MACKENZIE KING IS TO MEET PARLIAMENT

KU KLUX KLAN BEING FORMED VANCOUVER, MEETING SHAUGHNESSY HEIGHTS

Mackenzie King Government to Meet Parliament and Allow It to Decide Who is to Carry On

Prime Minister adopts constitutional practice which is accepted by Governor; supreme right of people recognized

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—It is officially announced that Premier Mackenzie King will meet Parliament and that Parliament will be called at the earliest possible date. In his statement he said:

"The latest official returns having been made it is apparent as a result of the general election that as no one of the political parties would of itself have clear majorities in the House of Commons when Parliament assembles, it became my duty as Prime Minister to acquaint His Excellency, the Governor General, of the situation and to advise His Excellency as to the course that should be pursued.

"After several interviews with His Excellency at which the position brought about by the recent general election was fully discussed and all alternatives presented, I have taken the responsibility of advising His Excellency to summon Parliament for the earliest practical date in order to ascertain the attitude of the parliamentary representatives towards the very important question raised by the numerical position of the respective political parties.

Insinuation by Pooley That Some of Money Went Into Federal Election Fund

(Special to Daily News)

VICTORIA, Nov. 5.—"We are prepared to take full consequence of our error," said Premier Oliver in the Legislature, replying to an attack by R. H. Pooley, opposition leader, on the government for an over-expenditure of $1,500,000 on the University of B.C. new buildings.

R. H. Pooley, in opposing the government's plan of asking authority for the amount over-spent or over-incurred denounced the "unconstitutionality" of the government getting money by warrant of the Lieutenant Governor.

Hon. Dr. Sutherland promised Mr. Pooley the fullest investigation. "We will lay all our cards on the table," he said.

"That's a nasty insinuation," hurled the Premier, when Mr. Pooley asked whether such huge over-expenditures had arisen before around election time. "We also want to know, but we'll never find out, how much the boys got out of it."

Here the Government announced it would answer in detail any question about university financing that any member wished to have answered.

Forty-nine Ounce Nugget is Brought from Atlin by George Clothier; Valued Nearly $700

Yesterday George Clothier, resident mining engineer, was wandering around town with a little sack inside of which was a big pebble, the biggest gold nugget on record in northern British Columbia. He brought it down from Spruce Creek, Atlin, and is showing it in Max Heilbronner's window on Third Ave.

The nugget is estimated to contain about half gold. As it weighs 49 ounces, Mr. Clothier says it is valued at between six and seven hundred dollars.

The nugget was found by the owner of Spruce Creek on the been found had it not been that dump. It was so large that in the man happened to see it on the hydraulic process it had not the tailing dump.

Montreal to Vancouver Made in Three Days by Oil Electric Car on Canadian National Ry.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 5.—All records for transcontinental travel were broken yesterday when the new Canadian National Railway's oil electric car No. 15820 arrived in Vancouver after making the trip from Montreal in three days. The trip was not only a record breaker so far as actual schedule was concerned but it wrote a new chapter in the railway history of the world as marking the longest non-stop run ever made by an engine. During the 2,937 miles covered by the car engine, not once did it stop running.

There is also the actual running time which again provides an unequalled passage in Dominion transportation annals, for eliminating detentions due to meeting trains and other delays incident to modern transportation methods which came to 300 minutes the actual running time was slightly under 67 hours. From the first to the last the trip demonstrated the superiority of the new oil electric car.

Arranged primarily as an endurance test for the engine, not only did it prove this point but also it showed the speed possibilities of the car over long distances which previously had not been proved. At one point on the western region 22 miles were made in less than the same number of minutes and one of the steepest grades in the Rocky Mountains was climbed at an average speed of 40 miles per hour. The average speed for the entire trip was slightly under 43 1/2 miles per hour.

Ku Klux Klan Meeting at Shaughnessy Heights Vancouver to Organize

Objects of the order expounded at informal reception and delegates present from State of Washington

Shaughnessy Heights, home of Vancouver's 400 and high society centre, is to be headquarters for Canadian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, which, built up along the lines of the hooded order in the United States, is to be organized from the Pacific to the Atlantic, says the Vancouver Star. Inside two years there will be one million of the Klansmen in the Dominion, according to "His Excellency" Major L. L. Powell, Imperial Klazik of the Invisible Empire, who with other Klansmen has been organizing here for some time.

