SHACK BURNED BY BUSH FIRE

Department Has Been Busy During 24 Hours Extinguishing Blazes on Dry Townsite

The city fire department has been busy during the past twenty-four hours quelling grass and bush fires on the townsite and the arrival of rain, after the dry, windy weather of the past week, is a general relief. The dry, dead grass had been becoming very inflammable and easily ignited.

About 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, there was a grass fire on the waterfront near the elevator and a shack belonging to Jack Anderson, a telegraph line-man who is out of the city, was consumed. The contents of the shack were removed.

At 7.30 last evening, the department had a call to put out a rather extensive grass fire near the residence of C. H. Orme at the far end of Westview. It was extinguished by chemicals and water after a long line of hose had been laid.

Again at 7 o'clock this morning, a bonfire lit by Ole Skog to burn rubbish near his residence at Seal Cove got out of control and the department was called out. The flames were subdued but not until after a chicken-house had been searched.

The small Leo truck was used in responding to all the calls and 1,100 feet of hose line was used altogether.

Extreme Cruelty Charged Against Woman in Treatment of Her Child in the Police Court This Morning

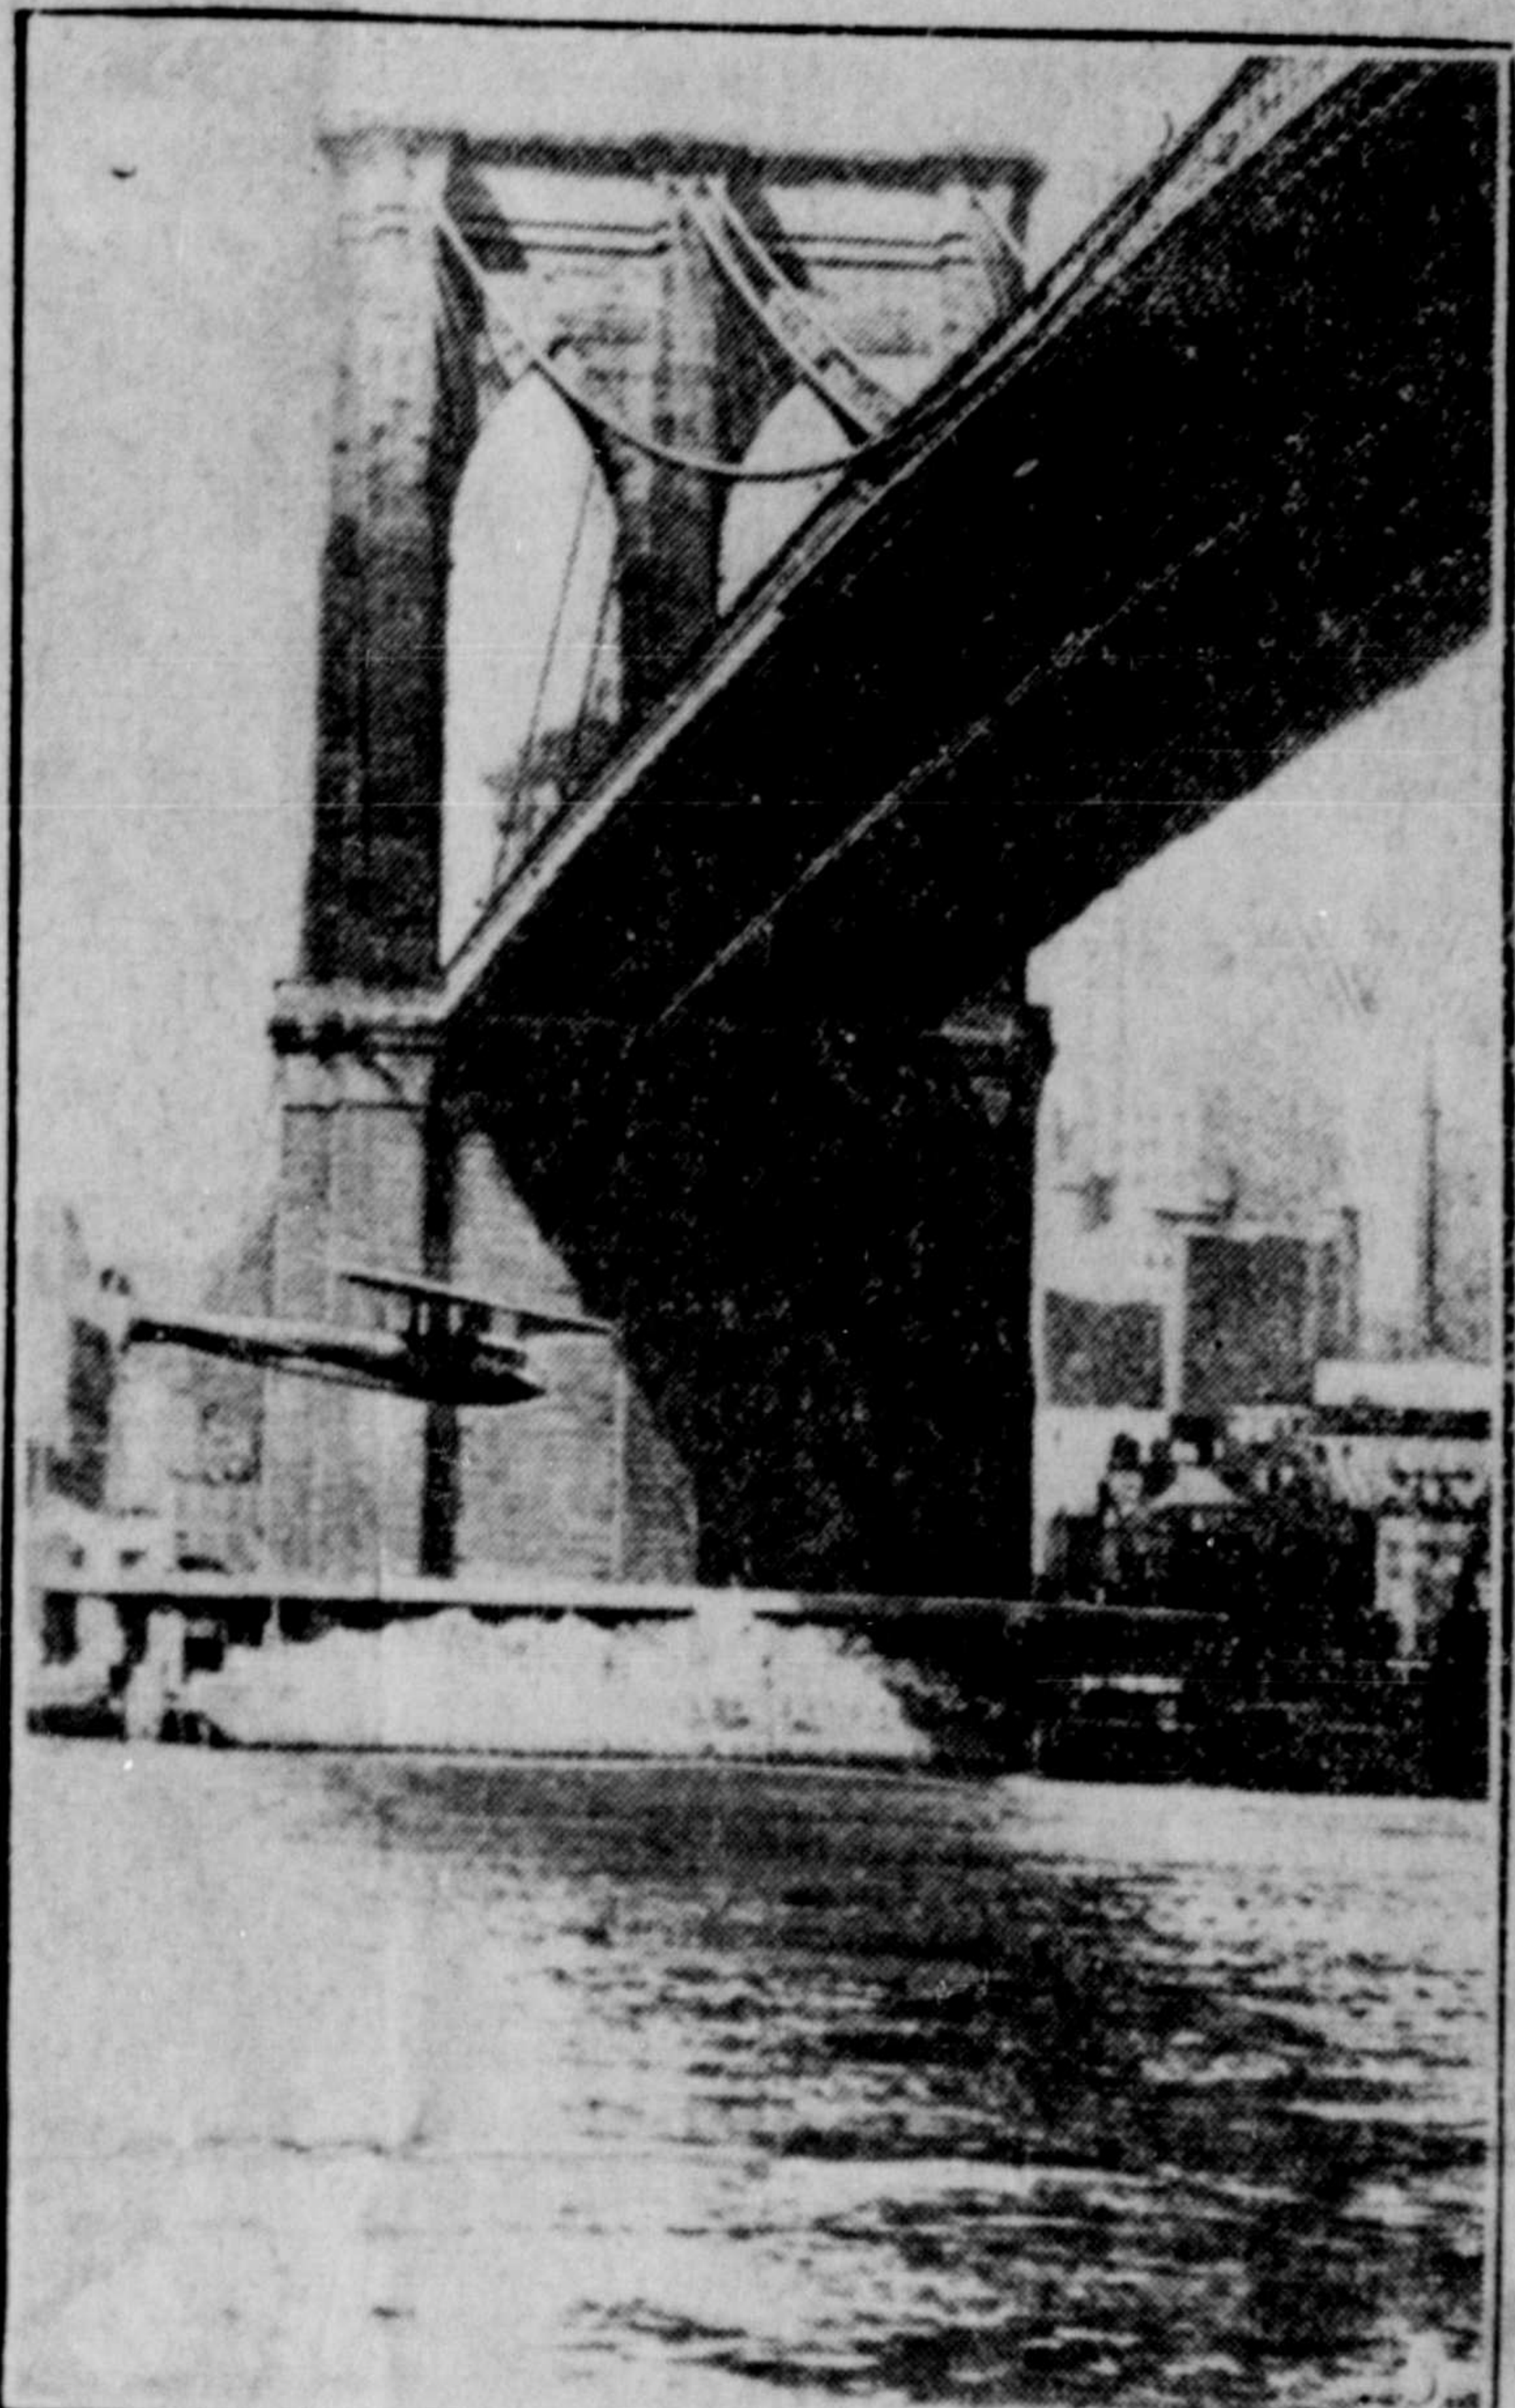

A story of almost unbelievable cruelty of a woman against a six year old child was unfolded in the city police court this morning before Magistrate McClymont and resulted in Mrs. Maggie Maynard being committed for trial on a charge of aggravated assault occasioning actual bodily harm on her little niece, Alice Gullell.

Late yesterday afternoon, according to the evidence in the case, accused thrashed the child unmercifully and then, leaving her a mass of bruises, tied her up by the hands and left her in that condition she was found at 9 o'clock by Chief Vickers who was called to the scene by neighbors. Mrs. Maynard was not on the scene when the chief arrived but a little later she was located by Constable Alex. Macdonald and placed under arrest. Dr. Tremayne was called and gave the little girl treatment.

