Dedication of Windows and New Theological Library Yesterday St. Andrews Anglican Church

In St. Andrew's Anglican Church yesterday there were four different memorials dedicated by Arcedeacoe Rix, the present administrator of the diocese of Caledonia. In the vestibule a fine mosaic stained glass window had been placed by Mr. and Mrs. Wallace C. Orchard in memory of their son, Lieut. Wallace E. Orchard, who lost his life in the Great War.

Just inside the door John Carroll had placed a beautiful window in memory of Mrs. Carroll, the central panel being a representation of Martha.

In the chancel there stood completed three really magnificent windows in memory of the late Archbishop Du Vernet, the central one of which represented Christ calling the first disciples from their fishing. These must be seen to be appreciated and those interested are invited to visit the church and see them.

In addition the family of the late archbishop have established a library in the vestry of the church in his memory and have endowed it so that new theological works may be added from time to time as they are published, the idea being that the clergy of the diocese may have at hand the latest books dealing with subjects that interest them.

The Railway Situation and All That it Means to the Skeena Riding

W. E. Williams shows how fatal it would be to place Hon. Arthur Meighen in charge of railway just now

W. E. Williams, formerly of this city and still a property owner here, has written a letter dealing with the present political situation and especially with the railway situation in such a clear and logical way that it should be read by everyone. It deals with the subject from the broadest aspect and shows how it would be fatal to Prince Rupert to elect other than Fred Stork just now. It follows:

Referring to the Canadian National Railways, Mr. Meighen says—"I will stop these new capital investments with a strong hand the first month I am in power,—there will be no more Scribe Hotels, no more skyscrapers on Yonge Street, there will be no more extravagant golf courses and radio systems here, there and everywhere!"

Forty years ago there was practically no tourist business on the North American Continent. People were poor and could not afford the luxury of travel for pleasure. Travel was limited to the requirements of business and stern necessity. There was not the dense population of today, and very rarely did more than one railway serve the town centres. In those days railroading was a comparatively simple business, a small station house with enough benches to seat the passengers, and a small freight shed to house the local freight. World travel and world commerce as we see it today were unknown.

Competitive Business
 Railroad business today has very little resemblance to that picture, except on the branch lines which serve the needs of the outlying settlements, and act as feeders to the great railroad trunk lines. Transcontinental and international railroads today are about the most complicated and competitive business on earth. The freight end is very competitive, but the passenger business is tremendously competitive, and lives on publicity, service and accommodation. Mr. Millionaire, with leisure and a bulging purse, will spend his money and his time only where the surroundings are congenial to him. He insists on the best hotels, and will tolerate no others. He insists on de luxe travelling conditions. This tourist business means millions of foreign dollars to Canada every year.

Under such conditions, radio is not only appreciated by the travelling public, but is one of the best means of advertising the attractions, service and advantages that the Railway has. The Canadian National Railways has had the foresight and the enterprise to use the most modern and effective means of publicity, and, I believe, one of the cheapest methods, measured by the results. These broadcasting stations are also used by the President and directing officials of the railway to instruct and enthuse the employees. I believe no keen business man with a proper appreciation of the situation can criticise the management of the Canadian National Railways for this effective innovation.

Getting Grain Business Is A Great Fight.

There is a lot of work to be done besides providing elevator space in order to get the grain to come to this port. Even Vancouver is finding it difficult to ship grain that way.

In Vancouver they have found that there is a lot to do besides building their elevators. They are getting busy on the job and will do whatever is possible to break down the opposition and educate the people in the East to use the Western route.

It is quite likely that Prince Rupert will find it necessary to pay a man to go through the prairies, find out what are the objections, if any, to coming here and get the business started. It means a great deal to us to have the elevator utilized.

Most Nominations Have Now Been Made

Most of the nominations of candidates for the election about to take place have been made. The contest is on and no one will know what the outcome will be until election day.

Electors will do well to study the situation well and look at the big issues rather than the petty ones. It does not matter which of the candidates is the best looking, which is the pleasantest personality or which tickles our fancy on the little things around us.

Still Have Faith In The Country.

We still have faith in the country and believe we shall not suffer very much whichever party gets into power. We have the resources and we have the position. Also we have a little grit left and can fight for our own if occasion requires.

