DUKHOBORS OPENLY DEFY AUTHORITIES

Victoria Is Asking for Annulment of United States Sealing Treaty

Doukhobors Openly Defy Authorities and Schools Still Empty

Provincial Police Preparing to Send Extra Men to Grand Forks on Short Notice to Enforce Law

GRAND FORKS, April 7.—None of four schools in the district provision for one hundred had any Doukhobor children in attendance Monday and local Doukhobor heads stated their children will not attend, no matter what action the authorities take.

Summons for a number of Doukhobors to answer to the charge of failing to send their children to school are being issued.

Threads of Doukhobors made on Sunday that they would stage a nude parade and probably throw their entire population marching against the authorities to resist the effort to force the children to school resulted in well organized preparations being made locally for eventualities. Mayor Love and civic officials are working with the provincial police to cope with any situation that may arise following the serving of the summons.

All schools have been placed under guard at night to prevent their destruction by fire.

Enforce Law

VICTORIA, April 7.—"We have a law and it must be obeyed," said Attorney General Manson last night in respect to the Doukhobor situation at Grand Forks. Despite all threats of the Doukhobors, the government proposes to enforce it. The provincial police are arranging to send extra men to Grand Forks if the situation makes it necessary, on short notice."

WANT WATER FOR BUILDING SITES NEAR COW BAY

Applications from the Consumers' Coal Co., Swift-Canadian Co., Thos. Trotter and P. Burns Co. Ltd. for water connections to give water supply and fire protection for industrial sites at Cow Bay on which these concerns are about to build were received by the city council last night and referred to the Board of Works.

Salmon will be tagged at Cape Chacon, Tree Point, west coast of Prince of Wales Island, Ruins Point, Pleasant Island and Indian Cove.

A special boat and crew will be detailed for this work throughout the season.

CAPITAL LEVY IS INTRODUCED FRENCH HOUSE

DeMonzie Asks For Voluntary Contributions But Will Constrain If Necessary

PARIS, April 7.—The government's new financial bill embodying provisions for capital levy was introduced into the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon by Finance Minister DeMonzie and referred to the finance committee.

DeMonzie explained the proposed system as a "plebiscite on the question of free voluntary contribution, each according to his means of constraint. If the French capitalists understand the system and patriotically respond to the call of the government, it will work without the slightest annoyance or interference in their private affairs. On the contrary if they make constraint necessary, it will be resorted to."

VICE-PRESIDENT OF CANADIAN NATIONAL COMING TOMORROW

Word was received by F. G. Dawson this morning that J. E. Dalrymple, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways was on his way here on the train which is due tomorrow morning. He will leave that train at Smithers and transfer to a freight arriving here some time late tomorrow afternoon.

Accompanying her husband on this trip is Mrs. Dalrymple, and others in the official party coming here include O. W. Johnston, passenger traffic manager of Montreal and brother of Gordon Johnston, formerly city ticket agent at Prince Rupert; W. G. Manders, freight traffic manager, Winnipeg; J. M. Horn, general freight agent, and G. A. McNicholl, general passenger agent, Vancouver.

The party will make the round trip to Stewart and Anyox on the Prince George and will go East from here on Friday.

Many Addressing Meetings During Easter Recess; Conservatives Expect Election

Ottawa, April 7.—Realizing the possibility of a Dominion election within the next year, and possibly at an earlier date, politicians are taking advantage of the Easter recess to do some campaigning. After the session is over the season will be too far advanced for successful public meetings.

Considerable activity is being shown by Conservative leaders, whose absence from the House for a few days prior to the holiday makes no difference to the conduct of business. Meetings are being addressed in Ontario cities and at Vancouver and Fort William. Liberals do not seem to expect an election for some time and are not worrying about it, apparently.

Filling Cow Bay is Again Discussed by City Council; Casey is Opposed to Move

On the grounds that the project as planned by the Canadian National Railways for the filling in of Cow Bay would absolutely deprive the fishing fleet of harbor facilities it now enjoys, Ald. Casey announced at last night's council meeting that, having investigated the matter, he had decided to oppose further negotiations with a view to having the city waive its rights in Cow Bay in exchange for a parcel of waterfront land. Ald. Casey explained that he had at first understood that it was proposed to fill in only that part of Cow Bay inside of the railway tracks. He had subsequently found, however, that something entirely different to this was planned by the railway company. The proposal was to fill in Cow Bay as from a line between the Georgetown and Imperial Oil Co.'s wharves, a move that would put the fleet into the open harbor. He intended to oppose anything that would further implicate the city in such a project.