On one occasion, accused is alleged to have beaten the child and tied her in a sack leaving her in bed. It was testified by the witnesses that the child had been heard once to scream: "Auntie, auntie, don't kill me!"

The witnesses in court this morning were Dr. Tremayne, Chief Vickers, Constable Macdonald, James Ross and the little girl herself.

Mrs. Maynard is in the city jail and will appear shortly before Judge Young for election.

A RISKY STUNT AND DONE BY WOMAN—On week days, Miss Viola Gentry is a restaurant cashier, with aviation as a hobby. Photo shows her plane passing under the bridge.

Railway Problems For A Province.

No Canadian province can afford to go into the railway building business. That is plainly evident from the results obtained. There is no need to go to Ontario for an example. It is right in the West. British Columbia has her P.G.E. problem and Alberta has her E.D. & B.C. connecting Edmonton with the Peace River. Both are a drag upon the provinces concerned.

Alberta has offered a favorable sale of her railway to the C.P.R. which has been refused and now it is proposed to make an offer to the Dominion Government. There is about twenty million dollars against it and they are offering to sell for less than half that amount, shouldering the balance of the debt themselves.

Discussing future action the Edmonton Journal says editorially:

"Another effort is to be made to interest the Dominion Government and with this object in view the premier and the minister of railways will shortly visit Ottawa. The claim of the railway to a subsidy as a colonization road has been frequently urged. Its soundness was admitted by the federal authorities when they paid a subsidy of $6,200 per mile on fifty-two miles and they should in justice to Alberta extend this to the whole system. They should also lose no time in launching the vigorous colonization policy, with especial attention to Peace River, which Mr. King forecast when in Edmonton during the general election.

