TRADES AND LABOR COUNCIL MEETING

Conditions at Elevator Reported to be Satisfactorily Adjusted
—G.W.V.A. Memorial
Approved

A regular meeting of the Trades & Labor Council was held last night in the Carpenters' Hall, a large attendance of members being present with President S. D. Macdonald in the chair. As usual, various matters pertaining to the welfare of labor in the city were discussed.

A communication was read from the Great War Veterans' Association requesting assistance towards establishing a memorial for all men from this city who fell in the Great War. The secretary was authorized to do so.

Three copies of the autobiography of Samuel Gompers, late president of the American Federation of Labor, were ordered. One will be for the purposes of the council itself, another will go to the Prince Rupert library, and the third will be placed in the Deep Sea Fishermen's Hall.

Correspondence and telegrams between the council and Fred Stork, M.P., the Minister of Labor and T. Harrison, provincial wage officer, regarding conditions at the elevator were submitted to the meeting and the executive reported that the matter had been satisfactorily adjusted and that the job was now to agree in no case to resort to arbitration.

Aim of Protocol

The protocol preamble set out that one of its purposes was the realization of a reduction of national armaments to the lowest point consistent with national safety and the enforcement by common action of international obligations.

The most important clauses were designed to interpret and strengthen the covenant of the League of Nations and provide a system for arbitration of all or any disputes, thus paving the way to what Premier Briand spoke of as "making war on war." The signatory states were to agree in no case to resort to

Proposal for Policing of City to be done by the Provincial Force

Plebiscite of People may be Taken when Fuller Information is Secured by Commission

Members of the police commission at the regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon expressed themselves as being in favor of submitting a plebiscite to the public on the question of abolishing the city force and turning the policing of the city over to the provincial police. No definite action was taken, however, pending the receipt of further information from the government on the possibilities of such a change and how the cost would compare with the system now in vogue.

The matter came up when a letter from Hon. A. M. Mans son, attorney general, replying to the complaint of this city regarding the deductions from liquor profits and the suggestion that overlapping of the city and provincial police operations be eliminated was read. This communication stated that an amendment to the "Police and Prisons Act" now made it possible for the policing of a municipality to be taken over by the provincial force. Already North Cowichan, Merritt, Duncan and Matsqui were negotiating with a view to making the change. The attorney general expressed the belief that economy might be effected and greater efficiency obtained with the single force.

Must Observe Law

As for the interference in the administration of the Government Liquor Act, Mr. Manson stated that it was not the desire of the provincial police to put men in where there was a municipal force but the Liquor Act must be observed and the provincial police was at liberty to step in where the situation was deemed to be out of hand.

Commissioner Montgomery stated that he would be agreeable to the abolition of the city force but the question was one, he felt, that should be decided by the public and not the commission. He thought the cost of the new system ought to be ascertained so there would be something tangible to put before the people. Commissioner Coombs agreed with the idea of putting the matter before the people.

Definite action was deferred until next meeting so that further details respecting the change might be obtained.

PRIEST KILLED SELF DECLARE OFFICIALS

Saturated Body in Kerosene and Then Applied Match, According to Soviet Authorities

KIEV, Ukraine, Mar. 13.—Soviet authorities declare Father Fedorovitch, Catholic priest, previously reported to have been burned alive by agents of the secret police, actually killed himself by saturating his body with kerosene and applying a match. They state that the act was prompted by threatening letters received from other priests, who took exception to his communication with the Pope in which he urged the Vatican to prevent the Polish priesthood indulging in anti-Soviet propaganda.

HELD PRISONERS ON LONELY ISLE

Provincial Police Officers Returned to City After Unique
Mission Down Coast

Provincial Constables Saint and Collins returned to the city last night after a trip to Port Stevens on Pitt Island where they rescued a couple of men who claim they have been held in virtual captivity for the past five months by a band of loggers who fed them nothing and threatened to murder them if they attempted to escape. It seems that the two men were brought to Port Stevens by the man in question on the pretext of giving them employment. Getting them there, and controlling all means of transportation, he practically held them as prisoners. They were able to eke out an existence on what food they could rustle such as clams and finally managed to smuggle a letter out to the provincial police telling of their plight. The police are now endeavoring to bring the offender to justice. It is said that he previously practised similar treatment with other men.

Should Refuse To Renew Sealing Pact.

Canada gains very little from the sealing treaty with the United States. The seals are caught on the Pribilof Islands, slaughtered like pigs without a change for life. All sport is taken from the business and part of the proceeds of the catch is handed over to the Canadian Government, the sum going into general revenue.

