YESTERDAY'S ELECTION WAS VERY CLOSE

INCOMPLETE RETURNS INDICATE LIBERALS MAY YET RETAIN POWER OTTAWA

No Decisive Results from the Election of Yesterday Although Conservatives Look Like Winners

Premier and seven of his cabinet defeated but King is offered another seat; will make statement later

PROGRESSIVES ALMOST ELIMINATED
No second general election desired so independent groups will vote with the government

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—All the returns are not yet in and with close to twenty constituencies to hear from it is impossible to state definitely what will be the final outcome of the election of yesterday. The Conservatives have within four or five of a majority over all, but it is hardly expected they will get the required number to give them a majority. In the meantime Mackenzie King is holding on to the Premiership and may continue to lead the government. Nothing is certain. There are a dozen seats the Premier can have if he wishes them and whether he continues premier or not he will probably wish to be in parliament.

CORONER JURY GIVES VERDICT

Harold Berensen up for Preliminary Trial on Murder Charge Today
VANCOUVER, Oct. 30.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of Evedoskoff, the Russian sailor on the steamer Grotton Hall early Wednesday morning, yesterday returned a verdict of death due to a wound inflicted by a shipmate, Harold Berensen, who will come up for preliminary hearing on a charge of murder today.

CHARGED WITH TAKING MONEY

Employee of Granby Brought from New York in Answer to a Warrant.
VANCOUVER, Oct. 30.—H. J. Ballion, arrested in New York on a warrant charging him with fraudulent conversion, appeared in the police court today and was remanded until November 6. Ballion is alleged to have converted to his own use approximately $2,000 of the funds of the Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, with whom he was employed.

Walter Shaw returned on the Galala last night from Vancouver. He is located in the Fraser Valley and has come north to make arrangements for permanently moving south in the near future with his family.

tend to discuss the situation with the Governor and I will then make a statement of my intentions."

Possible Next Step

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—Should Hon. Arthur Meighen not secure a clear majority in the House of Commons as the result of the election of yesterday, gossip has it in Liberal circles, that Mackenzie King will decide to meet Parliament and challenge a vote of confidence on the issue of high protection. On such a vote the Liberals think all members not definitely aligned with Meighen would vote with the

CABINET SLASH WAS BAD ONE

Premier and Seven of His Ministers Defeated at Polls Yesterday

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Besides being defeated himself, Premier Mackenzie King lost seven other members of his cabinet in the landslide yesterday which carried the Liberals into a minority in the new Parliament and gave the Conservatives either a majority or very close to it. While final results are not known it is sure that the following Liberal ministers were defeated:

- Hon. W. E. Foster, secretary of state.
 - Hon. Herbert Marler, without portfolio.
 - Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor.
 - Hon. G. N. Gordon, minister of immigration.
 - Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways.
 - Hon. Vincent Massey, without portfolio.
 - Hon. Thomas A. Low, minister of trade and commerce.
- It is also probable that J. E. Sinclair, minister without portfolio will be shown to have been defeated when all the returns are in.

WHALEN SALE IS ON TODAY

Over Five Million Dollars Offered for the Plants and Timber, it is Said

VANCOUVER, Oct. 30.—An application for further postponement of the sale of the bankrupt Whalen Pulp and Paper Company's assets by holders of the second debenture issue was refused by Mr. Justice Gregory in chambers yesterday with the result that the sale will be held today.

It is understood that an offer for the properties amounting to more than five million dollars has been received, which would protect the holders of the first bond issue. The assets of the company include three pulp mills, one of them at Swanson Bay, another at Port Alice on Vancouver Island and a third at Woodfibre. There are also extensive timber limits under perpetual lease from the provincial government.

Stork Elected by Huge Majority Yesterday in Constituency of Skeena

Fred Stork, member for Skeena in the last House of Commons, was re-elected yesterday by a large majority over George G. Bushby, Conservative candidate, and was also given a plurality over both opposing candidates. Figures for the riding as far as available this morning gave Mr. Stork a majority of 706 over Mr. Bushby and a plurality of 37 over both Mr. Bushby and Mr. Nickerson. The latter will lose his deposit. All the more important polls have been accounted for and delayed returns from outlying points cannot possibly affect the general standing.

Mr. Stork was given a majority of 370 and a plurality of 32 in Prince Rupert. Returns from outside points in the district increased his lead by 236. At the last election he was given a majority in the riding of 38 over Col. Peck, the Conservative, his lead in Prince Rupert having been at that time 219.