"If they would meet these requests, the position and prospects of the road would be so greatly improved that it would be very much easier for the province to make satisfactory arrangements in connection with it.

Want It Incorporated In Transcontinental.

"It is very desirable to have it incorporated in one of the transcontinental systems rather than operated by the government as a separate enterprise. The people of Alberta as a whole are anxious to have the province get out of the railway business as soon as possible. As for the sentiment in the country directly affected, the Peace River Record in a recent issue stated that it had made a careful enquiry throughout its territory and that "nowhere was there to be found a preference for either of the transcontinentals as against the other, but on all hands there appeared to be a genuine fear of the results were the operation of the road to be attempted directly by the provincial government." It should be only as a last resort and after every effort has been made to secure an adequate offer from either the C.N.R. or the C.P.R. that a policy of government ownership and operation should be decided upon."

Attempt To Murder Premier Mussolini.

An attempt was made by a woman fanatic to murder Premier Mussolini. Doubtless she was inspired by lofty motives in her inspiration to commit the crime. She would say that freeing the country from the man who was turning the country back from democratic progress she would be sacrificing herself for the sake of her country.

Similarly those loyalists who would put down the so-called Reds by force and stop them talking. They believe they are doing their duty to the country by stopping the mouths of those who they think would injure her.

Similar reasoning was used by the Catholics who burned Protestant heretics to save the souls of those they burned or others who might be influenced by them and also the Protestants who burned Catholics and the patriots of old who drove out and murdered the heathen in the name of religion. The soviet rulers who have murdered almost a million people in Russia since the last revolution have been inspired by similar purposes. They would murder for the good of their country.

