was one. Milton Gonzales acted for the petitioner.

HEALTH OFFICER MAKES HIS REPORT

Very Little Sickness in Schools Athletics Commended as Means of Health

The report of the medical inspector of schools, Dr. Tremayne, was presented to the school board last night. It showed that the health of the pupils was good. Vaccination had not been general, although opportunity had been offered. Three pupils and four teachers had been vaccinated. The doctor emphasized the desirability of vaccination as a means of preventing smallpox.

The medical inspector also spoke of the value of athletics in the school as not only cultivating an esprit de corps but also improving the general health of the pupils. Twenty pupils had been found with defective vision.

Professor Thompson Tells About Halibut and Makes Plea for Full Co-operation in Protection Effort

Professor W. F. Thompson, who has charge of research work in connection with the halibut fisheries for the International Fisheries Committee, made an appeal to fishermen, members of the fish trades and the public for co-operation in the work in order that data might be procured with a view to protection of the halibut from extinction. He explained that the halibut was an important resource but owing to the slow growth of the fish it might easily be exterminated. If properly protected it might be a resource for all time.

He was of opinion that the fish did not travel far and that they could be protected by local control, just as the forest was protected by cutting one section at a time and preserving the others. A system of tagging was about to be commenced and fishermen would be asked to send these in when found. The tags are clamped on the cheek bone of the fish.

In an extremely interesting address to the Rotary Club yesterday, Mr. Thompson told of some of the difficulties of procuring data on the fisheries, especially in regard to a fish that bred and lived in the open sea. However, the conditions were hopeful and it was the intention of the commission to confine itself to practical questions. There was a maze of prejudice and self interest to get through before success was reached.

History of Fish

Giving a short history of the halibut, so far as they knew it, Mr. Thompson said it belonged to the same family as the flounder, the plaice and the sole. It has two eyes, both on the same side of the body. When born it is like other fishes, the eyes being one on each side.

The eggs are laid in deep water and they float between the surface and the bottom at the mercy of the currents. It is not known how long before they hatch but when they do, the little fishes swim upright and gradually grow around one eye so that both are then on one side. The color of one side turns grey and the other remains white. Then the fish settles on the bottom and remains there, although it can and does sometimes come to the surface.

The halibut is cold blooded and for that reason stops growing in the cold season just like a tree. This stoppage of growth leaves marks on the body by which the age of the creature can be determined. It is seen on the scales and also on the bones and on the calcareous substance in the ear. The fish is slow growing. Those in Hecate Straits commenced to reproduce at about twelve years of age and lived for 25 or more years.

Millions of Eggs

An enormous quantity of spawn was laid, as many as 3,500,000 being laid in one season which would give a total for the lifetime of as many as 53,000,000 eggs from one fish. The enormous mortality, however, made many of these ineffective.

Professor Thompson showed that the halibut was like all slow growing creatures liable to extermination. Compared with the herring that spawned in about three years it was easily seen how important was the adult to the industry. He was not an alarmist but he felt the seriousness of the situation would appeal to everyone. The little tags with which the fish are marked bear the letter L.F.C. with a number. A small reward will be offered for the return of these. He hoped to see the at-

The schoolboard at its meeting last night decided that in all probability at the opening of the term the school zones would have to be more strictly enforced than in the past owing to the overcrowding of some of the school classes.

At the meeting of the schoolboard last night Principal Brady reported that the attendance for the three preceding years had been 102, 112 and 118 respectively. This year it was 140. It was expected that over fifty new pupils would be entering the school after the holidays and nearly that number leaving.

At the meeting of the schoolboard last night it was intimated that it might be necessary to open a new room in the Borden St. school owing to the probability of the overcrowding of classes there. Preparations will be made for such an eventuality.

There is considerable activity in the mining industry in the Kitsumkalum Lake area this season states J. K. Gordon, proprietor of the Terrace Hotel, who returned to the interior on this morning's train after having spent a couple of days in the city on business.

The report of the chief of police to the police commission yesterday afternoon showed that there had been 36 cases before the courts of which 31 had resulted in convictions. Of the total 25 had been for drunkenness, four under the Indian Act, one motor regulation case, one city license, one city bylaw and one case of issuing fictitious checks. Collections from fines amounted to $440. In asking for an extra man the chief said the beer parlors made extra work.