Although rumors of the activities of the Klan have been heard for several months, the first semi-public organization work commenced Friday night last, when about fifty men and ten women, residents of the city, met at the Imperial Palace, "Glenbrae," the old Tait residence at 1690 Matthews Avenue West, Shaughnessy Heights, in response to a special invitation sent out bearing the seal of the Klan.

The invitations themselves caused comment, and by many were taken as a hoax. However they proved to be official. Type-written on official Klan stationery in black and red type, they read as follows:

"Friday, October 30th, 1925, being the Fearful Day of the Weird Week, of the dreadful Month, of the year of Klan One, Canadian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, an informal reception will be held at the Imperial Palace, 1690 Matthews Avenue, West, at 8 p.m. All Genii, Dragons, Hydras, Great Titans and Furies; Giants, Exalted Cyclops, and Terrors will be present to meet, under the kindly light of the Fiery Cross which will illumine the Klavern."

"You are personally invited to attend. Upon presentation of this letter at the door, the holder will be conducted to the Aulic of the Imperial Klazik, who will be glad to give details as to the objects, ideals and purposes of the Canadian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

By His Excellency, L. L. POWELL, Imperial Klazik Invisible Empire, Canadian Knight of the Ku Klux Klan.

Those who obeyed the summons found the door guarded, and showing through the lighted panels were the hooded figures of two klansmen on duty inside. Once in the visitor was taken by the hand and registered, following which lectures as to the objects for which the Klan was formed were given by Major Powell, who hails from Portland, Oregon, and Dr. Keith K. Allen, of Los Angeles, whose card shows him to be a National lecturer for the Anti-Narcotic League of America with headquarters at 5839 La Mirada, Los Angeles.

One of the first objects striking the eyes of visitors was the fiery cross, which was erected inside near a flagpole from which the Union Jack was flying. On a table, also a flag draped, (continued on page two)

Mr. Jackson who is chairman of the Game Board of B.C., was appointed by the Provincial Government as special investigator in connection with the case. He was member for the Islands in the last Legislature being defeated by Col. C. W. Peck at the last election.

Robinson pleaded not guilty when charged in the Assize Court this morning with the abduction of Wong Foon Sing. The case is proceeding.

LEGISLATURE DEBATE OPENS

Pooley Attacks Government and Oliver Replies and Asks People to Judge

VICTORIA, Nov. 5.—Criticism that the Government as an administration had failed to provide anything more substantial than promises, unless it was taxation, was made in the Legislature Wednesday by Conservative leader Pooley during the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Mr. Pooley condemned the administration of justice as controlled through the Attorney General's department and declared public confidence had been shaken in the integrity of justice here.

In a vigorous reply Premier Oliver outlined the policy of the government generally and asked that the public be permitted to judge. Full particulars in regard to expenditures on the university will be given, Mr. Oliver stated.

Getting Into Wrong Heaven.

Lord Byron, according to the novelist, Mrs. Adams Beck, is credited with having remarked that he was a fool for having got into the wrong heaven where he had to consort with men and women whose tastes were different from his. He calls it an "ingenious hell."

Heaven is largely a matter of companionship. While climate and topography and relative fertility of the soil affect a person's life to some extent the real thing that affects him is the type of people he associates with. Tennyson makes one of his characters say, "I am a part of all that I live with."

Given congenial company and enough to eat and drink and wear and there is heaven. Given all the riches of the world and uncongenial company and there is hell.

Because of the fact that our friendships are the greatest factors in our lives, they are the last thing in the world we should neglect. We may let things slip in business, we may become careless in dress or speech or in any other small detail of life but to become careless of our real friends is fatal.

Guy Fawkes Day In History.

This is the Fifth of November, the day on which discovery was made of a plot to blow up the houses of parliament in England along with the King and his chief statesmen. The plot was discovered and as a result a great many lost their lives, the innocent with the guilty. It was supposed to be a Catholic plot against a Protestant king. As a result Protestants for many years celebrated the discovery of the plot by the setting off of fireworks, burning Guy Fawkes in effigy and other similar manifestations and special services were held in Protestant churches appropriate to the occasion.

