Controversy Over Ku Klux Klan Ends When New Resolution Passed

Legislature votes 24 to 20 against principle of passing useless resolutions by House especially of factional character

VICTORIA, Nov. 26.—The British Columbia legislature washed its hands of the Ku Klux Klan controversy, putting an end to the debate on the K.K.K. resolution of Frank Browne, Labor member for Burnaby, when the House voted 24 to 20 for an amendment declaring that inasmuch as the incorporation and existence of civil rights of any organization rest upon the laws of British Columbia and Canada as now enforced, it was opposed to the introduction of "resolutions which can have no practical effect and in particular such resolutions as are calculated to stir up religious and racial dissension."

The amendment was moved by G. E. Davis, Conservative member for Gwetchan-Newcastle and Victor Odium, Liberal member for Vancouver and it definitely killed the Browne resolution which asked the Federal authorities to ban Klan organizers from Canada.

Canon W. F. Rushbrook was among the district clergy arriving in the city yesterday to attend the Anglican Church conference with Canon Gould. The mission boat Northern Cross, of which Canon Rushbrook is in charge, has been tied up at Osland for the winter.

Within two weeks I. W. Kilham, president of the Royal Securities Corporation, who is associated with Peabody, Hough-telling & Co. in the purchase of the Whalen property, is due here to look over the situation with a view to determining when and

Illuminating Address on China Given by Canon Gould at Gyro Luncheon Yesterday Afternoon

"There are tremendous influences at work today moulding the destiny of China and, while the present situation may appear to be full of sinister possibilities, I am inclined to believe that the nation will come out of her present difficulties as one of the greatest stabilizers of human progress and one of the greatest competitors in the world's pathway of commerce."

Such was the conclusion of an illuminating address delivered before the Gyro Club yesterday afternoon by Canon

Gould, general secretary of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada and a man whose church experience has led him into an intimate acquaintance with China as well as many other foreign lands. Canon Gould shed a great deal of light in the course of his address on present conditions in the great Oriental nation and causes that had actuated them. Present civil strife in the country was explained by him in a most interesting and informative manner and he dealt to a great extent with the relation of Great Britain to China and the reasons that had caused China to look upon the British Empire not only as potential cause for its present ills but also as the main means of their ultimate removal. His subject being "Nationality," Canon Gould took as his example of that subject the nation of China and his discourse was confined to that country.

Anti-British Feeling

Two years ago, Canon Gould stated, as a member of the Canadian Famine Relief Committee, it had been his privilege to visit the province of Honan, one of the great tactical and strategic centres of the nation of today as it had been in ancient times. In order to give a background to show the fact that anti-British feeling in China of today was of very recent growth, Canon Gould went at some detail into a description of the surroundings on the occasion of his visit.

"China represents," the speaker declared, "one of the greatest reservoirs of human strength, power and intellect to be found on the face of the globe. As the country is really of such close geographical proximity to us here on the Pacific coast, its problems are something that concern us intimately and will concern us more intimately as time advances."

Present Situation

The present situation in China, Canon Gould stated, had been to a great extent an outcome of the Great War. China in the war had been on the side of the Allies who had been victorious and had entered into the Versailles conference leading up to the treaty of peace with great expectations. She had felt that her problems would be given serious consideration and that a serious attempt would be made to solve them. She had been disappointed on being told by the Allies that, while the nations were interested, her problems did not come within the purview of the Versailles conference but would be given later consideration.

The two great problems in China, Canon Gould explained, were those of extra-territoriality and her autonomy with relation to the tariff. In connection with these problems the country was governed by treaties which had been imposed by outside powers and which she claimed to be unequal. It was freedom in connection with these problems which she sought.

Canon Gould And Chinese Situation.

Yesterday Canon Gould, clearly and succinctly outlined the Chinese international situation from the point of view of the Chinese. He showed the injustice of foreign countries having territorial rights in the country and managing the customs. He did not, however, seem to have given the other side, which was natural under the circumstances.

China is not and has not been a homogeneous country for many years. It has been broken up into factions and there has been no central control that could be depended upon. In many parts of the country bandits have practically ruled instead of the so-called authorities. Even up to a few weeks ago rival factions have been fighting there, so that it was impossible to deal nationally with either.

