SEVERE STORMS IN EUROPE AT WEEK END

SHOOTING CASE AS RESULT OF DRINKING MOONSHINE ENDS IN TWO DEATHS

Severe Storms Sweep Large Areas in Europe and Snow Covers Much of the Country

LONDON, Nov. 30.—From southern England and Spain on one side to Scandinavia and Poland on the other and in the Bay of Biscay violent storms raged at the week end with much destruction of shipping and property and loss of life.

Central Europe was covered with snow and low temperatures prevailed there.

In the storm area Italy appeared to be the worst sufferer, the storm there being the worst in many years. Huge waves from the sea deluged the shore, wrecking houses and damaging the harbors and railroads and destroying crops and livestock. At Catanzaro many persons were killed and others injured.

Scotland and the north of England were covered by deep snow.

CONSERVATIVES ARE RECOGNIZING THAT LIBERALS CARRY ON

OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—That Conservatives here recognize the probability of the Liberal government being sustained is intimated in the announcement, made unofficially, that the Conservatives will not pair with Progressives, Independents or Labor members of the House, thus making it necessary for them to stick to their duties all the time. Ordinarily if a government supporter wishes to go away on a short visit or otherwise absent himself from the House he arranges with the opposition whip to pair with one of their members, neither to vote until the return of the other.

Another suggestion is that Progressives, as such, should not be granted representation on committees since to all intents and purposes they are Liberals, if they hold the present government in power.

Baril and Lefebvre were working at a wood camp and came into town Saturday. Baril got into an argument with the section men and opened fire, killing one and injuring another. His companion Lefebvre remonstrated: "Why do you want to kill everybody?" The man thereupon shot him through the heart.

As She Assumes Nationality She Takes Increasing Interest in Pacific Affairs

SEATTLE, Nov. 30.—"As Canada throws off her colonial status and assumes her place as a self-governing nation," said Professor Walter Sage of the University of British Columbia at the closing session of the Pacific Coast branch of the American Historical Society conference on Saturday, "she is becoming more interested in Pacific affairs. Her aims are peaceable and she is trying to solve the Asiatic problem without injury to the feelings of the Asiatics. Her gentlemanly agreement with Japan and her Chinese Exclusion Act produce no hard feelings."

VANCOUVER ELEVATORS FILLED WITH GRAIN

Little Change in Situation as Arrivals About Equal Shipments; Two Vessels Load Daily

VANCOUVER, Nov. 30.—There is little change in the elevator situation here today. Grain billed here before the embargo was placed continues to flow this way and the elevators are practically filled to capacity. Irish Border Causes Uneasiness.

There seems to be a little friction over the settlement of the Irish border which is causing some uneasiness. This is unfortunate but it is hoped everything will be smoothed out satisfactorily. It had seemed recently as if the Irish problems had been settled and that nothing more of a disagreeable nature would be heard from the Emerald Isle.

St. Andrew's Day Celebrated Today.

This is St. Andrew's Day and it is of more than ordinary importance in this city because there is here a St. Andrew's Society, the members of which are Scottish and largely Presbyterian and that the Anglican Church here is also named after the same saint.

Andrew was the first of the apostles and a brother of Simon Peter. He was a disciple of John the Baptist. He is said to have been a great missionary and is alleged to have been crucified for the Christian faith. He is said by some to have carried the Christian faith as far as Scotland and a result has been adopted as the patron saint of that country, the Scottish flag, having as its emblem the cross of St. Andrew, known as the "silver saltire," a white cross on a blue ground.

Are Sparring For Position.

It looks as if the railways are sparring for position in connection with the development of the Peace River country. The lines could neither of them afford to go in there and open up the country without the aid of the federal government and that aid will undoubtedly be sought soon. The C.P.R., as being first in the field, has prior claim, but on the other hand some people doubt the wisdom of the government bonusing a rival concern.

As a matter of fact there should be no hostile rivalry between the C.P.R. and the Canadian National. Both are national institutions, only one is held directly by the people of Canada whereas the other has been carried on largely through the investment of private capital.

