Another Letter to Ottawa

THE "due consideration" being given in Ottawa to the Chamber of Commerce resolution calling for a land airport here should, in turn, receive some reciprocal due consideration by Prince Rupert now that former Fisheries Minister Mayhew is moving to Japan.

In any cabinet shuffle it may be expected that new considerations will not be taken up exactly where the old ones were left. Like the ministers themselves, they become slightly shuffled, too.

Although it is not known exactly what position the Chamber of Commerce resolution occupied in the pack, the prefix "due" does not suggest any substantial priority. On the contrary, that is more a secretarial code word than that of a minister strongly impressed by the issue in question.

With two B.C. men newly installed in the cabinet, the Prince Rupert airport problem should, on the face of it, fare better than before. At the same time, there has been no indication so far that it is to enjoy the major rating on the west coast which, for example, will be given to the proposed sale of the Vancouver airport to the federal government.

If that is the case, it must be changed. As Fisheries Minister Sinclair is evidently to be responsible for the smooth operation of Liberal affairs in B.C. outside Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo, he would appear to be the man most able to do it.

At the risk of being repetitious, therefore, it would seem that the Chamber of Commerce has another letter to write—this time to Mr. Sinclair.

Get Out of Columbia

BY THE SMALL and seemingly purposeless act of contesting the forthcoming by-election in the Columbia riding the Liberals may be handing the provincial government over to the CCF.

If this is their intention, the plan is well designed as there could hardly be a cheaper and more simple way of effecting a change of government. By drawing a few votes away from the other free enterprise party, Social Credit, they would greatly improve the chances of the CCF candidate. Should the latter win, his party will immediately have a plurality in the House, no matter what happens in the Similkameen by-election being held the same day.

This is so because in the one-seat margin which Social Credit now holds there is no room for anything but 100 per cent success. Fifty per cent will definitely not be good enough.

Without a plurality in the House, Premier Bennett would be faced with a pressing moral obligation of resigning and recommending forthwith to the Lieutenant-Governor that Harold Winch be invited to form a new government. There may be ways of avoiding this drastic step, but in any case the Social Credit party's position would be considerably weakened and that of CCF correspondingly strengthened.

While this may be the Liberals' intention, it is very doubtfully so. Old scores are not settled that quickly, nor lines of policy changed that readily. More likely they are moved by a desire to remain in public view on the scene of attack, even though the single victory would mean little to them. The traditional policy of contesting anything in sight probably finds a responsive chord in many a party warrior anxious to join battle again.

Although the mood is understandable, it is not necessarily wise. With little to gain and a great deal to lose, there seems to be nothing in the battle for the Liberals except some blood-letting, much of which may be their own.

SPITBALLS 'OUT' TO WAKEN SLEEPING AUSSIE MEMBERS

CANBERRA, Australia (Reuters)—Spitballs must not be used to awaken sleeping members of parliament, the House of Representatives ruled today.

"I will not have paper balls thrown around," said House Speaker Archie Cameron after a new flurry.

Last week he chastised an opposition member for hurling several spitballs at a snoozing government member after a book slid off the man's relaxed chest.

Hon. Abbott Replies

IN A RECENT open letter to the Minister of Finance I suggested using surplus treasury funds to redeem Canadian securities held in U.S.A. and asked whether we could not this keep the Canadian and U.S. dollars at par.

Hon. Douglas Abbott replies:
Ottawa, Oct. 10, 1952.
Dear Mr. Philpott,

"I thank you for your kindness in sending to me the clipping from a newspaper of an article written by you on the Government surplus and the prevailing premium on the Canadian dollar.

"You are quite incorrect in assuming that I am worried by the size of the surplus. You may recall that I budgeted this year for a surplus of only $9 million, which means, of course, a practical balance of revenue and expenditure. On several occasions recently I have stated that after reviewing the trends of our revenues and expenditures over the last five or six months, I shall be very happy indeed if by the end of the year we have achieved a balanced budget. Anyone who examines with care the statements of government finances which I issue each month will, I think, understand why I make that statement.

"Even if we succeed in achieving some modest surplus, there will be ample need for it. As I am sure you realize, I must find the money to make very substantial loans for housing purposes, for capital expenditures of the Canadian National Railways and many other Crown enterprises, for Veterans Land Act purposes and for increasing our exchange reserves. Cash requirements for such purposes are not included in budgetary expenditures and the money must be found from other sources. If the surplus is not large enough to finance the excess of such non-budgetary loans and advances over cash receipts from certain non-budgetary sources, then the excess can only be financed by additional borrowing.

"So there is not that large budgetary surplus available to 'kill two birds with one stone,' as you suggest. This is one of the holes in your argument. I shall not attempt to discuss in a brief letter the second part of your proposal, which involves deliberate intervention by the Government of Canada to depress artificially the value of the Canadian dollar in terms of the U.S. dollar. This is a very complicated subject I shall attempt to deal with on some later occasion in a more appropriate way.

Yours very truly,
D. C. ABBOTT."

I THANK the Minister for giving us all such a clear, frank statement of his financial reasoning. Incidentally I have never been among the critics of those surpluses, large or small. I am all for finance ministers who get us out of debt. The only other one I remember who did that well was the old miller, the late Jim Robb.

Most readers who have written me about the suggestion to peg both country's dollars at par agree it would be desirable. One man who knows much about the tourist business says we will suffer heavily otherwise. But most with technical knowledge of finance doubt its feasibility. Mr. John R. Horne-Payne writes "the very fact of redeeming any more debt would in the present circumstances increase the premium on the Canadian dollar."