In dealing with a country of that type, special methods had to be adopted and were adopted. Following the boxer outrages an indemnity was levied against the country and to insure the payment of the indemnity concessions were granted by China. Force was often used by Britain and by other countries to secure treaty rights and these were often unjust, but so were all similar arrangements of that day. China was forced by Britain to open some of her ports to the trade of the world, one of the best things that ever happened to China, but it could hardly be considered just, yet Britain's action made it possible for missionaries to go there. The strong nations have always forced their will upon the weaker. It is a pity that Canon Gould could not while here deliver another lecture on the benefits derived by China from British occupation and the enforcement of treaties.

Chinese Awakening Is Hopeful Sign.

The awakening of China is a hopeful sign. We have mentioned this before more than once. It is a great thing to see a country beginning to realize its possibilities. Many mistakes will be made. Foolish things will be done. Outrages will be perpetrated. They always are during the process of arousing. The future, however, looks very hopeful and we look for the day when China will be a great power in the world. As a country comes to realize its power and influence, every citizen feels the thrill of spring in his veins. He stands more erect. A new dignity comes to him. He is ready to defend his honor and the honor of his country.

Making Good Is Always Important.

It is always important to make good. It is not necessary to win in a contest or to reach the goal in any other endeavor but it is necessary that we should put up the best possible fight or strive to the uttermost to attain that to which we set our hands. In other words we should make good.

There have been many cases where workmen have slowed down on the job in order not to do anyone else out of work. That is fatal. To slow down is to lose power. It is the first step toward losing out, which is the opposite to making good. Neglect of any kind is always fatal. It is injurious to others but to the person who is neglectful it spells disaster. Neglect of small things leads to neglect of larger.

Idea Prevalent Election Soon.

The idea seems to be prevalent that there will be a Dominion election in the spring. It is possible, we grant, but most improbable. It will be noticed that the Liberals, Progressives, Laborites and Independents are all to be seated on the same side of the House and the probability is they will vote together. With similar aims and objects, it is difficult to see how it could be otherwise.

We still hold to the view that there will be no election in the spring. The probability is there will be no election for several years. It is to be hoped that a test will be taken soon so that the country may settle down and forget the question of elections.

tra-territoriality. Canon Gould continued, foreigners residing in China were not subject to the laws of that country but rather to the laws of their own nation as represented by diplomatic officials of that country in China. A foreigner could not be summoned into a local court unless through the officials of his country. This law had been imposed upon China after the Sino-British opium war in 1842 and had been revised on various occasions since that time until it assumed its present shape. Not only Britain but other western powers had shared in the imposition of that law on China. It was one of the main causes of dissatisfaction in China today and was a problem that must be investigated by Britain.

As regarded China's demand for autonomy in relation to the tariff, the tariff was now fixed at 5 per cent ad valorem and it could not be changed by China but only by the powers that enjoyed the treaty. As a result of a tariff conference that had been recently sitting in Peking, it had been unanimously agreed to restore tariff autonomy to that country, beginning in 1929, and to mitigate the present treaty in the meantime. There still remained to be dealt with, however, the more difficult problem of extra-territoriality for which it was now announced another conference would be assembled in the near future with a view to abolition of the present laws.

Great Discontent

So great had been China's discontent, Canon Gould continued, that it had been to a great extent responsible for the calling of the Washington conference in 1920. There again China had brought up her problems and there again they had been put off with the promise that within three months the powers would assemble at a special tribunal to discover the facts leading to the discontent. The only understanding under which the nations would give up the laws of extra-territoriality would be on their being convinced that there was a definite political power in control of the whole country prepared to administer common law on a just and equal basis throughout the country. This law would have to be applied by an independent judiciary not open to bribery and other influences.

The delay of the powers in bringing about the solution of China's problems, Canon Gould stated, had inflamed public opinion in the country. There had been two postponements at the request of China itself and three due to the action of the powers. Naturally the delays caused by the powers had been most prominent in the view of the Chinese themselves and the discontent had penetrated into the masses and inflamed public opinion to an almost uncontrollable pitch.

