 "I would be making a mistake if I entered into these two by-elections," Mr. Gault said.

 Goals by Pete Babando and Bill Mosenko gave the Black Hawks their victory over New York. The injury-riddled Rangers suffered their second loss against no victories.

Pearson Draws 51 Votes As Elected President

UNITED NATIONS—L. B. Pearson, Canada's External Affairs Minister, was elected president of the seventh session of the United Nations General Assembly which opened today.
 Pearson received 51 votes, another four votes went to Mme. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit of India. Five countries abstained from voting—apparently the Soviet bloc.
 Pearson will turn over his present post of head of the Canadian delegation to Health Minister Paul Martin.
 In a press conference yesterday, Pearson said Canada upholds the principle of voluntary repatriation of war prisoners in Korea, opposed by Communists and a stumbling block in Korean peace talks.
 He said Korean truce discussions will be the top problem before the assembly. But he added that a so-called "colonial" question of Tunisia and Morocco and racial conflict in South Africa will be "very difficult" to deal with during the 10-week meeting.

 The exact site of the new base remains undisclosed. But the air force said it is in the heart of the Alaska mountain wilderness, 100 miles from the nearest trail or navigable river.
 The radar base was put into operation last December, and permanent buildings and barracks were completed this summer.

 Council also decided to advise the government of their objection to any change in the Election Act that would eliminate the absentee vote.
 Members pointed out that if this action was taken it would disfranchise many voters, such as fishermen, construction workers, loggers and others who may have to leave their home districts to earn their living.
 W. D. Griffiths was appointed to draw up a brief on the liquor situation for presentation to the inquiry board when it convenes here.

Farmer-Hunter Relations

GUNS are barking across the country. Farmers are keeping a wary eye on their livestock as red-capped hunters stalk through fields and woodlands on the lookout for game. Several cows and horses will fall victim to the irresponsible actions of a few so-called sportsmen. "I thought it was a deer" is becoming a trite phrase even among hunters themselves. But it's still in common use—after a fellow hunter or a domestic animal has been shot.

There are still too many weekend hunters who sally forth into the rural areas in the belief the land belongs to them. They blaze away at rocks, tin cans, trees and buildings with little thought of what may be within effective range of their bullets. They cut wire fences and fail to mend them after they leave. They open gates and neglect to close them with the result that livestock wander off and the farmer must spend tedious hours rounding them up. They often start bush and grass fires on private property.

Because of such thoughtless acts, relations between farmers and hunters have deteriorated to such an extent that some farmers actually arm themselves to protect their property against hunters. "No hunting" signs are becoming more frequent. Soon hunters will have to travel further afield for game because no farmer will tolerate hunting on his property.

This situation need not exist if hunters observe common courtesy says K. N. Morris, executive director of the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen. First, he suggests, get the farmer's permission to hunt on his land. If permission is not granted respect the farmer's decision. Treat the farmer's property as if it were your own.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

One may wonder if Thanksgiving was originated by parents whose sons had survived the football season.

Announcement has been made that Klitman dock construction has been started. The first of the concrete footings, walls and columns have been poured. Perhaps a few of the future fifty thousand population are included in the original gang of workers.

HE LOOKED AHEAD

Every year the Canadian Pacific Pioneer Association in Vancouver holds a banquet. Last week Dean Cecil Swanson thanked veteran railroaders for having saved British Columbia from becoming the forty-ninth state. In the early eighties a transcontinental was already in San Francisco and Alaska was U.S. territory. Western Canada was practically empty of population. Can anyone say Dean Swanson wasn't thinking shrewd thoughts.

Prince Rupert deplores high rentals. We may not do much grinning. Somehow, however, we manage to bear it. But don't move to Calgary where apartments and homes are being let for $150 to $185 a month. How come? High salaries of executives can afford the figure.

It never rains in California, just an occasional natural phenomenon to which the Chamber refers as a "free fill for your swimming pool"—Bob Hope.

THAT THIRD PROBLEM

Great assembly of United Nations delegates in New York this week, with the choice of the Minister of External Affairs, Mr. Pearson from Canada, as president. The objective is the making of future wars impossible.

Of course, no one has forgotten that 27 days after the first A bomb devastated Hiroshima World War Two ended. There are worse explosives today with some folks who would like to try them on neighbors.

If home building should be restricted again, some future president may once more be born in a log cabin.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Most United States vice-presidential candidates are relatively unimportant. But this time Senator Nixon need not doff his hat should he pass General Eisenhower. He's somebody.

