CONSERVATIVES CHOOSING A LEADER

PORT ESSINGTON MURDER CASE MAY CLOSE SOME TIME TODAY

Bowser and Ladner May be Both Dropped When Leadership Considered

Conservatives busily engaged formulating platform for party and will ballot for leader tonight or tomorrow

KAMLOOPS, November 24.—Many rumors were heard this morning that a compromise candidate for the party leadership would be chosen, the most persistent being that Mr. Bowser would drop out and Senator Taylor would be nominated. In this way, it was declared, Bowser supporters hope to upset the plans of the Ladner backers, the belief being expressed that many interior delegates who are against the return of Bowser but not pledged to Ladner, might be induced to vote with a solid Bowser bloc and thus defeat Ladner. Balloting is not likely to take place before late tonight or tomorrow morning.

NEW CABLE IS OPENED UNDER NEWEST PLAN

DOMINIONS HAVE MORE CONTROL
AND GREAT BRITAIN LESS THAN FORMERLY

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—The powers of the Dominion Government are increased and the powers of the British Government diminished with regard to the control of the Pacific Cable under a new agreement made by the Premier's Committee of the Imperial Conference. Two members of three members will represent the British Government on the board and a chairman will be appointed by agreement among the partner governments instead of by the British Government solely.

Revision of the agreement marks the end of a dispute of several years regarding the management of the Pacific Cable between Canada and Australasia. The British Dominions interested are represented on the board and will share the profits on the operations of the cable.

CHINESE WIFE AS WITNESS

BEAUTIFUL ORIENTAL WOMAN HELD
ON $1,000 BOND IN CHARGE
AGAINST HER PARAMOUR

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Thomas August, the beautiful young Chinese wife of the former postmaster of Sitka, was ordered held in the county jail by United States Commissioner Brown as a material witness against L. R. Mars, who is bound over by a federal jury on a Main Act charge.

Mars and the woman were arrested last Friday on a vagrancy charge by the Sacramento police. Investigation disclosed that Mars and the woman met in Seattle where she lived after leaving Sitka. They came to California recently and registered as man and wife at a Sacramento hotel. Mars was taken to the county jail under $5,000 bonds and after the hearing the woman was held under bonds of $1,000.

Rapid Transit Company by Janie and Helen Bradshaw for $35,000 damages as a result of alleged injuries sustained during a collision by the company's bus.

GOVERNOR ON TEAM WORK OF THE RAILWAY

BACKS UP SIR HENRY THORNTON
ON HIS REMARKS AT LUNCHEON
IN OTTAWA

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—Speaking here today at the annual luncheon of the professional institute of the civil service of Canada, Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, was greeted by an audience of upwards of five hundred senior representatives of the public services of the Dominion, by its Governor General Viscount Willingdon, and by many members of the federal cabinet. "Team Play" was the subject of Sir Henry's address, and it led the Governor General to request the chairman of the gathering to allow him to thank the speaker and say a word from his own place on the national fabric about the value of teamwork.

"I think that what Sir Henry has told us has been extremely interesting to us all," said Lord Willingdon. "For anyone who, in administrative life or at play, has been engaged in leadership must know that teamwork 'playing unselfishly for the side' is the one thing that generally succeeds. I am sure you will all agree with me that Sir Henry Thornton may very well take great pride to himself for the wonderful success of team work on the Canadian National Railways. With his usual modesty he was not going to say anything about the captain of the side, but referred only to the wonderful work that was done by all the members of his team, but I do think we might well give him credit where credit is due: he has captained his side admirably and has altered the whole position of the Canadian National Railways since he took the command of the side."

SIR HENRY
Sir Henry Thornton in his address urged that loyalty and leadership are the two essentials that make for effective team play. The commonwealth of British nations was the finest expression of teamwork on a large scale that was in existence today. Patriotism was only a form of teamwork, in that patriotism represented love of country or loyalty to country. In whatever institution we might be assembled to coordinate our efforts, loyalty must be the groundwork and foundation, but loyalty has to be accompanied by good, capable and just leadership, leadership which was unprejudiced and which dealt fairly with every member of the team. Turning to the lesson that Canada as a nation might learn from observing the rules of good teamwork, Sir Henry said that Canadians were too few in numbers and not sufficiently opulent collectively to enjoy the luxury of fighting among themselves. He added: "Interprovincial hostility should be reserved to that time when we become a greater and wealthier nation, and when that time arrives we shall find it an unproductive occupation."

KING SENDS FIRST MESSAGE ON CABLE THREE DOMINIONS

OTTAWA, Nov. 24.—The first message over the new Pacific Cable between Canada, New Zealand, and Australia was one from the King to the people of the three countries which reads:

"I have learned with much interest of the new cable across the Pacific which is open today. I welcome this addition to the facilities of rapid communication which are so essential not only for the advancement and material prosperity of my people but also for the promotion of mutual good understanding between them."

Ashes to be Scattered on South Pacific Ocean During Moonlight Night According to Early Pact

VANCOUVER, November 24.—In accordance with the last wish expressed of Gardner Johnson, pioneer shipping man of British Columbia, who died Friday, his ashes will be scattered on the waters of the Pacific between here and Honolulu.

It was learned today that Johnson cruised in the south seas many times and years ago agreed with his friend, Captain Sydney Phillips of the Canadian-Australian Royal Mail line, that whichever died first the other would have the mission of bearing the ashes of his friend to the South Pacific and scattering them to the waves on a moonlight night.

Phillips is now superintendent of the line stationed permanently at Sydney but the agreement with Gardner Johnson will be carried out by Captain Crawford of the Aorangi and another intimate friend of Johnson's.

ADVERTISING SIGNS WILL BE TAKEN DOWN

VANCOUVER, Nov. 24.—Steps will be taken immediately to remove all advertising signs from provincial highways, Minister of Public Works Sutherland stated at a conference of officials of the provincial and municipal governments and the auto club of B.C. today. Yellow signs for all highways will be adopted hereafter.

Priest and Canadian Nuns Are Robbed by Pirates and Clothes Articles Taken but All Survive

HONG KONG, November 24.—Father W. A. Fletcher and seven Canadian nuns survived raids made by 21 different gangs of pirates on the steamer Waihoe bound to Hong Kong. The priest and nuns were robbed, locked in a small stateroom for 60 hours while the vessel was being looted.