Competition is a good thing but not throat cutting competition. If the C.P.R. can develop the Peace River country and do it without committing the government to any large capital outlay, their claim is worthy of consideration. If the company demands a large cash bonus, it will be for the government to consider whether it would not be better to expend the money on the railway that is owned directly by the nation.

On one thing all seem to be agreed, and that is that the work of railway building in that country should proceed soon. Probably the present line will be pushed forward through the mountains to British Columbia territory and from there it might with economy be built from either end, meeting at a point about midway.

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW'S HELD ANNUAL FESTIVAL

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—Men and boys of the Episcopal Church throughout the world yesterday observed the 42nd anniversary of the founding of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew.

All chapters of the organization held Corporate Communion service and the day was of especial interest this year because it was the date of birth of the late James L. Houghteling, of Chicago, founder of the order.

Forty two years ago, at St. James Church, Chicago, twelve young men banded together under the leadership of Mr. Houghteling, for the purpose of spreading Christianity and bringing men and boys into the church. The brotherhood now has chapters throughout the United States, in Canada, England, Scotland, the West Indies, the Canal Zone, Australia, Ireland, China and Japan.

A reminder of the occasion was broadcast from radio stations at Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Pittsburg, and Boston

American Boat Resumed North-bound Voyage Last Night After Having Propeller Blade Put on

The Pacific Coast Steamship Co.'s steamer Admiral Watson, Capt. V. Enquist, arrived in port at 9 o'clock Saturday night from Ketchikan and moved up to the dry dock at 9:30 yesterday morning. After having a new propeller blade put on, the vessel cleared for the north at 5 o'clock last evening.

In The Letter Box

WHEN WAS WEDDING?

Editor Daily News.
In an editorial in your Saturday issue you commented upon the fact that the Progressives have gained a seat in Peace River which offsets the one that went Conservative lately. You then remark that this is an indication that the present Government is likely to remain in power and you also venture your opinion that, to quote your words, "The only option is for the Mackenzie King government to continue."

May I be permitted to draw your attention to the fact that you have, upon several occasions lately, urged upon us all to stop talking elections and buckle down to work, and in the Saturday editorial you reiterated this exhortation, using the following words: "The election is over and some people do not seem to realize the fact. Let us talk about something else. There is work to be done in this constituency other than political. This is the time to be doing it."

Now, my dear Sir, how can we be expected to forget politics if you persist, in spite of your protests, to use your editorial columns for the purpose of spreading political propaganda.

As a news item this gain of a Progressive seat is very interesting, but just one little question, for the sake of information: Why do you regard this Progressive gain as being a gain for the Liberal party? Are the twain one flesh, and if so, when was the wedding?

The need for Life Insurance protection seemed dim and remote -- and because of this the day of decision was deferred.

Don't Neglect The Children's Coughs and Colds

Mrs. Wm. W. Card, Bancroft, Ont., writes:—"Last winter my three children had very bad colds, and they would cough all night long, which was very annoying to the rest of the family. I could get nothing to help them until one night, a friend who was staying with me, advised me to give them

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup
 I immediately got some, and after I had used four bottles of it my children became quite well again, thanks to Dr. Wood's."

Relation of the Liver and Kidneys
 Such that each suffers when other deranged—Both regulated by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

When the liver becomes sluggish or torpid in action, the kidneys have to help out with the work of filtration. When the liver fails the kidneys have all the work to do.
 Hence the beginning of trouble is usually biliousness, indigestion and constipation and after a time the kidneys begin to be affected and there comes backache, urinary derangements and kidney disease.
 The remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills is due to their unique combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels. They get at the cause of trouble and remove it no matter how complicated it may be. Promptly and thoroughly they cleanse the bowels or intestines, arouse the liver action and thereby relieve the overworked kidneys.

SPORTSMANSHIP PLAYING GAMES

Number of Instances Given in Baseball History and in Other Lines of Sport

UNFAIRNESS OF FANS

Win on Merits Only is Motto Set by Scouts and Might be Followed by All

(From the Scout Leader)

Everybody admires a good sportsman. All of us like to be considered good sportsmen. And we like to believe that Canadians as a whole are all round good sportsmen.