B.C. FINANCES ARE DISCUSSED

Hon. J. D. MacLean Tells of Expenditures of Province in Education and Other Directions

VICTORIA, June 12.—Provincial finances formed the subject of an interesting address by Hon. J. D. MacLean before the Liberal Women's Forum, the Minister explaining some of the factors contributing to the increase in Provincial expenditures and the consequent increase in taxation in the past ten years.

At no time in the history of British Columbia had the people taken so great an interest in taxation and expenditures than the present, said Dr. MacLean. This interest was created by the prevailing high rate of taxation and by the encroachment of the Dominion field of taxation upon that of the Provincial field, particularly in income tax.

Answering the frequent complaint of high taxation, the Minister pointed out that British Columbia had not fully recovered from the boom days and its orgy of spending for local improvements and this Province, in common with the rest of Canada, was also suffering through the monetary obligations incurred by the war, debts of honor which must be paid. Taxation was a concomitant of civilization. Education, police protection, roads, health departments, hospitals and the various forms of social service all must be paid for by the people.

Heavy Expenditures

Quoting figures to explain the increase in expenditure by the Provincial government in the past ten years, the Minister touched upon the heavy expenditures incurred in making roads and bridges adequate to the necessities of heavy motor traffic, as compared with the roads required ten years ago for horse traffic; the P.G.E. railway begun by the Government's political predecessors, was a heavy drain, costing $2,500,000 yearly.

The University of British Columbia, which the Minister considered essential to the life of the Province, was another source of heavy expenditure. When the present Government took over the reins of office, it had already been established with a staff of professors under contract, but with no provision made for buildings or maintenance. But the contracts with the professors meant that the Government had to go on with it.

Dr. MacLean pointed out that the University was not merely of value for its teachings, but because of its research work. To date, as a result of the University's experiments along the lines of fertilizers and seeds, crops to an annual value of $567,000 had been raised.

Social Service Costs

The boom with its heavy expenditures by the municipalities in local improvements, paved streets and boulevards, had left these municipalities heavily in debt, and in many cases in danger of defaulting. Because defaulting of the municipalities impaired the credit of the Province, the Government had to come to the rescue, and was today paying $1,000,000 annually to help the municipalities. Social legislation, mothers' pensions and similar enactments, although praiseworthy, today cost $720,000 a year, whereas ten years ago all the social service work cost only $58,000.

Cheaper than Dole

New institutions, such as Tranquille Sanatorium, the Home for Incurables, schools for the blind, deaf and dumb, all cost heavily. The increase in population also was reflected in increased schools, education alone costing $1,000,000 more yearly today than ten years ago.

The expenses incurred in land and soldier settlement schemes were also reviewed, the Minister observing, in connection with the money expended in the establishment of industries, that it was infinitely better to spend money in productive industries than in some such system as the dole.

In conclusion he appealed to the women to make a close study of the financial questions of Dominion, provincial and municipal governments.

Mrs. Stuart Henderson presided at the meeting and Miss Dorothy Greenwood delighted the gathering with solos.

stances such that with reasonable diligence and care the accident could have been avoided? The jury should make void in its mind all that might have been heard about that might have been heard about the case and should concern itself with the evidence at this trial and with that evidence alone.

Court then adjourned until after the dinner hour.

First Witnesses
The first witness was H. O. Crews, assistant city engineer, who gave details of a plan showing the surroundings of the accident which took place near the intersection of Fifth Avenue and Young Street.

Mrs. John Manson, the first eye witness to be called, said that about 4.50 on the afternoon of February 12 she was coming up Fifth Avenue from McBride Street. She had her two children with her. As she was approaching Young Street she saw Norma Munro standing in the middle of Fifth Avenue. She also saw a car approaching from the opposite direction. She saw the driver turn in close to the curb to the right. All at once she saw the car crowd very quickly into the sidewalk. Norma Munro was in front of the car. She then saw the right wheels of the car strike the sidewalk. There was a noise as if tin and then the grating of brakes. The car hesitated and then drove on with two wheels on the sidewalk, then on to the road again and on a short distance further passing her where she stood near Scott's house. She stopped when she saw that an accident had happened. The driver turned off his engine and got out. He asked if she had seen what had happened and then said, "My God! She's dead." He then went up the street towards Munro's house.