Twelve well-dressed Chinese, posing as passengers, shot and killed the Chinese soldier guards, the purser, cashier, and clerk of Waihoe, beached the vessel, robbed the passengers and then leisurely removed the cargo of kerosene, food supplies and furniture.

The Chinese passengers were taken ashore and are held for ransom. After the first band of pirates left the ship, twenty other gangs boarded the vessel at different times for loot. The last gang was reduced to stealing the shoes worn by the nuns and priest's hat and coat.

Sankey Murder Trial Defence Now Going on in the Assize Court

Case will probably go to jury late this afternoon with Sankey trying to prove he was not there

The end of the Sankey murder trial at the Supreme Court Assizes being held here before Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald is now in sight and the jury will probably retire late this afternoon or in the evening to consider its verdict. The last crown witness, Dr. J. A. West, who told of human bloodstains being tested on accused's clothing, was heard this morning after which four defence witnesses—H. Kameda and Rev. W. H. Pierce of Port Essington and Joshua McKay and Arthur Wesley of Port Simpson—were called to the stand before adjournment was taken at 12.40 until 2 o'clock this afternoon. The next witness this afternoon is Mrs. Kameda and she will be followed by accused who will take the stand to give evidence in his own defence. Then will come the addresses of counsel and the charge of His Lordship before the jury retires.

The defence will rest, as Mr. Patmore stated, in his outline of evidence that is being adduced to the effect that accused as alleged did not follow the girl along the trail on the day in question, and that it was impossible for him to be near, see or follow the girl that morning. Explanation, Mr. Patmore said, would be made to account for the bloodstains that had been found on accused's clothing which were later covered with sand or mud.

At the opening of yesterday afternoon's session His Lordship stated that he would meet with defence counsel's request that witness, John Sankey, be allowed to tell the court what he (witness) had said to accused on the morning of his violent nose bleed. John Sankey was then recalled to the stand and he stated that he told Joe that it was a very good thing his nose was bleeding.

Margaret Sankey, on entering the witness box, was apparently struck dumb for the first few seconds but, on getting into her stride, proved to be an intelligent and clear witness. The evidence she gave in her examination by the crown prosecutor, A. M. Johnson, K.C., was unshaken by L. W. Patmore's cross-examination and she turned out to be one of the best if not the best of the crown witnesses.

Witness came from Port Simpson in April with her father to live at Port Essington. Her evidence of the movements and dress on the day of May 23 of accused, who lived in the same house at Port Essington, was largely corroborative of that which had been given earlier in the day by her father, John Sankey. She had been present at the dance the night previous which accused had also attended. When she got home about 1 o'clock, Joe was in bed.

About a week before May 24, witness said, she had pressed the trousers of accused's blue suit. After a bit of clever questioning by Mr. Johnson, witness finally stated that she had not noticed anything out of the ordinary with the trousers at that time. She did not remember having mended accused's clothes at any time but had noticed, when she was pressing the pants, that there was a little patch on one leg.

IDENTIFIED THE PANTS
Under cross-examination, witness identified the trousers, an examination of which disclosed that there was one tear below the knee which had been mended with thread and another place further up where a patch had been put in. She did not remember whether or not accused had his vest at Port Essington. A vest had been found in the Port Simpson home to which they returned in October. A faded lavender shirt which was produced in court was identified by witness as accused's. It was his only good shirt and she supposed it was the one he had worn at the dance on May 23. On Sunday afternoon, she said, he had on a clean khaki shirt.

Re-examined by Mr. Johnson witness stated that she thought she had washed the lavender shirt the Monday previous to May 23. The shirt as produced in court was soiled and grimy.

LAWN TENNIS PROFESSIONALS MAY NOT COME

VANCOUVER CLUB REFUSES TO POST
$3,000 GUARANTEE TO VISITOR

VANCOUVER, Nov. 24.—Refusal of the Vancouver Lawn Tennis Club executive to post a five thousand dollar guarantee for the appearance here of the troupe headed by Lenglen resulted in the disruption of the plans for their appearance in the Pacific Northwest. It was learned that the committee was informed that only two dates were open next week for exhibitions in Vancouver and when they learned that the largest auditorium was not available on such short notice, they decided not to post the guarantee.

The decision, it is understood, will probably result in the cancellation of the schedule for the appearance at Victoria and Seattle as well as here.

TO ESTABLISH CREDIT BUREAU

RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION
MADE DECISION AT MEETING
LAST EVENING

Bringing to a head a project that has been discussed for some time, the Retail Merchants' Association at its regular monthly dinner in the Commodore Cafe last night decided to establish a credit bureau in the city. The bureau, which is already being put in operation, will be conducted directly by the officers of the association.

Other business pertaining to the affairs of the association was discussed at the meeting which was presided over by P. H. Linzey and at which a good turnout of twenty-two members was present.

At its next meeting in November, the association will nominate candidates and in January the election of 1927 officers will take place.

USED GASOLINE TO LIGHT FIRE

WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN LOSE
LIVES AND TWO OTHERS BURNED BADLY

GILBERT PLAINS, Man., Nov. 24.—Mrs. Steve Latowski and two children, a boy of six and a baby thirteen months old, were burned to death here yesterday when the home was destroyed by a fire which originated in an attempt to light the kitchen fire with gasoline by the woman's sister-in-law. The latter and a brother of Mrs. Latowski were badly burned. The victims were not awake at the time of the fire and the charred bodies were found in bed in the ruins of the home.

APPEAL TO DOMINIONS AIRFORCE DEVELOPMENT.

In Great Britain numerous appeals are being made by prominent men to the Dominions to help develop the airforce and commercial air routes, something which has been done to a small extent already by people of that country. Here is one of the appeals made through the columns of the London Times by Lord Montagu of Beaulieu:

My old friend Lord Sydenham, with whom I sat on the War Air Committee in 1916, has reminded us on Trafalgar Day of certain new factors, such as "roads, railways, and petrol," involved in the protection of ocean highways. But surely the most powerful modern factor is air power and the seaplane.