Canada's Growth Rests With Its People

NEW YORK. — Canada has advanced in a few decades from a colony to a major industrial and trading nation and now offers the brightest opportunity in the world for investment capital, according to S. W. Fairweather, Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian National Railways.

Speaking to the New York Society of Security Analysts, Mr. Fairweather outlined some of the factors responsible for his country's current industrial boom. The dominant factor guiding this development, he said, had been the vision and determination of Canada's people.

"Make no mistake—wealth will be had in Canada, not fortuitously but as the result of careful planning and hard work," said Mr. Fairweather. "The development I have described, spectacular as it has been, is but the fulfilment of the vision of an earlier day, the fruit of skill, perseverance and toil. The future holds the promise of greater accomplishment fulfilling an ever-enlarging vision.

"Canada uses more railway transportation per capita than any other country in the world," he noted. "And we also produce that transportation at a lower unit cost than any other country in our western world. Were it not for the cheap transportation which only an efficient railway can supply, our vast northern forests, broad agricultural plains and mining areas would lie useless and unexploited."

MANUFACTURING

Canada's development was still based largely on her extractive industries, he said, but in recent years a wide variety of industries making finished goods had been established. Because of Canada's high standard of living and increasing population, her domestic markets were expanding.

Many of Canada's new developments were being built on a large pattern and required large aggregations of capital and management.

"The Lynn Lake development of Sherritt-Gordon calls for the investment of $60,000,000 before one pound of nickel is produced.

"The Kitimat development of the Aluminum Company of Canada will cost more than $500,000,000, and the oil pipe line to the Pacific coast $80,000,000."

So far, United States investments in Canada amounted to some $7½ billions, he said, but on a per-capita basis, Canadians had an even greater investment in the United States—by more than $2½ billions. Mr. Fairweather pointed out that it was a mistake to conclude that Canada's industrial expansion was being financed entirely by American capital; more than 70 per cent of her requirements were coming from individual and corporate savings of Canadians, and "in addition, Canada

Cambrai Chapter of IODE Holds Busy October Meet

Nineteen members turned up at the home of Mrs. A. A. Millar for the monthly meeting of Cambrai Chapter, IODE, and enjoyed a busy evening planning future work and hearing of the past month's achievements.

A very successful bake sale was held at the end of September in the Northern B.C. Power Company's showroom, it was reported. Other IODE Chapters assisted with contributions to this sale.

Mrs. J. Munthe reported that all the woollens collected at the last meeting had been forwarded to England. Nine blankets had been received. These had been made from old woollens collected by the members and are to be forwarded to needy causes in Britain.

Verna Graham the IODE scholarship winner, is now registered at U.B.C., the meeting was advised.

Members were asked to donate to the Women's Co-ordinating Council's tea and cake sale to collect funds for the "Over Seventy" annual dinner. All members brought groceries to be included in the IODE grocery raffle at this tea.

Plans for the Governor General's visit to Prince Rupert this month were outlined by the Municipal Regent, Mrs. G. G. Withers.

Further plans were discussed for the annual November bazaar and members resolved to make this the best ever. Bill Scuby has presented a fur neckpiece to be used as a door prize at the bazaar, it was reported.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

You're Still Ahead When You "Lose One, Gain Two"

Mr. Abel's "stinginess" lost him this contract. Thousands of similar contracts are lost because of the declarer's unwillingness to follow the principle of "lose one, gain two."

Now, from the bidding, it appeared to Mr. Abel that the ace of spades was almost surely in Mr. Muzzy's hand. After pulling trumps, he led a spade and put up dummy's queen. But Mr. Dale showed up with the ace and he won and returned the jack of spades, driving out dummy's king.

With two tricks already lost, there was nothing lost to try but the diamond finesse and when that was wrong, the hand was set. On winning with the king of diamonds Mr. Muzzy managed to return a spade to Mr. Dale's good ten.

Mr. Abel's thinking didn't go far enough. True, the bidding indicated that Mr. Muzzy had some high cards outside the club suit. He might have both the king of diamonds and the ace of spades, but surely he had one or the other.

The best play, then, was to lead a little diamond from the closed hand at trick three. If Mr. Muzzy had the king he would have to play it or go without any diamond tricks. And when he did, two spades could be discarded later on the third and fourth diamond leads.

If Mr. Dale did turn up with the king of diamonds, then the ace of spades had to be in Mr. Muzzy's hand and successive leads up to the king-queen of spades in dummy would hold the losers in that suit to one.

Funeral Held For City Pioneer Woman

The funeral of Mrs. C. P. McMeekin, who died last Tuesday, was held in the First Presbyterian Church with Dr. E. A. Wright officiating.

A pioneer of this city, Mrs. McMeekin, 85, was the wife of the founder of a wholesale distributing agency here, Mr. Thomas McMeekin.

Other survivors are two sons, David and Thomas of this city; two daughters, Mrs. F. J. (Margaret) Kearley, Prince Rupert, and Mrs. R. (Catherine) Wilson of Terrace; two sisters, Mrs. Walter Longwell of this city and Mrs. James Campbell of Vancouver; and a brother, David Stewart of Vancouver.

Active pallbearers were James Simpson, L. C. Eby, E. J. Smith, Dave Ritchie, George Scott and George Abbott.

