MORE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH EARTHQUAKE AND VOLCANO DAMAGE IN SOUTH AMERICA

Fire Visits Vancouver Home While Parents Are Away and Two Little Girls Lose Lives

Kerosene exploded while boy was lighting fire and North Burnaby home bursts into flames with fatal results--mother was doing Christmas shopping

VANCOUVER, December 21.—Marguerite Wirick, aged 8, and her sister, Erge, aged 5, were burned to death in North Burnaby, a few miles east of the city, last evening, when their home was destroyed by fire. They were the daughters of Floyd Wirick, an oil company employee, who was at work at the time. Their mother was also absent at the time, being on her return from a shopping trip to the city.

A son, Arthur, according to the police, endeavored to revive the smouldering fire in the kitchen stove with oil and soon the house was in flames, the little victims being both upstairs. Their charred bodies were recovered from the ruins and taken to New Westminster.

Another son, Keith, aged 14, who was severely burned, was taken to the hospital.

Our experience in past years has shown us that colonization is much more successful when whole families are placed on a farm than when single men take over a homestead," said D. Black, and that is one of the chief reasons why we have decided to concentrate on immigration of agricultural families, especially from Great Britain, but also from the other European countries in which we have our agencies.

We have definitely adopted that policy that no family will be brought out to settle on land adjacent to the railway without fair chances of success. Unless these people who come here succeed their coming to Canada can be of no value either to themselves, the country or the railway," said Mr. Black.

"We have every reason to be proud of the results of the year which is coming to close, and every indication is that next year will be more successful than the present one."

OLIVER BALDWIN, SON OF PREMIER, HELPS CLOSE SOCIALIST CAMPAIGN IN HOT OLD COUNTRY BY-ELECTION

SMITHWICK, Dec. 21.—The declaration by Oliver Baldwin, Socialist son of the premier, that "we are nearer revolution today than ever before" featured the close of the campaign of Oswald Mosley, parliamentary candidate before the voters in a by-election today. The campaign has been one of the most turbulent ever witnessed in the country.

Young Baldwin, addressing a mass meeting, predicted that fifty years hence there would be only two political parties in Great Britain—Socialist and Communists.

WILL AUCTION CARIBOO MINE

DECISION MADE BY MR. JUSTICE W. A. MACDONALD IN LIGHTNING CREEK LITIGATION—SALE ON APRIL 7

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21.—Sale by public auction of the property of the Lightning Creek Gold, Gravel & Draining Co. in the Cariboo district was ordered by Mr. Justice W. A. MacDonal in the Supreme Court here yesterday following months of litigation during which applications were heard in a case in which the principal contending parties were Charles Unverzagt, manager of the company, which is in the hands of a receiver, and J. S. Hogan.

The date of the sale is set for April 7. It will be subject to a reserve bid fixed by the court and placed in a sealed envelope to be opened on the day of sale. Bidding must commence at $50,000.

The case had been adjourned from last Thursday when Mr. Justice MacDonal received six offers of purchase for the mine. In the meantime, J. E. Bird, counsel for Unverzagt, representing a majority group of the debenture holders, has been considering the report of the receiver, H. W. Dyson.

English Cruise Party May Come to Prince Rupert in Course of Tour Next Year

VANCOUVER, December 21.—If plans now being discussed reach fruition, an ocean cruise may be arranged next summer from England around Cape Horn and northward along the western coasts of South and North America as far as Prince Rupert, according to a news story published in the Vancouver Province.

"It is suggested," says the newspaper, "that British Columbia, with its wonderful coastal and mountain scenery, might be a point of divergence where tourists can make a two or three days' run through the Rockies by rail or motor or make the loop around from Vancouver to Prince Rupert. Plans for this cruise are still in the embryo stage but it is almost assured, if the scheme is not perfected during the coming summer, it will be inaugurated the following year, according to information received from England by transportation men here.

KITKATLA BAND TO GET NEW UNIFORMS

The last of the new instruments for the Kitkatla Band, consisting of a big tuba, tenor horn, baritone, valve trombone, trumpet and saxophone, arrived at J. Lorne MacLaren's and were taken across to Kitkatla today. This equips the Kitkatla Band with the finest set of instruments that ever came north. Not being content with new instruments alone, it is the intention of the Kitkatla people to have new uniforms as well for their players. The investment in instruments alone runs well over $3,000. With the cost of these new uniforms added to this, the Kitkatla people show that they have quite an interest in music.

TOO MANY YOUNG CHILDREN DIE THUS.

The incident in West Virginia Sunday night where four young children were burned to death in their beds as their pastor-father rode his circuit brings to mind a warning that can never be repeated too often. Children of tender years should never be left alone ever in what seems apparent and absolute safety.

