The expedition is all American, backed by prominent alumni of Harvard, Yale and Princeton universities and the University of Pennsylvania. It will make its base at Point Barrow and will leave Seattle on June 8 and will be prepared to make its first reconnaissance flight early in July.

ASKING DUTY ON SHINGLES

Governor of Washington State Says American Operators Cannot Compete With B. C.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Senator Dill, Democratic senator for Washington state, yesterday put on record in the Senate a letter from Governor Hartley of the state of Washington appealing to Congress to establish a tariff on shingles.

Governor Hartley pictured the unstable shingle industry as "devoured into the hands of the Canadian producer and his oriental workmen." He declared: "Our operators cannot survive with cheaper raw material, longer hours of labor and the low base scale of Canada."

VICTORIA, Feb. 17.—An upturned boat found on the beach two miles south of Sidney last night was identified as that of Albert Frost, a twenty-year old Saanich lad, who has been missing since he went for a row Sunday morning. When the boat was found, the fishing line had been wrapped several times around the craft.

Hope is still held that Frost may have safely reached one of the gulf islands and is now marooned there.

Conservative Amendment Was Defeated in House of Commons Yesterday by Majority of Ten

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—The Conservative trade treaty amendment to the address was defeated in the House of Commons last night by ten votes, the Liberals, Progressives, Labor and Independent members opposing the Conservatives who were supporting it. The amendment was negatived by 118 to 108.

The amendment expressed regret that "resulting from the policy in connection with recent trade agreements of the present government the dairy products industry of Canada was being subjected to most unfair and unwarrantable competition from other countries and that the speech from the throne gives no indication of any remedial legislation," etc.

ESTIMATES FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS

Figures Were Laid Before City Council at Meeting Last Night

Table with columns: School Name, Amount. High School $4,000, Booth School 5,280, Borden Street 3,656, Seal Cove 1,140, Domestic Science 456, Manual Training 600, Teachers' Salaries 56,200, Medical Inspection and Secretary 780, Insurance 450, Stationery and general supplies 1,000, Substitute teachers 500, Transportation 800, Library 300, Repairs 500

The estimates for each of the schools include coal, furnishings, light, telephone and water, janitors' salaries and contingencies. The extraordinary estimates set out for the year totalling $4,000 provide as follows: Playgrounds 8,500, Playshed 3,000, Furniture and desks 500. Ordinary estimates of the school board this year are slightly higher than last year when the total was $73,149. Extraordinary estimates are slightly lower as compared with last year's $4,200. The Borden Street playshed was provided for in the 1925 estimates but was not built so the money has to be revoted. Last year the estimate for the playshed was $2,500. It was found, however, that it could not be built for that figure so $3,000 is being brought down this year.

Effort by Progressive to Stop Amendments to Debate on the Address

House adjourned shortly after midnight without taking any action on anti-obstruction motion

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—A motion for the purpose of preventing the introduction of further amendments to the address came from the ranks of the Progressives shortly after midnight. T. W. Bird of Nelson concluded his remarks on the address by saying that one of his purposes in rising was to see if the House desired further amendments. He therefore moved that this question be now put.

The motion is debatable and the House adjourned without any action being taken. The motion, if carried, will, it is said, throw the debate on the address wide open again, but will preclude further amendment. All members have the opportunity to speak once after which the question must be put.

POLICE LOOKING FOR TERRACE SCHOOLBOY NAMED FRANK HIPPS

The provincial police have had a request to search for Frank Hipps, a thirteen year old school boy, who has been missing from his home in Terrace since last Friday.

When he went away he was dressed in a dark green mackinaw, a brown sleeveless sweater, blue knickers with a small white stripe, black stockings, black boots and dark green cap. He is supposed to be in Prince Rupert.

Riot in Oregon Penitentiary Quelled by Guards Shooting the Prisoners; One May Die

SALEM, Ore., Feb. 17.—Nine convicts were shot, one perhaps fatally, when prison guards opened fire during a concentrated riot in the dining room of the state penitentiary last evening. The riot occurred after the prisoners were assembled in the dining room for supper. Tables were turned over and chairs broken when the riot became general, 150 men taking part in the fracas. Cups, dishes and chairs were thrown at the unarmed guards.

A general alarm brought outside guards, who opened fire, quelling the rioters. Albert Corley, a negro, was shot in the abdomen and may die.

Estimates of the number entombed vary from 50 to 100. Fires burning in the buildings, including the Methodist Church, which were crushed beneath hundreds of tons of debris, imperilled those who otherwise might escape.