The discussion on this matter came up in connection with a letter from L. A. McPherson, C.N.R. superintendent, in which it was pointed out that the waterfront lot to be granted P. Burns & Co. Ltd. for an abattoir site encroached slightly on the lot which the city might obtain from the provincial government in return for permission being granted to fill in Cow Bay. The letter asked if the city would be opposed to a single lease being granted covering the entire site, the city to be reimbursed from rental for any encroachment. P. Burns & Co. would require to occupy the lot to its full width.

FISH PRICES STILL HIGH

Nearly Nineteen Cents Paid for Some of American Boats Today

Very nearly nineteen cents a pound was paid today at the fish exchange for three car loads which were sold on exchange. Only one boat was Canadian and it got 16.70c. There has been a big demand in the East with little offering, only two car loads being shipped from here yesterday.

The big arrivals are expected at the week end and early next week, and it is probable prices then will be much lower.

Breach of Promise Suit Against John the Finn Lost by Miss Munn

VANCOUVER, April 7.—Judgment handed down today dismisses the breach of promise suit brought against John Hahti of Stewart, better known as John the Finn, by Lottie Munn, the girl who came from England to marry him. The judgment leaves open the possibility of Miss Munn recovering some of the money she spent in coming to British Columbia from London.

CITY TO SELL ITS PROPERTY

Reverted Lots Will be Disposed of Through Real Estate Agents

LISTS TO BE PREPARED

Applications to Purchase Must be Accompanied by Deposit by Cash

Tax sale lots and how to dispose of them engaged the city council last night in another lengthy discussion which took up a great share of the time of the meeting which lasted for three and half hours and which was the longest council meeting on record so far this year. Ald. McMordie's motion, notice of which he gave at last week's meeting, was finally adopted. This motion was "that the city solicitor be instructed to prepare a bylaw authorizing the council to dispose of all lots which have reverted to the city through tax sales." The interesting part of Ald. McMordie's scheme, however, lay in the suggestions that formally accompanied the resolution and which seemed to find favor with the most of the aldermen with the exception of Ald. Stephens who actively expressed the consistent opposition that he has in the past voiced against selling tax sale lots at less than the assessed or, at least, the established market values.

List With Agents

These suggestions of Ald. McMordie's were as follows:

"That a list of all such lots be prepared showing charges against them up to December 31, 1925, and that such list be handed to all real estate offices to sell at 5 per cent commission.

"That no lots be sold at less than tax charges.

"That no applications for purchase of lots shall be accompanied by less than ten per cent of the proposed purchase price and not less than $10.

"That the date and hour of receipt of such application shall be marked by the city treasurer on each application."

In advancing his scheme, Ald. McMordie felt that it was time something was done to effectively dispose of tax sale lots. The city now held 550 such lots to an assessed value of $130,000 and with $103,000 taxes against them. His plan was to continue the policy of the annual tax sale. He felt that it would not jeopardize the assessed valuations of the city any more than a tax sale would.

Ald. McMordie's resolution was seconded by Ald. Casey.

Stephens Opposes

Ald. Stephens, in attacking the resolution at length, maintained that selling lots at less than their assessed valuation was fair neither to the city or the ratepayers and would be of little value to the purchasers. If the assessment was too high then it should be reduced. There was a difference between the method of the annual tax sale and this proposal under tax sale proceedings, it took twelve months before a deed could be secured by the owner in the meantime having the opportunity to redeem the property.

Ald. Casey could see no harm in the proposal offered. Something must be done to unload tax sale lots and the time now seemed opportune.

Ald. McMordie pointed out that he, himself, was a large property owner. Naturally he would like to see the assessed values obtained but he thought that would be impossible. Action was necessary. Constructive criticism was always welcomed but he had failed to hear a better solution offered for the difficulty.

Constructive

Assuming that the remark about constructive criticism was directed towards himself, Ald. Stephens maintained that his criticisms had been constructive if any ever were. His stand was that the property should be sold at the assessed values in fairness to the city and property owners. He went on to say that at the court of revision he had moved for a ten and fifteen per cent reduction in values but had received no seconder.

In the course of the discussion, the city solicitor was called upon for his views. He still expressed his opposition to selling at less than assessed values on the ground that the assessment might then be attacked.

Ald. Casey felt inclined to let the assessment be attacked. As it was the city was sailing in the air and it had to make a landing somewhere. If the assessment were reduced, the mill rate would have to be raised and it would amount to the same in the end.

The solicitor pointed out that there was a limit to the mill rate after which improvements might have to be taxed.

Ald. Brown expressed favor for Ald. McMordie's scheme.

The resolution was finally put and was carried with Ald. Stephens and Ald. Perry voting against it.

The council decided to accept offers for a number of lots that were up last week providing the offers cover charges against the lots. In one case, however, there has since been a higher bid made for one of these lots and it was decided to readvertise it. The finance committee recommended last week that the offers be accepted but the report was laid over pending the formulation of a general policy.