In Middle of Road
Going into further details, at the request of Mr. Manson, Mrs. Manson testified that Norma Munro was standing in the middle of the road just slightly west of Jarvis McLeod's house. She was looking up the road or to the side for witness did not see her face.

In answer to the judge, Mrs. Manson said that the child was 3 1/2 years old and was large for her age.

When she had first seen the car, it had seemed to dip behind the brow of the hill. The car was travelling, she would say, at an ordinary rate of speed—not more than ten miles an hour. The car seemed to hesitate at the time of the accident and then resumed its former speed. From the time she saw the car first to the time it reached the child, there seemed to be no change in speed.

The road was dry but left the marks of tires said Mrs. Manson in answer to another question from His Lordship.

After the car passed, witness saw the body of the child in the road about 2 1/2 or 3 feet from the curb.

Some Possibilities
Under cross examination by Mr. Patmore, Mrs. Manson said she believed the car would have passed the child safely if the child had remained where it was when she had first seen it. She saw no skidding and could not say at what point the driver had put on the brakes. If the car had been going faster, the child would have been safely passed and there would have been no accident she thought.

"As far as you could see, Mrs. Manson, the driver was not negligent?" asked Mr. Patmore.

"As it looked to me the driver did what he thought would save the child," replied Mrs. Manson after some objection had been taken by Mr. Manson to the question which was allowed in cross-examination by His Lordship.

"The child moved very suddenly in relation to the car?" asked Mr. Patmore.

"Yes," was the answer.

Mr. Patmore—"Since this accident, you have been observing the speeds of cars considerably?"

Not Driving Fast
Mrs. Manson—"Yes, and the result was that I came to the conclusion that I was quite right when I said the driver in this case was not driving fast."

Mr. Patmore—"The children in this town use the roads very considerably as playgrounds?"

Mrs. Manson—"Yes."

His Lordship—"All over Canada they do."

Further questioned, Mrs. Manson said she knew Norma Munro by sight and had often seen her playing but she could not recollect if previously on the street. She had never seen accused previous to the day in question.

Mrs. McRae Witness
Mrs. Duncan McRae, who was approaching Fifth Avenue along Young Street from Fourth Ave., in giving evidence, stated she had heard the noise of grating and grinding as if two cars were scraping. She saw accused's car passing the intersection of Young Street at an ordinary rate of speed. The car stopped opposite Spencer's house. When she got to the Baptist Church she heard Gordon Munro screaming and saw the body of Norma Munro just west of Jarvis McLeod's house. The body was crumpled up and the head was toward the middle of the road. She saw Mrs. John Manson coming towards Young Street and also Mr. Munro pick up the body.

The body was on the proper side of the road in relation to the car, Mrs. McRae said in answer to His Lordship.

Doctor's Evidence
Dr. L. W. Kergin, the first physician in attendance, testified as to the injuries sustained by Norma Munro. These injuries consisted of a fracture at the base of the skull which was very extensive. She was bleeding from both ears and the nose. She was unconscious and there were a few abrasions on the face. The important injuries were those to the head. Under witness' instructions, deceased was taken to the hospital where she died after being given appropriate treatment. There was an extensive laceration to the brain which was brought about by a very severe blow. A statement made by Dr. W. T. Kergin, now in England, who later attended was put in as evidence by Mr. Manson with the consent of defense counsel. This bore further on the nature of the injuries.

Two little girls, Annie Smith, 13, and Edna Edgar, 14, were in the vicinity at the time of the accident and gave particulars with regard to it. Neither of them remembered having heard any warning signal such as the sounding of a horn. They saw no other children in the street beside the deceased. The Smith girl said that the driver started to slow up when he got in front of Moore's house. It continued to slow up, she said under cross-examination, until the accident occurred. When she saw that Norma Munro was going to be hit she turned her back.