The Gunpowder Plot was an incident in the political life of the times and had no special significance. It was political as well as religious. Today the young people know nothing of it, and it is well that they do not. In those days Catholics and Protestants were equally reckless. There was a religious hate pervading the atmosphere of the country which is wholly contrary to religious precept. Today we have largely forgotten that and we now recognize that it is the privilege of any person to worship in his own way or not to worship at all if he sees fit. The reign of freedom is not yet fully inaugurated but it is being ushered in and a few more generations of development should see religious oppression, either Catholic or Protestant or any other wholly removed.

Ku Klux Klan Not Wanted Here.

According to an article taken from a Vancouver newspaper and published in this paper today, a branch of the infamous Ku Klux Klan is being formed in Vancouver. The organization is one that in some parts of the United States has taken the law into its own hands and the result has been anything but beneficial to the development of the democratic spirit. Injustice is often done and the passions and prejudices of the people are aroused.

It is hardly reasonable to expect that the Klan will get much of a foothold in this country. It originated in the negro states for the purpose of protecting the white residents against the negroes who had just been freed from the bonds of slavery and who had had no training in self-government. It is not suited to a free people and should not be tolerated in Canada. Its introduction is bound to arouse ill-feeling.

and located at the foot of the cross was resting a drawn sword and an open Bible.

During the evening several autos from Bellingham arrived with American Klansmen, who gave the American salute to the flag, and then the Fascisti or old Roman salute, with extended arm, to the Klazik. Later the American Klansmen donned their robes and hoods.

Qualifications for membership in the Klan were explained to be of the white race, Gentile, a Protestant, good morals; reputations and vocations respectable; exemplary habits; sound minds, and an age limit of 18 years.

The order was described as "an institution of Chivalry, Humanity, Justice and Patriotism, embodying in its genius and principles all that is chivalrous in conduct, noble in sentiment, generous in manhood and patriotic in purpose."

From the lectures it was gathered that the Klan will be strongly anti-Oriental, and will make a special drive against drug traffickers.

Copies of an "Imperial Proclamation" to the "lovers of Law, Order, Peace and Justice of all Nations, Peoples, Tribes and Tongues of the whole earth," inviting all who could qualify to become citizens of the "Invisible Empire," were handed out, together with the Canadian Ku Klux Creed, which reads as follows:

"We, the order of the Canadian Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, most humbly and reverently acknowledge the majesty and supremacy of Almighty God, and do acknowledge His goodness and graciousness through Jesus Christ our Lord."

"Conscious of the glorious heritages which have come down through the ages to us who are of the Anglo-Saxon race, and appreciative of the proud position we hold among the nations of the world through the right which has been obtained for our noble land by the blood of her people, the unquestioned freedom and supremacy which fought and conquered."

"We shall ever devote our most valiant efforts in the defense of the ideals for which our glorious Empire has fought for and conquered."

"We recognize the distinction between the races of mankind as decreed by the Creator, and we shall ever be true to the maintenance of 'White Supremacy,' and strenuously oppose any compromise thereof."

"We avow ourselves steadfast in our respect for law and order, and shall ever strive to uphold these precepts as part of our creed."

"We pledge ourselves honorably in practical fraternal relationship among men of kindred thought, purposes and ideals, and appreciate the infinite benefits accruing therefrom."

"We shall faithfully devote ourselves to the practice of honorable clanishness that the life of each may be a constant blessing to others."

"Non Silba Sed Antha."

Another highly-worded document, headed "I am the Canadian Ku Klux Klan," says:

"I am the searchlight on a lofty tower."

"I run my relentless eye to and fro throughout the land; my piercing glance penetrates the brooding places of iniquity. I plant my eyes and ears in the whispering corridors of crime. Wherever men gather furtively together, there am I, an austere and Invisible presence. I am the Recording Angel's Proxy."

"When I invade the fetid dens of infamy there is a sudden scampering, as of rats forsaking a doomed ship. I am the haunting dread of the depraved, and the hated Nemesis of the vicious."