IMPROVEMENT IN LUMBER SITUATION.

Lumbering has been conducted under adverse conditions for nearly three years, for while sales have been large, overproduction and highly competitive markets have forced prices to comparatively low levels, and the mills which have been able to make good profits are those enjoying exceptional advantages.

In 1921 the production of lumber in Canada was at the lowest level since 1908, when statistics covering forest products were first compiled. The output of 2,869,000 M feet in that year probably represented the limit of consumption, and had it been maintained on that scale, the industry would not have to contend with some of its present difficulties.

Construction operations in Canada in 1924, 1925, and during the current year have been on an extensive scale, but there has been a very rapid expansion in the use of substitutes for wood, and there lies one of the principal causes of the difficulties surrounding the lumber industry.

As fully two-thirds of the production of Canadian lumber must be disposed of in the foreign markets, our foreign trade is a most important factor. Compared with the exports of logs, lath and lumber in the twelve months ending 30th September, 1925, those for the corresponding period this year show a slight decline.

There is still heavy consumption of lumber for house building in Great Britain, but the market in general has been weak as a result of unfavorable industrial conditions. Fortunately, the decline in shipments to the American and British markets has been largely offset by increased exports to other countries, notably Japan, which, in the eleven months ending in August last, bought nearly 260,000,000 feet of Canadian logs, lumber and timber squares.

While the volume of orders now shows the usual seasonal decline and no improvement in the conditions affecting lumbering can be expected for some time, there are encouraging signs which indicate that the industry will gradually work into a more profitable position.

BIG INTERESTS ARE IN FIELD

PORTLAND CANAL CAMP BREAKS INTO NEW STAGE OF DEVELOPMENT, SAYS STEWART EDITOR

The Portland Canal mining field has now reached the stage where the preliminary period of small local speculation has passed and outside capital from big corporations is entering to operate the field, according to H. W. M. Rolston, publisher and editor of The Portland Canal News of Stewart, in an interview with the Victoria Times.

The Portland Canal is now established as one of the greatest mining camps on the continent and with 1927 development will be still more pronounced as a number of properties come into production, he said.

"While a lot of people may be inclined to judge the developments in the Portland Canal by the stock market, this is not a criterion of the actual development of this district. As 1926 has without question, and is acknowledged so by all the mining men in the district, to have been the biggest development year in the history of the Portland Canal," Mr. Rolston said.

EXPENDITURES

"The feature of this is that exceptionally good results have been obtained in every section of the district. While there were not as many operations in 1926 as in 1925, due to the lack of capital in the case of a number of the small operations, still it is considered that more money has been actually spent in equipment and development this year. It has been estimated that in the neighborhood of $750,000 was expended this last season. This was made up by the Premier Gold Mining Company having doubled their milling capacity, increased camp and power facilities on B.C. Silver, and the development and equipment of the Dunwell mine.

"The results obtained this year have been such to attract greatly increased capital from nearly every source, the situation now being that large interests appear to be anxious to get into the camp. The striking of the ore on the Sebawke, better known as the National Silver, coupled with the B.C. Silver results, will be a great encouragement to English capital.

GREAT AREA

"People in Victoria may, to some extent, get bewildered at times at the large number of properties they hear about in the Portland Canal, but when they realize that mining is being carried on there over an area as large as Vancouver Island from Victoria to Ladysmith, and nearly as wide, some idea of the dimensions of the district can be obtained.

"The short seasons, the precipitous nature of the ground, heavily covered with bush, makes development in the early stages very slow.

"The last season has shown that the district has tremendous mineral resources.

"The support that Victoria people have given the district has been tremendously appreciated and while there may have been losses, still it is safe to predict that Victoria as a whole will ultimately get back every dollar it put in plus handsome profits.

DUNWELL COMES THROUGH

"Dunwell appears to have come in for a great deal of criticism, but still it must be remembered that nobody can do anything without courting criticism. It has been asserted that mistakes have been made. Perhaps so. But if the situation is carefully gone into and comparisons drawn with the operations of some of the large and highly efficient operating companies, it would be found that any mistakes that Dunwell may have made are minor as compared with those made by some of these same large operating companies, in spite of the fact that they have complete organizations and Dunwell had to create its own organization. Good progress is being made with the Dunwell mill, the planning of which and installation has been done by one of the most competent and experienced firms on the continent, which should ensure its success. Machinery is being installed now and the mill should be ready for turning up some time in February.

