BOX FACTORY MACHINERY IS READY TO START WORK SOON

Wharf to be built next year also shingle mill --- veneer manufacture and pulp plant in prospect for future

The ultimate objective of the Prince Rupert Spruce Mills Ltd. in Prince Rupert is the establishment of the pulp and paper industry here but there is much to be done in the way of developing the present lumber plant before that can be undertaken. In the meantime, the company has plans in hand for a program of extensions, some of which are already under way while others will be developed in the near future. The present operations of the company which give the city a healthy and steady payroll of some 100 men seem to comprise only the nucleus of much greater things to come.

At the request of Chief Vickers of the Prince Rupert police force, T. Hirata Yioshi, alias Keno, a Japanese fish packer, has been arrested at Vancouver charged with securing the sum of $800 by false pretences from the Somerville Cannery Co. at Prince Rupert.

It seems that Keno, as he was known here, had been purchasing fish for the local Millard cannery and had, according to the allegations against him, been converting money to his own use amounting in all to approximately eight hundred dollars. He was supposed to have gone south on the gas boat Kamanoie and on his arrival in Vancouver was picked up by the police there.

Ted Campbell Gets Seven Years for Attempt to Hold Up Bank at Vancouver Friday of Last Week

VANCOUVER, Aug. 31.—Pleading guilty to attempting to rob the Bank of Commerce branch at the corner of Powell Street and Victoria Drive shortly before ten o'clock Friday morning, Ted Campbell, alias Leonard, a youth living in the neighborhood, was this morning in the police court here sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary.

Ted Campbell, it appears, is under twenty years of age and is known in the neighborhood as an idler and waster. His father had purchased a ticket for him to the harvest fields to work and he got on the train for that place but apparently slipped off before it pulled out and hung around the neighborhood. He had been in trouble with the police on more than one occasion.

LIARD RIVER PLANE HERE

Flying Boat Arrives from Wrangell on its Way to Vancouver

The big Vickers Viking flying boat, which left here on June 1 and spent the summer operating in the Dease Lake and Liard River country, arrived here from Wrangell at 1:45 this afternoon. It flew from Telegraph Creek to Wrangell on Thursday. The ship was piloted by Col. J. S. Williams with S. C. Caldwell as mechanic.

Archibald Little, Detroit mining engineer, who headed the aerial expedition north and his associates will come down the coast by boat. It is the intention to fly the plane south to Vancouver and there take it down and ship it back to its owners, the Laurentide Air Service of Three Rivers, Quebec.

The flight from Wrangell was made in two hours and fifteen minutes, the distance being 180 miles. The machine will push off for Vancouver just as soon as weather is favorable, the idea being to make the 500 miles in one hop.

The big plane covered about 6,000 miles during its activity in the north this summer and there was not a single mishap. It went 200 miles into the Yukon north of Lake Francois and far down the Liard River to the so-called "tropical valley."

Davenport of the Royal Canadian Air Force, who had quite an adventure at the end of last week after having been compelled to make a forced landing in Milbank Sound after the engine in flying-boat GM flew to pieces on account of a broken connecting rod, returned to the city on the Prince Charles this morning. They spent the past week at China Hat, taking the machine down prior to putting it aboard the lightship tender Estevan, which will take it to Vancouver. Flight Lieutenant V. F. Mawdsley, who went south to assist them, also returned on the Prince Charles this morning. They caught the boat at Butedale.

According to Walkem, a better offer has been received from J. H. Harbeck of New York and certain interests.

DAILY EDITION

Monday, August 31, 1925.

Importance of Lumber Industry.

The importance of the lumber industry to Prince Rupert is seen by the perusal of the article on the activities of the local mill published today. It is possible that people of the city do not realize the difficulties of marketing lumber from here so as to keep the yards clear of all grades. For years the mill was closed because of that difficulty and if the present concern has solved it, much credit will be due to them.

It is satisfactory to know that the company plans to extend operations and improvements and that it is looking forward to installation of a pulp mill.

Entertain Those Who Come Next Week.

Next week everyone will be busy and especially the merchants of the city. In spite of this, efforts should be made to entertain visitors from out of town so as to make them feel that Prince Rupert has a welcome for them. It is difficult to carry out this to any great extent but wherever possible it might well be the privilege of citizens to extend their home hospitality to the many visitors who are to be in the city. When Prince Rupert people go into the interior or to the Islands it is found that the people there open wide their doors to us. We are their guests very often and this is an opportunity to return the compliment.