Man's control does not "end with the shore" as formerly, for the air has no limits and extends over land and sea alike. It is not only on the sea that our trade routes must be protected a few years hence, but in the air; and for the sea trade routes also, the seaplane, combining five times the range of vision and four times the speed of a destroyer, with the power of a long-range gun able to hit 250 miles away, is nowadays the most efficient means of patrol, defence, and attack. Again, wherever there is a naval base nowadays there should be an air base also to supplement and secure the naval units there.

Our obvious task today is to lay the foundations of Imperial Air Routes. We must have seaplane bases suitable for the R.A.F. and for commercial machines as well, and air ports as well as sea ports on Imperial routes.

Think of the world even 50 years hence. Who can doubt that for the long distances to India, Australia, New Zealand, the Cape, the West Indies, the F.M.S., Hong Kong, and to other ports the ordinary means of transport will be by air? Already the girdle of the earth, measured by time, shrinks every year. Weeks are dwindling into days, miles are as furlongs, and time, not distance, is the gauge by which we reckon how near we are today.

With great respect may I make a suggestion to this present Imperial Conference? What do we need? More research work, more machines, more orders for struggling firms, a more perfect chain of refuelling stations along air routes are wanted. All these things cost money. We, the overtaxed people of the old Mother Country, are doing our best. Individual firms, shareholders, and pioneers have contributed splendidly to such progress as we have made. Has not the time come when the other parts of the Empire should take some share of responsibility for our air future? Will they not help to safeguard air trade routes as they have helped our Navy in the past, in that same spirit of comradeship and in our common interests?

CREATIVE EVOLUTION

THEME OF GENERAL SMUTS

General Smuts, former Premier of South Africa, and prior to that a Boer general fighting against Great Britain, has written a book on philosophy which shows that the Boer mind is developing fast and is in sharp contrast to the ideas held by the late Oom Paul Kruger, who was his military leader, and who believed that the world was flat. Here is what a reviewer of his recent book says:

He reveals himself in this book as a whole-hearted advocate of the philosophy of creative evolution, the philosophy which, more than any other, is in the main stream of modern thought. The main idea of the book occurred to the author, we are told, 16 years ago, and, judging from the absence of references to such writers as Alexander, Whitehead, and Broad, it seems to have been developed very largely in independence of those who were working along the same lines. This makes General Smuts' work the more remarkable and reinforces the conviction that the main lines of the philosophy developed here will form part of the coming general outlook.

The theory of creative evolution aims at replacing the old materialist philosophy which has reigned, in science at any rate, for the last three centuries. The task is an urgent one, for the progress of science itself has made materialism untenable. Materialism was never satisfactory when applied to the phenomena of life and mind, but it is only recently that it has been found inadequate even in the region of inanimate matter. The old fundamental scientific concepts of matter, force, etc., must be replaced, or at least supplemented, by a different set. Professor Whitehead proposes to replace them. General Smuts is content, apparently, to supplement them. His supplementary concept is what he calls holism. There is evidence, he thinks, of a tendency throughout the universe to create larger and more perfect wholes, from the smallest whole—namely, human personality. A whole, as General Smuts conceives it, is not the mere sum of its parts. Its parts are not fixed, permanent units, which remain the same whatever combinations they enter into. The pattern or plan of the whole influences its parts. Thus we cannot imagine properties irrespective of the organism of which it forms part. Certain facts about cells cannot be explained without reference to the organism as a whole. "Thus if the crystalline lens is removed from the eye of a Triton, the iris will regenerate a new lens, although the lens and the iris in this case have been evolved from quite different parts." Even in explaining the phenomena of inorganic matter this conception of wholeness or holism may be usefully employed, but when we come to the phenomena of life and mind, it is essential.

The greatest whole that has yet emerged is human personality. It is from the analysis of this whole that we derive our concepts of mind and body. Neither mind nor body exists separately. A mindless body and a bodyless mind are both abstractions. What we actually know in experience is the organic combination of them called personality. General Smuts suggests that the most important science of the future will be the study of human personality. He suggests a name for this science—personology. It may be studied at present in biographies, but the biographies must be carefully selected. The man from whom we can hope to learn most of the possibilities of human development is the man with a rich and growing inner life. The business man or the administrator is of very little use for this purpose. General Smuts thinks, since he is so occupied with the external world as to have developed almost no inner life at all. Personality is precisely what these "great personalities" lack. But in certain artists and saints may be found examples of the loftiest synthesis that creative evolution has yet achieved on this planet.

CONTROVERSY OVER LAYING WATER MAIN

PROPOSAL TO PUT IN SIX INCH PIPE NEAR COW BAY PRECIPITATES DISCUSSION

A recommendation of the Board of Works to the city council at its meeting last night to lay a six inch water main along the waterfront from the drydock as far as P. Burns' building at a cost of $4,500 precipitated a controversy which lasted about half an hour as a result of which it was decided to lay over the recommendation for one week and in the meantime to send a delegation consisting of Aldermen Stephens, Joe Greer and R. F. Perry to interview Superintendent Tobey in regard to opening a road connecting the Canadian National dock with the Provincial Government dock.

Alderman Perry urged that the work of laying the main be authorized at once and Alderman Stephens objected to doing it unless the Railway Company was willing to build the desired road. Alderman Stephens also insisted that if a six inch main was built as far as Cow Bay it should be continued along the waterfront to give other owners of property equal protection.

The suggestion that the road concession be asked came from acting Mayor Massey who presided. He said the road could be built for about four thousand dollars. If the city was willing to do one job, the railway should be willing to do the other.

Alderman Perry thought it useless to fight. They would not get anything that way. Here was a man going to build a $65,000 building. He moved that they buy the pipe to be paid for by next year's council.

Alderman Brown said it was essential to have fire protection. It seemed that if they were to spend four thousand on this work the Railway Company should spend four thousand dollars on the road.

Alderman Perry urged that the report on the water be accepted and then they could take up the matter of the road with Superintendent Tobey.

After a great deal of discussion it was decided to hold over the report for a week and in the meantime the committee will meet Mr. Tobey in regard to the road.