"With regard to the mine itself, while the cross-cut tunnel on the Sunbeam might be interpreted by some as being a disappointment, still it is not altogether so, in that it cut the vein at a point where it was very badly crushed, which crushed section might be very quickly run out of and into good ore on a short drift either way. Sunbeam showings, 1,000 feet north of the Dunwell workings, are strong and there is undoubtedly a lot of ore there still to be opened up.

"Eight hundred feet south of the camp, what may prove to be the southern extension of the Dunwell zone, there are very promising outcrops recently located.

OUTPUT INCREASING

"There was recently an attack made upon the Premier management by a Spokane house organ. The very fact that Premier has this year doubled its milling capacity and increased its tonnage production to 800 tons per day should be sufficient reply to this house organ's statement that the Premier is petering out. With regard to the charge of inefficient management common sense will tell anyone that the American Smelting and Refining Company, one of the world's most successful mining corporations, would not retain Mr. Pitt as manager if he was not efficient. Premier's

Rub It On At Bed-Time

For Deep Chest Colds

All colds should be treated with vapors, for vapors alone can carry the medication DIRECTLY to the air passages and lungs.

Vicks is a "vapor" treatment in salve form. For deep chest colds you first apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores, then massage briskly with Vicks for 5 minutes, spread on thickly and cover with a flannel cloth.

Vicks not only penetrates like a poultice or plaster, but the ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long. This double action usually checks the most stubborn cold overnight.

VICKS VAPORUB OVER 21 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

per tonnage cost, including both mining and milling, compare very favorably indeed with that of any similar type of mine on the continent. In other words, Premier can make plenty of money on $10 ore.

"It can be safely anticipated that 1927 will see greatly increased activity made possible by more money than ever being available from American, Eastern Canadian and English sources."

UNIQUE MEMENTO OF EARLIER DAYS

Canadian National Railway Magazine Tells of Native Pictographs Found Near Here by Harlan I. Smith

The Canadian National Railway Magazine this month gives an illustrated description of a set of old native pictographs which were discovered last year by Harlan I. Smith, Dominion archaeologist, on the bare face of a vertical granite outcropping near Tye station beside the railway, some 29 miles from this city. Though the forms have always been visible from the passing trains, there are probably few who ever noticed or knew of these mementoes of a day perhaps far in the past. The group consists of eight forms painted on the rock with lasting pigments the secret of which only the old tribal natives knew. The eight forms include seven figures known as coppers, one incomplete, and the semblance of a human countenance. Fifty feet from the track, the site of the pictographs is about a mile and a half east of Tye station or near the fourth telegraph pole east of the 92nd mile post from Pacific. Since having been found by Mr. Smith, the brush between the pictographs and the railway track has been further cleared leaving the unique forms fully visible from passing trains. A second pictograph site was found by Mr. Smith a mile further up the river and a short distance from the old Aberdeen cannery sit, these also being visible from the railway track.

NATHALIE IS AN UNHAPPY QUEEN

SLEEPS ON STRAW IN FRENCH CONVENT, CUT OFF BY WORLD AND FORGOTTEN BY HER PEOPLE

PARIS, Dec. 21.—With her former castle at Biarritz now the greatest gambling place in all Europe, the unhappy Queen Nathalie of Serbia has retired to the cold stone cells of a Catholic convent in a side street of the Paris Latin quarter.

Unfortunate in her love affair, as she was in her political and family life, Queen Nathalie lives wholly cut off from the world today, and forgotten by the people over whom she ruled as wife of Milan, King of the Serbs, nearly half a century ago.

A bent, old woman, dressed in the simplest of black clothes, is often seen wandering through the narrow thoroughfares of the quarter. Although locking herself in her cell every night and taking her frugal meals at the convent, Nathalie still keeps the right to take her daily walk through Paris.

There is nothing regal about her bearing now. Sorrow has creased her face. Divorced while yet queen, she was reconciled with Milan after his abdication had been forced upon him in 1889. She saw her son, Alexandre, who succeeded Milan to the throne, assassinated, together with his wife, Queen Draga, in May, 1903. With Alexandre, the last male in line, the House of Obrenovitch lost power to the House of Kara-Georgievitch, reigning in Jugoslavia today.

CONTINUOUS SORROW Nathalie left Serbia where her life had been one of continuous sorrow. She settled in France, choosing a place along the Basque Coast, overlooking the Atlantic. Biarritz, a mile away, was then only a pretty fishing port.

There she built her palace, the Villa Sacchino, and there she lived and enjoyed her first real happiness. But the war took away much of her fortune, beyond her immense real estate holding, hundreds of acres of parked land just at the edge of Biarritz.

