NEGOTIATIONS WITH U.S. ARE PROCEEDING HALIBUT DUTY INCLUDED IN MATTERS TO BE DISCUSSED AT CONFERENCE

Conference Planned to Adjust Differences on Halibut Fisheries Here

Question of tariff is involved as well as use of ports of either country by fishermen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Negotiations with a view to a conference between Canada and the United States to adjust matters relative to the halibut fisheries of the North Pacific are proceeding.

The Canadian suggestions cover the question of tariff and the use of free ports by fishermen of one nationality in the territory of another.

It is probable that a joint meeting will be held shortly to discuss all questions involved and to recommend reciprocal action on the part of the two governments. Presumably the action will take the form of a special treaty or amendment to existing treaties.

STENOGRAPHER SHOT HERSELF

Twenty-year Old Girl Put Bullet Through Own Forehead at Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Dec. 12.—Hearing a shot, A. G. Wright, member of the firm of Davidson, Wright Ltd., customs brokers, rushed into the room occupied by Jessie Rose, the 20-year-old stenographer, yesterday afternoon and found her lying dead with a revolver shot through her forehead.

No reason is advanced yet for the death of the girl. The police learn that the revolver was the property of A. G. Wright, the member of the firm employing her and was taken from his automobile parked near the building earlier in the day, supposedly by the dead girl.

MORE GRAIN COMING WEST

Proportion for Pacific Ports of Total Shipments is Still Very Small

WINNIPEG, Dec. 12.—Shipments of grain to Vancouver by the Canadian National Railway show an increase of nearly 6,500 cars over those for the same period last year. The total to date by that route is 7,810 cars.

Shipments to the lake head from the prairie provinces this season so far amount to over 100,000 cars or 135,506,000 bushels. This is more than has ever been shipped that way before during the same time, the previous record being in 1923 when for the same period 117,167,000 bushels were shipped.

Shipments are still being made on the lakes. During the week 82 vessels sailed carrying 29,964,000 bushels.

NOT TO UNDERTAKE LOGGING OF GRANBY ALICE ARM LIMITS

T. A. Kelley, prominent Queen Charlotte Island logging operator, stated this morning that he had dropped the idea of undertaking the logging off of the Granby Co.'s timber areas in the Alice Arm district. There had been some negotiations with Mr. Kelley to take charge of the work but he has decided not to proceed.

Mr. Kelley, who arrived from Vancouver on the Princess Beatrice this morning in the course of a periodical business trip, says that operations at his camps on the islands are proceeding steadily. He will not visit the Islands on this trip but expects to return to Vancouver on the Cariboo next Tuesday.

Will be in Operation Again Tomorrow After Month's Shutdown

J. J. Little, superintendent of utilities, announced this morning that plans were being made to restore light and power service from the city plant at Shawlans Lake tomorrow afternoon. The plant has been undergoing a thorough overhaul and, since November 9, the city has been supplied with energy from the dry dock plant.

The lights were out for half an hour early this morning while some wires were being changed at the dry dock and will be off again for a short period tomorrow morning while some switches are being installed.

NEW CANNERY FOR SKIDEVATE

Site Chosen by B. C. Packers on Inlet is one of Best on Inlands

SKIDEVATE, Dec. 12.—It is learned here that the B.C. Packers will build a new cannery at Sault Bay on Skidevate Inlet. This bay is four miles southwest of Alford Bay. The men who were here looking for the site were taken to the bay by Captain Crosby of the launch Reliance.

The location they have chosen is said to be the best on the Queen Charlotte Islands. It is only a short distance from the west coast through Skidevate Narrows to South Bay and one of the best salmon streams on the Islands is only half a mile from it.

But if Friday's bomb proved a blaseo, the opposition board of strategy was on the job Monday night. Horse, foot and artillery they swung into action when the House went into committee of supply with Opposition Leader

Pooley in the van and his cohorts marshalled behind him.

At the outset Mr. Pooley issued his deft. The opposition was convinced that the government was not to be trusted to handle further sums of public money and when the first vote came up, which was for $86,000 for sessional indemnities, Mr.

Pooley spurred to the front and began to read a carefully prepared statement that dealt with the over commitments at the university.

Appealed to Speaker

Deputy Speaker W. G. Perry

was in the chair and when Hon.