China and Britain

Why was opinion in China more against Britain than the other powers? In answering his own question, Canon Gould said there had been four more prominent reasons. First, through the Sino-British war in 1842 and the imposition of the treaty that had followed it, Britain was looked upon as the forerunner of the unequal treaties. Second, a similar treaty had been set up by the British in 1858 against Japan and in 1894, after pressure had been brought to bear by Japan, Britain had taken the lead in removing it and other powers had followed. Naturally China was of the opinion that Britain should take the same steps in regard to China as it had done with Japan. Third, at the Versailles conference China had made great efforts to have the German rights in Shantung restored to China. Subsequently, at the London Conference called to deal with the Shantung rights, these rights had been ceded to Japan and not to China and, as a result, the London compact had aroused more suspicion in China as to the British attitude than any other action. Fourth, Britain was recognized in China as the "king pin" in the situation and, if it could be loosened, it was felt that it would cause the entire collapse of the unequal treaties.

National Life

Canon Gould then went on to deal with the national life of China which he said had been virtually recreated within the last two decades. The nation had awakened and was going forward with astonishing leaps and bounds. There had been a complete reversal in the outlook of Chinese life. The tremendous development of athletics was only one example of the change. It exemplified, too, the great physical possibilities of Chinese manhood. The country was getting away from Confucianism and the great dyke that had hemmed in the national spirit was broken down with a tremendous tide of Western thought and vigor rushing into the entire country. Ten years ago two national leaders known throughout the country could not be named. Today one could count ten or fifteen great leaders in a national way.

With the nation awakening, three great military forces were vying for control and Canon Gould went on to describe the activities of each. On their conflict would depend greatly the future of China. It was peculiar but gratifying to note that, in the course of civil warfare, no missions had been injured to any extent thus indicating that the movement was not anti-Christian but rather anti-foreign in protest against unequal treaties imposed as by a superior people upon an inferior.

Hope Not Anxiety

The situation, Canon Gould asserted, was to be regarded with hope rather than with anxiety. There would be restricted civil warfare but it must be remembered that China was striving in a few decades to accomplish a development that had taken centuries in Great Britain and other nations. One reason for hopefulness was the great outburst of national spirit.

"China is facing toward the light," declared Canon Gould, "and I am persuaded that if Britain takes the same steps towards China as she did with Japan that there will be a revolution of feeling there in our favor of a magnitude that we cannot now comprehend, and that then Britain will re-establish herself in the eyes of the people as a great factor for good and fairness."

Archdeacon Rix

The meeting was presided over by Roy McNaughton, president of the Gyro Club, and there was a large attendance of members as well as many guests including members of the district Anglican clergy visiting the city. Archdeacon G. A. Rix was called upon to introduce Canon Gould. The archdeacon, punctuating his remarks with humorous allusions, thanked the club for its hospitality on behalf of the visiting clergy.

The musical program of the afternoon included bass solos by J. Shute of Montreal and saxophone solos by Dick Perks, member of the Winnipeg Gyro Club and leader of that club's orchestra. There were selections by an orchestra consisting of Gyro-Charlie and Will Balagno, Howard White and Dick Perks. Community singing was led by Gyro S. K. Campbell.

LESS TALKING AMONG MEMBERS

Suggestion Made by Hon. A. M. Manson that Speeches in Legislature be Curtailed.

(W. A. DeGraves in Vancouver Star)

Around the corridors of the Legislature the suggestion made by Hon. Alex. Manson early in the debate on the reply to the speech from the Throne that in future the debate be limited to a couple of formal speeches, and that the House then get down to brass tacks and do business, is taking root.

Mr. Manson pointed out that in the Mother of Parliaments and very frequently in Ottawa now, this course is followed.

He also drew attention to the fact that in the legislature this year the debate touched on by-elections, over a year past; Dominion elections, not germane to provincial affairs; freight rates; yellow journals from the United States and elsewhere; irrigation; Pacific Great Eastern; breweries and beer; educational survey; alleged police severity with the Doukhobors; university expenditures; street corner scandal absolutely unsupported by evidence; and other matters which should not have crept into the debate.

"Out of it all, with its tendency toward political recrimination, how can any serious good come?" he asked, and suggested that it would be infinitely more profitable if the various subject matters that had been mentioned were brought to the attention of the House in the form of concrete resolutions emanating from either side, and thus concentrating the thought of the House for the time being upon that particular subject with the desire of getting the consensus of opinion of the members.

