UPROAR IN OTTAWA HOUSE OF COMMONS

ARCHDEACON RIX ENTHUSES OVER BEAUTIES OF PRINCE RUPERT DISTRICT

Uproar in Commons on Use of Words in Debate

objection to Premier King declaring statement untrue and later Donald Sutherland has to retract insinuation

OTTAWA, June 3.—An uproar was created in the House of Commons yesterday when the House was sitting as a committee of the whole. Discussing amendments to the Immigration Act, Premier Mackenzie King characterized the statement of Donald Sutherland, Conservative, that legislation before the house was the result of a bargain between Liberal and Labor members as "untrue."

Conservatives demanded that the word be withdrawn, but chairman Duff ruled that it was not unparliamentary and on appeal to the ruling of the chair was sustained.

Mr. Sutherland then declared that he "wasn't surprised at the ruling of the chair" and Liberals strongly objected to the word "surprised." Chairman Duff ruled that the word be withdrawn and after considerable wrangling on both sides Mr. Sutherland retracted and calm again returned.

Unrivalled Scenic Attractions of Prince Rupert and District Pointed Out by Archdeacon Rix

That the scenic excellence of Prince Rupert is one of the greatest assets of the city, was the statement made by Archdeacon Rix in an address at the Rotary Club luncheon yesterday. The Archdeacon enthused over the possibilities of the district from that point of view and urged that more be made of it. People seemed to have no understanding of the beauties of the scenery here. Take the view from the American Consulate on Fourth Avenue. It was unrivaled. The harbor looms up from there and the scene is such as could be appreciated by anyone from any part of the world. There were the sunsets, the storms and calms, the boats coming and going, but best of all he liked the appearance of polished steel that was seen at times.

Prince Rupert as a townscape had wonderful scenic possibilities, the Archdeacon said. What was a flat town? It was suited for nothing but gardening. Here nature assisted to make the place beautiful. The overhanging bluffs were wonderful. The possibilities were beyond compare. He strongly urged that persistent and continuous efforts be made to beautify the city and to keep it neat and tidy and to improve its public gardens. So far little care had been taken of the townsite.

Sunken Gardens

The speaker drew special attention to the possibilities of a sunken garden at the old hotel site. There was the pond and the beautiful native trees and very little work was needed to make it a second Butchart Gardens. It had all the surroundings for a thing of beauty and would be a great attraction to tourists. One of the finest things the Rotary Club could do would be to make an adult playground here in rivalry to the children's playground of the Gyros. The place was infinitely ahead of other places in its possibilities.

Turning then to attractions outside of the city, the speaker referred to the possibilities of beautifying Kainai Island and opening it up. Stanley Park he thought, had nothing to compare with this island. Roads around and up the mountain should be built. The view from the mountain was equalled in few places.

Recreational trips outside of the city were to be found in every direction. There was the fishing and hunting of the district which could be capitalized. The Metlakatla Indian village could be made a show place and the wonderful scenery of the places easily reached by boat were worth a great deal. Later they would be appreciated, he felt sure. People, if they knew of it, would gladly pay any money to get there.

The Archdeacon then took his hearers on a trip to Skagway, Lake Bennett and Atlin Lake and showed pictures which he had collected both showing parts of Prince Rupert and the district. There were pictures of the malamutes and huskies and of various points of interest. Stewart and other Portland Canal points had splendid scenic attractions. Some day all these would be appreciated.

Appreciative Of Railway Administration.

The following editorial article of appreciation of the railway administration from the Manitoba Free Press seems particularly appropriate just now:

Mr. Dunning, in his first official statement as Minister of Railways, has an inspiring story to tell of a determined and intelligent attempt by Canada to grapple with an immense national problem, which is now well on the way to a successful issue.

Many people—most of them perhaps—have been looking at this railway problem from the wrong angle. They have been regarding it as something which the government willfully brought upon the country; and, appalled by the figures of losses, swollen to abnormal dimensions by bookkeeping devices, they have been demanding that the Government do something about it right away.