For millions of francs she parted with her castle. Its name was changed to the Pavillon Royal, electric lights were strung under the trees, a glass dancing floor, lighted from underneath, was built in the state dining room, and Harry Plicer, known to stage folk of two continents, was called in as master of jazz.

Recently the great salons were converted into gambling rooms, with thirty tables for baccarat and ten for boulie. The Pavillon Royal is today a rival of Monte Carlo and of Deauville and its tables earn annually a hundred million francs.

NOT FORESIGHTED But Nathalie was not foresighted enough to retain an interest in her castle and farm and the gambling rights as did the Prince of Monaco. While Monte Carlo and Monaco live from the royalties of the gambling tables, and the Prince of Monaco gets a real princely living from the baccarat rooms, Nathalie preferred to take her millions and leave Sacchino.

Paris was a disappointment to her for while she was wealthy in money, of friends she had none. The loneliness of the great city frightened her, and a short time ago she rapped at the heavy wooden door of the convent and asked to be taken in.

Her immense fortune lies in a bank, its earnings being used to help in the work of the Sisters of Charity. Her jewels lie locked in a safety deposit vault.

EASTERN WRITER ON P.G.E. ROAD

DECLARED THAT TAXES, ROYALTIES AND DISTRICT REVENUES WOULD PAY OPERATING EXPENSES

British Columbia has a railway for sale, by name the Pacific Great Eastern. The British Columbians acquired their railway in July, 1918, at a cost of $38,301,000. The Province pays annually in interest charges on P.G.E. bonds and loans about $2,100,000, and provides for an annual operating deficit that has averaged during eight years $324,830, writes W. H. Bunting in Toronto Saturday Night.

The conception of the enterprise was the outcome largely of fateful over-confidence; its acquisition was necessitated by political expediency; its operation and ownership now form a staggering financial burden; and its disposition is the present supreme concern of the Government and people of the Province. That the P.G.E. may, at some distant day, become an asset of value is unlikely. Even a small return from the outlay must for generations remain germinating in the womb of time. It is the Provincial White Elephant, — increasingly voracious each year, unsaleable so far, even with its alluring trappings and adornments in the form of land concessions and tax exemptions, unfinished at its extremities, and immediately requiring a large and expensive dose of restoratives to keep its organs functioning and to ward off a threatening collapse.

The story of the acquisition of the P.G.E. by the Province is in many respects similar to that of the acquisition of the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk by the Dominion. In each case declining revenues, followed by default in bond interest payments having Government guarantees, necessitated Government intervention and the assumption of heavy liabilities. One great trouble with the P.G.E. is that it was never completed, and another that its expected usefulness was destroyed by the union of the two big systems. The Province assumed ownership under conditions so adverse that the scrapping of the whole line and its conversion into a motor highway was strongly urged.

CONCEPTION OF IDEA

The prime mover of the P.G.E. project was Major-General John W. Stewart, of Vancouver, who organized and commanded the Canadian Railway troops during the war. When General Stewart got his charter for the railway in 1912 the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific were rivals, the former having selected Vancouver as its Pacific terminus and the latter Prince Rupert. The intention was to give an entry to Vancouver by way of the P.G.E. through freight and passengers coming over the G.T.P., cutting out the rail haul from the junction at Prince George to Prince Rupert, and the water carriage from Prince Rupert to Vancouver.

The idea at that time was a good one. There was an opportunity for the P.G.E. Company, which undertook to build, equip and operate the road, and to make a good profit either by selling out to the G.T.P. or building the line and leasing it to that railway. So long as the two transcontinental systems were in competition the idea of profit from the P.G.E. was not a hazard. As soon, however, as the Conservative government, under Sir Robert Borden, took over in 1912 the two moribund rivals, the value of the P.G.E. was destroyed, as the Canadian Northern line through the Province supplied the required connection.

EXPERT ADVICE

In 1922 the Oliver government decided to obtain expert advice and secured the services of J. G. Sullivan, at one time chief engineer of the C.P.R. Mr. Sullivan submitted an exhaustive and illuminating report, none of the recommendations in which were ever acted upon. In his opinion the line from Vancouver to Squamish could not be justified on any ground whatever; and at the northern end he urged the Government to abandon the uncompleted section from Quesnel to Prince George and salvage everything that could be sold.

He condemned the construction of the projections north of the G.T.P. to the Peace River country, and in the event of operation being continued advised the use in place of steam trains, of gas driven motor cars, which require only one or two men to operate them, and consume one-fifth as much fuel. The Government was, however, committed to the operation of the railway and Mr. Sullivan's report was decorously pigeon-holed. The Government did not share his gloomy views regarding the future of the elephant.