Talking the matter over among themselves the members see much merit in the suggestion, and it is not unlikely that more will be heard of it.

Ain't Education Grand?

Ami Uphill, the miner member for Fernie, is a great admirer of education, having as he says, so little himself. He listened to Captain Ian Mackenzie on Thursday when the latter was speaking on the subject of British Columbia's birthday, and was wide-eyed when the Vancouver member quoted Kipling, Pauline Johnston and other poets at length in extolling the beauties and natural advantages of British Columbia.

"My, oh my!" was his admiring comment. "I always thought you were a lawyer, and here you are a blooming poet." Cheers and laughter greeted the remark.

Twigg Resolution

Corridor comment this morning still centres on the manner in which four members of his own party refused to vote on the Twigg resolution in connection with the Janet K. Smith case, and the general impression among both Conservative and Liberal members is the opposition member made a tactical error in his attempt to make political capital out of the utilization of a dead body to secure scientific data to assist the investigating officials in their work.

The fact that Messrs. Cochran, Schofield, Bruhn and Col. Cy Peck, absented themselves without pairing and that Labor and Provincial party members went solidly with the government in voting down the Twigg motion shows how flatly it fell in the House, the Davie amendment to name a committee being voted down, 30 to 15, and the Twigg resolution being snowed under by a 30 to 13 vote.

VANCOUVER PAPER URGES TO ENCOURAGE PRIVATE ELEVATORS

Says Port Will Always Remain Government Monopoly Unless Good Treatment Given Investors

(Vancouver Sun)

Unless adequate grain elevator accommodation is provided in this port, Vancouver is going to be fighting grain embargoes, off and on, for the next ten years.

And until the question of government ownership vs. private enterprise is definitely settled, we will not have adequate elevator accommodation. Just now private capital is fighting shy of this port because it does not know where it stands. Once private capital is reassured in this respect and is given good reason to believe that it will have fair treatment, the whole situation will iron itself out in 24 hours.

But private capital will not come in until it has that assurance, until the City of Vancouver offers reasonable inducements.

The Port of Vancouver is either going to be thrown open to private enterprise and go ahead, or it is going to remain a government monopoly and stagnate. It is up to the people of Vancouver to decide which. And that decision cannot be long delayed.

CRIMINALS DO NOT LIKE GETTING LASH

(Victoria Times)

Vancouver's board of trade has received a letter from an anonymous writer in Seattle complaining because our judges are prescribing the lash for gentlemen who want to take money that does not belong to them.

This is an excellent advertisement for British Columbia's method of administering justice. It would be a good idea to give the letter wide publicity, if only to let our own gentlemen know that if they kick over the traces in this province they will very likely taste this apparently effective medicine.

Canadian judges are doing the right thing by letting it be known that Canada is not a happy hunting ground for thugs. Our citizenship is worth something. It will be a poor day when it is not jealously guarded.

WOULD SEND DELEGATES TO CONGRESS IN CHINA

CALGARY, Nov. 26.—Immediate steps will be taken to raise funds with which to send a delegation of Canadian nurses to the International Nurses' Convention to be held in China in 1929. Plans were formulated to this end at the convention of nurses attended by about ninety delegates from every section of the province.

PEACHES WERE OVER FORTY YEARS OF AGE

SIMCOE, Nov. 26.—A quart-sealer of peaches perfectly preserved, put up whole in 1882, was found in removing contents of a house here. Mrs. Thomas Marshall, of Victoria, was the housewife whose jar was treasured for so many years and then forgotten.

A carload of grain arrived here this week but it was not for the elevator. It came here by mistake instead of a carload of coal which went to Kamloops where the grain was supposed to have gone. The carload of sacked wheat has now been returned by the railway company to Kamloops and the coal is being directed back here.

CAMPAIGN FOR BISHOP'S FUND

Matter of Raising Money Discussed at Meeting Last Night With Canon Gould

OTHER FUNCTIONS

The matter of a future episcopal endowment fund for the diocese, the object being to have a bishop appointed to succeed the late Archbishop Du Vernet, was discussed at the meeting of Anglican church people and district clergy with Canon Gould, general secretary of the Church of England Missionary Society in Canada, last night and plans were laid for the starting of a campaign to raise the necessary money. The meeting was presided over by Archdeacon G. A. Rix and addresses were given by Canon Gould and the archdeacon. This morning there was a devotional service in St. Andrew's Church at which Canon Gould delivered the address. The sacrament was administered.