Everyone Should Read Williams' Letter.

The letter published in this issue and starting on the front page is one that should be read by everyone. It deals particularly with Prince Rupert district and the railway question.

Naturally Prince Rupert's success is bound up with that of the railway. If the railway is successful the city and district are successful. If the railway fails, the City of Prince Rupert fails and the country around does not amount to anything.

For that reason the votes cast will be for or against the railway. The opposition forces are being engineered by the opposition railway. While many may feel, as we have felt, that we have not always had such treatment as was due us from the railway company, yet we have been far better treated than we were under the Borden and Meighen administration.

RADIOGRAM FROM ARCTIC

Winnipeg Man Gets Direct Message From Commander E. F. McDonald of Peary

LURE OF NORTHLAND

Tells of Life Among Eskimos and of Hunting Experiences of Party

WINNIPEG, Sept. 28.—Following is the radiogram received here by Dr. C. N. Bell from Commander E. F. McDonald of the Peary in the McMillan expedition, Etah Harbor, North Greenland, Radio Station 9XX. From McMillan Arctic Expedition, to Dr. C. N. Bell, 1024 Grain Exchange Building, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada:

Read Nansen's book on Eskimo life published by Longmans, Green and Company, London, 1894, and it will give you a picture unchanged to this day of the most northerly people in the world. Try second hand book store. Wish you were here with me in this wonderland of ice, interesting things and people. I don't have to ask McMillan why men go north. I have the fever and I am coming back again. I wish to spend a year at least with these happy people in this fairland of ice and savage scenic grandeur. Hunting is such as I never dreamed of. Shot my first polar bear ten days ago. Eight hundred pounds. Shot my first walrus Wednesday. A big bull, fifteen hundred pounds, also sixteen hundred-pound bull and fourteen hundred-pound cow walrus. Towed all three back. Two trips, wounded four others. Did not get. Killed 146 little auks with fifteen shot shells and it takes no expert to repeat later performance every day. Millions of them in all. You don't mind the cold when you dress as the native does. Walrus overturned Eskimo in his kayak on our walrus hunt and despite water at 29 degrees he came up smiling because walrus had not put tusk in him. 6 to 15 per cent of Eskimo mortality is from overturned kayak, but they are the fastest one-man boat in the world outside of college shell, and I am going to bring one back with me. My best wishes to you, Gene McDonald.

Griffith learns of his inheritance just after he has renounced all women because a girl he was about to marry left him at the altar. Flees From Women Taking his deceased uncle's valet—who had been bequeathed to him as a separate part of the legacy—Griffith seeks seclusion in a Spanish village, where he hopes to find few, if any women. To his great disappointment women of all kinds seek his company. Two American spinster school teachers badger his footsteps. A boy of girls clad in bathing suits make him seek refuge behind barred doors. Louise Fazenda, a Spanish dancer who loved men only when they were angry, makes him the sole object of her attentions. On top of it all he meets the bewitchingly beautiful Vera Reynolds, who almost runs him down with her automobile after losing control of it, and—forgetting all about his vows to avoid women—falls madly in love with her. Meets the "Only Girl" Miss Reynolds reciprocates his affection and all might have gone well but for an inadvertent remark Griffith makes when his valet tells him that she is the girl designated by the deceased uncle. He tells the valet that marrying a girl like Miss Reynolds would be a mighty easy way of making a million dollars. She overhears him and denounces him as a fortune hunter. Griffith's feeling are deeply wounded and he tells Miss Rey-

LIONS CHARGE CHRISTIANS

Scene in Quo Vadis is Thrilling One and Dangerous to Make

Wild animals, as actors in motion pictures, are always an uncertain quantity. Should you investigate closely in film circles, you would find more than one extra man or woman who bears the scars of his or her contact with beasts before the camera, and several stars, as well.