The primary fact in the whole discussion, which has been systematically obscured, is that the Government, in place of saddling itself foolishly with a railway problem, was confronted some years back with an emergency which threatened the economic foundations of this country. The Grand Trunk Railway was bankrupt; it could only carry on by subventions thinly disguised as loans. The Canadian Northern was in the same predicament; it could only operate if the Parliament year after year shovelled aid by the tens of millions into its treasury. The Grand Trunk Pacific, despite assistance running into millions annually, could not be kept alive as a private corporation; in March, 1919, it lay down and gave notice that on a given date it would depart this life, leaving the districts it was built to serve without railway accommodation.

Had To Carry Burden Of Finance.

The Dominion Government had to get under the burden and carry it. The load could not be dropped and it could not be shifted. The theory, advanced in certain quarters, that private corporations were willing to relieve the country of its railway difficulty is the veriest nonsense. Of course, there were portions of these bankrupt systems that could be operated at a profit and they no doubt could have been sold to benevolent capitalists or private corporations for considerably less than they were worth; but this would have made the Government's problem hopeless by removing the foundations upon which a new railway structure might possibly be erected.

There was nothing for it but for the country to tackle the job itself. That was six years ago. The bankrupt railways and the Government roads—which were and always had been bankrupt too—were thrown together into a vast and formless conglomeration; and a start made in trying to lick it into some semblance of a unified national system.

Triumph Of Capacity.

When the Canadian people consider what has been achieved in this brief period of time they have a right to regard it as a triumph of capacity, courage and foresight. They have put into the system in that space of time 353 millions of their own money and 430 millions of money lent by the public under government guarantees. This money was needed to equip the road to do business. Without this expenditure there was no future for the national road; but it took courage, nevertheless, to throw this vast sum of money into the seemingly bottomless void.

The policy is beginning to have results. In 1920 the railway failed to meet its operating expenses by 34 million dollars. That is to say, the Government had to pay all the road's fixed charges and in addition put up 34 million dollars to pay for the actual losses incurred in running the road. In 1925 the road paid its operating expenses and accumulated a surplus of 32 million dollars, which fell short of meeting all the interest charges owed the public by only $5,735,502. These are Mr. Dunning's amended figures showing a betterment of nearly two million dollars over Sir Henry Thornton's estimate of two months ago.

Change For Better Of Huge Amount.

As Mr. Dunning pointed out, these figures show a change for the better in six years of 66 million dollars, or an average betterment of eleven millions a year. This ratio has only to be maintained for this year to put the Canadian National in a position to meet all the interest owed to the investing public and have a few millions over for the owners of the road—the taxpayers of Canada. That this ratio of betterment will be easily achieved is indicated by the returns for the first four months of the present year which show the road nearly six million dollars ahead of last year's record. There is, therefore, good reason to believe that the Canadian National will this year reach the position where it will carry itself and begin to make a little money for its proprietors. That is to say, the Canadian National will cease to be a direct drain upon the national treasury. The prophets of gloom, in order to attack the railway, will have to rely upon the fact that it will, for a long time to come, make very little return for the public money put into it by the Government; but if it pays its external fixed charges the people of Canada will, we think, regard the problem, which looked so hopeless in 1920, as virtually solved.

ROTARY HEADS SUBSCRIPTION FOR UNIFORMS

Boys' Band to be Equipped at Cost of $750 If Plans of Organization Work Out

SUM OF $150 DONATED

The Rotary Club at its meeting yesterday decided to head a subscription list with $150 toward providing uniforms for the Boys' Band. The sum of $750 is required and the public will be asked to make up the rest of the amount.

Walter Fisher, chairman of the boys' work committee, explained the situation and suggested that this much money should be devoted to the purpose.

Colonel Nicholls, who has fathered the band since its inception, said that the band had a number of engagements. They had been asked to go to Smithers for the annual fair and to Telkwa from there for the barbecue. A number of picnics and other events wanted them and the fair board were engaging them for the annual event. The result was that they would be able to raise sufficient money for upkeep to last until Christmas.

They also, through the generosity of the people here, had been able to purchase enough instruments. What was needed now to give the boys a presentable appearance was neat uniforms.

They were fed up on concerts, dances and such means of raising money and suggested that a subscription list be opened. He thought this would be the last time they would come to the Rotary Club for help for this worthy purpose.