At 1 o'clock there was a clergy luncheon in the Boston Hall and tonight there will be a social evening in the Church Hall.

Canon Gould will sail on the Prince Rupert tomorrow morning for Vancouver. Rev. J. S. Brayfield of Anxox and Rev. A. W. R. Ashley of Stewart, who came here to attend the meetings with Canon Gould, returned north last night.

NICE COMPLIMENT TO JAPANESE PEOPLE BY VISITOR TO RUPERT

In his address at the United Church congregational supper Tuesday night Dr. S. S. Osterhout paid a great compliment to the people of Japan. After telling of the rapid spread of Christianity in that country he referred to the Japanese as being a wonderful people. He found that their co-operation was splendid. There were no divisive tendencies among them as with Canadians. Among Christians loyalty to the Mikado seemed to be transferred to their religion. Some of the missionaries returned to Japan without any means of support and they refused to accept salary for fear someone would say they were working for money.

In Kope there were 1,700 students, ninety per cent of whom were exponents of Christianity. Every walk of life in Japan was permeated and influenced by Christianity.

TORONTO WOMEN IN TECHNICAL SCHOOLS

They Learn all Sorts of Things Even How to Look After Their Own Cars

TORONTO, Nov. 26. — More and more the technical school is becoming a favorite evening resort for women of all ages and all sorts of tastes. A punctured tire, or some difficulty with the engine presents no problem to the woman who has learned at the Central Technical School the why and wherefore of motor collapses and how to remedy them. Again, in an age when women are doing men's work, it is not surprising to find them students of carpentry. Last year fifteen public school teachers presented themselves at classes in manual training, and so quickly did they progress that when the night school term was over each proudly displayed a tea wagon constructed by her own hands. Wood-carving attracts those of a more artistic bent, and a few very ambitious girls have taken instruction in architecture.

Classes in cooking, household management, dressmaking, millinery, drafting and designing, and embroidery, are always well patronized, and not a few girls are interested in the making of pottery, the construction of jewellery, and the art of photography. Many seek to improve their monetary position by learning shorthand writing; some master illustrating, while others devote their attention to object and antique drawing. The study of textiles and of methods of cleaning and washing different fabrics, also appeals to a good many practical housekeepers. Of the 500 students of electricity at present enrolled at the technical school, 5 per cent are women and occasionally a mere female enlists in the chemistry classes.

Walter, this coffee is nothing but mud.

Yes, sir, it was ground only a little while ago.

WHEAT STEALERS AT VANCOUVER ORGANIZE

One Member of Union Fined Ten Dollars: Novel Method of Tapping Grain Cars

Wheat Stealers' Union! Harbor police laughed when they first heard the term applied to a juvenile gang. Now they don't laugh. Bitter war has been opened against a secret robber gang in which Canadian Pacific Railway and Vancouver city police have been asked to help, says the Vancouver Star.

When Maurice Kirby was haled to police court today and fined $10, harbor police, as represented by Sgt. Frank Waters and Constable McMillan who made the arrest, believed they had a minor member of the youthful clique.

Use Dime Novel Methods

Blending business methods with the theatrical, the Wheat Stealers' Union has carried off thousands of dollars' worth of wheat since the opening of the crop movement by drilling holes in the car bottoms through which grain flowed into ready bags. Afterwards holes were plugged and the car chalk-marked with a mysterious device—a roughly drawn rat.

Self-Appointed Chief

Officers have been elected by this rat union. That is, the executive board was elected of senior boys near the "twenty" age. The chief appointed himself.

Harbor police have been able to gather that meetings are held on an old hulk somewhere near the foot of Gare Avenue. Very young boys are employed to do the actual stealing. They deliver the sacks to oldsters and the chief does the marketing. Before the "kids" are given the countersign they must swear "by the rat," that they will never divulge the inner secrets of the order. Blood-curdling penalties are provided.

Sounds Foolish—But

Harbor police said today they smirked at the dime-novelishness of the Wheat Stealers' Union, but they have been forced to deal seriously with the situation because the wheat is actually being stolen.

