Pittsburg Wins World Series; Score of Last Game Today 9 to 7

PITTSBURG, Oct. 15.—The Pittsburg Pirates took the baseball championship of the world today from the Washington Senators by batting Walter Johnson, the veteran hurler, all over the lot and scoring the third straight victory over the Senators by a score of 9 to 7 in a furious battle fought in drizzling rain on a soggy field.

The Pirates used four pitchers. Aldridge was wild and was hit for four runs in the first. He was relieved by Morrison who was forced to the showers in the fifth. Kremer took up the job and held Washington safe until he was relieved in the eighth by Oldham.

CULTURE IS MEANINGLESS

Dean Coeman Tells Trustees in Convention It Must be Related to Life

VICTORIA, Oct. 15.—"Culture, which has no bearing on life is exotic, artificial, meaningless as buttons on the back of a man's dress coat or the nose ring of an African 'savage,'" said Dean H. G. Coeman of the University of British Columbia, who addressed the opening session of the B.C. School Trustees annual convention here yesterday.

In an address President George A. Grant outlined the achievements of the association since it was founded in 1905.

Hon. Dr. McLean told the delegates of the attitude of his department and the various recommendations made at last year's convention.

Van Bergen is believed to have been struck by a bridge girder.

KILLED WIFE BUTCHER KNIFE

Young New York Man Stabbed Himself While Police Waited Outside

JERSEY CITY, Oct. 15.—Crazed, he said, because his wife Margaret refused to give up gay company and trips to roadhouses with other men, George Winters, 22 years of age, a post office clerk of New York, yesterday hacked her to death with a butcher knife in their apartment here. While the police which were summoned by neighbors waited outside for him to finish dressing, Winters stabbed himself with the same knife and then opened the door for the officers.

Huge audience in Westholme Theatre responds well to oratory of Attorney General spite of adverse conditions

Driving home point after point to show where the Mackenzie King government despite the difficulties it had labored under during the past four years had accomplished much for the benefit of the Dominion of Canada as a whole and the West in particular, dealing in a forceful and convincing manner with the issues of the day such as the tariff, the railways, taxation and general administration, decrying the blue ruin arguments now being advanced by the Conservatives who themselves in 1921 had predicted that the following few years would see such conditions and emphasizing the fact that Prince Rupert and Skeena district had everything to gain in the return to power of the Liberal party pledged to the development of this port and district, Hon. A. M. Manson, K.C., attorney general, delivered an eloquent and stirring campaign address last night before a crowded audience in the Westholme theatre. CAMPAIGN GOING ON

Hon. A. M. Manson Touring Interior and Mrs. Smith, Northern Mining Camps

Carrying the federal election campaign of Fred Stork, Liberal candidate, into the interior district, Hon. A. M. Manson, attorney general, left on this morning's train for Terrace where he will address a meeting tonight. From Terrace he will go to Hazelton, Smithers and Burns Lake to address meetings. Fred Stork is accompanying him on the trip.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith went through on the Prince Rupert to Anyox, Alice Arm, Premier and Stewart to address meetings. She will be met at Anyox by H. F. Kergin, M.L.A., who will accompany her on the trip. Mrs. Smith will return to Vancouver on the Cardena next Tuesday.

PROGRESSIVE NOMINEE

George W. Nickerson, who was adopted by Robert Forke as a Progressive recently, was nominated today to contest Skeena riding under that banner.

1921. Owing to the lateness in arrival of the steamer, the meeting did not get under way until 9:30 after the large audience had waited patiently for an hour and a half. Even at that from the hour of 8 o'clock on, people were being turned away there being no seating accommodation for them.

The meeting was presided over by S. E. Parker and other speakers were Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, M.L.A., of Vancouver and Fred Stork, M.P.

In opening his address, Mr. Manson said that it was a privilege once again to speak before his fellow citizens of Prince Rupert and a delight to see such an interest being taken in the campaign as the large audience indicated. The position of the elector in Canada was ever becoming a more difficult one and, with conflicting statements on the public platform and in the press, he could not help but wonder how the ordinary voter

CONSERVATIVE NOMINEE

George Bushby, who is leading the Meighen forces in this constituency, makes debut in politics with nomination today.