The total vote in Prince Rupert was 2,228 as compared with 2,159 in 1921. The district vote also shows an increase as incomplete returns this morning for the entire riding gave a total of 6,571 as compared with the total vote in 1921 of 6,481.

There were two notable though not unexpected turnovers from 1921 at district points. Terrace gave Mr. Stork a majority of 10 whereas Col. Peck received a majority of 11 in 1921. Port Simpson, a traditionally Conservative point, also switched giving Mr. Stork a majority of 19 as compared with a majority of 11 for Col. Peck in 1921.

Mr. Stork received majorities at such points as Ootsa Lake, Grassy Plains, Duthie Mines, Gientanna, New Hazelton, Kitsumkalum Lake, Smithers (103), Port Clements, Skidegate, Tow Hill, Burns Lake, Rose Lake, Premier Mine, Discovery, Francois Lake and Allin. Mr. Bushby won Telkwa, Alice Arm, Queen Charlotte City, Massett, Wistaria, Usk, Stewart, Butedale, Ocean Falls, Anyox, Hazelton and Port Essington. At no points did Mr. Nickerson receive a majority and at very few places did he make even second place.

The following are the returns for various polling divisions in Skeena Riding up to noon today:

Elections Over Without Result.

The elections are over and the results are most disappointing. Neither of the big parties has a majority and it is impossible to say what is likely to happen. Everybody is speculating on the outcome. With Premier Mackenzie King and a number of his most prominent ministers defeated it is difficult to see how he can carry on successfully and if Meighen is called on to form a government, he too will be in a minority in the House. It is possible that another election may be necessary, although the huge expense of an election should deter any rash move with that end in view. The country has to pay the cost and meanwhile business stagnates.

Possibly by the time this appears, the leaders on both sides may have made statements which may clear the air somewhat.

Conservatives Elated Over Their Success.

It is very clear that there has been a big turnover toward Conservatism. Quebec has held her own, relinquishing only four seats to the Conservatives, but taking the country as a whole there has been a wonderful change of sentiment since the previous election. Yet the landslide has not been large enough to place the Conservatives permanently in power. Unless the Progressives and Independents support them they cannot control the House of Commons and carry on the government. It is possible they yet may not have a chance, although it is difficult to see how the present government can carry on under the circumstances.

Many Are Looking For Precedent.

There have been few cases like the present one to guide us in prophesying what is likely to happen. In British Columbia some years ago there was a case where a premier was dismissed by Lieutenant-Governor McInnes when he seemed to have been beaten at the polls but he was severely criticized for doing so. The usual thing is for the Government to meet the House of Commons before resigning unless the majority against them is very pronounced. In this case, if the present government meets Parliament it is quite possible it may have a majority of five or six and in that case could carry on. In the meantime seats would have to be found for the Prime Minister and members of the government who were defeated or newly appointed members of the cabinet would have to go back for re-election.

Fred Stork Got Splendid Majority.

Skeena showed its appreciation of the services of Fred Stork by returning him again at the head of the poll but with a much larger majority than before. The electors were not in the least doubtful as to what they wanted. While in some polling places George Bushby secured majorities the others more than offset any such local leads. Prince Rupert rallied to its member in grand style and set the pace for the other parts of the district. What Mr. Stork's position will be in the new House does not at the time of writing appear, although it is quite possible he may be on the opposition benches.

NEW ZEALAND HAS ELECTION

Campaign Warming up With Polling Day Set For Next Wednesday

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Oct. 30. (Canadian Press).—New Zealand's general election will be held on November 4 and the campaign will be sharp as well as short. It has warmed up considerably since it opened, although there seems not to be any outstanding issue before the people calculated to inspire more than the ordinary enthusiasm of an election contest.

The Reform (Ministerial) Party's program emphasizes the importance of prudent finance, business administration, taxation reform and the promotion of increased production by closer land settlement and the extension of scientific agricultural education.

So far as Imperial policy is concerned, Premier J. G. Coates follows previous declarations in which he has emphasized the country's loyal attachment to Great Britain and her readiness to contribute toward naval defence.

A new proposal put forward by Premier Coates is the classification of unoccupied lands for methodical development and the experimental use of unproductive areas with a view to submitting schemes of overseas settlement.

The program of the Labor party embodies numerous extensions of State enterprise, and particularly the control of land settlement under a new "use and hold" policy.

Sir Francis Dillon Bell, who has been attorney-general and a member of the Reform Government since its inception, is resigning his office and intends to visit England in March next, but he may remain a member of the executive. Sir Francis was premier of New Zealand for a short time after the death of the veteran premier, W. F. Massey. He accepted the office temporarily. He is 75 years of age.

