The report further said that the Pribiloff seal herd had increased to 697,158. The sale last year brought the government $713,000.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT IS NECESSARY TO SUCCESS IN CITY

"Have you any community spirit in this town?" inquired Dr. Osterhout, superintendent of missions of the United Church, who is in the city today. On being told that there was a certain amount when it came to backing any big undertaking, the visitor remarked: "Community spirit is a great thing. In the churches there must be a church spirit and in the community a community spirit if success is to be attained. You are in a fair way toward progress if you are developing it."

Dr. Osterhout said he was pleased to see the growth of this city. He had been located at Port Simpson over twenty years ago before Prince Rupert was on the map. "If I had money I think I would buy up some of the vacant lots here," he added for the city is bound to grow. What Seattle is to the United States, Prince Rupert will be to Canada. I think Vancouver will be another San Francisco and Prince Rupert another Seattle."

Great Missionary Work of the United Church and Benefits of Union Are Discussed at Dinner

"All that is virile, dynamic and spiritual has been retained in the United Church. Only the names Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregation have passed away," declared Dr. S. S. Osterhout, special representative of the United Church, who was the guest of honor at the big congregational dinner in the United Church rooms last evening. "As a learned Chinese had said, 'We agree to differ, resolve to love, unite to serve.' We can eliminate a great deal of waste." That was the message brought to the United Church people of showed in some detail the need of union in the great missionary work in which they were engaged in different parts of the world. The United Church had taken over practically the whole of the missionary work of the three others. The church maintained 2,254 missionaries in the field as well as 3,339 other workers making a grand total of 5,593 people in the mission field, who looked to the new church for guidance and support. The cost of carrying on these missions would amount to four million dollars, it was estimated, and this amount was apportioned among the churches. Prince Rupert was being asked to bear a small share.

That his firm will open an office in Prince Rupert, was stated this morning by C. P. Coles, head of the firm of C. P. Coles Corporation Ltd., grain brokers, who arrived in the city this morning. Mr. Coles was here a couple of years ago in connection with a proposal to form a company to build an elevator here and he has been in close touch with the situation since then. This afternoon he is meeting M. P. McCaffery, chairman of the local grain board, and is discussing the local situation from the shipping standpoint.

Unfortunately the elevator is not quite ready for operation at just the time when the pressure on elevator space is so great as to insure filling up of the local house rapidly.

This Is Where Value Wheat Pool Comes In.

Here is where the value of the wheat pool comes in. Just now the price of wheat is jumping and ordinarily most of the farmers would have sold their crop. Now the wheat pool has been handling it and they hold most of the grain and the farmers should benefit from the rise in price.

Some day the wheat pool will be caught and lose a lot of money for the farmers by holding on. Then there will be a general lull for freedom from the pool, unless the agreements bind the members so tightly they cannot get free.

Farmer Premier Retires Disgusted.

Premier Greenfield, the farmer head of a farmer government in Alberta, is retiring in disgust from the political field and going back to his farm. The new premier is a lawyer and not a farmer. He knows better than his predecessor what it is to be browbeaten and to return the blows. He is probably better fitted for political life because of his law training.

Hockey Season Is On Once More.

The hockey season is on once more and, like baseball, the results are of interest everywhere. The game is professionalized as only professionals could possibly give the time to traveling about the country for the sole purpose of playing the game.

So far as possible this paper will keep readers posted on the results of the games throughout the league, teams in which are located at Vancouver, Victoria, Portland, Calgary, Edmonton and Saskatoon. The next game is played at Portland tomorrow against the visiting Vancouver and next Monday Saskatoon will make their debut on the coast for the season, playing Vancouver and then Portland two days later.

The Victoria team, which is away touring in the east does not get into the league contest until December 3 at Vancouver.

Just Borrowed From The Government.

An official of the Ontario Government the other day borrowed some money from the public treasury which he intended to repay. He is gone to jail for four years. The judge would not recognize the borrowing plea but considered it theft.

It is seldom that a person can get away with theft and never be found out. The time eventually comes when he is tripped up and he has to pay the penalty. Even if he is never caught, the fear of being found out is punishment sufficient to deter anyone from committing a crime, if he only knew beforehand what it was like.

Canadian Influence In Other Lands.

The influence of Canada in other lands is measured partly by her missionary efforts. The tale told last night by Dr. Osterhout of the missionary work inherited by the United Church from the Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists was a surprise to many who had wondered what the church would do with four million dollars they were proposing to raise.

