DAILY EDITION Tuesday, May 4, 1926.

Futility of Suppression.
 In London yesterday the printers on the Daily Mail refused to set up an editorial article headed "For King and Country" in which was the expression "a general strike cannot be tolerated in any civilized country." Apparently the idea was that if they refused to set it, the article would not be disseminated. That was where they made a grievous mistake.

The way to impress anything on the public is first to get it suppressed. Let it be a book, a movie play, a religious sect, a red propaganda or anything else, attempted suppression is the best advertisement it can have. Everyone is then curious about it and a great deal of sympathy always goes out to the suppressed one.

So it is with the Daily Mail article. We should never have heard of it if those obliging but foolish printers had not refused to do their duty. Doubtless the other London newspapers and all the provincial papers in Britain gave much prominence to the article and eventually it would reach all Daily Mail readers as well. The publishers of the paper would see to that.

Suppression is out of date. What people want today is information on all subjects, both those of which they approve and those with which they disagree.

Much Sympathy With Strikers.
 Canadians generally will have a great deal of sympathy with the striking miners in Great Britain. The life underground is not a desirable one and the pay is not at all large. The difficulty seems to be that the present state of the coal industry is such that large wages cannot be paid. At this distance it is difficult to know all the intricacies of the case. What we are aware of is that the strike is on, that much suffering will ensue, that hate will be engendered, that the whole nation will suffer money loss as well as the loss of prestige and future business, that other industries will be crippled at a time when they were being injured badly by other causes.

Strikes are always an injury both to employers and employed. Yet there seems to be as yet no other method of settling industrial disputes. The worst thing is that even strikes do not settle them.

Sometimes Fight Seems Necessary.
 Sometimes a fight seems necessary in order to bring both sides to a dispute to a realization of their strength. So it is industrially. It seems as if it were necessary now and then to resort to brute force in order to give both sides an opportunity to extend themselves. The strike is a sort of safety valve but an extremely dangerous one. The difficulty is that in arousing the passions of the multitude, lives are often lost, much unnecessary suffering is caused and women and children are the greatest sufferers. At any rate the strikers get the worst of it even if they win. It does not speak very highly for our civilization that it should be necessary to resort to such methods. It does not indicate that people generally are ready for responsible government when such things as strikes are the only methods of settling industrial disputes.

Era Of Peace Has Not Yet Arrived.
 As long as strikes are the only method of settling industrial disputes, it cannot be said that the era of peace among nations has arrived. If the people within a country cannot live without industrial war, how is it to be expected that nations can live together without fighting among themselves. We have to change our mental attitude in all matters before we can say that "wars will be no more."

OPPOSITION TO MEIGHEN SHOWN QUEBEC PAPERS

Montreal Star Leads Attack on Conservative Leader in Lengthy Editorial Article

(Victoria Times)
 Ottawa dispatches tell us that the report, telegraphed to a London newspaper from Montreal, that Mr. Meighen may be the next Governor-General of Canada, was treated as a joke at the capital, especially in Conservative circles. Undoubtedly that was the proper way in which to treat the report, because while it might be desirable to have a Canadian as the sovereign's representative at Ottawa, there are many obvious reasons why Mr. Meighen would not do. The translation of an active Canadian party leader direct to this lofty post would be an undesirable innovation, and wherever else the present head of the Conservative party might wish to be translated to, that place assuredly is not Rideau Hall.

But the party who sent the report about Mr. Meighen to London for publication was not joking. The Montreal Star, for example, no doubt regards the subject very seriously. It is so anxious to get rid of the Conservative leader that it is unable to contain itself, so a week ago it delivered itself of an editorial article over a column long from which we extract the following:

Star Article
 "The Conservatives are at high-water mark in Ontario today. They cannot possibly hope to do much better in the Maritime provinces where there are only six Liberals. The Progressive-Dunning union on the Prairies will leave them worse off west of Lake Superior. Yet in the present House they are seven short of a majority.

"They must break into Quebec or break to pieces on the rocks of defeat.
 "Must we endure another Conservative defeat and five more years of tariff uncertainty to convince Mr. Meighen and his loyal friends that he stands in the way of success? If so, the result may be disastrous to the Dominion. What will five years of Dunning not do?
 "Sir Charles Tupper was not too proud to resign the leadership when two elections had proven that he could not win.
 "We have spoken of loyalty—loyalty to the party and loyalty to the country. In this crisis, there is surely a chance for loyalty to be shown above all personal considerations. There are many capacities in which a man of Mr. Meighen's brilliant talents can serve the nation. One of them very obviously is not in leading a party to a popular victory.

"Is it not possible that the question may arise in Mr. Meighen's own mind:
 "Is it fair to the Conservative party which has so highly honored me and made me what I am to play into the hands of the Liberal party by presenting them with the best election asset they possess, a Conservative leadership which insures them a solid Quebec?"

