First British Atomic Explosion Rips Island

Bomb Different Than U.S. Test; Hydrogen Type Hinted by Scientist

By The Canadian Press
MUNSLON, Australia—Britain's first atomic explosion today ripped a tiny slit in the veil of secrecy surrounding her atomic weapons program.

A British newspaper said it gives Prime Minister Churchill the "trump" he needs to re-open an exchange of atomic secrets with the United States. The blast blazed briefly like a rising sun over barren Monte Bello Islands, 85 miles off Australia's northwest coast. A ragged cloud soared swiftly to 6,000 feet, spread out until it was a mile wide in the centre, then rose to 12,000 feet and began dissipating.

A screened handful of newspaper men watched the explosion at 8 a.m. local time that made Britain the third power known to have a working atomic weapon.

No United States observers were among those present. Britain barred newspapermen from outside the Commonwealth as part of a tit-for-tat security program started with the U.S. banned exchange of atomic research information after the war.

In Canberra, there was speculation the first of a series of atomic tests in the area, possibly three in all.

The weapon was the 37th of its type ever exploded, the U.S. beginning with a test blast in 1945 that preceded two U.S. wartime atomic bombs dropped in Japan, has exploded 33. Three atomic explosions have been reported detonated in Russia since the war.

DIFFERENT BOMB
The bomb itself appeared somewhat different from those exploded in the U.S. test. Shape of its cloud, instead of the familiar mushroom formation, was a ragged thunderhead that leaped a mile in a minute and then rose more slowly to 12,000 feet.

The explosion seemed to bear out reports that the bomb was primarily a tactical weapon rather than a super-bomb.

An Australian physicist who watched today's British atom tests from the mainland, W. J. Mangini, said the weapon could have been a hydrogen bomb of the dimensions of a plutonium bomb.

He believed British scientists had concentrated on producing more effective weapons than the world has seen before.

Duck Hunters Feared Lost
EDMONTON — Three Edmonton men Thursday night were reported missing more than 48 hours on a duck-hunting trip east of here, and their boat has been found washed ashore.

The men missing are J. Harvey Watt, 41, transit system motor-man; Larry Jones, 17, a student, and Eddie Bell, 39, a service station attendant.

The trio left Edmonton Tuesday morning for Hastings Lake, 38 miles east of the city, and were to have returned the same night.

Office Kitkatla
A post-office has been established at Kitkatla, a coast town from Prince Rupert, to provide information here today by E. T. Skeena M.P.

The office operated from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today. The summer season of the village is vacationing.

Preacher Roe Turns In 5-3 Brooklyn Triumph

Dodgers Lead 2-1 Over Yanks in Series

By The Canadian Press
NEW YORK—Preacher Roe, the veteran Brooklyn southpaw, limited the New York Yankees to six hits including homes by Yogi Berra and pinch-hitter Johnny Mize as the Dodgers won the third game of the World Series 5-3 today and took a 2-1 lead in the Series.

The crafty Roe, working hard and slowly, stopped Yankee right-handed hitters cold. But the lefties did enough harm to keep the score close until the ninth when a passed ball by Berra allowed Brooklyn's last two runs to score.

The Dodgers collected 10 hits off Lopat and finally drove him to cover in the ninth.

Right hander Tom Gorman finished for the Yanks, allowing one hit.

Manslaughter Verdict Draws 20 Years

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — A sentence of 20 years in prison was passed Thursday on Francis Peter Dennis, fisherman and hunter, for killing a man in a fight in which a motorboat was the death weapon.

In sentencing Dennis for manslaughter, Mr. Justice J. T. Wilson said the case was "as little short of murder as any in my experience."

Dennis, 39, originally was charged with murder in the slaying of William Austin, 59, but an Assize Court jury convicted him on the reduced charge. Term was the heaviest imposed at the fall assizes here.

Austin, a bush country guide, was killed Aug. 2 on Stuart Lake, 75 miles northwest of here in a wilderness region, following a home brew party.

U.S. Dollar Reserve at All-Time High

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's official reserves of United States dollars and gold reached an all-time high of $1,856,000,000 on Sept. 30, Finance Minister Abbott announced today.

The reserves, used as a cushion to block any sharp fluctuations in exchange value of the Canadian dollar, had continued to rise all through the first nine months of 1952.

On Sept. 30 they were more than $2,000,000 greater than the $1,610,000,000 on the corresponding date a year ago.