Lady Speaker Rouses Audience in Westholme Theatre in Urging Return of Fred Stork to Ottawa

"The Conservatives remind me of a story I once heard of a man who was electioneering down East," said Mary Ellen Smith, in her address at the Westholme Theatre last night. He called at a house and asked the wife what political party her husband belonged to. "That is hard to say," she replied. "To the Conservatives he is a Conservative, to the Liberals he is a Liberal." "What is he when he is at home?" the man inquired. "He's a brute," was the answer.

Mary Ellen Smith was like a refreshing breeze. She brought into the gathering a spirit of optimism of faith and of humor and dealt with the big questions of the day in big sweeping terms that carried home to the large audience and elicited a plenteous response. She pleaded with her hearers to remember that Mackenzie King was the first premier who ever had a western policy and she asked support for him through the election of Fred Stork, the local Liberal candidate.

Chance to Carry on

Mrs. Smith said she had been through a number of the constituencies speaking in the interests of the Mackenzie King government. The government that had aroused Canada as no government ever did before. She was much interested in seeing the return of the Mackenzie King government. They had had a hard row to hoe, being returned with barely a majority in the House of Commons and she wanted to see them sent back to be given a chance to carry on under better conditions.

The speaker referred to the condition of the country when they took charge, Canada during the war determined to send the last man and the last dollar and now they had to pay the bill. Who were making the greatest how about this? Who were the blue ruin artists who put us all on the blink? (A voice: "Borden").

"Them's my sentiments," continued Mrs. Smith. They piled up a war debt of two billion dollars and now they do not like to pay it.

Four years ago, the speaker said, the people returned the Liberal party to restore what was possible. In 1921 Mackenzie King headed the largest group of 118 members in the House of Commons. The second largest was the Progressive group and the third the Conservatives. Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Quebec, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island did not return a single Conservative. The King government had a majority of only one including Jabor and

AGE LIMIT IN HIGH SCHOOLS

Proposal is Made at Convention of School Trustees in Victoria

Chance to Carry on

VICTORIA, Oct. 15.—High Schools must not become old men's homes the convention of school trustees here decided this afternoon. The provincial government will be called upon to amend the School Act making eighteen the age limit for admission into any High School in the province. It will be asked, however, that the school boards be given power to admit students over 18 if they see fit.

Other resolutions passed urge the department of education to establish maximum prices for all school books, that the grant of the province towards agricultural instruction be reinstated and that legislation be enacted whereby all persons 21 years and over and not already assessed pay at least a minimum tax for educational purposes in addition to the poll tax.

ANOTHER BOAT ASHORE IN FOG

SEATTLE, Oct. 15.—The Holland-American freighter Endyke went ashore in the fog at midnight on Bentwick Island near Victoria. There is six feet of water in the vessel's forward holds. The Pacific Salvage Co.'s steamer Salvage Queen has been sent to the scene.

G. W. Nickerson and Fred Stork both arrived home from southern campaign tours on the Prince Rupert last night.

No End To Demands
For Higher Duties.

The late Sir John A. Macdonald, after his National Policy got fairly under way, found himself importuned by the manufacturers for higher and still higher tariff duties. He was a Protectionist, but not devoid of humor, and as those demands increased he likened himself to a monkey in a cocoanut tree, shaking down cocoanuts for the manufacturers underneath. Mr. Meighen is anxious to climb that tree and the tariff barons will lose no time in taking their places under its spreading branches.

Higher tariff duties will make a certain number of people richer, but they will make the great consuming masses poorer. A higher tariff means that everyone will have to pay a little more for the necessities of life and the implements of production. Of what earthly benefit would it be to a manufacturer to have the tariff duty increased on what he produces, unless he was thereby enabled to charge more for that product?

A higher tariff will exclude imports and thus give the Canadian manufacturer complete possession of the home market. But of what avail would that monopoly be if he did not charge a higher price than he is now receiving?

Are the people anxious to pay more than they are paying now for their clothing, their hats, their shoes, their stockings and everything they wear? Are they anxious to pay more for food, raiment and shelter? Are they anxious to lessen the purchasing power of whatever money they have? If so, then let them by all means support Mr. Meighen and his candidates.

Meeting Last Night
Good Indication.

The public meeting last night was a good indication of the trend of political affairs in this city. Contrasted with the meeting addressed by H. H. Stevens it would seem to indicate that Stork is the man who is going to be elected on October 29. It was easy to see where the sympathies of the audience lay.

