Fiery Poet Enlivens Proceedings in Case of Aimee McPherson

LOS ANGELES, October 9.—A fiery and voluble poet from Texas illustrated the dramatic nature of the proceedings in the Aimee McPherson criminal conspiracy trial late yesterday when he called the defence attorney a liar, haggled the judge, skated close to arrest himself for contempt of court, and wound up with two sworn statements flatly contradicting the word of the accused evanescent.

The poet, Oliver Allstrom, bubbling over with an urge to be heard, said McPherson employed him to write a story entitled "Kidnappers" but called off when the investigators announced they had found evidence to prove her presence at Carmel with Ormiston while her body was being sought beneath the waves of Santa Monica beach.

Allstrom further charged that when Mrs. McPherson professed to the Grand Jury that she knew nothing about two men drowning while searching for her body, the evangelist had expressed regret to him over the drowning of one man, Ed Harrison, the diver.

The Attorney stated that a manslaughter charge against Mrs. McPherson and her mother might be laid as a result of the two drownings.

The report was produced while Murchison was concluding his testimony today. It said that "Steve," who is part Indian, weighed about 175 pounds and "Rose" had a large nose and weighed 180 pounds. The report said both had been seen in Douglas about the time of the reappearance of Mrs. McPherson.

LITERATURE AND LIFE.

There are people who worship literature and look upon the reading of good literature just as they look upon going to church, as a virtue for which they will receive a reward. There is a tendency in the universities to place literature on a pedestal and hold it up to adoration as something apart from life. As a matter of fact literature is only of value as it is related to life. It is valuable as being an expression of the greatest minds of the age and for that reason it tends to elevate and educate and inspire us all to greater things. The reading of good literature sharpens the wits, clarifies the ideas of the reader and broadens the outlook.

ONE OF LATEST AUTUMN BOOKS.

One of the latest autumn books which is very entertaining, at times thrilling and all the time interesting is "The Red Ledger" by Frank L. Packard, just published by George H. Doran Co. Ltd., in Toronto. It is a story that you read for the plot rather than for the fiction, but the plot is such as tends to sharpen the wit of the reader.

The story opens with young Stranway unexpectedly finding a personal notice in a newspaper asking him to communicate with an unnamed advertiser who claims to be in his debt. As Stranway's parents have recently been killed in a motor accident and his father's estate has proved to be so badly involved that the twenty-four year old youth is left bewildered and in a state of penury, it looks as though somewhere, someone knows of his condition and is prepared to meet an old obligation, though who the someone is or what the obligation is entirely beyond Stranway's recollections.

He follows up their enquiry, however, to a certain number in an out-of-the-way court in one of the quiet backwaters of New York known to few of the thousands passing its portals. The door is opened to him silently and by invisible means, and just as mysteriously closes upon his entrance. A voice from down the empty hallway calls to him and he finds himself facing "a clean-shaven little old man in a red velvet smoking jacket, his feet incased in red leather slippers, his scanty fringe of hair surmounted by a red skull-cap with bobbing tassels." And so he first meets old Charlebois, a perfect stranger to him, yet from that time till the last entry had been balanced in the ponderous, red morocco covered ledger which the old man brought from a huge steel safe, their ways joined in a mutual purpose which led to such a series of breathless undertakings as surely have never been recorded before; for in the evening of his life Charlebois is intent on settling those debts, on both sides of the amount, which had accrued in his earlier and less opulent days when friends were few and intrigues many, and in the settling process lies the theme of the tale, a rapid-fire tangle of cunning and counter-cunning with peril and excitement for all concerned.

Naturally there is a love story involving Stranway and a beautiful young girl known only as "the Orchid," a ward of Charlebois and one of his most valued assistants, who has an unanny way of appearing when Stranway is in his most hazardous predicaments as yet as elusive as Jimmie Dale's heroine.

So exceedingly rare is a first class adventure with a touch of mystery and an honestly interesting love story that this one comes as an oasis in the literary desert. Mr. Packard is a Canadian but has made a world name for himself in his chosen field.