While every precaution is taken to protect the human players in such scenes, the minds of the animal players can't al-

Such precautions were taken during the filming of First National's new and gigantic version of the Sienkiewicz classic, "Quo Vadis." The scene is that where Nero orders the Christians thrown to the lions in the Circus Maximus to hide his crime of burning Rome. One hundred men, women and children are seen huddled together in the centre of the vast stadium. Fifty half-famished, snarling lions are turned upon them from the pits. In the vast amphitheatre surrounding them is jammed the populace of Rome, celebrating a Roman holiday. The lions charge the Christians, presumably rending them to shreds. In making this scene, a score of expert marksmen, gripping automatic pistols beneath their robes, were stationed among the Christians. While acting the terrified roles of the martyrs they at the same time kept watchful eye upon the beasts and were quick to shoot at the instant they perceived a lion going beyond his role in ferocity.

Such precautions were taken during the filming of First National's new and gigantic version of the Sienkiewicz classic, "Quo Vadis." The scene is that where Nero orders the Christians thrown to the lions in the Circus Maximus to hide his crime of burning Rome. One hundred men, women and children are seen huddled together in the centre of the vast stadium. Fifty half-famished, snarling lions are turned upon them from the pits. In the vast amphitheatre surrounding them is jammed the populace of Rome, celebrating a Roman holiday. The lions charge the Christians, presumably rending them to shreds. In making this scene, a score of expert marksmen, gripping automatic pistols beneath their robes, were stationed among the Christians. While acting the terrified roles of the martyrs they at the same time kept watchful eye upon the beasts and were quick to shoot at the instant they perceived a lion going beyond his role in ferocity.

MARY PICKFORD AND THE MAYOR

Neglect to Answer Invitation Was Result of Husband's Carelessness

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 28.—Last June Mayor Mikel of this city sent an invitation to Mary Pickford and her husband Douglas Fairbanks the celebrated movie artists, to attend the celebration of the 110 years of peace between Canada and the United States which was held at Belleville the first week in August. No answer came. This surprised Mayor Mikel. The celebration of this event had met responses from the president of the United States and other prominent persons in that country and in Europe. At last, one September morn, Mary Pickford discovered Mayor Mikel's letter in her husband's pocket, unanswered. After receiving the letter he had, husband like, placed it in his coat pocket, hung up the coat and having no occasion to wear it again till September, forgot all about it. Mary Pickford at once telegraphed Mayor Mikel the cause of her seeming indifference to his invitation to the Belleville celebration, and later wrote explaining more fully. It seems that even husbands of star movie artists cannot be relied on to handle their wives' correspondence.

CROPS YIELDING WELL IN PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Although interrupted by rains, threshing generally is well advanced in the three prairie provinces, according to the Bank of Montreal weekly report. Deliveries of grain to the country elevators are heavy and the grades thus far have been better than last year. In Ontario rains have delayed harvesting operations in backward sections, but threshing is progressing rapidly and all grains are yielding well above the average. In Quebec province harvesting is nearly completed and where threshing has been done, the yield is reported to be above the average. In the Maritime pro-

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

September 28, 1915.

A man named R. P. Cameron from Babine Portage died on the train yesterday while on his way to Prince Rupert. The body was shipped from here to Vancouver on the Prince George this morning.

A detachment of thirty-five recruits left Prince Rupert this morning to undergo training in the south for the war. The party included Sam Kirkaldy, E. Valpey, Roy Clothier and Frank Dowling.

George Morrow appeared before the city council last night asking that the city assist in the outfitting of a camp kitchen for the boys of the second contingent. The matter was laid over for a week.

An invalid, after returning from a southern trip, said to a friend: "Oh, it's done me a world of good going away. I've come back another man altogether; in fact, I'm quite myself again."

ROMANTIC LIFE OF DR. TOLMIE

Miss J. E. M. Bruce Tells of Odd Things about Cloverdale Home

WAS PLACE OF BONES
Indian Was Hung on Tree Not Far Away: Battle Took Place There

It is nearly a century since Dr. William Fraser Tolmie, father of Hon. Simon Fraser Tolmie, came to this coast says Miss J. E. M. Bruce writing in the Victoria Times. A native of Inverness, Scotland, he graduated at Glasgow as a physician and surgeon, and the same year joined the Hudson's Bay Company and started for the Pacific Coast. The voyage was made round the Horn, and he landed at Fort Vancouver (on the Columbia River) in May, 1833.

After being moved about to the different posts of the company and gaining a thorough knowledge of its operations, he was eventually, in 1855, appointed chief factor at Fort Nisqually, near what is now Camp Lewis, Tacoma. He frequently made trips from there to Victoria, by canoe, which was the only available means of transportation at the time. About a week was required for the voyage, as camp had to be made every night. Except in fine weather the landing was made at Oak Bay.