And yet we know that murder begets murder, force begets force, criminal action of any kind tends to breed further criminal action unless frowned down and stamped out. Intolerance is still rampant in the world and until we agree to differ and are willing to bide our time for reason and sentiment to overcome bigotry and crime we are not making progress.

Mussolini will have his day and then there will be a reaction and the tide will sweep the other way. It has always been so in the past and history always repeats itself.

FISH TRAPS ON WALES ISLAND

Vancouver Paper Again Discusses Unfairness of Policy of Canadian Department

CHEAPER FISH FOOD

Star Asks Why Discrimination Against Canadians Favor of American Owners

(Vancouver Star)
The Morning Star is in receipt of several communications protesting against the use of fish-traps and purse-seines for catching salmon in British Columbia waters. These protests appear to have been evoked because of our recent editorials concerning the question at issue between the Department of Marine and Fisheries and the Canadian Fishing Company, in connection with the three fish-traps which were operated by the Company last season on Wales Island. These traps were built and equipped at a cost of over $60,000, by the company, after official assurance had been received from the Department that a license to operate would be issued. But towards the end of last summer the Department changed its policy as to the Wales Island Fishing District; and has refused to issue any license for the coming season in respect to these three traps.

Not Kill Goose

If fish-traps or purse-seines are too destructive against the annual run of salmon; if the unrestricted use of them, such as has been allowed under the American policy to American fishermen, would result in depleting the coast fisheries of British Columbia; then of course the Department is wise in refusing to allow their general use. The Morning Star does not favor any policy of killing the goose that lays the golden egg. But if, as a matter of fact, traps and purse-seines can be used under proper restrictions so as to provide fish for the people at even a cent less per pound, and without any more risk to depleting the fisheries than comes of the use of gill nets, then the interest of no one special class of fishermen, whether using gill net, troll, purse-seine or trap, should be considered as against the interests of the mass of the people; in other words as against a lower price for food.

Absolute Equality

The Morning Star, moreover, even at risk of depletion in waters contiguous to American waters, stands for absolute equality of opportunity and privilege for Canadians whenever and wherever they must compete in any phase of the fishing industry with Americans. Therefore, if fish spawned in Canadian waters must pass through waters under American control before they can return from the sea to Canadian streams, why should not Canadians be allowed the same privilege as Americans to catch these fish of Canadian origin in traps and purse-seines? If the Americans are bent on ruining the run of fish at these places by an excessive catch then why should Canadians be restrained from using the same methods to obtain the fish before their extermination? We have negotiated for over twenty years with the Americans for a joint policy of protection and conservation of salmon on the Pacific Coast; and so far in vain. American experts in these matters agree in the main with our own; and often joint recommendations have been made to the respective governments concerned. But on the American side these recommendations are never adopted. Seemingly they are blocked by political or commercial influences; recognizing only immediate profit, regardless of the future. It would now seem as if by such a policy the Americans already have ruined their salmon fisheries in Alaska. Professor Babcock, chairman of the International Halibut Commission, returning recently from the North, is quoted as saying:

Implement Promises

"The salmon catch of every district of Alaska is the poorest in years. Men who make it a business to ascertain conditions told me that the pack of Alaska reds, which are sockeye, would not exceed 30 per cent. of last year's pack. There has been a big slump in every species. But the pack of sockeye in northern waters of British Columbia, including the Skeena, Naas, and Rivers and Smith Inlets, is far in excess of that at this date last year.

Conservation pays. But also a reputation for implementing one's promise pays. The Morning Star, in reference to the particular case of the Canadian Fishing Company, has already expressed the opinion that whenever there has been any official assurance given by any branch or department of the Dominion Government, leading to the investment of money in any industrial enterprise, and when an official change of policy is then made whereby such industry is crippled or stopped, there should be full compensation granted for loss thereby occasioned to private investors in such industry.

LARGE PRIZES FOR BIG RACE

So Far 164 Horses Entered in Kentucky Derby But 20 May Face Barrier

LOUISVILLE, April 8. — Followers of the "sport of Kings" are buzzing as to which of the 164 three year olds entered, will capture America's premier event of turfdom—the Kentucky derby—to be run here May 15.

The entry list for the fifty-second renewal of the annual classic closed in February. Virtually every first class three year old horse in the country has been nominated, with all the great stables represented.

If twenty horses face the barrier, the race will be worth $53,375 to the winner, in addition to a beautiful gold trophy. The second horse will net $6,000, the third, $3,000, and the fourth, $1,000.

Many are wondering if Pompey, by Sun Briar, of the Shoshone stables who lead American horse winnings in 1925, with $121,630, will capture the prized event. This son of Cleopatra last year captured the Futurity stakes at Belmont Park paying $58,880, and the Hopeful stake at Saratoga, paying $42,850.

Another, who was not far behind Pompey in winnings, J. E. Griffith's Center, is highly favored. He won the leading race of the fall session at Churchill Downs, the Kentucky Club Jockey Stakes, netting $23,315, and the Pimlico Futurity, paying $53,359. His earnings for the year totalled $413,948.

Other promising horses favored by many to capture the race are: Flight of Time, winner of the Breeders Futurity at Lexington, who cleared $39,792 last year; Bubbling Over, winner of $24,737 last year, and Nurni, who, as a three year old, won the $30,000 New Orleans Handicap this year. Haste, Rhinoc, Chicago and Mars also are admitted to have a good chance.

COST OF EDUCATING UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

EDMONTON, April 8.—Based on the net amount voted by the legislature for the current year for the University of Alberta, the cost of educating the 1,354 students at the university, for 1924, was $267 per head.