"When the Law is weak, then I am strong. When Justice stands impotent, and dumb, then do I speak with majesty and power. I am an outstretched arm to Society's unrequited victim—the swift avenger of Innocence despoiled."

"My voice is the sound of many waters. Sometimes it rises in mighty wrath until it muffles the thunders and roars of Niagara. Sometimes it sinks to the still, sad music of consolation and sympathy. Always and ever I speak for the sanctity of the home, for a stainless flag and for the preservation of these benign institutions of the free."

"Corrupt politicians, despoilers of the State, seek to quench my light and still my voice."

"I am a bulwark and bell-tower of Democracy. Within my realms Dives relinquishes his millions and Lazarus his rags. The poor man here is as rich as the richest, and the rich man as poor as the pauper. I know but one distinction, and that unsullied manhood."

"I am the burning beacon in the uplifted hand of Liberty. I am the sword and huckler of that mighty invisible Emperor of all free people—Justice."

"My symbols are the Fiery Cross and the scintillating, stainless flag."

"The foe of Vice, the friend of Innocence, the rod and staff of Law. I am the Canadian Ku Klux Klan."

To enquiries, Major Powell stated that the Klan already had a large membership, but that he could not divulge the names of any members, although they themselves were privileged to do this if they thought necessary.

During the evening, however, one speaker declared that "more than one of those elected on Thursday were members of the Klan," but did not say whether the words referred to local seats or not.

It was announced that a public meeting in the Hotel Vancouver ballroom would be held shortly, and that an open-air Konklave, at which the Fiery Cross would be raised, would also be held in Vancouver. A second Konklave, at which Canadian Knights will be invited, will also be held at Lynden, Washington, in the near future.

Application blanks handed out bore a pledge under which the applicant bound himself to a "strict and loyal obedience" at all times to the Klan, and to "willingly accept as my portion whatever penalty your authority may impose" if the signer proves "untrue as a Klansman."

Each application must be accompanied by the "required donation," which was stated to be $10.

CASEY WITHDRAWS HIS ACCUSATION AGAINST NEWTON

At the special meeting of the city council yesterday afternoon Ald. Casey stated that he wished to retract remarks made by him on Monday night to the effect that he had been overridden by the mayor and city treasurer with respect to city financial affairs. He said that he had made an investigation and had found that his accusation was unfounded, there having been a misunderstanding. In view of the circumstances he was desirous of apologizing.

Mayor Newton gracefully accepted Ald. Casey's explanation saying that misunderstandings were bound to occur and, as far as he was concerned, it was his desire at all times to keep the committees posted.

Ald. Casey's resignation as chairman of the finance committee which was based on his charges of Monday night has also been withdrawn.

GRAVE OF DONKEY BECOMES A SHRINE

Holy Dervish Receives Alms After Burying His Beast of Burden

A story used to be told by the ribald here of a certain dervish who, in the course of his pilgrimage to the Holy Cities, lost by death the donkey which had been presented to him by his sheik, says the London Times. The dervish buried the dead animal by the roadside, and then, declaring that a dead companion had been interred in the newly made grave, managed, little by little, to collect enough alms from pious travellers to set up a turbeh or mausoleum over the body and, of course, became himself, to his no small profit, the custodian of the shrine.

As the years went past this turbeh became a great resort of pilgrims. Wonderful miracles were accomplished at the shrine, and their fame reached even to the old sheik, who had never had any tidings of his disciple since he set forth on his pilgrimage to the Holy Cities. Filled then with pious curiosity, he finally decided to visit his colleague, and, after locking up his own turbeh, set out on his journey. Great was his joy when he recognized in the turbehji his former pupil, and when at last the two men were alone the old sheik inquired with much interest about the bones which reposed under the turbeh, as he had never heard of any saint who used to dwell in that neighborhood. The dervish was for a while covered with confusion, but finally confided to the sheik that the sole occupant of the turbeh was his donkey, which had died on the journey. To the relief of the younger man, the sheik did not appear to be greatly affected by this confession, and so, after a pause, the dervish ventured to inquire who was the saint whose bones reposed under his master's turbeh, and then learned for the first time that that building housed the mortal remains of the father of his own holy ass.

stages of development found his way to the surface, where he attained physical perfection. In the lowest form, in the caves of the earth, the legend depicted man as having neither eyes or a nose and strongly resembling Darwin's protoplasmic man, having dangling tentacles which afterwards evolved into arms and legs. Lacking ordinary means of communication, the creature used telepathy.

