PANTHER PARADE IN VICTORIA STREETS

HANDSAW FISH BROUGHT IN BY FISHING BOAT MARGALICE TO BE PRESERVED

Panther Paraded Victoria Streets and Was Finally Shot by Police at Carnegie Library After Long Chase

Tried to escape on roof of building but failed after patrol wagon and motor cycle cop came after it in early morning

VICTORIA, April 27.—Shot through the head while it was walking along the streets early yesterday morning, a cougar, and hungry for meat, fell a prey to police officers' guns shortly after five a.m.

Constable Ritch of the city force, who was on duty at the section of Yates and Blanchard Streets, was startled at the skulking shape of what appeared to be a giant dog moving alongside the building. The officer pulled out a gun but animal disappeared before he had time to shoot.

Other policemen caught sight of the beast. Constable Gremer, an old African cavalryman, thought it was a leopard. With Sergeant Florence he started in pursuit, while officer Ritch turned in the alarm at headquarters. A patrol wagon and motor cycle man came up Yates Street with a rush to where the cougar was last seen, waking up numerous citizens.

Strange Species of Fish Known as Handsaw Brought to Port and Turned Over to Biological Board

Another one of the species of fish commonly known as the handsaw fish, which have been brought here before but whose natural habitat is not believed to be in waters so far north as this, was landed from the Canadian halibut schooner Margalice, Capt. Jack Christiansen, this morning and has been turned over to Messrs. Finn and Reed, scientists, in connection with the local biological station who will have it preserved for future study here.

The handsaw fish is about four feet long and about two inches in diameter, thus being very long and narrow. It has a large fin on its back which, when spread out, gives the fish the appearance causing its common name. It has a flat head and several rows of large teeth in its mouth.

POST OFFICE AT JAP INLET

STORK SECURES NECESSARY CONVENIENCE FOR SETTLEMENT ON PORCHER ISLAND

The residents of Jap Inlet will be glad to hear that through the efforts of their member, Fred Stork, a post office has been secured for that point. Hitherto the people from Jap Inlet have had to fetch their letters either from Prince Rupert or from Refuge Bay. In either case it was very inconvenient.

Jap Inlet has only recently been recognized as a point of vantage for fishermen and others who require good shelter and yet who do not wish to reside in the city. Already a school has been established there and the cottages have been renovated and have a prosperous appearance.

Difficult Problem Of Financing.

Financing a nation is a difficult work. British Columbia has her problems and the Dominion hers. They are as nothing, however, to the problems faced by the little island of Great Britain where the debt, mostly incurred by war, amounts to seven and a half billion pounds sterling and the income to be raised in the year amounts to about four billion dollars.

Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer in that country, has been wrestling with the problems of government financing and announces that last year there would have been a surplus of five million pounds had it not been for the coal subsidy, which it is understood is to be dropped. This coal subsidy caused a deficit of about seventy million dollars. It was imposed in order to prevent a coal strike a year ago.

France Will Begin To Pay War Debt.

France is to begin paying her war debt to Great Britain this year, the chancellor of the exchequer announced in his budget speech yesterday. It is rather a belated beginning for France is not taxed as heavily as Britain but it also must be remembered that France was decimated by the invaders and suffered as no other nation in the war suffered, except Belgium.

Britain is repaying her debt to United States and with France paying her indebtedness, the world seems in a fair way to settling up old accounts without danger of friction.

Indians Differ From Other Races.

Indians differ from most other races in that while they imitate others and are keen to get away from and forget their old nationality most peoples are keen on retaining their national language and characteristics. In another place today is an article published in Sunday's Province, which intimates that the Indians are being absorbed by the white races and will eventually disappear. That probably will be their fate. Already there are many natives in whom white blood is apparent and a good many have intermarried with white people.

Pity To Lose
Indian Handicrafts.

It seems a pity that the Indian handicrafts should be lost. These are distinctive and artistic. The basketwork is wonderful and some of the carving excellent. The native patterns are different from any other and should be retained. Possibly one of the native men or women will have a turn for literature and write the history of the Indian people injecting into it their own atmosphere and legends and it may be permeated with their own aims, aspirations and ideals.