Heard No Warning
Mrs. Manson and Mrs. McRae were recalled by the crown. They did not hear the car give a warning signal. Mrs. Manson qualified this, under cross-examination, by saying that if a warning had been given it might not have been impressed on her mind. Mrs. McRae said that she was some 350 feet away and might not have remembered hearing a warning signal.

At 9.45 His Lordship suggested that court adjourn to which Mr. Janson replied that he was ready to carry on as long as it would suit His Lordship and the jury.

"You are not trying to make an endurance test of it?" inquired His Lordship.

The last witness of the evening was City Police Sergeant A. H. Bailey who told of making a test of the brakes on accused's car with Chief Spiller and Sydney Bazett-Jones. Proceeding at a rate of between 15 and 20 miles an hour, the car stopped in twice its length. This indicated that the brakes were in good order.

Shortly before 10 o'clock, court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning when the crown proceeded with the giving of its evidence.

Defence Witnesses
The first witness this morning was City Police Sergeant McGlinchey who was summoned to the scene of the accident immediately after it occurred. He found the track where the right hand wheel of the car had skidded for some ten or fifteen feet. The end of the skid was marked by a pile of ashes and blood. Then the track of the wheel was found on the sidewalk. He saw the car of the accused which had a headlight broken. Under cross examination by Mr. Patmore, the officer said that the accident had been reported to him by accused. Sergeant McGlinchey also told of tests that had been made in his presence with cars at the scene of the accident. A Lexington car driven at a rate of 17 miles per hour had skidded 36 feet when the brakes were suddenly applied. The Ford car owned by G. H. Munro had also been used in the tests. It skidded 18 feet when brakes were applied after being driven at a rate of 17 miles an hour. At a rate of nine miles an hour it had skidded nine feet.

Mrs. Jarvis McLeod gave evidence as to the whereabouts of children on the street and also stated that while she was sitting at her front window immediately before the accident, she had heard no warning sound of the car's approach.

Father's Evidence
G. H. Munro testified that he was at his home at the time of the accident. The first intimation he received of the accident was when his little boy, Gordon, screamed "Daddy, Norma has been hit by a car." At the time, he could not believe it was Norma for he thought she was in the house. He rushed out to the street and saw the little girl lying in the road. She was doubled up on her stomach and face. Looking both west and east, he did not at first see any car but on looking west again, he saw the car near Greer's house. There was no sign of life and she was bleeding quite badly. As he started for the house with her he saw the man approaching. He took the child into the house and she gurgled and started to breathe. Then Symes came in and asked how she was. Witness said it looked pretty serious and he asked accused who he was. He said he was a taxi driver. Witness had never seen him before.

After the little girl had been taken to the hospital, Mr. Munro came back to the house. Shortly after Symes came back with his car. Accused said: "Mr. Munro, I just came back to see you. It might go hard with me if I did not show my sympathy." Witness said: "If that is what you came back for, you had better get in your car and go on." Accused said: "I will do that."

PARKING CARS IN THE CITY

Delegation of Taxi Owners Meets Police Commission and Discusses Regulations

The question of parking cars on the streets was discussed at a meeting of the police commission yesterday afternoon, the mayor and commissioner Coombes being present.

A delegation from the taxi owners, E. Large and T. Dybhavn, was present and laid the views of taximen before the commission. A further meeting will be held when Commissioner Montgomery is present to go into the matter more fully.

Mr. Large suggested that cars parking on the streets should line up parallel with the curb and not more than two feet from it, a distance of six or eight feet being allowed between each car. No car should park within 15 to 20 feet from corners and that Sixth Street should be a one-way street for parking, cars being allowed to stop only on the opposite side from the Helgerson Block.

Sixth Street
The Mayor thought it would be wise to allow no parking on Sixth Street between Second and Third Ave. as this street was narrow and was a main thoroughfare.

The question of jay-walking was also discussed and the opinion expressed that if there was going to be strict regulation against cars, pedestrians should also be regulated.

Mr. Dybhavn said some people treated auto drivers as if they had no right on the streets. In Los Angeles jay walking was an offense and also in many other cities.

