EASTERN SENATORS ARE APPOINTED

CALIFORNIA FISHERMAN SAVED FROM DEATH SCHOONER

George P. Graham One of Those Called Into Higher Ottawa House

W. H. McGuire of Ontario and Donald Raymond of Quebec will enter Red Chamber; W. Gross, Lieutenant Governor of Ontario

OTTAWA, December 20.—An order-in-council appointing Rt. Hon. George P. Graham, W. H. McGuire (Ontario), and Donald Raymond (Quebec) to the Senate was signed this morning.

W. Gross of Toronto is appointed lieutenant-governor of Ontario.

While all are prominent men who have been active in public life, by far the most outstanding figure of the new senators is Rt. Hon. George P. Graham. With Premier King, the last survivor of the old Laurier cabinet still in public life, Mr. Graham has had a long and distinguished career in federal affairs.

Born in Renfrew County, Ontario, of Irish descent, 67 years ago, he was educated in the county schools and became a journalist. He managed the Morrisburg Herald for eleven years and associate editor of the Ottawa Free Press for a short time. Up to the time of being called by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to become minister of railways and canals in 1907, he was managing director of the Brockville Recorder. Having previously been defeated by a narrow margin by J. P. Whitney, Mr. Graham first entered parliament in 1898 when he was elected to the legislature for Brockville. He was re-elected in 1902 and 1905, and was made provincial secretary in the Ross government in 1904.

In 1907 he became the leader of the Liberal opposition in the Ontario legislature. That year he was called into the federal field and was minister of railways and canals until 1911 when the Laurier government was defeated. He lost his own seat that year but was elected in 1912 in a by-election for Renfrew South. With the accession of the King government to power in 1921, he was appointed minister of militia and defence and in 1923 again became minister of railways and canals on the death of Hon. W. C. Kennedy. He lost his seat again in 1925 and was later appointed chairman of the tariff board, which position he now holds.

BEST FARMERS FROM CITIES
WORLD'S WHEAT CHAMPIONS HAVE BEEN CLERK, MILL HAND, AND CIVIL ENGINEERS

WINNIPEG, Dec. 20.—Fully one half of Canada's farmers were reared in the cities. Seager Wheeler, five times winner of the World's Wheat Championship, was once a clerk at a London bookstall; J. C. Mitchell, three times wheat champion, was once a mill hand in a Lancashire cotton factory; Major H. O. L. Strange, world's wheat winner in 1923, was once a Manchester civil engineer, while the present world's wheat champion, who also has world honors in oats, Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alberta, was a civil engineer before he took up farming. The list alone clearly establishes the fact that there is something to be said for the bookish route as an approach to the farm.

WOLF TOTEM POLE AT PRINCE RUPERT

This totem pole, which now stands at Prince Rupert, B.C., formerly belonged to a Nishga Chief, named Dauk, and stood in the front of his lodge, at Gittlakdamix, on the Upper Nass River, in Northern British Columbia.

The carved figures seen on the top of the pole represent the principal actors in legends describing the origin of the family crests. The owner of the totem pole belonged to the "Wolf Clan."

The principal legend which explains how the wolf was adopted for the family crest is as follows:

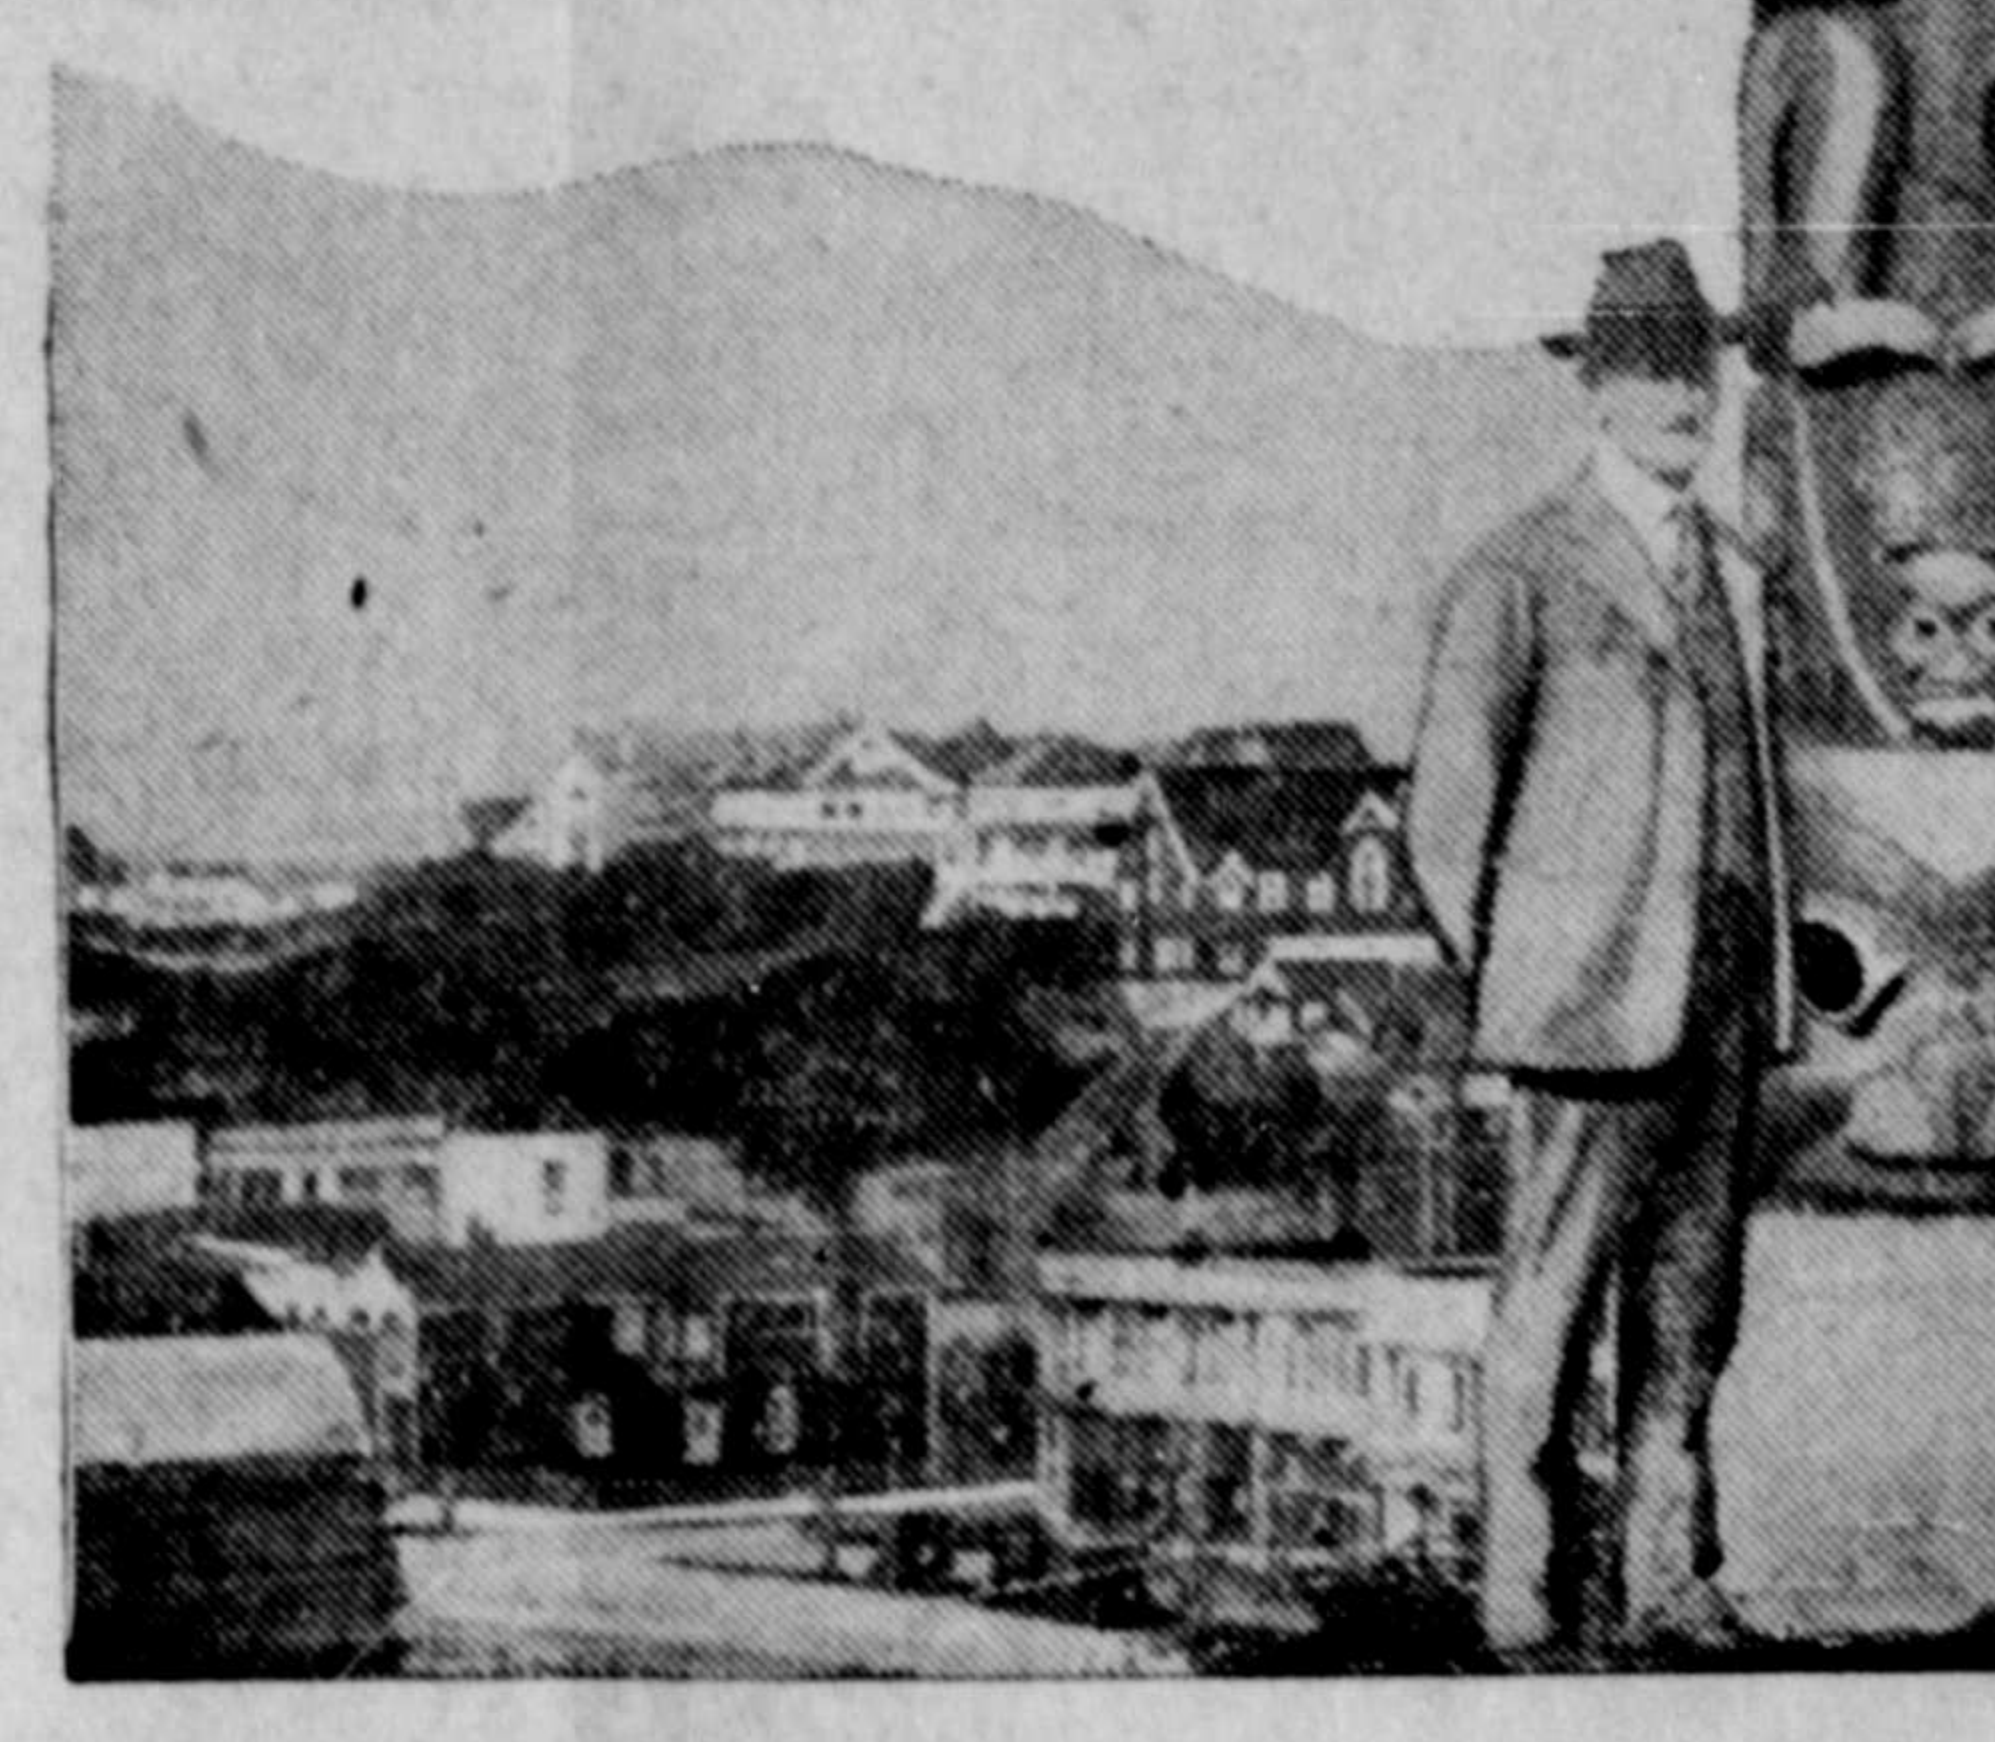

One day, long years ago, a great lava eruption took place, at Gittwansikqu, on the Upper Nass River. The molten mass pushed the waters of the river back across the valley to the mountain-side and formed a great lava plain, which extended from the head waters of the Kshluich to the canyon, at Gwinaha. The fiery flow overwhelmed villages and fishing hamlets in its path, and the people fled to the surrounding hills. Among these fugitives was an Indian chief named Gum-lu-gidis, the ancestor of the owner of the pole.

Gum-lu-gidis fled, with his family, to the highlands of the Shikamal River where they camped. Night after night they had no rest, but were disturbed by weird sounds and voices accompanied by the beating of tomtoms. At length the Chief and some of his braves determined to set out and discover where the sounds came from. The legend describes how they found themselves in the aloof of "Lululks". Spirits of the Dead, where they beheld many strange things. Escaping from these haunted regions, Gum-lu-gidis, overcome by fear, again took up his flight, this time