But have we reason to be sure of that? The criticism has been made that we have lost much of the spirit of true sportsmanship through the influence of baseball, particularly the established baseball habit of attempting to "rattle" the visiting pitchers, the "razing" of home players who make errors, the baiting of umpires, etc. As an extreme example of this you may recall the newspaper story, a month ago, of a prominent Brooklyn National League player who announced that he and several others of the team were seriously considering giving up the game, because of the extreme unpleasant remarks continuously thrown at them from the grand stands and bleachers.

Mocking Crowd

What has been your experience at baseball games? Have you not many times heard the crowd howling mockingly when some player, doing his best, fumbled a ball, or at some exciting moment made a misplay? And have you not frequently heard a crowd, when a home pitcher, previously heroized, has lost control, yell angrily and derisively, "Take him out! Take him out! . . . ? Did you ever hear anyone call out, when a pitcher was knocked from the box, and walked despondently from the field, "Never mind, old chap, you'll get them over next time"? Very seldom—although it has been recorded. It was pleasant to read in one newspaper account of the closing incidents of the deciding game of this year's big league championship that the excited Pittsburgh crowd became silent as Walter Johnson, the great Washington pitcher, passed toward the gate, and "hand after hand reached to grasp his and many a time he was told, "We're sorry, Walter, that it had to be you!"

It is an unfortunate fact, however, that this spirit is seldom shown by baseball crowds. And the attitude seems to have crept into the rest of our sport. At rugby, soccer, and hockey games, decisions which do not favor the home team are very frequently booed and hooted. There have been instances of crowds in certain seat sections at professional hockey matches throwing things upon the ice, in order to trip the players. Another angle of bad sportsmanship in amateur baseball or hockey, particularly in small town leagues, is the bringing in of outside players, calling them "Simon Pures," and paying them in some surreptitious way for their services.

High Standard

As to the Canadian athletes themselves their present day standard of sportsmanship is as high as one could find anywhere. While such things as "marking" good men, and "putting them out of business," has not been unknown, this has greatly diminished during recent years, and today our boys generally play the game straight, accept the rulings of the referee, and take their knocks in good temper. In this our colleges are setting a splendid lead.

Here is an incident which has passed into the sporting traditions of McGill as a sample of "McGill sportsmanship:"

Some three or four years ago during the annual cross country run between McGill and Toronto University, held at Montreal, Wiggins the McGill long distance star, was running in second place some little distance behind a Toronto runner. Wiggins knew every inch of the course. On arriving at a certain point, he discovered that the "Varsity man" had taken the wrong turn. Wiggins halted, shouted, and brought the "Varsity runner back, set him on the right road, and allowed him to regain his previous lead before following. And the Toronto man won the race. In other words, although certain victory was offered through his opponent's error, Wiggins refused to take the advantage of it—he would win or lose only on a fair test of speed.

Tennis

Here is another example of the same kind. Some fifteen years ago the tennis team representing England against the United States in the world championship Davis Cup tournament included the famous Doherty brothers. In one of the singles matches one of the brothers was given a point for a ball which he saw cut the back line, instead of clearing it. On the next play he deliberately allowed his opponent to score a point. He would not accept an advantage which he did not think he was entitled to, even when the point had been given him by the judge of play.

After these stories let us read this paragraph from a newspaper account of one of the world series baseball games of this year between Washington and Pittsburg:

"Stanley Harris showed a nifty piece of baseball strategy when he ordered Johnson to pass Meadows (the Pittsburg pitcher) in the third. The bespectacled tosser was paraded to first with one down and was forced to run the paths when Moore hit into a double play. This effort evidently had its effect on Meadows, for he cracked in the fifth, and four singles, three of them in a row, netted the world's champions a pair of counters."

Washington won that game as a result, not of the ability of the Washington players, in a straight test of skill, to hit Meadows, but as a result of tiring him by "chasing him around the bases."

