ADOPTS GOVERNMENT UNIVERSITY POLICY

DR. WRINCH OF HAZELTON ADDRESSES LEGISLATURE URGING DEVELOPMENT

Government Sustained After Keen Opposition University Loan Bill

VICTORIA, Dec. 9.—By a vote of 28 to 19 the Provincial Government was backed up by the Legislature in having continued the work at Point Grey after the money provided had been spent. Authorization was granted last night for the spending of over a million dollars on construction of university buildings now being used by students, but a vigorous opposition was put up by the Conservative opposition.

The vote was taken on the second reading of the University Loan Act amending measure. In addition to the straight Liberals voting for the measure were Greery, provincial; Burde, independent; Neelands and Browne, Labor, while opposing was Tom Uphill, labor, of Fernie.

This was one of the most contentious measures of the session and the Government majority of nine proved very satisfactory to Premier Oliver and his cabinet, who ran the risk of a reprimand, which would have resulted in their resignation, in order to carry on the work so that the buildings might be used this year.

Dr. H. C. Wrinch of Hazelton Praises Government Policy and Deprecates Blue Ruin Talk

VICTORIA, Dec. 9.—Members of the executive council of British Columbia are not only honest and honorable men, but they are remarkably able, the departments over which they have control are being handled with the highest degree of efficiency, a fact he had found out from personal dealings on behalf of his constituency, Dr. H. C. Wrinch, of Skeena, informed the Legislature. His tribute was paid at the conclusion of an able address, in which he appealed to capitalists of Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland to take some of their money out of bonds and put it to work in the many promising opportunities offered in the North Country.

Deprecating the "blue ruin" proclivities of opposition speakers, which he said were calculated to have a depressing effect on industry and prospective investors, Dr. Wrinch picked up random copies of newspapers left on his desk during the day and proceeded to read out item after item to show that the mining, shingle and pulp industries were all making great strides, and that millions of dollars were being poured into the country.

"Blue Ruin" False

"A quite casual perusal of the papers will convince anyone that conditions are not as the opposition members would have us believe, but that on the contrary British Columbia is facing a period of great prosperity," he said. "Last year these same speakers told us that the government's timber policy would ruin the industry, but in this paper I see where one concern alone, one of the richest on the continent, has just concluded a deal to put $15,000,000 into a pulp mill. Does that look as if capital is afraid to come into this province and invest?"

He read several other items along similar lines and then pointed out that in his own constituency there were plenty of opportunities for capital. Many properties already passed the prospect stage only wanted capital to develop their high grade ores and he asked coast capitalists to remember this and give the men now developing the north the encouragement of supporting them.

Farm Policy Praised

Agricultural development in the Nechako and Bulkley Valleys and other fertile districts of the north was also stressed by Dr. Wrinch, who was warm in his praise of the department of agriculture for its work in this connection.

Dealing with the University of British Columbia, Dr. Wrinch praised the government's action in continuing the work, stating that if building operations had not been carried on hundreds of students would have been thrown out in their studies. He pointed out that no matter what pursuit in life was followed, a university education was always an asset, and said that the C.P.R. and other big organizations realized this and were today offering university scholarships to their younger employees so that they could get the training necessary to give them an opportunity of becoming leaders in their various lines of activity.

These constitute all the appointments to be made until news of grain shipments coming through the plant is received. The staff will be added to when it is learned that grain is coming to the plant. Word along these lines is expected in the near future from R. Hetherington, general manager of government grain elevators, who went south on the Cardena last night to visit Calgary and Winnipeg for the purpose of starting negotiations for the movement of grain this way.

Position Regard To Government Elevators.

The Dominion Government owns a number of elevators in different parts of the country and most of these are operated by them in charge of a general manager with a local superintendent at each. It is the business of these officials to make the conduct of the elevators a success.

The Dominion Government, as such, does not work for or against any port. It has to treat each fairly. It cannot urge prairie farmers to ship through Prince Rupert instead of through Vancouver or Fort William. To do so would not be conducive to good government. That must be plain to everyone. They own the elevator at Vancouver although it is not operated by them but by the Board of Harbor Commissioners of Vancouver.

While the government has to be neutral on all matters where it is a case of competition between rival ports, it is the work of the officials in charge of the elevators to make them pay, just as it is the work of the harbor commission at Vancouver to make that elevator pay. To do this they must go out after business. They do not want to have the big house lying idle and be compelled to report at the end of the year that they have done no business and have no returns on the investment.