DRIFTED AWAY TO SEA ON LOG

Wife Tried to Save Charles Aubrey at Lumber Camp Near Courtenay

COURTNEY, Feb. 17.—Before the eyes of his frantic wife and despite her efforts to save him, Charles Aubrey, 31 years of age, drifted into Georgia Strait at Black Creek, ten miles from here Monday.

It is believed that Aubrey, who has been in charge of a lumber camp which was temporarily closed, with a pikepole in hand, pushed off from the beach on a log which had gone adrift. Losing the pole he cried out to his wife who was dressing at their nearby home.

Clad only in her undergarments, Mrs. Aubrey rushed out into the sea but was unable to aid her husband who was drawn rapidly out into the straits.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 17.—Mah Gow, a Prince Rupert Chinese, will be released from Okalla under a decision of Chief Justice Hunter, who granted the Oriental's application for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday on the ground that the sentence was illegal in that the costs of transporting him to prison were added to the costs of conviction.

Mah Gow was convicted of having opium in possession at Port Essington. He was brought here by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and convicted in the police court on July 4 and sent to Okalla, after which he was to have been deported.

DAILY EDITION Wednesday, Feb. 17, 1926.

Knowing Own City Important Duty.

A great many people in Prince Rupert have never visited the cold storage plant, never been through a salmon cannery, have not watched a ship go into drydock, have never realized that there is a railway shop here, have not been out on the new road toward Galloway Rapids, have not visited the power plant at Shawatians and Woodworth Lake, have never been around Kaiser Island, have not climbed the mountain behind the town, and some even have not visited the Salt Lake. McClymont Park has also probably escaped their notice. There are a great many other places to visit and things to see. Why not see them?

All Should Help New Fair Board.

A new fair board has been elected. It is headed by W. D. Vance with R. E. Benson a capable vice-president and Howard Frizzell, secretary. Soon a managing secretary will be appointed and then everything will be ready for the annual campaign.

We suggest that it will be for the benefit of the city and the good of everyone if all get behind the new board and try to make the fair this year a great success. Doubtless the new officers will have some new ideas which they will work out to make the fair better and different from the ordinary. Some suggestions were made at the annual meeting and others can be incorporated in the program. In unity there is strength, but individuality is desirable in the laying of plans. Whatever is decided on should be backed wholeheartedly by the people who have appointed the officers for the year.

Congratulations To Premier King.

Premier Mackenzie King is to be congratulated on his return in Prince Albert constituency by such a large majority. That he would be elected seemed assured but that he should get such enormous support was hardly to have been expected. Apparently the people of Prince Albert appreciate the fight the Premier is putting up against enormous odds.

The result of the election is not very encouraging to those opponents of the government who have been clamoring for another appeal to the country in the hope that the protectionist might be returned if another election should be held.

The Liberal Government, supported by the Progressive and Labor members, will now have an opportunity to carry out and secure the passage of such laws as will be beneficial to the country and especially the West. If they are obstructed by the opposition they will then have good reason to ask the country to decide once more what sort of government it wants.

Policy Of Obstruction Is Objectionable.

Reasonable opposition in Parliament is all right but a policy of deliberate obstruction is always objectionable. The Conservatives, led by Hon. Arthur Meighen, are holding up the business of the country with no apparent object in view except the desire to oust the present government. The people do not like that sort of policy.

There was an election in October at which Conservatives asked the people to elect them. They failed to secure a majority of the members and, according to our system of Parliamentary practice, they should accept this defeat gracefully and try to aid the government in its work while carefully scrutinizing all legislation and taking exception where they see fit.

Today they are refusing to allow the government to proceed by lengthening unduly the debate on the address and by offering numerous amendments to it and debating them. The government may have to apply the closure, but that is objectionable. The Conservatives do not seem to know when they are beaten.

You have to chew SHREDDED WHEAT That means sound, healthy teeth

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

An Essay prepared by two pupils of the High School, Jean Grieve and Arthur Cade, Junior Matriculation Class

From the beginning of time man has expressed his thoughts through spoken words, painting or writing. To this day we have everlasting proofs, engraved on imperishable rocks, of the prehistoric man's first attempts at writing. Gradually these rough sketches improved until finally a written language was perfected. Year by year, century by century, more and more books, each representing months, some years of labor, were slowly completed. Each line was done by hand until printing, one of the greatest boons to mankind, was first invented.