Montreal Gazette
 The Montreal Star's pathetic appeal to Mr. Meighen to efface himself must not be likened unto a lone voice crying in the wilderness. It speaks for a large and influential element of the Conservative party in Montreal. Its more decorous neighbor, the Montreal Gazette, said the same thing in a different way a year ago. The anti-Meighen wing of the party in that locality evidently is unanimous in the view that it is impossible to enter the pearly gates of political power and preferment under the present leader, and, we may be sure, it already has a successor on order. For example, there is C. H. Cahlan, M.P., from Montreal. There is R. B. Bennett, M.P., from Calgary. Both are men of outstanding ability and both, of course, would be quite regular and orthodox in their Conservatism. Sir Robert Borden is unattached, but Sir Robert would scarcely be able to break the Quebec soil.

After Other Heads
 This is not the first time Lord Atholstan's newspaper, The Montreal Star, has tried to unhorse a Conservative leader and appoint one of its own choice.

In 1910 it and the elements it represents went after the head of Mr. Borden, then leader of the Conservative opposition at Ottawa—as Mr. Meighen is today—and nearly took it. They proposed to appoint, first, Sir James Whitney, then Premier of Ontario, and, when he rebuffed them, Sir Richard McBride, who also turned them down. Meanwhile, a mutiny was organized in the Conservative ranks in the House of Commons, and Mr. Borden became so disgusted with the intrigue that he was on the verge of resigning. In the end the chief effect of the conspiracy against him was the strengthening of his leadership. The intrigue from the same source against Mr. Meighen ought to have the same result. The weakness of the Conservative party in Quebec is due not alone to Mr. Meighen's leadership. It is due also to the fact that the party has the support of The Star.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

SOME of the older people advocate a return to greater use of the rod and the strap for the education of children. Yet see what kind of old men that system resulted in.

BURBANK had some doubt of his own immortality, yet no one else has. He will live for ever in his work.

THIS is the season when there is sap in the timber and a sap in the flivver.

I HAVE been thinking of going on strike. I want more space, big headlines and a pretty border for my stuff. Somebody ought to strike in Prince Rupert so I suppose I must be the goat.

SOME London printers did not like the tone of an editorial in a London newspaper so they refused to print it. The Daily Mail editor must have arranged that suppression in order to get everybody to read the editorial in the other papers and thus advertise the Daily Mail.

I DON'T like what you say,
 So be damned if you shall say it,
 For only pleasing things you may
 In language thus portray it.
 For these are modern days—
 When liberty's in vogue—
 It's liberty to say nice things—
 And not displease a rogue.

I'VE been thinking what a fine thing it would be if we had a five day week in the newspaper office. Jake says he thinks we'd be better off if all the newspapers were suppressed for a year or two.

WORLD COURT AT ELECTIONS

Two U.S. Senators to Ask For Endorsement by Party Today

INDIANAPOLIS, May 4.—Two Republican-United States senators who voted against American participation in the world court, are submitting their judgment to a jury of the electorate in the Indiana primary election, today. James E. Watson, of Rushville and Arthur R. Robinson of Indianapolis, are candidates for nomination.

Through the death of Senator Samuel M. Ralston, a Democrat, Indiana will elect two senators this fall. Robinson, appointed to Ralston's place, seeks to retain his seat during the remainder of the term which expires in 1929. Watson is running for the full six-year term.

All of Indiana's thirteen members of the house of representatives are standing for re-election. Three Democrats and two Republicans are unopposed.

Because of the number of Democrats in the long term senatorial race and Republicans in the short term contest, there is a possibility that the choice of two candidates will be delayed until the party conventions in June. A majority vote is required at a primary to determine a candidate.

CHURCH UNION GREAT SUCCESS

So Says Dr. Sipprell of Victoria Who Has Just Arrived Back From East

PERPLEXING PROBLEMS Score of Non-concurring Churches Have Asked to Come in Since Vote Taken

VICTORIA, May 4.—Rev. Dr. Sipprell, pastor of Metropolitan United Church here, on his return from a visit east on church work outlined what was being done and the success attained by the church since the amalgamation of the three former bodies. He was a member of a commission formed to prepare a policy of permanent organization to present to the general council of the church on June 10.

Commissions were appointed to the number of four, dealing respectively with the following matters:—Colleges and higher education; publishing interests; benevolent funds; missionary and other church interests.

In December the various commissions deliberated in separate council but in April they held joint sessions to consider and harmonize matters of common interest.

None Sacrificed

"Some perplexing problems were presented to each commission for it was evident from the beginning that Union would result in a bringing together of interests that would seem to eliminate a number of officials in church administration, and also require fewer men to supply the pastoral charges of the United Church," said Dr. Sipprell. "It was only with the question of official administration that the commissions were called upon to deal and from the beginning to the close of their deliberations two principles of procedure were kept in mind. The first was that no officer of the church who had been employed before union by any of the uniting denominations should be sacrificed and, secondly, that economy must be observed, where it did not imperil efficient administration.

"These problems and interests are clearly illustrated in the work of commission number one, dealing with colleges and higher education of which Dr. Sipprell was a member.

Colleges

The questions of how many colleges should the church maintain? where should they be located? what should be the character of their curricula? how large should be the staff of instruction and how far should the church offer financial aid? were all questions which were highly debatable because many interests arising out of past tradition-location of existing institutions, special financial trusts and relation to state education entered into the discussion.