The main appeal of the two speakers was made for Skeena district to return Fred Stork because he is a supporter of the Mackenzie King government. They referred to the elevator as the first fruits of the Mackenzie King policy, secured under most difficult circumstances and asked that Stork be sent back to complete the work commenced.

Other Sections Are Also Heard From.

Other sections of the Skeena riding have also been heard from. Anyox reports that things are going well for Liberalism there. Is that town at the mine adjoining a good majority to be rolled up for Stork, according to the accounts received. Many other places could be cited, all of which indicate that Stork will go back on election day.

Possibly no section of the district has better cause to send back the sitting member than Prince Rupert city, because of the elevator which is now being completed here. The erection of this big "house" has been, as Mr. Manson explained last night, largely at the instance of the member for the district. Stork was the man who got it. His persistence and insistence was what made the Mackenzie King government see the absolute necessity of delaying no longer in spite of the insistent cry for economy in all departments.

QUEBEC TORIES ALICE ARM AS

E. L. Patenaude Formerly Behind Editorial Writer Draws Attention to Sure Signs of Coming Revival
Henry Bourassa Against Laurier Naval Policy

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Right Hon. Arthur Meighen claims to be the leader of a National Party, with a national policy. Yet Mr. Meighen is forced to run by proxy in one of the largest provinces of confederation. He is at present in the undignified position of having as the leader of his party in the great province of Quebec a man who, in order to win seats, is forced to declare himself as "free from Mr. Meighen," and whose candidates on any occasion may renounce Mr. Meighen and all his works from the platform.

In 1921, Mr. Meighen vainly attempted to secure men of real calibre as his lieutenants and ministers in Quebec. He finally brought into the cabinet just before the election Messrs. Monty, Belly and Fauteux. When the voters were counted on polling day, Mr. Meighen found himself without a single representative in this great and important province of confederation.

After much discussion and many conferences, the Hon. E. L. Patenaude was recently persuaded to come back into federal politics. He was immediately acclaimed by the leaderless "Bleus" of the province as the "new chief" of the Liberal-Conservative Party and his speeches have been particularly featured by the fact that the name of Mr. Meighen has been carefully omitted on practically every occasion.

Patenaude Not New

There has been much fuss in Conservative circles over the accession of Mr. Patenaude to the federal Conservative ranks, even in camouflaged form. He has been hailed as one of the greatest men in present day politics. As a matter of fact, this is by no means the first appearance of Mr. Patenaude in the federal political arena. In 1911, he was one of that group who behind Henri Bourassa, opposed Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the naval issue, and whose slogan was "no participation in Empire wars." After the election, the group which was returned on this policy speedily merged itself in to Sir Robert Borden's government. Among those who gave up their independence and entered the cabinet was Hon. E. L. Patenaude. He was head of an insignificant department, but his voice was but seldom raised in debate in the House, and when finally he did leave the cabinet in 1917, his departure was scarcely noticed.

Mr. Patenaude's chief boast appears to be that he left the Borden government on the conscription issue.

Nationalist Platform

Mr. Patenaude's platform is practically the old Nationalist platform remodelled. He refuses to believe that when Great Britain is at war, Canada is at war. He favors the abolition of the British preference. He advocates the placing of embargos on pulpwood, power, nickel and other indigenous Canadian products, and he declares that "he is as free from Mr. Meighen as from Mr. King."

The extravagant claims made in Conservative circles with respect to Mr. Patenaude's great abilities and leadership are highly exaggerated. There is an old saying that, "in the Empire of the blind, the one-eyed man is King." Mr. Patenaude shines undoubtedly in comparison with Mr. Meighen's former lieutenants in the province, but he is neither a Laurier, a Monk, a Pelletier or a Langevin, and in the matter of powers of oratory and attractive personality, cannot compare with any of the fighting lieutenants of Premier King in the province of Quebec.

THE MELANCHOLY TRUTH.

"You look tired!"
"Yes, I've had a bad day. That office boy of mine came in with the old story of getting away for his grandmother's funeral, so just to teach him a lesson I said I would accompany him."

"He took you to the baseball game, I suppose?"
"No such luck; He told the truth for once. It was his grandmother's funeral!"

ALICE ARM AS MINING CENTRE

(Alice Arm Herald)
Although Alice Arm is somewhat quiet, due to many who have completed their season's work on their mining properties, and left for nearby towns, where they hope to make another stake for next summer, it must be admitted that the future prospects of the town were never brighter from a mining standpoint, than they are at the present time. A lot of valuable development work has been done during the past season, and thanks to the exceptionally fine weather of the past few weeks considerable work is still being carried on. Not since the boom days of the Dolly Varden has such a large amount of development work been done.