There is something very sordid about the aims and aspirations of most white people and we may learn much from study of the natives. After all, there is something more in life than the pursuit of wealth, the race for pleasure, the building and furnishing of fine houses and the life of eternal jazz.

WORK ON TOTEM PARK GOES ON

Cinder Paths Practically Completed Today and Pole Will be up Very Soon

The work of finishing the cinder paths to the top of the little hill overlooking the Canadian National general offices and of levelling off the top prior to the erection of the totem pole on Second Avenue will be practically completed today. A gang of men has been engaged there yesterday and today under foreman Alger of Utk carrying the cinders up in sacks and quite a transformation has been wrought in the place.

A rock gang under Nat Pederson is blasting a hole for the foundation of the pole and the work will be completed within a few days, it is expected. It will be put right through without further delay.

Resort for Tourists

The totem was painted in the natural Indian colors last fall and is all ready and when erected will prove to be one of the landmarks of the city and a great resort for tourists. The pole is not being placed quite at the top of the knoll but slightly to the northeast so that visitors standing on the top will be able to photograph it to advantage.

The view from the hill is a splendid one and the place will eventually form one of the prettiest little parks on the continent.

While the work being done this year provides only for the building of the walks, levelling the top and erecting the totem pole on a concrete base, the work and expense involved in that is considerable but is money well spent. It will be a great acquisition to the town.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

says:

WOMAN is handy to blame things on or as Jake puts it, to hang things on.

THE auto industry is protesting and meantime Parker has reduced the price of Fords. And people are asking themselves who it is the tariff is aiding.

IF you are only a second rater you have to keep on doing good work in order to maintain your reputation.

TALKING about dense population, I always fancied some of Prince Rupert's population was rather dense.

WHILE there will be a lot of talk, the budget will not be amended and the auto manufacturers will have to be content with that little 27½ per cent protection they still have left.

ROYAL COMMISSION MINER LOST HIS JOB

Companions Refuse to Strike to Enforce Giving His Work Back After Sitting Closes

BLAIRMORE, Alta., April 27.—How a former member of the provincial royal commission, which recently completed its investigation into the Alberta coal situation, and who had left his job as a coal miner to act on the commission, was refused his old job back again, and how, following an appeal by the "coal-miner-member" P. M. Christopher, the ex-royal commissioner's fellow miners refused to back up his claim, formed a unique series of events here.

Frank Wheatley, for some years an active leader in labor affairs at various coal mines in southern Alberta, left his job at the Green Hill mine, near Blairmore, a few months ago, to sit on the coal commission.

His duties as royal commissioner ended, Mr. Wheatley applied to the Green Hill coal company for his old job back again.

No Position Open

"Sorry, but we can't give it to you," said the company. "We've laid a lot of men off recently, and there is no position open for you right now."

The ex-royal commissioner went back to his union. The union appealed to the coal company. "No job," said the coal company.

Then the committee of the local union held a meeting to discuss the situation, with a view to holding a strike.

P. M. Christopher, Labor member for Blairmore, joined with Mr. Wheatley in urging that the men strike in protest against the action of the company.

The vote showed a majority of the miners unwilling to back up Mr. Wheatley to the extent of a strike, and the men returned to work. The ex-royal commissioner is therefore, for the time being at least, an ex-miner also.

A SATIRICAL LESSON FOR LATE COMERS AT PHILADELPHIA CONCERT

(Edmonton Journal)

People, who come late, go away early and otherwise disturb a musical or a theatrical program have long been a source of annoyance to those on the stage and to most of those in the audience. The leader of the Philadelphia orchestra the other night undertook to give a lesson in good manners by presenting a satirical program. When the curtain rose there were but two players on the stage and the first number was begun with them alone. The others drifted in nonchalantly one by one, sat down and broke in on the music. After awhile they began to wander out and only two violins remained at the end. There were some hisses, but the majority of the audience took it in good part and applauded.

