BORN IN AIRPLANE-This Chinese baby born aboard a Canadian Pacific Airlines plane high above the Pacific Ocean on a flight from Hong Kong to Vancouver provides a citizenship puzzle. The daughter of the 21-year-old wife of Chinn Waniel Yuk Kai of Heppner, Ore., she is shown in her makeshift cradlea wooden box-as she is placed aboard an ambulance by Chinese stewardess Evelyn Lee of Vancouver for the journey to a Vancouver hospital. Father and mother are United States citizens and an American immigration officer claimed the child is an American citizen. But he also admitted she is a Canadian and a British subject because she was born on a Canadian plane. "But if you ask the Chinese government, they'll say she is a Chinese," (CP PHOTO) said the officer.

Another solution might be the introduction of smaller passenger-cargo ships of simple design.

led routes where automobile transportation pro- vides an important part of the traffic, there is certainly a need for such vessels to serve the more isolated points. It is in fact conceivable that they could be put into profitable service between Vancouver and Prince Rupert as both cruise and utility ships. Much of the pleasure of a west coast cruise lies in the stop-offs at remote little ports which are quite unlike anything most tourists have ever seen before. An example of this was provided by the recently retired Princess Maquinna whose meand- ering trip up the west coast of Vancouver Island was always popular with the traveller on holiday. Frat House Holds Trophies-Bells Stolen in Pledge Raids Queen Mother's Castle

STOCKTON, Calif., (AP)-Missing any church or fire bells? You might try the Alpha Kappa Phi fraternity house at College of The Pacific.

Last December, someone stole the 600-pound brass noisemaker used as the fire alarm in Santa Clara.

Yesterday, Fire Chief Leonard George got a tip to look in the Alpha Kappa Phi house here. Sure enough, the big bell was in the fraternity's trophy room.

Sc, added the chief, are seven or eight other bells trophies, he was informed, of freshmen pledge raids.

ment in Farnborough, the government's chief aviation research centre.

Sir Ben Lockspeiser, a leading scientific adviser, told the association• the apparatus has been used successfully for fighter planes.

Every time airliners get bigger and faster, Lockspeiser said concrete runways have to be lengthened and further reinforced-and the point has been reached where airports are an expensive nuisance."

"If aircraft are to become faster and heavier, the main economic problems in aeronautics are, in my view, less in the air than on the ground," he

He suggested that, instead of using a runway for taking off, even a big plane could be catapulted into the air.

For landing, the plane is flown level a few feet from the ground, caught on a hook by arrester gear and dropped on the taut sheet, which allows a good landing without a bounce. Lockspeiser said air liners quire some reinforcement of the fuselage but this would be small in comparison with the weight of present undercarriage gear.