PRODUCERS' ELEVATOR IS VICTORIA PROJECT

Statement Made That Work Will be Started so as to Complete Work for Next Year

VICTORIA, Oct. 30.—Construction of Victoria's first elevator, the preliminary plans for which have been prepared, will be started in time to insure its completion next year, it was announced by James A. Mooney, president of the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals, Limited.

Mr. Mooney returned to the city from Vancouver after making preliminary arrangements in connection with the elevator which is to be carried by the Panama Pacific Grain Terminals Limited at Ogden Point.

He is pleased with the way the project is moving. The unfavorable weather on the prairies and the election campaign, he says, has interfered somewhat with progress, but it is the intention to proceed with the erection of the elevator as soon as the final plans have been completed.

Mr. Mooney is very highly gratified over the assurances received from the Canadian National Railways in regard to adequate trackage at Ogden Point, and slips and ferry facilities for the movement of grain to this port from the mainland.

"I would like it to be clearly understood that this is to be a producers' elevator," said Mr. Mooney to The Times. "The great bulk of the stock is being held by the farmers who naturally will see that the elevator is kept filled."

HALLOWE'EN IS TOMORROW

Ancient Customs Were of Pagan Origin Connected With Druidic Faith

FAIRIES AND WITCHES

Frolic and Fun Prevail on Last Day of Month in Many Countries

There is perhaps no night in the year which the popular imagination has stamped with a more peculiar character than the evening of October 31, known as All Hallow's Eve, or Hallowe'en. It is clearly a relic of pagan times, for there is nothing in the church's observance of the ensuing day of All Saints to have originated such extraordinary notions as are connected with this celebrated festival, or such remarkable practices by which Hallowe'en is remembered.

Third Festival

It is the date of the last of three festivals held by the Druids, who in olden times were scattered over Northern Europe. Those festivals were observed on May 1, the time of sowing; June 21, the season of the ripening of the crops; and October 31, the harvest season. One of the religious rites of the Druids consisted in maintaining through the year immense fires on stone altars erected upon eminences in honor of the Sun God. On the night of October 31, the Druids assembled at the altars in their snow-white robes, and at a given signal solemnly extinguished the fires. New fires were then kindled in the belief they would protect each homestead from peril so long as the fires remained burning.

By a very natural transition the Hallowe'ep fire came to be looked upon as a charm against evil spirits; and even as late as the seventeenth century it was customary for the farmer to make a circuit of his acres, brandishing a lighted torch and chanting or singing some doggerel rhyme to protect his farm from evil during the coming year.

New Belief Entertained

As the Druidic faith faded in the light of Christianity, the heathen festivals lost much of their grandeur and former significance, and assumed a lower character. Gradually the simple country folk came to believe that on October 31 the fairies forsook their hiding places to dance in the forest glades, while witches, goblins, and other evil spirits held revels in deserted abbeys, or plotted against mankind in the shadows of ruinous castles and keeps. According to legend it is a night set apart for the walking of spirits on the earth plane.

Certain forms and ceremonies have come to be regarded as part and parcel of Hallowe'en, nuts and apples always taking a prominent part in the festivities, in fact, in the North of England, this night is known as "nut-crack" night. Everyone has been amused at the quaint custom of ducking or hobbing for apples, a form of amusement dearly loved by children. Another old custom is to eat an apple while standing before a mirror, and the face of one's future husband or wife will be seen reflected over the right shoulder. There is an old custom of hanging a wet shirt sleeve by the fire, and watching it until midnight, when the future husband will turn the sleeve. Burns alludes to this: "The last Hallowe'en I was waukin' My droukit sark-sleeve, as ye ken, His likeness cam' up the hoose slaukin' And the very gray breeks o' Tam Glen!"

Lovers Are Tested

Brand, in his "Popular Antiquities," says, "It is a custom in Ireland, when the young women would know if their lovers are faithful, to put three nuts upon the bars of a grate, naming them after the lovers. If a nut cracks or jumps, the lover is unfaithful; if it blaze or burn, there is regard for the person making the trial; if the nuts named after the girl and the

Such are some of the popular fancies attached to Hallowe'en. But frolic and fun, fancy and pranks make the night dear to hearts of young and old alike. Much real fun may be had, but the foolish and destructive practice of stealing gales and damaging property, etc., does nobody any good and is pointless effort on the part of the hoodlums who indulge in this form of sport. But all may burn candles, bob for apples to their hearts' content, and find as much pure joy and fun as possible on All Hallow's Eve.