Vapors Check a Cold Overnight

There are many ways to treat a cold but only one DIRECT way—with vapors that can be inhaled. Vapors penetrate immediately into every corner of the air passages and lungs, soothing and healing with every breath.

Vicks is so remarkably successful in treating cold troubles because it acts like a "vapor lamp in salve form."

When rubbed over throat and chest the body heat releases vapors of Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

This double, direct action often checks the worst cold overnight.

The Man Who Talked at Random

HE sat in the window-corner of the Pullman's smoking compartment, and breathed fatly and uttered large opinions in a suety voice. It grew late, as so often it does; and he put the quietus on a discussion with the ponderous statement:

"I don't read advertisements. They have no effect on me at all. I'd never miss them if they stopped printing 'em."

Then he glanced at his advertised watch and sought his lower birth.

In the morning the ad-skeptic contorted himself out of his advertised pyjamas into his advertised underwear, drew on his advertised socks, adjusted them with his advertised garters, got into his advertised clothes, laced his advertised shoes and added himself to the congestion in the wash-room.

There he shaved with an advertised razor, using advertised shaving cream; brushed his teeth with an advertised toothbrush and advertised dental cream, washed with advertised soap, and brushed his hair with an advertised brush. Buttoning his advertised collar on an advertised button, he neatly knotted his advertised tie, gave his advertised suspenders a tug or two, and finished dressing.

Let us leave him there, this man who never reads advertisements!

LICENSED BOARDING HOUSES ARE NEEDED

Treatment of Girls Discussed by Magistrate Margaret Patterson in Address

TORONTO, Nov. 26.—The need of licensed and supervised boarding-houses were stressed by Magistrate Margaret Patterson in her address to the American Women's Club on "Some of the needs of the city revealed by the Court." Vividly the speaker pictured the old-time courts and contrasted them with those of today, telling something of the domestic relations tangles which she has to unravel. Speaking in defence of the indeterminate sentence, she said that it was the only way of getting girls away from undesirable companions.

COAL OUTPUT INCREASING

B.C. Collieries Already Nearly Four Hundred Thousand Tons Ahead Last Year

VICTORIA, Nov. 25.—In the ten months ended October 31 last British Columbia collieries produced 303,040 long tons of coal in excess of the output during the same period in 1924. According to figures just issued by Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, the total output of coal in the province in the ten months was 2,004,599 long tons compared with 1,614,559 tons in the corresponding ten months of last year.

While Vancouver Island's output is still running less than that last year by 74,004 tons and the production in the Nicola Princeton district is in arrears 53,107 tons on the 1924 output, the Crow's Nest Pass collieries which were closed down the greater part of 1924, have been operating steadily this year and their output, 727,350 tons compared with 207,552 last year, shows a gain of no less than 519,798 tons being responsible for this year's provincial excess over the 1924 output.

Vancouver Island's total production this year was 1,140,169 tons compared with 1,214,175 tons in the ten months of 1924 while in the Nicola Princeton section the figures were 136,925 compared with 189,832.

Of the Island collieries the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited has produced 401,154 as against 456,463 tons in 1924; the Western Fuel Corporation Limited, 450,502 as against 457,143 tons.

PORETELLING FUTURE IS NOT IMPOSSIBILITY SAYS SIR OLIVER LODGE

In a letter to the London Times Sir Oliver Lodge says: The extent and power of human inference cannot be considered fully known as yet, and it is unwise for the law to condemn people for attempting to forecast the future as if that were so manifestly impossible as to be ipso facto fraudulent.

Admittedly there are certain ridiculous superstitions—as if human destiny could be determined by the fall of playing-cards or by the position of planets—but the extent to which forecasting of the future can be achieved is a matter for scientific inquiry. There is nothing absurd in the idea. A railway time table predicts the trains at least a month ahead. An astronomer can predict eclipses several centuries in advance. Some experts succeed in forecasting the weather for, say, 24 hours. And statesmen attempt to foresee the result of an election or the probable attitude of a self-governing State. So some power of prediction is known to exist, though manifestly subject to uncertainty. The law against foretelling was passed in times of ignorance and unscientific stupidity. Legislation should not be used for stopping material for investigation, even if intended only as a wholesome check on fraud. I would not deny that foolish people may be misled of shillings or half-crowns by pretended seers—who are an admitted nuisance—but it seems a trivial evil about which to set the law in action. It is proverbially easier to prosecute the rogue who steals the goose from off the common than the practitioner on a larger scale who steals the common from the goose.