Up to that time, if all the books in the world, representing years of labor, were placed side by side with those edited since printing began to be used, they would appear insignificant. In early times a library would be considered large if it contained only ten or fewer books, but today nothing is counted as a real library unless it contains hundreds of volumes.

Tier Upon Tier

A modern library is usually an immense thing. Shelf after shelf, tier upon tier, containing millions of books is often an ordinary sight to greet the eyes in any large city. Great libraries, from which hundreds of books are taken to be loaned, need many librarians to care for them, arrange them and see that all books are safely returned. The card catalog system of modern libraries is so cross indexed as to permit ready access to any specific, detailed information. Some libraries, especially those of the government, deal only with certain subjects. For example, the Department of Health would have its own library. The most common classes into which books are divided are: Fiction, Science, History, Biography, Philosophy, and other less important ones.

Private libraries cannot of course contain such a variety or wide choice of material as the public ones but the books are always well kept, and, in those of eager or wealthy collectors the books are very valuable and contain the best literature. In private libraries are often found ancient books valuable only for their antiquity. There are others which would be interesting to all, but because they are so rare they cannot be circulated by a large public library.

Valuable to Student

The most useful is the public library. These are maintained by every city with a population large enough to allow it. Any person whatsoever, rich or poor, student or laborer, may go to these. They are valuable especially to the student who is lacking the means to purchase all the books necessary for reference and to the working man desirous of reading those books which would give him reliable information to help him in his profession. Another whom the public library benefits greatly is the invalid eager for entertainment.

One of the public library's great advantages is the wide range of choice of material not available in private ones. On one subject alone, for instance, "Travelling in the South Seas," one might find one hundred different books in a large fully equipped library. Another advantage is that of having librarians well acquainted with literary works and having an extensive knowledge of all the books most beneficial and interesting to the reader.

Bookless Lives

No bookless life, however full and rich, can have touched all the innumerable aspects of life now being lived on this planet. Hence it cannot have the range and color of a life to which books have brought knowledge and understanding of the whole planet and of the lives lived by all sorts and kinds and conditions of people whom we could never hope to meet intimately or at all.

Books or libraries cannot take the place of life. Books cannot give us what experience can give us. But books can widen and enlarge life indefinitely. And books can clarify and enrich experience.

In The Letter Box

EDUCATION AND INTELLIGENCE.

Editor Daily News,
 It may have been a coincidence that today's issue of the News should carry the report of the debate in London between F. A.

Mitchell-Hedges, the explorer, and Miss Ellen Wilkenson, M.P. on the "Need for a Male Revival," alongside the report from Vancouver that a boat was under construction at Hoffer's shipyard for the Biological station at Nanaimo, but in these two items there is much food for thought.

Little Puff Balls

Mr. Mitchell-Hedges points out the decline of the human male and among other things mentions a dance he witnessed where the young men were presented with "little puff-balls" which they threw about gleefully while the ladies looked on scornfully. This brought to mind an editorial in the Vancouver Province some weeks ago which read as follows: "An educator of long experience and close observation says the chief trouble with college students is that they do not use their brains. They listen to lectures and absorb information that is handed to them, he says, but in general seem to be unable to digest the knowledge or do much thinking on their own account. . . . The easy thing to do is to slide along in the old way, to follow the well worn grooves and channels, to act as others do, to fall in line and patiently wait their turn, to dodge obstacles instead of surmounting them or removing them, and thus play their little parts. . . . Man's material advancement has been far more rapid than his mental progress. It was Disraeli who remarked that comforts, material things, had often been mistaken for civilization. . . . It is the thinking part of man that is needed most these days. Use of the mind does not mean an easy course ahead, but it does promise a reasonably safe course."

Cruise in Craft

After having read Mr. Mitchell-Hedges remarks on the decline of the male, it was only natural to read the next item of news about the new biological boat, above referred to, which followed on this page of your paper. It was interesting to note that the "Students from the University of B.C. will cruise with the craft to study marine biology." The Canadian Government has been spending something like forty thousand dollars a year for the past twenty-eight years on this Biological board to provide a sort of plaything for college professors and students and the B.C. Fisheries Commission of 1922 called attention to the absence of practical results to show what the tax payers had obtained for their money.

And now while the fishermen ply the high seas for food for us the government is to provide this new vessel for students to "thoroughly prospect British Columbia waters in order to collect samples of all marine growth and bring them back to the laboratory of the University." If any results have been obtained by the Biological board of the Dominion it is to deprive the fishermen of a livelihood for three months of the year. And who is there among us that will say that there is "need for male revival" among those that ply along our seven thousand miles of seacoast in search of food for our people? Who ever heard of a man going to a university for the purpose of preparing himself for the life of a fisherman? Who ever heard of fishermen throwing "little puffballs about gleefully?"