Later stages of evolution came when the two hero gods answered the prayer of this lowest form of man and gave him a grain of corn to plant. The grain grew through the ceiling of the cave, pushed through the three higher caves and reached the earth's surface. As the Indian followed the stalk of corn, he acquired speech, sight and smell and he gained the knowledge of good and evil.

In one of the caves a long tail became part of the man's body. He lost it when he attained the surface. The myth of the tail is interesting, as the Indians knew nothing of the monkey family.

PRESENTATION TO DR. GRANT

St. Andrew's Society Gives Retiring Chaplin Moose-hide Lamp Shade

Members of the St. Andrew's Society gathered in large numbers last evening to bid farewell to Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant, their chaplain for eleven years, who is about to leave the city.

The feature of the evening was the presentation to Dr. Grant of a beautiful burnt moose-hide lamp shade, the handwork of Morte H. Craig, Prince Rupert's artist. The presentation was made on behalf of the Society by S. D. Macdonald and the lamp bore the following text:

"As the years roll on Prince Rupert will naturally become a past event in your life and each day will grow a trifle more misty as newer and fresher experiences make their daily demands on your care and consideration. For this reason we have gathered here tonight to present to you a very novel address which cannot fail to constantly and persistently perpetuate a loving memory of loyalty and love of the friends who are leaving behind. We are going to miss you and we want to tell you that, on bidding farewell to you and your family, it is with the keenest regret and sorrow.

"Life membership in the St. Andrew's Society of Prince Rupert was conferred upon Rev. Dr. H. R. Grant on September 13, 1918."

Dr. Grant made a suitable reply to the presentation.

In the course of the evening there was a musical program to which Mrs. Jarvis H. McLeod, Mrs. William Millar, George Waddell, Miss Catherine Jones, John E. Davey, Alex. Clapperton and Bob James contributed with W. Vaughan Davies accompanying. There were also pipe selections by Piper Archie McIndowar. The evening closed with the customary Scottish farewell of singing "Auld Lang Syne."

George W. Abbott presided and the committee consisted of S. D. Macdonald, Howard Steen, Geo. W. Abbott and Archie Sinclair. Refreshments were served under a committee consisting of Mrs. G. W. Abbott, Mrs. J. R. Tancock and Mrs. Howard Steen.

INDIAN THEORY IS DISCLOSED

Curious Tale of Evolution of Man Written on Rocks 2,900 Years Ago

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 5.—The research of Dr. Jean Allard Jeancon, curator of archaeology for the Colorado museum, has disclosed that the North American Indians devised a theory of evolution which antedated that of Charles Darwin by some 3,900 years.

Written on rocks in symbolic language, which archaeologists have found in ruins, the Indian's legend of the creation and evolution of man was that he was born of Mother Earth in her innermost recesses and after four

INTEREST RATE SETTLED UPON

City Council at Special Meeting Decides to Pay 5 1/2 per cent on Debenture Issue

A recommendation from the finance committee that 5 1/2 per cent instead of six per cent interest be paid on a $90,000 issue of local improvement debentures that is about to be floated was adopted at a special meeting of the city council last evening. The recommendation was supported by a report from the city treasurer advising the change to 5 1/2 per cent interest on the ground that financial houses preferred to handle bonds bearing such interest, that the inspector of municipalities recommended it, that bonds bearing 5 1/2 per cent interest and discounted to 97 marketed more readily than 6 per cent bonds sold at 98 1/2 and that it would mean a saving of something like $1,000 for the city on the 5 1/2 per cent basis. There was also a telegram from the inspector of municipalities reiterating his opinion that 5 1/2 per cent interest was preferable at this time to six per cent.

