FRASER RIVER FISHERIES BADLY DEPLETED

AFTER TWO YEARS' OCCUPATION, ALLIED TROOPS ARE EVACUATING RUHR

Salmon Production in South Not Ten Percent of Its Former Volume

Canning operations must cease if industry is to be preserved says government report

VICTORIA, August 1. — With its sockeye production reduced to less than ten per cent of its former volume, the Fraser River can never regain its position as the greatest fishing stream in the world unless operations cease for a period long enough to give the salmon a chance to rehabilitate themselves according to the annual report of the Fisheries Department.

In recent years, says the report, sockeye spawning has been confined almost exclusively to the lower reaches of the river and the run above Yale Canon, which formerly furnished the most valuable part of the pack, is now so reduced as to have little commercial significance.

"If no change is introduced in the amount of gear employed or in the density of fishing," the report adds, "the present condition may possibly maintain itself for an indefinite period. We shall then have exchanged a property capable of producing over a million cases of sockeye for one yielding less than ten per cent of that amount. It will be kept at its present low ebb of production unless we surrender present profits, which are inconsiderable, in order that we may spare seed for an ampler harvest."

A life boat was lowered from the Catala and the departmental patrol boat Heron also was on the scene but no trace was found of the unfortunate man.

SMITHERS HAIL STONES INCH IN THICKNESS

Flower Gardens Were Laid Low in Storm Last Tuesday

SMITHERS, Aug. 1. — What was perhaps the most severe hailstorm that has ever struck the town of Smithers, occurred on Tuesday night about seven o'clock. There had been considerable thunder and lightning for a number of hours with several heavy showers and the black cloud seen approaching looked similar to the others until it came close when a noise like a roaring mountain torrent gave warning of something more than the ordinary.

When this cloud reached the town there was a heavy clash of thunder and the hail and rain came down in torrents for about twenty minutes. The hail was not just frozen snow but solid balls of ice many of them an inch in diameter and remaining on the ground long after the storm had passed.

The path of the storm was not quite a half mile wide and as it passed along the base of the mountain it did not do much damage to the crops. In Smithers however, it laid flat several flower gardens that the owners had made beauty spots by hard and tedious labor. The leaves on cabbage plants and sunflowers were torn and punctured and although a few windmills were broken, the absence of property damage was due to the fact that very little wind accompanied the storm.

AUTO PLUNGES OVER STREET

Ralph Kiefhaber Had Narrow Escape at Corner McBride St. and Third Avenue

Ralph Kiefhaber had a very narrow escape this morning when the Ford truck of the Prince Rupert Exchange Co. which he was driving went over the west side of McBride Street at the corner of Third Avenue. The car was rounding the corner from Third Avenue to proceed up McBride Street when the steering gear locked and the driver and car plunged over the bank to the bottom about thirty feet below.

The car, with the driver still at the wheel, turned over twice and landed right side up at the bottom. Mr. Kiefhaber crawled out and made his way to the street and was taken to the General Hospital where several cuts were dressed. He is now around town apparently little the worse for his harrowing experience. The car was brought to the street by Dave Ross and is apparently not badly injured apart from minor damage to the top.

Tariff Question In United States.

It is beginning to appear doubtful whether the President of the United States and the Republican high tariff leaders can keep down the tariff issue. In spite of the statement some time ago that the Republican chiefs had decided not to permit tariff revision the next session of Congress, the agitation for revision is going on and is proceeding from several directions. In the first place the European countries that owe the United States want duties lowered in order that they may pay in part in goods. Importing interests want the rates lowered. International banking interests that want to see the foreign debts funded and disposed of in order to increase the value of the private loans in which they are concerned are agitating for lower rates. Then, too, there are the farmers. The outcry of farming interests to the effect the rates are too high on the things the farmer buys is growing stronger and stronger and it may become a most serious matter for the party in power. Some of the influential farm papers are stirring the farmer to revolt on the tariff. Farm members will bring the matter up next session and at the same time renew demand for the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill to promote agricultural exports, while shutting out agricultural imports.

Meantime, big tariff interests in the United States are clamoring that the rates must be kept up. What they really fear is that public pressure may force Congress to take up the issue of revision of tariff rates and once this is done that Congress will proceed to cut rates. A combination of Democrats and Progressive Republicans might be able to make such a cut.

Don't Try To Ride A Grudge.