J. H. MacLean raised a point of order that the opposition leader was making remarks on something not applicable to the vote before the House, the deputy speaker ruled that Mr. Pooley was out of order. Mr. Pooley immediately appealed to Mr.

Speaker, who was sent for, division bells were rung, and by a vote of 27 to 19, Mr. Pooley suffered his first setback of the evening.

Nothing daunted, he returned to the charge, stating he was prepared to show why the sessional indemnities should not be voted for the premier.

Grounds Needed For Games.

There are always so many financial calls upon people in a growing town that it makes us hesitate to urge expenditure of money that will entail still further calls, yet it is important that there be athletic grounds here and we should not hold back from a duty which we owe the younger people of the city.

The city has had the road question to wrestle with and directly there is a movement of population this way they will have the sewer problem to solve. For years there will be a struggle to make ends meet without inordinate increase of taxes. The only way to get the playgrounds attended to under these conditions is to do a little each year. We must keep up to date. Play is as necessary as transportation and communication in the development of a city.

Attention was drawn to the need of improvements in the athletic grounds and for another playing field by Walter Vance in an address to the Rotary Club this week. He urged that the present ground be finished and that as soon as it is completed steps be taken to commence work on another field. He pointed to Ketchikan as a city not much more than half this size where they have better recreation facilities than we have here.

It is for those particularly interested in this playground problem to keep it well to the fore, to urge it on every possible occasion, and to see that this phase of civic development gets its proper share of attention.

Welcome Back Edmonton Bulletin.

We take great pleasure in welcoming the Edmonton Bulletin back to the journalistic fold. It had suspended publication for a time owing to financial difficulties but it has been purchased by a Vancouver man, Charles Campbell, formerly owner of the Vancouver World and first owner of the Vancouver Star. He has improved it very considerably already and he promises still greater improvement.

A city the size of Edmonton should be big enough to allow of the publication of two newspapers, and Mr. Campbell deserves to succeed in his venture.

Trades And Labor Holding Banquet.

The Trades and Labor Council of Prince Rupert, representing organized labor here, is holding its annual banquet tonight and doubtless the event will be worthy of the place the labor organizations hold in the life of the city. Much of the success of the organization is due to the reasonable manner in which labor questions are approached and the general desire to aid in the development of the city. In other words it is a constructive organization as opposed to the destructive tendencies of some of the filibustering groups.

Irish Difficulty Seems To Be Settled.

The difficulty over the Irish boundary between the north and the south seems to have been settled amicably. The chief difficulty arose from the fact that while the north is mostly Protestant and the south Catholic, there is considerable overlapping and intermingling and the religious question is one on which the Old Country Irish divide.

It is a sign of the times that controversies of this kind are being settled by negotiation. If this spirit is developed and encouraged the time will come when all international difficulties will be settled without recourse to arms, just as today national troubles are settled without resort to force.

HUMOROUS TOUCH TO POLITICAL FILIBUSTER AT VICTORIA THIS WEEK WHEN GOVERNMENT WON OUT.

en and then take a whirl at that," suggested Major Dick Burde, while Tom Uphill, Fernie miner member, with a despairing glance at the clock, suggested that the members think of "the pathetic words of that little hymn: 'Now the day is over, night is drawing nigh.'"

Calling Bluff

So far all the remarks had referred to the premier, who decided that this was the time to "call the bluff" of the opposition. Accusing the opposition leader of using obstructive tactics, he challenged him to let the vote pass and take up a minister's salary, but Mr. Pooley declared every vote was to be challenged.

Again he attempted to read the statement, and again was called to order.

"I intend to read this," he shouted, banging his desk and drawing cries from across the floor of the House telling him to go on and break it.

"Yes, I'll break the desk, and I'll break something else before I'm through. Before I'm through I'll break the government. I'm after big game tonight," he declared dramatically, and the government supporters cheered ironically.

Wanted to Know

Mr. Pooley wanted to know from the chairman if he was to be steam-rollered.

"Does your ruling mean that I am not to be allowed to criticize any member of this House?" he asked.

"You can't ask me to rule on a hypothetical question. You can have every freedom as long as your remarks are relevant," said Chairman Perry.

Again Mr. Pooley appealed to the Speaker, while H. Despard Twigg, Victoria, declared the opposition would stay there all night if necessary.

Tom Uphill suggested that each member be supplied with a roll of blankets, while Major Burde demanded "plenty of tea, Mr. Speaker, plenty of tea."