B.C. Soldier Charged in Baby Death

LONDON, Ont. (C)—A soldier from Victoria has been charged with murder because a coroner refused to believe a three-month-old baby died from an accidental fall.

Pte. David Reuben Andrist, 20, attached to the Central Ordnance Depot here, is accused of choking the infant because it cried.

Andrist told police he married the baby's mother, the former Valerie Anne Roe, 19, last Aug. 22 after the birth of the child. He said he was not the baby's father.

The baby was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital late yesterday. Hospital authorities said they were told the baby fell out of his crib while the mother was out and Andrist was in an adjoining room.

As I See It

INDIA KEY TO PEACE

THE MOST important speeches of the U.S. campaign seem to me those in which Governor Stevenson talks about India. He pours his scorn on those Republicans who loudly bemoan the loss of China yet who themselves do nothing to stop India going the same way.

The Communist victory in China has been described as the greatest diplomatic defeat ever suffered by U.S.A. Truly it was one of the most titanic upsets in history. It was already begun profoundly to change the balance of world power. Yet my long-studied conclusion is that a Communist victory in India would have world consequences far more decisive than those from China.

India is like a mighty dam on which our fate depends. For if India's up-and-coming Reds could win, world Communism would swiftly sweep like a mighty tidal wave over all south east Asia, Arabia, and deep into Africa.

I WENT out to India myself last year to size up this question: Could India make her transplanted democracy work, or would Nehru's government fall, and the Reds take over as they did in China?

My firm conviction is that Nehru's democracy has a good chance to survive. But it is in a desperate race against time and needs help. All over the country, in talking with foreigners and especially Indian intellectuals, one heard the same kind of fatalistic, cynical comment as was common in India in the later years of Chiang Kai-shek. There were too many ominous similarities for comfort. But there were vast differences too. The main one is that Nehru and some who are close to him are among the most intelligent, understanding and genuine democrats in all the world today.

ALTHOUGH Nehru and Co. are the only possible bulwarks against the Indian Communists, most American politicians and publications never miss a chance to say undermining things about him. Time magazine is the most horrible example. It never misses a chance to crack at Nehru—thus doing its bit to send him the way of Time's own ousted darling, Chiang Kai-shek. Time is quite correct in sensing that Nehru is opposed with every fibre of his being to the chromium plated imperialism which the Luce publications try to tell as "the American century." But Time seems as blind as the most ignorant midwest isolationist that the Nehru party is the only organization in India that can prevent the incorporation of India into the world Communist empire.

UNDER Ambassador Chester Bowles the U.S. has abandoned the former attitude to pressure India into becoming an out-and-out member of the western bloc, committed to fight on our side against Russia.

But Communism expands by a series of inside jobs. Nehru's government is dealing with the Communist challenge inside India quite as intelligently as it is being dealt with anywhere in the world.

North Shore Attracts New Industry

VANCOUVER (C)—Large industrial sites are getting scarce in Vancouver and companies now are looking for spots to set up shop in North Vancouver, across the harbor.

James J. Behan, new British Columbia manager for Canadian National Railways, has opened the CNR's biggest development in the west for several years—at North Vancouver.

North Vancouver residents last week approved lease of the Second Narrows Bridge, spanning Vancouver harbor, to the CNR. The lease is for 21 years with option to buy.

The railway will take over the National Harbor Board's 11 miles of track which connect the present CNR yards with two Vancouver piers and the North Vancouver area via the Second Narrows bridge.

"For the first time, the CN will have direct access to deep-water wharves at Vancouver," Mr. Behan says.

CNR President Donald Gordon says the increased traffic which "is sure to result" has prompted the company to make the Greater Vancouver area a new division.

So far, industry in North Vancouver has been confined to shipyards and sawmills.

But Hooker Chemicals Ltd., a Canadian subsidiary of Hooker Electrochemical of Niagara Falls, N.Y., has purchased a 65-acre site in North Vancouver. It will spend $20,000,000 in the next five years to produce chlorine and caustic soda, used by B.C.'s growing pulp and paper industry.

James Eckman, chairman of the Greater Vancouver Metropolitan Industrial Development Commission, says "several" other companies are looking for sites in North Vancouver. He says most big companies want 25- to 100-acre sites and there are few of these left on the south side of the harbor.

Mayor Frank Goldsworthy of North Vancouver says entry of the CNR to his city will "most definitely spark a new industrial development."