across the Grease Trail to the Skeena River, leaving the Naas, with its terrors, far behind. When the winter snows had melted and the ice had left the river, Gum-lu-gidis and his companions travelled down the Skeena River, in dugouts made from cottonwood trees, until they reached the island of Khern, now known as Kaien Island, on which Prince Rupert is situated. Not very long after they had settled at Khern, Gum-lu-gidis' rest was once more disturbed, this time by the nightly howls of wolves which seemed to be calling Gum-lu-gidis by his name.

The old fear overcame him once more, for he thought the spirits of the lava had again found him out. After the howling had continued for two nights, the old Chief determined to meet his fate. Dressed in his ceremonial dancing robes, with face painted and his long hair tied in a knot, after the manner of the warriors of his tribe, he set out alone from the camp armed with his Chief's tomahawk, set with abalone shell. Following the direction from which the sounds proceeded, Gum-lu-gidis came face to face with a large white wolf. Raising his tomahawk prepared to defend himself he noticed the animal was in great pain and unaware of his approach, as it was trying in vain to dislodge a sharp piece of deer's bone which had pierced its jaw. Gum-lu-gidis said to the wolf "Brother, do me no harm and I will remove the bone which otherwise will cause your death." After Gum-lu-gidis had removed the bone, the wolf became very friendly, and each time the Chief went out hunting, the white wolf killed a deer for him; thus supplying him and his family with food.

So, the legend states, Gum-lu-gidis adopted the white wolf for his "Ayouks" (crest) and in his ceremonial dances always wore a white wolf skin robe.

After some years of peace, Gum-lu-gidis became homesick, and he returned to the Naas, for he longed to fish once more in the waters of the Kshluich, where the "hangiwzech" (white salmon) spawn.

H. C. McLeod, Former General Manager of Nova Scotia Bank and Noted Financier, Passes

TORONTO, December 20.—Henry Collingwood McLeod, former general manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, a financier of international repute, is dead at his winter home in South Carolina.