The club unanimously endorsed the proposal and the list will be opened at Orme's Drug Store.

GOSSIP OF GOTHAM

New York Chat About Summer Girl, Price of Hats, Smaller Money, and Hand-Painted Cakes

NEW YORK, June 3.—Gotham society has taken up a new craze—the hand painted cake. No hostess who wishes to be quite proper dares entertain without one. Broadway chefs vie with one another in producing the cakes, which often are works of art. Fruit colors are used.

The cakes are signed by the chefs, just as any artist would sign his picture.

The smartest, neatest woman's hats may be obtained here now for $6.50, and many as low as $5.00. Others of a quality lower than that demanded by the average American housewife may be obtained at $2. Many women who could afford to pay several times as much are finding the $5 hats satisfactory and stylish.

The lowly dime has once more become legal tender on Manhattan Island. It may be presented again as a tip for a sixty cent luncheon without causing any elevation of the waitresses' eyebrows. A list of things that can be bought with it now would fill several advertising columns.

There is one form of gate-crashing that the stolid subway guards haven't been able to eliminate. It is the loud hollering of the subway turnstiles which goes on twenty-four hours a day, as thousands pour into the underground.

But the guards, whose ears are thus assaulted by the steady barrage, are the last to advocate silencers. The prothesis come from the riders.

Southern Long Island, fronting the Atlantic, is gay this month with bright colors, soft-tinted buildings and world famous names, all built up over week ends by real estate salesmen. Everything that Florida did successfully creating beauty spots by the seaside is being repeated on the Long Island shore.

Swamps have been converted into canal homesites with resounding names. One sales headquarters alone occupies a pretentious hotel.

Fashion points to a transposed Summer Girl this season, wearing a silk stocking hat and straw shoes.

The silk stocking hat is made of heavy silk thread, knit on head size hosiery machines and treated with a solution which gives the silk the body and flexibility of soft horsehair. Its color includes all the newest silk stocking shades.

The straw may be open work Panama, lined in bright linen, or raffia woven and twisted into an airy summer sandal.

Mexican States Compete for Business of Cutting the Matrimonial Ties

TUSCON, Arizona, June 3.—Mexico again is bidding for foreign recognition, but not through the department of state. This time she is bidding for recognition by foreign citizens who wish to sever marital ties quickly and painlessly and who are willing to pay the price.

Three states—Moros, Sonora and Chihuahua—have entered in to cut-throat competition for the trade that brings in its wake a pleasant jingle of coin, and all three offer programs ambitious enough to cause sleepless nights for divorce lawyers who practice in other climes.

None of the three states requires legal residence for divorce decrees of mutual consent. They only ask that provision be made for any children or third party affected and offer as wide a range for complaint. However, the provisions for speed vary with the state of Moros "leading by a nose."

Only Ten Days

Moros divorce lawyers point out that their state requires but ten days between the filing of the suit and granting of final papers, that no personal service is required unless the suit is contested and that legal residence is not required whether the action is contested or not. They also point to Cuernavaca, the state capital, as a pleasant resort city in which to spend the time while nuptial knots are being untied.

Next, from a point of speed, comes Sonora, where two weeks are required for severing the ties if the divorce is by mutual consent. However, six months legal residence and personal service of papers are required if the suit is contested. Furthermore, non-residents must produce a copy of their marriage certificate.

Slower State

Chihuahua lags in the matter of speed. A residence of one year is required if the suit is contested. However, alert Juarez lawyers do not propose to let the golden goose glide by. They have drawn up a proposal to reduce the time for mutual consent decrees to thirty days and make service legal through publication. The Chihuahua legislature will meet April 1 to consider the plan which is almost identical with the Yucatan statute. But despite the attractiveness of the path to freedom there is one serious drawback—the Mexican courts have no way of enforcing alimony decrees granted in proceedings involving non-residents. However, Mexican lawyers predict this will be no thorn in the side of those who wish to loose the bonds of matrimony expeditiously and painlessly.

YOUTH DEFENDED BY WOMEN'S DEAN

ILLINOIS University Official Praises Students of Today

INDIANAPOLIS, June 3.—"When middle age is blameless, then you may criticize youth, but I have no patience with those who are constantly finding fault with the young people of this generation," Miss Maria Leonard, dean of women of the University of Illinois, said in an address before several hundred college students and graduates. Miss Leonard, who has been Illinois dean for three years, is president of the university section of the national association of deans.