If pelagic sealing were again allowed, boats could go from Victoria, Vancouver and Prince Rupert and take the seals in the open sea. They would be brought here and sold and Prince Rupert would get a share of the benefit.

The Pacific Coast ports should unite in opposition to the sealing treaty and insist that they be allowed to engage in this legitimate business. While in the open sea the seals are the property of any who may take them just as are the halibut or the salmon or herring or whales. They go south to the coast of California and pass the coast of British Columbia on their way north and may be easily taken in the course of their migration. During that time they get a chance for their lives. There is an element of sport in the hunting, but what is done at the Pribilofs by the American Government is nothing but butchery.

This is the time to take action to prevent the treaty being renewed. There is no politics in the move. It is simply a national industry that is affected and we have a right to our industries and should refuse to have them destroyed by action of any government.

Police Proposal Worthy Consideration.

The proposal of the Attorney General to take over the policing of the municipality and thus prevent duplication is something to be considered carefully and acted on only after full investigation of the details. As the law stands today, if the Attorney General is not satisfied with the manner in which the liquor laws are being enforced in a municipality, special officers are sent in and the cost is deducted from the share of liquor profits. In nearly every municipality last year there was a deduction of some kind for special police. Prince Rupert paid her quota and the Attorney General made it very clear that this was one of many places where the liquor laws were not satisfactorily enforced.

Everyone understands the difficulty of enforcing the liquor laws. It is difficult for local men to undertake, so outsiders are brought in quietly and often with good effect.

If the policing were in the hands of the provincial force they could change their men as often as they wished.

There are objections to handing over the policing to the province and also there are factors in favor of it. All should be carefully weighed before action is taken. It is to be supposed that the people will be fully informed before they are asked to vote on the matter.

Proposal To Build Gymnasium And Swimming Tank.

There is a proposal being made for the citizens of Prince Rupert to build a gymnasium and swimming tank which will be the property of the city. At the luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday it was reported that a tentative arrangement had been made to secure a suitable property for the purpose, centrally located and without cost, the title to be vested in the city. A. A. Cox, the architect, had also agreed to prepare tentative plans without charge together with estimates of cost of a building and swimming tank suitable for this place.

If the scheme goes ahead the people of the city will be asked to subscribe the money necessary to build it, but before that is done full details of cost and plans for operation will be submitted.

There has been a general demand for such a place here and this is the first concrete proposal to be prepared. Committees of the Rotary Club and Gyro Club are working on it, as being representative organizations, but the city will own the property when completed.

The committee it is hoped will go fully into every phase of cost and operation and make everything clear to the people before asking for their support. The institution is badly needed but it is desirable that when it is established it shall be just what the people want and operated in such a manner as to give the best possible results.

Dog Travel in Far North is Filled with Peril but Few Casualties Result from it

SEATTLE, Mar. 13. — The diphtheria epidemic in Nome, Alaska, bringing its desperate race between death and dog teams with antitoxin, centered the attention of the country on what has become a commonplace to "sourdoughs," the usual method of transportation in the frozen interior of the northern territory in winter—an adventure at best.

It is only on such occasions as epidemics that the mushing is carried out at such hazardous speed, but the usual progress across the centre of Alaska is made once a fortnight throughout the winter by the mail carriers, who travel 870 miles from Nenana to Nome. Numerous other traders, prospectors and trappers are on the go frequently for long or short journeys.

French-Canadians in the employ of the Hudson's Bay Company 300 years ago, learning the use of dogs and sleds from Eskimos in the far northwest of America, used to shout "marche" when they wanted the dogs to speed up. In the mouths of English-speaking men this became "mush," which has stuck as a "get up" to the dog and as a designation for travel by dog-drawn sled.

Avoid Hazards

Tragedies of the trail for men are comparatively few, partly because the winter drives are undertaken only by hardy, experienced men, and largely because of the uncanny ability of the dogs to avoid hazards of the trail. Overflows are dreaded possibilities. Most of the mushing is done on the ice of rivers or seas and the rest of it overland from one body of water to another. Sometimes the swiftness of the current or the entry of a side stream causes the water to flow above the ice, making slush of the snow. There lurks death for man. If he gets into it his legs will freeze—temperatures of 50 degrees below zero are frequent on the trail. Freezing follows instantly after emergence from the slush, and the musher is helpless. But a good lead dog detects an overflow a mile off. He scents it, and suddenly departs from the deep trail and leads the team off through unbroken snow. Around the overflow he detours, coming back to the trail when past the slush.