Again Mr. Pooley returned to the charge, and it was then that Mr. Twigg had a bright idea.

It suddenly dawned on Mr. Pooley's lieutenant that the opposition members, by supporting their leader, would be voting against their own sessional indemnities, and he brought that matter to the attention of his chief. By that time the Pooley forces were well into the marshes, however, and when the vote was finally forced through they found themselves holding up their hands to vote against sessional indemnities for members.

But not before they were sure that the government had the necessary majority to carry the vote.

But the members failed even to smile, and Mr. Pooley again attempted to read his statement.

Rule 27 was invoked, and rule 27 stated that a member could not weary the House with "irrelevant and tedious repetition."

Colonel Peck

Col. Cy Peck came to the aid of his leader. It was the prerogative of commoners since the time of Charles I. to refuse to vote funds to His Majesty if it was thought they were not being used.

Mr. Pooley seized on the idea, and again declared he was going to show why the ministers were not fit to occupy their positions and why they should not be voted supply.

"Why not wait until a vote on a minister's salary? Why pick on a poor humble member's indemnity?" asked Chairman Perry, while Major Burde told the opposition leader to resign if he thought he was not worth his own $2,000 a year, but to let others who thought they were worth it, draw down the money.

By this time, midnight was striking, but Mr. Pooley was only warming up. So far he had only made threats of the charges which were to rock the ship of state and start her timbers in a dozen places.

He wanted the political head of the premier, and he would be satisfied with nothing less, and so stated.

Premier Speaks

Premier Oliver rose leisurely.

"I hope the leader of the opposition feels better now that he has got all that off his mind," he said. He proceeded to show that Mr. Pooley, in what the opposition leader "alleged to be facts," had asked the committee to deal with something that could not be dealt with by that body.

"He says I acted unconstitutionally and then turns round and asks you to act unconstitutionally," said the premier. Taking up the Audit Act, which Mr. Pooley said he had violated, Mr. Oliver challenged the opposition attack.

"When he says I guaranteed those accounts, or that I acted unconstitutionally, he is talking the worst nonsense ever heard in the House. The letters stated that the money would be paid when the legislature voted 'supply.'

There was no question of guarantee and there was nothing contrary to the act. I am in the hands of the legislature. There is nothing to fear and I have nothing to hide, and if members feel that I am wrong I am willing to abide by their judgment, but I believe that the majority of members are not so utterly prejudiced and their judgment is not so utterly warped by partisan politics as to make them lose all vestige of common sense," he said, challenging the opposition to call for a vote.

Grey Dawn

Grey dawn began to steal through the parliament building windows. Old timers in the political game who had managed to steal away during the lulls in the debate, or who had paired with other old timers on the opposing side, began to reappear shortly after 3 o'clock, and their sprightly appearance compared with those who had held the benches all night showed that they had managed to get a little sleep. Still the fight went on with the Pooley forces hanging on to the ropes, but coming up after each round for more punishment.

Starting a one man filibuster shortly before 4 o'clock, Major R. J. Burde, the Alberni stormy petrel declared a private war against both old line parties who were deadlocked over the estimates, and declared that if he was going to be kept in the House he was going to take a part, and a very active part, in the debate.

Colorado Beetles

Choosing the entomologist vote of the department of agriculture as his jumping off place Major Burde proceeded to give the House half hour dissertation on the Colorado Beetle, alias the potato bug, alias the great blister beetle, basing his observations on the report of the provincial plant pathologist, reaching heights of eloquence as in pathetic tones he told of the ravages of the beetle against grasshoppers and the manner in which it was outwitting all the brains of the agricultural department, even using automobiles in its effort to spread all over British Columbia.

But not before they were sure that the government had the necessary majority to carry the vote.

But the members failed even to smile, and Mr. Pooley again attempted to read his statement.

Rule 27 was invoked, and rule 27 stated that a member could not weary the House with "irrelevant and tedious repetition."

BRINGING UP FATHER

By George McManus

THE MAN IN THE MOON

says:

A MAN can't embrace every opportunity.

I STOOD on the bridge at midnight
And the moon shone bright above,

As I whispered that I loved her
And she questioned "What is love?"

WHEN the old people said
"Get a wiggle on you" they were not in prophetic mood referring to the Charleston.

A CIVIC election is not really always as funny as it appears.