CAUSTIC REMARKS
After the matter was shelved for a week, Edward Lipssett, who was present in the council chamber, made a few caustic remarks about using this application as a lever to get something else from the railway company. He had already spent several thousand dollars on the ground and he wanted fire protection. The council, he thought, might settle their arguments with the C.N.R. afterwards. The Board of Fire Underwriters insisted on a six inch pipe before they would give an insurance rate. He said he thought the policy of the council was wrong. They were asking industries to come here and refused to give them facilities.

In the course of the discussion some remarks were made about the railway refusing to do anything in spite of the low tax rate given them by the city. Next year they would be called upon to renew their agreement with the railway and they would then know what action to take. The railway benefitted from these leases on the waterfront for which the city was called upon to provide facilities.

THE MAN IN THE MOON says:

British weather is not very good. In fact, it is not any better than ours. Yet the people of the British Isles take it cheerfully and have thrived on it.

Hooray, hooray for winter!
Hooray for wind and sleet,
The blasts that pierce and splinter,
The frosts that freeze the feet!
O, let us go in training
For joyous mists and fogs
And days when it is raining
Ten thousand cats and dogs.

Let maidens sigh and simper
For August or July,
Let craven weaklings whimper
For weather that is dry!
Cry "Shame" upon the growler
Who shrinks from winter's cup—
The worse the day and fouler
The more it bucks one up!

Eyeballians and Frenchies
Their azure coat may prize,
But the Briton never blanches
Beneath his sterner skies.
Aye, let us all remember
What made us what we are
Is a good old damp December
Abounding in catarrh.

O bracing winds and bitter,
O shrewd and searching air!
O draughts that raise the sifter
From out his fireside chair!
O freezing-points and zeros!
O snow! O slush! O hail!
This is a land for heroes
With a weather scheme to scale!

Now that those road house magnates have been sent to jail, I fancy I see a job for Chief Justice Hunter to liberate them. He ought to be able to do it considering the practice he has had.

The problem local lady mathematicians are trying to solve today is how many pounds there are in a ton of coal and how long can the lights burn without burning up five dollars.

I bought myself a ton of coal
I burned it in a week.
And now I know if it keeps cold
I must some hot air seek.

A number of young ladies are putting on their washing caps each morning in order to try and induce it to freeze enough to make skating safe Saturday afternoon.

He took his skates and polished them;
And also had them ground.
And then a thaw set in at once
No ice, alas, he found.

ANNUAL BAZAAR AT CATHEDRAL

LADIES MUCH PLEASED WITH SUCCESS OF EFFORTS YESTERDAY IN RAISING LARGE SUM

The ladies of the Anglican Cathedral are particularly pleased at the result of their efforts yesterday at the annual bazaar when an amount exceeding $625 was raised by the Women's Auxiliary which had charge of the affair under the general convenorship of Mrs. Andrew.

Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Ross and the entertainment was carried on into the evening when Professor Pryce's Juvenile Orchestra played selections. Miss Dalby contributed solos and Mrs. Crewe's pupils gave picturesque dances, and Mr. Mons entertained with mouth organ selections. Much amusement was caused by C. V. Ewitt, who in costume sold apples.

The committees in charge were as follows:

ALICE ARM

Twenty-five men are being employed at F. L. Housley's logging camp on the Kitsault flats and, since operations commenced in the spring, three million feet of logs have been taken off. Logging up to the present time has been carried on on the north end of the flats but a 100 foot bridge is being built across the northeast fork of the Kitsault River to give access to the other side of the stream which will now be logged. The logs will be delivered to the Powell River paper mill.

The Success property, which lies about two miles from Alice Arm on the west, is being developed by the owners, W. A. Wilson, J. Peacock, J. A. Wilson and J. A. McDermaid. A tunnel has been driven into a four foot vein of good looking silver ore which has been traced for 500 feet. It is the intention of the owners to continue work throughout the winter.

Gus Strombeck has left for Vancouver where he will spend the winter months, returning to Alice Arm in the spring.

SANKEY MURDER TRIAL DEFENCE NOW GOING ON IN THE ASSIZE COURT.

twice on the Sunday afternoon, May 24. He was wearing a khaki shirt, his blue trousers seemed to have mud on both legs but his black shoes were clean. Under cross-examination, it came out that Brown was not very clear as to the times on the afternoon he had seen accused. He did not notice the condition of his trousers the first time.

DRUNK THE NIGHT BEFORE
Frank Gilhooly, a white fisherman, told of finding accused leaning against a rail outside the dance hall on the night of May 23. He had sat with him previously in the dance and accused, being very much under the influence of liquor, failed in an attempt to dance. After having seen the plight of accused outside witness testified that he assisted him to his home and placed him on his (accused's) bunk. Witness' description of accused's clothing was similar to that of previous witnesses only he testified positively that accused was wearing a vest. The clothes were in good condition and he noticed nothing out of the ordinary with them.

Under cross-examination, witness admitted there might have been mud on accused's trousers without him seeing it. He had not allowed accused to fall to the ground while taking him home. In answer to a suggestion by Mr. Patmore, witness said he himself never drank. His inability to dance was due to the fact that he had never learned to dance.

James Gray, whose evidence was also interpreted, told of the meeting on the morning of May 24 with John and Joe Sankey also of the walk to the old river boat inlander. On the way out they heard the Japanese say that the body had been found. One of Joe's remarks during the walk was "I wonder what the girl was doing in such a lonely place."

THE JAPANESE BARBER
Sam Shimada, Japanese barber, gave his evidence through the Vancouver interpreter, T. Magao, and, stating that he was a Buddhist in religious belief, was affirmed instead of being sworn by The Book. He was one of those who had joined the search for the missing school teacher but his efforts had been unsuccessful. On the morning of Monday he saw the body as it was guarded by three watchmen and he took the news back to town of its having been found. Witness had remarked to the crowd at Cunningham's corner: "It is rather funny that only yesterday we covered this particular spot in our search and did not find the body that has now been found there."

Under cross-examination, witness admitted that he had not searched over the exact spot.

FINDING THE BODY
Charles A. Moore, cannery bookkeeper, told of the search in which he had participated and which resulted in his finding the body about 6 o'clock on the morning of May 24 off the old mill road. The body was lying face downward and there were no signs of life. The clothes were disarranged. He covered the body over with skunk cabbage leaves and that afternoon turned it over to the police. The body was not touched between the time he had found it and the time the police arrived. A picture of the body at the spot it was found and also of a point nearby where the discovery of blood indicated there had been a struggle was proven by witness.