Preparations For Disarmament Conference.

Another disarmament conference is in the offing. The League of Nations has invited United States, Germany and Russia to join a special commission to prepare for a possible gathering in the near future. Without either of those countries a conference could not be a complete success.

The Russian Government under the old regime was the first to call such a conference. That was years ago and it was almost immediately followed by the war between Russia and Japan. Since that, other attempts to do something tangible have been made, the naval restrictions formulated at Washington being the most important.

If the League of Nations can initiate a policy which will result in stopping competition in armaments with a view to permanent peace it will be a great forward step. Each move made helps to instill the peace idea into the people of the nations concerned, but it will take many years, possibly generations, to bring about a condition under which war is not a grave danger.

Bank Manager And Present Outlook.

The head of Canada's greatest bank says the trend of business is slowly and surely upward. Not being a politician he gives his candid unbiased opinion and it is an encouraging one. Sir Vincent Meredith is in the habit of looking at facts and figures and studying conditions. It is part of his business. As head of a huge financial institution he gets conservative reports from all parts of Canada and these are summarized by specialists. He also is able to compare with other places. When he says conditions are improving, they are. He knows.

PASSING AWAY OF OLD J.R.

Lumber King of Ottawa Sold Railways For Fourteen Million Dollars

The late John R. Booth, Canada's "Lumber King," whose death occurred at Ottawa yesterday afternoon at the age of 98, was probably Canada's wealthiest citizen. In any case, he was one of the Dominion's most successful business men and, despite his advanced years, a rugged physique made it possible for him to take an active personal interest in affairs practically until the end.

The late Mr. Booth was a pioneer citizen of Ottawa, settling there in 1857. He commenced his industrial career at the bottom in that year by renting a small shingle mill on the banks of the Ottawa River near the Chaudiere Falls. From this modest start, Mr. Booth has gradually increased the size of plant until today it stands as one of the largest of its kind in the world. Pulp and paper have been added to the industry of the mills and more than 2,000 employees are engaged in the manufacture of its products.

Although Mr. Booth was chiefly known as a lumberman he was also a builder of railways. He constructed the Canada Atlantic and Parry Sound Railways, now a part of the Grand Trunk Railway system but he disposed of these holdings in 1904, to the G.T.R. for $14,000,000.

Generous to City

"Old J.R." as the late Mr. Booth was generally known in Ottawa and to his associates throughout the country has been a prominent figure in Ottawa from its birth. He was particularly generous to the city and in the earlier days when public money was not so plentiful contributed largely towards the construction of utilities.

He was not a politician, but it is said, that on one occasion he did extend himself in this direction. This was in 1911, when, opposed to the proposed Taft-Fielding pact, he addressed a large gathering of his employees from the top of a wood pile in the Booth lumber yards. To these woodpile speeches the government attributed in no small measure, its defeat in Ottawa.

It is told of John R. Booth that at one time upon his visit to Canada King George V. was his guest on a crib of square timber on its journey through the lumber sluices at Ottawa, and that he tendered His Majesty a real shanty dinner of "pork and beans."

Born in 1827

Born at Waterloo, Quebec, on April 5, 1827, Mr. Booth was educated in the public schools at that place and worked on his father's farm until of age, when he hired as a carpenter on the Central Vermont Railway.

In 1857 he came to Ottawa and from a modest start he has erected the mammoth industry which now bears his name.

He was a director of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, president of the Dominion Nickel and Copper Company, and a director of the Canada Cement Company.

The late J. R. Booth is survived by two sons, Jackson C. and John Frederick Booth, both of whom are connected with the Booth plant, and one daughter, Mrs. A. W. Fleck of Ottawa.

The late Mr. Booth was a close friend of Ex-Mayor H. B. Rochester of this city and the families for years were neighbors in Ottawa. Mr. Rochester communicated with Mr. Booth regularly.

Milburn's LAXA-LIVER PILLS

FENCING AS MEANS OF KEEPING SLENDER

LONDON, Dec. 9.—American women opposed to excess flesh and in search of means to retain an attractive figure might follow the example of those English women who believe fencing keeps them graceful and slender as well as healthy.

The Professional Women's Physical Culture Club, just organized here, made fencing one of the principal exercises. The idea is not to develop the Amazonian type of woman, with bulging muscles and large wrists and ankles, but to ensure the health and figure of women who have to remain most of the day in a sitting position.