Mr. Large said they agreed that cars should not be allowed to park in front of a person's place of business without permission. He was allowed to stand in front of Ben Self's.

Merchants Complaining
Commissioner Coombes said lots of merchants were complaining. The taximen then turned their guns on the merchants and said they were leaving their delivery cars all day backed up to the sidewalks. Also they were taking their heavy stuff through front entrances when it should go by the alleys. The taximen could turn a lot of business away from the merchants that tried to injure them. The autos were in business and were paying taxes, as much as anyone.

After a long discussion the matter was left over until a full meeting could be held.

MARKETING OF FARM PRODUCE

Suggestion Made to Retail Merchants by Trades and Labor Council

At the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night, which was poorly attended, S. D. Macdonald in the chair, a deputation from the Retail Merchants Association attended in connection with the co-operation of labor on the Oriental exclusion question.

After discussion it was suggested by the council that the Retail Merchants next year arrange for produce market depots at selected points in the interior and on the Queen Charlotte Islands. In the past no particular effort had been made to market the garden and field produce of the white farmer with the result that Oriental production was being purchased to the detriment of the white population.

It was decided that it was too late in the year to try and arrange for co-operative markets just now. A. Plant, representing the Retail Merchants, will report progress to his board when the matter will have further consideration before anything of a definite nature is decided upon.

The merchants were promised that local labor would be willing to co-operate upon the question of Oriental exclusion in any fair manner.

Eight Hour Day

Frank Foster, labor representative on the Eight Hour Day board, gave a talk on the working of the board and explained the success it was so far attaining. The board had proved most successful from the worker's standpoint and the standpoint of the employers of labor.

Sport Chat

Another Senior League baseball game had to be postponed last night on account of the inclement weather. It was the match scheduled to take place between the Sawmill and Sons of Canada. With special features on Dominion Day approaching and the Acropolis Hill grounds not being available on evenings during the week for the purpose, a proposal is now being advanced to play these postponed games on Sunday afternoons if for no other reason than to allow the players to get practised up. Further decision on this suggestion will probably be announced shortly.

Football fans are looking forward to a real live battle tonight between the Sons of England and the Callies in the Mobley Cup fixture. These two teams were the main contenders in the Stuart Shield series and now both have a victory in the city championship series. Therefore, the winners of tonight's game will take at least temporary leadership in the standing sheet. Both aggregations will be on their toes for the victory and a good game is assured. Doubtless, a multitude of fans will climb Acropolis Hill to witness the encounter.

Tomorrow in the school league Booth School will play the High School at football, the team chosen to represent the former being Alan Cross, Fred Dingwell, Kamj Miwa, Billie Colbison, Joe Scott, Jack McFie, Harry Crate, Willie Murray, Tom Kelsey, Jack Nelson and Edward Smith.

The High School line-up will be S. Gurvich, D. Stalker, O. Jackson, H. McDonald, P. Bond, M. McKenzie, C. Hacker, G. Bard, H. Walker, E. Walters, M. Sakamoto. Spares: B. Palmore and E. Bartlett.

SUCCESSFUL TOUR OF MINISTERS TO STEWART, MARMOT RIVER AND ALICE ARM; MEETINGS ARE HELD

the past four years has paid over seven millions in dividends, and where over 300 men are employed on a property which, overnight as it were, jumped into the first rank of wealth producers. A thorough inspection of the up to date plant, a trip through underground workings and other activities featured their visit to the Salmon River producer. A trip was also made to the Marmot River section, across Portland Canal, where many promising prospects are now being actively developed, particularly those of the Porta-Idaho, Marmot Metals Co., Montana, and others. A day was spent inspecting road conditions along the Bear River in the section in which the Dunwell and other properties are under development. As a result of these inspection trips the ministers secured a first hand knowledge of conditions which will prove invaluable in aiding them to fully understand the needs of the Portland Canal mining industry. They met those actively interested in the industry and discussed their problems. They met the Stewart Board of Trade and gave heed to representations as to the business needs of the district, were guests of the board at a largely attended banquet, and also addressed a public meeting at which public questions in general and the development needs of the district in particular were dealt with.

