ALCOHOLIC POISONING TAKES MANY LIVES

FRED STORK AGAIN NOMINATED LIBERAL CANDIDATE FOR SKEENA RIDING

Bad Liquor Caused 13 People to Die During Week-end in Ontario

TORONTO, July 26.—The death toll from what police believe to be alcoholic poisoning reached thirteen at four points in Ontario. There were three victims at Allansburg, four at Hamilton, four at Oakville and two at Toronto in addition to twelve others who are in a precarious condition. Three arrests have been made at Toronto and one at Hamilton for alleged distribution of liquor.

He also died and it is reported that Bert Dangelo, of Hamilton, has admitted supplying Gill with two one gallon cans of alcohol.

Mrs. C. Forman, of Hamilton, another victim, left a family of six small children. A two month old child is in the hospital now suffering from poisoning.

Mrs. Oliver Guertin, of Toronto, while under examination at police headquarters, died after admitting that she had drunk wood alcohol. The poison began its deadly work with the woman going blind after which a convolution seized her.

At Buffalo four victims are dead from poisonous liquor.

Late advices today stated that thirteen persons were dead at Buffalo and four at Lockport, New York, through drinking poisonous liquor. The authorities are working on the theory that the liquor originated in the United States.

AGAIN NOMINATED

Fred Stork, Liberal Standard bearer for ten years in Skeena riding, was given another unanimous nomination Saturday and it is expected the biggest majority ever given in the constituency will be rolled up for him on September 14. He was born on April 11, 1871, at Bolton, Ontario, of English parentage. He came to British Columbia some thirty years ago and 1904 was elected the first mayor of Fernie. In 1910 he was elected the first mayor of Prince Rupert and in 1917 he entered the arena of federal politics and was elected at home, but the overseas vote gave Col. G. W. Peck, V.G., then serving at the front, a majority over him. After the war, on December 6, 1921, Mr. Stork was elected to the House of Commons over Col. Peck, and he was again successful by a substantial majority over G. G. Bushby, Conservative, and G. W. Nickerson, Progressive, in the 1925 election. J. C. Brady will be his Conservative opponent in the present contest.

Meighen Challenged with Demand That Falsehood be Given Public Repudiation

OTTAWA, July 26.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, has been challenged by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former minister of justice in the Mackenzie King cabinet, with the demand that a statement made by one of Meighen's followers be repudiated and retracted.

In a telegram sent to Meighen by Lapointe, the former minister of justice quotes from a speech said to have been delivered by A. J. Doucet, of Kent, New Brunswick, in which the latter is reported to have referred to an alleged trip of the customs preventative steamer Margaret, in the following words:

"They called at Quebec and took on the minister of justice and friends and had a joy sail down the St. Lawrence as far as Anticosti and Magdalen Islands and, crossing to the north shore, went up the Saguenay and all told were away six weeks."

Denying that he ever took part in such a trip, Lapointe asks Meighen to repudiate the statement which he says "constitutes unequivocal calumny uttered in your presence by one associated with you in your tour through New Brunswick."

Doucet's Statement

Commenting on the above, Mr. Doucet, who was a Conservative member of the customs inquiry committee, said he would accept Mr. Lapointe's denial. "I want to say, however," he added, "that the log book of the Margaret shows that the vessel stopped at the Quebec wharf and took on Lapointe and party. That Lapointe might not have been the former minister of justice, I concede."

In accepting honor, member for five years, speaks with optimism and condemns treacherous tactics of Tories

The convention was presided over by Olof Hanson, president of the Skeena District Liberal Association, and all parts of the large constituency was represented by delegates or proxies, there being over

A sum of money to the amount of nearly $4,000 was taken from the fish packer Chief Zibassa, owned by the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company, sometime between last Friday morning and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, while the boat lay at the Cold Storage dock. The Chief Zibassa, which had recently completed a overhaul at the dry dock, had been equipped for continuing fish buying and packing operations between the Queen Charlotte Islands and the Cold Storage plant and the sum of money had been placed under lock and key aboard.