J. P. Forde, district engineer of the federal department of public works, and his assistant, Capt. H. Peters, returned to Victoria on the Cardena last night after having made surveys and soundings of the site at Cow Bay on which it is proposed to install floats for the mosquito fleet. On leaving, Mr. Forde expressed satisfaction as a result of his visit and hope that the work would be proceeded with next year.

GROUP GOVERNMENT IN FRANCE DEMORALIZING

Criticism of Method Which Results in Lack of Stability for Country

(Vancouver Sun)

If Canadian third party enthusiasts are given to moralizing, they can find a wonderful object lesson in France's predicament today.

The French Chamber of Deputies contains representatives of nine parties—Republicans of the Left, Progressives, Socialist Radicals, Action Liberale, Unified Socialists, Radicals, Conservatives, Republican Socialists and Dissident Socialists.

The result is that French politics is simply a compromise affair, so busily engaged in handling out favors to factions that it has no time to govern the country. And the various parties have become so numerous that, since no cabinet can please everybody, a ministry does well to last two months.

If there were nine correct ways of governing a country or of solving national problems there might be some justification for the French situation. But the truth is that there is only one correct way of governing a country. And that is according to the laws of economics.

Political hair-splitting is the most dangerous pastime a public can engage in. When political theorizing comes in, political idealism goes out. When selfish factionalism gets into a parliament, good government is gone for ever.

MIKE MANSON AND HIS PARTY

Conservative Leaves Behind Old Tactics and Praises Liberal Policies.

Opposition members got a shock Thursday when Michael Manson of Mackenzie, a stalwart old-line Tory, departed from the policy followed by other members of the opposition during the debates this season, says W. A. DeGraves in the Vancouver Star. He openly acknowledged the government's road policy, was wisely conceived and ably carried out, and the handling of the forestry industry was not only all that could be desired, but that it was being handled in the only common-sense business-like way possible.

Mr. Manson not only took up the cudgels for the government, but in taking them up he rapped some of his colleagues across the knuckles when he referred to their utterances in the House and asked "What is the good of talking such nonsensical stuff as that?"

In the corridors as Mr. Manson was speaking, several of his colleagues voiced their opinions. "If that's a Conservative speech I'm a supporter of the Government," said Rolf Bruhn, of Salmon Arm. Other Conservative members also thought that, for an opposition speaker, Mr. Manson was a wonderful aid to the government, but they soothed themselves with the consolation that when it came to a vote Mr. Manson would be found heaving his leader.

Mr. Manson was frankly eulogistic of the minister of public works and the manner in which government work was carried out in the Mackenzie district.

NEW BOOK OUT RALPH CONNOR

"Treading the Winepress" is His Latest Novel Just Published

A very large reading public will welcome the announcement of a new book by Ralph Connor, for ever since the days of "The Sky Pilot" he has been a favorite author with thousands, particularly in his native Canada. His new book, "Treading the Winepress," is a most interesting one, with plenty of action and thrill, an appealing love story and a touch of seriousness throughout that will give the careful reader pause to think. In spite of its Biblical title, however, it is not in any sense an "uplift" book. Nor is it a war story, though its action covers that period.

The really surprising part about this author is how much he packs into a story, and this latest work is no exception. It presents a group of very real characters, and a fund of rapidly moving events that hold the attention from beginning to end.

The story opens in a little Nova Scotia fishing village, and much of the action takes place there. The quaint folk of that vicinity are the principal characters. Tony Mackinroy, the handsome cultured son of a marvellous father who has been a fisherman, sailor and naval officer in his day, is the central figure. To this quiet village comes a party of American tourists, young ladies and gentlemen, and during their stay their yacht is wrecked and of course Tony goes to the rescue. He falls in love with Dina, one of the girls of the party and she with him, but it is not till the outbreak of war makes separation imminent that either of them speaks.

Tony does special service during the war, in charge of his own gunboat. The war section of the book is comparatively short, though its influence is felt through the whole story, but the surprising twist that is given to the whole chain of events. A big powerful theme has been handled in a most sincere and convincing way.