ALASKA RAILROAD IMPROVING SAYS GENERAL MANAGER

Conditions Along Route Getting Better and Tonnage Looking Up

SEATTLE, Nov. 25.—A doubling of the present tonnage of the Alaska railroad will take it "out of the red," Noel Smith, general manager of the road on temporary leave of absence from the Pennsylvania railroad, told the Seattle Mining Club at its luncheon Wednesday. A big cut in operating costs can be brought about by replacing rotting trestles with steel trestles and earth fills, Smith said. The old trestles were constructed of green timber, often with the bark on it, with the result that decay set in.

Smith said that industrial and mining conditions along the railroad are improving, with tonnage offered for transportation steadily increasing.

Falcon Joslin criticized the lack of government support in the early stages of the railroad, declaring that with a more concerted effort on the part of various departments the road could have received far greater revenues. Joslin also voiced his opposition to the route of the railroad adopted by the government.

FILED BRIEF WHITE HOUSE

Alaskan Claims Lawless Condition Exists in Territory and Asks Enforcement

WASHINGTON, D.C., Nov. 25.—John W. Frame, describing himself Republican national committeeman from Alaska, has filed a brief in the White House against the reappointment of Judge Thos. M. Reed to the district court of the First division of Alaska and asked that "no person be appointed or confirmed to fill any federal office in Alaska unless he believes in the enforcement of all laws."

Frame accused Former Governor Scott C. Bone and District Attorney Arthur Shoup of trying to deprive him of his place on the national Republican committee, and recited that he was not seated at the Republican national convention in Cleveland, although he received a majority of votes cast for national committeeman in the Alaska primary.

Frame cited the grand jury reports at Ketchikan in October 1923, and in October, 1925, as showing "lawless conditions," and declared that Judge Reed "favors a restricted district, which is made the haven of criminals in general."

Frame also incorporated in his brief the narcotic charges made in the report of a grand jury at Valdez.

SYNOPSIS OF LAND ACT AMENDMENTS

PRE-EMPTIONS

Vacant, unreserved, surveyed Crown lands may be pre-empted by British subjects over 18 years of age, and by aliens on declaring intention to become British subjects, conditional upon residence, occupation, and improvement for agricultural purposes.

Full information concerning regulations regarding pre-emption is given in Bulletin No. 1, Land Series, "How to Pre-empt Land," copies of which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the Department of Lands, Victoria, B.C., or to any Government Agent.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes, and which is not timberland, i.e., carrying over 8,000 board feet per acre west of the Coast Range and 5,000 feet per acre east of that Range.

Applications for pre-emption are to be addressed to the Land Commissioner of the Land Recording Division, in which the land applied for is situated, and are made on printed forms, copies of which can be obtained from the Land Commissioner.

Pre-emption must be occupied for five years and improvements made to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivating at least five acres, before a Crown Grant can be received.

For more detailed information see the Bulletin "How to Pre-empt Land."

PURCHASE

Applications are received for purchase of vacant and unreserved Crown lands, not being timberland, for agricultural purposes; minimum price for first-class (arable) land is $5 per acre, and second-class (grazing) land $2.50 per acre. Further information regarding purchase or lease of Crown lands is given in Bulletin No. 10, Land Series, "Purchase and Lease of Crown Lands."

MILL, factory, or industrial sites on timberland, not exceeding 40 acres, may be purchased or leased, the conditions including payment of stumpage.

HOMESITE LEASES

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesite, conditional upon a dwelling being erected in the first year, title being obtainable after residence and improvement conditions are fulfilled and land has been surveyed.

LEASES

For grazing and industrial purposes areas not exceeding 40 acres may be leased by one person or a company.

GRAZING

Under the Grazing Act the Province is divided into grazing districts and the range administered under a Grazing Commissioner. Annual grazing permits are issued based on numbers ranged, priority being given to established owners. Stock-owners may form associations for range management. Free, or partly free, permits are available for settlers, outposts and travellers, up to ten head.