Mrs. E. J. Smith was the organist and hymns sung were "The Lord is my Shepherd" and "Jesus, Saviour Pilot."

Many floral tributes were received.

Out-of-town visitors to attend the funeral were Mrs. McMeekin's sister, Mrs. Campbell; and her daughter, Mrs. Wilson of Terrace.

Burial was in Fairview cemetery. Arrangements were in charge of B.C. Undertakers.

Children Provide Lesson In Saving

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal's school children started a savings plan for its 106,000 pupils. Since the plan was started, the pupils have deposited a total of $1412,975. There have been withdrawals of course, but the balance still stands at $1,000,000.

The plan was started by the school board, which has a committee to see that the children's savings are properly handled. The committee is made up of the school board, the city of Montreal, and the Montreal Catholic school commission when it comes to saving.

At the time the plan was started, the school board had a surplus of $100,000. Since then, the pupils have deposited a total of $1412,975. There have been withdrawals of course, but the balance still stands at $1,000,000.

Alderman Urges City Complete Sewer, Water Works Program

Alderman Darrow Gomez wants to know why water and sewer work scheduled for 1952 has not been completed.

"The year has almost gone and some of our water lines are not built. Some haven't even been started. We may get a new council next year and while I'm here I'd like to see these things done."

He also told council that the Park Board started to build a playground at Plaza Park and asked why it wasn't completed.

(The Park Board spent several hundred dollars bulldozing the Park before running out of money allocated to it in the 1952 budget.)

Alderman Gomez said that in the summer there's always a shortage of workers but with the fishing season now over "there should be plenty of men available to work on these projects."

He suggested hiring additional men to complete the work before

"the year runs out and finds us still not even started"

CRITICIZES AIRLINES

Ald. Gomez also criticized Canadian Pacific Airlines for "not fixing the hangar roof"

Informed by city clerk Bill Long that the city leases the hangar at Seal Cove to CPA and repairs and maintenance are the responsibility of the airline, Ald. Gomez said "CPA should be forced to fix the roof. It's been leaking for months."

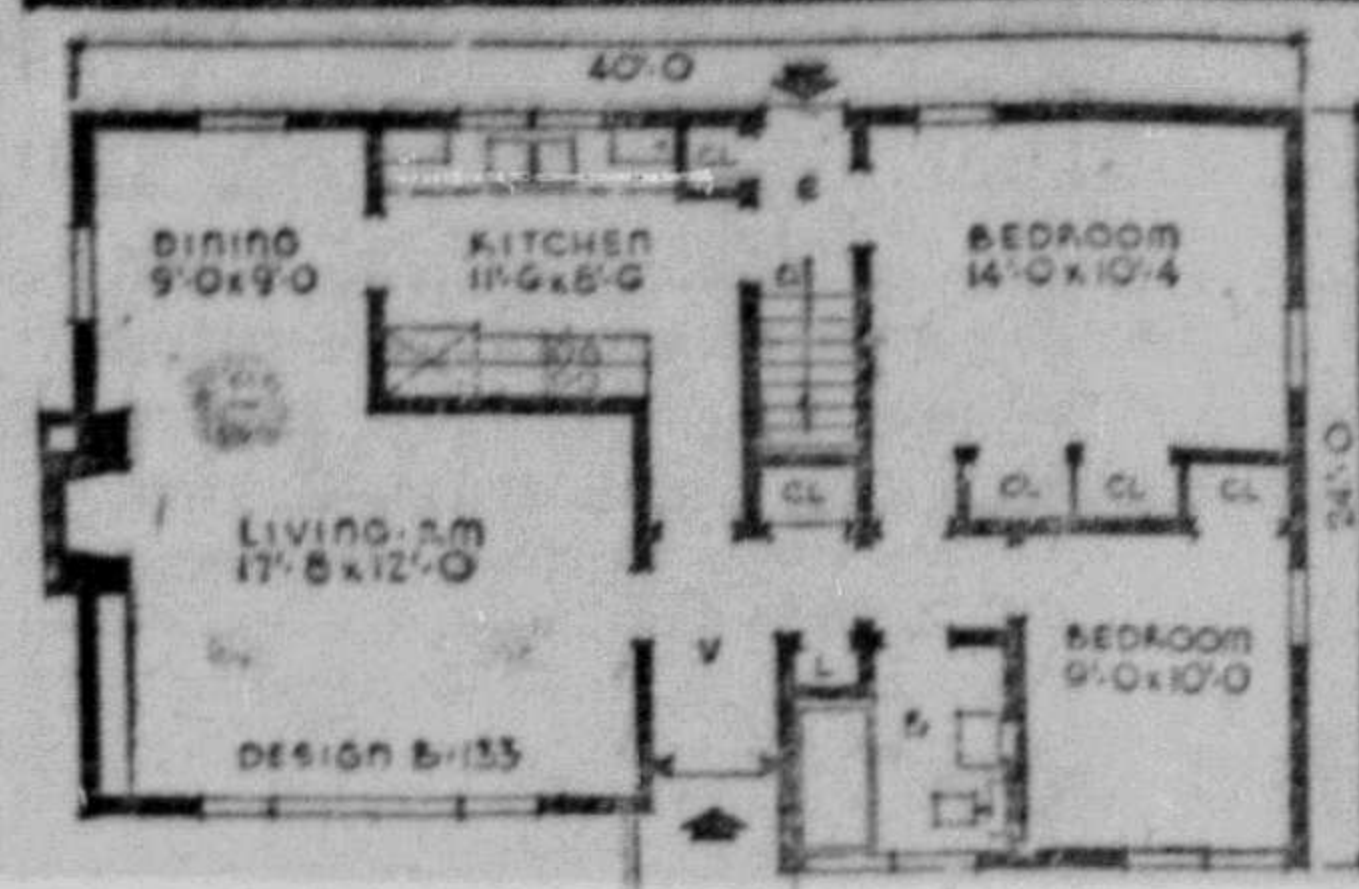

Mr. Long said CPA had received instructions to do the work from W. A. Lawson, inspector of airways in B.C., during his visit here a month ago, and he believed CPA planned to fix the roof "as soon as weather permits."