The late Mr. McLeod was 75 years of age, having been born at London, Prince Edward Island, on March 9, 1851. He was educated in local schools and read law before becoming an accountant at Charlottetown in 1872. He joined the Merchants' Bank there in 1873 and two years later became manager, joining the Bank of Nova Scotia in 1882. He was successively manager of the Amherst (N.S.) and Winnipeg branches of that bank in banking legislation. In 1913 he was called to Europe to advise with the Banking and Commerce Commission. Long an amateur yachtsman and yacht designer, the late Mr. McLeod designed the "Minota" for the Canada Cup race in 1899. He commanded and navigated the "Amorita" in the new York-Bermuda ocean race, 1907 and established a yacht record for the course.

Drifted Ten Days with Food for Twenty-Four Hours; Partner Dead

AVALON, Santa Catalina Islands, California, December 20.—Half starved and able to speak only in whispers, John Kelly, seventy-five year old fisherman, from a hospital here on Sunday described his rescue after having drifted at sea for ten days in a twenty-two foot sailing craft. His companion, James McKinley, aged 63, died from exhaustion on the eighth day out after having twice tried to end his life by jumping overboard, both times being pulled out of the water by his shipmate.

The two men were swept out to sea in the tiny craft when the storm on the night of December 7 blew their mainsail away. They had set out the day before from Redondo with provisions to last them only twenty-four hours. For two days after McKinley's death, Kelly lay in the forward end of the boat afraid to look at the body of his dead companion while the vessel drifted. Finally the drifting craft was sighted by a tax-boat, the latter vessel taking Kelly aboard. As the rescuing boat was nearing port, however, the sail boat broke loose and drifted out to sea with its dead cargo. Search is now being made for the derelict.

WHY THERE IS NO CANADIAN CLUB.

Why should a strong Canadian Club not be one of the most important organizations in Prince Rupert? This came up in connection with the visit here of Graham Spry, the youthful national secretary from Ottawa of the Canadian Clubs' Association.

The city is well equipped with service and fraternal organizations whose activities in public and otherwise are widespread and more or less valuable, but the existence of such organizations does not constitute the real underlying reason, however, why a Canadian Club does not prosper here.

One reason why there are many organizations here all trying to exist and few prospering is that the town is too factional. People are too prone to criticize and there is a feeling of suspicion or envy of leaders. Everybody wants to be the leader and there is not sufficient co-operation in the rank and file. The result is small and futile cliques.

It is not the fault of those who are at the head of such organizations that they do not advance and occupy the high place of respect in the community that they should. If there were a proper community spirit here, if there were more people who were truly patriotic to their town, there would be plenty of good work to be accomplished by a Canadian Club. As long as there is the present feeling of apathy toward things ideal such as the development of a love of community, nation or Empire; as long as people live in Prince Rupert who are just waiting to make enough money to get out or being here just because they cannot make a living anywhere else, there will be no room for such an organization as a Canadian Club.

The Canadian Club is meant to be an organization for the uplift of Canadian citizens no matter what their extraction may have been and an organization for the development of love of country. The most of people living in this country intend to remain here. Instead of having a number of national organizations here such as St. Andrew's Society, St. George's Society, Scandinavian Society and such like, it would be more to the point and perhaps more advantageous for all to band together in such an organization as the Canadian Club. People are not to be criticized for cherishing and revering the land of their birth and extraction, but the forming of groups along those lines, however, is unnecessary and, in many cases, undesirable.

In union only is there strength and the proper way for Canadians—English, Scotch, Irish, Swedish, Norwegian, French and all other Canadians—to unite as Canadians in such a body as the Canadian Club. Then there would be something to be gained by the existence of a strong Canadian Club not only in Prince Rupert but in every community in this great Dominion.

PROMINENT CITIZENS AND MUNICIPAL OFFICE.

The same-old abhorrence of being in a contest for civic office promises to be manifest in the forthcoming municipal election. With the contest now only a few weeks distant, there seems to be little interest in it. Good material is chary about entering the field and the general inclination is not to make a fight of it but to let those who offer themselves take the offices without contest. It is regrettable that so many prominent citizens should interest themselves exclusively in their private affairs and never offer themselves for the public service. It is a selfish attitude which will always handicap a community.

MAKE IT REAL XMAS THIS YEAR.

Christmas jamborees have for years been popular at Christmas time. Perhaps thousands of dollars have annually been wasted in Prince Rupert at the Christmas season for the doubtful purpose of providing extravagant feasts on Christmas Day for long lists of persons.