In town we have many activities and so many people come at once that it is impossible to return every act of hospitality at a time like this but it is well to bear it in mind and do our best. The honor of the city is at stake as well as its progress.

Travel Greater Than Ever Before.

Travel is greater this year than ever before. Very largely it is tourist business but there have also been very many visitors to the Portland Canal mining district and they have all stopped off here. The elevator building and other activities of the district have tended to increase travel so that all the steamships have been busy and often have had to refuse bookings.

Queer That Edmonton Has Only One Newspaper.

Edmonton has only one daily newspaper. The morning paper had to suspend publication recently because it could not get sufficient support.

Edmonton is a city of between sixty and seventy thousand people and with a fine country surrounding it. The people there seem to be progressive and everything points to the development of a big city at that point. Incidentally it is the capital of the province of Alberta. In spite of this the second newspaper has not been a financial success. The other paper has such a lead there that it seems to crush out opposition.

The Bulletin was conducted for many years as a purely political newspaper and during that time it lost prestige and seems never to have been able to regain it. Several times it changed hands and, under one management, assumed the appearance of a real metropolitan journal. Still it lost money freely for its owners and now it has lapsed for want of someone willing to risk more money on its publication.

Probably another attempt will be made to revive the morning newspaper in Edmonton because there should be a good field for it in a city that size.

Edmonton Located East of Prince Rupert.

In explaining the location of Edmonton, one of the directories says it is situated 946 miles east of Prince Rupert. That is quite a compliment to this city. To have Alberta's capital located in relation to this terminus is recognizing the stability and importance of Prince Rupert. Some day we shall be the shipping port for the city and the day should not be far distant.

PRINCE RUPERT SPRUCE MILL IS PERMANENT INDUSTRY AND IS MARKETING LUMBER FROM HERE

ing cheese boxes. This company, which already has plants in Chicago and Montreal, is now building a factory in New Westminster. The Prince Rupert Spruce Mills has already supplied New Westminster with 500,000 to 600,000 feet of lumber cut into the dimensions required but Mr. Smith has been urging upon the concern the economy of making the boxes right here in Prince Rupert and while the matter is still in the embryo stage, he is of the opinion that the company will come to see his point of view. Representatives of the company will be coming to Prince Rupert shortly and if they are convinced, as a result of their investigations that it would be more profitable for them to make the boxes here instead of ship the lumber to New Westminster and make them there the manufacturing will be done here. The boxes required for this purpose are 11 inches long by 3 3/4 inches square.

In any case, Mr. Smith expects to make big business of box manufacturing here from lower grade lumber produced in the mill. Machinery for a box factory has arrived and some of it is set up. With the pressure of other business since the mill has been in operation, it has not yet been possible to put the box factory in operation but it may start and day says Mr. Smith. It is expected to make all kinds of boxes here most of which will probably be shipped to Australia, though the mill will also be in a position to accommodate the local fish trade. It is Mr. Smith's intention to gradually work into the spruce veneer business and later install a veneer machine here.

Mr. Smith stated that he had been figuring on the manufacturing of cans here but nothing had yet been definitely decided upon. The idea was, he said, to put cans in the boxes made at the mill and sell them to the local salmon canning trade.

Large Shipments

The Prince Rupert Spruce Mill is now operating to capacity on the basis of an eight-hour day turning out from 120,000 to 150,000 feet per day. The new pony side with shot gun feed and fast resaw recently installed is now in operation cutting airplane stock and edge grain lumber.

During the month of August eighty cars have been shipped from the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill. This is the highest shipment period since the mill was reopened and, now that the stock has been in the yards long enough to be dried and otherwise prepared for the market, and the production is getting up to full capacity, it is expected that 100 cars (or about 2,500,000 feet) will be shipped steadily from now on. With the planing mill and box factory in operation, the plant will be busy the year round, even should snow prevent lumber cutting at times during the winter months.

Mr. Smith expects that he will be able to dispose of a good deal of the lower grade and cheaper lumber for ship lining when the grain elevator is in operation here and ships come to Prince Rupert to load wheat.