DIETING may not make you live longer but at any rate it will seem longer.

AS a result of the experiences of a local man, Prince Rupert people are seriously advised that it is inconvenient and uncomfortable to place the head against a thirteen thousand volt electric line.

THE Winnipeg Free Press writer says the other day he bought a can of horseshoe salmon and there was no horseshoe in it. He is disappointed, apparently for he was looking for good luck.

AUSTIN Chamberlain, I am reminded, is not the only one who is decorated, may I even say gaily decorated, with the order of the garter.

THE glory of a woman is her hair, And I positively declare, I believe its beauty is more rare, When it's bobbed, so there.

THE very depths of poverty and despair is when a person has worn out his flyver and positively does not know where the next car is coming from.

Doings of the Mosquito Fleet which is the chief source of Prince Rupert's prosperity

Waterront business is now chiefly confined to boat repair work. Big schooners, trolling boats and general utility boats are all coming in for a fair share of overhaul and painting, and every conceivable space for ways is occupied. Immediately after the close season came into effect a number of the boats of the halibut fleet were commissioned on hunting trips but with the deer season closed and the season for ducks and geese terminating at the end of the month these trips are practically over. Now boat owners are turning their attentions once again to the serious side of life in order that everything may be O.K. for the first dash to the high spots in 1926.

Quite a number of native boats have called into port this week from Port Simpson, Nass river, Kitkatla and surrounding points for the dual purpose of taking on Christmas supplies and having mechanical work done on the power plants. The native families, almost to a man, will remain home for the festive season after which the majority will continue trapping operations.

Some Excitement

Archie Paton and Leo Contenelli had some excitement on board the former's gashoat while coming in from Lewis Island on Tuesday, and for a while things looked serious enough to warrant some deep thinking. The two boys were coming in and just off Holland Rock light about 4 p.m. the engine stopped. The wind was blowing a gale and the waves were running high. No amount of persuasion could get the gadgets functioning and recourse had to be made to raising the storm sail, which undoubtedly saved the day. Previous to getting the sail up, the boat was drifting dangerously near the rocks but with the sail hoisted the wind veered the boat away.

During the afternoon and long after dark the boat drifted from Holland Rock on the outside of Digby Island and around the farther end of Metlakatla Passage. When the stranded mariners sighted the Indian village they had no idea they were so near home, and with all the buffeting they had gone through it might have been Vancouver instead of the welcome Metlakatla. Upon seeing the lights the boys dropped the anchor and came to a stop over the reef. Pete Leighton went out to their assistance and towed the boat safely back to port on Tuesday night. The craft has been taken up on the Ward ways for inspection but does not seem to have suffered much damage.

Still Fishing

There is quite a little fleet of boats out fishing in nearby waters for flat fish, cod, crabs and shrimps for the Bacon Fisheries. Among the men so employed are Messrs. Batt & Slaney, who are out for cod, flat fish and crab. Capt. Chris Carson and his regular crew are also out. Tom House is fishing crab with his trolling boat, and skipper Magnus is hooking cod in the harbor from a dory.

The schooner Swing, owned by Messrs. Goodlad and Roberson, is also out after crabs. This boat has been laid up for a while owing to the illness of her owners. However, the boys are back in the game again.

Training Seagulls

It has been said that the common or garden seagull cannot be trained but "Doc" Clapperton

LAND ACT.
Notice of Intention to Apply to Lease Land
In Queen Charlotte District, Land Reclaiming District, Prince Rupert, and

TAKE NOTICE that Robert C. Gossé of Vancouver, B.C., occupation cameraman, intends to apply for a lease of the following described land:

Commencing at a post planted on an unnamed island lying S. 60° deg. W. (14 chains more or less) from the southwest corner of Lot 1548, Q.C.L. Range 5, thence following the bearing of shore line of said island to point of commencement, and containing 2 1/2 acres, more or less.

Applicant.

Dated October 8th, 1925.

came off the McLean ways this week after undergoing extensive overhaul and repainting. The Wigwam looks resplendent in a new coat of paint and is ready for action at a moment's notice.

Capt. Gunner Hanson brought in his world famous boat Thea I, this week from Louis Locker's logging camp, situated on Porcher Island. The Gunner has been giving remarkable and valuable assistance to Louis in his logging operations for the past month.