HALLOWE'EN COMING SOON

MANY PARTIES WILL BE HELD TOWARD END OF MONTH AT WHICH THIS WILL BE FEATURED

Hallowe'en is coming soon and there will be all sorts of "Hunt the Spook" and other games in which old and young will join. Dressing up is one of the most interesting things about Hallowe'en and since paper can be used in place of more expensive fabrics the celebrations promise to be even more popular than ever. Here is an invitation being sent out to all the members of a group that propose to gather this year: "On Hallowe'en, sometime between seven and eight o'clock, a delegation of pumpkin heads will call to escort you to my party. They will all wear masks like the one I am sending you with this. They will greet you with the pass word."

The person giving the party goes to one or two best friends first and makes up a group and gathers them all, returning to the home to spend the rest of the evening. Decorations of the room are of a spooky nature and all the games are of a reasonable kind.

The fashion of taking off gates and doing more or less serious injury to property is going out of date. Boys and girls today are too sensible for that sort of thing. They know they can have just as good a time without it.

For decorations, the stores will have fancy designs that help a good deal or clever young people can make themselves up from crepe or plain paper, but they should be colored.

KIKI WAS SEEN LAST NIGHT AT WESTHOLME LOVEABLE CHARACTER

"Kiki" is here, which means that Norma Talmadge is here in the best role that she has ever played. She was seen last night as the perky, swaggering, blustering, heart-breaking child of Paris. She is the most lovable, piquant character that ever appeared in a movie, just as Lenore Ulric was the most lovable and piquant character that ever appeared on the stage. They were both "Kiki."

In all the history of the American stage and screen there has been no character quite like "Kiki." Scores of playwrights have striven to evolve a character which would portray at once all the elements of high comedy and soul-stirring drama, a character which would send audiences into gales of laughter and in the twinkling of an eye leave them with a strange sensation of pity for the hopelessly fine savado of it all.

Where others failed Balasco succeeded with "Kiki." Imagine, if you will, a waif of the Montmartre section of Paris, a new girl, ragged and lonely and cold, reared in loneliness behind a mask of bravado she had become adept at the gentle art of "bluff." A swager, a brave little tilt of the head and an amazing line of chatter belied the poverty and heartache which was her daily lot.

In this brief space cannot be related the myriad situations in which Norma matches wits with Ronald Colman, who plays the theater manager, nor how she battles with brain and fist with George K. Arthur, who has an important role. Nor can there be related any of the intriguing situations between Norma and Gertrude Astor, the staturesque blonde who plays Colman's fiancée.

But through the picture, from start to finish, runs a high note of comedy, delicately threaded with the sort of pathos that brings a lump to the throat.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

It takes Los Angeles to put on the biggest thing in comic opera since the evolution trial.

Where was Aimee all that time, Klapped or in bliss sublime? Was she studying radio lore? Finding preaching quite a bore? Or was she in brigand hands? Limbs fast bound with coarsest bands? If you ask me I should say She had planned a week of play.

It almost makes me think that science is all a fake when they tell me that man is an animal with a backbone.

The Nervous Strain of Modern Life

Brings Sleeplessness, Headache, Indigestion, Brain Fog, and Tired, Languid Feelings.

THERE is only so much nervous energy available in the human system at a given time and this is stored in the brain cells. This stored up energy is used to operate the machinery of the body. Not only the movement of the body but also the activities of the digestive organs, the breathing of the lungs, the action of the heart—all are dependent on the nervous energy supplied from the brain.

Under ordinary circumstances the supply is sufficient and all goes well. But excessive worry or mental exertion, fear or too strenuous habits of living bring about an emergency and nervous energy is consumed at an enormous rate.

The result is bankruptcy of the nervous system and a nervous breakdown.

Such a condition is very difficult to get away from. Habits of fear and worrying are formed and the patient seems incapable of regaining control of himself.

Outside help is absolutely necessary and is best supplied by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This well-known restorative treatment feeds the nerves back to health and vigor.