Do you carry grudges? Cast them aside. Your burden in life is heavy enough without them. Do you boast of your grudges as a sign that you are a free man? Don't do it. Though you may have created your grudges and though you may feed them, they are your masters. You may carry your grudge uphill through life, but it will carry you only down. How often we hear the voice in the street in violent impatience. Smith cries: "If Jones is for it I am against it." Then Jones controls Smith's mind more firmly than if he were his closest friend. It is not worth while to waste our energies and vitiate our minds in hate and resentment. It is right to hate evil, but merely pity evil men. If you have been wronged, forget. Why keep the injury fresh? You suffered enough at the time. Do you long for revenge or to "get even" with some enemy, actual or imaginary? You magnify his triumph. You continue his ascendancy. You hypnotize yourself within his spell. It doesn't pay. Many happinesses are shared by the least fortunate of us, and many misfortunes befall the happiest of us. None of us can well afford to spend the hours of retrospect and prospect in other than the happiest memories and the brightest hopes that charity and love can summon.

USUALLY when fire breaks out it is too late to avert the loss of valuable papers locked up in a drawer in office or home. The cost of protection is generally far less than the expense of replacing one document—provided it can be replaced. Don't put off renting a Safety Deposit Box until it is too late.

Editor of Daily News Goes Holidaying Fishing and Photography

TRIUMPH BAY, Second Day.—There's nothing I like much better than fishing, if done in moderation. Two hours is about the limit at one time. Few sports can be enjoyed for more than two hours at a stretch, except by those who are abnormal in their tastes.

We fished this morning and caught a few trout but we also wandered up the stream and took some rather nice pictures. At any rate we are hoping they will be rather good ones.

Picture photography is one of the most disappointing things in the world. In a photographic studio the photographer knows exactly what he can do and he controls his light to suit himself. In what is usually known as commercial photography, the photographing of buildings, machinery, factories and such like, the difficulties are not very great, but in trying to make real pictures the difficulties are legion. The average photo artist is satisfied if he gets half a dozen real pictures in a year, suitable for entry in an art exhibit.

Ask M. M. Stephens how many art pictures he gets in a year.

W. W. Wrathall has a number of nice things but he has been collecting them for years. McRae Brothers have several good negatives from which they make enlargements but they were taken by the staff photographer during a period extending over a number of years. Anyone who takes art photographs knows how difficult it is to make real pictures and that is why we qualify the statement that we have real pictures. We hope so. The results are in the lap of the gods and at the mercy of the developer and printer. If we could but faithfully record what we see on the ground glass or in the view finder we should indeed have something worth while to show on our return.

Too Hot To Travel

I am writing this now because it is too hot to travel on the water even though there is a pleasant breeze blowing. We are under the shade of the spruce and hemlock trees and a big devil's club frond completely covers the typewriter and helps to shade myself. At one side of the natural typist's table is a fine fern and ferns adorn our temporary dining room. Just at the back of the room is a nest of the western winter wren, clung beneath a rotting log.

This morning a small doe came down to look me over as I went to inspect the launch. So far, I have seen deer four times and Dick has yet to catch sight of one. He is hoping to see a bear but I fear his chances are slim.

Dick says he came out to rest his jaded nerves or something to that effect but this is the first afternoon he has had a chance to rest. I see he has dropped off to sleep while reading. Incidentally our hands are blistered, our arms are sore with sunburn and bites and numerous bruises and sore places cover our bodies. Every day we have some strenuous exercise and by the time the holiday is over we expect to be just getting fit. Last night for the second time we slept out of doors without the tent and expect to repeat it tonight.

Lots of Flounders

The water ouzel that seems to live at the foot of the falls just outside our front door feeds its young. The parent and child seem to be about the same size and look much alike at a distance but you can tell the parent bird because she puts her bill into the mouth of the young one and the youngster does all the squealing when hungry.

The sandy flats here seem to be covered with hundreds of flounders. They can be seen darting away as the launch passes among them. We are not interested in flounders for breakfast as we have plenty of good bacon and eggs, so we have made no attempt to spear them. I imagine it would make good sport if we needed fish.

One keeps finding new uses for things. The other day I went out early alone to the launch and found it necessary to drag the dinghy almost one hundred yards to low water. I came to a place where the sand was bare and it as a hard breaking job. Then I spied patches of seaweed a little out of the direct route. I went in that direction and immediately the burden was lessened about one tenth. Hereafter I had regarded seaweed as one of the useless things in the world. If I was Dr. Grant, I think I

See These Giant Re-roofing Shingles

Barrett Giants have an economy all their own. Specially adapted for re-roofing, you lay them right over the old roof. Tough and rugged, they come three to a strip. Laid three at a time, they save laying cost.