Inherited Quality

Floyd Parsons in an article in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post pointed out some interesting comparisons between Education and Intelligence. "Intelligence" he says, "is that inherited quality which allows a fellow to get along without an education. Education, on the other hand, is what is given to some of us so we can get along without intelligence." Perhaps some of our fishermen are lacking in education, but who will question the intelligence of a man who can navigate a vessel, manipulate a gas engine and fishing gear, and at the same time catch hundreds of tons of fish along a seacoast of several thousand miles and market them under present competitive conditions at a profit?

Prospecting for Fish

Surely the Biological Board will not allow the tax-payers' money to be spent for the amusement of college students when the fishermen have a right to expect that their government, boasting fishery resources second to none in the world, should do some prospecting for their benefit instead of depriving them of a livelihood for a quarter of the year and tying up their investment of hundreds of thousands of dollars for a like period. There is some food for thought in that statement contained in the B.C. Fisheries Commission report of 1922 which is as follows:

"There is no doubt at all that for many years those in high places owing to inability or failure in some way to appreciate the importance of the industry, have looked on fishery administration as of such little account as to allow it to become a sort of departmental football."

There are millions of dollars spent on education now. Is it necessary that the small appropriations made for the benefit of the fishing industry be diverted to this channel too?

Yours truly,
 CHAS. FOLSOM.

SEVENTH AVENUE WEST GRADING BYLAW GIVEN INTRODUCTORY READINGS

Local improvement initiative by-laws providing for the building of a sidewalk on Fifth Avenue West between Musgrave Place and Taylor Street and for the mattress grading of Seventh Ave. West between Fulton and Dunsmuir Streets and Dunsmuir Street between Sixth and Seventh Avenues were given their first reading at last night's council meeting.

In view of the fact that Dunsmuir Street was to be graded in order to give an outlet for Seventh Avenue and the cost of the work might be rather high, the council agreed to assess the property abutting Dunsmuir St. on the basis of the average cost of Seventh Avenue, the balance to be paid for out of the city's general fund.

EXPORTS OF PULP AND PAPER ARE BIG

Value for 1925 Set at One Hundred and Fifty Million Dollars

VICTORIA, Feb. 17.—Canada's great pulp and paper industry, to which British Columbia is a leading contributor, showed increases in production in all departments during 1925, according to figures issued by the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Exports of pulp and paper for 1925 were valued at $154,555,951, an increase of $15,064,302 over the total recorded for 1924. Exports of wood pulp during the year were valued at $47,931,905 as compared with $40,242,974 in the previous year and exports of paper at $106,624,046 compared with $99,248,497.

Pulpwood exports amounted to 4,123,502 cords, valued at $14,468,935, as against exports of $1,330,250 cords, valued at $13,536,058, in 1924. This is the highest annual total ever recorded. Production generally in the pulp and paper industry increased as 1925 drew to a close, the new figures show. WATER CHARGES ARE MUCH TOO HIGH FOR COLD STORAGE PLANT

J. W. Nicholls, comptroller of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., had a letter before the city council last night protesting at an increase in the water rate for the company from 5c to 7c per hundred cubic feet that had just been applied and asking that the former rate be restored.

Mr. Nicholls' letter stated that it had been the understanding that the city's new schedule formulated last year would not affect his plant. Under the old rate the company had paid $3,201 for water in 1924 and $3,776 in 1925. In view of this heavy cost, the company had been contemplating applying for a decrease in the old rate. The letter referred to the free water service that was given by the plant to the bathing boats for washing down, etc., and pointed out that in Ketchikan free water was given the fish houses and there was a flat rate of $150-$200 for canneries. In Seattle, the water rate was 4 1/2c per hundred cubic feet.

The communication was referred to the utilities committee for report.

Snappy Affair Put on by Basketball Teams of District

TELKWA, Feb. 15.—The large and expectant crowd that turned out to the Round Lake community hall Friday night were not disappointed as the basketballers made a successful shot at putting over a snappy show. The stage was effectively decorated with the combined colors of the four Woodmere and Round Lake teams. The program was opened by a rousing number from the Woodmere Tiger and Coyote teams in full uniform.