If to this is added the proportion of cost per student, of interest, debenture and sinking fund payments, the cost per student was $432.

The above information is contained in a return tabled in the Alberta legislature by Hon. Perren Baker, at the request of Geo. Mills, Liberal, Athabasca.

The first method of arriving at per capita cost is that adopted all over the North American continent, states the return.

There were 94 professors, lecturers and similar full-time instructors at the university in 1925, and engaged in administrative and clerical work, 24 employees.

Of these 24 employees, seven received salaries of less than $900 per year; seven were paid from $2,000 to $3,000; six from $3,000 to $1,000, and two, over $4,000.

Salaries paid to other employees, including bookstore, printing, dining room, residence (from whose labor there is a profit), and from laborers, groundsmen, janitors, firemen, etc., totalled $252,946.42 for the same year.

KETCHIKAN LOOKING DIRECTION OF RUPERT FOR REAL BALL GAME

KETCHIKAN, April 8.—Whenever the sun shines, as it has shined several days of late, the ball players get out and lumber up with a view to the opening of the season.

A league will be formed here and after the local boys have tried out their metal in local contests they will be looking across at Prince Rupert and hoping to find a real team there that will give them a hard tussle for victory.

Kenny McQuaig of P. Burns Co. Ltd. local staff has returned to the city after having spent a few weeks holidaying in Vancouver and on the Island.

INDIANS ELECT SITKA MAYOR

A. R. Hanlon Gets Majority of 90 Result of Native Vote For Him

JUNEAU, April 8.—A. R. Hanlon was elected mayor of Sitka on a slate called "The Indian Ticket" by a majority of 90 over W. P. Mills, a leading merchant of the town.

Pete Allapo, a former Indian prize fighter and at present chief of police here, devoted the afternoon of polling day to hauling Indians to the polls.

The Indian vote, organized by the Indian lawyer, Paul, is becoming a powerful factor in the political life of the territory. Indians voted in numbers at the last territorial election and an effort to secure the passing of an illiteracy ban by the United States Congress which would prevent from voting those unable to read and write failed.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, April 7.—C. M. Bekman was re-elected mayor here yesterday.

FINE BILLIARD EXHIBITION BY STAN NEWMAN

Defeated Local Champion After Spotting Him 400 Out of 800—Break of 131 off Red Ball

One of the finest exhibitions of English billiards ever seen in this city was given last night at the opening of the new Grand Terminal Billiard Club when Stanley Newman, professional champion of South England, brought here especially for the occasion, spotted Fred Pyle, the local champion, 400 out of 800 and defeated him 800 to 661.

Newman last night showed an especial aptitude for in-off shots and did not play a cannon game though he did show a couple of interesting runs on short cannons near the bottom cushions. Features of his exhibition were position play and a high break of 131 after having sunk Pyle's cue ball, making a run of 129 off the red ball mostly into the side pockets. His other high breaks were 115, 80, 65 and 59.

Good Showing Starting rather weakly, Pyle made a good showing toward the end and his general play for the tournament was better than during the past city billiard season. Both players, on executing difficult shots, evoked several bursts of applause from the large audience that witnessed the exhibition.

Newman had 38 innings and Pyle, 37, the former's average being 21.05 and the latter's, 7.05. Pyle made high breaks of 41 and 29.

Jack Judge was referee; Geo. Melmoyle, marker; and G. S. Russell, scorer. Guy A. Hedreen of Vancouver, manager of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., was announcer and, in the course of the evening, congratulated Ben Self on the indeed splendid billiard academy that he had established in the city.

After the tournament, Newman, who will meet George Melmoyle on similar terms tonight, interested the audience with a number of clever trick shots.

CRIBbage AND DANCE ENDS LEAGUE SEASON

Presentation of Dawson Cup Made at Social Gathering Last Evening

The 1925-26 cribbage season was brought to a formal close with an enjoyable and well attended cribbage drive and dance which was held last evening in the Boston Hall.

In the course of the evening the Dawson Cup, emblematic of city cribbage championship, was presented to its winners this year, the Loyal Orange Lodge, by President G. W. Johnstone, in the absence of the donor, F. G. Dawson, who was unable to be present. The trophy was received by J. A. Teng, captain of the team. In recognition of his faithful and efficient services, Fred Wernig, the secretary of the league, was presented with a fountain pen and pencil in case.

There were twenty tables of cribbage and the prize winners were: Ladies' first, Mrs. A. Astoria; ladies' second, Mrs. W. Sandison; men's first, Capt. J. Malligan; men's second, W. D. Christon. During the evening an all-star team from among the league players captained by G. McAulay of the Dry Dock defeated the champion Loyal Orange team by 6 to 0.

G. W. Johnstone was master of ceremonies for the card tables and James Simpson, for the dance. George Rudderham and Fred Wernig presided at the door.

The affair was in progress from 8.30 to 2 o'clock, refreshments being served under the direction of a committee consisting of Mrs. Fred Wernig, Mrs. G. W. Johnstone, Mrs. F. A. Rogers and Mrs. James Simpson. Music was furnished by Arthur's Orchestra, consisting of R. Arthur Jr., D. Eastman and Mrs. R.