What the Doctor did not say was that while practically all the Presbyterian missions were joining the United Church, the Church had now lost the support of the dissenting congregations, of which Prince Rupert is one, thus making the burden on themselves much higher than it would otherwise be.

The civilization which is making Canada great is being carried to Japan, to China, Korea, Formosa, the heart of India, Africa and other countries and is generally extending its influence. Canada may well be proud of her efforts in this direction.

English Writer Finds Speck of the Ideal in Russia Amid All the Cruelty and Stupidity

One of Striking Features is That the Rich are Pictured With Scorn and Disgust Instead of Being Envidable

An English writer visited Russia and has returned and told of his impression. Mr. Keynes was opposed to the Soviet and all its ways but he comes back to England a convert to this extent that he finds beneath all the "cruelty and stupidity of new Russia" some speck of the ideal lying hid. He found this great thing, that people there no longer worshipped money. Rich people were considered disgusting and held in general contempt. He found no such thing as communism in Russia but he found a series of experiments going on in contributions from the peasants on the outside. The continuation of the soviet system he believes certain, due largely to almost religious fervor of the devotees.

"On the economic side I cannot perceive that Russian Communism has made any contribution to our economic problems of intellectual interest or scientific value," says Mr. Keynes. Dismissing Karl Marx, whose portraits are in every government office, whose busts and statues litter the country, as he would the mumbo-jumbo of an African tribe, he puts his finger at once on the essential fact of the Russian situation—namely, that the urban and industrial population "is not self-supporting—it lives, that is to say, at a standard of life which is higher than its output justifies." In other words, the peasant has to buy manufactured goods at a price above and sell wheat at a price below the prices obtainable outside Russia.

No "Communist Russia"

Mr. Keynes states clearly in the language of economics that there is no such thing, but a series of experiments going on in the towns only made possible by the contributions of the very much larger countryside, the towns being experimental islands in a vast sea of scarcely disturbed capitalism. It is the existence of that huge Pacific ocean (stirred as it has been by local storms that makes it possible for the revolution to persist in the islands. It is the absence of these conditions in England that makes a revolution on Russian lines an almost unthinkable absurdity.

Deciding that the Soviet State is likely to continue certain that is economic experiments are valueless, Mr. Keynes looks elsewhere for an explanation of its power to survive in spite of its inefficient economies and ridiculous deity. He finds this explanation in the religious fervor of its devotees. Their god may be but the wooden figurehead of a long ago wreck; it is their belief in it, in themselves, and in their mission that counts.

Problem of Age

But many sects have religious fervor without general significance, and Mr. Keynes' next question was: What was the strength of this religion in particular? He finds his answer in the fact that Communism touches "the moral problem of our age," which he believes to be concerned with the Love of Money. "A revolution in our ways of thinking and feeling about money may become the growing purpose of contemporary embodiments of the Ideal. Perhaps, therefore, Russian Communism does represent the first confused strivings of a great religion." There certainly is in Russia a concerted attempt on the part of the governing class to insist on other terms of valuation than those of financial success. In most Christian countries the illustrated papers show us pictures of rich people enjoying themselves with a tacit assumption that they are enviable, even admirable. The Communist illustrated papers show us the rich with scorn and disgust. I remember, for example, a picture of a great fat trader and his great fat wife going to the Crimea "for their health," with a Christ-like portage staggering under their enormous trunks. For the Russian governing class money-making is a rather shady sort of hobby, a poor aim in life, something like secret drinking.

Treated Like Drunkards

Determined, inveterate money-makers, of whom there are plenty in Russia, are treated much as in England we treat habitual drunkards—put in prison from time to time, but let out again with the full knowledge that they will take up their old habits, indirectly to the profit of the State, which taxes money making even more heavily than in England we tax drink. These people are considered rather disgusting, and, indeed, are so, being defiant and so more beastly than they would be if they were not conscious of the contempt with which they are regarded. The Communists, since the development of the present economic policy, recognise in public resolutions that those of their number who must associate with business men are in danger of being contaminated and urge them to keep a close watch on themselves. In Russia generally people are still individualist and greedy.