Dr. L. W. Kergin gave evidence of the post-mortem he had performed at 11 o'clock on the night of May 24 in the presence of Dr. J. A. West who had taken samples of blood. Deceased was 5 ft. 5½ inches in height, her weight was approximately 140 pounds and she was 21 years of age. He saw the dead body where it was found but only made cursory observations at that time. The post-mortem that had been performed after the remains were brought to the city established that there was a horizontal wound about 1½ inches in length on the left temple with blood oozing therefrom, a large swelling over the left cheek bone about three inches in diameter, scratches on both eyelids, fractured nose with blood oozing, ragged fractures of both lower and upper jaws the fracture of the latter extending to the left eye, marks as from human nails on both sides of the chin, extensive bruises on the neck, broken hyoid bone in the neck, depressed right lung with blood in the cavity, contracted heart, ruptured liver and various discolorations of the skin. The mouth and throat was plugged down to the Adam's Apple with moss and there was moss in the windpipe. There were no indications of criminal assault. The abraded throat might have been caused by the grasp of the hand of the person committing the assault but it would require a terrific impact with some heavy weapon to fracture the jaws. The rupture of the liver might have been caused by a heavy blow or the pressure of a knee.

MIGHT HAVE RECOVERED
"On the whole, what might her chances of recovery have been had the moss not been packed down her throat?" asked Mr. Johnson.
"She might have had a fighting chance," replied Dr. Kergin.
"What was the actual cause of death?"
"The actual cause of death was suffocation through the moss being plugged down her throat" was the conclusion of the doctor.

In answer to Mr. Patmore in cross-examination, Dr. Kergin testified that the girl's finger nails were unbroken but were discolored with blood underneath and her fingers were flexed. This was possibly due to a violent struggle. Asked if he had examined a cut on accused's finger, Dr. Kergin stated that he had seen a small finger abrasion which was not much more than a scratch. There was blood on the button band of accused's undershirt. This was on the afternoon of May 24 and he would say that the blood had been placed there a few hours previous, and not more than a day or so.

BRINGING UP FATHER

IN THE EVENING
When court resumed in the evening the room was crowded and many were turned away from the doors. Inspector Spiller was called to the stand and put in evidence to the effect that Eric Pottinger, one of the crown witnesses at the preliminary trial was now in England. The evidence of Pottinger, who had been storekeeper at B. A. Cannery, which was read to the jury by Mr. Gonzales, stated that he had sold accused a pair of light brown Oxford shoes about May 15 and some shirts. At the preliminary trial Pottinger identified the shoes which had been produced in court but none of the shirts in court were those he had sold accused.

The next witness was Sergeant Alex. McNeill who briefly described the trip to Port Essington with Inspector Spiller and other officers, which resulted in the finding of the body. He had seen accused on the afternoon of that day, May 24, and identified various articles of his clothing including the undershirt with the blood stains on the button band and water soaked shoes which were covered with grit and mud. Witness told of a subsequent investigation which resulted in the finding of deceased's barrette which was buried in five inches of mud and earth at a point roughly fifty feet from where the body was found.

The blood stain on the undershirt, witness said under cross-examination was not large but seemed to be fairly fresh looking.

INSPECTOR SPILLER
Inspector Spiller, with considerable detail, described the ground where the body was found and the spot some fifty feet distant under a trestle on the old trail where there was a large bloodstain. Near this latter point was a piece of 4 x 4 which was also blood stained and which witness identified when produced in court. This beam was practically covered with fern and moss on which there was also found blood. It had been removed recently for it was bedded in moss. Further down there was found a fresh break in the underbrush and, following the break, blood was found on the skunk cabbage leaves. At the end was the spot where the body was found.

Witness proceeded from the scene of the crime to the town of Port Essington and to the house of accused where he had Joe Sankey brought to him. He asked accused if he had seen the school teacher the day previous and his reply was "No." He then ordered accused to strip and the blood stains were found on the button band of his undershirt. Blood stains were also found on his khaki shirt. Accused pointed to his left index finger which was wrapped with an ordinary piece of rag. The inspector unwound the rag and found a small cut which showed red flesh. Accused was then placed under arrest and brought to Prince Rupert.

STATEMENT OF ACCUSED
The next day, the inspector testified, after repeated warnings, accused made a voluntary statement. The statement was read by witness. In the statement accused stated that on Saturday noon he quit work at B. A. Cannery and, after lying around the house for a while, he changed to his best clothes and went for a walk as far as the dance hall which he found was empty. He then went to the pool room and played pool for about an hour and set out again for the dance hall. On the way he met a Jap whom he did not know and purchased from him a pint of Scotch whiskey for which he paid $3.75. He went on to the dance hall where he walked around with James Gray and drank all the liquor. Then he went back to the pool room and, after ten o'clock, returned to the dance hall and started to dance with Martha Starr but was told that he was drunk and ordered to stop dancing. Accused said, however, that although he had been drinking he could take care of himself.

Under cross examination by Mr. Patmore a discrepancy in figures between the surveyor, Frank Rice, and witness as to the distance from the place of the alleged assault to where the body was found was pointed out and the inspector admitted that he might be open to correction having not made a definite measurement. The figure of the surveyor was 80 feet and that of the inspector 40 or 50. Witness admitted that Rev. Mr. Pierce had mentioned to him that two men who had gone up the river against the tide past the old sawmill, and had asked him to send his men out to see if they were white or Indians. This incident was on the afternoon of Monday and the inspector had not paid much attention as he felt that Mr. Pierce would have liked to have had charge of the investigation himself.

Constable Thomas Arthur Camm told of various visits he had made to Port Essington for the purpose of gathering accused's belongings from his shack. Various of these articles were produced in court and identified by witness.