The provincial police are investigating.

Fred Stork is Again Nominated.

Fred Stork received the nomination of the Liberal Party Saturday night to again contest Skeena riding in the forthcoming federal election contest. For faithful service rendered he deserved the nomination if he was willing to accept it and for the same reason he deserves to be re-elected, as he no doubt will be. While there seems little question as to what the result of the election in Skeena riding will be, the Conservatives have decided to make a fight of it, so the campaign is now on. May it be a good hearted one that develops no ill feeling among the citizens of the north and may all sides be allowed to present their cases.

Fred Stork has served Skeena county faithfully and well during the past five years and has many things to show for his stewardship, all of which will be recounted as the campaign advances. In fact, he has served us so thoroughly that a Vancouver man was heard to say the other day: "Fred Stork thinks of Skeena, and nothing else." It is all right for Vancouver to complain along those lines, but it is the very reason that should decide for the voters of Skeena on September 14 to choose a man who has already given of his best for this country and who has accepted the nomination and is ready to give again of his talents.

Why Are Cans Not Made Here?

A Vancouver despatch says that the can factory there is working twenty hours a day getting out cans for the salmon canneries in this district. The report must be annoying to local people who are anxious to see industries started here. It gives rise to the wonder why these cans used within few miles of Prince Rupert cannot be made right here. Of course, some of the canneries make their own cans, but others do not. It would seem than an industrial opportunity along these lines is waiting at Prince Rupert. Such things as these are what we should strive to get here. Those cans could be made by someone here or we should induce someone to come here and start the business. It would mean quite a little industry for this city.

What About the Song of Ruin?

A gentleman Canada can get along very well without during the coming election campaign is the fellow who tries to make votes for his party by public announcements that the country is headed for ruin. He was as active as a wasp in the campaign last fall, doing his best to convince Canadians that there was no hope for the country unless the policies of the Conservative party were put into effect without delay. For the sake of political power he was ready to besmirch the progress of his own country and to defame the name of Canada.

It might be well to take a look at the facts. The policies of the Conservative party were not put into effect last autumn and have not yet been put into effect. How is the country getting along? If the arguments used from the Conservative platform last September and October were based on fact, Canada today would be standing still. Farmers would be leaving their farms, factories would be shutting their doors, banks would be failing, not a carpenter would be swinging a hammer. Have these things come to pass? Every Canadian knows that they have not; every Canadian knows that the reverse of all this has happened.—Winnipeg Free Press.

deep gratification the wonderful reception that had been given him. No greater tribute could be received than that of one's friends and neighbors and he felt very deeply the honor that had been conferred upon him. Referring to the past campaigns in which he had carried the banner of Liberalism, Mr. Stork said that it had always been his purpose to carry that banner honestly and fairly and it had never been besmirched or soiled by any act of his and never would be.

"I believe," said Mr. Stork, "I know this riding of Skeena better than any man within its borders and, from my association with it, I am assured from every quarter that the biggest majority in its history will be given for Liberalism on September 14. Moreover, from all parts of Canada come assurances that the Mackenzie King government will be returned with a good working majority."

Mr. Stork then proceeded to explain the standings of the parties in the House of Commons during the past year, expressing the belief that the minority of the Liberal party had been due to its candidates being defeated and Conservatives slipping in in three-cornered contests. In the knowledge of the good administration they had given and being in power, the Liberals had been careless about organization in the 1925 election and the Conservatives secured thirty seats as a result of three-cornered fights. "But you may be assured there will be no three-cornered fights in this election," said Mr. Stork as he proceeded to point to such ridings as Oxford in Ontario and Swan River and Dauphin in Manitoba, where Progressives and Liberals were joining forces. All over the prairie provinces Hon. G. A. Dunning was putting a fight in the Liberal party which would be bound to win for Mackenzie King. "Let me tell you," declared Mr. Stork, "Mr. Meighen has no more chance of being premier of Canada than Mr. Brady has of becoming member for Skeena."