To Build Wharf

Most of the lumber so far shipped by the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill has been sent by rail, but, with the development of a market for lower grades and boxes, water shipping will become a factor. In order to handle this business, Mr. Smith announced that it was the intention of the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill to build a wharf next year so that ocean-going vessels may come to the mill for cargo. This wharf will be just to the east of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.'s plant. Nothing definite as to its size has as yet been decided upon, Mr. Smith said.

Another new installation in the mill, Mr. Smith said, was a large planer now being put in. It will replace an old planer and is of sufficient size to handle large boards and box material. About eighty-five per cent of the timber being handled in the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill is spruce, but hemlock, cedar and balsam comes in incidentally and is used for special purposes.

The addition of a shingle machine under separate cover is also contemplated at the mill next year.

Log Supply

Log supply for the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill is an all-important matter in that only the best grade of spruce logs can be used in the plant so as to make possible the highest proportion possible of netter grade lumber.

Mr. Smith owns a block on the Queen Charlotte Islands containing eighty million feet of timber and is interested with T. A. Kelley in another block containing twenty million feet. The latter tract is now being logged for the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill. Besides this, the mill has access to some 400 or 500 million feet on the Queen Charlotte Islands owned by a Minneapolis concern. Next spring logging on this will probably be commenced.

In addition to this supply of logs on the Islands, some 600,000,000 feet of timber in limits at Kluksamteen were acquired by Mr. Smith when he purchased the mill here.

In connection with the bringing of logs here from the Queen Charlotte Islands, Mr. Smith announced that the use of Davis-Kelley rafts was now to be discontinued. Instead the timber will be transported on hulks and the first hulkload will be brought here by the Hecate Straits Towing Co. early in September. A hulk carries about the same quantity of logs as does a Kelley raft, but the advantage of the hulk over the raft is that it eliminates the use of wires in holding the logs together and other assembling work and also reduces insurance charges.

No. 1 and No. 2 logs, brought to the mill here, are much over the general average of logs on the Pacific coast in size. The last Davis raft of logs averaged 3,000 feet per log. If it was desired to select the logs they would average as high as 7,000 feet.

Only No. 1 and No. 2 logs are brought here at present. The balance are sent to the pulp mills.

A Good Staff

Tribute to the efficiency of D. D. McMaster, superintendent of the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill, was paid by Mr. Smith when he said that there had not been a single day lost from any cause since the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill started operations on April 6 last.

M. A. Marley is local sales manager of the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill and J. A. W. Bell is Vancouver sales manager. A. E. Curtis is in charge of the office and R. E. Grieve is accountant.

There are at present 140 men employed in the Prince Rupert Spruce Mill. Forty of them are not of the regular staff but are engaged in construction work in connection with the new installations.

TOWING COMPANY IS INCREASING EQUIPMENT

Purchases Another Barge for Use in South-To Fetch Logs Here

Hecate Straits Towing Co. Ltd. report that they have purchased the American five-masted schooner "Betsy Ross," of 2,500 tons D.W., and will convert her into a barge and use her in conjunction with their barge "Drumwall" carrying log fuel from Chemainus to Port Angeles.

The Betsy Ross is a wooden schooner, 243 feet long, 45-foot beam, and was built in Tacoma, Wash., in 1917.

The large steel barge "Drumrock," equipped as a log carrier, belonging to the same company, is expected to leave Vancouver for the Queen Charlotte Islands at the end of this week and bring her first cargo to Prince Rupert, for the Spruce Mill.

VERY NEARLY SWAM CHANNEL

Story of Effort Made by Colonel Freyberg, V.C., Who Got Within 600 Yards of Finish

The story of how Colonel Freyberg, V.C., got within less than half a mile of swimming across the English Channel after being nearly seventeen hours in the water has just reached this side in English newspapers. The Colonel had exceedingly hard luck, as he was within 600 yards of the shore at the point on which stands the Dover Patrol memorial east of St. Margaret's Bay, and then experienced a heavy tide which was again taking him out to sea, and half an hour later, when the swim was abandoned, he was a mile off the nearest land, which was the Kingsdown rifle ranges. The swim is especially notable from the fact that Colonel Freyberg was wounded time after time in the war and carries the scars of over half a dozen wounds.