These shingles are colorfully artistic—enduringly surfaced with natural slate in red, green or blue-black. They never need painting or staining—will not rot or rust. And they are fire-safe—proof against flying sparks and embers.

Barrett ROOFINGS

After long experience with roofings of many kinds we're convinced that the sound economy of these special shingles simply cannot be duplicated. Let us show you Barrett Giants. You'll be surprised at the low cost.

See our full line of Barrett Roofings. There's a style for any type of building—at a price for any purse.

Doings of the Mosquito Fleet which is the chief source of Prince Rupert's prosperity

Marine supply depots on the waterfront report good business during the past week with collections still tight, which is accounted for in a measure by the fact that all classes of fishing boats are out on the deep seas garnering the season's harvest.

The keel has been laid at the McLean shipyards for a new 40 foot halibut boat for E. Havmoller which will be powered with a 20 h.p. full diesel Hein (Dutch) engine. It is contemplated that the new boat will be launched about the end of August.

There are a few small boats in port undergoing minor repair work to hulls and engines.

Lots of Shipping

Wednesday was a busy day on the harbor and the wharves from the ocean dock east were lined with boats ranging from warships to rowboats. H.M.S. Capetown, which arrived around 2 o'clock from Honolulu, tied up at the Ocean Dock, while at the C.N. dock were moored the Prince Charles and Prince Rupert. At the fisheries float the motor yacht Ekwood from Bellingham tied up early in the afternoon en route to Skagway, and the Princess Charlotte occupied the provincial dock en route south from Alaskan points.

He's Got a Boat

They say he tossed up a nickel to aid his decision as to whether he would get married or buy a motor boat and the coin decided it would be the latter. We're talking about Billy Wood, the guy who put the cold in the ice at the Cold Storage. Shiver my timbers if Billy has not got tangled up with a boat boasting of a jig-saw-like interior arrangement. Blue prints have been spoiled by the yard in an

Salt Lake Fun

If you are feeling tired of life or otherwise down in the mouth take a week end stay at one of the Salt Lake camps and join in the fun. A week end at the lake is guaranteed to do more good to your laughing apparatus than would a whole year spent in a plumber's shop. The first on the list of fun makers is Fire Chief Dan McDonald, who sports a palatial summer home at the local camping site. Dan is never happier than when baiting the nets for crabs, and for a small consideration will take you on one of the greatest hair raising crab hunts known this side of Mars. And he's some crab catcher too, but whether it is the special bait used or whether the brass buttons attract the crawlers is a matter for acute investigation. The fact remains the chief can catch more crabs in a week than most people catch in an hour.

Last Saturday night Joe Brown took a run over to his camp to put the final kalsomine touches on the interior walls preparatory to being joined on the following day by his family. Joe's second name is "work" and with pails of plaster and a brush in each hand Joe went at the job with a will. However, the wall surface to be covered proved too large for the kalsomine and upon getting the job half done he was horrified to discover his supply of liquid had run out. While knee deep in thought Joe suddenly remembered that his friend Joe Scott had a camp over there and that probably he would let him have a little kalsomine with which to finish the job. Acting upon the thought he was overjoyed to find his lunch take fruit and back he plodded with enough colored powder to finish the job with. Although it was a different color it was kalsomine anyway.

And to see Dave Thomson take his morning dive into the refreshing lake waters is a sight for the seven kings. In fact it is said that when Dave takes the final plunge it is possible to walk across the lake bottom behind him without getting one's feet wet, and although his costume is showing signs of hard wear he's never had a bad accident with it yet.

And to hear the lady campers at night looking the highest diving board for the first dive of the morrow is well worth while. But that's as far as the high diving seems to get for to date no one has ever seen any of the lady campers jump from the top board.

on Wednesday otherwise H.M.S. Capetown might have got lost around Metlakalla. The local launch, so it is said, played an important part in piloting His Majesty's ship to her mooring, as both boats came in together with skipper Rose in the lead.