Deals With Session

Mr. Stork then proceeded to deal with the recent session of parliament at Ottawa. All parties were in a minority and the Conservatives had insisted that Mackenzie King should resign in spite of the fact that Parliament had decided by its vote that the Liberals should carry on. It was a difficult situation then as it had been in the Parliament previous but, in spite of it all, marvellous work had been done and splendid legislation enacted by the government.

The Conservatives took every possible opportunity to bring about the destruction of the government and like a "swarm of locusts" Conservative organizers and others descended on the capital, prominent among them our friend Joe Merryfield, waiting for the "glorious day when they would come into power."

Speaking of the customs situation, Mr. Stork said that Mr. Stevens had attempted to stampede the house with his attack. In the meantime, however, Mr. Boivin, in office only a few days as the head of the customs department, had caused a private investigation to be started. Hon. Jacques Bureau, former minister, had been bearing the brunt of the attack, but there was not a more upright man than Jacques Bureau. The fact of the matter was that he had been ill a great deal and had not paid a great deal of attention to the department. Irregularities had arisen but there had been irregularities long before Jacques Bureau had ever seen the house. The Merchants' Protective Association asked that smuggling be made a criminal offence and Mr. King caused legislation to that effect to be passed. An investigation was also asked and this too was started, only to have some of the investigators turn over information to Mr. Stevens in some cases even before the department had received it. With such double crossing, what could be expected? "And Mr. Stevens would have you believe that he was the man who discovered the whole thing!" Mr. Stork then proceeded to go into detail into some of the cases that had come before the customs committee, involving Conservatives alike with Liberals.

Result of High Tariff

"The higher the tariff the more profitable smuggling will be," declared Mr. Stork. "The only way to reduce or exterminate smuggling is through free trade." Instead of that the Tories would turn the country over to the big interests and shoot up the tariff. "Why not wipe it out altogether instead of spending fabulous sums to keep officers on the borders?" If manufacturers of Canada could meet the competition of the world in markets abroad why could they not meet the competition at home?

Continuing to deal with the situation at Ottawa, Mr. Stork said that as long as the Grain Act was before the house, the Progressives held Mr. Boivin to be innocent, but when the Grain Act had passed the House and gone to the Conservative senate the Progressives were threatened that if they did not burn Tory in the House their bill would be turned down by the Senate. Then certain Progressives decided that they could not condone the corruption of the government and, when Mackenzie King saw they were selling out, he asked for dissolution. Such Progressives as Campbell, who had interceded successfully with the minister to have a farmer's sentence for bootlegging postponed, and Kennedy, whom Meighen had called a thief, had a sudden change of heart and decided to vote with the Conservatives.

The Conservatives had been careful that the customs probe should be confined to Montreal, but what about British Columbia, the request of which that importation of liquor be prohibited had three times been denied by a Conservative Senate after it had passed the House Commons? What about Vancouver, the city which was represented in the House of Commons by the "high priest of purity," the city where they had just finished hanging two hijackers and the city where bootleggers were so thick that they had to wear badges so they would not try to sell to each other?

Tory Records

What had the Conservatives to offer if returned to power? What men would be in authority? Such men as Foster, Bob Rogers, Garland, Chaplin and Hanson, all of whom themselves had been involved in graft or scandal. They had been howling about the elevator here and crying graft and mismanagement in connection with its lease to the wheat pool? Prince Rupert people would remember, however, the post office site and other matters. At the head of the Conservative party was Arthur Meighen who had said in 1923 that it was his duty to destroy the character of the men who had defeated him in 1921, who had sown seeds of distrust and suspicion against the Liberals, who had deliberately and shamelessly changed the records of Hansard for his own advantage, who was responsible for the War Times Election Act that the people would not soon forget, who had slaughtered the Canadian constitution to make a Tory holiday, who had deprived the people of their franchise, who had ordered, during the Winnipeg strike, that men be deported without trial even though their arrests might have been illegal.