"They should be forced to do it," said Ald. Gomez, adding that if the roof is not fixed soon water will cause the timber to rot and eventually ruin the hangar.

GROUND FOR DIVORCE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP)—A woman was granted a divorce in supreme court here on the grounds that her husband is serving a life sentence. The husband was sentenced to death after a jail-break in which a warder was killed, but the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Septic Tanks for New Houses Outlawed by Health Officer

The health officer here has refused to grant Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation permission to construct septic tanks at three homes in the new housing development on Atlin Avenue.

William De Silva, CMHA inspector, told city council about his predicament and sought permission to construct "some cheaper wooden tanks until a sewer is built past the homes."

Alderman Ray McLean questioned the right of the health officer to issue instructions and council endorsed a motion to have city clerk Bill Long contact city solicitor Thomas W. Brown, QC, regarding the ruling.

The homes are located on Atlin between 13th and 14th Street. City works superintendent Don Stewart, when asked cost of building a sewer for the homes, said he estimated it "at about $7,000."

Mr. De Silva explained that cost of concrete tanks was about $2,700.

Mr. Stewart told council that a sewer along Atlin would serve only a few homes on one side of the street and that city lots on the north side are too low to be served by the sewer.

The matter was tabled until the next council meeting.

Mr. De Silva also sought council's decision in connection with building sidewalks in front of the homes in Section Two.

Under the building contract, CMHC will build sidewalks from the homes to the property line.

City Clerk Long explained that the city is not responsible for building sidewalks from the property line to the city sidewalk and "Prince Rupert made that quite clear when signing the contract."

He said the owner is respon-

Victoria Carries Heavy Load Of Responsibility—Massey

VICTORIA, Oct. 15 (CP) — Terming Victoria "the west beyond the west," Governor-General Vincent Massey said the capital city bears an especially heavy responsibility in the building of "this great land."

The Governor-General was replying to an address of welcome by Mayor Claude L. Harrison at a civic reception at city hall.

"Each community in our country has a different part to play in the building of this great land," said the Governor-General "Victoria here on the west coast — bears an especially heavy responsibility."

"This role, as a Pacific community, was cast by geography and written by history."

He then reviewed briefly Victoria's history, displaying a thorough knowledge.

In the past 11 decades, he continued, Victoria has been a centre of law, learning and civilization.

"You have harbored schools as well as ships. Your homes have encouraged music and welcomed art. Here truly is the vigor of a new world softened by the memory of the old. But Victoria is far from being a city only of leisured beauty. It is an industrial centre and a port of great commercial importance and immense strategic significance," said Governor-General Vincent Massey.

Noting Victoria's contribution to the defence of Canada has not been solely naval, he said in two wars the 1st Battalion C.E.F. and the Canadian Scottish have fought gallantly and successfully.

3 Important
Public Roles?
(Millions do!)

1 Millions of Canadians help to improve their communities by owning life insurance. For a large part of their premium payments is invested for them in ways that provide many new roads, power plants, waterworks, stores, homes and other useful developments.

2 Several medical research projects likewise depend in part on life insurance policyholders. It is a portion of their money which insurance companies contribute to research on child health, heart diseases, polio, the processes of aging and other vital studies.

3 The man who owns adequate life insurance does his fellow-citizens a service by providing financial independence for his family. For, if anything happens to him, his family will not be a burden on others.

In these and other ways, millions of life insurance policyholders are building security for the future—and helping to make Canada a better land to live in!

A Lot of Blood on the Floor, Also Beer

Witnesses Tell of Fight on Boat

Preliminary hearing of a charge of murder against James Dudoward, 25-year-old Port Simpson native, was scheduled to resume in police court this morning before Magistrate W. D. Vance.

The hearing, which began last Friday, continued all day Saturday with additional police evidence and statements from two young girls who were aboard the fishboat Laura Louise last Sept. 5 when a fight ensued which culminated in the death of Wilfred White.

When court resumed Saturday morning Constable Earl L. McPhee corroborated the evidence given the previous day by Constable I. E. M. Hutchinson.

Under questioning by Crown Prosecutor Thomas W. Brown, Q.C., he related how he and Constable Hutchinson answered a call to the Laura Louise at the Shell Oil Dock and found Wilfred White suffering from a severely gashed face and neck.

White, 49, died in hospital about three hours after he was admitted. Dr. W. R. Wilson said he died from loss of blood.

Constable McPhee said he went to get first aid on seeing White covered with blood but was unable to obtain same and returned from the Shell Oil office with only a large piece of cloth which he gave the deceased to hold his cheek in place.

Police testified earlier that White was holding his cheek in his hand and asked them to cut it off. He was also "bleeding profusely from the back of his head."

