SUSPECTED NANAIMO BANK ROBBER KILLED

LIQUOR CASE OPENED THIS MORNING IN POLICE COURT; EVIDENCE HEARD

Illegal Liquor Selling is Charge Being Tried at Police Court Today

Evidence for prosecution and defence heard this morning by Magistrate McClymont and case continuing this afternoon

Methods employed in selling liquor at the export warehouse of the Consolidated Export Corporation Ltd. were aired in the city police court this morning before Magistrate McClymont when the first of the charges against that concern under the Government Liquor Act was proceeded with. The charge was that on November 16, 1925, intoxicating liquor was unlawfully sold to one, E. Audahl. The case opened at 10 o'clock and when adjournment was taken at 12.40 there remained one defence witness to be heard. Besides this there are a number of other charges to be heard against the company, all of which are to be disposed of immediately. L. W. Patmore is conducting the prosecution and the defence is in the hands of Milton Gonzales. A plea of not guilty to the charge was entered.

First Witness

W. T. Harrison provincial police constable attached to the Liquor Board, was the first witness. He testified that on the evening of November 16, about 6.25 he and Constable Grant were in the vicinity of the Consolidated Exporters' warehouse when a taxi drove up containing, beside the driver, the man Audahl. Audahl went into the warehouse, followed shortly thereafter by the driver. When Audahl returned to the taxi he had a brown paper parcel under his arm. The officers came up to the taxi and showed their badges. The parcel was found concealed between Audahl's knees. The parcel was produced in court and sampled by witness who declared it to be Johnny Dewar's Scotch whisky. The bottle carried no government seal but on it was a tag giving the address: "E. Audahl, Resolute," and stating that the liquor was for export only and was for furtherance to Ketchikan, Alaska, in compliance with the provincial law. Audahl was arrested and taken to the lock-up. He was charged with having liquor unlawfully in his possession and, failing to appear in answer to that charge, forfeited bail of $50.

No Export Entry

The next day the officers visited the warehouse where they found a considerable quantity of the same brand of liquor. They searched for all the books of the company which were turned over to them. They found no export entry covering the sale to Audahl.

Under cross examination by Mr. Gonzales, witness said he did not know that Audahl was an American though he understood the boat Resolute was of United States registry. Neither Mr. Besner nor Mr. Pyke had attempted to conceal anything but had rather assisted the officers in their work.

Andrew Grant, the second Liquor Board officer, gave evidence corroborative of Constable Harrison's. These were the crown's only two witnesses.

Asked Dismissal

Milton Gonzales, counsel for defence, submitted that the crown had proven no case against the Consolidated Exporters. It had been admitted that the company had an export license, that the Resolute was an American boat and that Audahl was an American. It was necessary to prove that an overt act had been committed and he did not see that this had been done. He asked for dismissal on the ground that the presumption had been spent and the crown had not proven its case.

L. W. Patmore, prosecuting, submitted that the crown had proven irregularities. Could it be suggested that an American could come into Prince Rupert and go to a store and purchase a bottle of liquor and call it export

Labor Control As Well As Progressive.

Labor is helping to control the government as well as the members of the Progressive Party, judging by the brief despatches coming through from Ottawa. Fortunately the Labor program and the Liberal program are very much alike. Old Age Pensions has for many years been under consideration by the Liberal party and the more advanced groups have strongly urged it. All that Labor is asking is for legislation that has been in force long ago in Great Britain.

Mining In Interior Likely To Be Important.

There is likely to be some important mining development in the interior this year and the people of Smithers are already realizing it. They are taking steps to keep the district prominently before the country. The formation of a branch of the B.C. Chamber of Mines is an important step.

It is understood that the B.C. Silver will thoroughly prove the properties which they have bonded so that by the end of the season they will be in a position to know whether they have ore in paying quantities or not. It is generally thought they have and that considerable activity will be seen on the Schufer claims very soon.

Curious Situation In Australia Today.

The complicated system of government in Australia creates many interesting and amusing positions. Perhaps the most amusing of recent times is that which has arisen in the state of New South Wales, where one of the two Houses of Legislature is being invited to wipe itself out of existence. The only way that can be done, constitutionally, is by a vote of the House concerned.