MATTER OF ETIQUETTE

WENNIPEG, Man., Oct. 30.—(By Canadian Press.)—In the city police court recently a woman accused of selling liquor was faced by a witness who said he was the purchaser. "Do you want to ask him any question?" said the prosecutor. The accused replied in a shocked voice, "But I don't know the gentleman! and because of the glaring breach of etiquette in a court room not a word would she address to him."

TENDERS WANTED.

A VALUABLE TIP.

A man once complained to a broker that he couldn't get back a loan of one hundred pounds from a debtor. Being advised to sue, the unlucky creditor had to confess that he had no note or other written acknowledgement of the debt.

"Write to him," said the financier, "and tell him that you must have two hundred pounds back at once."
"But it was only one hundred pounds," objected the other man.
"Exactly. He will write back, and then you will have your acknowledgement."

BRINGING UP FATHER

AL SMITH IS LOOKING AHEAD

Governor of New York Opens Campaign for 1928 Presidential Election

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(By Canadian Press)—Governor Al Smith of New York, in his recent trip to Chicago and speaking before a big demonstration, virtually opening his campaign for the 1928 presidential nomination, is not at all pleasing to many democratic leaders. The fact is that many long-headed democratic chieftains would like to banish both Smith and McAdoo until after 1928. They see no prospect of party harmony or party success in the presidential campaign until both are put out of business as serious political factors.

Smith is almost sure to be a more powerful candidate in 1928 than he was in 1924. He is busy building up a potent organization. On the other hand, the antagonism to him among some elements for religious reasons, prohibitions, and other reasons, seems likely to be even worse than in 1924. Smith's activity, as many see it, means inevitably a badly split democratic party in 1928. Possibilities exist of such bitterness in the next democratic convention that there will be a bolt. Smith's nomination is hardly possible in view of the feeling of some elements against him but should he be nominated his election would evidently be doomed to failure in advance. The McAdoo forces would line up to kill off Smith just as the Smith forces would line up to kill off McAdoo.

Republican leaders are not at all displeased over Smith's activity. They feel that it makes the situation in 1928 easy for them. They would expect to get the Klan vote in a body if Smith should be named.

The prospects are that the democrats may be able to capture the Senate next year. The Smith and anti-Smith fight will have little effect on the senatorial contest, as each senatorial fight will take on many local aspects. However, many democratic leaders are apparently cold and indifferent to democratic victory next year. Their reason is that they believe the democratic party would be in a better position for 1928 if the Republicans should continue to have full responsibility for all parts of the government until that time.

MAITLAND'S MESSAGE TO SKEENA PEOPLE

President of B.C. Conservative Association Sums up Results of Election

R. L. Maitland, president of the B.C. Conservative Association, made the following statement last night:

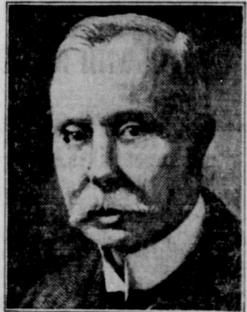

"We must congratulate Mr. Stork upon his election. The Conservatives of Prince Rupert are now in a position to see clearly the necessity for a campaign of organization. In Mr. Bushby we had a candidate of the highest possible standard, an honor and a credit to the constituency.

"Mr. Bushby was defeated by an influence that, apparently does not exist in other parts of British Columbia which is a tariff province and B.C. went Conservative.

Dealing with the Dominion situation Mr. Maitland said Mackenzie King accepted the present situation when he asked for a dissolution. He said he couldn't

"Fruit-a-tives" bring relief from Chronic Constipation

MR. FRED LUDLOW

"For a great many years, I was a martyr to Constipation and Indigestion; nothing I tried ever did me any good. I CAN NOW EAT ANYTHING WITHOUT FEELING THE SLIGHTEST PAIN OR DISCOMFORT AFTERWARDS."

So writes Mr. Ludlow, a former U. S. Vice and Deputy Consul in Great Britain, and now of 161 West 36th Street, New York. Thousands have been relieved of the miseries of Constipation and Indigestion by "Fruit-a-tives", the famous natural remedy made from the concentrated and intensified juices of fresh oranges, apples, prunes and figs. 25c and 50c at all dealers.

BUYING WHEAT FROM RUSSIA THIS YEAR

BRANTFORD, Ont., Oct. 30.—Any development of the Russian export wheat trade must be at the expense of the Canadian exporters, the Canadian Co-operative comments in reprinting the following report from the Scottish Co-operator.