Although a Chief Factor, he was still a doctor, one of the very few in the whole country, and often had to go great distances to attend cases of sickness, chiefly among Indians. On one occasion he was summoned from the Hudson's Bay headquarters at Fort Vancouver to attend a dying Englishman. This proved to be none other than Joseph Trutch, who recovered and lived to become Governor of British Columbia and earn a knighthood.

Dr. Tolmie's Journal
The Provincial Archives have the major part of Dr. Tolmie's journal. It makes fascinating reading and is a wonderful commentary on the times. The first mention of Elliott Bay, the site of what afterwards became Seattle, is made in his handwriting. The first mention of the finding of coal on this Coast is also found in his journal. Dr. Tolmie was the first white man to attempt the ascent of Mount Rainier. This was in 1833, and showed a fearless courage which compels admiration. It is not at all unlikely that he would have accomplished his ambition had it not been that his Indian carriers who entertained a racial superstition of the giant spirits who lived among the snows, refused to advance above timber line. The evil spirits, of course, were the unseen powers who tossed great avalanches from the beetling crags and sent echoing thunders down the valleys. Dr. Tolmie was a keen student of botany, and from the time of his arrival on this Coast collected enthusiastically specimens of plants which he sent to his friend, Sir Joseph Hooker, at Kew Gardens. Quite a dozen or more flowers and shrubs were named after him in consequence. It was only by a pretence of seeking medicinal herbs that Dr. Tolmie persuaded the Indians to go so near the mountain as they did.

Just seventy years after their father made his attempt to ascend Mount Rainier, several of the sons and daughters made up an expedition to visit the mountain, and almost annually ever since they have repeated the pilgrimage.

Place of Bones
Mr. John Tolmie has inherited something of his father's interest in collecting. The grounds of the old farm furnished him with abundant material, for apparently many an Indian battle had been fought in the neighborhood. The Indian name for the hill nearby was "Sialamsin," meaning "the place of bones." Mr. Tolmie at one time had a superfine collection of skulls which he was always willing to show visitors. But the exhibition did not prove popular.

One of the bloodiest and most recent of the battles fought between Indians at this point was when the Enculaw tribe from Cape Mudge came over to make war on the Songhees. The Songhees chief resorted to a trick which betrayed the enemy into his hands. Having his son dressed as an Indian maiden, he offered him as a peace offering to the Enculaws. When the latter approached, the Songhees fell upon them and committed terrible slaughter. The fight left many trophies in the way of skulls, flint arrowheads, and other weapons. Flint, it should be noted, is not a local stone, but is found up the Coast near Cape Mudge, material evidence which endorses the Songhees tradition.

Indian Hung on Tree
There is an oak tree on Quadra Street, just below Cloverdale School, which has the mark of a cross on it. Nearly sixty-five years ago one of the Tolmie gardeners, a half breed Indian, was found hanging on this tree, the discovery only deepening the mystery of the man's disappearance some three weeks before. It was supposed that he was hanged by a jealous rival. Other murders took place more to the West. For years no one could be induced to walk after dark through the area which is now occupied by brickfields, as this was supposed to be haunted.

In the old days the family regularly attended the old iron St. John's Church. A familiar sight of the time when the Tolmies were children was the arrival at Sunday School of three or four of the Tolmie boys on an old grey mare.

The old house has long associations, associations which are part of the very root and issue of Victoria's history. Regarded in this way Cloverdale has a vast interest for every resident. And aesthetically it has a charm and beauty which makes it one of the most precious relics of the city's past.

THE RAILWAY SITUATION AND ALL THAT IT MEANS TO THE SKEENA RIDING.