The freighter Salvor arrived in port on Wednesday morning and discharged 350 tons of Nanaimo-Wellington coal at the Alberta-McCaffery wharf.

Schooner Sank

While coming in from Ketchikan over last week end the American schooner Valorous, Captain Peterson, struck a rock situated this end of the Metlakatla passage and sank. Capt. A. Swanson rendered assistance from the P.R. Boathouse and towed the schooner into Grinnell's Cove where a temporary patch was made to the hull. The schooner was later towed to the Dry Dock where repairs are being carried out.

The Bushy Fleet

The tugboat M.T.S., Capt. R. Green, left port last week end for Lewis Island to tow in a boom of logs, consisting of 400,000 feet of lumber from the Louis Locker logging camp. This boom was destined for the Georgetown mill but inclement weather interfered with the rapid transit of the log to the northern lumber centre.

Tugboat P.R.T., Capt. Harris Kerr, went to Georgetown last Saturday to tow down a scow of lumber for eastern shipment and a scow of lumber for the Big Bay yards. The tug left port on Wednesday with two empty scows and returned with a scow of lumber for the Canadian Fish & Oil Storage Co.

Little Hunting

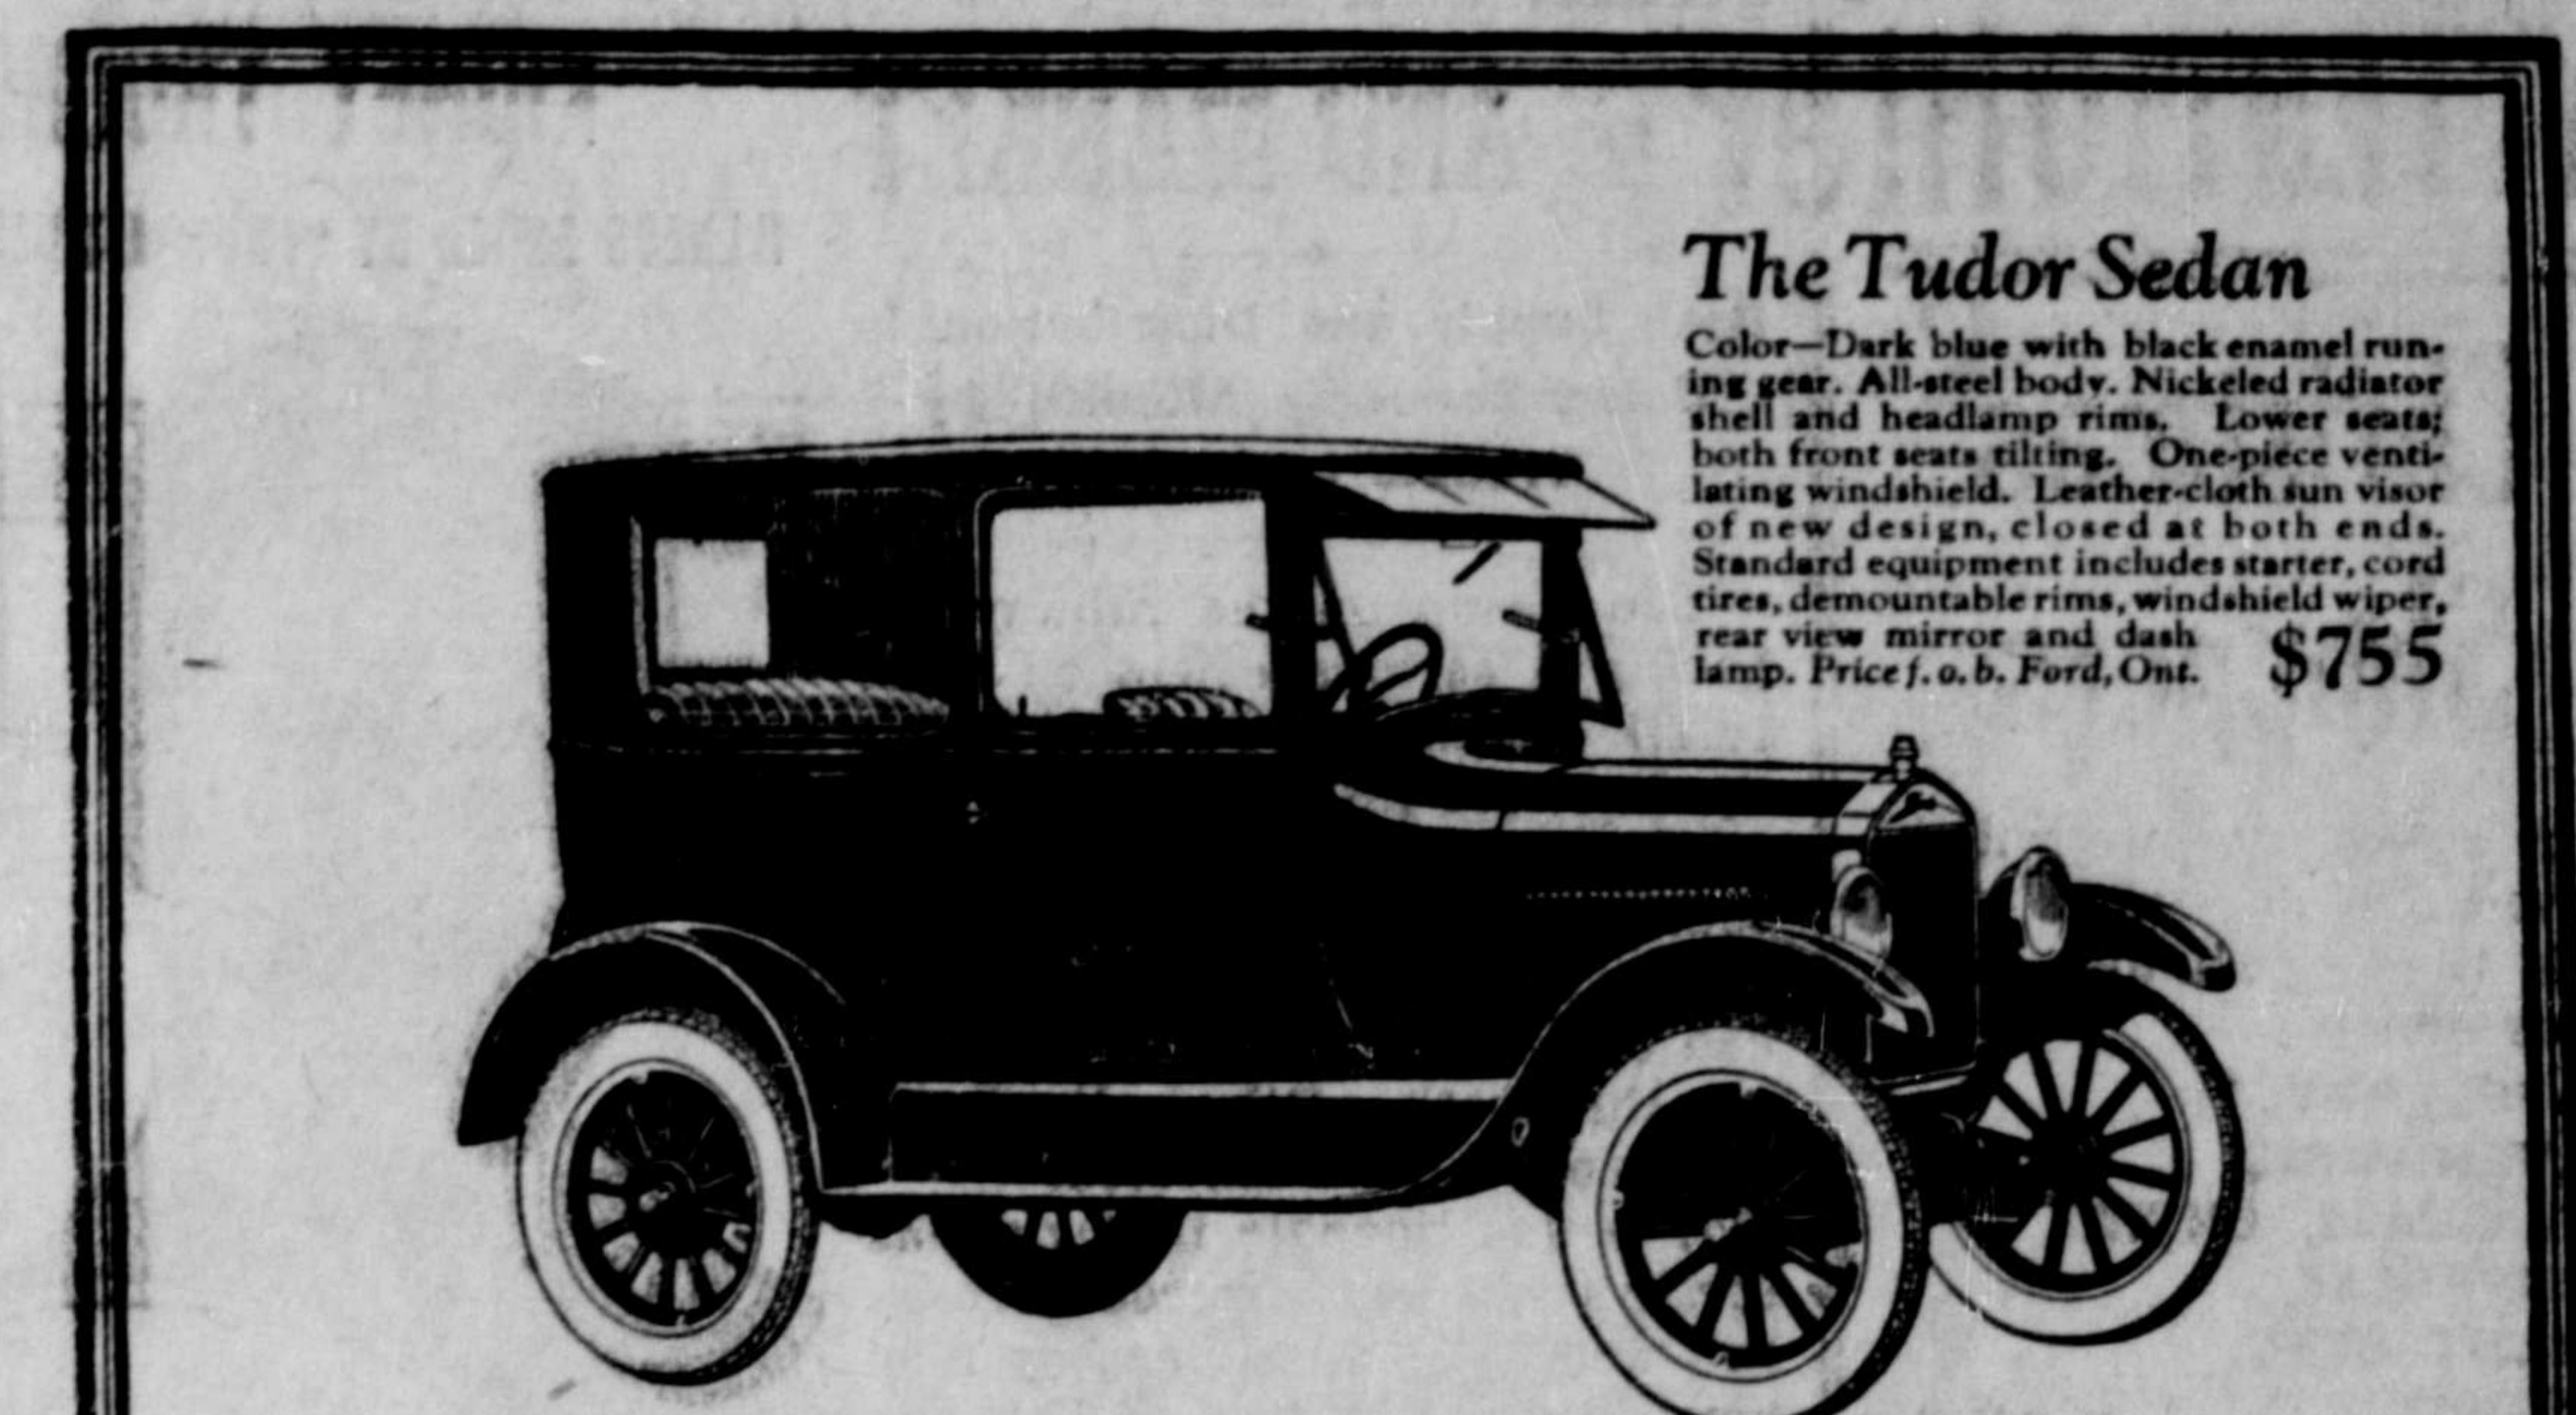

With Christmas less than two weeks away, which makes extra work for most people, there are a few hunting parties leaving port after the wily duck. From reports to hand there is still good hunting to be obtained at surrounding points a little distance from home. The open fall this year has not been conducive to driving the ducks into sheltered waters and the large flocks are still on the outside. The bird season closes at the end of the month. Doubtless there will be a number of hunting parties over Christmas holidays to use up their last supply of shells for the season.