SPORT CHAT

Hockey material developed in various parts of Canada has gone far afield to bolster up amateur and professional teams in many parts of the Dominion and the United States, but to Blake Watson, member of the Winnipeg Tiger-Falcon Seniors last year, goes the honor of being probably the most distant emissary of Canada's national winter pastime. Taking a post graduate course in medicine at the University of Vienna, Watson so engaged other students at the Vienna institution of learning that hockey has become a popular sport in the old Austrian capital. According to a copy of a sporting journal published in Vienna, Watson is heralded as the best player ever seen in action in those parts. He has mastered the best skaters attending the university and taught them the rudiments of stickhandling, combination play, and has trained the team into a smooth-working machine. Since Watson joined the Vienna hockey club, the students have not lost a game against teams from Berlin, Munich, Czechoslovakia and Switzerland, the journal states. In Germany, Watson was presented with a silver cup by the Berlin sportsmen in commemoration of his brilliant performances before record crowds there.

Is there such a thing as an omen or good luck or a "jinx"? Eddie Poulin, manager of the Calgary Canadians, 1926 junior hockey champions of Canada, believes in both. The victory of his proteges after losing the first game of the title series to Kingston, he attributes in no small measure to the influence of a playful black cat. This particular dusky feline, which had working up a purring acquaintance with the Calgary boys, suddenly disappeared before the first game of the Dominion finals. The Canadians lost the game. In trying to discover how it happened, Poulin thought of the cat. After searching all through the Amphitheatre rink, Poulin discovered Tony Rettiger, guardian of the arena, fondling the renegade pet in his office. It developed that the pussy was a pedigreed specimen and Rettiger turned a deaf ear to the pleas of Poulin that the cat be given to him. The Calgary manager departed but returned a few minutes later with the ultimatum that the Canadians refused to take the ice again without the cat. Rettiger finally capitulated, and Poulin proudly reported back to the Canadian dressing room with the much-prized cat. This according to Poulin, instilled the Calgary team with confidence and the Broncho Busters went out and captured the next two games, and the championship.

Her Nerves Were "All Broken Up" She Could Not Sleep

VICTORIA IS APPRECIATED

New York World Pays Pretty Respects to Memory of Late Queen Victoria

The New York World in a recent editorial gave the following appreciation of Queen Victoria quite in contrast to the libel on Queen Alexandra which was recently published by the questionable American magazine, Liberty.

Like the great era which took its name from her, Queen Victoria's fame is regaining its due lustre. Two new volumes of letters, with not a few passages of keen insight, will confirm the impression that here was a woman of strong personality and shrewd if limited mind, not a mere figure-head of empire or incarnation of "Victorian" goodness. Americans of an older generation respected her for those qualities of character which rescued British royalty from the position to which it had sunk under the Georges. They admired the traits which led John Bright to say that she was the most absolutely truthful person he had known. But a new generation has better means of knowing that she had also force of individuality, and, if no brilliance, a steadfast common sense that was better.

It is better known now than it was a quarter-century ago that the Queen's life was not stuffy and confined but had its tragic spiritual drama; that she labored devotedly for her subjects; and that she placed a real impress on the Government, and sometimes—as when she and her consort, Albert, softened Lord John Russell's rough note on the Trent affair—on world events. The readers of Lytton Strachey's biography came to scoff and remained to confess that she was a true sovereign. There was much about her that was amusing; her affection for the Scotch body-servant John Brown, her italicized diaries, her scoldings of the wayward Prince of Wales, her extraordinary taste in art. Her figure never lent itself to heroic-saltatory or spirited paintings. But she was Queen enough to lay down the law to Palmerston and to prevent a Franco-Prussian conflict in 1867 over Luxembourg. She was woman enough to love Melbourne for his paternal kindness as much as she disliked Gladstone for addressing her like a public meeting; and to keep the loss of her husband

HAIDA CHIEFS ARE CIVILIZED

Did Their Bit in Connection with Remodelling of Skidegate Cemetery

(By Oliver E. Mann) SKIDEGATE, April 8.—During the winter months the whole village of Skidegate puts on a unique aspect of community life. The local governing council also begins to function afresh after discontinuance since the preceding April. Improvements to the village are instituted, law and order are enforced, and church life has also a prominent share in the activities.

During the past winter a village public meeting of a special character was held and for several hours the question of cleaning up the village cemetery was debated. After full and complete discussion, the all-important question was settled. The aged chiefs and venerable women had to face the question of severing themselves completely with the past. The proposal was to destroy the time-worn fences, sheds and other marks of veneration from the graves, so that the whole cemetery could be cleaned up and cared for.

The destruction of these wooden structures meant a break with that past that constituted a real sacrifice such as only those aged leaders could feel. They endured it stoically. Indeed, when the manhood of the whole village appeared at the spot to perform the task the aged chiefs were there to take part. The missionary accompanied them.

A Long Task
Day after day the men worked and every evening the women, not to be outdone, provided a sumptuous supper in the village hall. Practically the whole band met in the hall for supper each evening until the task was completed.

One cannot help exclaiming, all honor to those brave old Haida chiefs. Their youth was spent amid ignorance, superstition and want. Their old age sees wonderful changes and they are keeping pace in their outlook upon life.

These people have earned for themselves a reputation also for industry. Their history shows one long struggle with the forces of nature to obtain a livelihood. Many now living can remember the unpleasant days of hunger and want. Now, by their perseverance, they not only succeed in keeping the wolf from their doors, but they are adding to the comfort of home life every year.

NEW PUBLIC SCHOOL ASKED FOR JUNEAU

Parent-Teacher Organization Urges Need of New Building and Authority for Erection will be Asked

JUNEAU, April 8.—A resolution asking congress to authorize a bond issue for $75,000 for the purchase of a site and construction of buildings to provide additional facilities for the Juneau public schools was passed by the city council of Juneau. Action was taken at this time by the council in order that the request might be placed before congress and authority secured at the current session.