Good taste and good health demand sound teeth and sweet breath.

self. He then went home with Frank and went to bed.
Waking up at 9 o'clock Sunday morning, accused's statement continued, he went downtown and met a girl in front of the Japanese ice cream parlor. He bought two ice cream cones giving the girl one. When she left, he had more ice cream and then walked around the block and went home at 10 o'clock. He stayed in bed until 4:30 and then got up for dinner. He walked out again and went to church then returning home and, after having a lunch, going to bed.
He got up at 6:30 Monday morning and, on finding there was no work, suggested to John Sankey and James Gray that they aid in the search for the girl whom they believed was still missing. Then they were told that her head had been found and that her head was smashed up, that she had been choked and that there were scratches on her throat.

GOT BLOOD ON SHIRT
At 1 o'clock that afternoon he went to work and at five minutes after one cut his finger with a hand saw. He told the foreman about it and, in shaking his finger, he got the blood on his undershirt. He went to George Sankey's house to get the finger wrapped and continued to work until he was sent for and arrested.
Concluding the statement, which was taken down in writing by the inspector and signed by accused, he had never done anything about the blood on his undershirt and had just left it there as he knew the police would get after him for the murder case.

The inspector told of a further conversation with accused on the next day when he had been sent for in order to read over his statement again, certain corrections were made.
Another statement that had been made by accused was disclosed by Inspector Spiller. Recorded in accused's own words it said: "I been down to graveyard a lot of times last couple of weeks but I never been on sawmill trail. I did not know it there. I never been in graveyard alone. On Friday before last I saw school teacher Felix Brown told me who she was. That was after supper. I said nothing else because I don't want to have anything to do with her."
There were no further conversations with accused, the inspector stated.

Cross Examination
Under cross examination by Mr. Patmore a discrepancy in figures between the surveyor, Frank Rice, and witness as to the distance from the place of the alleged assault to where the body was found was pointed out and the inspector admitted that he might be open to correction having not made a definite measurement. The figure of the surveyor was 80 feet and that of the inspector 40 or 50. Witness admitted that Rev. Mr. Pierce had mentioned to him that two men who had gone up the river against the tide past the old sawmill, and had asked him to send his men out to see if they were white or Indians. This incident was on the afternoon of Monday and the inspector had not paid much attention as he felt that Mr. Pierce would have liked to have had charge of the investigation himself.

DOMINION CONSTABLE
The last witness of the evening was Dominion Constable A. J. Watkinson who had not given evidence at the preliminary trial. Watkinson stated that he had been requested by the Indian Agent to go to Port Simpson and obtain the vest from the Sankey house. This he had done on October 25 and on November 22 the vest was turned over to Sergeant McNeill.

Under cross-examination, witness said the request to get the vest had been made a few days after the preliminary trial by Mr. Patmore through the Indian Agent. The vest was produced in court and identified by witness. It was noted that there had been a small piece cut from the inside lap of the vest. Witness said his headquarters had been in Port Simpson for several years. He told of having seen accused engaged in playing basketball some four years ago.

Mr. Patmore sought to tender through witness a sketch of Kameda's store at Port Essington which had been made about a week ago. Mr. Johnson objected to the plan going in unless various writings on it were explained.
At this point His Lordship stated that he was doubtful if the evidence of Watkinson was permissible. He commented on the fact that witness had obtained the vest in October and not handed it over to the police until November 22. He also remarked on the fact that a witness called by the crown had been drawing a plan for the defense. He would have to have the plan proved to the hilt as a proper one before he could allow it to go in. There should not have been writing on the plan, His Lordship declared.

At the suggestion of Mr. Johnson it was decided to have witness prepare a new and unmarked plan for presentation to the court this morning.

MADE EXPERIMENT
Witness continued to tell of an experiment he had made to ascertain if a person sitting at the Pierce fence could be recognized from the Sandahi house. No further evidence in regard to this experiment was taken when witness stated that it had been made on a dull day whereas the morning of May 23 was bright and sunny. Mr. Johnson objected to witness testifying to various conditions he had found at Port Essington after May 23. The court, Mr. Johnson declared, was interested only in conditions as they existed on the day in question. This stand was supported by His Lordship.

Witness told of having gone to Reinhold's boat building establishment. The windows were muggy and it might or might not have been possible to identify a person passing on the sidewalk. The country lying direct between the Sankey house and the hospital, witness stated, was rough muskeg covered with trees and logs similar to Prince Rupert townsite.
When court adjourned at 8:45 until 10 o'clock this morning, Mr. Johnson stated that there was but one more witness for the crown—Dr. J. A. West.
The jury slept last night in the Prince Rupert Hotel under guard of the sheriff and his deputies.

COURT REOPENS
At the opening of court this morning, Dominion Constable Watkinson was recalled to present a new plan of Kameda's store. To clear up the evidence of Inspector Spiller with regard to the distance from the spot where it was alleged the crime had taken place to the point where the body was found, F. D. Rice, B.C.S.L., was recalled and stated that the distance was 79 feet by the trail and approximately 55 feet by airline. Constable Camm was recalled to correct the numbering of one of the exhibits.

TEST OF BLOOD
Dr. J. A. West gave a detailed account of his examination of blood stains on the clothes of the accused. He gave a great deal of technical evidence and summarized his findings to the effect that a total of eleven positive human blood stains had been found and six or more negative. The blue serge coat had five positive stains and three negative, the trousers three positive and one negative, woollen undershirt, two positive and one negative, light cotton shirt one positive, and khaki shirt, one definite and one indefinite. On deceased's gauntlets, which he examined, the doctor said there were positive human blood reactions while the brown oxford shoes of accused gave no reactions. The ironing of accused's trousers with a hot iron and damp cloth might have seriously interfered with testing, Dr. West said.