"The commission seeking to consider all these interests, so involved, and to do so without loss of efficiency, or sacrifice of the interests of individuals found

Budget

"The budget of the United Church for the past eleven months was set at $1,000,000 while the amount required for the ensuing year will be $3,100,000. The latest report to hand on the budget of $1,000,000 for the past year indicates that $3,900,000 has been definitely assured and it is expected that further amounts contributed during the present month will bring the total amount well beyond the $1,000,000 mark.

A Success

"The success of Church Union during this its first year of history has exceeded the hopes of the most sanguine of its promoters. Of the 118 former Presbyterian ministers, who chose to advocate the cause of union, although the churches they served preferred to remain in the denominational relation, and as a result of which they have been deprived of their living, all have been provided with work in the United Church, while more than a score of churches, that voted among the non-concurrents on June 10, have since made application to enter the Union.

It is possible to secure the union into one of the theological institutions existing in Vancouver, Edmonton and Montreal, and discovered, moreover, that negotiations were well under way that would result in similar union as between Wesley and Manitoba Colleges in Winnipeg, Knox and Victoria in Toronto and Mt. Allison at Sackville with Pine Hill College at Halifax.

Reduced 25 Per Cent

"Similar amalgamation of interests was under consideration in the other three commissions and while the conclusions reached are first to be offered to the general council for consideration and acceptance or otherwise it is generally expected that the officers of the United Church will be reduced by 25 per cent below what obtained in the aggregate before union in the three denominations and the expense of administration reduced approximately by the same percentage and this without reduction of efficiency or diminution of work to be done. To accomplish this with harmony and true Christian courage is a task worthy of the best traditions of all the churches entering into Union.

BIRTHDAY TRIBUTE TO MRS. F. W. HART

Friends Gathered Last Night and Presented Her With Silver Flower Basket and Message

"Some people's birthdays do not count in bringing old age nearer. For, in your case, the only way you seem to grow is dearer." Such was the tribute attached to a beautiful silver flower basket that was presented to Mrs. F. W. Hart last night when a party of friends waited at her home, 616 Sixth Avenue West, to surprise her on the event of her birthday and to wish her many happy returns of the day.

The presentation was made by Mrs. P. E. Baisler who referred to the high regard and esteem in which Mrs. Hart was held by her many friends. Mrs. Hart responded suitably and a song, suitable to the occasion composed by Mrs. W. J. McKinley, was sung by the company. The evening was spent enjoyably with music and games and a dainty supper was served.

Those present were Mrs. P. E. Baisler, Mrs. W. D. Moxley, Mrs. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McKinley, Mr. and Mrs. John.

Dyspepsia, Caused Her Agony After Every Meal

Mrs. M. Caldwell, 2335 Hemlock St., Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"After suffering for years with agony, from dyspepsia and indigestion, after every meal, I started taking and got such relief I kept right on until I had used three bottles and was completely relieved of my trouble. Now I can eat anything I wish without having any bad after effects."

only by The T. Milburn Toronto, Ont.

It is expected that Rev. James Endicott, D.D., secretary of the Foreign Missionary Department of the former Methodist Church will succeed Dr. Pidgeon as Moderator, and that Rev. Dr. E. Albert Moore will be continued as secretary of the General Council.

"Owing to the near approach of the meeting of the General Council not many eastern officials can be spared to visit the western conferences but Rev. J. H. Arup, D.D., will probably attend the B.C. conference meeting in Vancouver, May 12."

BANK QUESTIONS FOR BORROWERS

Manager in Chief Tells What His Institution Wants in Way of Information

Addressing the Hamilton Rotary Club, J. P. Bell, manager-in-chief of the Bank of Hamilton division, Canadian Bank of Commerce, submitted the following questions to indicate what a bank expected of its customers. If these questions were honestly answered in a satisfactory way when credit was asked, he said, that relations between borrower and banker would be ideal:

- Are the borrower's antecedents and character good?
- Are his personal drawings from the business large?
- Has he ever failed or had a suspicious fire?
- Is he well liked and respected in the community?
- Does he kite notes or checks?
- Is he in good health? His age?
- Is he what is known as a "re-bater," and man who makes unfair claims for goods in the hope of getting rebates or other concessions?
- Reliability
- Can reliance be placed on his statements?
- What are his personal habits?
- How does he spend his evenings?

Pains, cramps, or callouses there?

If so, it indicates that the arch across the ball of your foot has broken down. This form of foot trouble causes a hole to wear through the sole of the shoe as shown in the illustration.

Sharp pains and cramps at the ball of the foot and callouses on the sole at that point indicate a serious foot trouble. Shoes will spread across the vamp, lose their shape and wear out sooner than they should. The shoes are condemned when in reality the feet are the cause.

The pain relieved and the cause corrected by gently, but firmly supporting the weakened muscles. Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Appliances relieve the pain and cramps and restore the arch to normal position. These devices also prevent the shoes from spreading and wearing holes in the soles at this point.

Come in and let our Foot Comfort Expert demonstrate the manner in which these remarkable appliances can be adjusted so they will meet your individual requirements. There is no charge for this service.