McLEOD VS. CITY CASE IS SETTLED

Action Will Not Go to Court—Council Accepts Suggestion Made by City Solicitor

The city council yesterday afternoon, on motion of Ald. McLeod, seconded by Ald. McKechnie, decided to accept a proposal whereby the case of M. H. McLeod vs. the City of Prince Rupert will be settled out of court. City Solicitor E. F. Jones advised the council that L. W. Patmore, counsel for Mr. McLeod, was willing to abandon the case provided there were no costs. Mr. Jones advised that the case be so disposed of and the council acted on the advice. Mr. McLeod was suing the city for $2,850.00 for a balance claimed by him under a plank road repair contract.

NOVEL BASED ON LIFE OF LORD BYRON

Interesting Insight Into Career of Famous Poet Given by Mrs. Adams Beck

Glorious Apollo, the new book by E. Barrington, is a fictional story of the life of Lord Byron. In some respects it is a horrible story in that it traces the gradual downfall of the great poet. In that respect it resembles the famous boy's story, "Eric or Little by Little."

The foibles and fancies of the poet are described in some detail and yet with a touch that eliminates much of their grossness. It gives the inspiration for his various poems and all woven together makes a novel that is intensely interesting even if at times slightly disgusting.

There is nothing in the book that appeals to the sensuous but rather it makes the reader condemn the grossness and sympathize with the virtuous wife, and even with the victims of the man.

Fascinating Period

E. Barrington, whose real name is Mrs. Adams Beck of Victoria, B.C., has a brilliant touch. She is a student of history of the Elizabethan and later periods and she often lectures on subjects dealing with the fascinating periods. She studied all the historical evidence in regard to the life of Byron and the story, while fiction, is based as far as possible on documentary evidence, and the pictures of the life and times are intensely interesting.

In telling of the life of the young Byron after he has gone in for a period of physical culture, the author has the hero say that he was formerly sluggish, his brain was as thick as his body, he couldn't write. As a result of his training he was able to think and think brilliantly. It also improved his physical appearance so that he is described as beautiful. "So beautiful a countenance I never saw—his eyes are the open portals of the sun, things of light for light," says Sir Walter Scott, in writing of him.

Beautiful Man

Perfection, Dallas thought. The close-curl'd auburn hair, the hazel grey eyes, clear as water in the gloom of black lashes, the firm and beautiful curves of the sensuous mouth, the full under-lip pressed strongly against the bow of the upper, the clean and noble line of the jaw from ear to chin, chiselled as by hand of a mighty sculptor and curving into the perfect cleft and the strong uplifted chin. Yes, perfection. And to crown all, the strangely beautiful pallor of the skin, as though lit from within by some suffused light, illuminating the face by the spirit, stary against a cloud. The wand of the enchanter had touched him, or rather he himself had become the enchanter.

Opinion of Women

Byron is known best because of his relations with women. He was a rake, or at any rate he became one as he grew older. In a number of places he gives his opinion of women. He said there is a "deep-sunk instinct in the female breast that teaches her to long for conquest, not only over the man but also over all the other women who have desired him."

Two Selves

When argued with as to his conduct with women he agreed, and says he realizes he has two selves, one contemplative and calm as a Greek sage and the other when he plays his part in the drama of life perfectly, heedless of the consequences, though he knew the wickedness and madness of it all. "Some irresistible power drives me like a leaf before the wind. Is it madness? What is it?"

Choice of Wife

After a long season of dissipation Byron felt he ought to marry. When it was suggested to him by an elderly lady friend he answered:

COLLEYMOUNT GAVE BUSHBY MAJORITY

With Aiyansh and Telegraph Greek to Hear from, Majority for Stork is 721

Fred Stork's majority over George Bushby in the Skeena riding federal election contest now stands at 722. With Aiyansh and Telegraph Greek the only polls yet to report, the total vote for the three candidates is as follows: Bushby, 2945; Nickerson, 749; Stork, 3667.

The results of the polls at Colleymount and Namu was received yesterday afternoon. They were as follows:

KEEP OUT of the Puddles

COURTLY Sir Walter Raleigh—cynic savant and first-class fighting man—desired a favor from good Queen Bess. A puddle in the queen's path made his opportunity. Across it he flung his costly cloak. Her majesty, smiling at his devotion, trod on, dry shod, and Sir Walter's unique self-advertising produced results.