Civic Centre Drive Results In 'Good Response'—Officials

A full moon and crisp fall air combined to give an army of canvassers perfect weather last night as they "covered" the city to obtain Civic Centre memberships.

While no count is available of the number who joined, officials this morning reported "a very good response."

Every canvasser returned with at least one signature and the amount of money, including donations, ranged from 50 cents to $70 for each worker.

"We know that some of those who joined the Centre last night are new members and we hope many more will come forward," said an executive this morning.

"Our thanks and appreciation go to the service clubs and all other organizations and individuals who helped in the campaign."

"It couldn't have been done without their help."

Fred Jones, general secretary, who spent many hours during the week and added many more last night, said it probably will be several days before total membership is known.

Besides the number who joined last night, more than 200 other citizens went to the Civic Centre office during the week to obtain their 1952 cards.

The 1952-53 season at the Centre begins in earnest next week with badminton and roller skating taking the spotlight.

Wednesday sessions for Tiny Tots will start Oct. 8.

U.S. Jet Ace Bails Out Safely

SEOUL — Maj. Frederick C. Blesse, top United States jet ace in Korea, bailed out of his F-86 Sabre jet today after shooting down a Russian-built MIG-15 over North Korea. He was rescued from the Yellow Sea a few minutes later.

Blesse bagged one of three MIGs downed today and ran his total to 10 kills, one probable and three damaged. His plane ran out of gas enroute to his home base.

Guards Held Hostages

'Paddle' Given to Rioting Prisoners
PRINCE GEORGE — "Immediate disciplinary action" was taken against about 45 prisoners in the riot at the prison farm yesterday, said a warden.

The riot during the noon hour yesterday.

No one was injured, but it left in its wake a wrecked cell block with all windows of the three-storey building smashed and furniture twisted and torn from the floor.

Two guards held as hostages were released without injury. They were in the block when the riot started.

Police and guards used tear gas bombs and firemen poured streams of water into the building before the rioters called it quits.

Unlike most prison riots, the cause was not food, but overcrowding in the cell block.

A second bunk was placed in all cells of the prison during the morning. Prisoners had protested, wanting a one-man-to-a-cell program.

A hostage for three hours, until he was rescued by fellow guards who cut through the barricaded door with an acetylene torch, Burns said.

"The tear gas was sure grim. I was soaked from head to foot with water and tears were pouring out of my eyes when the rest of the guards got to me."

Burns told his story in an interview. He and another guard, whom he did not identify, were seized by about 100 prisoners.

Haggard and still visibly nervous, Burns said he and the other guard were not harmed by the prisoners, although several "punks" hurled threats at them.

Neither of the guards carried weapons, and Burns said: "Had we had weapons on us, we might have been dead by now because it's certain that the two of us could not have fought off that mob."

Be Careful—It's Loaded

THIS is the season when a special kind of gleam appears in the eyes of nimrods and would-be hunters as they oil and polish up their rifles, refer to game regulations and days off work schedules.

The hunters are taking to the woods. It is a sport considered by many as among the most robust, re-man type and the rewards of it are many opportunities by fire-side to relate the tales of adventure of a hunting trip.

There is always some kind of adventure when in a hunting trip. Sometimes the rewards are also tangible—juicy steaks for months to come.

But sometimes the adventure is more than bargained for... it turns into tragedy.

During nearly every hunting season we hear of some fatal accident caused by carelessness; where over-exuberance has taken place of caution; where rifle has been discharged "accidentally" and someone dies.

The average citizen who takes to the woods once or twice a year is a stranger out there, amidst only the natural elements. Care and caution for one's safety should therefore be redoubled. A slip, a moment's carelessness with a loaded rifle may cost a life, even his own.

Very Good Painter

BRAHAM LINCOLN was once shown a picture done by an amateur and was asked to give his opinion of it.

"I can truthfully say," said Lincoln, "that the painter of this picture is a very good painter in that he observes the Commandments."

What did he mean by that, he was asked.

"I mean that he hath not made to himself the likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath or that is in the water under the earth," replied Lincoln.

Defence Production Plans See Big Change in Policy

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Canadian government's capital-assistance pipeline which poured more than $170,000,000 into defence production expansion during the last 18 months may be gradually choked off soon.

Government policy-makers are thinking of replacing it through more generous use of another method — allowing abnormally high depreciation write-offs for income tax purposes—to continue encouraging investment in Canada's defence effort.