His Final Conclusion

To me the most interesting thing in Mr. Keynes' articles is his recognition of the two moods that envelope foreign visitors to Moscow, Oppression and Elation. Most visitors seem bound to notice one or other. I have seen men fling up their hats with relief on crossing the frontier, but some men did it on one side of that frontier and some on the other. Mr. Keynes was able to do it on both. He fell in Russia the dull weight of an atmosphere over-charged with officialism, heavy like a thunderstorm with the fervor and passion of a new and crude religion. He felt something of what a cavalier of the Restoration might have felt if transplanted for a week or two to the ascetic rigors of New England. He was quite glad to get back "to the frivolous ease of London." Yet now and again in their temple he shared the elation of the devotees, an elation that makes them as impervious to criticism as a scientist in his laboratory, an elation that is characteristic of no other body of rulers in the world. This is his final summary:—"So now the deeds are done and there is no going back, I should like to give Russia her chance; to help and not to hinder. For how much rather, even after allowing for everything, if I were a Russian, would I contribute my quota of activity to Soviet Russia than to Tsarist Russia! I could not subscribe to the new official faith any more than to the old. I should detest the actions of the new tyrants not less than those of the old. But I should feel that my eyes were turned towards, and no longer away from, the possibilities of things; that out of the cruelty and stupidity of Old Russia nothing could ever emerge; but that beneath the cruelty and stupidity of New Russia, some speck of the Ideal may lie hid."

Baby Eczema

Soon Disappears with the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment

Only mothers who have witnessed the suffering of their babies when tortured by eczema fully appreciate the remarkable soothing, healing effects of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Most babies at one time or another fall victims to skin irritations, chafing of the skin or eczema. For this reason it is a fine habit to always have at hand when bathing baby a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. You never know when roughness and redness of the skin is going to develop into something more serious. A touch of Dr. Chase's Ointment keeps the skin smooth and velvety and prevents serious skin affections.

There are scores of uses for Dr. Chase's Ointment. Once it finds its way into the home it is soon considered indispensable.

EVIDENCE OF LEIGH WADE

Flyer Who Visited Prince Rupert Tells of His Experiences to Court Martial

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 23.—Lieutenant Leigh Wade, one of the army pilots in the globe flight last year, today told the Mitchell court martial his various experiences during 3,000 hours of flying in every known type of plane.

Wade said the Loening amphibian plane is in an experimental stage and not suited for Arctic service. Describing the experiences of the globe flight, Wade said the hop of the airmen from Seapa Flow to Iceland constituted an "undue hazard of human life."

Wade was asked about his rescue when his plane fell into the waters of the North Atlantic during the world flight. He replied that British sailors rescued him and an American vessel later appeared and destroyed his plane.

The defense notified the court martial that it expected to complete the presentation of testimony tomorrow except for the testimony of Colonel Mitchell.

Admiral Sims, retired, yesterday reiterated his charge that "ignorant and unfit officers are in control of the navy."

When asked by Congressman Reid, Mitchell's counsel, for his opinion regarding orders non-flying officers gave to airship commanders over their protests, Sims said: "The commanding officers are the best available. If they were not selected with that plan in mind, then such selections constituted a criminal act."

Lieut. Wade was one of the pilots who spent several days in Prince Rupert after the damaging of Commander Martin's plane here at the outset of their big round the world flight.

TO ARRANGE FOR BISHOP

This Will be one of Important Questions at Conference With Canon Gould Tonight

One of the most important matters to come up for consideration at the conference to be held this evening between Canon Gould, general secretary of the Church of England Missionary Society in Canada, and representatives of the district clergy and lay delegates will be the question of taking steps to have a Bishop of Caedonia appointed to succeed the late Archbishop F. H. Du Vernet. As the salary of a bishop in this district is contributed to by the Missionary Society, the district will have to make some arrangements to aid in the financing. If negotiations with this end in view are successfully carried out, the election of a bishop will follow later.

Among the members of the district clergy who are in the city to attend the conference are: Rev. J. B. Gibson of Smithers; Rev. E. Hodson of Ocean Falls; Rev. George J. Gray of Chilo; Rev. T. D. Proctor of Hazelton; Rev. William Sweetnam of Endako; Rev. J. S. Brayfield of Anyox; Rev. A. W. R. Ashley of Stewart; Archdeacon G. A. Rix and Rev. Walter Allen of Prince Rupert will also attend. Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Page of Smithers are here as lay delegates to the conference.