Moccassins on Dogs

On ice covered with sharp projections, called spear ice, occurring on rivers and seas, the dogs wear moccasins. Sometimes under pressure, such as when 300,000 units of antitoxin were taken from Nenana on the Alaska Railroad January 27 and delivered in Nome by relays of dog teams February 2, several dogs are carried on the sleds, the animals taking turns at riding and running.

The principal sled dogs are Huskies and Malamutes. Huskies are crosses of domestic dogs and prairie wolves. They weigh 60 to 65 pounds. Malamutes are crosses of domestic dogs and timber wolves. They weigh 75 pounds and up. The leaders are light in weight. They are brain workers, and really lead. They do not work, but watch the trail.

Trial dogs sleep comfortably in the snow. In a severe blizzard an Alaskan will leave his dogs to burrow in the snow and outlast the storm if they can, and he will make his way to shelter.

Half Wolves

The bond between a driver and his dogs is not exactly that pictured by a dog-lover in the States. The mushing dog, being half wolf, generally would live like a wolf except for restraint. Most sourdoughs profess to feel no love for sled dogs, and aver that the dogs feed none for them. On the other hand such a writer as Hudson Stuck, Episcopal archdeacon of the Yukon and Arctic regions, affirms that some sled dogs love some men.

Dogs are used in Alaska for winter travel only. In the summer they live in camps, where they are chained each to a trolley wire that gives him a run. For if they could reach each other, there usually would be trouble. In winter, work and the blacksnake whip keep them in order. On the trail they are fed once every 24 hours on whatever the master is able to give them. Often it is dried fish.

Ride and Walk

A passenger may ride on the sled, but the driver runs behind it and rides on the rear runners alternately. A good day's travel is 40 to 50 miles, but in a storm and in bad going among

SCHOOL USES TOO MUCH FUEL

Twenty-one and a half Tons
Consumed at Booth School
in Month

Just how much fuel a school the size of the Booth School should consume in heating it was discussed last night informally by the school board. It was reported by the janitor that 21½ tons was used in the month or about a ton a day for each day the building was used. This it was considered by the school board was excessive. The committee in charge of that school was asked to investigate further and try to find out what was wrong with the heating system and report back at a future meeting.

It was mentioned that Borden Street school consumed only about 200 pounds a day.

Those present at the meeting were C. H. Orme, chairman; W. E. Williams, H. B. Rochester, W. E. Fulton, Sid Johnstone, secretary Vance and the principals of the schools.

POLICE REPORT

Twenty-two Cases in Court During February and Collections Totaled $320

There were 22 cases in the city police court during the month of February and collections totalled $320 according to the report of Chief W. H. Vickers submitted to the police commission at the regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. The 22 cases dealt with resulted in 19 convictions, 2 dismissals and one pending. The collections of $320 included $24 for keep of provincial prisoners, the balance being fines. There were three raids under the Government Liquor Act resulting in two convictions. Weights of coal and bread had been examined and found correct. The payroll for the month totalled $930 and accounts, $132.

THERE'S one thing about cross word puzzles, they have introduced thousands of people to a new book and that book is the dictionary.

But it sounds just like static.

THERE'S one thing about this generation, the girls are not too prudish to say "legs."