CANNOT DISMISS SCHOOL TEACHERS ILLEGAL MANNER

Action Brought Against Board of School Trustees Results in Damages and Costs

EDMONTON, Dec. 8.—Affecting the teaching profession and all school boards of the province as being the first judicial interpretation of the new form of contract between teachers and school boards, as approved by the minister of education, under the School Act, a judgment has been handed down by his honor Judge Lees at Wetaskiwin. The judgment is from the action brought by Melville E. McGregor, a high school teacher of High River against the Black Mud school district of Millet for damages for illegal, wrongful dismissal. In the result the plaintiff is given judgment for $90 and full costs of the action.

McGregor claimed that the school board did not hold a meeting for the purpose of giving him the privilege of attending to hear the board's reasons for proposing to terminate the contract, but merely sent him a letter notifying him that 30 days from date his contract would be terminated. He quit teaching on February 20, a Friday, but returning on the Monday was prevented from going on with his duties. He secured another position three weeks later and sued for loss of salary and cost of moving.

The defence was that there was no contract of hiring inasmuch as no resolution authorizing the board to enter into the contract had been passed.

BILLIARD PARLOR TAKES LEADERSHIP

Interesting First Division Billiard Tournament was Played Last Evening

The Prince Rupert Billiard Parlor made a good showing in last night's first division billiard tournament by winning four of the five games and defeating the Great War Veterans by an aggregate score of 1215 to 1083. The victory puts the Billiard Parlor ahead of the Vets in the league standing by a margin of five points so the two teams will start the second half of the season after the New Year almost on even terms. Neither George McIlmoyle, regular first man for the Billiard Parlor, nor Col. McMordeie, first man for the Vets, participated in the tournament.

The individual scores were as follows:

SPORT CHAT

Young Jack Dempsey, Tacoma light heavyweight, won a decision over Harry Dillon of Winnipeg after a fast six round bout in Tacoma last week. Dempsey floored Dillon with a left hook to the chin in the last round after wearing the Canadian down with body punches in the earlier rounds.

Vic Foley, Vancouver bantamweight boxer, who is now in Toronto preparing for his title bout with Bobby Eber on Friday of this week, has been officially recognized by the Ontario Boxing Commission as "the only legitimate champion of any division in Canada."

The leading amateur football clubs of the Old Country have been thrown into consternation by the sudden demand for income tax payments on the clubs' operations of the past five years. The authorities have refused to make allowances even for capital expended on ground improvements. An instance of the burdens on the clubs is that St. Albans will be required to pay $5,400.

Business, Pleasure and Cooking

Mrs. H. lived on a boat all summer. She and her husband combined his business with a tour of the whole coast. She missed fresh milk at first, but after making hot cakes with Pacific Milk the third morning out, she discovered that canned milk made them better. From then on "it was one thing after another until I have come to believe that Pacific Milk is a necessity for good cooking and I use it at home for everything now."

WHY AMERICANS MAKE SUCCESS OF INDUSTRIES

Mission From England to United States Reports Back Its Findings

LABOR AND PROHIBITION

People in States Think Britain Down and Out and This Much Harm

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Education, labor conditions, restriction of emigration, co-operation between capital and labor and prohibition are given among the reasons for the efficiency of American production, according to a report of the mission sent to that country by the federation of British Industries. The summarized report follows:

The Report

1. The spread of education, both general and technical. There is no doubt that the general level of technical education today in the United States is extremely high, and ample facilities are available for anyone wishing to increase his efficiency by technical study. As showing the great increase in the spread of higher education it is significant to note that there are now 500,000 University students, as compared with 200,000 students ten years ago.

2. The labor situation. The salient points about the labor situation are: (a) Restriction of immigration. (b) High wages. (c) Unrestricted output and the utilization of labor-saving devices. (d) The satisfactory relations between employers and employees.

The restriction of emigration is based on political and economic grounds. "The economic reason is based upon a firm determination to maintain present high standard of living in the United States, and is intimately connected with the question of high wages and unrestricted output. The American employer believes in high wages, and he pays them. But he also believes in high output, and he sees that he gets it. In view of the shrinkage in the stream of immigration, and therefore more particularly of the pool of unskilled labor, it is becoming more and more important for labor-saving devices to be used to the greatest possible extent.

The Slight Cold Of To-day May Be Serious To-morrow

On the first appearance of a cough or cold, do not neglect it, but get rid of it at once before it has a chance to grow worse and becomes settled on the lungs, for once it does become deep-seated you are going to have a lot of trouble in getting rid of it.