GREAT MISSIONARY WORK OF THE UNITED CHURCH AND BENEFITS OF UNION ARE DISCUSSED AT DINNER.

provide a minister for every place in Canada where he was needed.

Mass Movement

Turning then to the question of missions, the speaker stated that any church which ceased missionary effort was dead. The church must be big enough to embrace all nationalities. The question of the desirability of missions was not a debatable one. It had been settled 1900 years ago. All they had to do was to obey orders. He gave instances of the hard work and endurance of the early missionaries and enthused his audience with the news that now at last success was being attained. In practically all the mission fields in which the United Church was interested there was a great awakening going on. Converts were coming in large numbers. There was in many places a mass movement toward Christianity.

Dr. Osterhout showed on the map the various places in which the Canadian missions were located. In Japan 27 churches had been built every year for the past 73 years. While the number of converts in China were fewer, the number being only 400,000, the Chinese were themselves sending missionaries to Tibet so that the work was being extended. In Korea there were 400 places of worship and 7,000 communicants. In Formosa there were 25 missionaries and 50 congregations.

In India the results were most encouraging. The mass movement toward Christianity had to be handled very carefully and only those who it was felt were really in earnest were received into the Church. The eighty missionaries there must be supported even if it took their bottom dollar. The Bible was being read by educated men all over the land. Even the prisoners in

The game of billiards is also going strong in Anyox this season and a championship tournament has been started. KINGSLAND SEES BUSINESS GOOD

General Manager of C.N.R. Says Conditions Improving Steadily

WINNIPEG, Nov. 25.—"Business conditions in the cities west of Winnipeg appear to be improving steadily as the new money from the 1925 crop comes into circulation," declared W. A. Kingsland, general manager of the western region, Canadian National Railways, who returned to Winnipeg yesterday after a journey westward with the Dominion board of railway commissioners which took him as far as the Pacific coast. As an evidence of this there are fewer vacant store buildings in cities such as Saskatoon, Edmonton and Calgary, while Vancouver is having a brisk movement in the building trades.

In Saskatoon office and store space in the business section is at a premium, it was stated by business men there, and many of the larger office buildings have waiting lists of would-be occupants.

Threshing is proceeding satisfactorily throughout Saskatchewan and Alberta, Mr. Kingsland states, and grain is still being loaded at Canadian National Points in excess of one thousand cars daily. The placing of embargoes against the shipment of dump and tough wheat to the Pacific coast has slowed the westward movement somewhat and turned the tide of grain eastwards, but the drying plants at the elevators at Vancouver, Edmonton and Calgary are now beginning to catch up with the large quantities of grain awaiting treatment and the interior storage elevators will shortly be shipping consignments of grain which has been given the necessary treatment to fit it for further handling.

Practically all the natives in the village, as well as a number of others gathered, Herbert Wallace spoke for the old timers. He came on crutches and welcomed the church representative on behalf of those who had known him here in the early days. David Johnson, chief councillor, spoke for the village. He was a man to whom Mr. Osterhout had taught bookkeeping years ago, which enabled him to go into business. Sam Bennett welcomed the visitor on behalf of the League. J. Musgrave and Joseph Bradley also were on the platform and added their testimony.

The choir led by Henry Nelson gave selections and Dr. Osterhout replied in the Tsimpsian language.

On Sunday the big religious services were held, in the morning in the native language and in the evening in English.

During the Doctor's visit he was taken in charge by Rev. William Allan, the missionary in charge, and visits were made to the hospital, school and other places.

STEWART

Fine values have been encountered as a result of surface work on a new vein at the Silverado mine and the management has started the driving of a 400 foot cross-cut tunnel to tap the body at depth. The property is advantageously situated and will be an easy shipper.

The Stewart Musical Association has been formed with Mrs. G. C. Andrew as directress and W. H. Watson as secretary.

Andrew Andrewson, engaged as a shoemaker here for the past four years, was found dead in his bed last Thursday morning. His death occurred during the night from natural causes, Coroner Whillans decided.

Dock facilities here are proving entirely inadequate. There was not a day last week that from one to three ships had to lie at anchor in the harbor awaiting a chance to tie up at the dock. The matter is being taken up with government authorities and with the Vancouver and Prince Rupert boards of trade.

Development work is to be continued all winter by Pat Daly on the Big Missouri. The installation of the compressor plant has been completed.