Though most advertising is less spectacular to-day, it is far more serviceable. It smooths out the every-day pathways of each one of us.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once would have been worth a king's ransom are yours at little cost. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, manufacturer against manufacturer. This competition brings out the best there is in everything for your personal benefit.

You wouldn't know about many boons of modern life were it not for advertising. That is why you are not taking full advantage of the better things in life to-day if you overlook ADVERTISEMENTS.

Read advertising and keep abreast of the times

"Certainly, I used not to think so, but now I feel that all men who can should marry. One might respect a wife; with other women it is impossible. But esteem, I could esteem a good woman, beautiful, yet not so beautiful as to attract others. Intelligent enough to be able to appreciate her husband, but not to shine herself. Refined in thought and manner, chaste as ice, dignified, a worthy mother of children, a man might value. In fact I think this is the only solid happiness a man can anticipate in any relation with women."

SPORT CHAT

With three wins and no losses, the St. Andrew's team is now leading in the Fraternal Whist League with the Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias and Moose runners-up with two wins and one loss each. The following teams will meet tonight: Elks vs. Sons of England; Knights of Columbus vs. Great War Veterans; Oddfellows vs. Knights of Pythias; Sons of Canada vs. St. Andrew's; Moose vs. Loyal Orange Lodge.

Cold Storage and the Prince Rupert Fish Co., will meet in tonight's second division billiard league fixture. The former team is now in second place in the league standing with the other fisheries concern in the cellar. The Cold Storage has no chance on this occasion of ousting the Billiard Parlor from first place but the Prince Rupert Fish Co., which made a rather poor showing in its first game, has the chance to clear itself from the low position and relegate the War Veterans thereto.

The Western Hockey League schedule will open on November 23 when Portland will play at Vancouver. These two teams will play at Portland on Nov. 25, and Saskatoon will play at Victoria on Nov. 28, going to Vancouver on November 30. Calgary will play its first game at Portland on December 3 and Edmonton will open at Saskatoon on December 10. The season, which contains a greater number of games than ever before, will close on March 9. The circuit this year contains the six teams—Portland, Vancouver, Saskatoon, Victoria, Edmonton and Calgary.

POSED AS HERO WAS MURDERER

Count von Walges, Protege of the Ex-Kaiser, Turns Out to be Notorious Jaenicke

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Given a special audience at Doorn by the exiled ex-kaiser as one who had suffered much for the House of Hohenzollern at the hands of the French invaders, "Count von Walges" turns out to be none other than the notorious Jaenicke, ex-potter, murderer, escaped lunatic and cunning despoiler of trusting women.

For the past six years the "count" has been travelling through Germany, Austria, and Holland, receiving marks of popular sympathy and being honored by German and Austrian notabilities for his devotion to the cause of the fallen Hohenzollerns.

His tale was that he and his countess were faithful German residents in Alsace-Lorraine, who had been forced to submit to French rule when the lost provinces were taken over by France. One day one of the black troops in the French army attacked the countess, and the angry husband killed the aggressor on the spot. For this he and his family were expelled from French territory, and their goods and property confiscated.

Received as Hero

His first act on reaching German soil was to raise a body of expatriated Alsacians to work for restoration of the provinces to Germany, and in that role he was received as a national hero in Germany. The tale of his sufferings reached Doorn, and the ex-kaiser signified a wish to receive the "hero" who had refused to submit to the black shame in the reoccupied territory.

The count was received as the guest of the head of the House of Hohenzollern, and they spent many hours together discussing the supposed infamies of French rule in the occupied territories.

On the initiative of a prince of the Prussian imperial house public subscriptions were raised for the count to mark popular appreciation of his sacrifices for the fatherland, and von Walges moved about from mansion to mansion of the nobility, being received everywhere as a national hero for whom no honor could be too great.

Behind Prison Bars

A few weeks ago something happened to cause both the French and the Berlin police to make inquiries into the past of the "Hero Count of Thionville," as he had come to be known, and it was ascertained that von Walges and Jaenicke were one, and the same man, with the result that the "hero and martyr" is now once more behind prison bars in Berlin.