I have asked the opinion of a number of business men who understand the situation, and they pronounced the Scribe Hotel deal as an excellent investment; they claimed it will pay interest on the investment, provide a sinking fund to retire the original cost, and take care of depreciation, and in addition to this will furnish the Canadian National Railway with one of the best and most commanding offices in Europe, from which Continent the Railway must look for a great deal of business. Such a building is necessary in Paris to attract the European travellers and emigrants to Canada, and such a building is necessary to put the Canadian National Railway on anything like an even basis with the Canadian Pacific Railway, in order to get this business. The purchase price of this building is considered low at the present time. It is, therefore, a good and safe investment, as the building can be sold at almost any time for more than the capital put into it. This sort of an expenditure costs the taxpayers of Canada nothing. It pays its own way, and by bringing more business to the Canadian National Railway, reduces the annual deficit and actually saves the tax payers of Canada money, because every dollar in shortage must be met by the people of Canada by way of taxation.

Pay Their Way
The same can be said of the large office building constructed on Yonge Street, Toronto. These buildings pay their way. They are considered by private investors as a good investment, and the railway is thereby able to secure for itself first class offices for all time to come. True, they add to the national debt, but by the cost of the building, but they return more than the interest on the debt. The taxpayer is not paying for the building, but in reality pays less taxes because of them.

Golf has become the rich man's obsession, and the poor man's aspiration. It is more than a hobby, it has become a mania, it is something that the tourists expect; they will go where they can get it, and will not stay long away from it. Not only can these golf courses be made to pay their way, from the fees received, but they draw travellers over the railroad and to the hotels and add substantially to the railway's traffic and hotel receipts. No doubt, in large centres golf should be left to the private clubs, but in outlying resorts to which the railway wishes to direct traffic, it is a strong attraction, and adds to the passenger list and the goodwill of the passengers, which is a tremendous asset. One booster will bring a dozen more the following year. Not only must a railroad be in a position to carry the people, but it must make the people want to come, and I believe that Sir Henry Thornton has been a tremendous success in placing before the people of the North American Continent and Europe the attraction of Canada which can be reached by Canadian National Railways, and this is the most difficult end of any business.

Timorous Persons
Mackenzie King has adopted a policy of "look ahead and look to the West." Mr. Meighen can only see today. He lacks vision to support the Canadian National Railways as it has to be supported today in order to make it a success tomorrow or in the years to come. So timorous a person is not the man on whose shoulders to place the destiny of Canada or even the Canadian National Railways. Never in the history of our country did we require men of courage and vision to steer a bold course to future greatness, as we do today.

Mr. Meighen says the Parliament just ended was "the most sterile, the most feeble and futile Government Canada has had." Such statements will stand investigation. Did not Mackenzie King, with no majority in Parliament, tackle the railway problem, and consolidate the Canadian National Railway, the Canadian Northern Railway and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and place them under the control of the strongest man available for the job in the world?

Real Business Sense
You can judge a man by the calibre of the lieutenants he chooses. When Mackenzie King chose Sir Henry Thornton he chose a big man and handled a big job in a big way, and Sir Henry has handled that job so effectively that the Canadian Pacific Railway would like very much to be rid of the present competition of the Canadian National Railways, and the most effective way of doing this is to hamstring the Canadian National through Ottawa. Mr. Meighen knows he cannot be elected without the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Canadian Pacific Railway knows that too. What chance would the Canadian National Railways have with Mr. Meighen in office at Ottawa and the Canadian Pacific Railway telling him what to do? The voice is the voice of Mr. Meighen, but the words are the words of Mr. Beatty.

Sir Richard McBride and Mr. Bowser used to make periodical trips to Ottawa for better terms, and they got nothing from their Conservative associates at Ottawa. No doubt they were sincere and did their best. What chance had they to get better terms from a Conservative Government at Ottawa with the watchful eye of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy in the shadows close behind the throne? Mr. King, on the other hand, with a weak following, has tackled the freight rates question in a conscientious, impartial manner, determined to do the just thing, and an order has been issued under the Premier's direction giving British Columbia equalization of freight rates on grain and flour.

Strong Opposition
I believe this is one of the strongest stands ever taken by any Government of Canada, and taken contrary to the wishes of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the Montreal Board of Trade, who are now trying to upset the order. Again it may be asked, what chance would British Columbia have for equal freight rates with Mr. Meighen in the saddle and Mr. Beatty leading the ass? Equalization of freight rates is the greatest factor in the future prosperity and development of British Columbia that is now before the people, and which lies in the hands of Ottawa to give. Does anyone seriously think with a Conservative Government in Ottawa with the Canadian Pacific Railway as the strongest factor in their election, and with the business interests of Montreal, Winnipeg, and all other Eastern points, responsible for such a Government, that the West would have any chance whatever to get equalization of freight rates?