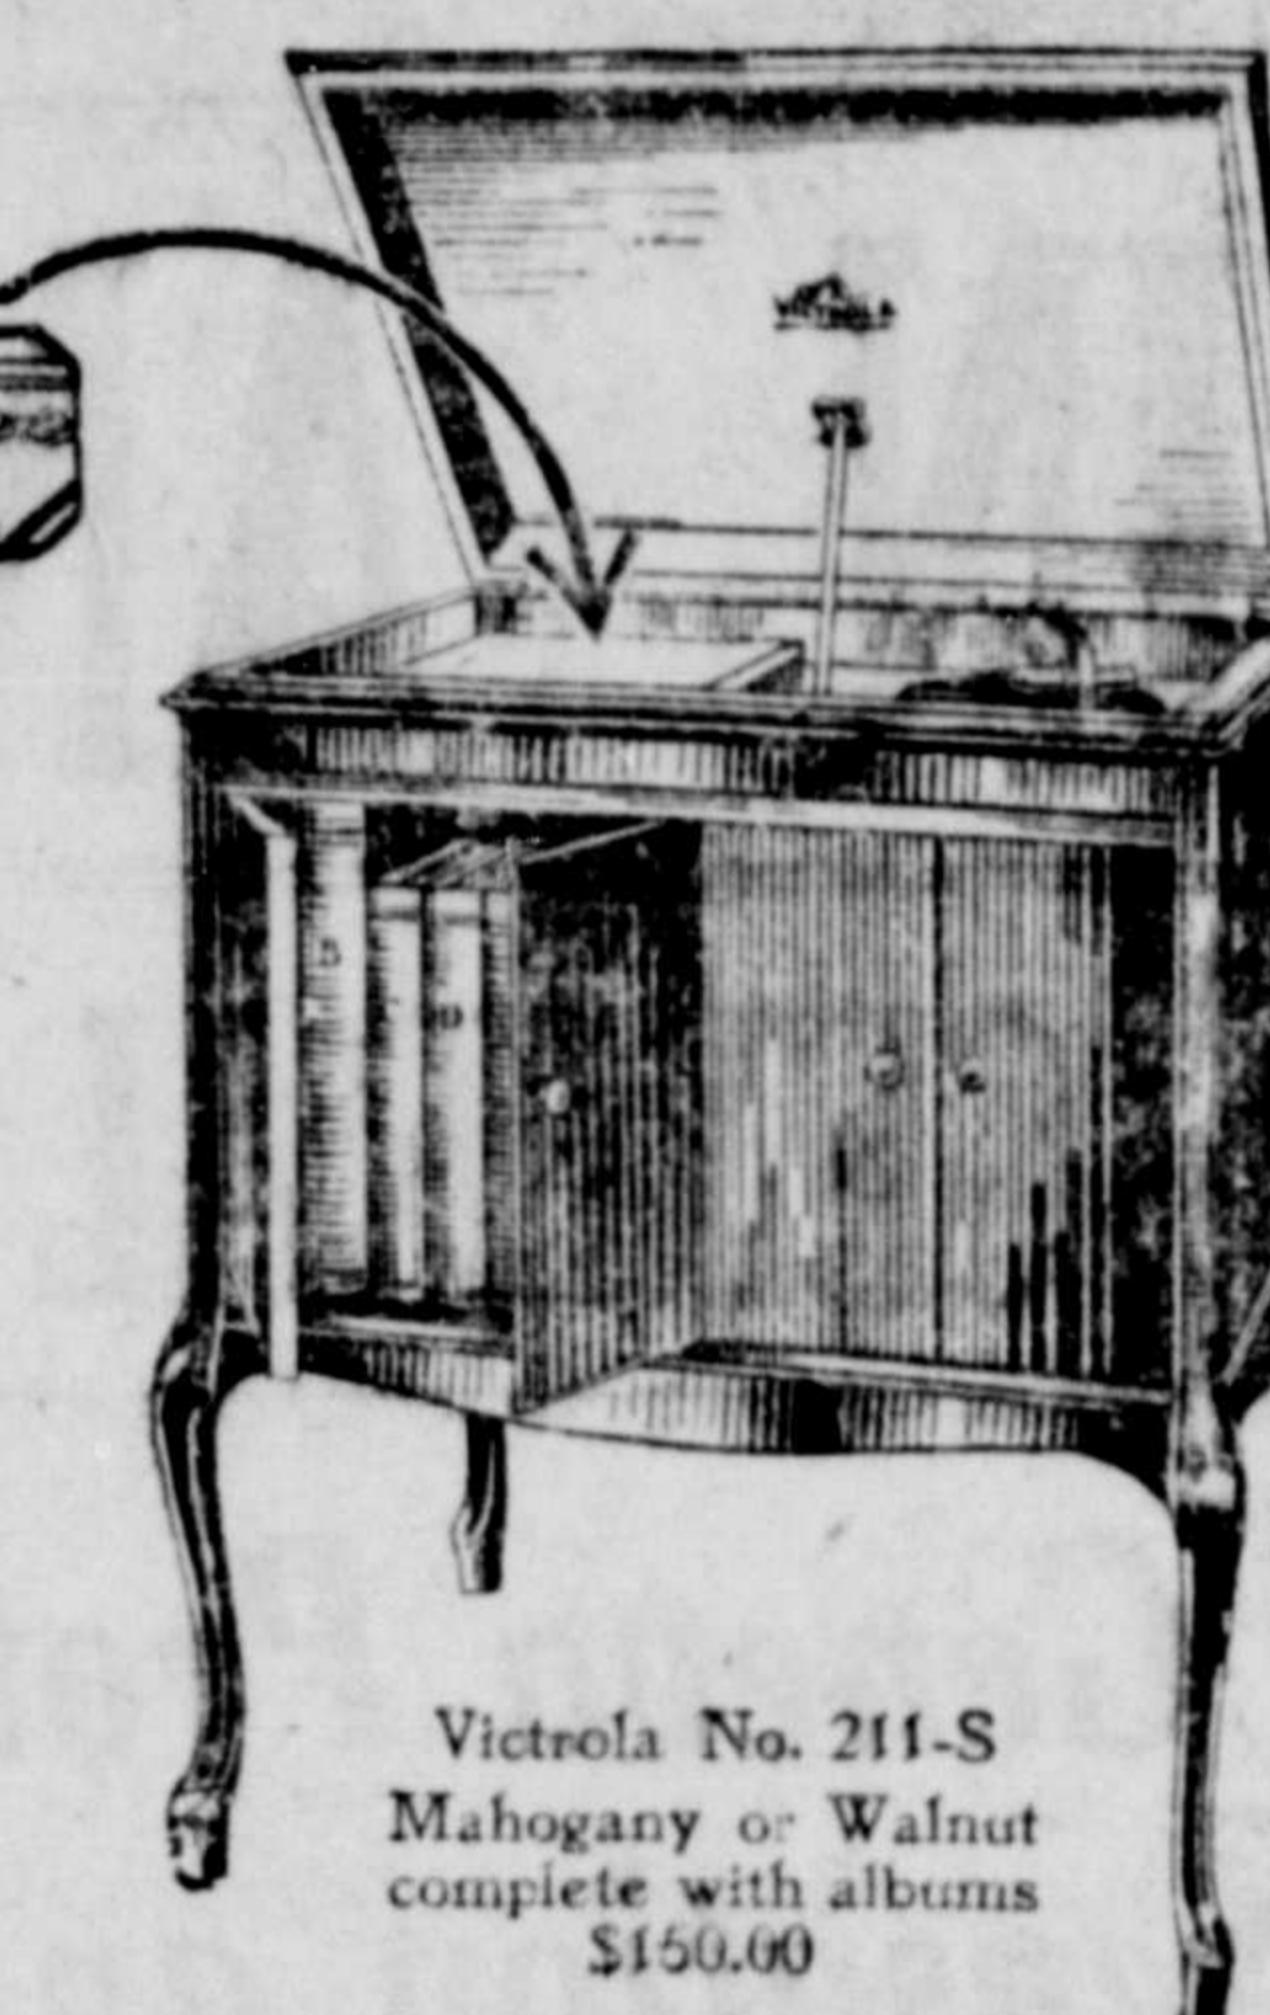

REDUCING seems to be popular with many super-stouts and so my banker tells me it is with him. He likes to see me reduce my overdraft.

For economy's sake I buy a supply and let it age"

—says Mrs. Experience, speaking of the economical use of soap.

"I always keep a good supply of Sunlight Soap on the shelf because I find that Sunlight actually improves with age. It becomes harder and so goes much further."

"With this added economy of lasting longer, I've learned that Sunlight is by far the most economical soap I can buy. The reason is that every particle of Sunlight is pure, cleansing soap—a little of it does a lot of work. Sunlight, you know, is guaranteed to contain no injurious chemicals or harsh filling materials to make the bar large and hard. These filling materials, of course, are just so much waste as far as cleaning goes."

"To any woman who wants to get real cleaning value out of a soap for her money, I decidedly say, 'Use Sunlight, and keep a good supply on the shelf.' Sunlight is made by Lever Brothers Limited, largest soap-makers in the world."

ASKS FOR MORE POLICEMEN IN PRINCE RUPERT

Commissioner Coombs Urged Appointment of Six Permanent Men Here

A resolution proposed by Commissioner Coombs that the city police force be increased from its present strength of four regular officers and one special officer to six permanent men including the chief failed to find support at the hands of Commissioner Montgomery and Mayor Newton at the monthly meeting of the commission yesterday afternoon and was deferred for a month.

In submitting his resolution, Commissioner Coombs stated he was still of the opinion, as he was last month, that there should be a force of six men. There should be a man constantly at the station at night as a matter of safety and the waterfront was entitled to some protection in the way of patrol. There could not be an efficient policing of the city without six men he felt.

Commissioner Montgomery took the view that the city was getting along nicely with the present force and he did not think an increase was necessary. The mayor and chief should at all times, however, have the right to engage special officers when it seemed necessary so to do. The city could not afford sufficient officers to maintain a patrol of the entire community.

Mayor Newton desired to keep the force down to its present strength if possible. January and February reports showed that conditions were quiet in the city. He did not consider that there was great danger in not always having an officer in the station for the building itself was never empty. He was desirous of curtailing expenses as far as reasonable. If conditions made it necessary, the force could readily be augmented at any time. The mayor suggested that one of the firemen might take up his quarters in the police station during the night but this idea did not find favor with the remainder of the board.