The result of this vote is of particular interest to Canadians in view of the insistent demand for reform of the Canadian Senate, which body corresponds to the New South Wales Legislative Council.

In New South Wales, as in all other Australian states except Queensland, there are two Houses, Upper and Lower. The Upper House is a nominee chamber—the Legislative Council—to which members are appointed by the Governor on the advice of Cabinet ministers. It is the House of review, designed primarily to keep an eye on the legislation brought forward in the other House. The Lower House, or Legislative Assembly, is elected by the people and, as such, is the place in which the government of the day initiates its legislation. The Assembly is transitory. The Council is permanent—appointments being for life.

At the State elections in May last the Labor Party was returned to power with a large majority and immediately set about putting its program into operation. Many new features were brought forward and passed by the Legislative Assembly and then sent along to the Ligislative Council for review. That review, in many instances, which were considered vital by the Labor Government, ended in rejection. Here was a parliament, elected by the people, rendered impotent by a nominee Upper House.

There was an obvious remedy, of course. It consisted of appointing sufficient supporters of Labor to the Legislative Council to give the party a majority large enough to enact the legislation contained in its platform. This the Premier, J. T. Lang, set out to do.

But there were certain difficulties in the way. The Labor Government selected twenty-five men and, in their capacity as advisers to the representative of His Majesty, urged the Governor to appoint them.

The Governor, Admiral Sir Dudley de Chair, spent many anxious days over the problem. Constitutionally, there did not appear to be any difficulty in the way of the appointments. But there was no precedent for the appointment of so large a number of Legislative Councillors in one batch. A further difficulty lay in the fact that it is a more or less established custom that the number of members of Upper Houses are not in excess of those in the Lower Houses. With twenty-five new members, that precedent would have to "go west" in New South Wales.

To an Englishman like Sir Dudley de Chair, trained from the early age of 14 in the Navy, precedent and custom are sacred. So he cabled to the Dominions Office in London asking for guidance. He got a reply which helped little. He was told that it was a domestic affair, but he also got a broad hint to act on the advice of the cabinet ministers. After some argument about the number, Sid Dudley would agree to 15 but the Premier wanted 25—the governor gave in and appointed the batch.

Now, one of the main planks in the Labor Party's platform in this state is the abolition of the Legislative Council. Each appointee carrying Labor's colors is required to give a pledge that, when the occasion arrises, he will cast his vote in favor of wiping out that ancient and honorable institution.

Labor now has the requisite majority and, if it adheres to its present intentions, members of that Chamber will force the issue. Thus will end the career of an institution which celebrated its centenary a year or two ago—an institution which probably does not reflect the Democratic tendencies of the age, but which, nevertheless, has a record of much valuable work to its credit.

THE MAN IN THE MOON says:

SUCCESS brings envy and hate; failure brings pity and contempt. The mediocre man is the one who possibly may escape either.

IT is commonly reported that the weather man has left town. That is the reason our weather is so different this year.

YOU judge the wheels in a man's head by the spokes in his mouth.

The other day a southern critic said he understood this town was run entirely by women, and now people are wondering what women.

A WOMAN is happy until she gets what she wants. Then she weeps because there are no worlds to conquer.

I UNDERSTAND the young man did not like it when he remarked to his particular young lady that at last he was getting ahead and she replied that he needed one.

SOME young men around Prince Rupert seem to think they will become shining stars if they stay out late at night.

THE Philistines were slain by the jawbone of an ass. Today all that happens through the use of the similar jawbone is that we are terribly bored and would like to slay the ass.

THERE'S no fool like an old fool except a young fool.

MONEY talks, but if I thought it would talk as much as some people I know, I would not want any of it.

ONCE upon a time many years ago Guy Fawkes tried to blow up the British House of Parliament with powder. Last night there was another explosion when Jake's wife found powder on his coat collar.

I ASK you, have you ever worn a new suit of woollen underwear and not been almost tickled to death?

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

February 1, 1916.

At the instigation of Mayor McCaffery, the first measure of civic retrenchment was passed at last night's council meeting. The indemnity of mayor and aldermen is reduced to $1500 and $300 per year respectively and cuts have been made in the light and power wage schedules. Ald. Casey and Ald. Barrie dissented from the latter.