Frequently the abundance of the feast has been doubled and redoubled in the same households, and also at frequent intervals liquor has graced the board beside which the Christmas basket has been deposited. The "morning after" Christmas too often has been one of gloomy outlook for the feasters, for after the jamboree there has been nothing left of all the thousands of dollars of money thus squandered to insure anything for the future. If the money so unnecessarily wasted were put to uses in keeping with the true Christmas spirit, in making others remember that it was the anniversary of a great Christian epoch there would be a complete feeling of satisfaction and joy that would only need another Christmas to freshen up.

LEGISLATURE WILL ANSWER ROAD DEMAND

HIGHWAY TO PRINCE RUPERT INEVITABLE, SAYS DR. SUTHERLAND, BUT MAY HAVE TO WAIT FOR FUNDS

How the provincial government intends to answer the road demands of Prince Rupert and Northern British Columbia, will be indicated to the Legislature at its coming session when Hon. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, outlines the provincial road building program for the next three years, says a Victoria despatch to the Vancouver Province.

This will provide for an early extension of the present trunk road from Hazelton to Terrace. Following surveys which are being completed now, work on this extension will get under way next year and the road will reach Terrace after two years of construction.

From Terrace to Prince Rupert there will be a gap of something like 100 miles and when this can be closed will depend upon provincial finances. The construction of a road along the Skeena River through the coast mountains would be one of the most expensive projects which the government could undertake, costing in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 or more than the Cariboo road. The engineering difficulties to be conquered in this link are enormous and the building work would be of the most expensive character. The expense involved would average about $30,000 a mile.

CERTAINTY FOR FUTURE

While the government could not afford to undertake such a scheme at present the road to Prince Rupert is regarded as a certainty for the future. Meanwhile the less expensive parts of the project will be completed so that between Prince Rupert and the end of the trunk road there will be only a short train journey. This will enable Prince Rupert people to ship their cars and motor anywhere in the province.

In the same way people who wish to reach Prince Rupert by motor will be able to do so with a brief train journey until the province can afford to complete the highway to the coast.

FORMER TEACHER OF THIS CITY MARRIES WEALTHY REGINA MAN

Local friends will be interested to learn of the wedding which took place on Saturday in Vancouver of Miss Jessie Mercer, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Mercer of Nanaimo, and Andrew J. Lytle of Regina. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Manson, formerly of Prince Rupert, Mr. and Mrs. Lytle will proceed to California where they will spend the winter, later taking up residence in Regina.

The bride was a pioneer Prince Rupert school teacher and later became a nurse. The groom is a retired capitalist.

PRETTY WEDDING AT RUPERT EAST CHURCH

Miss Hilda Doris Beale Became Bride of Robert Ross Duncan Saturday Ceremony

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Rupert East United Church on Saturday evening at 7.30 when Rev. Evan Baker united in marriage Hilda Doris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Beale, 1144 Seventh Avenue East, and Robert Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Duncan, 1157 Ambrose Avenue. It being the first wedding ceremony to be performed in the church, Rev. Evan Baker presented to the happy couple an excellent Bible as a reminder of the occasion.

The bride was given away by her father while Miss Kathleen Duncan acted as bridesmaid. Charlie Currie supported the groom and the little Misses Janet and Mary Thompson acted as flower girls. Mrs. R. Wilson played the wedding march.

The bride looked very pretty in a dress of white silk flat crepe trimmed with silver and a bridal veil crowned with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses, carnations and lilies-of-the-valley. The bridesmaid, the groom's sister, wore orchid silk crepe and carried a bouquet of carnations. The flower girls had frocks of pink silk crepe and carried baskets of carnations and baby's breath. The church was tastefully decorated with white streamers and huge bells, the wedding ceremony taking place under a canopy of these. There were about fifty invited guests as well as a number of visitors.

The gift of the groom to the bridesmaid was a cameo brooch, gold brooches to the flower girls, and a gold pin to the best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents where about fifty guests gathered and extended to the happy couple good wishes for their happiness.

In The Letter Box

CONTRIBUTION TO GYMNASIUM

Editor, Daily News: Some time ago mention was made by your paper of a proposed gymnasium and swimming pool to be erected in Prince Rupert. Lots of things could be erected here if the people all assisted in one common cause and, instead of people always saying this is a slow town and nothing to do, we would have places of amusement and pastime that would benefit the whole community. This swimming pool is the best idea yet in the history of Prince Rupert and I for one will be willing to help with a small sum of five dollars.

HAPPINESS AND GOODWILL.