A report of another kind was secured from J. S. Dennis, of Montreal, covering the agricultural, mineral and timber resources, water powers, tourists attractions and traffic possibilities. Mr. Dennis recommended the creation of a special department for intensive exploitation, and found the scenery not hard to look at.

COMPETITION OF MOTORS

Motor transport is a comparatively new factor in the problems of railroad management. The old question whether settlement should follow the railway or the railway follow settlement now requires no answer. In new areas of settlement, motor trucks, buses and cars are now the common carriers of the pioneers and the cost of operation is borne by the people who use them. When motors cannot handle the growing traffic satisfactorily, settlement has increased sufficiently to warrant the consideration of ways and means for the construction of railways. An important question then arises: How much traffic can the railway secure in competition with the motor vehicles? The railway will generally get the long haul and very little of the way freight. The old Cariboo road, closely paralleling the P.G.E. location from Clinton to Quesnel, a distance of 192 miles, has been made by the government into a magnificent highway and provides transportation facilities that have turned it into a formidable competitor of the railway. It is in the operating deficit, averaging $324,830 during the eight years of Government ownership, that a gleam of sunshine appears. The peak was reached in 1922 when it mounted to $487,383. Under the management of T. G. Kilpatrick, a veteran official of the C.P.R., there has been a steady reduction, the report for the fiscal year ending last June fixing it at $274,971. Revenue for the year increased 17.3 per cent, while the increase in cost operation was 3.4 per cent. The increase in revenue were: in freight traffic, 21.8, passenger, 13.6; express, 7.2; and sleeping-car returns, 14.1. There are accordingly, reasons for encouragement in the operating position, due directly to an increase in agricultural and forest production. There is no through business, and for its revenue the P.G.E. must depend upon business developed in its own territory, which, as Mr. Kilpatrick points out, is a third larger in area than Nova Scotia.

DISTRICT REVENUES

He declares that a point has been reached where, if the taxes, royalties, timber duties and other payments made directly to the Government as a result of the development of the territory, were credited to the railway, the operating deficit would disappear. But the Provincial White Elephant must be groomed and cleaned as well as fed. One of the most important and most contentious questions that the Government will submit for the consideration of the Legislature during the coming session will be the provision of money for betterments. The sum immediately required amounts to over $3,000,000. This outlay should, of course, be included in the cost of operation. Nearly all the bridges are of timber, and most of the older ones have reached their allotted span of life.

The Oliver government, as an inducement to prospective purchasers to take over the road and complete it, secured authority from the Legislature at its last session to grant a land subsidy of 20,000 acres per mile. This subsidy would aggregate about 9,570,000 acres to be selected from the four blocks delineated on the accompanying plan and comprising a total area of 16,075,000 acres. The offer has led to numerous inquiries, but Premier Oliver declares that as yet no concrete proposition has been submitted, although the representative of two syndicates examined the physical condition of the line during the past summer. There are scoffers and sceptics who view vending efforts with derision, while others show signs of an awakening interest and a sympathetic appreciation of Governmental endeavor to right matters. During this period of watchful waiting, while the elephant is being cleaned, groomed and fed, "Honest John" Oliver might recommend to the consideration of his people Kipling's lines.

Could Not Sleep Heart and Nerves Were So Bad

Mr. Geo. Meek, Windsor, Ont., writes: "I suffered with my heart and nerves and could not sleep at night for noises in my head. I managed to keep at my work somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I could not go to my work. I was afraid to go out any place, for very often I would stagger on my feet, and everything in front of me would turn black and fade away. While I was home sick a friend told me to take I got four boxes and by the time I had used them the pains and noises in my head ceased and I was able to get a good night's rest. Although that was six years ago I have never been troubled with that complaint again."

Prince Rupert Receiving Valuable Publicity from Newspapers and Magazines

Through the medium of publicity being given in many important publications, Prince Rupert is really becoming known to the world as a centre of commerce. No more have the long-suffering and much-worked local scribes to write and broadcast this port's possibilities to a seemingly little impressed public abroad. Now newspapermen and publicists are assigned to "do" Prince Rupert and, as a result, pleasing articles are to be found almost anywhere these days telling of the development of this port, more especially since grain shipping was instituted through the Prince Rupert elevator.

Some of the articles may be a little inaccurate in places, being written by virtual strangers, but the efforts are gratifying.

In a well illustrated article giving pictures of the elevator, Prince Rupert Club, court house and a panorama of the business section and harbor, under the title "Rupert Grows Prosperous on Fish and Grain," A. Fraser Reid writes as follows in the Sunday Section of the Vancouver Province this week:

Prince Rupert, terminus of an important steamship and railway service, is British Columbia's nearest port to the vast commercial field of the Orient. A magnificent natural harbor, extending for miles and capable of accommodating the largest vessels afloat, forms a valuable sea lane between Kalen Island, on which the city is built, and the stern, mountain-guarded shores of the mainland.