In cross-examination, there was a good deal of haggling between the doctor and Mr. Patmore. Witness told of examining accused some five days after May 23, and finding no bruises or fingerprints on his hands or face. Grease was found inside accused's low shoes and on the laces but no blood. The finding of sand or mud over the blood stains on the clothing indicated that it had got there after the stains.
Joseph Naylor, a jurymen, asked if it was possible to determine difference in the blood of races or different groups of people. No satisfactory answer to the question was forthcoming.
OPENING THE DEFENCE
The first defence witness was Hichab Saburo Kameda, keeper of the store and ice cream parlor at Port Essington. He

PREMIERS SEE MOCK WARFARE

BRITISH NAVAL DISPLAY PUT ON FOR BENEFIT OF OVERSEAS VISITORS

The Dominion Premiers had a unique experience the other day when they were given a glimpse of the fighting forces of the Empire in mock warfare. Telling of the event one who was present said:

The Dominion Premiers and a large company of official guests saw the navy at work in conditions approximating as far as possible within reason and safety and comfort to warfare, and in weather which at first suggested that Britannia had not only ruled but ironed the waves. An innovation was the presence of ladies, about twenty, chiefly from the Dominions, being in the party. The company went by special train to Portland, and reached H.M.S. Revenge by tug in a grey morning, with the rocks of Portland and the cliffs of Weymouth beginning to respond to the sun behind the thinning clouds. Admiral Sir H. F. Oliver received his guests with a cordiality that did not distinguish between those who saluted the quarter-deck and those who did not, and soon we were at sea, with scout aeroplanes regarding us and enemy submarines diving at our sides, a minefield ahead, and an enemy fleet in the grey distance. Peril by air and water was concentrated upon us long before lunch time.

WHOLE BATTLE

The plan of this assembly of the Atlantic Fleet was to illustrate in fourteen phases a naval battle from beginning to end, showing each arm in ac-

GOT HER FEET WET CAUGHT BAD COLD

Mrs. Ernest Hall, Cardinal, Ont., writes:—"Last winter I got my feet wet and I caught a terrible cold. I took different kinds of medicine, but none did me any good and I seemed to be getting worse all the time.

One day I was reading about what your medicine had done for others, so I thought I would get a bottle. After I had taken a few doses I found it was helping me, so I took a few bottles and was completely restored to health. I cannot praise too highly, as I believe that if it were not for it I would be an invalid today."

tion and the operation of attack and defence. About fifty vessels took part from the battle-cruiser Hood, the most powerful warship in the world (41,200 tons) to the sloop Snap-dragon, which towed the 100-ft. long target during the concentrated fire by the 15-inch guns (causing the frivolous to wonder what would happen if the gunlayers bowled a "wide"). The strangest presence in the assembly was an enormous structure with a flat top that looked like a Clydebank torpedo shed that had broken loose and drifted to Portland. This was the Furious, the famous aircraft carrier, in whose hull only the practised eye could discern the beautiful swift lines of the "hush-hush" ship that was to depend on speed rather than armour and to catch the "tip-and-run" German raiders that now lie under the seas at Scapa. The Furious was converted into an aircraft carrier. Her 31 knots allow her to move beyond any squadron; she carries six flights of aeroplanes and has a complement of about 100 officers. Aircraft can fly from and alight on her deck.

The existing phases of the battle were developed with extraordinary punctuality and exactitude. Submarines of the "H" and "R" class appeared and submerged, and the visitors, straining their eyes to spot a tiny periscope in the sea, gained some faint idea what it all meant to the naval and mercantile marine seamen as they watched and watched the waters in all weathers through the long years of the war. Aeroplanes from the Furious came out of the sky and shot torpedoes. Minesweepers ahead, steaming up to eighteen knots, were clearing a mine-field of dummy mines. Revenge did not use her paravanes, that wonderful war invention of a mechanical cutter which works ahead of the ship cutting mine cables and bringing the mines to the surface for destruction, it being found too difficult to conduct this part of the battle with the decks crowded with guests.

DESTROYER FLOTILLA

The sixth phase was a destroyer flotilla taking station on anti-submarine screen ahead of the Revenge; then two submarines that had presumably got through the screen attacked the flagship. We were torpedoed four times—three times by L 18 (once at the engine-room) and once by L 21. The range was about 1,200 yards. Protecting destroyers then dropped depth charges for the submarines, and the force of their explosion, which is able to start the plates of any submarine within 75 yards, struck Revenge so sharply that we thought at first the shots were coming from her guns. The submarine disposed of, we advanced towards the enemy fleet, with their destroyers in position ready to run along the line of the three great battle cruisers, with the misty shapes of the battleships behind them.

CONCENTRATION FIRE

The main act of the drama was then staged, the cruisers opening concentration fire on the great rectangular red target that had haunted the day's operations in the distance. It is a development made possible by Sir Percy Scott's "director," by which the individual guns of a ship could be fired simultaneously at the same object. We saw the broadsides of a number of ships controlled by a signal on one object. Hood opened fire and ordered by signal the discharge of the guns of the other cruisers. It was thrilling to see and hear from the Revenge, whose gun turrets were now black with people. She lay back about half-way on the course between the firing ships and the target, which were separated by about seven miles. The sound of the guns that was heard, it seems, at Chertsey, 70 miles away, was deep, hard, and terrific, like the sound of the wives of the war gods flapping their sheets on their Olympian washing-day. At first shots were short, but on the fourth salvo the target seemed to be straddled, and that seemed to happen twice afterwards.

After this great act Revenge again became a combatant and was attacked. The range was four miles, and all crossed the line, the idea being that Revenge was one of a line of ships in motion. Two hits on Revenge were registered. Smoke screens were laid by the destroyers with chemical quickness, and the day's performance ended in the flaring sunset with the fleet formed up as Revenge steamed past them to harbor and anchored under the dark mass of Portland.

Everyone appreciated the way this visit was conducted from station to station, and no landsman had ever seen arrangements for their comfort that worked so smoothly and happily. The provision of luncheon for this great company on a warship at sea was a sort of miracle, and the program and explanatory work demands a special word. Nothing is too small or too big for the Navy.

SANKEY MURDER TRIAL DEFENCE NOW GOING ON IN THE ASSIZE COURT.

identified the plan which had been prepared by Constable Watkinson. About 9:30 he said after he had finished the writing of a letter he stated that he saw accused and Margaret Pierce eating ice cream outside his store. They went away and accused came into the store again about 11 o'clock and got more ice cream.

Kameda was subjected to a stiff cross-examination by Mr. Johnson. He was asked why he had given information to Mr. Patmore that he had never offered the police when they interviewed him in the course of their investigations at Port Essington. In reply he stated the police had not asked him about the particular point in question. He (witness) had not served accused with ice cream but it must have been his daughter who did.