The change may see a drop in the amount of risk capital supplied by the government to expand the defence machine, but it may ease the load on the taxpayer when the next annual budget rolls around.

Under the capital assistance program, the government ploughs money into development of factories filled with machines which might have little commercial use except for the building of arms. Private industries operate the plants for the government on a fee basis and when the need for them ends, usually get first chance at purchasing them, if the private companies want to convert to some other use.

The government usually ends up the loser, realizing only part of the cash it invested. The government takes all the risk.

Under the accelerated depreciation program, the private company invests its own money. But the government helps by allowing extra-large depreciation write-offs for income tax purposes during the first four years, to reduce the company's risk of loss should the defence program suddenly fold after that time.

Both of these federal inducements to encourage rapid defence construction development have been employed in Canada's three-year, $5,000,000,000 defence program started in April, last year. A major portion of the capital assistance went towards development of Canada's aircraft and shipbuilding industry. Now the feeling is that the current build-up is just about sufficient to produce all of those types of war weapons Canada needs under current planning.

If further large investment is required, the policy-makers feel that with proper encouragement, private industry will be able to carry the ball—with generous depreciation allowances. So far, the government has allowed accelerated depreciation on some $290,300,000 worth of private investment in the defence effort.

Capital-assistance requirements make heavy demands on the taxpayer's dollar. Last year, parliament appropriated $90,000,000 for capital assistance and this year added another $100,000,000.

So far, capital assistance has been approved for some $188,800,000 worth of projects. But the experts consider that less than that—perhaps $170,000,000 or a little more—will actually be spent.

Court Remands Pistol Wielding Drydock Worker

John M. Baird pleaded guilty before Magistrate W. D. Vance this morning to a charge of carrying a dangerous weapon and was remanded until Oct. 10 for sentence.

Evidence disclosed that Baird was in possession of an automatic pistol which he used to threaten people at the Prince Rupert Drydock yesterday.

An RCMP officer told court that accused had been released from his job at the drydock earlier in the day and had threatened to shoot the chief patrol officer.

Nixon's Private Fund

ELECTION campaigns are tricky in any country. But surely no nation ever came up with a more astonishing episode than that raised by Senator Nixon's private fund.

General Eisenhower's running mate was discovered to have accepted from wealthy Californians a private fund of some $18,235. This money is not to be confused with legitimate campaign funds to help Nixon get elected. It was given after, not before, his election. It was in addition to the $75,000 per year which Nixon has been drawing in salary and expenses from the public treasury.

The purpose of the fund was frankly stated by Dana C. Smith its trustee: "Because Dick Nixon is the best salesman against socialism."

When the Nixon fund was discovered a great issue was raised: "Should a Senator be allowed to accept such private monies? Or should Nixon be dropped from the Republican ticket?"

THERE IS no point in re-hashing the story of Nixon's clever television appearance and how he acquitted himself to the satisfaction of the thousands of Republican stalwarts who sent in telegrams.

Most top reporters and commentators agree that, whereas a week before the Nixon sensation the Republican case looked black, one week later Republican chances were visibly improved.

Nixon is a star performer and he had thousands of Americans moist-eyed when he sold them on the truth that his wife did not yet have even one milk coat, and that they were staggering along with just two houses, both mortgaged.

BUT WHEN the smoke and dust has cleared away in U.S.A. I don't think the Republicans are going to gain from this episode. Their main argument for throwing the Democrats out is that the Truman administration is overloaded with crooks, grafters, job holders and juicy contract grabbers—in short that there is "a mess in Washington."

But it is surely a poor qualification to clean up the mess in Washington if the Number Two man on the whole Republican clean up ticket himself is implicated in a dubious relationship which has never yet been validated in any democratic country.

I do not see any parallel whatsoever between the Canadian cases cited by noted Ottawa correspondents and that of Senator Nixon. Macdonald, Mackenzie King, Lapointe and Howard Ferguson all did receive gifts while in office. But these were highly publicized at the time they were made. There was no secret that Tory supporters gave their leader a house, nor then King had a rich friend, Peter Larkin, who paid the shot for Laurier House—nor that Ontario Conservatives paid off the Ontario Premier's mortgage.

In each case there was not the slightest shred of suggestion that the donors of the money were out for special favors.

IN NIXON'S case the donors were definitely out for group representation over and above that which any elected person is supposed to give all the voters.