Never before was the issue so clearly apparent to the people of British Columbia, and to the Skeena district in particular. Mr. Meighen has already condemned equalization of freight rates. Does anyone seriously doubt that the words are put into his mouth? With equalized freight rates between 150 and 200 million bushels of grain should move west, the railroad men on the old G.T.P. line of the Canadian National, so long neglected, should be busy to capacity; no longer will engineers have to work as firemen to hold their jobs. Our elevator should work to capacity as fast as boats can move away the grain.

Not Stork vs. Bushby
Remember, this is not an issue between Mr. Stork and Mr. Bushby,—you are called upon to choose which you will have, Mackenzie King or Mr. Meighen. Would it not be a calamity for the people of Skeena, which is served by the Canadian National Railway only, and which is in such a strong position to handle prairie grain, to elect a Government which will be dominated by the Canadian Pacific Railway? The leader of which Government has already stated that he is opposed to equalization of freight rates, and that he is opposed to carrying out the Mackenzie King policy as related to the Canadian National Railway, for, rest assured, the Canadian Pacific Railway, with their adverse grades west through the mountains will fight equalization of freight rates to the last ditch and only a Liberal government at Ottawa at this time will assure to the people of British Columbia equalization of freight rates and the future prosperity that will come with it. And be equally assured that with a Conservative government at Ottawa, the C.P.R. will hand the C.N.R. such a wallop that when it wakes up Rip Van Winkle would look like a school boy.

GOOD PROGRESS AT ELEVATOR

Fine Weather Has Helped to Expedite Work on Big Building

The splendid weather that has been prevailing for the past few weeks has made possible rapid progress on the construction of the terminal grain elevator here reported D. M. Shearer, superintendent of the work for Carter-Halls-Aldinger Co. Ltd., this morning. Concrete work by continuous moving forms with jacks has been completed on the workhouse, the storage bins having been finished some time ago.

The tar and gravel roof is now being put on the storage bins. The windows are yet to be put in on the top floor and the whole structure is to be washed down with waterproof cement.

The Empress of Russia and Empress of Australia, which are outbound, will complete their trips with Japanese seamen, while the Empress of Asia will take on her former crew on arrival at Hong Kong.

The mixed crews of Japanese, Russians, Slavs and Portuguese are gradually being paid off and the old crews taken on as the anti-foreign trouble simmers down. There is every indication that business will be back to normal in China in a few weeks' time, the message states.

Installation of machinery will begin in about two weeks' time. There are now 225 men employed on the elevator job.

BUS LEGISLATION IS ALREADY BEING DRAFTED

VICTORIA, Sept. 28.—Draft legislation already prepared by the Public Works Department in co-operation with the Attorney-General's Department is designed to revolutionize the operations of passenger buses on British Columbia highways.

Following Hon. W. H. Sutherland's intimation to the Good Roads League that the government intends to take hold of the bus problem at the fall session of the legislature, it was made known today that the draft bill covers the weight, speed, length and width of buses. It also is proposed to place their operation on schedules to prevent speeding.

CHINESE CREWS ARE RETURNING TO SHIPS

Trouble in China Seems to be Subsiding According to Reports Received by Steamers

VICTORIA, Sept. 28.—Advices received by Canadian Pacific officials indicate that all future sailings of the Empress liners will be made with Chinese, who are now applying for their old jobs on the vessels in Hong Kong, where the majority of them deserted several weeks ago.

As the vessels touch at Hong Kong the present Japanese substitute crews will be replaced entirely by the Chinese, so that within a month the service to passengers will be the same as heretofore. The Empress of Canada, which docked from the Orient, Monday, was the first Empress liner to get back her former crew.

The Empress of Russia and Empress of Australia, which are outbound, will complete their trips with Japanese seamen, while the Empress of Asia will take on her former crew on arrival at Hong Kong.

The mixed crews of Japanese, Russians, Slavs and Portuguese are gradually being paid off and the old crews taken on as the anti-foreign trouble simmers down. There is every indication that business will be back to normal in China in a few weeks' time, the message states.