Necessity for immediate action by the council was stressed by B. O. Stewart, president of the Parent-Teacher Association and M. L. Merrill, of the Juneau school board, both of whom appeared before the council. Details for building construction and arrangement of building, equipment, etc., were not submitted to the council but will be prepared and made available to the public before any bond issue for this purpose is put before it to vote upon.

Both Mr. Stewart and Mr. Merrill pointed out that the public school building is already over crowded.

The present school building which was constructed in 1917 at a cost of approximately $75,000 is virtually paid for. At the end of the present council year there will remain outstanding bonds in the amount of $7,500. These will be retired before March 1, 1927.

Reason for Attempt to Find Polar Continent by Wade is Given in the Flight of Birds

Men Who Made Big Air Trip by Way of Prince Rupert Expect to Claim Continent for United States

NEW YORK, April 8.—Justification for the risk of life and expenditure of money involved in three American Arctic expeditions this summer was given today by Robert Anderson Pope, organizer of the All-American Alumni Arctic Expedition.

His outfit will be commanded by Lieutenant Leigh Wade, assisted by Lieutenant R. H. Ogden, both of whom are round-the-world fliers.

All three American expeditions will attempt to locate, chart and claim for the United States a large body of land believed to lie north of Alaska and Eastern Siberia, spoken of by the explorers as "a new polar continent." A bulletin issued last year by the National Geographical Society estimated that this land comprises about 1,000,000 square miles.

Evidence of Land
"Sufficient evidence is available," said Mr. Pope, "to justify the almost certain belief that such land exists." He then proceeded to unfold the evidence.

Natives of the northern Alaskan and Siberian coasts have been convinced that land lay to the northward ever since Arctic explorers first began to inquire. They base their belief chiefly upon the northerly flight of birds in the spring as soon as the ice starts to go out, which is just before nesting season.

Some scientific sceptics think the birds fly clear across the Pole to Spitzbergen and Franz Joseph Land, but the majority think they would not be likely to attempt such a long flight at the beginning of the nesting season.

Birds go North
E. W. Nelson, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey of the United States Department of Agriculture, has written Mr. Pope: "My information concerning the flight of birds at Point Barrow, gained both during my residence in Alaska years ago and what has been learned since, all combine to indicate the probability of unknown lands to the north or northeast of that point. Also my observations on Wrangell Island indicate the probability of lands lying northerly from that island."

Mr. Nelson recalled the evidence of Captain Hooker of the Corwin in 1881, who found innumerable fresh tracks of wild geese on Wrangell Island but not a sign of the geese themselves, indicating a temporary stopping place for a great number of migratory birds. Mr. Murdock, the naturalist of the Ray Expedition, located near Point Barrow in the same year and the following two years, noted the flight northward of large flocks, Mr. Nelson stated.

Donald Cadzow, of the Museum of the American Indian, also noted geese and ducks flying northward from Alaska. Mr. Pope cited still other naturalists and explorers.

Could See Land
Captain Edward P. Heredeen, years ago, reported that the natives wintering between Harrison and Camden Bays, Alaska, claimed that in the clear days of spring they could often discern land to the northward but this is thought to have been merely a large island.

No Ice Drift
Further evidence of land to the north was furnished, Mr. Harris pointed out, by indications that the Beaufort Sea virtually is closed in to the north and eastward. Ice does not drift freely to the northward. It seems to be caught in a pocket and is of remarkable thickness and age. Northeast winds will drive the ice to the westward, but there is little or no movement of the ice when the wind blows from the west.

"These circumstances, so far as they go," said Mr. Harris, "tend to show that the Beaufort Sea is nearly landlocked in all directions excepting toward the west."

Tidal Evidence
However, the late R. A. Harris, of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, offered what the explorers believe to be far more substantial information. Mr. Harris claimed that virtually all the tidal movement at the pole depends upon pressure from the tides of the North Atlantic Ocean entering the circumpolar seas between Greenland and Spitzbergen.

If there were no obstruction, the tides at Bennett Island, north of the Siberian Coast, would be the same as at Point Barrow, he said. But the tides off Bennett Island rise and fall 2 1/2 feet, while off Point Barrow there is a tide of only 0.4 feet. Mr. Harris held this to be proof positive that there is some great obstruction around which the tides must flow. The hours of the tides show that they follow the circle of the Siberian coast around to Alaska, being seven hours earlier at Bennett Island than Point Barrow.

Peary Saw it
In a later day, Peary on his unsuccessful attempt to reach the pole in 1906 reported that he sighted land to the northwest of Grant Land. Observing from an elevation of about 2,000 feet, he could see land at a great distance, which he named Crocker Land. Further north between latitudes 85 1-2 and 87 degrees, almost at the Pole, he found bear and fox tracks, indicating that land was not a great distance away.

As early as 1832, a Mr. Simpson, ship's surgeon of the Plover, reported that the Eskimos of Point Barrow had a tradition that members of their tribe once had been carried northward in a southeast gale to a hilly country inhabited by people like themselves, and that after staying a long while there they returned one spring.

Peary Saw it
In a later day, Peary on his unsuccessful attempt to reach the pole in 1906 reported that he sighted land to the northwest of Grant Land. Observing from an elevation of about 2,000 feet, he could see land at a great distance, which he named Crocker Land. Further north between latitudes 85 1-2 and 87 degrees, almost at the Pole, he found bear and fox tracks, indicating that land was not a great distance away.

Keep Baby's Skin Soft as Velvet

Prevent and Relieve Eczema

Mrs. Albert Bishop, 35 Laplanche St., Amherst, N.S., writes: "In one week my baby was entirely relieved of eczema by the use of two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. He had sores all over his back."