"The C.W.S. has the prior claim on the corn, and is anxious to check up speculative operations which last year sent up the price of the Canadian crop. The rest will be available for private buyers."

A well known competitor upon the Bisley ranges has just been expelled from the membership of the London and Middlesex Rifle Association for having tampered with his score cards. On a wretchedly bad day for shooting he is alleged to have returned a score of 92 out of a possible 100 at the long range. At first the offender treated the matter as a joke, but later admitted the offense, and his disqualification and expulsion followed. The matter has been reported to the National Rifle Association, and if they find the facts true they will

THE MAN IN THE MOON

LET us condole with the losers in the elections yesterday. They have the advantage of being in the majority.

HERE'S to the loser Who was beaten at the poll He's had the experience And lightened his roll.

Another day perhaps He may try to run again And in the meantime he May turn out and train.

Yes, here's to the hundreds Who failed to make the grade. They all deserve credit For the showing they made.

NOW let us have a race to see how quickly we can get back to normal.

ELECTION is over And I lost my bet, But I have not cash enough To pay it yet.

THERE'S many a slip 'twixt cup and lip, and there's many a miss in election guesses.

HERE'S to the man who lost And paid up like a man; And here's to the candidate 'Classed as an "also ran."

ABOUT the most humorous thing I know is a silly man trying to be funny.

AFTER all the excitement of the past few weeks, I recommend afternoon teas as an antidote or failing that try church bazaars.

I SIT and drink my tea Wishing a game or a spree, I hear small talk But I long to walk, And be out of my misery.

THE chief lesson I have to learn from the election is that people will be people no matter what you tell them.

JAKE says there are two kinds of optimists. One is the man who after sowing bird seed in the front lawn expects to hear the birds singing, and the other is the politician who hears the people cheer at his meetings and expects they are going to vote for him.

NOW that the election is over it is to be hoped we shall hear no more of tariffs, and national debts, and duty to the country, and serving the people faithfully until at least four years from now.

TWO SPEAKERS ROTARY CLUB

Hon. T. D. Pattullo and Pat Maitland Were Guests Yesterday Afternoon

Much of the success of Prince Rupert is due to the splendid community spirit found here, according to Hon. T. D. Pattullo, minister of lands, who was the chief speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday. The election at the time he was speaking was, as he said, "in the lap of the Gods" but no matter who won he felt sure they would forget their differences and turn once more to the work of forwarding the interests of the city.

In Prince Rupert, the minister said, there had been fewer failures than in any other city of its size. A fine healthy spirit had grown up of late years and this accounted for much of the progress seen here.

Mr. Pattullo said he had been more or less in public life for the past 35 years. He thought every man owed it to himself and to the community to take an interest in public affairs. Any man should answer the call to service if given. He classed himself as a politician because politics was the science of government and he believed he was a student of politics. If he were forming a cabinet he would prefer a person who had had some experience in public affairs to a raw businessman who knew nothing but business. Serving on schoolboards, city councils and similar bodies helped to train a person for political life.

Business and Politics

There was a great difference between public life and business. In business a man did what he wished. In political life the public had a say as to what should be done.

This was an age, Mr. Pattullo said, when minorities governed. A militant minority was ruling in almost all walks of life. Groups were formed and they were usually urged on by one individual who expected to be leader of the group.

New functions are being demanded of Governments and these are costly, with the result that taxes increase. They are told that the cost will be only a few dollars but often it amounts to thousands. Town planning was an illustration of this. The advocates of the scheme want to create a bureau which will have to be paid for. Here is a militant minority influencing the majority.

Mr. Pattullo paid a compliment to the businessmen of Prince Rupert. He said he did not know any place, and he knew all British Columbia, that had such a large proportion of high class men in it.

Again he urged that with the election over they should reunite and continue the good work in the interests of the city and incidentally of the province at large.