District Reeve M. E. Sowden says: "There are thousands of acres of both industrial and residential sites available in the municipality and I see no reason why the district shouldn't now forge ahead to become one of the major industrial centres of the Pacific Coast."

LESS SAWDUST
VANCOUVER (C)—Householders here who use sawdust for fuel are being urged to buy all they can get while the supply lasts. Sawdust dealers said the supply is smaller, while the number of homes using sawdust for kitchen and furnace fuel is as large as ever.

UNDER OUR ROOF

By JOHN STURDY

Sitting at the bedside of Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.) here in this hospital in the heart of the Sunny Okanagan, reminds me of the time when I was hospitalized during my youth Back East.

(The Colonel, incidentally, is getting along fine, and the doctors have gotten most of the buckshot out of him. (While swimming in Okanagan Lake, the Colonel was mistaken for Oropogo, the local sea serpent, and was fired upon with almost disastrous results.)

I had appendicitis that time, and I was rushed off to the hospital in an ambulance in the middle of the night. The interne who accompanied me must have been just out of medical school, because he has beside me in the ambulance with a hypodermic needle poised in his hand and a hopeful look in his eyes. He was solicitous about my affairs, too, because the first question he asked me was: "Have you made a will?"

As I was working on a newspaper at the time, this seemed to me a silly question. Of course, there was a half-bottle of Geneva gin in my desk and two free tickets to the Gayety Burlesque, but the ghouls in this office would grab those without benefit of any will that I might write.

I rather enjoyed the hospital, once the surgeons had finished their labors. I liked the meals, which tasted a lot better than the 15 cent liver-and-onions at the One Minute Lunch that had been my daily diet since embarking on a newspaper career.

LIKE A CLUB
I liked the nurses, too. There was one little red-head from Prince Edward Island who . . .

Actually, a hospital was more like a club in those days. Of course, some of the patients were sick, and that rather put a dampener on our social activities, but all in all we managed quite well.

I met some charming people during my stay, and that brings me to the subject of Major A. R. Bellew-Bellew. (His real name was even fancier.) Major Bellew-Bellew was an aide-de-camp to one of our governors-general, and this was his first time in a civilian hospital.

He loved it. He had had an appendectomy, too, and every time the doctor would come around and say, "Well, Major, I guess we can discharge you tomorrow," he would manage to fall out of his wheelchair and rip the stitches, which meant another delay.

The Major, who was young and handsome, spent a great deal of his time trimming his moustache. He would push the button at the side of his bed, and when a nurse came running (they did come running in those days), he would ask:

"How does it look, dear? Am I trimming it straight?"
The feud with the head nurse started when the Major discovered the emergency alarm, which was a big hand-bell kept at a desk in the corridor. When no one was looking, the Major would grab the bell and dash through the wards in his wheelchair, ringing it joyously

LITTLE RED-HEAD
The head nurse didn't take out her spite on Major Bellew-Bellew; she took it out on the junior nurses. For instance, there was a little red-head from Prince Edward Island who . . .
The head nurse was really nasty about it, and she even stopped our nightly poker games and generally made things miserable for the residents of our ward.

Well, there came a time when the Major couldn't pull the falling-out-of-the-wheelchair business any longer, and he was formally discharged. The following day he returned to the hospital, and he was wearing the full dress uniform of the Scots Guards.

Nurses swooned all over the place, and even the head nurse's frozen expression almost melted. The Major was carrying a bouquet of American Beauty roses and he now approached the head nurse, saluted and flashed a charming smile.
"Madam," he said, please forgive me for my little pranks. These roses were given to me by Lady . . . (the governor-general's wife), and I would like very much for you to have them as a token of my esteem."

The head nurse was overwhelmed. She cooed like a bird and taking the roses, buried her face in the fragrant bouquet.

Whereupon she fell flat on her face.
Major Bellew-Bellew had thoughtfully sprinkled the roses with a can of ether. I always suspected his accomplice was that little red-head from Prince Edward Island who . . .

Demerit System For Motorists Requested by Insurance Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia insurance agents plan to ask the provincial government to establish a "Demerit" system for motorists.

The plan is designed to get bad drivers off the roads before they can cause accidents.

Such a demerit system is now working successfully in Manitoba, Connecticut and New Jersey.

Vancouver traffic and safety council has started a preliminary study of the proposed system.

Under the plan driving infractions bring demerit points to a motorist. A driver who accumulates more than eight demerits usually gets his licence suspended.

Owen Woodman, secretary of both B.C. Insurance Agents Associations, said today, "after considerable study of the demerit system it appears to us the only way to catch habitually careless drivers before they get involved in accidents. Connecticut, where the plan started 2½ years ago, has the best accident record in the U.S., said Mr. Woodman.