Commercially speaking, perhaps, the city was nearly as far ahead fifteen years ago as it is today, little visible growth having taken place during that time. Improvements, however, are everywhere evident; at one time there was hardly a semblance of a roadway, many of the buildings having piles as their only foundation. All this has been changed; the passing of the years, coupled with the aggressive spirit of its citizens, has witnessed wonders.

BUILDINGS GOING UP
Streets have been graded and surfaced and foundations have been filled in, giving to the young seaport a much more permanent appearance than was hitherto the case. In location, Prince Rupert labors, under a serious handicap, the natural contour of the land being antagonistic to the development of anything like a well-laid-out city. Despite this, however, many new business buildings have been erected, homes are steadily increasing in number, and other signs of growing pains are evident.

Third Avenue is the main business artery of the city, and around this thoroughfare are clustered the main business houses of the northern metro-

WATER NOTICE DIVERSION AND USE

TAKE NOTICE that James Field, whose address is 213-2nd Ave., Prince Rupert, B.C., will apply for a licence to take and use 1 cubic foot per second of water out of unnamed creek, which flows easterly and drains into Crescent Inlet, Moresby Island, Q.C.I., about one mile from the head of the Inlet on the north shore. The water will be diverted from the stream at a point about 1,000 feet from the mouth and will be used for domestic and cannery purposes upon the 40 acres of land described as unsurveyed land, for which purchase is applied about 15 chains southwesterly from the mouth of the stream.

This notice was posted on the ground on the 29th day of November, 1926. A copy of this notice and an application pursuant thereto and to the "Water Act, 1914," will be filed in the office of the Water Recorder at Prince Rupert, B.C. ### LAND ACT

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO APPLY TO PURCHASE LAND

In Prince Rupert Land Recording District of Prince Rupert, and situate on the north shore of the South Arm of Tasoo Harbor, Moresby Island, Queen Charlotte Islands, Province of British Columbia.

TAKE NOTICE that James Field, of Prince Rupert, B.C., occupation Marine Broker, intends to apply for permission to purchase the following described lands:— Commencing at a post planted on the north shore of South Arm of Tasoo Harbor, Moresby Island, Queen Charlotte Islands, in the Province of British Columbia, about 5 chains from the end of the Government trail; thence 10 chains northerly; thence 10 chains northerly; thence 10 chains southwesterly; thence 10 chains southwesterly, and containing twenty (20) acres, more or less.

Dated November 29, 1926.

polls. There are a number of buildings of interest—the City Hall, the new fire hall and several of the churches. A port of call for all ships en route to Stewart, Alaska and northern points generally, Prince Rupert is yearly visited by thousands of tourists who find much to interest them in the curious stores so prodigal throughout the city; incidentally, many of these tourists spend freely and leave considerable ready money behind them—to the advantage of the city generally.

One of the most notable landmarks of the city is the old two-storey frame building known as the Prince Rupert Club, perched on a rocky elevation on Second Avenue. So sure is the foundation of the old clubhouse that none of the elements, other than fire, have any effect upon it; the building was partly destroyed by fire a few months ago, but the ravages of the flames have been repaired and the club is still the daily meeting place of the leading business men of the city.

THE ELEVATOR

The grain elevator, for many years something of a white elephant, is now proving of great service in the handling of grain which finds its way through this northern portal. No less than five ships have loaded full grain cargoes there during the present month, a port activity which must have a favorable reflex on business conditions generally in the northern city.

The fishing industry, however, is undoubtedly the backbone of the city as far as commercial prosperity is concerned. A huge cold storage plant, claimed to be the largest on the continent devoted exclusively to fish, operates twelve months in the year. The annual payroll is $300,000, and about 20,000,000 pounds of fish are each year handled by the workers at the plant. Everything from the humble herring to mammoth halibut tipping the scales at 300 lbs. is handled, the record in weight being a halibut that weighed 346 lbs. after its head had been cut off. Halibut weighing 250 lbs. are by no means uncommon. The plant can manufacture 100 tons of ice daily, and some of the freezing rooms maintain throughout the year the unusual low temperature of 25 degrees below zero. A completely equipped store, an engine room, machine repair shop, electric generating plant and a very modern boiler room, are features of the cold storage plant, over which the visitors are courteously shown.