Slowly at first but just as certainly new nerve force is built up until you feel your old vitality returning. With it comes confidence and health and happiness. 60 cts. a box, all dealers.

Will You Make This Test?

WE know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food possesses exceptional restorative properties. We have seen it tested in many thousands of cases. But how are we going to prove this to you unless you try it.

You are the one to be benefitted. So it remains for you to make the test. We are going to supply you with the first box free of charge, so that you may get started with this great restorative treatment.

Do not expect one box to re-vitalize your run down nervous system or you will be disappointed. It takes a little patience to overcome a condition that has been months or even years in developing.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is not a mere relief and for this reason you must persevere in its use until the lost vigor is restored to the nerves. The fact that the results are thorough and lasting will encourage you to use the Nerve Food until you feel strong and well.

But the problem of compounding these ingredients so that the BEST RESULTS are obtained—that is left to the pharmacist's judgment. How important it is, then, to choose your pharmacist with care and take the prescription to one who is properly qualified by law, by education, and by experience to perform this important task. BASKETBALL AT SMITHERS SOON

Athletic Club Organizes for Winter Games But Drops Skating

SMITHERS, Oct. 9.—A business meeting of the Athletic Club was held at the G.W.V.A. headquarters on Tuesday evening and a general discussion of fall and winter sports was indulged in. The club decided to give support to basketball and arrangements are to start immediately for the organizing of teams and drawing up of a schedule of games. Followers of hockey were not so fortunate, however, as the club has been forced to announce, that owing to shortage of funds and lack of monetary support, it will not be able to conduct the skating rink this winter.

The skating rink has always been a money loss for the club and as summer sports have fallen off this year it is found that a rink cannot be financed unless help from another source is forthcoming.

This decision has caused great consternation among the young folk but plans are being talked of to have a building financed that could be used for an exhibit building for the Fall Fair and also as a covered skating rink.

SPORT CHAT

Next Wednesday, October 13, over the Cesarewitch Course of 2 1/2 miles at Newmarket, a large field of the best English and French "stayers" will race in the 88th renewal of the Cesarewitch Stakes, the greatest autumn handicap of the English Turf. Speculation on the race and its shorter sequel, the Cambridgeshire has been running high for weeks past. The invasion of French thoroughbreds always dangerous in this great "double," is as strong as ever in the race next week. Both the highest and second highest handicaps have been allotted to continental racers: Asteroid II and Tricard. The former, noted as a very fine stayer, is to carry 130 pounds. Tricard's burden of 128 is equal to that of Glommen, the English colt owned by Sol Joel, and at present the favorite. Forsett, winner last year, will shoulder 125 pounds; and Vermillion Pencil, 122. Two more French horses, Tric Trac II, and The Wolf, are high up in the table, with 121 each.

Altogether 97 horses are eligible, and at least one third of this number will face the barrier on Wednesday. Large fields are the rule in this famous race, and the record is 37 starters, in 1862. Last year 33 ran, and the year before 34. Besides those candidates meriting consideration on the handicapper's rating, are several others who are regarded as serious contenders for Cesarewitch honors. These are briefly Cimex, H. H. Aga Khan's colt, in at 100 pounds; Motley, second last year; Confirmation, third last year; Lancegas, second in the Derby; Tourmesol, Hidennis and Kyra, all experienced handicap horses. An indication of the openness of the race this year is the fact that Glommen is the favorite at not better than 14 to one against in the advance betting lists. Try, Try Again, winner of the Newbury Autumn Cup a few days ago, had been allotted the extremely low impost of 85 pounds, and this will not be much affected by his victory in the big Newbury aspirations. He was unplaced in the running last year, but third in 1924.

The Cesarewitch Stakes has been run without interruption since 1893, when it was established and named after the then heir to the Russian throne. The course, famed after the race, is a severe test of stamina, and on this account does not attract so many of the three-year-olds, the younger horses concentrating on the Cambridgeshire, which is only half the distance. The monetary value of the race, far outweighed by its historic significance, is in the neighborhood of $10,000, made up of stakes of 25 sovereigns each and 1,000 sovereigns added.