Constable McPhee said he and Constable Hutchinson took White to hospital and then drove Dudoward to the city jail. He said that during the trip to hospital he—like Constable Hutchinson—noticed the blood spilling from a gash behind White's left ear.

In answer to questions by defence counsel Doug Hogarth, he said that when he and Constable Hutchinson arrived at the boat, Dudoward was standing on the dock with an empty beer bottle in his hand and said "This is the bottle I used on him."

He testified that Constable Hutchinson obtained exhibits which were submitted in court from the boat; he did not know from where, except that it was in the cabin portion of the boat.

Constable John Godkin, fingerprint expert, photographer and draftsman for the RCMP, told of arriving here the day after White died in hospital, and of taking a series of pictures and drawing a scale map of the boat.

He also testified that he took fingerprints of White on Sept. 7 and that some jars containing the brain, liver and other parts of White's body, a pair of work pants, beer bottle and two envelopes containing hair were taken to Regina for examination by RCMP.

He said he found no decipherable fingerprints on parts of beer bottles submitted in court.

Answering Mr. Hogarth, he said he had no idea what was in the jars he took to Regina.

After the noon adjournment, Arnold Sankey of Port Simpson was called to the stand by Mr.

Brown. He told of sleeping on the boat throughout the day, and that he had no knowledge of the fight which took place during the late afternoon between White and Dudoward only a few paces from where he was asleep.

He said he went to the boat between 6:30 and 7 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 5 with White and Ruth Wesley after meeting them in a cafe here. He took a bottle of rum aboard.

Sankey testified that they drank rum and beer for some time before he went to sleep.

Ruth Wesley, who also lives at Port Simpson, said Kathleen Dames, formerly of Hazelton, was staying with her when White asked them to go for a boat ride on the night of Sept. 4.

She said they intended to go to Wark Canal, a 45-minute run from Port Simpson, and that there were three cases of beer aboard at the time.

After obtaining gasoline there for the boat, they headed back but did not go to Port Simpson.

She said she went to sleep enroute to Prince Rupert and on arrival here she and White went to a cafe where they met Sankey. After their return she went to sleep and when she awoke "there were 10 cases of beer aboard."

She said White was arguing with Jimmy during the day but that it did not reach serious proportions until after Dudoward told White to "take a case of beer and bottle of rum and leave."

After he refused, the two men continued to argue and while Dudoward was attempting to start the engine of the boat, "Willie grabbed a hammer, wrench and screw driver and threw them at Jimmy."

"Jimmy grabbed two beer bottles and broke them on the exhaust pipe."

By this time, said witness, White had descended some steps to where Dudoward was standing and a fight ensued.

"I saw Jimmy hit Willie on the back of the head but that's all I ran up on deck. Kathy came up a few seconds later."