"I have been working with young people, and older people, too, for that matter for 45 years, and I have talked to thousands of boys and girls. I can say today that the young people are more capable and more frank and more honest and straightforward than they ever were. They must be. Look at the responsibility we put upon the individual. When I wish to renew my faith in the order of things, I turn to youth every time," declared Miss Leonard.

"Young men today are just as fine or finer than they ever were, and young women just as virtuous. They are thinking of their lives in terms of purpose; and for every one who attracts the spotlight of attention through some indiscretion, there are thousands who are going along in a fine, steady mode of living."

SPORT CHAT

An interesting line-up of players has been made for the late Tom Jones benefit football match tonight and a good game should be the result. Apart from this, however, it would behove soccer fans of town to turn out in force for the match so that their admissions may go to the benefit of the family of one who was a strong supporter of the game and who gave freely of his services, while alive, in refereeing many league games in a fair and impartial manner.

The worst need in local baseball circles is another catcher. With three teams in the league there are only two backstops available—Dave Balfour and Charlie McKeown—and these two have been shifted around from team to team for the various fixtures. So it would be hard to say definitely to whom these two prized players belong. If there is another catcher in town he should step out in order to simplify matters in the baseball league.

Owing to the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve being unable to field a team last night, the Intermediate League football game between the Y-Macs and the Naval Reserve was postponed. Instead, the High School played an all star team from both the Y-Macs and the Navy defeating them with ease, the score standing five to nothing in favor of the High School. The next regularly scheduled Intermediate League fixture is set for next Wednesday evening between the High School and Naval Reserve.

EDMONTON TO HAVE HOCKEY NEXT WINTER

Lease of Arena to be Given Some Representative Organization With Team in Western Canada Hockey League

EDMONTON, June 3.—Edmonton will have hockey next winter. It may not be of as high a standard as the Eskimos of the old Western Hockey League provided, but, according to officials of the new Western Canada Hockey League now being formed in the south of the province, the minor league that will have a representative team in this city will have many of the professionals of other years playing in it and most of the promising amateurs that blossomed forth last season.

Deacon White, for years a sport promoter of this city, has made application for a lease of the arena at the exhibition grounds for next winter. Mr. White handled the old Eskimos before Kenneth C. MacKenzie took over the franchise in 1921.

Another well-known sportsman of this city has also made application, Barney Stanley, defense man of last year's team, having made his bid for an arena lease.

GOLF CLOTHES WORN STREETS OF BROADWAY

NEW YORK, June 3.—Broadway, separated by many long miles of asphalt from the nearest golf-course, is being treated this spring to a display of what the well-dressed man will wear in pursuit of the little white ball. Baggy knickers and gaudy hose are affected by scores of bare-headed youths who parade the street during the afternoon. The obvious fact that most of them could not tell a golf-club from a pogo-stick makes no difference.

The youth of Broadway loves color, and golf togs offer it to him this season in varieties not to be obtained in more appropriate clothing.

PRODUCTION OF COAL FALLING

Marked Decrease For Four Months Just Ended Over That of 1925

LACK OF DEMAND CAUSE

Nicola-Princeton Only District in Which Gain Has Been Made in Output

VICTORIA, June 3.—Coal production for British Columbia in the first four months of the present year showed a substantial decrease from that for the same period in 1925 according to figures issued under authority of Hon. William Sloan, provincial secretary and minister of mines. The decline in output this year indicates the slackening up in the coal trade caused by lack of seasonal demand, the competition from fuel oil, and other factors. Total production in the four months aggregated 699,362 long tons compared with 795,710 tons in the corresponding four months of last year, a decrease of 96,378 tons.

Vancouver Island collieries produced 380,618 long tons against 459,490 tons in 1925, a falling off of 78,872 tons; the output in the Cow's Nest Pass district was 259,257 tons compared with 283,719 tons in 1925, a decrease of 24,462 tons. The collieries of the Nicola-Princeton district scored a gain over 1925 with 58,737 tons compared with