Marine Products

The plant of the Rupert Marine Products at Delhi Bay is now closed down for the winter after an active and successful season and the product is being moved to the market as opportunity offers and conditions warrant. Activities will be resumed about the end of February and, in the meantime, a number of the employees are on vacation bent. The executive staff is still on the job, however, and there will probably be some minor alterations and repairs made at the plant during the close-down.

George Bushby, high mogul of the R.M.P. activities, said a few weeks ago that he intended to keep his fleet of boats running throughout the winter if he could possibly get business for them.

He seems to have been successful along these lines with the result that the fleet should be working most of the time. The P.R.T., Capt. Harris Kerr, delivered a boom from handloggers on the Skeena River to the Georgetown mill and yesterday afternoon the Tide Rip, Capt. "Handsome" Jim Morrison, was negotiating with a 40 foot creosoted pile which was brought to this side from Digby

Sat on Stern

After all it takes Capt. Jarvis McLeod and his good ship Eleanor Mae to stage a real live hunting stunt. Last week the good ship left port with her owner at the wheel accompanied by Dr. W. T. Kerigan and Alex Prudhomme for the Douglas Channel district on a little bird hunting exploit. All went well until the skipper became seasick and ordered all hands to come on deck and sit on the stern to keep the propeller in the water. From then on things aboard began to get dirty in keeping with the weather. If Eleanor was ever a naughty girl she certainly showed up to form on the trip, and would have put a bucking bronco in the shade for rearing and plunging. Jarvis came off the best because he had the wheel to cling to. In the excitement one of the decoy ducks became loosened from its moorings and slid into the water but the overtures of Alex to put out a boat to recover it met with no response from the captain. The party secured some game and caught bad colds.

Dunk Is Back

The old time prospector and step dancer Dunk McIntosh of Usk, blew into town this week from Telegraph Creek, Wrangell and Stewart, after an eighteen months prospecting trip. Although suffering still with a little rheumatism as the result of the big 1924 man hunt Dunk has vowed to see the "wee bairnies" before Christmas, even if he has to walk. While in the north Dunk says he came across some fine gold nuggets and while not as large as wash tubs they have great possibilities. Dunk is now the proud owner of the Porcupine Group of claims situated on Pack Saddle Creek a tributary of the famous Fiddler Creek, and if he does not become a millionaire it is not his own fault. There is a man at 40 Mile Creek, and a man and his wife at 60 Mile Creek, and Dunk says he can't make a living with people pushing up against him like that. Dunk is keen on putting in a good time at Christmas with his old friend Jimmy Wells—the man who made Usk famous.

RAIL TIE-UP AND MARKET

Both Supply and Distribution is Being Seriously Affected by Trouble in Interior

The tie-up on the railway is having a serious effect on local retail business. Supplies from the East are interrupted and distribution to the interior is, of course, interfered with. Butter is short in the city and a supply had to be brought from Vancouver this week. Other lines of produce are also affected.

It is questionable if Christmas turkeys will be delivered here by rail and it is possible they may have to come by way of Vancouver. Turkeys will sell here this season at 40¢ or 45¢ a pound. They do not seem such a luxury here as in Seattle where 65¢ a pound is being asked.

Poultry is scarce and No. 1 roasting chicken is bringing a higher price than turkey. Geese and ducks will be here in time for Christmas and will sell from 32¢ to 35¢ per pound.

With a more plentiful supply of fresh eggs, the price of eggs has now started on its usual seasonal decline.

The flour market is holding steady although there has been advance since the last report. The future is uncertain. A general advance in feed lines is recorded this week.

With the arrival of the new crop of navals, the price of oranges, which has been unusually high during the fall, is now starting on a welcome decline.

The remarkable medicine, "Fruit-a-tives," made from intensified fruit juices and tonics, has more than 20 years of success to recommend it. It can always be depended upon to give positive relief from pain in the Back, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuralgia and Headaches, which are due to improper action of the kidneys, stomach and bowels.