MINING FLURRY AT SMITHERS

EXPERTS REPRESENTING BIG COMPANIES GATHER AT THAT CENTRE TO INSPECT PROPERTIES

SMITHERS, B.C., October 9.—To the casual visitor in Smithers last week it might have looked as if a convention of mining engineers was in progress. The attention drawn to the mines of the Bulkley Valley by the discoveries made this summer have been very much in evidence the past few weeks in the number of men prominent in the mining world that have made trips to the district for the purpose of obtaining first hand information regarding the mineral deposits.

To the fore in the matter of attraction is the Richfield mine near Topley, discovered by Frank Taylor early this summer and a number of examinations of this body of ore were made recently. On September 25 it was examined by A. B. Trites of Vancouver, in company with his chief mining engineer, Major Angus Davies. The following Monday, Mr. Nelson made an examination for the Granby Consolidated Mining Co. and on Wednesday, September 29 one was made by H. L. Batten, for the Victoria Syndicate Ltd., and again on Thursday, September 30, another was made by W. L. Heidenreich, for the Nipissing Mines Co., Ltd.

The result of these numerous inspections was a veritable procession of automobiles between Smithers and the Richfield bearing the several parties to and from there.

In addition to the above examinations O. C. Thompson made a trip over the week end to examine the big deposits of silver-zinc ore of the Big Four group, located near Milk Creek, about 30 miles west of Telkwa. Mr. Thompson represents the Porcupine Goldfields Development and Finance Co., Ltd., operating two claims at Kimberley, B.C. He is greatly interested in the mining possibilities of the district and is making a number of other examinations here for his company, including the Richfield mine and the Deep Creek group, 11 miles east of Quik. This latter property is also being examined by Mr. Heidenreich.

With the visit of so many prominent mining men to town it is only natural that the local mining fraternity should gather to discuss mines and minerals with the visitors and on more than one evening last week the lobby of the Bulkley Hotel gave the impression that a mining convention was in progress.

MRS. A. DONALD OF TERRACE DIED AFTER PERIOD OF ILLNESS

Funeral Took Place Today to Kitsumkalum Cemetery From the House

TERRACE, Oct. 9.—In the death of Mrs. A. Donald, which took place on Thursday, Oct. 7, at the family residence here, Terrace lost one of its oldest and most respected citizens, and one much beloved throughout this community for many years.

The late Mrs. Donald was a native of Scotland, having been born in Edinburgh, seventy-nine years ago. Most of her life was spent in Paisley, Scotland, until fourteen years ago, when with her husband and daughter, Janie, she came to Canada and has made her home here with her son William, since that time. She was of an exceptionally kindly and genial disposition and made a host of friends among the earlier settlers here.

Mrs. Donald enjoyed good health until shortly after her husband's death which occurred in March, 1925. She had assisted her daughter Janie, in nursing him through a long illness, and shortly after his death was stricken with partial paralysis, as a result of which she has since been bedfast.

She leaves five children to mourn her loss: Archie, who still resides in Paisley, Scotland, George in Seattle, Mrs. Robt. Donald, now in Vancouver, but until very recently in Terrace, and Janie and William at home.

The funeral was held from the family residence this morning and interment made in Kitsumkalum cemetery.

WATERFRONT WHIFFS

A week of stormy weather does little damage --salmon regulations broken--Alex. Ohlman sees sea serpent

Though the equinoctial gales experienced during the past week were the severest gusts so far this year, little, if any, damage resulted either along the local waterfront or with the ships at sea. True some of the halibut boats such as the Unome and Spray had a rough time of it getting in about Wednesday when the storm was at its height but they, as well as others, made port safely without mishap. On the local waterfront there was apparently no trouble directly attributable to the blow as a southeast gale, such as those this week were, does not usually cause damage on this side of the harbor when a westerly wind of half the velocity might cause considerable. Of course, the boats had to be watched. At the Yacht Club nothing more happened than perhaps the breaking of a few lines--due to the good offices of Shif Thompson who went sleepless at least three nights.