Then followed a mirthful full sketch entitled "My Sister's Husband" put on by the Round Lake teams. "A Courtship under Difficulties" done in pantomime lost nothing through lack of words. Next came an educational farce "At a Girls Boarding School." Then Round Lake "Whirlwinds" and "Cyclones" appeared and gave their yell with the same pep they show on the floor. During the program songs were rendered by Miss Lane, Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Bigland.

A modern play entitled "What's in a Name?" by Woodmerites went to prove that woman should change her name. A very attractive feature was a musical number by Peggy Neve, an eight-year-old pianist, and her six-year-old brother, John, on his violin.

The closing number by all Woodmere players was "Coonerville Follies" from Deah of Dixie and they "Shore was a powerful posse of enud pussions."

A lively dance followed to the strains of an augmented orchestra.

At midnight a tempting lunch left nothing to be desired by the many people from the surrounding district.

From a financial stand-point the teams are well satisfied, and judging by the popular question, "When is the next to be?" the audience feel the same way.

CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION TELKWA GAVE A DANCE

Enjoyable Affair Under Direction of President A. Mapleton and Members

TELKWA, Feb. 17.—A dance that will long be remembered by all those who attended, was that held Monday under direction of President A. Mapleton, of the Citizens' Association. From start to finish it was full of pep, and helped out by various novelties the crowd seemed to become gayer as time went on. Special music by W. B. Caldwell and his orchestra, helped out at times by Const. Serog and Wm. Bossoms, kept the dancers on the go and encore after encore was given. Very tasty refreshments were served at midnight, and when 3 a.m. came the dancers still cried "more!"

ALICE ARM

Smelter returns on the first shipment of ore from the La Rose mine showed a value of $355 per ton. The second shipment showed a value of $280. The ore was also shown to carry $22 per ton in gold. It is expected that steady shipments will commence in June when the railway is put in shape. In the meantime, development work is steadily proceeding.

A new vein of high grade ore, said to be one of the best yet opened up in the mine, has been uncovered by V. Stella, T. Mack and associates on the Esperanza. It is 14 inches wide and is known to exist for a distance of 100 feet.

It is certain that the coming summer will be one of the most prosperous in the history of Alice Arm camp. Plans for the development of several mining properties are being made. An Infallible Guard HEIMDAL, according to Celtic mythology, was the perfect sentinel. His hearing was so acute that he could hear the wool growing on a sheep's back. His eyesight was so keen he could see everything that happened even though it occurred while he slept.

Advertising, if you use it properly, is an infallible sentinel for you. It guards you against fraud and inferiority. It protects you against making unwise and unsatisfactory purchases.

Merchants and manufacturers who advertise must give full value because they have good names to protect. The makers of well-known products and the stores that sell these products often value the names at millions of dollars. They cannot afford to jeopardize the worth of these names by selling any but good goods of full measure and fair price.

So, you can bank on this. Advertised goods must be as advertised. That is why it pays to deal with advertisers and to buy advertised products.

undertaken on a large scale on Swan and Boatall Lakes in the Peace River valley north of here.

There were no appeals at the municipal court of revision last week. During the past two years there has been a cut of twenty per cent in the assessment.

Paschke; second vice-president, Mrs. Ernest Thompson; secretary, Mrs. McFarlane; assistant secretary, Mrs. H. Wilson; executive committee, Mrs. C. A. Pyne, Mrs. W. K. Nicholls, Mrs. G. B. Williams, Mrs. Allan McMillan and Mrs. J. B. Johnson. During the year 1925 the auxiliary raised close to $700 for hospital purposes under the presidency of Mrs. R. S. Edwards.

Thomas Austin arrived in the city last week with his bride who was formerly Mrs. Emmett and who for a time taught school at Shelley. A large company of friends greeted the couple at the station on arrival.

SIX YEARS FOR ILLEGAL ACT

Three Brothers Pleaded Guilty to Conspiring to Defraud by False Pretenses

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Six years' penal servitude was the sentence given the three Mandeville Brothers aged 51, 56 and 57 respectively after they had pleaded guilty to the offense of conspiring to defraud by false pretenses. Eustace Fullon, counsel for the prosecution, said that, broadly speaking, by means of a paper called the Financial Mail and advertisements and circulars which were sent broad cast to the public the defendants induced people to entrust them with money by pretending that they were going to use the money for the purpose of investing it on the Stock Exchange. The case for the prosecution was that instead of doing that they never made any investments at all, but declared from time to time that they had made investments and that they had earned profits. Those profits were widely advertised to the public and induced other persons to believe that the profits were real, and the accused were then entrusted with further moneys, which eventually amounted to a very large sum indeed.