Swam All Night

Starting from Cape Grisnez, near Boulogne, at 8:20 on Tuesday night, the Colonel swam with great vigour and determination throughout Tuesday night and Wednesday. Almost the whole time he was using a left over arm stroke with intervals of change to the breast stroke. He was accompanied on board the tug Langdon by his wife and a party of swimming friends, including Mr. George Currie and Captain Godfrey, of the Dover Swimming Club, and two soldiers belonging to the Folkestone Swimming Club. Mr. Miller, swimming master to Dover College, was in charge of the small boat and accompanied Colonel Freyberg in the water at intervals, as did also Mr. Currie and the soldiers.

The weather for the first few hours was very calm, with a certain amount of haze over the Channel. Good progress was made hour by hour, with comparatively small driftage considering that it was the top of the spring tides. The Colonel drew well out from Cape Grisnez, after which there was some drift for an hour or so till the finish of the ebb tide. Then with the turn of the tide what drift there was went to the eastward, and very fine progress was made across Channel, the swimmer getting well up to the Varne lightship (about seven miles off land between Dover and Folkestone) by the time this tide had run out. It was not long after this that the cliffs to the west of Dover were in sight.

Boats Came Out

When the tug was about two miles off Dover quite a flotilla of motor boats came out from the port with parties of swimmers, and these gave the Colonel hearty cheers as they came alongside him. In one of these boats was Mr. Unwins, the Olympic swimming coach, who had been training Colonel Freyberg, and as he came alongside the Colonel asked him to come in the sea and accompany him for the finish. Mr. Unwins at once stripped and was promptly swimming with his pupil, remaining with him until the swim was abandoned about 12:30.

The position seemed most promising, the swimmer being then within 600 yards of the coast, but disappointment was in store, for at this point the tide was sweeping out off the headland, and, strongly as the Colonel was swimming, he was gradually drifted farther from the coast until at one o'clock the bearings showed the nearest land to be a mile off. The position was explained to Colonel Freyberg, and Mr. Miller told him he would have to swim hard to maintain his position for the next four hours, when, with the change of the tide, he would have a chance of swimming in to the shore.

Gave Up

Colonel Freyberg was advised to give up, but asked: "Can't I stop in?" Mrs. Freyberg did not think her husband should be allowed to put in this extra four hours' effort after the long swim he had made, and as there was general feeling among the accompanying party that this was the correct view, the Colonel decided to come out. He swam to the small boat, gripped the ladder, and was helped into the boat by Mr. Miller and Mr. Currie. A hearty cheer being given him as he got in the boat. The swim had lasted 16 hours and 40 minutes, and the distance covered, swim and drift was about 35 miles. Colonel Freyberg was afterwards got aboard the tug Langdon, where he lay down until Dover was reached, when he was assisted into a motor car and driven to a hotel. His long swim had taken a good deal out of him, but he was not extremely exhausted.

Sport Chat

This week will see the conclusion of local league football activities for the year. The last game scheduled is that between the Callies and Sons of England for the Gilhuly Cup, set for tomorrow evening. Should the Callies win—and they have yet to suffer defeat this season—it will be all over but the shouting and the Scots will have this trophy to put alongside the Mobley and Dominion Day cups in the Second Avenue clubrooms. On the other hand, if the Sons of England should win, a play-off would be necessary, and this would probably take place Friday night. The two baseball games on Wednesday and Thursday between Prince Rupert and New Metlakatla will give fans of that game something to interest them before the fair week program rings down the curtain on outside sport in Prince Rupert for the 1925 season.

Louis Phal, known in the sporting world as Siki the Senegalese, the dark-skinned prize-fighter, has made himself so much of a nuisance in the United States that the New York Boxing Commission has ordered him to be deported, an order which has received the endorsement of the United States Emigration Department. As may be remembered, Siki became famous for having his pet lion cub served up as the piece-de-resistance at a dinner in Paris, and by having been beaten by Mike McTigue in Dublin. He made several appearances in Canada and acted very erratically everywhere.

Of late he used to favor a plug hat, a gold-headed walking cane, a monocle, a red tie, and an opera cape, and although he is reported to have taken in as much as $100,000 from his American engagements, he hasn't more than about a thousand of it left, according to statements published.