College Story

Here is another Canadian college story, an incident of the kind you would like to have taken part in:

Last year Queens and Varsity were playing the deciding game of the rugby championship, at Toronto. Queens was two points in the lead. Varsity apparently had a chance of scoring. Batstone of Queens, one of the most brilliant rugby players of recent years, had the sole torn from his shoe. According to the rules this did not stop the game; Batstone would go off, and a substitute be sent in. Immediately, however, Capt Snider of Varsity ordered the game halted, and waited until Batstone could replace the torn shoe and return to the line-up. The Queens won the game and the championship.

The test of sportsmanship at games is not always confined to those out on the field. Some eight years ago during the Maritime Inter collegiate rugby final between the University of New Brunswick and Mount Allison the deciding moment and apparent victory for N.B. came with a run and touchdown during the last few minutes of play. There was a question, however, whether the runner had not stepped over the side line. The linesman, Greg Feeney, of N.B., was appealed to—and declared that the runner had stepped over. This meant the nullifying of the score, and "down" opposite the point of running out. In the tension of the moment the N.B. team and its supporters gathered excitedly about the linesman. "He stepped over. What else could I say?" Feeney insisted. The ball was brought back, the N.B. lost the match and championship. But that fact, and the score of the game, will be forgotten long before Greg Feeney's example of courageous good sportsmanship in a trying situation.

Play Clean

That is the kind of good sportsmanship that is expected of Scouts. Let us make sure that we always play the game that way—and even if the fellows we are up against don't "play the game." Mount Allison University has earned a fine name for good sportsmanship among the Canadian Maritime colleges. A few years back their rugby team was playing against another team not always noted in this respect. As the game began going against them, the other team began using unsportsmanlike methods. At once from the Mount Allison supporters came the cry, "Play Mount A. ball, boys! Mount A. ball! That is, "Play square and clean, no matter what the other fellows play."

Let us in our sports make a point of always playing "Scout ball." And let us set that kind of example of good sportsmanship when we are among the on-lookers. Of course you will want to see your school or home team win—that is perfectly natural—but never allow yourself to wish to see it win except on its merits, and when playing the game fair and square. That is Scouting in sport. Let's always play "Scout ball."

PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL HAS BECOME HAZARD

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 30. — Semi-professional baseball has become an industrial hazard in California.

While playing ball in an industrial league, E. L. French, a Sacramento salesman, sustained a fractured jaw. The state industrial accident commission refunded him his medical expenses and paid for the time lost from his work.

Night football is proving popular and successful at Casper, Wyoming. Last week, with the field lighted by huge electric lamps and gas flares, about 1,000 persons saw Casper High School defeat Midwest High by 20 to nil. The game was played at Midwest, a town in the heart of the Salt Creek oil fields. A while enamelled regular ball was used and every player could be seen as perfectly as in the daytime by the spectators. The players likewise seemed as much at home as in any other game, executing passes and catching punts without trouble.

MISSIONARY BOAT ON THE ISLANDS BUSY ONCE MORE

Rev. R. C. Scott Holds Services at Skidegate and Asks for Co-operation of the People

SKIDEGATE, Nov. 30.—Rev. R. C. Scott, the new missionary for the United Church in charge of the mission boat Thomas Crosby, preached his first sermon here in the Dufferin Pattullo school. He explained that he was new to the people and he asked for co-operation in his work. He was given a good reception.

Since the installation of the new diesel engine, the Thomas Crosby makes a speed of eight knots. She will visit all points around Skidegate Inlet, Moresby Island and south to Cape St. James lighthouse. She will be able to travel in much rougher weather than formerly.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott plan to build a mission house in Queen Charlotte City where they will make their headquarters.

Mr. Scott was born in Paisley, Ontario, and has been engaged in mission service on the coast for ten years. He was stationed at Campbell River before taking up the work at Queen Charlotte Islands.

Mrs. Scott was taken ill before the mission boat left Vancouver and therefore remained behind. She will join her husband later. On the way north the boat called at Alert Bay, Cape Mudge, Bella Bella and Butedale, and spent two days in Smith Inlet taking in all the places there.