How to Play Football

Making the most of talent---weakness of forwards too often evident

(By "Andy" Ducat, Manager of Fulham Club.)
(Reprinted from "Greenock Herald")

Too much has been heard of forwards who fall at critical times. You read every day, the defence struggled well, but the forward line showed a lamentable lack of decision in front of the goal."

The reason for this is what I have stressed in a previous article—failure to plan the attack before play begins.

You can easily plan a defence. So long as your backs cover each other and your goalkeeper knows his job your defence is bound to be reasonably sound. But when you come to the forward line you have to teach five men—eight if you count the halves—to combine in one plan. And when you come to the plan itself you are confronted with the choice of several good methods of attack.

First you must study the needs of each position in the attack, and see which man fits in best.

Uneven talent makes planning for an amateur team hard. You have one big man who knows what to do with the ball when he gets hold of it in front of the goal. Where will you put him? Centre forward? Unfortunately he is a man without guile. Though he can plant the ball between the posts he cannot work it through the defence. He is clever from the neck downwards.

Supporting the Centre

What you must do is put this star shooter at centre, and support him with an inside man who can make openings for him.

Though an inside man is better when he can shoot, it is probable that an amateur team will not boast two crack shots. Therefore the shot of the team must go centre, while the most useful inside man will be one who is able—and willing—to work up openings for his centre forward.

Your two wing men are probably uneven. One is merely a good runner, the other is a sprinter of unusual speed.

Put the sprinter on the wing beside the cleverest inside man. These two between them ought to be able to get the ball down and hand it to the centre to cap the good work. Don't try to spread your talent over the whole line. Three good men working close together can do a lot more than the same men spread out by two mediocre players.

It is no use the inside man making openings in mid-field if his wing forward is going to lose the ball in the run down.

Similarly it is no good having a crack sprinter and dribbler supported by a man who cannot get the ball out to him.

When you have three good forwards play them together. You will then have a combination.

Your Right Wing

If this combination is on your right wing, the left wing—the two mediocre forwards—will be expected only to keep their end up. You help to this end by setting your best back to cover this left wing.

How the plan works in actual play is that the outside right runs the ball up and centres to his centre-forward, who is your crack shot. On the other hand the inside right may make use of his guile to create an opening in mid-field. He then either runs the ball up himself or he swings it out to the right wing. Whatever happens your star shot is ready to look after the ball when it arrives in front of goal.

Should the left wing make an opening, and fail with their shot at goal, the centre forward may be able to retrieve the ball and see what he can do with it. Or if there is a scramble for the ball after the shot, your wily inside right may get a chance of using his talents.

These are not conventional tactics. I am well aware of that. Conventional tactics may be described as those adopted by the most successful professional teams. But what is the truth about successful professional teams? They are successful because they have picked out from a big supply of men who fit in College stars have again been recruited this year by Managers Huggins and McGraw for the New York Yankees and Giants baseball teams. The Giants have three promising prospects in Lou Gehrig, former Columbia baseball star; John Haskell of football and baseball fame at Haskell Indian Institute, and Elmer Dugan who hurled brilliantly for Brown University last year. The Giants newest acquisitions from the college ranks are Jim Tunney, formerly of Holy Cross and

Jim McGovern, who pitched for Notre Dame before joining the ranks of the professionals, and E. Van Gastel to be members of such board outside of the city council. The other members of the board are Ald. Perry, chairman of the board of works, City Engineer F. W. Pearson and City Solicitor E. F. Jones.

AN ANCIENT CUSTOM REVIVED ANNUALLY

Both McGraw and Huggins have had examples of what the colleges can produce in Wallie Pipp, the veteran first baseman of the Yankees, who received his early training at Georgetown, and Frankie Frisch, captain and star second baseman of the Giants, who was developed at Fordham. With these two as examples it is not surprising that the pilots of the two New York clubs have kept an eye on the college stars of recent season and acquired those that seem to give promise of becoming major leaguers.

ALBERTA CITIES GET RIGHT TO BONUS NEW INDUSTRIES THERE

EDMONTON, April 7.—Alberta cities are to have the right, if they so wish, to bonus new industries. The bill giving it them was passed by the Alberta Legislature on a vote of 29 to 14. It has still to be considered in committee but the general principle is adopted.

All the new bill really gives the cities the right to grant a fixed assessment for a period of 20 years with the consent of the ratepayers. It is only improvements that are affected and not the land. They can also be given preferential rates on water and power, with the consent of the public utility commissioners.

Norman Taylor, purser, and Fred Buck, assistant purser, regular officers of the C.P.R. steamer Princess Mary, are back on the job after having been relieving respectively on lower coast runs aboard the steamers Princess Louise and Princess Victoria.