They wanted a special, private, rich-man's, privately-subsidized, Senator, doing special private things dear to their hearts, and bank balances.

In other words they wanted a Senator to be in exactly the same relationship to them that the old kept, British M.P.'s used to bear to rich Tory lords and dukes in the days of the "pocket boroughs."

Train Catches Fire in Tunnel

NEW YORK — Engine of a crowded Pennsylvania Railroad commuter train caught fire in a tunnel under the Hudson river today and hundreds of passengers were made ill by the acrid smoke that billowed through the tube.

Many passengers escaped through hatchways after the disabled train was pushed to New York.

NORWAY'S GIFT—A painting symbolizing universal peace and freedom by the efforts of enlightened men through the United Nations was recently unveiled in the Security Council Chamber at U.N. headquarters. The 16 by 26-foot mural was painted by the famous Norwegian artist, Per Krohg, on commission from the Norwegian government which contributed the decorations and fittings of the Chamber. The marble-framed mural is set into the east wall of the room and faces the public gallery.

Publisher Leaves Fortune, Directors Keep Operation

TORONTO (CP)—The will of the late publisher George McCullagh provides that the Toronto Telegram may be operated by its present directors for a period up to 21 years, it was disclosed today.

Details of the $4,624,749 estate were made known by the Chartered Trust Co. As application for probate of the will was filed in surrogate court. But the Globe and Mail, the other Toronto daily newspaper published by Mr. McCullagh, was not mentioned by name in the will.

Neither does the will reveal the extent of Mr. McCullagh's interest in the two newspapers, nor the valuation placed by the executors on such interests.

The estate will be shared by Mr. McCullagh's immediate family—his widow and three children—and his four sisters. Stock having a value of approximately $4,400,000 represents the major item in the inventory, and the McCullagh residence in suburban Thornhill is valued at $170,500.

The section of the will dealing with the Telegram reads: "If at the time of my death I own the controlling interest in the Telegram Publishing Company Limited, I expressly authorize and direct my trustees to carry on the said business for such length of time (not exceeding 21 years) as they in their uncontrolled discretion may deem advisable in order to dispose of my interest in same to the best advantage."

The will provides that the trustees "may postpone payment (in whole or in part) of any gift or legacy or any interest in my estate granted to any person or persons by this my will, for such time or times as they, in their absolute discretion may deem necessary for the proper administration of my estate."

The remaining half of the estate is to be held in trust for Mr. McCullagh's children until they reach the age of 30. The children, Robert, 18, Ann, 15, and George, 13, also receive the house property and annuity fund after the death of their mother.

Joseph Stalin had a little message of only fifty pages for the Soviet Thursday. It would appear that it's essence was the certainty of war among capitalistic nations. Why can't that man think up something that's at least slightly surprising.

Painting the post office reminds us of earlier and older buildings. For years mail was handled in the Federal Block on Third Avenue, later moving over to what was known as St. Andrew's Hall at Second Avenue and Seventh Street, a most convenient spot. Politics, so old-timers may feel disposed to find, had something to do with it. But that's another story.

Stalin Sees War Between Capitalists

MOSCOW — Marshal Stalin today revived the theory of "war inevitable" between capitalist states.

He reiterated earlier statements that the only way to abolish war is to destroy "imperialism."

He made the statements in an article in a Bolshevik magazine. Stalin forecast a deepening crisis for the western powers as a result of a world decline in markets.

He said the rivalry between capitalist states is stronger in practice than the rivalry between systems. England first and then France would be obliged to tear loose from the embrace of the United States.

The magazine is the authoritative publication of the Communist party.

In a 50-page article, Stalin says his own thesis that markets could be stabilized for a period during the general crisis of capitalism is no longer valid.

Stalin forecast the expansion of a new parallel world market constituted by the Soviet Union, China and Western Europe which the western blockade had helped to form.

He predicted a further narrowing of markets for capitalist states with heightened inter-capitalist antagonisms.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on "nerves"—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

Use Cheese to Reduce Food Surplus

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Food surpluses aren't healthy, not when there's no place for them to go. Housewives can help with the cheese surplus.

J. D. Hunt of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association told a meeting in Stratford recently that he wasn't in any position to "paint any rosy picture of the future," not with the present surplus of cheese.

The Stratford group was told that Quebec-made cheese is coming into the Ontario market at a lower price than the home product. This is one of the economic facets of a general problem.