The principal property to receive development work is the Torie. Everyone is well aware of the possibilities of this wonder mine, and it is unquestionable but that this property will be developed on a large scale in the near future.

The Matilda is also showing signs of developing into a big tonnage producer, and the tunnel on the La Rose is expected to encounter high grade ore at any time. In addition to the above mentioned properties, work has, and is still being prosecuted on other properties, the results of which we should benefit from in the near future.

Mining Men Visit Camp

It has been most gratifying during the past few months to witness the increased number of mining men who have visited the camp, and others are expected in before the season. This increase is a sure sign that Alice Arm is again coming to the front. A number of those visiting the camp represented influential mining companies of Canada, Great Britain, and United States. They all spent considerable time in the camp and gathered valuable data. We are now at a point where the camp either takes an immediate leap ahead, or stays quiet for a few more years. We are all of the opinion that next summer will see the development of the camp on a scale larger than any year since 1920, but it is for everyone to push the good work along and leave no stone unturned in an effort to attract capital into the district.

QUALITY OF BEER

Editor Daily News:
When we voted for beer by the glass under government supervision it was with the idea the government licensed premises would be supplied with real beer and not a liquid of the synthetic variety.

That the beer being sold locally is nothing more or less than chemical rubbish is very apparent to anyone who has drunk a few glasses of it. Surely in a country where excellent grain is grown, a health giving beer could be produced which would not have the detrimental after effects the present wet stuff seems to have. I think there is some sort of a law in the province called the "Pure Food" law to protect the public against inferior foodstuffs, and it would could reach a proper decision. It was not his intention, Mr. Manson said, to endeavor to sway anyone through oratory or argument but to disclose the facts as they stood in connection with federal affairs.

HON. A. M. MANSON THROWS LIGHT ON CONDUCT OF CANADIAN AFFAIRS; PRESENTS INCONTOVERTIBLE FACTS.

Crucial Times

"We are standing at one of the most crucial times in the history of Canada," asserted the attorney general. "Vital issues are before us and particularly before those of us who live west of the Great Lakes. I propose to review conditions as they prevailed in Canada prior to the accession of the Mackenzie King government to power in 1921 and, to do so, I intend to refer you not to anything that the Liberals may have said or to statements of my own but to the utterances of the Conservatives themselves."

Mr. Manson read a statement made in 1919 by Hon. J. A. Calder, a prominent Conservative, regarding the flow of Canadians to the United States. At that time, Mr. Calder had accounted for this through the rapid expansion of industry and trade and the opportunities that presented themselves for young men in United States. Mr. Calder had predicted that the condition would probably continue. The movements of Canadians to the United States, Mr. Manson said, was no new condition. It had prevailed from the days of Sir John A. Macdonald on.

Conditions Under Meighen

Then in 1921, when the Meighen government was still in office, Mr. McQuarrie had referred to the closing down of factories in Canada and the headlines all over the country. There was, Mr. Manson admitted, great unemployment at that time in the city of Vancouver. He, as minister of labor in the provincial government, had endeavored to grapple with the situation and he was glad to say that there had never been again as there had never been before such a breadline as there was in the year 1922.

Mr. Hockin, another prominent Conservative, at that time had placed the blame for conditions on the workingmen of Canada. He (Mr. Hockin) asserted that they were refusing efficiency to their employers and the only way to correct the situation would be by just such a period of depression as the country was then experiencing. "He asked for depression in order to starve the workingmen into submission," declared Mr. Manson.

Financial Situation

Mr. Manson then delved into the financial situation of Canada giving a multitude of convincing figures to compare the standing of the country today, after four years of Liberal administration, with what it was when the Meighen government went out of power in 1921. The Conservative government had come in with a debt of $342,000,000 and had gone out with a debt of $2,422,000,000. In 1921, when the war was over and this did not include costs of re-establishment, the Conservatives had increased the debt by $90,000,000 and, in the last year before they went out of power, they had increased the debt by $81,000,000.

"Today," Mr. Manson said, "Mr. Meighen comes to us and says that the tariff is the only solution of our difficulty. Why did he not apply the tariff in 1921? If a high tariff is virtuous now, why was it not then? No, Mr. Meighen did not add to the tariff to any serious degree. He failed to do in office what he had declared he would do on the hustings."