THOUSAND TONS HALIBUT
Some indication of the value of Prince Rupert's fishing industry may be gleaned from the fact that this year, since the opening of the season on February 15 to September 10 last, 20,000,000 pounds of halibut alone were landed at the port—and this in addition to the huge quantities of salmon, cod, skate, soles, brills, herrings, etc. There was a shortage of bait at all Alaskan ports this year, and many of the fishermen came to Prince Rupert for their supply of herring. This bait, used almost entirely for halibut fishing, consists of hundreds of thousands of pounds of herring caught during the season and landed at the cold storage plant. Here they are frozen into solid blocks of about fifty pounds each. These intensely hard, firm blocks are, when required, loaded on the boats, where they are kept in ice until the fishing grounds are reached. By this time they have thawed out a little, becoming just soft enough to allow of a stout hook, peculiarly bent, to be firmly embedded in the flesh. About three dozen hooks, thus baited and each attached to a short length of line, are suspended from a heavier rope or "leader," weighing in itself approximately fifty to fifty-six pounds, and paid out over the side of the vessel. It does not take many seconds for the herring to thaw out completely once they are in the water, the action of the salt brine having an almost immediate effect in this direction. Herring have proved the most valuable bait in halibut fishing.

Today Prince Rupert boasts a population of some 7,000 souls—and two daily newspapers!

In the Christmas number of the Canadian National Railways Magazine is found the following article entitled "Prince Rupert, World Grain Port."

TAKEN ITS PLACE

Prince Rupert has this season taken its place among the important grain shipping ports of the Dominion. The Canadian National Railways has been carrying solid carloads of Alberta grain to load the first grain carrying ocean vessels to leave its harbor.

In order that the facilities of the port and town might keep pace with the general expansion in all lines of commercial activity taking place there, the Dominion Government constructed a modern elevator of one and a quarter million bushels capacity. The elevator is of steel and reinforced concrete construction. The receiving capacity of the house is eighteen car loads per hour, and the shipping capacity is fifty thousand bushels per hour. There are twelve grain cleaners, which makes it possible to clean fifteen thousand bushels per hour, while drying of one thousand bushels per hour is afforded by a grain drier. The wharf in front of the elevator is one thousand feet long, and there are nineteen grain spouts on it.

The elevator has been leased by the Alberta Wheat Pool, who have decided to use the new grain shipping port to the utmost capacity, consistent with the supply of ocean tonnage available. The first vessels to load grain from the new elevator were two steamships flying the Japanese flag, the "Aden Maru," and the "Yefuku Maru," and these vessels carried to Europe, by way of the Panama Canal, eighteen thousand tons of Canadian grain. The arrival in the harbor, at Prince Rupert, was made the occasion of a civic celebration, the captains and officers of the vessels being entertained by the Board of Trade and the City Council. Fred G. Dawson, director of the Canadian National Railways, who for many years has taken the keenest interest in the development of Prince Rupert, told of the satisfaction felt by the administration of the National System on the inauguration of the grain export business.

DRY DOCK USED

Before loading, the Japanese steamships were outfitted for the grain trade at the Canadian National dry-dock and ship building plant. The dry-dock, at Prince Rupert, can handle ships up to twenty-thousand tons, and its facilities for ship-building and repair are of the most modern order. The Japanese captains were greatly impressed with the natural advantages of the harbor and its eight wharves. After a navigator has once entered the harbor he can enter afterwards without the aid of a pilot. The distance from the docks to the ocean is thirty miles. There is a wireless station capable of communicating with Victoria, five hundred miles distant, also a quarantine station. There is no harbor boag at Prince Rupert, consequently no tonnage taxation.

Large shipments of lumber, poles, railway ties, silver, gold, copper, blister, shingles, fish and raw furs continue to be made through this port. It is in the centre of the "Big Sitka Spruce" district. The fishing industry is of first importance and has been developed on a large scale. The official name of the fisheries is the "Skensena River district" and this embraces the Skeena river, the Naas river, Queen Charlotte Islands and adjacent waters. The salmon and halibut fisheries, of which Prince Rupert is the centre, are producing an annual catch of an approximate value of $5,000,000, and the largest fish cold storage plant in the world is operated at Prince Rupert to take care of the traffic.

An Open Letter to the Public from the Montreal Importers

To Our Friends and Patrons:

We are taking this means of making a personal appeal to you to aid us in tiding over a heavy buying period. To be frank, we have bought too heavily, are overstocked and must realize quickly on our investment. So our need becomes your gain. We need the money—you get up-to-date goods at about cost price, and some below cost. Do not be misled by unfair criticisms by others. Good, clean competition is the soul of business today.