Various Companies

The three defendants were in partnership in a business which dealt in stocks and shares, called the Financial Mail Exchange. By means of the Financial Mail, which was a paper they owned and which was edited by Alex. Morton Mandeville, they "boosted" certain stocks and shares and invited the public to buy them. When the public forwarded money, another company, called Mandevilles, Limited, belonging to them, used to buy on the Stock Exchange. There was another company, called the London and County Trust, which did the same sort of business as Mandevilles, Limited. The real business was the Financial Mail Exchange, which, on March 31, 1919, showed a trading loss covering the three preceding years of £19,000, the account starting with an adverse balance of £30,000, making a total adverse balance of £50,700. In these circumstances the Financial Mail Operating Trust was formed, and in January circulars were sent out showing that a profit of 30 per cent. had been paid. Subscribers were formed into groups, and supposed profits made by the early groups out of the money subscribed by the later groups. It was difficult to estimate the exact amount misappropriated, but the total would be something like £200,000.

Danger of Credulity Mr. Justice McCardie, in passing sentence, addressing the defendants, said that he had listened with care to all that had been said by counsel in their favor, but it was clear to his mind that their scheme of fraud had been grave and ingenious. Every device of trickery and evasion had been practised by them, and their dishonesty had been deliberate, cruel, and prolonged. The facts of this case would, he hoped, inform the public of the dangers of credulity.

Sir Alfred Mond Explains Why he is Leaving Political Group in Old Country

GEORGE LAND POLICY Reorganization Impossible and Drifting From Bad to Worse, He Says

Sir Alfred Mond who has been a lifelong Liberal in England recently decided to change his allegiance and thrown in his lot with the Conservatives. In making the change he wrote the following letter to former Premier Asquith: My dear Lord Oxford and Asquith—The position of the Liberal party has been steadily drifting from bad to worse. The unity which we have striven for, and which I did my best to promote, has in fact never been achieved, and all efforts to re-vivify and reorganize the Liberal forces have been rendered hopeless by the introduction by Mr. Lloyd George of a land policy which has produced a new profound cleavage and embarrassment in the Liberal ranks.

Measure of Agreement I had hoped that when the compromise with the Liberal and Radical Candidates' Association had been reached we had at any rate obtained some measure of agreement, even if I felt that I must insist upon altering the proposals in the direction of the extension of freehold ownership. The resolution which the National Liberal Federation Executive is submitting to the Land Convention is so framed that it revives the original policy of the nationalization of agricultural land as first advocated in the Land Report. To this policy in any shape or form I am absolutely and unalterably opposed, and the fact that it is being put forward by the chief Liberal organization, apparently with your consent, proves to me how divergent my views are on this fundamental question of principle to those of a large and influential section of the party. It has become absolutely clear to me that this is a fundamental issue of principle and not of detail, which no attempted compromise can overcome or disguise. I have, however, no desire to be a source of fresh difficulties or divisions in the party, or to be engaged in controversy within its ranks. I have therefore, after the most careful consideration, decided that the only course for me to take is to sever my lifelong connection with the Liberal party and, if I am to be able to render any further political service to the country, join the party with whom I feel I can most usefully cooperate—the Conservative party.

Open Opponent That such a step is a big break and wrench for me I need hardly assure you, I have passed all my life in the Liberal ranks, most of it under your leadership. I have done my best through its medium to render such services as I could to my country, and I had hoped it might be possible still to find a useful field of activity and influence in its ranks. But I find this impossible under the circumstances created, and I prefer to be an open opponent than an internal dissident. I shall, of course, after writing this letter, no longer consider myself a member of the Liberal party, and shall take, in due course, the necessary steps resulting from my decision.

May I say that I cannot close this letter without expressing my thanks to you for all the personal kindness and help to me in all the many years of our political association. Yours sincerely, ALFRED MOND.

A Catch Somewhere The following version of the pie story may not be familiar to all:

A taxi driver went into a restaurant, and asked for a pie. When the pie was brought he said that he had changed his mind and would have a cup of coffee instead. He finished his coffee and was moving out, when the waiter said: "You haven't paid for your coffee." "I gave you the pie for it," was the reply. "But you didn't pay for the pie," said the waiter. "I know," said the man, "I didn't keep it," and he walked out.

After Every Meal

It doesn't take much to keep you in trim. Nature only asks a little help. Wrigley's, after every meal, benefits teeth, breath, appetite and digestion. A Flavor for Every Taste while the waiter was trying to see where the catch was.