EVERYWHERE Dr. Chase's Ointment is known and appreciated by mothers who have with gratitude witnessed the benefit it has brought to their suffering children.

Chafing and cracking of the skin is often the beginning of eczema. The trouble develops where two surfaces of skin rub together—as in the neck, armpits or between the legs of fleshy infants.

Dr. Chase's Ointment applied after the bath brings relief from this condition and prevents eczema.

ment of the ice when the wind blows from the west.

"These circumstances, so far as they go," said Mr. Harris, "tend to show that the Beaufort Sea is nearly landlocked in all directions excepting toward the west."

Mr. Harris cited the accounts and papers of the Navy, page 162, volume 47, 1851, which describes how the tides are affected by the wind at Elson's Bay, east of Point Barrow. When the wind was from the east or northeast there was secretly any rise in tide, but with the wind blowing a gale from the southwest the tide sometimes rose three and a half feet. The inference Mr. Harris drew was that the unknown coast line was not greatly distant from the north coast of Alaska, making a pocket in which the tides piled up.

Driftwood
Driftwood carried by ice currents also gave evidence, little driftwood being found as far east as the mouth of the Mackenzie River as Coronation Gulf. Virtually none had been found along Banks Island.

That the Beaufort sea is an ice trap is indicated by the observations of several explorers. Osborn described it as follows: "Ice of stupendous thickness and in extensive floes, some seven or eight miles in extent was seen. The surface of it was not flat, such as we see in Baffin Strait and the adjacent seas, but rugged with accumulated snow, frost and blaws of centuries."

Important evidence also was furnished by the drifting of the ill-fated Jeanette, sunk in 1880 after it had been deserted by Captain DeLong, who with his crew froze to death.

The Jeanette became lodged in the ice at a point northeast of Wrangell Island and drifted westerly, going to pieces northwest of Bennett Island.

Current Deflected
The Fram, Nansen's ship, became icebound northwest of Bennett Island and drifted in a general course toward the Greenland Sea, showing a sharp turn in the ocean current northwest of Bennett Island. Mr. Harris believed this indicates the point of a large body of land extending down to a point not far from Bennett Island, deflecting the ocean current southward. He also claimed that the unknown land cannot extend much beyond the pole, or it would have deflected the current in which the Fram drifted.

At the same time, he believed the undiminished tide at Bennett Island indicates a fairly narrow channel along which Nansen travelled.

The division of ocean currents in the eastern section of the Beaufort sea, one current flowing northeastward and the other westward also indicated a large obstruction to the north in Mr. Harris' opinion.

Mr. Pope, and others supporting his expedition, feel that in these reasons they have sufficient evidence of a polar continent to justify their exploration.

Grew and her dancing pupils, Edna Ireland, Hilda Wilson Murray, Annie Gilchrist and Joan Grew, sailed for the north on the Prince George last night. Mrs. J. A. Hinton and Miss Nada Johnstone are accompanying and will assist the party which will return to the city on the Prince Charles Monday morning.

PRINCE RUPERT MAN IN ALASKA

F. G. Brynolson Extols Alaska Spruce and Tells of Demand in East

"For factory use, Alaska spruce is superior to the product of any other district," declares F. G. Brynolson, representative of the Northwest Spruce Co., who is now completing a periodical visit to Southeastern Alaska, says the Ketchikan Chronicle.

The truth of the statement made above is borne out, Mr. Brynolson says, by the fact that during the year of 1925 when eastern United States and United Kingdom markets were glutted with lumber and the demand and prices were low, spruce lumber from Alberta was sold with little difficulty and for better prices than were received by Oregon and Washington spruce producers and at prices in excess of those received in 1924, which was regarded as a very prosperous year in the spruce business.

In the New England states with their large pine forests, spruce lumber from Oregon, Washington and Alaska, is gaining great favor with factories and there is a real demand now for Alaskan spruce. And this demand is greater than for the Oregon and Washington spruce.

Chan Sing, owner and lessee, respectively, of the farm, brought suit against the logging company for nearly $15,000 damages in the Supreme Court last week.

Mr. Justice Morrison gave judgment for the plaintiffs, ruling that the company was negligent in that it operated during a period of hot weather and drought, when the whole countryside was in an inflammable condition.

But his Lordship confessed himself utterly perplexed by the conflicting nature of the evidence adduced as to the exact nature of the damage done to the property and to the crops grown upon it by Chan Sing. Pointing out that reputable witnesses for both sides gave diametrically opposing testimony of this phase of the action, Mr. Justice Morrison suggested a mediator and as a result Mr. Palmer, who is an expert horticulturalist and agriculturalist, was appointed.

IRISH PARTY REACH CANADA

Brogue of Ulster and Armagh Heard in Winnipeg Union Station

WINNIPEG, April 8. — The brogue of the north of Ireland resounded in the Union station here last night, when the first Irish party of considerable size of the season arrived on the third Canadian National immigration special so far this week from the S.S. Almania. Several prosperous families from Ulster, Armagh and other northern counties were included in the large group of young single men from the same district making 141 persons in all. Among them was John J. Campbell, who worked some years at farm work in Manitoba about a decade ago, and has now arrived with his wife and three children to make his home somewhere in the west.

These families, together with those included in the party of 122 English are being settled under the 3,000 family scheme. The balance of the train was made up of 72 Ukrainians, 41 Norwegians, eight of other nationalities, all of whom were booked by C.N.R. colonization officials immediately on arrival to points in the west where farm work was awaiting them.

The first party booked by the British settlement society, nine Irish, were on this train and arriving placed by the society's Winnipeg representative.