The first halibut boat to tie up for the close season is the P. Dorreen, owned and skippered by Leo Sandver. Leo is about to leave upon a longer trip to Norway in the course of which he will embark upon the more perilous sea of matrimony. His many friends along the waterfront will join in wishing him the best of luck on his new venture. He will be leaving the city very shortly and will not be back until spring. The Dorreen is reported to have been one of the most successful boats of the local fleet this year, having made consistently good catches with which the market was in the most of cases struck at favorable times.

Prince Rupert Boat House power boat 28, Capt. Alex Saint, left on Monday for Warke Channel having on board C. R. Breck and R. R. Day, the New York engineers who are looking over water power possibilities in this district. The vessel returned to port yesterday and immediately left with the party for Lowe Inlet.

The Ketchikan motorship Windsor is a new vessel in port. She has already been here with two loads of fish from the Alaskan port. The Windsor is somewhat smaller than the motorship Beilingham, the service of which she is now supplementing.

Power boat Pachena, Capt. Paul Ar. mour came in on Wednesday with her second load of dog salmon from Lockeport vicinity on Moresby Island. The Pachena is expected back about the first of next week with another load of dogs.

Running at night without lights is reported to be becoming common in Prince Rupert Harbor. It is a very dangerous practice and one that is very liable to result in serious consequences.

Complaint is also made that there is too much shouting in boats on the harbor. If such became common it might mean some day that no heed would be paid when there was a real distress call.

"Handsome Red" Mowatt, chief of H.M.S. Birnie, is reported to be an excellent cook but, if he continues the fare of salt haddock that has been so common of late, the boys will not be able to take their shirts off for the bones sticking through their hide.

Power boat "23" skippered by Laurie Lambly, made a trip outside the harbor yesterday to pick up Hubert Ward and Philip Ray who had come down from Alice Arm aboard the log carrying barge Binghamton.

With the halibut season now nearing its close and trolling practically over, a 2c drop in gasoline and 5c in gear was announced this week. It is just like sugar after the preserving season, the boys say. The price drops when nobody wants it.

Congestion at the Cow Bay floats is again becoming noticeable. The trollers are getting back and there have been a large number of native boats there this week.

Laurie's Birthday

It was Laurie Lambly's birthday on Wednesday and a half-holiday was declared at the Prince Rupert Boathouse while he took the day off to celebrate the occasion by getting under the bright lights. His many friends will hope that Laurie may be allowed to celebrate many more October sixths in their midst. Many happy returns, Laurie.

A pall of gloom was thrown over the waterfront this week when it was learned of the death of James Ritchie, father of David Ritchie, skipper of the halibut boat Unome. "Dad," as he was familiarly known, was one of the oldest but nevertheless a most active member of the fleet. His death came as a distinct shock generally and there will, no doubt, be a large crowd present tomorrow to pay their last respects to his memory when the funeral takes place.

The trolling boat Shamrock, belonging to Roy Russ of Port Simpson, fouled her line and sank Thursday morning at the Pruzell float. The boat was towed by Peter Ryan's to Cow Bay where it was beached and pumped out. Though the boat and engine are little the worse of the immersion, there was a good deal of loss through contents of the vessel being ruined by the water.

"Bob" Hanna's Spey nearly came to grief this week with a treacherous tide when the vessel was on a Cow Bay grid. It was only Bob's quick action which prevented serious damage being done to the vessel.

There is no doubt that the withdrawal of the aerial patrol from the salmon fisheries this season has made violations of the regulations much more common than they were when the flying machines were on the job. One of the most serious complaints among the fishermen, who are almost to a man anxious that the more effective patrol should again be inaugurated, is regarding illegal fishing in the creeks. The matter is being brought to the attention of the fisheries authorities in Ottawa. Nothing will deplete the salmon fisheries more quickly than blocking the passage of the fish up the streams and this, it is claimed, has been a very common practice this season.