Pat Maitland

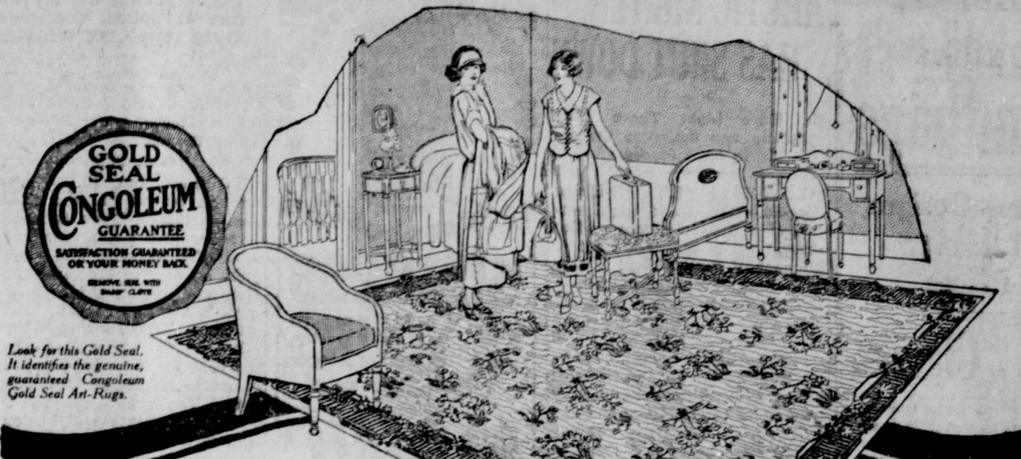

Pat Maitland, past president of the Vancouver Gyro Club, who was also a guest of the club, expressed his appreciation of the address of the Minister of Lands and of the benefits to be obtained from service clubs. In what way, he asked, could he have been able to hear an address from the Minister of Lands or the Minister to hear him? There was a spirit of camaraderie not to be obtained elsewhere. In the old athletic days or school days there was such a spirit and this was perpetuated in the Rotary, Gyro or Kiwanis clubs. They brought men together and gave opportunities for working up a spirit of friendship such as could be obtained in no other way.

Again—Congoleum Canada Limited makes a real contribution to the art of interior decoration.

In the newest designs of Congoleum Gold Seal Art-Rugs, distinctive motifs have been combined with harmonious colorings to produce effects that have been found until now only in the most expensive woven rugs and carpets.

Pattern No. 562, the rug shown above, contains more than a hint of the Orient. It is a floral design, the flowers are in light blue, magenta and old rose. The buff background is relieved by a coffee-colored cross-patch design. The border is old blue and lends a finishing touch to this exceptionally pretty pattern. The colors are admirably adapted to either light or rich-toned draperies.

BEAR VISITED FARM AFTER FRESH BEEF

Was Killed in Trap on Occasion of Third Visit

D. A. Whyte of Vancouver, who is visiting at Chas. Barrett's Diamond D ranch, had quite an adventure with a black bear on Wednesday evening last says the Interior News. On going down to look over the slaughter house where Mr. Barrett ships dressed beef, and after swinging the door shut, he spied a bear coming towards him on a plank a few feet above him. As Mr. Whyte had evidently interrupted Mr. Bruin feeding on a side of beef, he thought he was cornered, as he would not have time to get to the door had the bear attacked him. Happily the animal passed overhead and made his way out through the opening above the slaughter house, which is open at both ends on top.

The bear came back next day, when Mr. Barrett had a shot at him, hitting him in the back. The shot evidently did not worry the bear, as he again showed up on Friday night, when a trap was waiting for him and he was finally shot. The bear weighed about 200 pounds and the skin is in fine condition.

ARCTIC NIGHT HAS SHUT DOWN

No More Light There Until Spring and Activities Cease in Most Places

LONGYEAR CITY, Svalbard, Oct. 30.—The Arctic night settled over these desolate regions several weeks ago and not a glimmer of sunlight will be seen again until the end of April.

This coming winter will be even more than unusually quiet in Spitzbergen. Most of the coal mining settlements will be virtually deserted, for the low coal prices now ruling have made it imperative to restrict output and from Kings Bay alone 300 operatives are being sent home by the last coal boats before the ice closes in, and only a score of watchmen will remain in charge.

At Green Harbor, the Dutch Company will have odd jobs for about 50 men, but only a dozen hardy Swedes will keep a lonely watch at the remote Swedish mine at Braganza Bay, which this year was inaccessible even in the middle of June.

The Great Northern Coal Company, the most important concern, will endeavor to carry on here with 400 operatives, and a monthly output of 45,000 tons is expected. Conditions here are more favorable and the quality of the coal is superior.

Use of Wireless
The isolation of the smaller outposts is less complete since the advent of wireless.

A suggestion to adapt Amundsen's remaining polar plane for conveying mail and occasional passengers to and from Spitzbergen has been abandoned by the Oslo government on the score of expense.

Next spring, of course, mining operations will be resumed in full force, with the Norwegian government officials for the first time in control of the archipelago.