There are all kinds of good cheese dishes, and here's one cheese soufflé.

Use two tablespoons butter; three tablespoons flour; one-half cup scalded milk; one-half teaspoon salt; few grains cayenne; one-half cup grated old cheese; yolks of three eggs; whites of three eggs.

Melt butter, and flour, mix well and add gradually scalded milk. Then add salt, cayenne and cheese. Add egg yolks which have been well beaten and cool mixture. Fold in egg whites beaten stiff. Pour into buttered baking-dish and bake 20 minutes in slow oven, about 300 degrees Fahrenheit. Serve immediately.

High and low ovens were discussed at the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Consumers at Toronto. Delegates learned that a survey among United States housewives disclosed that women over 40, who have had more experience with the high oven, were in favor of it. On the other hand women under 40 favored the low-type oven.

she wished manufacturers would produce more good utility stoves—and ones minus the fancy gadgets.

Mrs. Jean Butterfield of Toronto, head of the Association's Consumer Research Committee, suggested to the group that manufacturers of rubber rings be requested to stamp the date of manufacture on each package. She recalled a C.A.C. investigation of the complaint that "rubber rings for sealers are often too thin."

Manufacturers had been asked for their views. They said that humidity is known to affect rubber and it is impossible to control this factor although it was considered negligible in the case of a rubber ring.

"As to the shelf-life of the rubber ring, it should be renewed each year," said Mrs. Butterfield. "Rubber oxidizes, especially at high temperatures, and changes in the rubber occur, resulting in hardness. If the housewife uses rings which have remained in the retail store or in her own cupboard for too long a time the rings might seem to be too thin."

Cabinet Plans Non-Permanent Labor Board

VICTORIA (CP)—Formation of a non-permanent labor relations board, similar to many other Canadian provinces, is under active consideration by the provincial government.

The government's desire for a non-permanent board is prompted by two hopes: 1. Considerable monetary saving, and 2. settlement of more disputes by conciliation. If a non-permanent LRB is formed, the government would build up its conciliation services, placing more emphasis on advisability of settling disputes at conciliation level.

Rule of 11 Only Confuses Mr. Muzzy

Mr. Champion is the type of player who is always trying to teach the Mr. Muzzys of the game all about the rule of eleven. Mr. Muzzy is the type who will never learn it.

Of course, Mr. Champion is wasting his time. But he is so good that it kills him to see a bad play made. He can't help telling how the error could have been avoided. This is not only a bore to the players in the game. It is also an expensive habit for Mr. Champion.

Today's hand is a good example. Mr. Muzzy tried hard to remember what his partner had told him about the rule of eleven. If he had not been thus harangued after previous deals it is very probable that he would have made the winning play.

Here's what happened. Against Miss Brash's brave no trump contract Mr. Champion opened the five of hearts. The trey went on from dummy and it was up to Mr. Muzzy. He recalled vaguely that something about the number of the card, subtracted from some other number, would tell him something about what Miss Brash held in hearts.

All he could remember was that this "rule" told you not to go up with your highest card the first time. So Mr. Muzzy played the jack.

Miss Brash won with the king and rattled off the first 11 tricks — six diamonds, four spades and the heart.

As you see, the defenders could have won the first 11 tricks themselves by taking five hearts and six club tricks. The total swing, then, was nine tricks; that is, Miss Brash made five-odd and should have been down seven.

All of this hinged on Mr. Muzzy's play to the first trick. Left to his own devices, he undoubtedly would have gone up with the ace of hearts. He prides himself on always playing "third hand high."

That comes natural to him. He has been doing it religiously for 20 years. And while it isn't always the right play, it would have made a slight difference in this particular case.

British Banks Eye Canadian Potential

LONDON (CP)—British merchant banks are showing "belated but welcome" awareness of the opportunities for participation in Canadian economic development, says the Economist.

The independent weekly magazine cites as two examples the recent announcement by Barling Brothers and Morgan Grenfell and Company that they are taking an interest in a Canadian finance house, Harris and Partners, and the arrangements made by N. M. Rothschild and Sons regarding development in Newfoundland and Labrador.

The Rothschild Company, descendant firm of the famous "House of Rothschild," announced in September it is arranging for a group of British and Canadian experts to visit the two territories to report on their possibilities for development.

These two initiatives, London merchant banks, the Economist, "suggest that the United Kingdom Exchange Control now may be looking more benevolent eye on applications for conversions of investment in that Dominion.