Our advice to you is that on the first sign of a cough or cold you should procure a bottle of as by its timely use you may save yourself many years of suffering from some serious bronchial or lung troubles. "Dr. Wood's" has been on the market for the past 37 years; so you are not experimenting with some new and untried remedy; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

more important for labor-saving devices to be used to the greatest possible extent.

Co-operation

"In the United States co-operation between capital and labor seems possible, and the fatal doctrine that there is a necessary conflict of interests does not prevail. Moreover, there has been a widespread development of the system of interesting employees in the stock of the Corporation for which they are working. For instance, the Standard Oil Company allow each employee of whatever grade to put one-fifth of his salary or wages into Standard Oil stock, and the company adds 50 cents for every dollar so subscribed. There is a spirit abroad in the States which is sometimes referred to as the 'new leadership,' and it is a spirit of co-operation, of initiative, and of a 'square deal' on both sides. This spirit alone goes far to explain the amazing increase in the efficiency of American production.

Prohibition and Industry

"One cannot leave an examination of the causes of American efficiency without mentioning the question of prohibition, although we are aware that this is debatable ground. As to the merits or otherwise of prohibition we do not desire to express any opinion, but we must record that several of the most prominent business leaders in America stated that, in their opinion, prohibition had been a considerable influence towards greater industrial efficiency. It is only fair to add that many of them qualified this statement by saying that maybe the price paid was too high, and that the social evils and the open contempt of the law, which have been evident since prohibition, may in the long run outweigh the purely material advantages to which it has contributed.

"There is no doubt that as time goes on the United States will become increasingly a factor in world trade, and we shall meet with increasingly severe competition from her.

Opinion of Great Britain

"We would draw special attention," says the Commission, "to a matter which reveals an extremely grave situation. In the United States, even in the most friendly disposed quarters, the general impression seems to be that England is definitely 'down and out.' All our difficulties are exaggerated, and the progress we have made towards reconstruction ignored. One hears that our plants are out of date, our methods antiquated; we cannot compete, our spirit of initiative has deserted us, and the British workman neither can nor will work. Not one man in a hundred realizes that the Unemployment Insurance scheme is a contributory system. They practically all regard it as a purely pauperising scheme of government assistance. Not only is this doing the prestige of Great Britain infinite harm, it is also losing us business, and of that we have definite proof.

Optimist

"The American is an optimist, and he does not understand our national habit of self-depreciation, with the result that he takes all the pessimistic talk he hears as being the literal truth. We would most earnestly urge that some concerted steps should be taken to bring the true facts of the case before the American public. If the F.B.I. were to take the initiative in the work of making known the real facts of the situation to the American public they would be performing a great service for British trade and British prestige in America."

PAT DALY IS EITHER LUCKY OR HE KNOWS

Found Ore in Big Missouri Much Same Way he Located it in Premier

AFFINITY FOR GOLD.

Effect of Strike will be to Encourage Capital to Invest in Mines

STEWART, Dec. 9.—Whether it is just luck, good management, knowledge of geological laws or a natural affinity for gold that guides Pat Daly to the place where the rich ore is to be found no one seems to know, but that he finds the ore is made clear in his repeating the history of the Premier at the property known as the Big Missouri.

Many mining men had tried to find the ore at this property without result sufficient to warrant the carrying on of extensive development and the installation of a transportation system. The mine is far back in the hills, and it will be a difficult matter to get the ore to tidewater. Veins that might be worked profitably if located along the shore line or close to a good road could not be worked at the Big Missouri.

Many Tried Before

Numbers of people tried to locate the ore by running tunnels and using the diamond drill. All abandoned their options after spending a good deal of money. Then came the mining wizard, Pat Daly, who persuaded the Standard Mines Corporation to put enough money to carry on exploration work and to put him in charge.

Daly did not go blindly to work. He and his assistant, P. E. Peterson, a mining engineer, made a thorough examination of the surface and studied all the workings. Then he put a gang of men to drive a tunnel running off one that had been driven by the Sir Donald Mann engineers. Within ten feet he broke into a great body of ore, 24 feet wide, and drifting in this is still continuing with a view to deciding that it is not a mere pot of ore but a real mine.

Will Ship Ore Soon

Pat has succeeded and he is in the south telling his principals about what he has done and consulting as to the future work to be undertaken. It looks as if in the near future the Big Missouri will be running ore down to tidewater as steadily as is the Premier today.