Rev. W. H. Pierce told of a conversation he had had with the crown witness, Charles Reinhold, who told him of two suspicious white men going past his (Reinhold's) place on the morning in question just before the girl. Later an Indian had followed. After they had passed, Reinhold had stated to him, Pierce testified, that he himself had gone down to the old mill by boat to get some lumber. He was close to the shore but heard no screams.

Under cross-examination, Pierce told how he had thought it his duty to take a hand in the case, there being no other authorities in the village. Witness admitted being "busy as a bee" in the investigation. It came out that at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of Monday witness had seen two strange men rowing in the river against the tide and, connecting them up with Reinhold's story of two strange white men, felt they might be guilty and asked Inspector Spiller, who was then in Port Essington, to send men out to see who they were. Witness felt it was quite possible for two men to commit murder on Sunday morning and, 29 hours later, be rowing in full sight on the river.

NATIVE FRIENDS

Joshua McKay, Port Simpson Indian, told the court of accused going to the Y.P.E.A. Hall in March and being struck in the face with a basketball, violent unceasing ensuing. Blood was running down over his chin and he was holding his nose and went outside. He was wearing a blue serge suit which he had had for at least two years. Accused was not considered a good basketball player because his sight was bad. That he (accused) was not strong was apparent because he was unable to carry a 100 pound sack of clams.

Evidence of Arthur Wesley, another Port Simpson Indian, was along somewhat similar lines. He, however, had seen blood dripping from accused's nose and hands on to his shirt and coat.

TOOTH OF MAN FOUND BY FOSSIL HUNTERS

BILLINGS, Mont., Nov. 24. — Fossil hunters in the coal beds of Bear Creek Field near here have unearthed evidence claimed to show that a primitive man, who antedated the Neanderthal man and the pithecanthropus or Java man of the Pleistocene period by several million years, ranged the Bear Tooth country in the eocene period early in the age of mammals.

The conclusion was reached by the finding deep in the coal beds, located 45 miles from here, of a human tooth the enamel of which had long since turned to carbon and the lime of the roots to iron.

The tooth, declared by dentists of this city to be second lower molar of a human being, was found by Dr. J. C. Siegfried, of Bear Creek, who has been collecting fossils for the University of Iowa and for other institutions in this coal deposit.

The coal deposit is in the Fortunan formation, lowest of those lain down in the eocene period, 1,000,000 or more years.

SEWER SCHEME IS DELAYED

CITY COUNCIL DECIDES TO TAKE UP WITH RAILWAY COMPANY OUTLET AT HAYS COVE

The sewer scheme proposed by the city engineer, which had been laid over for a week, was again held over while the matter of an outlet at the mouth of Hays Creek near the Drydock is taken up with the railway company. Alderman Perry urged that the scheme be adopted as the beginning of the general sewer system for the city, but other aldermen wanted further information and more idea of what the cost of the completed system would be. All the aldermen who took part in the discussion were anxious that the sewer work should proceed but wanted to go slowly in the matter of expenditures until it was known just where the city stood and what the entire cost was likely to be. The motion of Alderman Brown to postpone closed the debate.

BASKETBALL LAST NIGHT

GOOD GAMES WERE FURNISHED FOR LARGE CROWD WHICH ATTENDED AT EXHIBITION HALL

A large crowd of fans which assembled last night in the Exhibition Hall saw four basketball games that, for spirit and action, left nothing to be desired. Though things were inclined to be rough at times, more particularly in the Intermediate League, a good brand of basketball was played withal.

In the Senior League, the Grand Terminals emerged from cellar position by defeating the Native Sons of Canada 25 to 22. It was a closely contested match and, right to the end, it was a see-saw score. At half time, the teams were tied 11 all.

George Mitchell and Eddie Smith acted as referees and details of play were as follows:

Native Sons—V. Menzies (7), R. Bartlett, Brick Skinner (2), G. Shenton (4), J. Farquhar (2), V. Meagher (7).

Total 22
Grand Terminals—H. Gordon (7), Ryall (6), K. Howard (12), J. Underwood, C. Thompson, George Hill, S. Gurchich.

Total 25

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE
The Intermediate League furnished another fairly close and very hot contest as a result of which the Grotto sustained its first defeat of the season at the hands of the Grand Terminals by a score of 25 to 14.

Grand Terminals—J. McNulty (8), Y. Katsuyama (3), S. Gurchich (7), R. Smith (3), S. Joy (4).

Total 25

Grotto—D. Gurchich (4), W. Wrathall (6), V. Meagher (4), J. Sim, D. Stalker, E. Bayliss.

Total 14

Referee—George Mitchell and Eddie Smith.

LADIES' LEAGUE
The Ladies' League game was a spirited affair but, from the looks of a 30-1 score, it would seem that the Maple Leafs did not have a very hard time beating the Adanacs who forced them to a tie in a game last week.

Adanacs—Miss D. Gosse, Miss V. Smith, Miss W. Dyer, Miss M. Palmer, Miss A. Mingohr, Miss C. Mitchell (1), Miss M. Lancaster.

Total 1

Maple Leafs—Miss M. Harvey (8), Miss M. Graham, Miss L. Lowe (6), Miss C. Harvey (14), Miss H. Grant, Miss H. Sim, Miss M. Thompson.

Total 30

Referee—George Mitchell.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
The Junior League is looked upon now as a producer of close games and it lived up to its reputation last night when the Tuxis Boys won their first game of the season by defeating the Stars 12-10.

Stars—T. Kelsey (6), E. Smith, W. Donald, A. Cross, D. Morrison, W. Murray (4).

Total 10

Tuxis Boys—B. Hunt (8), F. Morrison (2), W. Patmore, H. Heilbroner, F. Cameron, M. Sakamoto (2).

Tossed for Hours Unable to Sleep

Now enjoys rest and sleep thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

About the surest indication of exhausted nerves is sleeplessness. You may have headaches and indigestion. But the most distressing symptom is lying awake at night unable to rest or sleep. Mr. Fred Ross, Dresden, Ont. writes: "I certainly can sympathize, with anyone who suffers from nerve trouble. For many months I was afflicted with nervousness, and after going to bed I would toss about for hours unable to sleep. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was recommended to me, so I gave it a trial. I found it a splendid treatment as I can now enjoy a good night's rest. For the nerves, the best passport I can give is 'Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.'"