In answer to the mayor, Chief Vickers stated that, even with the force of five, it might be possible to send an officer along the waterfront occasionally. A man had already been engaged for the waterfront at night. He was being paid by the fishermen.

Commissioner Coombs insisted on submitting his motion which was finally laid over by the mayor until such time as the proposal now on foot to have an amalgamation with the provincial police force was settled upon.

BANQUET BY MEN'S CLUB

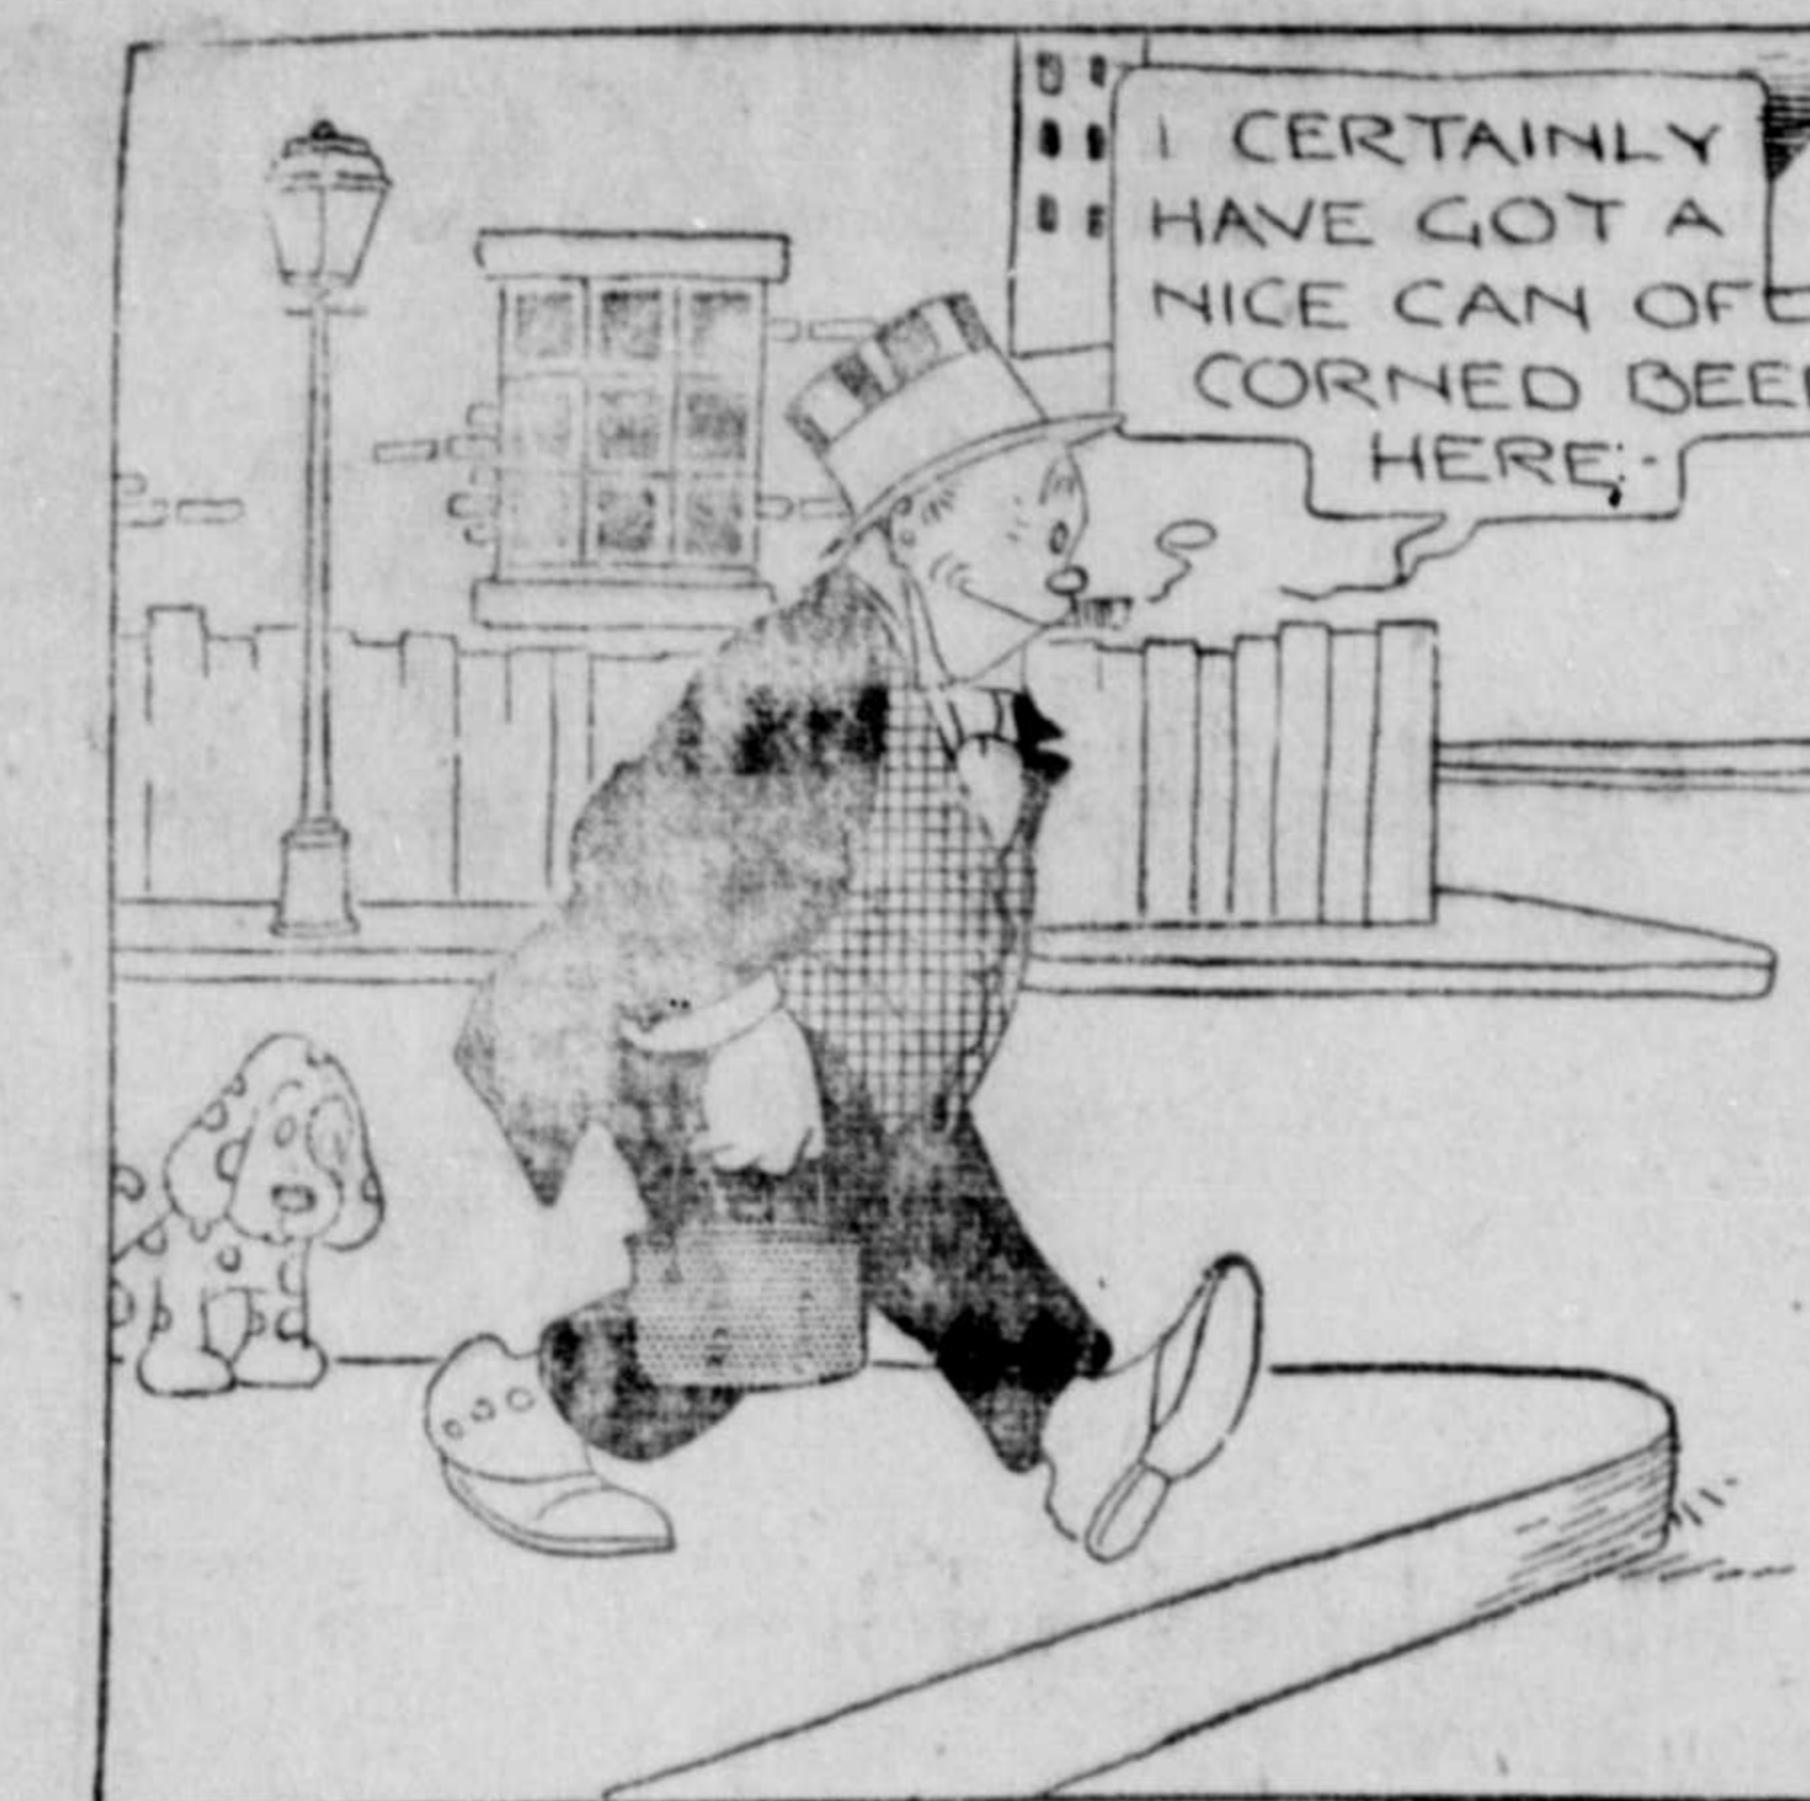

One Hundred and Sixty Persons at Unique Affair in Methodist Church Last Night

A successful banquet under the auspices of the Methodist Men's Club took place last night in the social hall of the church. The slogan was "Men Provide and Men Serve, Women Specially Invited." The food was wonderful in quantity, quality and variety while chefs and waiters, attired in white coats and white aprons, presented a very smart appearance. It required three rooms to seat the 160 guests. Decorations were daffodils. The program consisted of a violin solo by William Murray, Jr., vocal solos by