The effect of the discovery of this ore at the Big Missouri is one more step in the development of the mining camp. Interest had recently been diverted chiefly to the Bear River, but this turns it back once more to the Salmon River, on which the Big Missouri is located. It will encourage others to spend more money on their claims and will give outside investors more confidence in the camp.

IRISH AND ESKIMOS.

Editor Daily News.

A German professor has lately fathered the theory that the Irish are descendants of the Eskimo, and has thereby increased the gaiety of the nations, for many of the merry quip has been launched at the learned professors' head, and he is told he is lucky that he does not reside in Ireland.

Now our German friend is no doubt a close and painstaking observer, and honestly thinks he has found points of resemblance between the two races physically and mentally, a few words that sound alike in both languages, and the similar habit of both people in constructing skin covered boats. But the professor, like the other Duchman who evolved the missing link out of his inner consciousness, has apparently drawn his conclusions backwards. If he said the Eskimo was partly descended from the Irish he might be more in accord with the truth.

Anchorite Responsible

During the early centuries of the Christian era Irish anchorites in their "passion for solitude" found their way to the Hebrides, Orkneys, Shetlands, Feroes, and Iceland, but they were not interested in coloniza-

BRITISH JAILS NOT VERY FULL

New Methods of Treatment of Criminals Results in Fewer Jail Birds

LONDON, Dec. 9.—Probationary methods for adults and the "Borstal" treatment for young people have been responsible for a marked decrease in the population of British prisons. So much so that more than 20 jails in England and Wales, or one-third of the total, have been closed since 1914. There are now only about 40 prisons in use throughout the country and these are not fully occupied.

A Home Office official says that fewer and fewer people are being committed to prison because the tendency now is to reform a man or woman if it be at all possible. The increased use of probationary methods has worked well and in the opinion of the official the time is not far distant when prisons will be used only for habitual criminals with whom all attempts at reform have failed.

During the first few years of this century approximately 500 out of every 100,000 of the population were sent to prison each year. Today the percentage is just over 100 in the 100,000. The greatest drop has been in convictions for drunkenness and similar offences.

MAY ABOLISH DEATH DUTIES

London Chronicle Comments on Proposal Made Recently for This Province

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The Daily Chronicle published the following in a recent issue: "Some people will be green with envy of the movement in British Columbia to secure recognition of the province as the most comfortable place for millionaires to live in. It is to be done, if it is done, by abolishing death duties. Florida set the example and has its reward in the settlement there of thousands of people who, having amassed great fortunes, desire that in death, as in life, the tax collector shall make the smallest possible inroads into them.

If Florida, why not British Columbia? It will not admit that its climate is inferior to that of the southernmost state whose shores are lapped on one side by the Atlantic and on the other by the Gulf of Mexico. Indeed, the all-year mildness of British Columbia is declared to be "ideal for those in the sunset of life." Nowhere else can retired millionaires hope to live longer or die less unpleasantly, and, if given the assurance that their estate will pass undiminished to their heirs, nowhere else will they die in greater content.

So the provincial government is being urged to ask the legislature next session to abolish the succession duties. They yield about £150,000 a year, and, if only the millionaires are attracted, it should not be difficult to find full compensation for loss of that. The product of income and property taxes would be swollen; land values would increase; the "pull" of the province would in many ways be strengthened; and, meanwhile, there would be substantial pickings for real estate agents and others who have anything to sell. If only the government will oblige them, they are hoping to find good customers among the retired business men of Eastern Canada and the United States. We should not be surprised, indeed, if the lure reached some of our own countrymen. The Channel Isles are the almost-tax-free Mecca of some, but against death duties, at any rate, they are not so secure in Jersey or Guernsey as they might be in the remotest province of Canada.

ALICE ARM

The outlook for mining in this district is bright again and next year it is expected there will be more properties in operation than has been the case for several years. Among the active properties will be the Toric, Matilda, La Rose, Esperanza, Wolf, Devlin Zinc and Sunsel. There is nothing definite as to the future for the Dolly Varden and Wolf mines but there is a large amount of ore on these properties which it is confidently expected will be developed before many years elapse.

There is still considerable building activity in Alice Arm. Marshal Smith and Charles Ripley are adding to their residence on Garden Island while Charles Hutchison is also adding to his three bungalows at Silver City.