Hon. Mr. Sloan emphasized the intention of the government to see that the legitimate mining proposition should receive every attention and encouragement, while the "wild-catter" and the promoter whose aim is to "mine the public" would receive short shift. He declared that where the province, through aid to mining trails and roads, made it possible for properties to be developed and made producers, it was but fair that the Dominion government, which stepped in and levied its income tax, should be prepared to pay dollar for dollar with the province in the initial expense of opening up the mineral areas. Reduced duties on mining machinery, too, the minister of mines held should be provided to aid the industry. These were matters which he has already taken up with the Ottawa government, he said.

MISTOOK INDIAN FOR WHITE MAN

Employee of Government Liquor Store Unwittingly Supplied Native with Brandy

Mistaking an Indian for a white man has led an employee of the government liquor store here into the police court as the defendant on a charge of supplying liquor to Indians. William J. Moore, the Indian in question, was fined in the police court under the Indian Act $25 for having liquor in his possession. On inquiries being made he informed the authorities that he had obtained the liquor—a bottle of brandy—at the government store after being issued a permit. C. L. Youngman, the official of the store, was summoned and he pleaded guilty to the charge. The Indian looked very much like a white man and the action of the official was entirely unwitting, it is said. The magistrate is holding the case under advisement.

caused said: "I didn't mean it just that way," and he started to tell of the accident. He said that he had done everything in his power to avoid it. Witness said: "In other words, you blew your horn. If the children got out of the road it was alright. If they did not they would get killed." Accused replied "That is a hard thing to say." Witness said: "It was a hard way to act." Particulars of the accident were then further discussed. Sergeant McGlinchey then arrived on the scene and told Symes that he had better go on.

The crown offered a picture of deceased as an exhibit. It was ruled out by His Lordship who warned Mr. Munro against exciting the sympathy of the jury. There was further testimony from Mr. Munro with regard to the rates of speed of cars and the possibility of witnesses judging speed under certain conditions. A badly torn little coat, which Mr. Munro said at the time of the accident was Norma's, best, was entered as an exhibit.

Cross Examination

The conversation that had passed between Mr. Munro and accused after the accident was again referred to under Mr. Patmore's cross examination.

Mr. Patmore—It would be the decent thing for a man who had caused such an accident to speak to you and express his sympathy, would it not?

Mr. Munro—Yes. Mr. Patmore—Did he not say "What would you think of me if I did not speak about it?"

Mr. Munro—No, he said the words I gave. I realized that naturally he would be a little nervous. I held no ill will against him.

Mr. Patmore—Did you not say "I don't want you to come and try to smooth it over?"

Mr. Munro—No. Mr. Patmore—Did he not say "I am not here to smooth it over. An accident is an accident."

Mr. Munro—No. Mr. Patmore—Did you not say, "some of you drivers will not be satisfied till you have killed two or three?"

Mr. Munro—No. Mr. Patmore—Did he not say that he had nieces of his own about the size of the little girl and he would not want to see them deliberately run down? Mr. Munro—He did not.

Mr. Munro said that accused had phoned the police after he (Mr. Munro) had phoned the doctor and Mrs. Munro.

Chief Spiller gave evidence of the tests with cars substantiating that of Sergeant McGlinchey.

The accused was put on the stand in his own behalf after Mr. Patmore outlined that the defence would be that no negligence had been shown and that accused did all in his power to avoid the accident.

Accused on Stand

The accused said that as he came along Fifth Avenue there were from three to five children playing in the roadway. When he came over the brow of the hill he was travelling 8 or 9 miles an hour. He sounded his horn, the children separated—some to one side and some to the other. He put the car in neutral and had his foot on the brake. Just as he was ten or 11 feet from deceased she seemed to change her mind and rushed towards the other side of the street. He jammed on his brake and swung sharply to the right in an attempt to avoid hitting her. He ran right up on the sidewalk and, after he had struck her, drove off the sidewalk and on a short distance. He did not know why he drove on unless it was from excitement. When he had run on the sidewalk he was nearly stopped. He could not avoid striking the little girl. Before he put the car in neutral, accused stated that the speed might