Meth Davies, Miss K. Jones, C. G. Minns and John E. Davey. A humorous address on the topic of "Humor" was given by Principal J. C. Brady in which he treated the humor of the Irish, Scotch and American.

Must be Fresh

A very unique address was delivered by W. Robinson, foreman of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co. He took for his topic "The Fishing Industry" particularly that part of it relating to the handling of fish. Mr. Robinson stressed that cooperation was the keynote in the fish business with speed and cleanliness as essential factors. He said the dog ripened its meat

DEASE LAKE COUNTRY FOR YOUNG MEN SAYS VANCOUVER SPEAKER

VANCOUVER, March 13.—Prospectors are naturally nomadic; a passing race of men," said George E. Winkler, speaking to the B.C. Chamber of Mines.

"One is disengaged by the prospectors, the minerals peter out and they move in search of fresh fields to conquer."

"And yet I would advise any and all young men possessing courage and backbone to purchase a ticket for the next boat leaving for the northern mineral fields."

"The general supposition is that the old sourdoughs must develop the Dease Lake; and right there the mistake is made."

"This is a young men's country; let them 'dig in' if Canada is ever going to see the prosperous times one hears so much about!"

CROSS WORD PUZZLES REACH CENTRAL EUROPE

Fad Gets Even as Far as Balkans
Following Spread Among
English Speaking
People

ROME, March 13.—The crossword puzzle craze has reached Italy in its triumphal march from the United States.

The engaging pastime which has made dictionaries best sellers, first took Great Britain by storm and then crossed into France where it overcame the prejudices of thousands of citizens of that nation which, more than any other in Europe, had been famous for its philological insularity and for its passionate insistence upon the purity of its verbal expressiveness.

Now, the fad, disguised as "L'Indovinello delle Parole Ircrociate" has crossed the Alps into Italy and its proponents predict confidently that nothing can stop its advance into the heart of central Europe and even into the geographical crazy quilt
of the Balkans where languages and dialects abound.