Action in English Court Decided Against Person Who Laid £10 on Long Shot Horse

LONDON, April 27.—Mr. Justice Horridge, sitting as presiding judge at the Surrey Assizes, decided that a claim for recovery of a bet on a horse race could not be enforced and gave judgment accordingly.

The claim in question was one brought by a man named Hyde, who bet £10 on Charley's Mount in the Czarewich Stakes. The betting was 100 to 1 against and the horse won. Hyde tried to collect £4,000 and a dispute arose as to the terms and the action followed.

Life, Habits and Prospects of Indians of This District Discussed by Local Writer

Local Writer Suggests They Will Eventually be Absorbed by White Race With Whom They Already Are Mixing

(By H. F. Pullen, in the Sunday Province)

The Indians are a nimportant factor in the life of the Pacific coast. There are over 3,000 of them in the agency which centres at Prince Rupert, including the Queen Charlotte Islands, in addition to a number of villages on the upper Skeena River, which are in the adjoining agency. They are mostly producers, for they fish in summer and hunt in winter and the produce of their toil is shipped away into the country.

Perhaps the word "toil" is the wrong one to use in connection with the Indians, because they do not toil. They work more or less intermittently, but not persistently. When they tire of a job they leave it and take up another, possibly returning later to finish the first.

The Indians live on reserves, but they are seldom at home. Three to four months in the year is about all the men live in their own houses, and that is during the winter. It is no wonder that the reserves run to weeds, that it grows up with bushes, that the houses and gardens sometimes have an untidy appearance.

The owner is absent most of the time engaged in the business of life. Gradually, however, the Indians are getting away from the reserve life. They live in town part of the time and adapt themselves to city ways. Occasionally they intermarry with white people and they imitate the white residents in the food they eat, the clothes they wear and the way in which they enjoy themselves. As they associate mostly with what is sometimes known as the lower strata of society, they learn the white man's vices often more rapidly than his virtues, and this, in the past, has proved fatal. It is only in the past few years that the Indian has begun to hold his own and even to make a little headway. Today the native population is increasing slightly, but it is becoming permeated with white blood, white ideas, white modes of life and thought, and it cannot be many generations before absorption takes place.

Two Distinct Nations

In the Prince Rupert district there are two distinct nations represented, the Tsimpseans and the Haidas. The former are found on the mainland and adjoining small islands, while the latter live on the Queen Charlottes and Southeastern Alaska. They speak distinctly different languages, but their appearance, customs and manner of life are somewhat similar. The Haidas, of Alaska, are taller and

HAUNTED CHILD IN WISCONSIN

Curious Manifestations are Reported Wherever Eleven
Year Old Girl Lives

OSHKOSH, Wis., April 27.—Aid of psychologists will be sought by the friends of 11 year old Marie Maybourne, foster child of a farmer living near Delhi, Wis., whose peculiar behaviour has caused considerable discussion in the community.

The foster parents have withdrawn the girl from school and are protecting her from the curious who flock to the little farm house after stories of strange manifestations involving the child had begun to circulate.

The possibility that the girl is a ventriloquist, offering an explanation of noises ranging from a shrill whistle to tapping sounds apparently coming from the wall, has been suggested by Rev. William Grace, adviser of the family.

Preachers' Opinion

If this point is proven, the preachers said this would account for some of the manifestations, but that others could not be explained on that basis.

A sharp whistle is described by witnesses, who have signed sworn statements to witnessing manifestations, as preceding the demonstrations. The first occurrence was on Christmas Day, when the mother said she heard toys dropping on the floor when none could be seen.

Subsequent events in four different houses where the child has been taken, include, according to witnesses, the sound of familiar voices, moving of various objects, and taps that apparently emanate from the walls.

It was related that the child has run crying to her mother on several occasions saying that her face had been slapped.

Force Was Used

Mrs. George Maybourne, foster mother of the girl, and Mrs. John Yost, to whose home the girl was taken on one occasion, asserted they were forced to relinquish their hold upon the child's arm by some unseen force.

"I still hope that the case may be solved by the application of natural laws, but I am baffled," said Mr. Grace, who has taken charge of the investigation. He is arranging to subject the girl to tests by scientists.