SKIDEGATE

George McRae of Skidegate has been on a hunting trip on his power boat Annie C. and reports ducks and geese plentiful in the inlet.

William Prettyjohn, owner of Devon Farm, was in town with a large assortment of vegetables. He says he has a bumper crop this year.

NIGHT LIFE OF NEW YORK

Tale of Boy Who Wanted to Have His Fling Among Bright Lights of City

In "Night Life of New York," Allan Dwan's latest picture here tonight Rod La Roque has the role of a rich man's son, a youth for whom the night holds no terrors except that of having to go home before daylight. The father, played by Ernest Torrence, has different ideas—as fathers so often have—and even though the small town in which he and his son live offers a rather limited field for deviltry, he wants to cure his son of his wild habits.

The "Sure Cure"

In such a case, what could be more natural than to send the boy to New York with the object of letting him get himself into a few real scrapes which would make him content with family life in the old home town? Rod goes therefore to the wicked city with a bankroll and the parental blessing—in fact, father has his son's good so much at heart that he arranges for the boy to meet a certain celebrated lady in the city, a lady of the genus known as "fast steppers." Of course, father has it "framed" with her that she shall cure son of his mad desire to adorn the town with red paint.

But what sonny doesn't know, doesn't hurt him, and for a while he has what is known in some circles as a hot time. Then comes the reckoning, but a much more serious and drastic one than the father had planned for. Son gets mixed up in a murder scrape, and father hastens to the big town to try to get him out of it.

Fortunately he succeeds, and finds to his delight that sonny, during some of his off-moments in his flaming career, has found time to fall in love with a mighty nice little girl who will make him the right kind of a wife.

LADY WHO LIED IS AN EPIC OF SANDY WASTES

Carnival Scene on Grand Canal in Venice is one of Features

Tense, terse, thrilling—here is stark drama, stark as the desert against which some of the scenes are pitched, yet smoldering with a passion akin to the blistering sun that heats the sands. That's "The Lady Who Lied," latest of the Carewe epics of the sandy wastes, as showing here tonight.

Carewe and his technicians have reproduced such locales as the Sahara, Algiers, Venice, with telling realism. In fact, as regards the desert scenes, we see no difference between those in "Son of the Sahara," a previous Carewe production, and the present one, yet we are told that, while the former was actually made in the vicinity of Biskra, border town of the Sahara desert, the latter was filmed within the enclosure of a Hollywood studio.

SEVEN DAYS SOMETHING LIKE CHARLIE'S AUNT

Humor Pervades Throughout Picture Coming Here For Week End

Another spoke has been added to the wheel of mirth in the Al Christie presentation of "Seven

The Man Who Talked at Random

HE sat in the window-corner of the Pullman's smoking compartment, and breathed fatly and uttered large opinions in a suety voice. It grew late, as so often it does; and he put the quietus on a discussion with the ponderous statement:

"I don't read advertisements. They have no effect on me at all. I'd never miss them if they stopped printing 'em."

Then he glanced at his advertised watch and sought his lower birth.

In the morning the ad-skeptic contorted himself out of his advertised pyjamas into his advertised underwear, drew on his advertised socks, adjusted them with his advertised garters, got into his advertised clothes, laced his advertised shoes and added himself to the congestion in the wash-room.

There he shaved with an advertised razor, using advertised shaving cream; brushed his teeth with an advertised toothbrush and advertised dental cream, washed with advertised soap, and brushed his hair with an advertised brush. Buttoning his advertised collar on an advertised button, he neatly knotted his advertised tie, gave his advertised suspenders a tug or two, and finished dressing.

Let us leave him there, this man who never reads advertisements!

Everything worth using is advertised. Everything that isn't, rarely is.

Read the advertisements for value's sake

Days" which comes at the week end.

It stands out as another feather in the caps of the producers of the record breaking "Charley's Aunt." The same surface strain of continual humor, the same undercurrent of seriousness combined deftly into a human picture of a domestic upheaval, make "Seven Days" a fitting sequel for the previous presentation.