No notification had only been received Friday at the fisheries office, declared Mr. Stork, that the department had reconsidered the matter of fish traps in Portland Inlet district and that a license had been issued to the Canadian Fishing Co. to operate its traps there. This had been done by a Conservative administration whom the House held no right to be in office. It had been done in spite of mass meetings and the petition of some 600 fishermen. Notwithstanding this it had been decided that the big interests and the cannery trust should be allowed its traps. Mr. Stork declared that he felt this matter very keenly. They had been endeavoring to get the industry into the hands of the whites and Indians and bring about complete elimination of the Orientals. It was only the thin edge of the wedge and, if the Conservatives were returned, a continuation and extension of the nefarious trap system might be expected. It made his blood boil that an administration which it had been decided had no right to be there, within thirty days had upset what he had worked for years for.

Back to Charles I.

The manner in which the House had been dissolved had been like a return to the days of Charles I and Oliver Cromwell. Members returning to the House were notified by messengers and page boys that parliament had been dissolved and their services would no longer be required. What the people of Canada wanted to know was if Canada was a self governing Dominion or a crown colony, whether decisions of parliament were to stand or whether its de-

CANADA'S BIG RIFLE SHOOT

D. C. R. A. Meeting Will Open at Ottawa on August 17.

OTTAWA, July 24. (By Canadian Press).—Canada's national rifle shooting meeting, opening August 17, familiarly known as the "D. C. R. A." promises this year to excel any prize meeting held since the year 1913, or before the war, and it is expected that there will be an increase in attendance of competitors of more than 100 from all over the Dominion. Rifle shooting has shown great progress during the past year, and the summer shooting now under way shows a 100 per cent increase in attendance at the various ranges over 1925. Last winter 177 teams took part in the indoor competitions as compared with 126 teams two years ago. Toronto reports 490 men shooting every Saturday, and similar reports come from all the large cities.

The "D. C. R. A." programme this year has not been changed materially from that of last year, but any of the changes made will meet with general approval, particularly that portion which adds 18 prizes to the tail end of each of the important matches, ensuring for the new shot a good chance of coming into the money more frequently than in the past. The Governor General's match will be shot this year in the usual two stages, but the final stage will be at 300 and 900 yards, when 15 shots must be fired at each range. Both ranges of the Bankers' Match will this year be in the Grand Aggregate, and aperture sights will be permitted at all ranges of all the squadded competitions in the aggregate.

King's Medal

The King's Medal competition has been taken out of the middle of the week and will be fired on Friday afternoon as a distinct event. The Gzowski and Dun-Donald matches will be conducted as team events, as they were in the old days at Rockcliffe, and will have no connection with the King's Medal match. The conditions of the King's Medal call for four practices. The first is for deliberate shooting at 600 yards. This will be followed by the fire with movement practice, which means that the competitor will start from 600 yards and fire 10 shots at distances up to 100 yards. The target will be exposed for 45 seconds for each two shots, and in the interval between exposure, which is only 15 seconds, the competitor prepares for the next round. When the target appears he must run to the next firing point, 100 yards away, and fire two shots, all within 45 seconds. The third practice is a rapid fire competition at 300 yards, and this is followed by a snap-shooting test at the same distance. The rapid is ten shots at a standard target, in 40 seconds, and the snapshooting is at a 22-inch disc which is exposed 10 times at irregular intervals.

Added Features

An added feature in the King's Medal match will be a team competition, for teams of four men whose combined scores make the highest total. For this match, General Sir Arthur Currie is offering a valuable trophy, and the competition for this should be very keen.

In the Service Revolver Match, the .45 Colt has been admitted on equal ground with the .455, as a concession to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who are armed with the .45.

An Egg Pool competition will run continuously throughout the week, and valuable prizes are offered daily, besides a valuable list for the aggregates of the week.