There has been very rough weather in nearby waters of late. A Kitkatla gasoline boat, while returning home from Prince Rupert, was blown out to sea and it took ten days for the vessel to safely make port.

Frank Clapp was appointed by the city council last night to the position of market clerk. Other applicants for the job were B. E. Webster and F. B. Holland.

W. E. Baillie, chief engineer of the steamer Prince Rupert, after having spent a month here in connection with work proceeding at the dry dock on C.G.M.M. vessels, sailed by the Prince Charles Saturday afternoon on his return to Vancouver.

WEEK AT THEATRE

Hoot Gibson in "The Arizona Sweepstakes."

Wednesday and Thursday
"The Snob."

Friday and Saturday
"Winds of Chance."

HOOT GIBSON AGAIN IN ARIZONA SWEEPSTAKES

Famous Rider to be Seen in Picture Here Tonight at Westholme Theatre

Briefly, "The Arizona Sweepstakes," showing here tonight at the Westholme, pictures the adventures of a cowboy, "Coot" Caddigan, who while visiting a large city has become entangled in the gang-life of the metropolis. Falsely accused of murder he is hidden away by a gangster whom he befriended. With the police searching for him he remembers he is due back in Arizona, for he has promised the father of the girl he loves to ride his horse in the big race of the year. Upon the outcome of the race depends the girl's future, as her father has taken ill, and the most dangerous competitor is threatening to take the girl and foreclose on the ranch.

"Coot" risks capture, deserts his hiding place and returns to the ranch in time to ride in the race, not without having obstacles placed in his way by his rival. This race scene is one of the most spectacular of all screen races. It is a dashing cross-country race of wildly staring, hard-breathing, galloping horses ridden by a dozen or more real cowpunchers. Hoot Gibson and Philo McCullough. Trees, ditches and fences are hurdled in startling manner until one can almost hear the thump of the pounding hoofs.

"The Snob" is a Metro-Goldwyn picture, filmed by Bell under the supervision of Harry Rapf, who was the producer of Bell's first directorial attempt. It is presented by Louis B. Mayer and will be shown here at the Westholme during the mid-week.

The story centres around a young instructor in an academy in the Pennsylvania Dutch town, who has ambitions to scale the social heights. He seeks the hand of a wealthy girl, but marries a school teacher who loves him when she is apparently dying. She lives, however, and he makes their married existence one of continud unpleasantness.

A young artist who loves the school teacher, but has lost sight of her, is shocked to find she has married the snob, who ever since becoming a father has continued his attentions to the society girl. The young mother finally learns of her husband's indiscretions, and promises to marry the artist after her divorce is gained.

WINDS OF CHANCE IS STORY OF THE YUKON

Will be Here at the Week-end Showing Many Picture Stars

"Winds of Chance" is one of the few pictures with the power to sweep one virtually off his feet. Moving along at a startling pace, this latest First National epic combines the elements of scenic beauty and spirited action without slackening its pace, and there are so many celebrities in the cast that the reviewer feels that he has been entertained by a club composed of stars only.

More than any picture "Winds of Chance" deserves the distinction of being an all-star production. It is. And all of the stars in it share about as equally as it is possible for so real a drama to divide the honors. Anna Q. Nilson, Viola Dana, Ben Lyon and Victor McLaglen are the principal quartet in the picture, but there is very little to choose between their parts and those of Hobart Bosworth, Dorothy Sebastian, Claude Gillingwater, Charles Crockett, Philo McCullough, Fred Kohler and John T. Murray, all of whom support to a degree the four principal characters, but also share individual moments of histrionic triumph which are vitally essential to the plot's success.

Dyea, Chilkoot, Summit, Sheep Camp, Linderman, Dawson City, all of the famous points of interest along the old gold trail to the Klondike are graphically introduced.

FOOTBALL PICTURES ON POSTAGE STAMPS

Athletic Series Being Issued by Post Office in Hungaria

BUDAPEST, Feb. 1. — Football has received the honor of illustrating postage stamps.

The recent issue of stamps by the Hungarian government might be called the "athletic series." In addition to football, swimming, diving, hurdling, skating, fencing and skiing are portrayed.

The denominations vary from one hundred crowns to twenty-five hundred. Physical exercise for adults or bedroom physical culture is rated at 100 crowns, while the "high jump" rather appropriately represents the most expensive stamp of the series, 2,500 crowns.