Manitoba's plan, modelled on that of Connecticut, has been operating just over a year. There are now about 9,200 Manitoba motorists who have accumulated six demerit points, which places them in danger of licence suspension unless they improve their driving habits.

The scheme works through a safety committee of the provincial or state motor vehicle department. This committee suspends licences or refers on-the-spot motorists to a driving clinic where they are checked for possible physical defects and their driving habits get the once-over.

Such things as a fatal accident and drunk driving automatically bring demerit points, which almost always means suspension.

5-YEAR-OLD PLANE WRECK FOUND

Strand of Hair Only Human Remain

ROSSLAND, B.C. — A length of still-brained hair was the only human remains found near the wreckage of an RCAF plane which vanished five years ago with nine persons aboard.

The bit of woman's hair—the plane carried seven RCAF personnel and a Penticton, B.C., hotel man and his wife—was found by the RCMP police dog Wolf.

Discovery of only the hair indicated the bodies of all nine had been eaten and the bones carried away by wild animals.

The Mitchell bomber was on a photographic mission between Calgary and Penticton when it disappeared Oct. 18, 1947, Hunter Wilf Gibbard spotted the wreckage Tuesday on a mountain slope 13 miles northwest of here.

A ground party comprising three Mounties, Gibbard and Trail Times Reporter Bob Porteous reached the scene last Thursday.

Also found in the wreck were scraps of clothing, shoes, walrus, and a cigarette lighter inscribed "K.E.W. Good Luck Jim '42." Shoes were still laced up, indicating those aboard had been knocked out of them by the impact.

Searchers found scorched parachutes, emergency survival equipment, rations and sleeping bags still packed.

"It was only by sheer luck that I stumbled on the crash," Gibbard said. He was packing supplies into the weather station perched on nearby Old Glory Mountain.

"I had been out chopping wood at the halfway cabin. On my way back to my camp I decided to leave the trail on the chance of seeing some grouse. The first thing I saw was a shiny piece of metal glinting in the sunlight. I followed the path of aircraft pieces 200 yards down the slope before coming on the main wreck."

"No one could have come of this alive," Constable T. Howarth said as he viewed mangled wreckage, scattered over 400 yards of the mountain side.

Chief Plans War on Paleface; Opposes 'Land Grab' Policy

VANCOUVER — Chief Joe Mathias plans war on the Paleface unless plans for what he terms an Indian land grab are abandoned.

The 75-year-old chief of the Capilano tribe in North Vancouver was aroused by a city of Vancouver offer of $25,000 for two acres in the Kitsilano reserve for a park.

"Trying to get land for a song," said Chief Mathias. "White man never changes. He still wants land from Indians too cheap."

An industrialist is reported to have offered the Indians $40,000 for the land but the city has refused to rezone it for industrial use.

Chief Mathias says he may carry a protest to Queen Elizabeth if he gets an invitation to the coronation next June.

"If I go to the coronation I want to talk with the Queen," he said. "I want to remind her of the charter granted by her great-great-great grandmother, Queen Victoria. It clearly states Indians must not lose their land without their own consent."

Nick Mazzone Heads Mixed 5-Pin Bowlers With 340 Single

Nick Mazzone, lead-off man for the Orphans, led his team to victory over Booth High School in the Mixed Five-Pin Bowling League last week, scoring high single of 340 and high three of 704.

Betty Hyndman of Thom Sheet Metal, however, spaced her strikes out a little more even to score high single of 282 and high three among women of 712. Her team took three points from Harold's.

The Orphans chalked up high single game of 1,240 and also had the high three of 3,275.

In Group 2, Don Eckess of Jersey Farms paced the pack with a three-game total of 734 and Fashion Footwear, although they lost one game to the Headpinners, chalked up high single game of 1,352 and high three of 1,740.

Jim Thompson had high single game for men in Group 2, with his 319 and Alice McMeekin of Headpinners with 260 and 667 was tops among the women.

There was a lot of noise on alleys 11 and 12 as Bulgers battled the Daily News but when the smoke cleared away the newspaper sextet had scored four points.

The losers had no comment to make on the outcome but Don Lewellyn said his team would beat the Daily News next time they meet. Team-mate Daisy Jerry's 2.

Arden, who led the girls, was speechless, although she invited the opposition to "tea" after the games. At the "reception" Clare Marineau outlined the finer points of bowling while Vin Finigan and husband Pete, and Maxine Marineau listened attentively.