The answer of Canada to Mr. Meighen at the 1921 general election was that the Conservatives won only 55 seats and thirty of those in three-cornered fights which, had the fights been straight, they might not have won. Six out of the nine provinces had returned not a single Conservative.

Condition of Chaos

Mr. King had come into office to find a condition of chaos prevailing in Canada. The national debt, the cost of living, tax of the public service and taxation regarding the railways. He was one who fought and fought and fought against a local man being appointed to the G.N.R. board of directors. How long do you think a local man would be on that board if Meighen were returned to power? Perhaps, twenty minutes, there was a surplus and to power? Perhaps, twenty minutes, $35,000 was taken off the debt. "Was that not a creditable accomplishment for eighteen months of office?" said Mr. Manson.

In addition to showing a surplus and reducing the debt that year, asserted Mr. Manson, Mr. King had reduced taxation. The necessity of putting stamps on small checks was removed and the tariff was reduced on implements used for the development of the natural resources and industries. The next year had been closed with a decrease of $4,816,000 in the national debt despite the decrease in taxation. In the fiscal year ending September 30, 1925, Canada had paid out of her revenue $25,865,000 off capital debt. "Will you not say that was capable management in spite of what Mr. Stevens may have told you from this very platform in comparing the financial standing of the Conservatives with that of the Liberals?"

The Mackenzie King government, Mr. Manson asserted, had dispensed with 4,485 civil servants saving the country something like five million dollars.

A voice—"They went to the United States."

Mr. Manson—"I don't know where they went to but I know the country was saved the pension of industry and trade and the opportunities that presented themselves for young men in United States. Mr. Calder had put them into a muligan and left it on the stove with the two separate staffs of administration." He had said it was a bankrupt concern but to Mackenzie & Mann he had paid $10,000,000 of the Canadian taxpayers' money for the bankrupt concern.

In 1921 Mr. Meighen joined up the G.T.P., C.N.R., Intercolonial and Grand Trunk Railways, predicted that the condition would probably continue. The two separate staffs of administration." He had said it was a bankrupt concern but to Mackenzie & Mann he had paid $10,000,000 of the Canadian taxpayers' money for the bankrupt concern.

Then in 1921, when the Meighen government was still in office, Mr. McQuarrie had referred to the closing down of factories in Canada and the headlines all over the country. There was, Mr. Manson admitted, great unemployment at that time in the city of Vancouver. He, as minister of labor in the provincial government, had endeavored to grapple with the situation and he was glad to say that there had never been again as there had never been before such a breadline as there was in the year 1922.

Speaking of the elevator at Prince Rupert, Mr. Manson said there might be some doubt as to who had been responsible for getting it. Mr. Patullo and himself and others might have assisted but Fred Stork alone deserved the great credit for its having been obtained. Perhaps every one did not know it because such things were not always broadcast, but Mr. Stork had taken his resignation in his hands and had said that he would resign if another year went by without an elevator. He had stood by his guns like a man and had said: "an elevator or a by-election in Skeena."

A voice—"And why shouldn't he?"

Mr. Manson, — "And why should he not be returned again for the good work he has done?" (Applause).

The force of the opposition to the Prince Rupert elevator had been from the Conservatives who had nothing too bad to say about the project. That was their official attitude toward the development of Prince Rupert.

Mr. Bushby said at Smithers that he supported the Prince Rupert elevator and that he would show Mr. Drayton: "Do you think that a new member is likely to go in and throw Mr. Drayton overboard?" I do not."

Will Make Port

"Mr. Meighen declared in Vancouver that Vancouver was the Pacific terminus of the Canadian National Railway. I declare that Prince Rupert is the terminus. Now the Conservatives propose to amalgamate the two railways of Canada so they will pass into a monopoly. Do you think that would be safe? I do not."

The Conservatives criticized expenditure on the Canadian National Railway. They criticized the golf course at Jasper Park although the G.P.R. had them at Banff, Lake Louise and other resorts. They would spend no money on development of the Alaska business or on the building of hotels. This in spite of the fact that so great was the tourist traffic at Jasper Park this year that two full Pullman trains had to be lined up in the yards to accommodate people who could not be taken care of in the hotel.