TOURIST TRAVEL TO ALASKA FALLING OFF

Princess Louise on Last Voyage and Alice Will Make Three More—George and Rupert on One More Trip Each

On her last trip of the season, C.P.R. steamer Princess Louise, Capt. Arthur Slater, northbound from Vancouver to Alaska, was in port from 9 o'clock to 12 noon today. The passenger list of the vessel, totalling 120 persons, shows that there is a decided falling off in the tourist traffic. While this is the last voyage of the Louise this year, the Princess Alice will make three more trips to Alaska in September before being replaced by the winter boat.

C.N.R. steamer Prince George, Capt. Harry Nodden, returned from Alaska at 9 o'clock this morning and will sail for the south at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Alaska travel is also beginning to taper off on the C.N.R. boats, and the Prince George and Prince Rupert will each make one more trip to Alaska before being withdrawn from the northern service. The Prince Charles will take care of the Alaska run for the C.N.R. during the fall and winter.

The Man in the Moon SAYS:-

THE latest use for an atomizer has been discovered by a Scotsman. When he invites a few friends for the evening he gets out a bottle of the very finest brand and sprays the air with it.

AGAIN it is refreshing to read in a Scottish newspaper that Mr. and Mrs. McDougall are both doing well after contributing a dollar each to a local fund.

BUT why be always talking about the Scotchman? There is the Englishman who had been spending an evening out with several wis and after an hour or so wanted to know when they were going to tell a funny story.

"FAST and loose as Oxford bags," is the latest simile.

THE election is said to be close upon us. At any rate, the Tory papers are saying so and the Liberals are looking to the powder in their guns and repairing their breeches.

TALKING of elections, I should like to know if it would be any good for me to invite tenders for my vote and influence. Don't be backward, my friends; I'm on the voters' list and my influence is enough to keep anybody from voting the same way I do.

DID you ever hear about that editor who was robbed of a thousand dollars? It was a fairy tale.

DID you ever hear of the town where they thought their editor clever? It did not exist.

THE difficulty about British Columbia is you can hardly get a glimpse of the scenery for the mountains.

WHAT I like about the Prince Rupert nuts is that you can crack them occasionally and sometimes they shell out.

I HAVE a real story I want to tell but the difficulty is the women all read this column and I don't tell the yarn. Some time, if they all leave town for a day, I'll spring it.

WHEN we look back and think of the advances made by the young people of today over the past generation, it makes us wonder what our children will be doing in about twenty years, time.

NEXT week is school week. This is the golden rule week.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

August 31, 1915

Twenty-one men left Prince Rupert on the Prince George this morning in charge of Sergeant Demers for military training camps in Vernon. The party included Isaac Eardley, Alex Wood, Harry Le Blanc, D. Signuin, W. A. Boulton, H. P. Blake, A. C. Harkness, S. Lecky, R. Thelwall, Hector Grant, Robert Noble, John Perry, Walter Smith, C. H. V. Phillips, George Church, William Sullivan, A. Lloyd Jones, C. Hayhurst, E. A. Rider, Frank A. Wall and J. Grant.

The past two years have seen a marked change in agricultural development on the Queen Charlotte Islands. The pioneers are gradually overcoming the severe obstacles that presented themselves in hewing out homes in the wilderness.

The city council has received tenders for the construction of a roadway to Seal Cove and the re-decking of city streets.

UNION BANK MOVES TODAY

Clients of that Institution Will do Their Business at Royal Bank Starting Tomorrow

The recent amalgamation of the Royal and Union Banks will go into effect as far as Prince Rupert is concerned between tonight and to-morrow morning. The Union Bank here will close its present office for good at 3 o'clock this afternoon and its business will open up tomorrow morning across the street in the Royal Bank. The move will have no effect on the business of the Union Bank clients other than that their accounts will be in future in the premises and under the name of the Royal Bank. The entire staff of the Union Bank is being moved in the meantime to the Royal and the fittings of the Union Bank will be shipped to Vancouver.

Union Banks at Hazelton and Smithers will continue business as Royal Banks. There will be no change as far as the Royal Bank at Burns Lake is concerned but it is understood that, as a result of the amalgamation, the Royal Bank at Telkwa will in future be opened only twice a week for business.

The halibut schooner P. Doreen was taken on dry dock this morning for cleaning and painting.