TAXES DEMANDED OF ALASKAN VESSELS

Dollar a Ton Has to be Paid by Norco, Bellingham and Many Others

Steps are being taken by J. H. Dunn, clerk of the U.S. District Court for the collection of federal tonnage taxes for 1924-25 on ocean-going and coastwise vessels owned and operated in Alaskan waters, it was made known in Juneau recently, says the Empire. Some 38 or 40 vessels in this division, it was reported, are subject to this tax and it is estimated that about $3,000 are due for last year.

So far as is known this is the first time on record that efforts to collect this tax have been made. It is provided for in section 2,569 Compiled Laws of Alaska which fixes the rate of taxation at $1.00 per net ton, custom house measurement, to be paid by the owner or operator of any seagoing or coastwise vessel doing local business for hire, plying in Alaskan waters.

The largest vessel claimed to come under the law is the Motorship Oregon, registered here, and owned and operated by the Independent Steamship company. It is registered as being 1,357 net tons capacity.

The Norco, of Ketchikan, and the Bellingham, of the same port, with 431 and 322 tons respectively are the second and third largest vessels on which taxes are claimed.

There are several Dominion boats, a number of Petersburg and Wrangell and many Ketchikan vessels on the list.

SALVATION ARMY IS DOING GREAT WORK

Annual Report For Past Year Just Issued Gives Account of Its Activities For Downtrodden

The annual report of the social work of the Salvation Army for 1925 is now being distributed in all the countries of the world, in which the army is operating. The general statistics show that the army now has 22,362 officers and cadets in field and social work. It has 14,107 corps and outposts, 95,415 local officers, 30,921 senior bandsmen and 10,450 young bandsmen.

The report of the social work shows that new institutions of various kinds are being constantly opened in various countries to meet pressing needs. The total number of these social institutions of the army, some of which are very large and important, is 1,431. In its work for helpless children it has now 96 homes, it also maintains 28 creches for very young children, and 17 industrial schools.

In its work for poor and unfortunate women of many classes it maintains 127 industrial homes. It has also 59 maternity homes, of which Grace Hospital in Winnipeg is one of the largest and best. The army has these maternity institutions in several important cities of western Canada, almost all of which are in urgent need of enlargement to meet the requirements.

Shelters and Dpots

In its work for men, the army maintains 84 shelters and food depots, and in addition 15 depots where food only is served. It has 148 hotels for working men. During 1925 it provided beds for 9,527,035 people and supplied 13,251,126 meals. It maintains similar shelters and food depots for women. It has 15 prison gate homes, 6 homes for inebriates and a large number of other industrial institutions of many kinds for both men and women.

The cost of administration of this work has been kept very low, and for this reason the public has continued a consistent support, which has allowed it to be maintained Accounts are published each year and anyone interested can secure a copy by making application.

GYMNASIUM AT SEAL COVE WAS DECLARED OPEN

Rev. G. G. Hacker Gave First Address in New Building Last Evening

Rupert East Gymnasium Church opened with an enthusiastic service last night. There were many people present from the central part of the city as well as a goodly number from the east end. The service of song and opening exercises were conducted by Rev. Evan Baker, who in a brief prayer dedicated the building to God's work which covers social, physical and religious life. Vocal solos by Mrs. J. P. McMillan and A. Clapperton were greatly appreciated by all present. Mrs. Ralph Walker accompanied Mrs. McMillan and A. J. Lancaster accompanied Mr. Clapperton, as well as acting as pianist for the musical service.

A practical and appropriate sermon was preached by Rev. Geo. G. Hacker on "Jesus' Conception of the Abundant Life." The speaker gave illustrations of men who lived well but still found their lives one-sided and cramped and ultimately pronounced themselves failures. Jesus was deeply religious, had a master mind, and was a much sought guest. Had we ever thought of him as an athlete or man of physical development? He was a traveller, but there were no trains, steamboats or street cars. Only once did he ride and then on a donkey. Jesus often travelled forty, fifty, or sixty miles on foot. He was always pictured as leading the group. Certainly Jesus was a man of brawn and brain. The Rupert East Gymnasium was built to bring the full life as lived by the master, to the community in which it stands. "It stands here for community service. It is open to all creeds and nationalities. There is no need for any denominational strife and we will be deeply disappointed if any arises. We are here to supply a need in the community," were Mr. Hacker's closing remarks.