Pleasure Cruiser In
The pleasure cruiser Ekwood, owned by the E. K. Wood Lumber Company, Bellingham, with the president of the company, Fred Wood aboard, accompanied by his wife and family and a party of friends arrived in port on Wednesday afternoon en route to Skagway on a pleasure cruise. The Ekwood is one of the finest power cruisers to put into this port in a long while. She is 110 feet long with a 12 1/2 foot beam and is powered with two 90 h.p. full diesel engines giving her a speed of 12 knots. The cruiser has accommodation for eleven guests and carries a crew of six men. The Ekwood left port on Thursday morning after taking on supplies and will call in again on her return south.

Who Stole Cap's Halibut?
While in port the other week Captain R. B. Bennett, skipper of the C.P.R. coastal liner Princess Charlotte, thought he would like to take a choice chicken halibut south with him with which to grace the domestic board. Upon hearing the wish expressed the gang around the wharf hiked various ways to select the choicest of choice chickens. A dandy was procured eventually, packed securely in ice, taken aboard the palatial boat and securely locked up in Cap's private cooler. So happy was Cap about the halibut that he wireless his wife to have the frying pan ready upon his arrivals. So far so good. When nearing the southern metropolis Cap thought it was about time to get the dainty morsel ready for taking home. Imagine Capt. Bennett's look of consternation upon going to the cooler to find that—like the old mother Hubbard rhyme—someone had been there first, and the halibut had vanished into thin air. So overcome was Cap at the loss that his chin nearly broke his knees when it dropped. However, the boys are going to make it alright with Cap and doubtless have already made arrangements to procure another prize specimen which will, we hope, be this time chained to the bridge telegraph.

Off for Trip
Jack McAuley, accompanied by his wife, will shortly leave on a pleasure trip down the coast, it will take him as far as Vancouver and perhaps farther, aboard the motor boat Seal Cove, owned by the Emmerson estate. To this end the Seal Cove has recently been repainted and replanked at the Dry Dock and the engine is now being connected and overhauled at the Ketchum float. The Seal Cove is a 40 foot boat, powered with a 32 h.p. Union engine and has sleeping accommodation for seven people.

Tender Back
Lighthouse tender Estevan, Capt. Harry Bilton, returned from Cape St. James on Monday where she has been with building material with which to erect a new home for the light keeper to replace the house destroyed by fire recently. After taking on coal at the Albert-McCauley dock the tender left for the Langara lighthouse with supplies.

Some Dance
It was the general consensus of opinion that the dance put on last night at the Exhibition Hall by the city fathers, in honor of the ship's crew of H.M.S. supply of liquid had run out. While knee deep in thought Joe suddenly remembered that his friend Joe Scott had a camp over there and that probably he would let him have a little kalsomine with which to finish the job. Acting upon the thought he was overjoyed to find his lunch take fruit and back he plodded with enough colored powder to finish the job with. Although it was a different color it was kalsomine anyway.

Pleasure Cruiser In
The pleasure cruiser Ekwood, owned by the E. K. Wood Lumber Company, Bellingham, with the president of the company, Fred Wood aboard, accompanied by his wife and family and a party of friends arrived in port on Wednesday afternoon en route to Skagway on a pleasure cruise. The Ekwood is one of the finest power cruisers to put into this port in a long while. She is 110 feet long with a 12 1/2 foot beam and is powered with two 90 h.p. full diesel engines giving her a speed of 12 knots. The cruiser has accommodation for eleven guests and carries a crew of six men. The Ekwood left port on Thursday morning after taking on supplies and will call in again on her return south.

Who Stole Cap's Halibut?
While in port the other week Captain R. B. Bennett, skipper of the C.P.R. coastal liner Princess Charlotte, thought he would like to take a choice chicken halibut south with him with which to grace the domestic board. Upon hearing the wish expressed the gang around the wharf hiked various ways to select the choicest of choice chickens. A dandy was procured eventually, packed securely in ice, taken aboard the palatial boat and securely locked up in Cap's private cooler. So happy was Cap about the halibut that he wireless his wife to have the frying pan ready upon his arrivals. So far so good. When nearing the southern metropolis Cap thought it was about time to get the dainty morsel ready for taking home. Imagine Capt. Bennett's look of consternation upon going to the cooler to find that—like the old mother Hubbard rhyme—someone had been there first, and the halibut had vanished into thin air. So overcome was Cap at the loss that his chin nearly broke his knees when it dropped. However, the boys are going to make it alright with Cap and doubtless have already made arrangements to procure another prize specimen which will, we hope, be this time chained to the bridge telegraph.