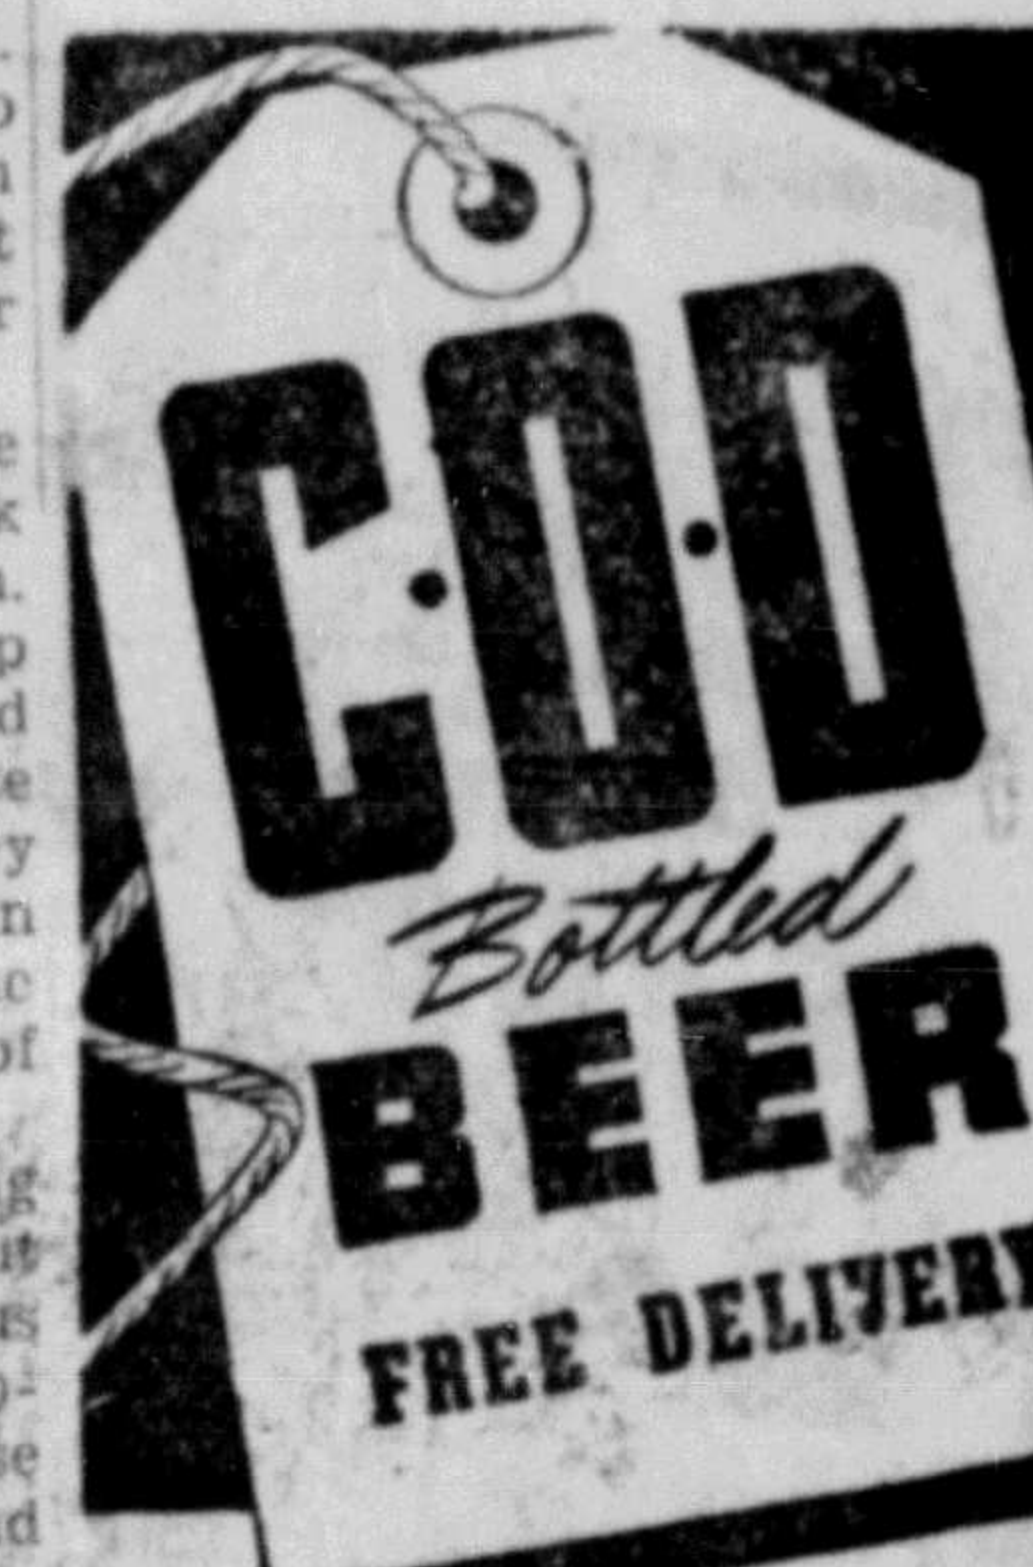

She said White and Dudoward followed shortly afterwards.

Asked by Mr. Hogarth if she thought White was drunk at the time of the fracas, she said: "Yes."

Kathleen Dames told a similar story except to say she watched the fight "which started when Willie refused to get off the boat until he got his own bottle of rum."

She said there was a lot of blood on the floor after the fight and that beer also had spilled on the floor.