Here are results of games:

GROUP 1: Orphans 4, Booth School 0; Daily News 4, Bulgers 0; Miller Bay 4, Acme Clothiers 0; Thom Sheet Metal 3, Harold's 1; Penguin Hobby 2, Conrad Street School 2; Hi-Jackers 2, GROUP 2: Cook's Jewellers 4,

In the Mixed Ten-Pin League, Tiny Mites, Chumps and Old Timers made clean sweeps on Sunday as the second week's play concluded.

Joe Long of Tiny Mites scored the high single game of 205 but Barry Watson with games of 176, 177 and 185 had high three of 538.

Joyce Pottle, also of the Tiny Mites, topped the women with high single of 213 and Linda Erickson had high three of 483, having put together games of 163, 158 and 162.

Chumps had high game of 845, and high three of 2,371.

Here are results: Tiny Mites 1, M.C.'s 0; Chumps 4, Spares 0; Old Timers 4, Northern Distributors 0.

Next week Chumps meet the Old Timers, Tiny Mites play Northern Distributors and M.C.'s meet the Spares.

GEORGE DAWES

The Auctioneer

Mr. Dale is very keen on safety plays. In today's deal he took an early finesse in one suit for the purpose of trying to find out how to play another suit.

Against the six heart contract Mrs. Keen opened the jack of clubs which was taken with the king. With no chance of discarding a heart on anything in dummy, Mr. Dale saw it was going to be necessary to take a finesse against the king of hearts.

Nobody likes to take a finesse at trick two when he is in a slam contract, but Mr. Dale did in this hand and he had a good reason for it. He led a heart and finessed dummy's jack. If this play had led to the king, it would have meant that he could not have afforded to lose any tricks in the trump suit.

In that case he probably would have led the king of spades and followed with a small one, hoping to guess successfully whether to finesse the jack or not.

Helicopter Cowboys Ride Herd on Border

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP)—Helicopter cowboys are riding herd on the British Columbia-Alberta border. Most Canadian cattle have been kept on home territory but small herds of deer, considered potential carriers of the disease, have shown sharp disrespect for international boundaries, fences and helicopter guards.

The American aerial cowboys have strict shoot-to-kill orders for any cattle or wild life straying across the border. This applies to both Canadian and American cattle. There have been some border "incidents," where Canadian farmers have blamed the Americans for slaughter of cattle on the boundary line.