Twenty-five years ago Jaenicke, who was a potter, began to dabble in spiritualism. This brought him into contact with a young dressmaker named Louisa Bergner, whom he poisoned in order to secure her property. He was sentenced to death but, while waiting for execution, he developed symptoms of madness, and was removed to a lunatic asylum, where he remained until political troubles in Germany in 1918, enabled him to escape while a Communist mob was raiding the asylum.

It was shortly after this that he turned up in Germany as the "hero," moving about to receive recognition for his "heroism." He made the acquaintance of a lady who was a countess in her own right. He assumed the rank of count, and took over the care of the children of the countess as well as the family estates.

Until the police inquiries revealed the facts of his past, Jaenicke was one of the leaders of the monarchist party in Germany, and he was recognized as one of the mediums for direct communication between the ex-kaiser and his sympathizers.

PUNISH PARENT NOT CHILDREN

Visitor From Canada to Russia Sees Great Changes in That Country

HAFKORD, Sask., Nov. 5.—Despite the eight-year rule of the Soviets, conditions in Russia are very unsettled today, according to M. Voloshin, a newcomer from Soviet Ukraine and a graduate of one of the Soviet high schools.

Personal property, he says, is still rather insecure on account of depredations of bandits and thieves, while the government is almost entirely under the control of the communists, the vast number of whom, according to Mr. Voloshin are youths.

The village life, he said, is entirely different to what it used to be. Instead of a "starosta" or overseer, the village now is ruled by a society. In the community there are various political organizations, chiefly pro-communistic and which exercise a powerful influence over the populace. There are the committees of small land owners and the "pioneers" both bodies operating as a kind of elementary school of training. To become a full-fledged Communist, a youth must have served his apprenticeship in either of these junior parties.

These two political organizations, Mr. Voloshin asserted, are all-powerful in the villages and cities and although they are independent of the government, exercise a strong influence there.

Teachers' Position

Instruction in the schools is now given in both Ukrainian and Russian. These languages are used for extensive Communist propaganda. Punishment of pupils in or out of school is prohibited by law, but the teacher or parent can be punished upon the child's own complaint.

A good crop this year, and a recent edict bringing about a drastic tax reduction, Mr. Voloshin said, has greatly strengthened the morale of the peasants generally, but farming methods in Russia, he intimated, were very antiquated when compared with those he had already observed in Canada.

JAPANESE LAND GREAT BRITAIN

Fly by Way of Siberia and Russia and One Makes Bad Landing on Arrival

The four Japanese airmen who have been flying from Tokyo by way of Siberia and Russia reached England on Monday after dark and were entertained at a somewhat delayed dinner at the Japanese Embassy in the evening, says the London Times.

The last stages of the journey were attended by a distinct spice of adventure and some risk, owing to the late hour at which they left French soil to cross the Channel. In the gathering dusk and mist they mistook their direction, and, instead of arriving at about 5.30 at Croydon, where a large gathering of official representatives of the Air Ministry and of British aviation were awaiting them, they landed at Farnborough, where one of the machines turned on its nose in some rough ground, though fortunately without injury to the occupants.

Major Abe, who is accompanied by Mechanician Shinowara, landed safely on the large aerodrome of the Royal Aircraft Establishment, but his companion, Mr. Kawachi, with his mechanic, Katagiri, had to land in a small rough field. The propeller was smashed, but otherwise no damage was done, and Captain F. T. Courtney, who happened to be testing a machine at Farnborough, saw the mishap and at once motored out to the field. Then, on learning that the visitors were due at the Japanese Embassy at 8, promptly offered to motor the party up town, and by this means they were able to join their compatriots and other guests at the Japanese Ambassador's residence in Grosvenor square at 9 o'clock.

Major Abe's Story

Later Major Abe gave an explanation of their misadventure, and it is evident that considerable good fortune had attended them, for they had no idea when

NATIONAL VIEWPOINT IS MOST DESIRABLE

(Vancouver Province)

If Canada is to become a nation in reality as she is in name, she must learn to think as a nation and act as a nation, and this means that her politicians, her newspapers and her people must cultivate the national viewpoint, must put national interests first and refuse to allow them to be obscured by provincial, parochial or party matters that only seem to be more important because they are close at hand. They must, above all, cease their search for reasons why we should pull apart, and concentrate their minds on the effort to find reasons why we should drive in the same direction to the same common end.