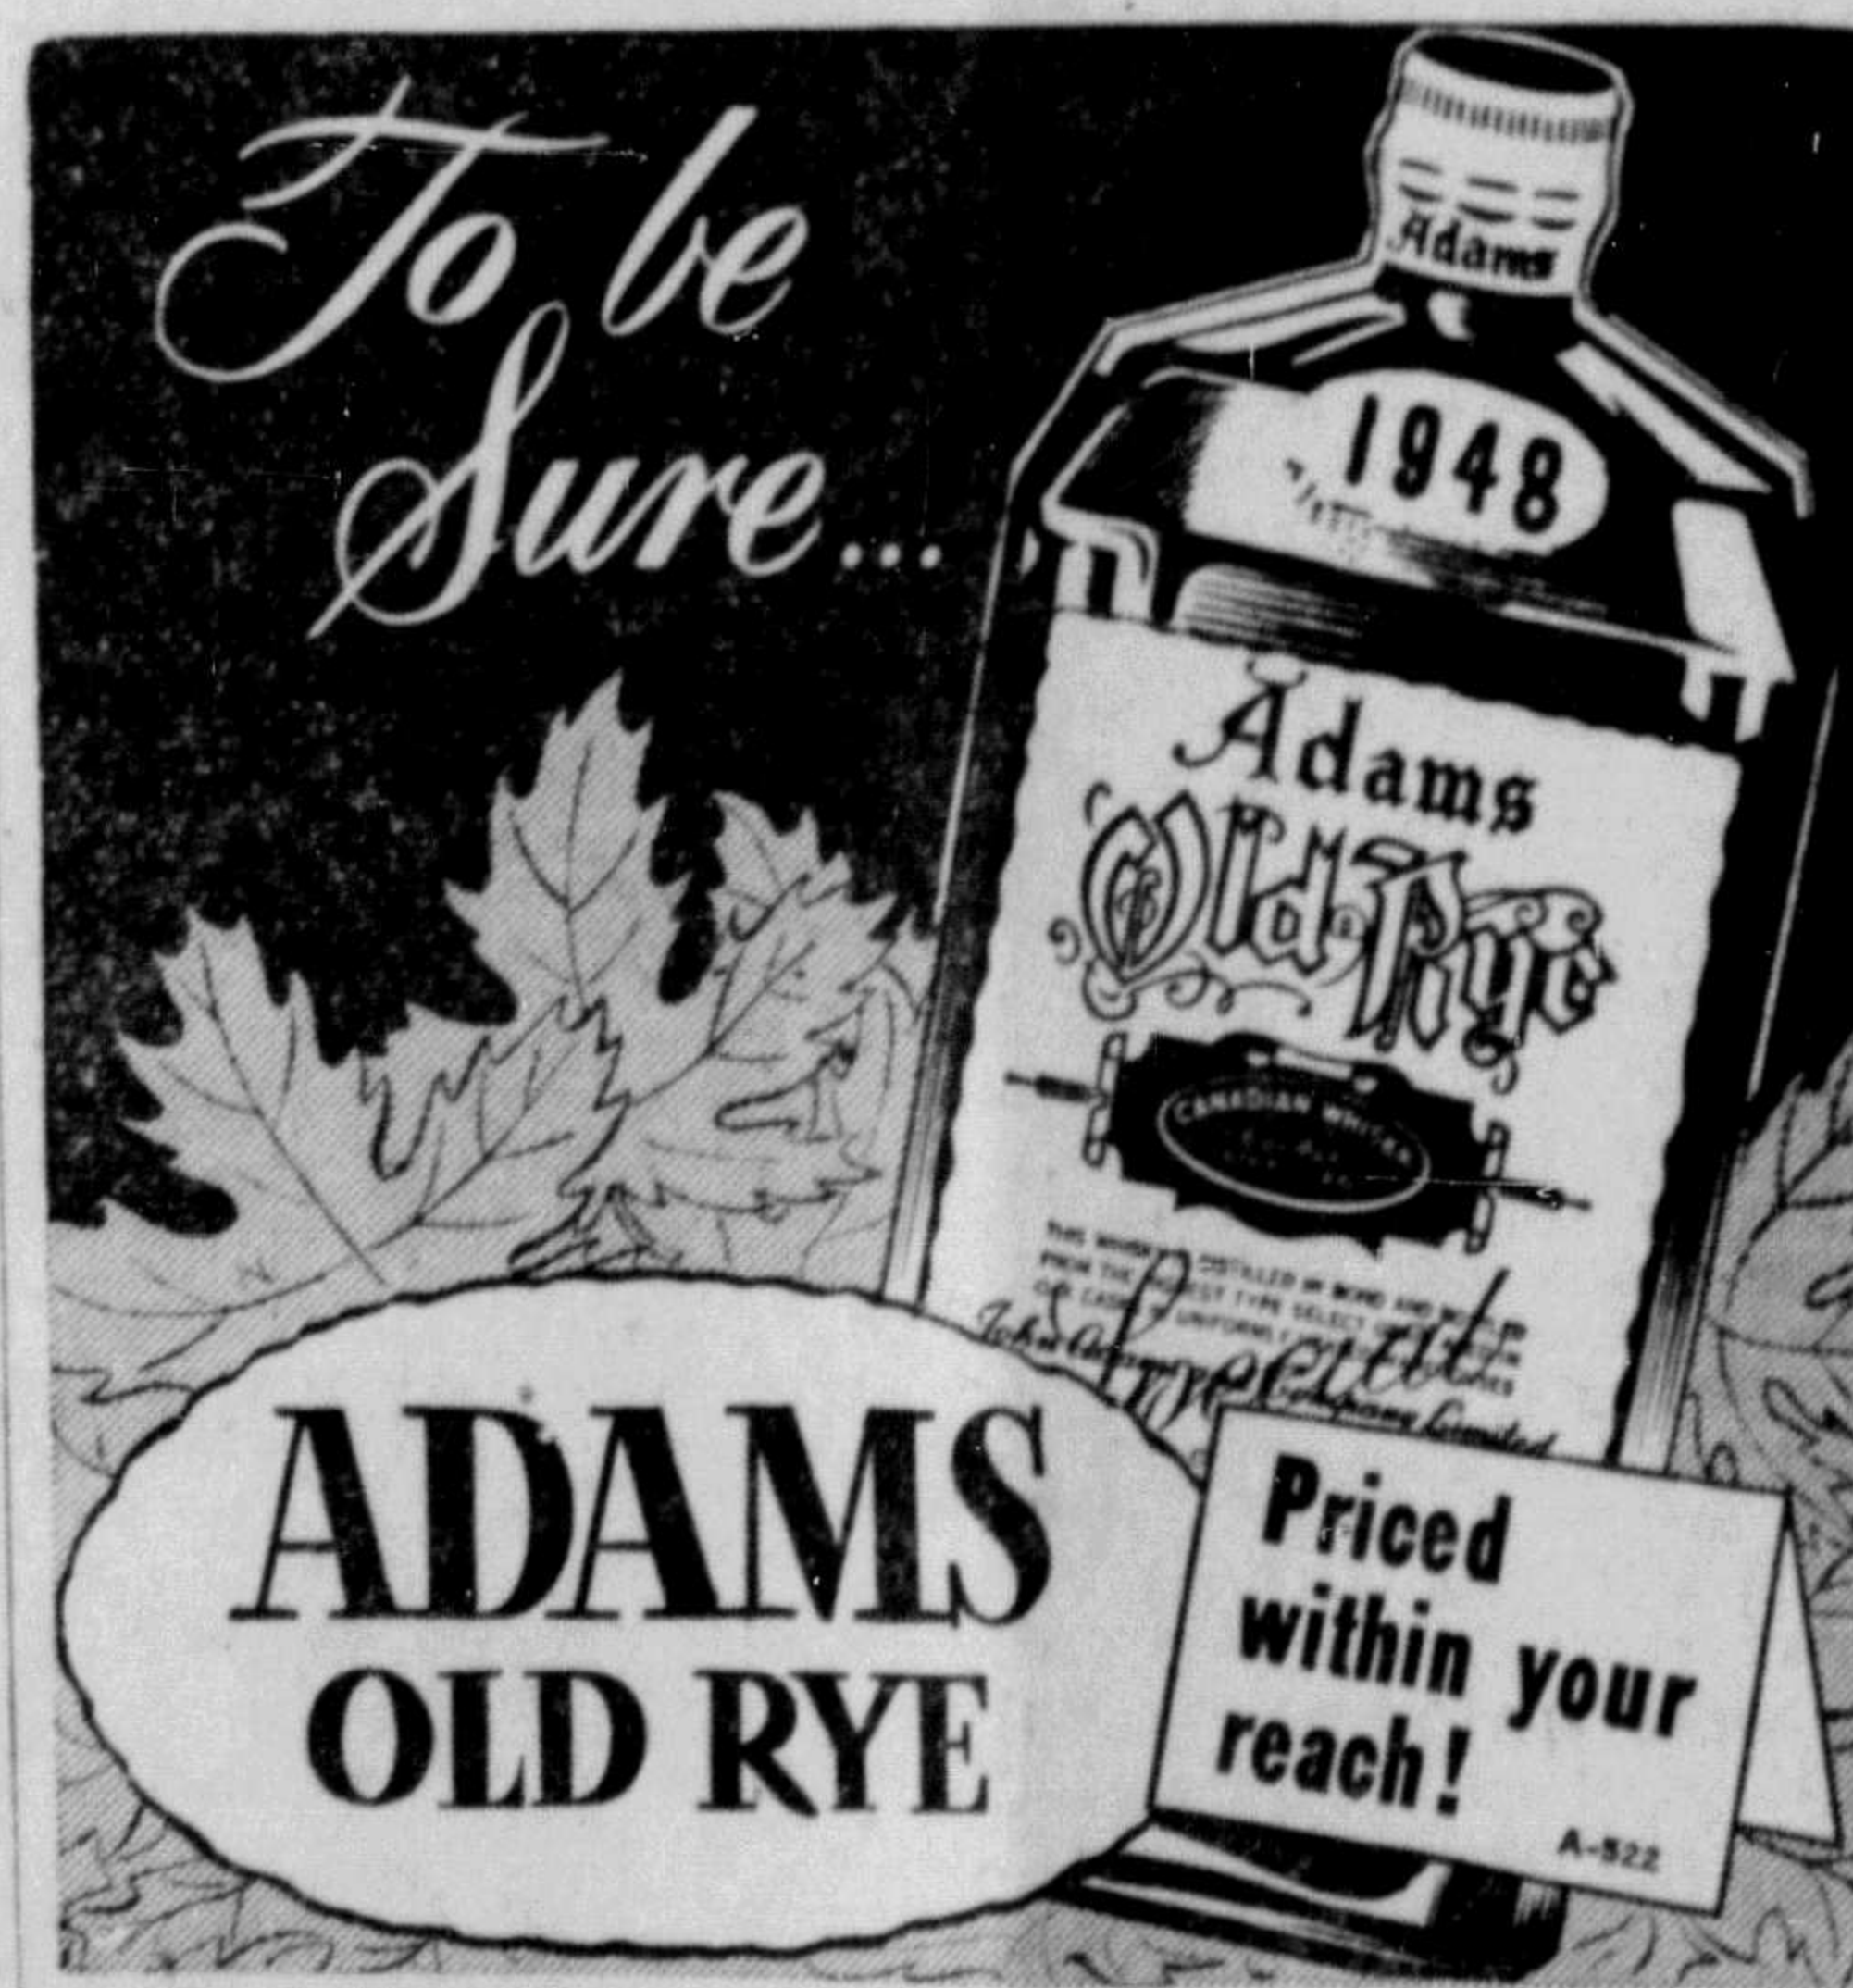

Mr. Hogarth, on completion of his examination, asked Magistrate Vance for time to check the mass of evidence before His Worship made a ruling and was granted the request.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actors are getting into the political arena again.

During the Franklin D. Roosevelt years the acting breed was vocal in support of candidates and issues. Following the war, widespread political activity in Hollywood was lacking because too many actors had been stung by supporting the wrong causes.

Now, issues appear more clearly defined, and Hollywood names are beating the drums for the campaigners. Stars such as Irene Dunne, George Murphy, Rosalind Russell and Dick Powell are booming for Eisenhower. The Stevenson bandwagon has drawn such adherents as Ethel Barrymore, Robert Ryan, Ava Gardner and the Humphrey Bogarts.

SOME RAN

Although actors have been active campaigners, they have seldom run for office, with a few exceptions.

Two years ago, Congress had two former acting figures. One was Helen Gahagan Douglas, Democratic representative from California. The wife of actor Melvyn Douglas, she was a stage and operetta star and appeared in one movie, "She." Mrs. Douglas was defeated in the Senate race by Richard Nixon, now Republican vice-presidential candidate.

The other was John Lodge (Rep. Conn.), now the governor of his state and a leader in the fight to nominate Eisenhower. He played in many films of the early 30s, including "The Scarlet Empress" with Marlene Dietrich and "The Little Colonel" with Shirley Temple.

Albert Dekker served a term in the California legislature, but said he gave up politics because he couldn't afford it. His pay as a representative was $1,200 a year, about what he could earn in a week in the movies.

Another politico-performer is Jimmy Davis, former governor of Louisiana who has appeared in cowboy pictures.