In addition to the above there is the usual attractive prize list of all classes of shooting for cadets, tyros and senior shots, for which over $12,000 is offered in cash prizes in addition to the $10,000 worth of trophies. There will be shooting with the .22 rifle. Also, an interesting series of revolver matches, concluding with the military Revolver Championship.

Supreme Test of Skill

What the "King's Prize" is to Bisley, the Governor General's match is to Connaught Range, the supreme test of the rifleman's skill. While it is important to do good shooting in the Governor General's contest, consistent scoring is required throughout the whole week in order to win a place on the Bisley Team for next year, which after all, is the objective of most men who attend the meeting.

Col. D. R. Street will be executive officer, Lt.-Col. R. J. Birdwhistle, assistant executive officer, and Major R. O. Wheatley, chief range officer.

The Association has provided interesting social amusement features, and the attraction each evening is the free entertainment in the big hangar on the ranges. Sixteen competitors from each of the provinces are given free transportation, and in addition a refund of one-fifth of the single fare is made by the Association to all who attend. The prospects for a record meeting are very bright and the week of August 17 should see Connaught Range the scene of the biggest gathering of rifle shots ever assembled in Canada in competition.

HIGHEST SCORE SINCE THE WAR

Made by Lieut. Brass at Shoot of Regiment on McNicholl Creek Range Yesterday

The highest score made on the McNicholl Creek range since the war was turned in yesterday at the weekly shoot of the North B.C. Regiment Rifle Association when Lieut. W. Brass scored a total of 96, having made 32 at each of the three distances. Incidentally, Lieut. Brass won his third spoon this season.

The scores for the day were as follows:

200	500	600
W. Brass	32	32
R. W. Cameron	32	29
H. Floyd	32	27
R. Davidson	31	28

SPORT CHAT

Tonight's Mobley Cup of city championship football game between the Grand Terminals and Moose should be an interesting affair as these two teams have been on pretty even terms in point of play throughout this season. True the Moose are rather far in the hole with not a single victory in this series yet to their credit but the tide may change for them. Otherwise the Cold Storage will be right on the heels of the Grand Terminals for the league honors. The Moose will field the following team: Black; Skinner and Hunter; Mitchell, Currie and Tinker; Hodkinson, G. Mitchell, Cheneski, Russell and Gurvich; reserves: Campbell, Baker and Cameron.

Roy Cliff, the Vancouver Island light heavyweight ace, has been matched to meet Charlie Belanger, the "Cannondading Canuck," in a ten-round bout in Vancouver on Thursday, July 29. Belanger is the former Canadian Olympic and Pan-American amateur champion, who turned professional not quite a year ago, and has been bowing over the best of the light heavies since then. In seventeen professional starts Belanger has already stacked up against some of the best in the country, including such battlers as Jack Roper, Young Bob Fitzsimmons, Ernie Owens, Ted Snyder, Ted Morris and Benny Touchstone. As a comparison between the respective merits of Cliff and Belanger in their coming battle, both have met Jack Roper, Cliff breaking even with Roper in two starts, while Belanger beat him handily. In his bout with Ernie Owens, who decisioned Cliff several times, Belanger again has the edge in dope on Cliff, having dropped a close one to Owens after having him on the floor.

DOMINION DAY HIS SUBJECT

"Go to Canada and Make a Fortune," Says Lord Beaverbrook

The following speech by Lord Beaverbrook was broadcast in England on Dominion Day and was reported in the Daily Express the next day:

This is Dominion Day, which commemorates the foundation of the Dominion of Canada. The title was chosen from the sentence in the Bible which declares "Thy Dominion shall be from sea to sea"—and Canada looks out eastward to the Atlantic and westward to the Pacific.

I am glad to speak to you tonight because, like all Canadians, I am proud of my own birthright, and I am also loyal to our common Empire.