Remember When

One of the world's greatest sportsmen, Sir Thomas Lipton, died 21 years ago today. He had spent vast sums in five unsuccessful attempts to win the world's classic of yachting, the America's Cup, his last challenge having been made the year before his death.

Job of getting the "steaks" out of the woods took more than a day, with the aid of a canoe and a team of horses.

TV TO RUSSIA

Yanks Hold Edge in Mound Strength

NEW YORK (AP)—If pitching means anything in a world series, and it usually does, New York Yankees are off to a head start in their quest of a fourth consecutive world's championship.

Headed by Alie Reynolds, the American league's earned-run leader, Casey Stengel's 11-strong mound staff is well rested for the fall classic against Brooklyn Dodgers, now in its fourth game.

Reynolds, who became a 20-game winner for the first time this season, and Vic Raschi (16-6) and Eddie Lopat (10-5) were nominated to start the first three games for the Yanks. Johnny Sain (11-6), Bob Kuzava (8-8), Tom Gorman (6-2) and Ray Scarborough (6-6) are being counted on for heavy duty.

The Dodger pitching corps, too, is well rested but there's resemblance ends. Joe Black, their phenomalous rookie, drew the opening game assignment against Reynolds (20-8) largely on the strength of his excellent record in relief. But the fast-balling Negro hurler, who posted a 15-4 record during the regular campaign and won the first series game, made only two starts among his 56 appearances and completed one game.

Going the distance has been one of the things the members of the Brooklyn staff have been unable to do frequently. Only Carl Erskine (14-6) has hurled as many as 10 complete games. Preacher Roe (11-2) has gone all the way eight times and Billy Loes (13-8) has pitched seven complete jobs.

Yankee pitchers, on the other hand, have shown much better route-going propensities. Reynolds with 24 complete games was tops with Raschi 13, Lopat 10 and Sain 8, also well up there.

It is about time Canada stood on her own feet in the theatre world, and in Shapiro we have a first-class playwright," said Sherek.

Although casting for the Bristol opening is not complete, two well-known British stage names, Pauline Jameson and James Neville, will be among the performers.

Unemployment in Canada Sees Heavy Drop

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's unemployed dropped to 147,800 from 175,700 in the five weeks up to Sept. 4, the Labor Department reports.

It was the lowest jobless total of any time to date this year, though it was still above the figure of 129,000 for the same time last year.

In its periodic review of the employment situation, the department said the unemployed at Sept. 4 represented 3.7 per cent of Canada's paid workers. This compared with 4.3 per cent at the start of August and 3.3 per cent a year ago.

Regionally, the department said, there was considerable variation in employment trends. In the Atlantic region, the number registered for work with National Employment Service fluctuated from week to week, finally showing a decrease for the period.

In Ontario and Quebec, there was a slight increase early in August, and then a gradual decline. On the prairies, employment picked up steadily. On the west coast, conditions improved after an increase in employment until mid-August.

Main elements in the overall pickup in jobs were harvesting operations—particularly the west's record grain crop—more construction work and increased production of consumer goods. There also were rises in producer-goods output and in the production of basic materials.

In the Atlantic area, the number of job applicants declined to 17,900 from 19,600. There were improvements in construction work, wholesale and retail trade, textile production and waterfront activity.

In Quebec, unemployment went down to 42,800 from 51,600, largely due to a current high degree of industrial expansion in that province. The department reported employment in most Quebec industries was at a high degree and still rising.

In Ontario, job applications declined to 43,100 from 50,900. Most important factors, the department said, were increased activity in the construction and some manufacturing industries, and increased demand for farm labor.

Prairie unemployment went to 15,400 from 20,500, with agriculture, construction and railway maintenance competing strongly for labor. All the larger areas except Winnipeg reported shortages of farm and construction workers.

In British Columbia, the number of job-seekers dropped to 28,600 from 33,100. The 7.5 per cent unemployed at Sept. 4 was the highest percentage in Canada and was largely due to the aftermath of the summer logging strike. Salmon canneries and other food-processing plants were running at capacity, and housing construction was up.

Poor Physique Delinquency Factor Professor Claims

LONDON (CP)—Boys of stunted growth and underweight for their age, especially in homes where the father is not regularly employed, are more prone to juvenile delinquency than those of good physique.

This is the conclusion reached by Dr. Thomas Ferguson, professor of public health and social medicine at Glasgow University, in a survey just completed for the Nuffield Foundation.