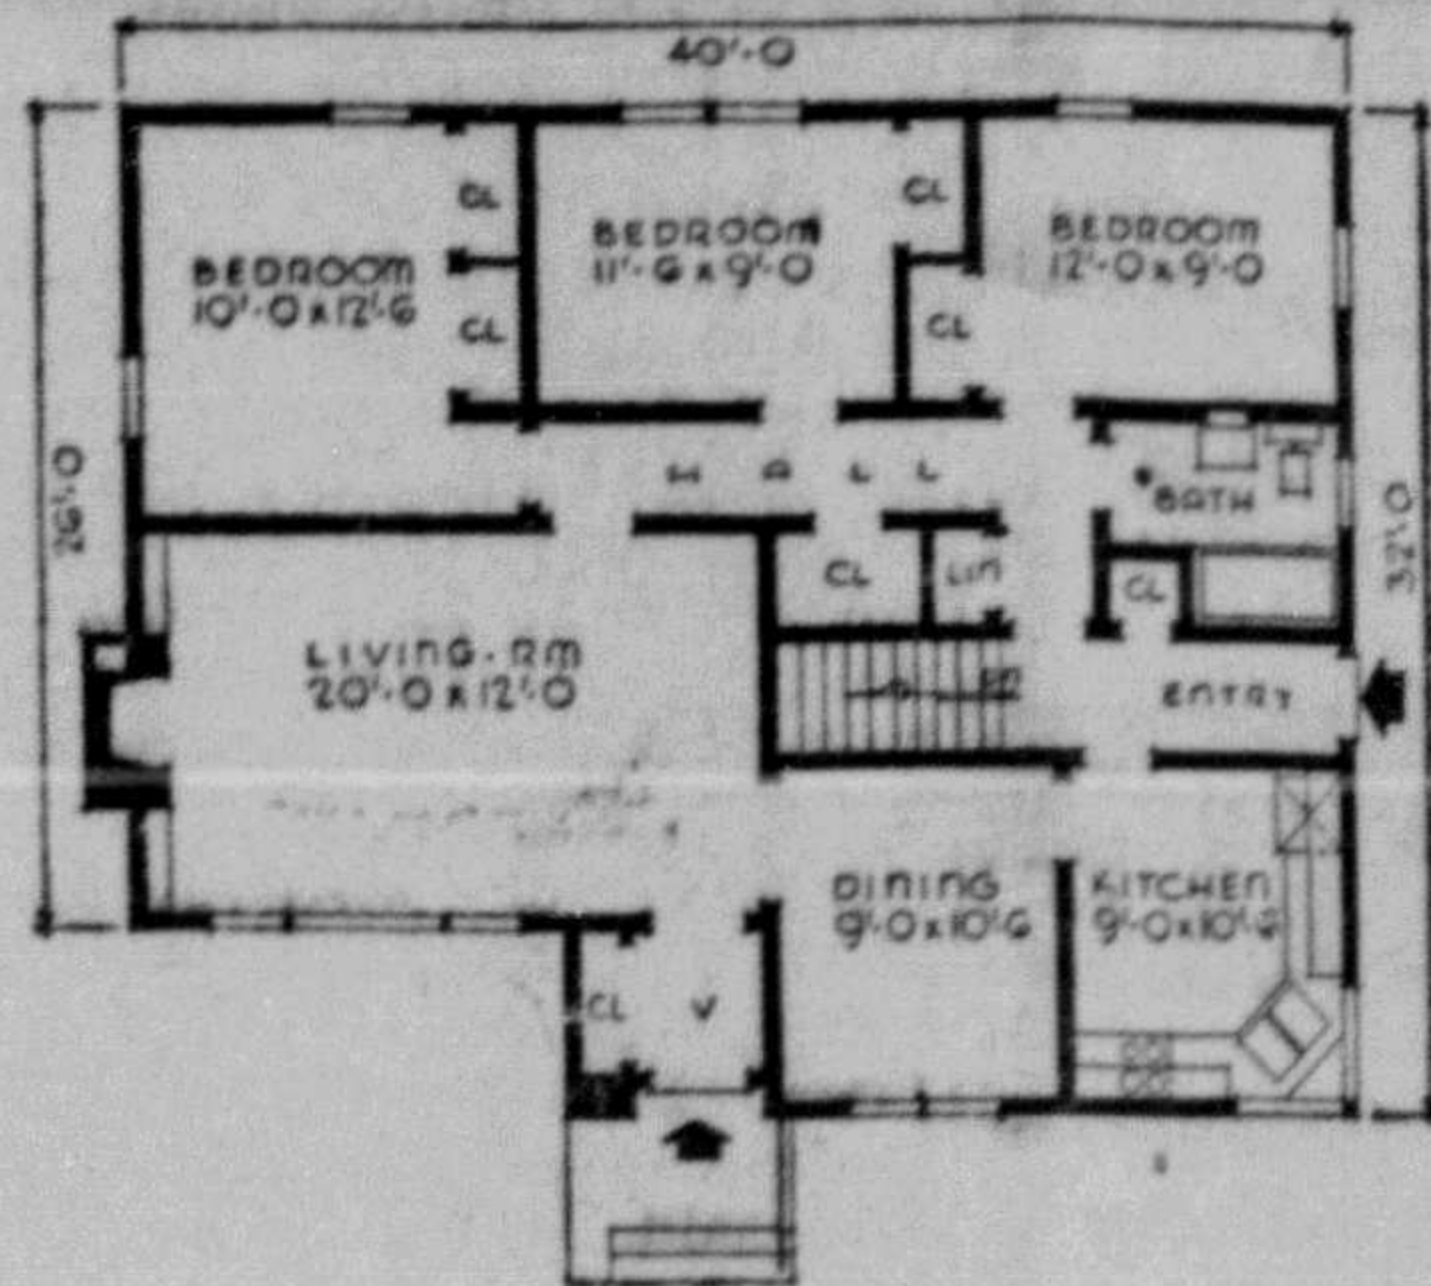

American farmers, too, have had their troubles. Some American cows found the grass greener on the Canadian side and crossed into forbidden territory. The cattle can not be returned to Washington state farms and Canadian ranchers now are "boarding" them. In time, the board bill will exceed the animal's worth and the American cow will then likely become a Canadian.

Herds of deer present the biggest problem. But soon they'll be heading for the tall timbers with the opening of the hunting season.

Two thousand American and Canadian hunters have checked in for the hunting season now in full swing.

Many American hunters have placed their game in cold storage in Canada until such time as the embargo is lifted.