People over here often get very wrong ideas of Canadian politics and sentiments. That is because they are informed by those who do not understand Canada as the native born alone can. They cannot perceive that an intense local patriotism is perfectly compatible with a strong devotion to the Empire.

The proof of this loyalty to the Imperial cause can be found in Canada's past—most of all in her very recent past.

The contribution of Canada to the war consisted in the first place of 600,000 men in the field. In money her government advanced 250 millions, and her private banks 60 millions—310 millions in all. In these very concrete forms—men and cash—she proved her devotion to the common cause.

But let us look to the future and deal with the practical. What does Canada offer to Great Britain?

It offers the career to talent—the field of opportunity to the young man of ambition and character in the homeland. It is to the young men here who feel cramped in their opportunities and are capable of daring and endurance that I make a special appeal. They will find that Canada offers to them, but in a higher degree, what it gave their forefathers, who made it.

Great Opportunities

It presents in the swelling hope of its prosperity an immense chance to make money. Let the young man who is not afraid of his destiny go out and make that money. If he likes he can come back and spend it in the Old Country before his hair is noticeably grey.

As this is Dominion Day I speak as a visitor to the capital. The Colonial subjects of the King can look with detachment on the strength and weaknesses of the English character. And it is well that you should absorb in this way the men from the outer marches. And it is well also that these, when they pitch their tents among you, should never forget their provincial standpoint.

You have founded upon native character the greatest Empire since the days of Rome. The veneration for precedent—the attachment to the home farm—the loyalty to a trade union—the love of order even in the middle of internal strife—these are great qualities for a nation to possess. But in themselves they are not enough.

"WILD JUSTICE" IS EXCITING PICTURE AROUND MURDER

Peter the Great, the new marvel dog of the screen, comes to the Westholme theatre tonight and Tuesday in his latest thrilling starring picture, "Wild Justice."

Filmed in the lovely snow country of the High Sierras, "Wild Justice" presents a rapid succession of exciting events against the majestic background of the snow-clad hills.

The story revolves around a mysterious murder, and presents Peter the Great in an almost-human role. The great dog performs miracles of athletic prowess and demonstrates amazing intelligence.

"Wild Justice" has an unusually well-balanced cast, headed by George Sherwood, Frances Teague and Frank Bagney.

WEBSTER'S NOVEL MAKES GREAT FILM

Lewis Stone, Shirley Mason and Other Favorites in "What Fools Men"

An absorbing pictorial narrative of a dominant personality who could only be affected by opposition from one of his own flesh and blood—that is Joseph Greer as he will be pictured upon the screen at the Westholme Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday by Lewis Stone in "What Fools Men," a cinematic version of the Henry Kitchell Webster novel, "Joseph Greer and His Daughter."

Greer comes from the seclusion of African jungles and steps out of the isolation of a scientist's life to "cut in" on the profits of an invention of his of great commercial value, for which he obtains the backing of a coterie of financiers.

"The Iron Horse" reveals the thrilling life of this period of American history with telling effect. George O'Brien, J. Farrell MacDonnell and Madge Bellamy have the leading roles.

crossed the prairie, when Kit Carson rode one horse steadily, day after day, for 4,000 miles. The little animal became so shy of Indians that he would leave the ground at the sight of a feather. But Carson got through with government mail, small express packages and money.

The express commenced transcontinental business with the completion of the railroad in 1869. William F. Haraden had commenced the first express business between Boston and New York on March 4, 1839. In 1840 Alvin Adams established his express service. Wells Fargo first had the pony express with Buffalo Bill Cody as the chief rider.

With the opening of the railroad, the express business became one of the most important and the most picturesque in existence. Express guards worked across the plains with their guns always in reach. Many a good man died defending his little wooden car from attack from Indians and bandits. They asked no quarter and gave none.

"The Iron Horse" reveals the thrill of the day of this period of American history with telling effect. George O'Brien, J. Farrell MacDonnell and Madge Bellamy have the leading roles.