Off for Trip
Jack McAuley, accompanied by his wife, will shortly leave on a pleasure trip down the coast, it will take him as far as Vancouver and perhaps farther, aboard the motor boat Seal Cove, owned by the Emmerson estate. To this end the Seal Cove has recently been repainted and replanked at the Dry Dock and the engine is now being connected and overhauled at the Ketchum float. The Seal Cove is a 40 foot boat, powered with a 32 h.p. Union engine and has sleeping accommodation for seven people.

CATALA FINE NEW STEAMER

Latest Addition to Union S.S. Co.'s Fleet on Her Maiden Trip

The new Union steamer Catala, on her maiden voyage, reached port last evening about five o'clock. She left here for the Nass and was back again this morning southbound. Similar in design to the Cardena, the Catala impresses one with the amount of room available for first class passengers. Spacious decks and large observation and lounging rooms, which are very attractively furnished, appeal to the traveller who is naturally thinking of comfort and enjoying to the full the beauties of a sea voyage. The dining saloon is very beautifully furnished and careful thought has been given to making the whole ship distinct in decoration and design.

The Catala has two funnels and her registered tonnage is 1470 tons and net tonnage 851 tons. She carries a crew of 46 and has 50 first class staterooms, all of which have running water in them and are neatly furnished and spacious. Her Waterfront Whiffs (continued from page five) local celebrities endeavoring to get things started in this direction. Conspicuous in the introducing fray was George Bushby, king of the low boats who seemed to take a delight in selecting the shyest of shy sailors and the shyest of shy fair maidens and winding them up for a trip on the slippery bark. Alderman Brown, the capable master of ceremonies, said the right thing when he announced that no introductions to the crews of either the British or United States naval ships were to be considered necessary by the fair sex. After that things went with a real swing.

Waterfront Whiffs

The "Elto" Engine N. M. McLean, the boatbuilder, has just completed a 12 foot shallow water cedar boat which is to be equipped with an outboard "Elto" engine. It will be capable of carrying 12 people and is guaranteed to maintain a speed of 7 miles per hour. Many inquiries are being received by Mac, who is the local agent for the Elto outboard motor, and already there are several well satisfied users in the city. This engine is quite easily fixed at the back of any ordinary row boat or canoe and ranges in price from $175 to $195, the first cost being the last cost. The ease with which this little giant power plant is started and its low cost of operation is making it a very popular engine.

Arrivals

Up to and including noon yesterday the following halibut schooners landed catches this week. American—Eagle, Summer, Bonanza, Daly, Uranus, Yellowstone, Swan, Augusta, Valorous, Emblem, Glacier, Sirius, Sherman, E. Neilson, Rambler, Gora, Lenor and Hi Gill. Canadian—Cape Beale, Ingrid H., Gilford, Nuba, Fanny F., Marguerite, Tramp, Brant, Terrence, Fisher and Toodle.

Sport Chat

The Trades and Labor Council are advertising a tug of war between fishermen and men from the elevator to be held at their picnic on Sunday at Dizby Island. The tug of war last week lasted over thirty minutes and was one of the best ever witnessed anywhere. This is only one item in a long list of sport attractions which doubtless will draw a great crowd. Perhaps a tug of war might be arranged between men from H.M.S. Capetown and the winning team.

DOUGLAS MACLEAN

"Introduce Me"

An Avalanche of Thrills A girl with tantalizing brown eyes, a love-sick swain, an irate father, a double-crossing best friend, a trick, exploding cigar, a case of mistaken identity, the highest peak in the Alps, a man-eating bear, a revengeful mountain climber, an avalanche of giant snowballs—mix these ingredients with thrills and romance and the result is a bit-top, rollicking comedy-drama. Some mountains don't care who climbs them. Jimmy got dizzy looking out of second-story windows. Someone told him there were no windows on mountains and when he tried to climb the Matterhorn in high-heeled shoes, he got dizzy. And all because he had fallen for a pair of soft-boiled eyes. You will roar at the young men who couldn't get introduced to the girl he had decided to marry and at the two strangest villains ever seen on the screen. See picturesque Paris and Switzerland, The Grand Opera, the Eiffel Tower and the Cathedral of Notre Dame. Superb cast: Douglas MacLean, Anne Cornwall, Robert Ober, E. J. Rathciffe, Lee Shumway, Wadw Boteler, and others. COMEDY—"STAGE FRIGHT," PATHE REVIEW Admission 50c and 25c