The stock we are offering in Men's and Boys' Overcoats, Mackinaws and Clothing, has been manufactured by Canada's most reputable houses—such as SAMUEL HART & CO., THE DOMINION CLOTHING CO., FREEDMAN CO., and other makers of the world's finest Overcoats and Clothing. These clothes are dependable, and of the finest materials and workmanship. This is an exceptional opportunity to secure an Overcoat or a Suit of Clothes at about one-half the usual price. The entire stock is new—no shelf-worn articles to mark down. A large portion of the stock has only recently been checked off.

Our Montreal prices, which we introduced to the Prince Rupert buying public, and which were so greatly appreciated, have been further reduced to aid in unloading this immense stock before the New Year. We need your help, if we are to remain in your city. You will be the losers if we are compelled to close up shop. We are now offering values that will astonish you, and will defy competition even of the Eastern Mail Order Houses.

TO THE CHRISTMAS SHOPPER—We would like you to see our large and varied assortment of natty goods that are always so acceptable as XMAS GIFTS. These are being offered at prices 35 per cent below the regular price. We are showing the largest and most beautiful range of MEN'S AND WOMEN'S BATHROBES, MEN'S NECKWEAR, SOCKS, SCARVES, COLLARS, SHIRTS, ETC., ever displayed in Prince Rupert, for you to choose from.

For the BOYS, we have hundreds of suits, with long and short pants and vests. Some having two pairs of pants. These are smartly styled and of splendid value.

This is an opportunity of a lifetime. The stock is unsurpassed in the city. The materials are of the finest procurable. Our prices defy competition, and our service will please you. It will give us pleasure to show you the goods. We are in the city to stay, for we believe in the future of Prince Rupert.

PATRONIZE US—OUR SUCCESS WILL BE YOUR GAIN.

A young lady from Tuck's Corners was visiting relatives in the city. During the course of her stay, she was invited to an informal dinner. Wine was served and, after partaking, the young lady felt somewhat elated. She thought of her home at Tuck's Corners and compared mentally her quiet life there with the gay life of the city. Turning to the young man on her left, she said gushingly, "If I were home, I could show you the prettiest little calf." "Sh," said the young man, in a tense whisper, "meet me in the conservatory after dinner."

SPORT CHAT

Final basketball games of the season will be played tonight at the Exhibition Hall. Elks in the Senior League, Grotto in the Intermediate and Maple Leafs in the Ladies are all well ahead and there can be no changes at this time in the position of teams in the standings other than in the Junior League where Stars have been forging ahead so rapidly of late that they only need a victory tonight over the Tuxis Boys to put them in even standing at the top of the heap with the leading Colts. The Elks will meet the Native Sons in the Senior League tonight. With their team already weakened by absences some of the players of the leading lodgements will have to be in better shape tonight or they are apt to have another reverse like they had last Friday when they sustained their first defeat of the season. Other games tonight will be Adanacs and Maple Leafs in the Ladies' League and Grand Terminals and Bankers in the Intermediate Judge, Kenesaw M. Landis has been re-elected commissioner of baseball for second term of seven years with an increase of $15,000 in his annual salary, which will now be $65,000. The joint session of the major league club owners then reconstituted the advisory council, under the chairmanship of Landis. Those chosen as its members were President John Heydler, of the National League; President Ban Johnston, of the American League; M. H. Sexton, president of the minor leagues organization; and John H. Farrell, secretary of the minor leagues.

Harry Warren, U.B.C.'s former track flash and rugby star, and winner of the Rhodes Scholarship for 1926, is cutting a wide swath at Queens College, Oxford, according to reports from England. In a recent rugby game against Brasenose he gave a brilliant display on the wing, scoring four tries. Queens won 27-14. As a result of this and other splendid performances, Harry has been chosen to play in the Oxford senior trials.

LONG DISTANCE CALL
Mr. Jones was sitting down to breakfast one morning when he was astounded to see in the paper an announcement of his own death.
He rang up friend Smith at once. "Halloo, Smith," he said. "Have you seen the announcement of my death in the paper?"
"Yes," replied Smith. "Where are you speaking from?"
HOW SOME GET TO HEAVEN.
"Mamma," said little Elsie, "do men ever go to heaven?"
"Why, of course, dearie; what makes you ask that?"
"Cause, mamma, I never see any pictures of angles with whiskers."
"Well," answered her mother thoughtfully, "some men get into heaven, dearie, but only by a very close shave."

XMAS SHOPPING
Lady—"How much will I have to pay for a pair of silk hose?"
Clerk—"About two dollars."
Lady—"They come rather high, don't they?"
Clerk—"Yes, but remember, you're a rather tall lady."