The professor found delinquency particularly common among boys who at the age of 14 were less than 57 inches in height or under 80 pounds in weight. In contrast, he says, the lowest rate of delinquency was found among lads who had attained a height of around 60 inches and ranged in weight from 81 to 89 pounds by the time they were 14 years.

TOO MUCH MONEY

Professor Ferguson's survey also produced these findings:

1. The incidence of juvenile crime is high among those in blind-alley or stop-gap jobs as well as what is called the "but-ter-fly boys"—those who flit from job to job.
2. Youngsters earning the most money get into trouble with the law more frequently.
3. Offspring of the better-educated and skilled parents seldom get into difficulties.
4. Although boys are inclined to waywardness when the father is unemployed, mothers at work do not increase the risk of family delinquency.
5. Detention or whipping do not seem to be effective deterrents.

The report shows that probation has produced better results than mere admonition. The best results, however, came when parents were fined or ordered to stand surety for the good behaviour of their children.

"To the parents," says Professor Ferguson, "belongs most of the success or failure in training a lad away from crime."

CCF Nominate Candidate For New Election

SALMON ARM (CP)—W. J. Thompson last night became the first candidate nominated by any party for the new general election in British Columbia when he was endorsed at a CCF meeting here.

Unsuccessful candidate in the June 12 provincial election, the former reeve of Salmon Arm will contest the Salmon Arm riding when an election is called.

CCF leader Harold Winch addressed the meeting and described as "fantastic" the Social Credit suggestion that other parties should not oppose Social cabinet ministers in the by-elections, necessary to give them a seat in the Legislature.

BCHIS Staff Reductions Announced

VICTORIA (CP)—Health Minister Eric Martin in an interview here disclosed Wednesday that the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Services staff has been reduced by 77.

"We definitely intend to reduce the staff to a minimum," he said, "but not in a way that would hazard the success of the scheme."

Mr. Martin was commenting on the report of the hospital inquiry board and the recommendation of management engineers, Kellogg and Stevenson, for reducing the hospital insurance staff of 660 members by two-thirds.

He said any sudden large scale cuts in the staff "would seriously impair the whole hospital insurance administration."

The government, however, plans gradual staff reductions "without hardship to the civil servants concerned."

Mr. Martin explained there is a 20 per cent turnover in staff in the service and that wherever possible people who left the service for one reason or another would not be replaced.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—They're sinking the Titanic again, this time on a movie lot, and they're having a terrible time sifting fact from fiction.

The Titanic epic will star Clifton Webb and Barbara Stanwyck and is being helmed by Charles Brackett.

"The stories we have uncovered about the sinking are fabulous," the producer remarked. "We have had to discard some of them because they are too fantastic for movie audiences to believe. Some are too fantastic for me to believe. That's only natural, since human testimony is inclined to be faulty in times of great stress."

The facts, as Brackett related them, are these: The Titanic was built at a cost of $7,500,000. Its building was accompanied by a big publicity campaign citing it as the most modern, unsinkable ship. Newsreels still exist of the captain confidently embarking on the maiden voyage. Aboard were nine multi-millionaires, several editors, a novelist, a Countess and President Howard Taft's aide-de-camp.

On the night of April 12, 1912, a lookout sighted an iceberg dead ahead. The alarm was sounded and the ship was swerved to one side, missing the iceberg. The ship struck a spur of underwater ice, which ripped open the bottom of the ship "like a sardine can."

The Titanic went down with 1,517 persons. When the liner Carpathia arrived on the scene, only 707 survivors could be found.

FANTASTIC YARNS

Many stories of the disaster came out of the Senate hearings and newspaper accounts. Among them:

That the first officer on the bridge continued the ship's speed for 10 minutes after the waters were deemed dangerous and that he shot himself after the iceberg was struck.

That one rich couple bribed the crew to put their luggage in a lifeboat.

That a man donned a dress to gain a place on a lifeboat.

That the captain swam to a lifeboat, deposited a child there and swam back to go down with his ship.

That Mrs. Isadore Straus declined to enter a lifeboat and leave her millionaire husband, saying, "I stayed with him a good many years; I'm not going to leave him now."

The acts of heroism outnumbered the selfish ones. As the ship was sinking, those aboard sang "Nearer My God To Thee," and that is the title of the picture. (The title "Titanic" is owned by another producer.)