KETCHIKAN HATCHERY HAS VERY BUSY SEASON

Seven and Half Million Eggs Placed in Tanks to Hatch

KETCHIKAN, Sept. 28.—The spawning of approximately 7,500,000 humpback and chinook salmon eggs is now under way at the Territorial fish hatchery on Ketchikan creek, operations having been started during the latter part of last week.

The fish are impounded as they reach the head of the creek, segregated and placed in separate pools to ripen and eventually the eggs are put through the spawning process.

The run of humpbacks up Ketchikan creek is one of the largest in years, it is said, and elsewhere in the vicinity of Ketchikan a similar run has been reported. To the spawning of 9,000,000 eggs at the local hatchery two years ago, is largely attributed the big run experienced this season.

It is the plan of the hatchery force here to plant a quantity of eggs in the lake back of Ward Cove and other placements of eggs are contemplated.

DEBTOR STAYS JAIL BECAUSE REFUSES PAY

Italian Cobbler Defies Order in Court and Completes Third Year at Okalla

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28.—The man who would sooner stay in jail for life rather than pay his debts today held a lonely celebration in his cell at Okalla jail to mark the third anniversary of his bondage.

In another part of Vancouver a woman added up the amount of money that it has cost her to keep that man in Okalla and found it to be $547.50. At the same time she registered her determination to stick to her work in order that she can continue paying the government that 50 cents a day. For the moment she gets in arrears out pops her debtor.

Virginio Durante is the prisoner, Jeanne Viennet is the woman.

Both are determined to beat the other and although the Italian cobbler has to stay in jail until cut down by the Reaper he is willing to pay the price. Three years behind the bars have not changed his heart. He is, today, the oldest prisoner at Okalla in point of "service."

Bootleg Partners

This man and woman were partners in a bootlegging deal and the woman charges that Virginio secreted the cash in an Italian bank.

So, as Durante explained at Okalla, he was thrown into prison on a capias order. This in plain English means an order to restrain debtor contemplating flight, providing he has the assets available.

At stake is only $3,800. To show how determined the woman is, the "board bill of Durante is paid right up to November 17. It has always been settled well in advance.

Won't Give Up Cash

To secure his release when he was first "clapped in jail" the man now working as Okalla cobbler merely had to sign a check which had been upheld by court. But he unblinkingly refused. The money was not in dollars, but in lire.

When it was first banked in Italy the lire was worth seven cents. Now it is considerably depreciated. Consequently lawyers for the cobbler have tried to get him freedom on the plea that the assets are no longer visible. G. M. Grant, counsel, has canvassed every supreme court judge without effect. The law is just as unmovable as Durante or Jeanne Viennet.

Miss Viennet holds the prisoner's bankbook showing how the small fortune has lowered in value. Efforts to declare a bankruptcy and thus lift the load off the "Prisoner of Okalla" are useless, for a workman cannot be declared a bankrupt. As counsel remarks: "The rich may go bankrupt but the poor must pay their debts."

No Beer Served

Under the Arrest Act, Durante is entitled to "beer, ale and other victuals," but because regulations at Okalla prohibit the admission of intoxicants, Durante must find other ways of quenching his thirst.

Several of his Italian friends intend visiting Okalla to help in celebrating the anniversary.

There is a possibility that if Durante remains in prison for a number of years and then gains his liberty, he will be rich. The money in Italy is drawing interest at the rate of 6 per cent, while Miss Viennet's judgment is at 5 per cent.

Which will weaken first? Government, man, or woman? It may take a lifetime to determine.

expedients, declaring that the province had a good record in its municipalities, in spite of the great commitments undertaken in the last construction boom by councils. The problem of finance in this Province had been particularly difficult owing to the fact that many mining and lumbering towns had not been permanent in their character. He instanced the abandonment of Phoenix as an example of a town of from 12,000 to 15,000 people declining to one inhabitant. Sandon's debts had been paid, and disincorporation had followed. Allusion was made to south Vancouver under commissioner government, to Greenwood, and Port Coquitlam, as cases where difficulties had been faced.

The Municipalities, he thought had passed fairly well through the difficulty of giving services, while regarding the interests of the property owner, and they ought to give honor to the ratepayers who carried the burden from 1915 to 1919.