There will be a Christmas tree here on December 23. Rev. A. W. R. Ashley is chairman of the committee and those assisting will include W. R. Tooth, Mrs. G. C. Andrew, Mrs. W. R. Tooth and Miss Kate Ryan.

Arrangements have been made for a small crew to go to work at once on the National Silver mine which is now controlled by the Selukwe Gold Co. of the Rand.

For the first time in its history, work will be carried out throughout the winter on the Silver Crest property. Mike Cassidy and Dave Boyd have the contract for the driving of a 150 foot tunnel.

Control of the International Electric Co. here has been sold to Ernest Love of Prince Rupert, who will arrive here early next month to take over the management.

The question of incorporation of Stewart under the Village Act is being taken up and a committee of three has been appointed by the local Board of Trade to investigate the whole situation.

Five Mines May Ship Ore from Alice Arm During This Winter

Revival of Activity Indicated in Work Being Done at Various Properties in That District

The Alice Arm Herald reports that several important events have occurred within the past fortnight in regard to mining activity in the immediate vicinity of Alice Arm. As a result of these developments it is possible that there will be five mines located within a short distance of Alice Arm shipping ore this coming winter. There will at least be three—the Wolf, Esperanza and La Rose. The hill on the west side of the town is receiving special attention, on this hill being located the Esperanza and Wolf mines. The La Rose mine, further up, is said to also be a part of the same rich ore zone.

Further describing the various properties and developments thereon, the Alice Arm Herald continues:

On Monday last, J. Fiva, who is operating the Wolf mine, shipped sixteen tons of high grade silver ore to Trail smelter, the ore going out on the steamer Gardena. This ore was all taken from the surface by stripping the vein. Stripping of the vein is now being conducted on the south end of the showings, and ore will be taken out until snow puts an end to operations. A tunnel will then be driven and work continued throughout the winter.

Lease on Esperanza

Messrs. V. Stella, T. Mack, P. Tiekolis and F. Pellizzari, have taken a lease on the old workings at the Esperanza mine, and commenced work on Wednesday. The lease expires on May 31st. It is the intention of the leasers to cut through a dyke running through the ore veins, and then drive a raise to tap the ore. They expect to employ additional men as soon as work is under way, and later expect to install a small compressor plant.

Negotiations are under way by local men, for obtaining a lease on a new ore showing recently discovered on the lower end of the Esperanza, and it is expected that agreements will be signed early next week.

Silver on LaRose

Latest advices from the La Rose mine state that drifting on the ore is still being carried on, and that native silver has been encountered.

The Alice Fraction, owned by O. Flint, is another property in the immediate vicinity of Alice Arm to receive attention. This property joins the Esperanza and the Wolf, and the ore vein now being mined on the Wolf has been traced to the Alice Fraction. Surface stripping of the vein shows it to be six inches wide and the ore carries silver sulphides and native silver. In addition to the vein now being developed, there is another vein 4 feet above, also averaging about six inches, while 4 feet above this vein is another smaller one. The workings on this property are only a few feet from the Dolly Varden railway tracks.

Bruggy to Operate

G. W. Bruggy, who owns a mineral claim a short distance up the Dolly Varden railway from the Alice Fraction, also contemplates doing development work on the property this fall. It is probable that work will be continued throughout the winter, should early results prove satisfactory.

ALICE ARM

The death occurred at the Anyox Hospital last week of Mrs. Carl Johnson, aged 44 and a resident of Alice Arm for three years. Besides the widower, Mrs. Johnson is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mabel Dewar of Minnesota, and a brother, Al Hayden, well known coast logging man.

Ole Evindsen has returned here, after an absence of several years in Vancouver, to resume management of the Alice Arm Hotel. Mrs. Evindsen is expected here this week.

S. F. D. Roe, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank, left last week to spend a vacation in Victoria and is being relieved by H. H. Little of the Prince Rupert branch.

Harry Smith, who recently arrived here from California, has decided to remain here and will open a brokerage office in Bruggy's old store.

"Taming the West"

A romance of the New West in which a champion broncho-buster tames a wild motor-car and an equally wild Gupid. A thriller in which a gasoline cayuse and a young man in an awful hurry introduce to the jaded West a whole lot of new excitement. A lesson on roping, throwing, breaking and branding a hundred horse-power car. A story of a young man transplanted from the jazzy East to the plains of the West with plenty of excitement at both ends. He wouldn't take "No" for an answer and she sure is pretty. Strong cast.