It was imposed early in the year when the foot-and-mouth disease became epidemic in Saskatchewan. It may be some months before the embargo is lifted by the United States.

THE CLAY has three bedrooms in the rear of the house, while the living room, dining room and kitchen are in the front. The dining room and kitchen, as shown, are separated by a partition, but this can be replaced by a snack bar which would form a combination kitchen-dinette. In addition to the wardrobe closets in the bedrooms, there is a general closet and a linen cabinet in the hall and a coat closet for each entrance. These plans call for a frame construction with siding and asphalt shingles. Also included is provision for a full basement. Some of the other features that are considered are a wood burning fireplace, a corner kitchen sink and a recessed bath tub. The dimensions of the Clay are 40 feet by 26 feet with a front projection of 6 feet. The floor area is 1,196 square feet and the cubage is 23,322 cubic feet.

Arctic Cracks Down on College Student

OTTAWA (CP)—A 19-year-old Ottawa college student is missing the first weeks of the new term this fall because the Arctic cracked down on him and one of the north's most famous figures. The two are young Andrew MacPherson and 40-year-old Tom Manning, who were spending the summer cruising by canoe studying the coasts of an island 1,300 miles north of Edmonton for the defence department. Manning is rated by people in Ottawa who know the north as the greatest present-day Arctic traveller.

An early freeze-up caught them Aug. 31 on the northern rim of Banks Island in the Beaufort Sea.

The defence department now says it will be some weeks before they are able to fly back to civilization from Port Brabant, the Arctic mainland point they managed to reach after travelling hundreds of miles on foot and by Eskimo boat.

Consequently MacPherson, a biology student at Carleton College, has missed the first weeks of his new term and will miss more before a plane can get into Port Brabant to pick them up.

As for Manning, his schedule is flexible and this affair is depicted by friends in Ottawa as a minor adventure to a man who knows the north as do few other white men. They indicate he would be no more excited about walking across an Arctic island than an ordinary city dweller would be about going to a movie.

English-born, Cambridge-educated, well-to-do, Manning lives in Ottawa and acts as a part-time consultant to the Defence Research Board. From the time he was 20 he has gone repeatedly into the Arctic, once lived there for five years, married an English girl on Baffin Island and lived his first two years of married life in the north.

Last year he skipped a small ship into the Arctic Sea for the Research Board. This summer he and MacPherson went back to study the shores and coastal waters of Banks Island by canoe.

When the premature freeze-up caught them, they cached their canoe and gear and hiked probably 250 miles to a previously-arranged rendezvous with an Eskimo and his boat on the southwestern shore of the island. They lived on food they had with them and on game they shot en route. They had a small sled.

They meant to go to Aklavik and fly south but couldn't make it so they put into Port Brabant which is 100 miles to the east on an inlet of the Beaufort Sea.

There they are pinned in a tiny outpost until the freeze-up is such that a plane can get in. But imperturbable Tom Manning has already informed defence headquarters he thinks the study of the coasts of Banks Island should go right ahead when summer comes again.

Architects in Competition For Massey Medals Awards

OTTAWA (CP)—Arrangements now are being made for the biennial competition among Canadian architects for the Massey medals for architecture.

Architects have been asked to send their entries to the national gallery in Ottawa. The entries will be placed on display and judged Nov. 14 and 15. An exhibition of the entries will be opened Nov. 21 by the governor-general, Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey.

The competition will be the second since the awards were first announced. Early in 1950, Mr. Massey, then a private citizen, announced a plan for the award of medals in architecture.

ENCOURAGES ARCHITECTS

The purpose of the competition is "for the benefit of the public of Canada to recognize outstanding examples of Canadian achievement in the fields of architecture and thus to give encouragement to the members of the architectural profession and to promote public interest in their work."

The Royal Architectural Institute of Canada participated in formulating plans for the awards and in sponsoring and exhibition of entries in the competition.

A silver medal will be awarded to the architect or firm whose work is judged best in each of a series of categories. A gold medal will be presented to the architect or firm whose work is judged the best of all entries regardless of categories.

THREE JUDGES

This year's jury is composed of Pietro Belluschi, dean of architecture and planning at the Massachusetts Institute of Tech-

Light Sentence For Slaying Soldier Husband

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Mrs. Martha Joan Wage, 19, was sentenced yesterday to two years and six months in prison for killing her husband, a United States Air Force sergeant, after he brought home a German girl friend with the introduction: "Look what I've got here."