The United Church headquarters have supplied the money for the main cost of the building. The local board, W. G. Robinson, A. J. Squire, S. L. Peachey and Andrew Murray have undertaken to raise one thousand dollars for inside fittings, gymnasium equipment, lighting, seating, piano, sidewalks, etc. The givings last night amounted to slightly over two hundred dollars and with tonight's concert should make nearly three hundred. Several generous gifts of work and material have been reported. Alderman John McKechnie has had charge of the building and his work is very commendable.

Order of Department of Marine and Fisheries Provides for Oriental Exclusion

A special despatch from Ottawa by A. J. Mackenzie to the Vancouver Star says:

By an order forwarded from the Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa today to the department here Japanese working at the salteries and on the seines in the herring industry of British Columbia will no longer be allowed employment after the end of this fishing season.

This order will mean the displacement of some 400 to 500 Orientals now employed, nearly altogether on the east coast of Vancouver Island by whites or Indians, according to A. J. Whitmore of the Department of Fisheries here.

Oriental Policy

The original policy of the government at Ottawa was to replace Orientals by whites or Indians at the rate of 25 per cent a year. For the fishing season of 1924-25 it was ordered that all men employed on the seines or at the salteries in the herring industry should be whites or Canadian Indians. For the season of 1925-26, now under way, 50 per cent were to be Orientals.

This recent order, given under the authority of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries wipes out the employment of Orientals in the herring industry a year before the time at first stated. In the case of Oriental companies operating, of which there are now but three with charters only two executive officers at the saltery may be Orientals following this season and no other Orientals may be employed in any capacity.

Salmon Not Affected

The order does not effect the salmon canning plants and fisheries although it is thought at the departmental headquarters here that similar action may follow. The salmon fisheries are operating under the same provision but, as it went into effect a year later than the same ruling in the herring fisheries this year, will remand but 25 per cent white or Indian employees.

CANADIAN AND AMERICAN TARIFFS

By D. J. Sullivan, Anyox.

The claim that the Canadian Tariff should be raised to the level of that of the United States, is based primarily on the economic fallacy, that a tax on imports necessarily restricts importations, and thereby protects the markets. In the second place this claim is based on the delusion that it is in the interests of this country, to threaten the prosperity of its basic industries, in order to foster those of a secondary character; because we have adopted this policy.

Canada's prosperity depends largely on its basic industries, and it is essentially an exporting country, and to impose a high tariff which bears heavily on these industries would be suicidal. A high tariff as an economic or moral principle, cannot be defended, for it is either a form of legalized extortion, or a farce.

It Raises Prices

A tax on imports is called a tariff, duty, etc., and the effect of this tax is determined by the character of the articles upon which it is placed. This tax when levied on articles imported for re-sale establishes a price level, which is at least equal to their declared value (competitive price) with the tax added. The price level thus established for imported articles, determines the prices of the home-products of like quality, in cases wherein competition in prices may be eliminated, and when production for export purposes, is not an essential factor; such as those of the secondary industries—finished products. With the unfinished products of the forests, fisheries, metalliferous mines, and to a great extent farms; a tax on such imports would not increase the prices of the home products; for in many cases the selling prices are regulated by the export prices, and when competition cannot be eliminated, supply and demand govern prices. A tax on imports (tariff) does not of itself restrict importations nor protect the markets, as is preached, for a protective tariff is a myth. It is simply a price-increasing factor, and if effective may be collected from the users of the class of articles upon which it is placed, and when it cannot be thus collected, it is a farce, and usually a political sop.

Bonusing System

Protection of the home markets is affected, when the prices of the home products are maintained at a lower level than those of the imported articles. It is this economic priciple that restricts importations, and not a tax on imports (tariff), for it may be made effective whether imports are taxed or not. When the prices of the home products are kept at the same level as those of similar imported articles, the taxing of imports (tariff) is simply a bonusing system, wherein the right to collect this tax is exercised by private persons; and the impost duty which in such cases is invariably paid by the consumers, presents no obstacle to importations. And when the duty is increased and prices are increased proportionately, importations are not thereby restricted.