The story is of a young chap, giving a party to a few friends to celebrate the first anniversary of his divorce, suddenly finds himself beset on all sides with all manner of trouble and trial.

First his wealthy Aunt arrives, not knowing of his divorce, and the problem of keeping real facts from her confronts him. Then his divorced wife arrives unexpectedly.

On top of this, the servants take hasty leave, alarmed by a spotted ailment which has stricken the butler. A burglar, chancing by, and seeing the party in session takes the opportunity to transact some business. On entering, he finds a policeman, whom the cook had been entertaining before her unceremonious departure, fast asleep in the chair.

Then the whole house is aflame for smallpox as a result placed under a seven days' quarantine of the butler's ailment. If things moved speedily up to this point, they race from here on.

INCOME TAX REDUCTION

Ottawa City May Lessen This Impost and Increase Tax on Lands

OTTAWA, Nov. 30. — Several by-laws and plebiscites are to be submitted to the people of Ottawa at the civic elections on December 7, perhaps the most important being one to obtain the opinion of the electors on Controller Tulley's scheme to gradually exempt business income and improvements assessment by 10 per cent until 50 per cent is exempt, and secure the taxes thus lost by placing assessment on all land in the city.

A bylaw is being submitted to electors qualified to vote on money bylaws, regarding the removal of the cross-town tracks which asks whether they favor the city applying to the Legislature for authority to raise and pay to the Canadian National Railways $350,000 if the company will remove its Bank and Elgin street yards and cut out through train movements between the canal and the westerly city limit.

A money bylaw is being submitted asking whether property owners approve of $12,000 being spent on improving the West End Market. There will also be a bylaw for extending the term of office of city council to two years.

CONCERT AND DANCE SMITHERS SUCCESS

Sum of $250 Netted for Hospital as Result of Event

SMITHERS, November 30. — With a crowd that packed the Town Hall to the doors, the concert and dance put on by the Gray Orchestra, Thursday night was one of the most successful affairs of this nature held in Smithers in many months. The concert started soon after eight o'clock and the huge audience was treated to an exceptionally fine program, each number of which was heartily enjoyed. In his opening remarks, the chairman Dr. C. H. Hankinson thanked those present for their attendance, remarking that it was only by the hearty co-operation of the citizens of the district, that the Bulkley Valley District Hospital in aid of which the concert was being given, was able to carry on and administer to the needs of the surrounding country.

The program consisted of the following numbers:

- Selection—Gray's orchestra.
- Chorus—"Kinkie Kids Parade."
- The Kinkie Kids.
- Solo—"Think Love of me."
- Rev. Geo. Turpin.
- Dance.—Highland Fling. Miss Mary McKenzie.
- Solo—"Land of Long Ago."
- Mrs. S. P. Bennett.
- Selection.—"Amang the Heather." Gray's orchestra.
- Solo—"The Trumpeter." Mr. A. Evitt.
- Solo—"Friend o' Mine." Mrs. L. B. Warner.
- Recitation—"If I dares." Miss M. Evitt.
- Dance—"Sailor's Hornpipe."
- Mrs. J. Hetherington.
- Quartette.—Selected. Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Bennett, Mr. Turpin and Mr. Hetherington.
- Chorus and dance.—Selected. The Gaiety Girls.

The Kinkie Kids were a dozen or more of the younger boys each with blackened face and each resplendant in more or less gorgeous costumes or uniforms, with their guns and swords. Master Harland Lewis was their leader and this number made a great hit with the audience. Miss Evitt was a new performer before a Smithers audience and received most hearty applause for her numbers.

Immediately after the concert the floor was cleared and dancing was soon in full swing and continued until after 2 a.m. During the dance, novelties in the way of candy baskets filled with assorted candies were sold by a committee of young ladies and a large basket was raffled, this was won by Mrs. W. Fidler with number 68.

Mrs. T. W. Brewer and her father Mr. George had charge of the decorating of the Hall and their novel and artistic result of their endeavors was greatly admired.

Hospital Board benefits to the extent of some $250 as a result of the affair.