A three-man American court convicted the light, blonde widow from Red Wing, Minn., of intentional manslaughter. Her husband, Sgt. Dan Wage, 26, was shot with a carbine at the Fuerstenfeldbruck air base July 26.

Appeal Court Decision Against Union Officer Not Unanimous

VICTORIA (CP)—Mr. Justice H. I. Bird of the British Columbia Court of Appeal in a written judgment has approved the action of Chief Justice Wendell B. Farris of the B.C. Supreme Court, in contempt proceedings against Tony Poje, a union official.

Earlier, the appeal court dismissed the appeal of Poje against a $3,000 fine and three months in jail for disregarding a court injunction prohibiting picketing at Nanaimo during the summer lumber strike.

The appeal court's judgment, however, was not unanimous. Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran dissented.

Mr. Justice Bird said the chief justice was perfectly within his right to proceed with contempt action.

He found that there had been a challenge to the authority of the court when Poje, union business agent, and 14 other members of the International Woodworkers of America (CIO), defied an injunction. The other men were fined $300 each.

Mr. Justice Bird said the challenge "carried the implied assertion that the union and its members stood above the law." "The fact that these persons are found to have deliberately disobeyed the order, makes them guilty of a civil contempt of court."

Instead of withdrawing a picket line when the order was issued, the pickets were reinforced by 100 men under the leadership of Poje. Mr. Justice Bird said.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran in his written judgment yesterday said that Chief Justice Farris should not have proceeded with contempt charges on his own.

Mr. Justice Smith, who associated himself with Mr. Justice Bird in the majority report, will issue his written judgment later.

New Zealand Grandma a World Hitch-Hiker

CALGARY (CP)—A roaming New Zealand grandmother with a taste for adventure visited Calgary recently on the last leg of a hitch-hiking tour around the world. She's 45-year-old Mrs. Patricia De Cleene of Palmerston North. Mrs. De Cleene left her home in September, 1949, for what was to have been a brief visit to Australia. Since then she's visited 30 countries, and now is headed for Seattle to her waiting husband, children and grandchildren.

While in Australia she decided to see England, and then included Paris. It was in Paris that any plans for returning home immediately were washed out. There she met people from all parts of Europe who urged her to visit their countries.

BRAVE TRAVELLER
Mrs. De Cleene went to Holland first, then moved to Scandinavia where she found herself in demand as a public speaker. Her travels, for the most part on foot, took her through the Continent and the Middle East. She even travelled alone in the Sahara desert.

Mrs. De Cleene said she found friends everywhere. She has slept in parks, on restaurant tables and even in police stations, although sometimes she paid for a hotel room. But often hotels wouldn't accept payment when they heard her story.

Mrs. De Cleene reached North America last June and has hitch-hiked her way from New York to Los Angeles and back through the Middle West. On her way through the Redwood forests of California she was given a ride by movie star Kirk Douglas.

Now that it's all over, Mrs. De Cleene is ready to go back to being a housewife, but she hopes to persuade her husband to fly to Alaska before they sail for home Oct. 23. Once back in New Zealand, she plans to write a book which she'll call "The Vagabond Grandmother."

"I go home brose but happy," she said.

JET PILOT CRASH-LANDS AT 225 MPH—LANDS UNHURT

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—A United States pilot flew a burnout last night, crash-landed at 225 miles an hour—and came safely out of the wreckage.

Maj. Eugene P. Sonneberg of Chicago was on his mission, an attack on highways near Wonsan, on Korea's east coast.

"My dive brakes wouldn't work and as I came in for landing I was doing 225 miles per hour," he said.

The landing wasn't too tough and I had scarcely skidded to a stop when the crash crew was helping me out of cockpit."

What's Nickel got to do with television?

"A great deal, son. In fact, if it weren't for nickel there wouldn't be any television today. You see, some of the working parts of a television set can't be made without special types of nickel alloys. And others just wouldn't work as well as they do if nickel weren't used."

"In the cathode ray tube, for example, there is what is known as an 'electron gun'. Its job is to fire a stream of electrical energy on to the viewing screen, where you see it in the form of pictures. Parts of that 'gun' can't be made without nickel. Then, too, there are other types of tubes and parts inside the set for which nickel is the best material."

"It's worth remembering, son, that metals have to meet unusual requirements for television. Some must be highly magnetic, some non-magnetic. Others must expand or contract in special ways. Fortunately, metallurgists had developed nickel alloys that meet such needs. And today, we can be sure nickel scientists are keeping pace with new ideas for the future."