Industrial Oligarchy

A high tariff, if effective, sets up an industrial oligarchy, which can maintain itself, because of its power to strangle the economic life of a country, and thus compel submission to its dictates. It is a high tax of a subtle character, which is imposed on consumers, whereby they are compelled to contribute to the support of industries in which they may have no pecuniary interest.. A tariff, whether levied on imported wheat or shoes, is simply a tax, which may be included in the prices of the finished products, and this fact would become apparent by the drop in prices to the full extent of the tariff rate, in case it were suspended. It is sectional in application and only in a limited sense is it revenue producing.

An industry which can not prosper without a high tariff, does not belong here, and it is in the national interests, that its products be imported; for it acts as a parasite on the basic industries, upon which the economic life of the country depends.

Reduce Production Costs

The way to meet foreign competition is by reducing the cost of production, and the products of the metalliferous mines, forests, fisheries, and to a great extent farms which meet world competition in prices, and without tariff protection or subsidy, furnish examples of how this may be done. For a high duty on imported wheat, the forest products, metals, fish, live stock, etc. would not increase prices of the home products.

A tax-payer in actual fact, is one who is unable to control the prices of the things he exchanges, whether products, rates or services. The mining operator, forest products producer, farmer, fisherman, stock-raiser, and those who are dependent upon the industries they represent are tax-payers of both direct and indirect taxes, because they can not control the prices of their products or services. They are compelled to pay the full tariff rates that are reflected in the tax increased prices, and which result in increased living and production costs, and without compensating returns in increased incomes or earning power. From this it can be seen that a high tariff, if effective, is a blow directed at Canada's prosperity, which is largely that of the basic industries.

Canada should not permit herself to be hypnotized into copying American tariff ligislation, but should deal with her tariff problems as her interests dictate.

LUMBER INDUSTRY IS PLANNED FOR SOUTH

Canadian Forest Products Ltd. Takes Over Beaver Cove Mill and Timber Limits

VICTORIA, Feb. 1.—Creation of a gigantic new lumber industry for British Columbia, backed by the millions of the International Harvester Company of America, is assured, starting this year, by the organization of the Canadian Forest Products, Ltd, it is announced. The company, with a capitalization of $4,000,000, was authorized by the B.C. registrar of companies at Victoria, Saturday.

The concern which has been forced by the amalgamation of the Beaver Cove Lumber and Pulp Company and White Bros. Lumber Company, both of which own and control mill properties and vast timber limits on Vancouver Island, is being financed almost wholly by the International Harvester Company.

Creditors of the Beaver Cove Company, which firm has been defunct for several years, have been paid off, and final announcement of the reorganization was made yesterday.

Farris, Local Counsel

Wendell B. Farris, Vancouver, barrister, in whose hands the reorganization was placed, is in Chicago for the purpose of presenting his final organization report. In addition to discussing this report, the directors are making plans for immediate operation on a large scale.

Beaver Cove Company was a war venture which closed down some time ago, and left its large plant in idleness. The White Bros. Company, a Michigan concern, has been operating on a small scale.

TIMBER SALE X 7809.

Sealed Tenders will be received by the District Forester not later than noon on the 6th day of February, 1926, for the purchase of Licence X7809, Maude Island, Skidegate Inlet, Q.C.I., to cut 1,150,000 feet board measure of Spruce, Hemlock, and Cedar Sawlogs.

Two (2) years will be allowed for removal of timber.

Interests of East are Trying to Control Government States Premier Mackenzie King

Party Stands for Unity of all Canadians Declares Leader at Luncheon in His Honor at Prince Albert

PRINCE ALBERT, Feb. 2.—Premier Mackenzie King opened his campaign here last night with a speech in which he charged that the monied interests of Eastern Canada were endeavoring to get control of the Government of the country. He referred to Mr. Meighen's tariff policy, saying: "Back of this protectionist thought lies the desire of a few men of great wealth to get political control of the country. That the topic of real interest in Canada today was whether a few men who are very wealthy and who have certain established privileges, who reside for the most part in Eastern Canada and in Montreal more than anywhere else, whether these few men are going to succeed in getting political control in this country so that they can make the policies of Canada over to their monied interests and their selfish purposes."

Mr. King further declared that in the last election the country was "face to face with as great a conspiracy as any country ever faced."