Jack Lindsay's hunting party was about the only successful one at the end of last week. Five men bagged two deer.

Henry O'Neill, formerly of the Booth School teaching staff here and who was engaged in salmon trolling in Warke Channel this year, sold his boat Nemo to Capt. Perry before he left on a hunting expedition. Capt. Perry in turn sold his former boat, Jeanette, to a Naas River native.

A 28-foot trolling boat is now under construction at the Suga Ways and next week the keel will be laid for another 36-foot seine boat similar to one that is just being completed at that plant.

Louis Amadio was at Port Simpson, the early part of the week overhauling the Delco lighting system in connection with the hospital there.

An 8-10 h.p. Palmer engine has been installed to take the place of an old 3 h.p. Fairbanks Morse in the trolling boat belonging to Joe Krismasson of Osland. Another Osland boat having motor change is the Sheba, belonging to Johnny Johnson, which has had a 4 h.p. legal replaced with a 6 h.p. Vivian.

The Pacific (Coyle) Navigation Co. B.D.M. is due in to Albert McCaffery, with two scows, laden with coal, brick and lumber, from Vancouver.

The Halifax fishing schooner Halligson will represent Canada in the open fishermen's race off Gloucester this month. It has been decided at a special meeting of the directors of the syndicate owning the vessel.

OUR SEA SERPENT

Perhaps the giant "sea serpent" reported frequently in Northern British Columbia waters is merely a wolf-fish of unusually large proportions. That is the theory of Alexander Ohlman, a fisherman, who recently followed the monster four miles in his gasboat.

The creature has been reported so often this season that all fishermen and mariners are keeping a lookout for it, and no longer is its existence doubted, as was the case until a few months ago.

Some enthusiasts in the morning and evening mists have mistaken a squatting Siwash duck or a school of cruising blackfish for the serpent, but many reputable persons have declared

A program for the season has been drawn up and it is arranged that every alternate Friday afternoon will be devoted to school debates, the junior and senior classes holding theirs separately. Next Friday the seniors will debate the subject "Resolved that Vancouver will become a Greater City than New York." Those taking part will be for the affirmative, Miss Rosemary Winslow and Douglas Stewart and for the negative Bruce Stevens and Miss Frances Tremayne. It was decided to publish the High School magazine "Aurora" during the term.

Who Is Who? The World Is Decaying? Yes!

Maany great people with strong feelings, living in the world, do not complain about the world. The world is all right—it's the people in it—those who claim they are high-class and educated, but you will find many of them worse than those who may be more crude and ignorant. Of course, if a trapper catches a poor animal, whether rightly or wrongly, he skins the hide off just the same. This may be cruel. What are these poor animals to do? Will they be freer from cruelty if they are allowed to live a longer time? Are there some acts not as bad as Cannibalism among humans? Great Puzzle of Human Life and Special Message to the People. and more practical regard for human feeling. Do not abuse each other for our own benefits, more especially those who are suffering and forced to work for an existence, while feeling weak. Or why he or she should have to endure offensive slavery for doing our benefits when they are doing all that natural human power can do under our form of business or work. Or why any innocent men or women should be imprisoned for crime by the cruel law—by others keeping silent—or as a result of malicious reports. Let the whole world be made a better place and more congenial by our having more patience and by giving honest advice to each other, rather than to disgrace and discourage so that we may derive more benefits; for we are all of the same humanity, everywhere and in every country. We have all got to live so let's, faithfully and peacefully, by our own produce. Now if I can give more satisfaction in, for dealing, exporting or importing all kinds of goods, or if I can do better artistic portrait work, at reasonable prices—why shouldn't I get a fair share of trade or business—but business or no business, we treat all naturally and faithfully; hoping we have caused no jealousy and cruelty or selfishness and slanderous tongue for not any more money or benefits. More charity, goodwill and kindness and less dishonesty in all human lives in the world is the best education for all.—Alexander T. Eckoff, Commercial Traveller and Gen. Agent.