"I believe," asserted Mr. Manson, "that the Canadian National Railway is entitled to the same chance as the G.P.R. Given that chance, I will predict that in a fairly short period of time it will become as great an institution as the G.P.R."

Different Stories
"I will venture to say that Mr. Stevens did not say here what he said in Vancouver regarding the railways. He was one who fought and fought and fought against a local man being appointed to the G.N.R. board of directors. How long do you think a local man would be on that board if Meighen were returned to power? Perhaps, twenty minutes, there was a surplus and to power? Perhaps, twenty minutes, utes. We may not have obtained all we would have liked but I say it is better to make what progress we can than to throw what we have made to the winds."

The Elevator

Speaking of the elevator at Prince Rupert, Mr. Manson said there might be some doubt as to who had been responsible for getting it. Mr. Patullo and himself and others might have assisted but Fred Stork alone deserved the great credit for its having been obtained. Perhaps every one did not know it because such things were not always broadcast, but Mr. Stork had taken his resignation in his hands and had said that he would resign if another year went by without an elevator. He had stood by his guns like a man and had said: "an elevator or a by-election in Skeena."

A voice—"And why shouldn't he?"

Mr. Manson, — "And why should he not be returned again for the good work he has done?" (Applause).

The force of the opposition to the Prince Rupert elevator had been from the Conservatives who had nothing too bad to say about the project. That was their official attitude toward the development of Prince Rupert.

Regarding the tariff, Mr. Manson said that low or high tariff would not be suitable to all parts of Canada. The Liberal tariff policy at this time was one of moderation so that the industries of Ontario and Quebec might be protected without unduly handicapping the prairies. That policy was preached by Mr. King from one end of Canada to the other.

Mr. King's fight against the Atlantic shipping combine was also referred to by Mr. Manson and he said that fight would be continued though delayed through the death of Sir William Peterson. It was a problem that the Conservatives had discovered but which only the Liberals had attempted to remedy.

Pledged to Reform

Mr. Manson dealt with Senate reform and said the only way to bring about such reform would be to appoint men to the Senate who were pledged to reform. That was what Mackenzie King was now doing. The process might be slow but it was the only solution.

Canada's trade had been greatly assisted, Mr. Manson declared, through trade treaties that had been executed with such countries as Spain, the West Indies, Australia, etc. The Liberal government had turned an adverse trade balance into a favorable one with the result that Canadian money now received a premium in New York where, in Meighen's last year, a Canadian dollar sold for 80¢. That had been done in four years through ordinary business methods without a high tariff wall.

The trade treaty with Australia had come into office to find a condition of chaos prevailing in Canada. The national debt, the cost of living, tax of the public service and taxation regarding the railways. He was one who fought and fought and fought and fought against a local man being appointed to the G.N.R. board of directors. How long do you think a local man would be on that board if Meighen were returned to power? Perhaps, twenty minutes, there was a surplus and to power? Perhaps, twenty minutes, lia had resulted in expansion of operations at the Powell River and Ocean Falls paper plants.

Freights Rates

Mr. Manson dealt with the freight rates fight and declared that Mackenzie King stood unequivocally for equalization for B.C. whereas Meighen had to make explanations in Vancouver for a statement that he had made in the East that the recent judgment of the railway commission reducing flour and grain rates to the Pacific Coast had been "indefensible."

There had been no grain through the Vancouver elevator until freight rates had been revised three years ago. "Are you prepared to sit by and see your elevator rust? Do you want to see the transportation rates to the Pacific Coast increased again?"

Mr. Manson closed his address by giving figures to show that trade depression and hard times did not actually exist in Canada to such an extent as declared by the Conservatives and making an eloquent appeal for the return to power of the Liberals for the best interests of Prince Rupert.

Momentous Decision

"You stand on the threshold of a momentous decision. Are you prepared to let the elevator go idle, to lose your director on the Canadian National Railways, to throw yourselves metaphorically to the wolves? Regardless of the party to which you may belong, I think you can without shamefacedness stand behind the moderate tariff, the welding influence for the bonding of Canada together, one policy meaning fair play to all, a railway policy of fair play to the National and no monopoly, reduction of the debt, an immigration policy in conjunction with the railways and cabinet representation for the West.

"Locally, I say you can stand behind Stork without hesitation. He has rendered you honest and earnest service. He proposes to carry on the fight night and day. Personally, intelligent self interest demands that you cast your vote for the King government and Fred Stork.