INJUNCTION GRANTED BY JUDGE TO PROTECT MINORITY SHAREHOLDERS

Edmonton Merger Temporarily
Stopped Through Action of Court in Granting Order

EDMONTON, April 27.—An injunction restraining the Northwest Biscuit Company of Edmonton from merging with the Canada Biscuit Company, a proposed national organization, was granted by Mr. Justice Boyle in a judgment handed down in the supreme court on application of Andrew H. Hemstreet and other shareholders of the Northwest Biscuit Company who opposed a resolution passed by a bare majority at a shareholders meeting early in the year that the merger be ratified.

The judge held that the effect of the resolution was to compel the minority stockholders to accept shares in the new company in lieu of their present holding contrary to their own wishes, which could not be done on account of the Winding Up act of the province affording special protection to minority shareholders against such proceedings.

Act Explained

The act provides that action of this nature may only be taken by a special resolution carried by at least three-fourths of the votes of those voting at a shareholders meeting, the procedure winding up a company, in which

Fond of Music

No sketch of the Indian life of this coast would be complete without reference to their music. They employ bandmasters occasionally from the cities and are particularly fond of classic selections which the bands play with great precision, taste and feeling. They interpret the old masters better than many a white band would do after long practice. All Indians are musical and most of them are emotional and religious. They are susceptible to revivals of religion and like to take part in religious services.

The young men are adapting themselves to modern games and sports. Recently the Port Simpson baseball team went to Anyox and defeated one of their best teams and then played against Prince Rupert's All-stars.

While the semi-nomadic life is against the advance of education, they will learn to read and write and have a good working knowledge of arithmetic and other school subjects. They go to school in the winter, but during summer they move to the canneries and the schools are deserted.

Some of the young men are ambitious. The other day one dropped into town and borrowed a few dollars to get to a cannery. What had he done with his wages that he had earned during the winter? He had spent every dollar of it for a new saxophone costing $150. Now he has gone to work again and is the proud possessor of the instrument which he is learning to play with great skill.

Recently in Stone Age

When it is remembered that less than 100 years ago the Indians were in the stone age, the progress they have made is wonderful. The lives they live are just as good as the lives of many white people and among them are many fine characters. In this agency they are helped a good deal by having as agent a man who knows their language, habits and desires, in the person of the Rev. W. E. Collison. He is the son of Ven. Archdeacon Collison, the veteran missionary who helped to bring the Indians from the state of savagery in which they were found to the present high level, and the work still goes on.

Drillers, however, declare they have still a long way to go, and it is pointed out that other wells have encountered oil flows in the same way. Dalhousie crews are still drilling, but the latest development is looked upon by them as indicating that it is possible to bring in another Royalite well in the Turner Valley field.

The reports have had the effect of strengthening the whole market.

FUR TRADE SCHOONER LOADING FOR NORTH

Being Shipped by Rail to Fort McMurray and Will Leave for Arctic Waters

EDMONTON, April 27.—Flaunting the scarlet British ensign and with her white sails glimmering against the dull brown banks of the Saskatchewan Valley, this season's first fur trade schooner for the Arctic is being loaded at the Low Level bridge by the Alberta Motor Boat Company for the top of the map.

The ship has been completely rigged for service and was inspected by her new owners.

She is being shipped by rail to Fort McMurray and from there will go down under her own power to the Arctic ocean.

In many ways this vessel wishes a new departure in fur trade craft.

She is treble lined so as to be habitable in the winter, possesses a large coal oil stove for cooking and heating, is heavily engined, has large gasoline and water storage tanks and is equipped with electric headlights and interior illumination.

The boat is double ribbed to withstand ice pressure, and is one of the largest and sturdiest vessels built in Edmonton for the far northern trade.

"Imaginary" Rheumatism Caused by Illfitting Shoes

MANY, many times physicians have diagnosed what appears to be rheumatism, as really being pains arising from the effects of Fallen Arches.

When the foot arches begin to break down, the pain is often ascribed to a sprain or rheumatism. Pain occurs along the inside of the foot, in the heel, also the calf of the leg, and is often located in the knee or hip joints.
