CANADA IS NOT AN INTERNATIONAL SLUM

So Says Edmonton Newspaper in Discussing Whiskey Running to United States

(Edmonton Bulletin)
Ottawa, it is reported, has adopted new railway and customs regulations which will effectively hamper, if they do not stop, the wholesale smuggling of whiskey into the United States from this country. Quite regardless of their views on the question of "wet" versus "dry" law as a means of suppressing drunkenness, that is a move that must have the hearty approval of every decent Canadian citizen.

DISSATISFACTION WITH COOLIDGE MAY COST NOMINATION

WASHINGTON, D.C., Mar. 26.—Constant talk of strong Republican possibilities for the presidency in 1928 is causing uneasiness among the friends of President Coolidge. This talk, which is to the effect that a number of strong aspirants are actively laying wires for the 1928 nomination, has been on here for some months but it is growing more pronounced.

Undoubtedly, the Coolidge leaders have been hoping to see the President renominated in 1928 without a fight but the prospects for such a thing are steadily diminishing. Political troubles for the administration are looming up in a number of directions.

The agricultural situation, the tariff situation, the dissatisfaction of the far west over the administration's reclamation policy the dissatisfaction over the attitude of the administration toward the Shipping Board, and numerous other factors are at work.

RAPID FIRE HELP TO MINING IN B.C.

Lotts Tells How Department of Mines Came to Aid of Outfit Going in from Vanderhoof

EDMONTON, Mar. 26.—Sixty tons of mining machinery belonging to the Allotte Mining Corporation of Seattle is now on the way into the Omineca country via Vanderhoof. The American engineers managed to get as far as Fort St. James with their heavy consignment, but with the disappearance of the snow they were unable to progress. The matter was then taken up with the B.C. provincial government which sent in a large gang of men and several tractors to cut a 120-mile road into the mineral country, which work is now being done.

B.C. Law Good

"This government co-operation was commented upon by the members of the Seattle Mining Club," says R. G. W. Lett of the C.N.R. natural resources department, who has just returned from a tour of the coastal states. He says that the American mining men consider the B.C. mining laws to be the best in America, and he found them much interested in Canadian minerals, though little was known of the northern Alberta oil field until the C.N.R. official brought the subject up before the various groups he addressed.

Another Small Sawmill South of Porcher Island Operating Using Rock Crusher Engine

A small sawmill, having a daily capacity of something near 10,000 feet, has been established at Murder Cove, one mile from Beaver Pass light and about 52 miles down the coast from here, between Porcher Island and Macaulay Island, by the brothers Schaeffer—Hubert, Fred, Frank and Joseph—who arrived in this district last fall from Handel, Saskatchewan. A small quantity of lumber has already been cut with the use of a steam engine but this is being replaced by a 25 horse power gasoline engine, which has been bought after having been used in the rock crusher here and which is being taken to the mill this week end by the brothers who are in town. It was found impossible to operate the steam engine on account of wet wood. The Schaeffer brothers are doing their own logging and have arranged to market their lumber production locally. There are five men employed, the fifth being Leslie Hudson of this city.

League Of Nations In Public Eye.

The League of Nations has been very much in the public eye of late owing largely to the application of Germany for admission to the league being considered and the demand made by Brazil, Spain and Poland that they be given permanent positions.

The present permanent members of the League are Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan. The temporary members include, Brazil, Spain, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Uruguay. Spain was backed by France in an effort to secure a permanent seat and the influence of the Vatican is also with her. Great Britain has seven votes in the assembly and one in the council. The chief countries outside now are United States, Russia and Germany.

Value Of Hemlock Is Demonstrated.

The value of hemlock wood has often been mentioned in these columns and it is interesting to note that its use is becoming more general. Discussing it the Vancouver Province of recent date says:

"The most beautiful evergreen tree native to British Columbia is the hemlock. It grows in the primeval forest in amity with its lordlier cousin, the incomparable Douglas fir; and its graceful pendant foliage makes a pleasant foil to the sombre dignity affected by the monarch of the woods. It is found almost everywhere in company with the fir, and often with the cedar; and does not occur in isolated stands. We are most of us used to thinking in terms of fir and cedar and spruce when we think of all of our native trees that it surprises us to learn there is almost as much hemlock as fir in British Columbia. Yet that is the fact. The estimated stand of fir is, roughly, seventy-five billion feet, board measure; of hemlock, sixty-four billion feet.

"These facts are illuminated by the statements of Loren Brown, former lumber commissioner of the province, in an interview. He says that new chemical processes in the staining of soft woods have been particularly successful in the case of British Columbia hemlock; and that the results obtained have been so pleasing to Old Country lumber merchants that a new and prospectively considerable market for hemlock is opening in Great Britain.

Cinderella Of Native Woods.

"Hemlock has been the 'Cinderella' of our native woods, says Mr. Brown, because the first generation of loggers here associated it with the inferior hemlock of the eastern provinces. A great deal of it was formerly wasted; and while that is no longer true, it is still sometimes an embarrassment to the logger and lumberman, who find it everywhere they cut fir.

"Mr. Brown is to be congratulated upon the success of his work at Wembley Exhibition in making Great Britain better acquainted with our native woods. If the new treatment of hemlock makes it the valuable lumber for interior finish that it is said to be, it is good news on several accounts. It will develop the lassic industry of British Columbia, and it will help to conserve the forests, the most practical immediate means of conservation being the elimination of waste and destruction in the cutting and hauling of logs in the woods."

Cost Of Government In British Columbia.

The cost of government in British Columbia is being mentioned in some of the other provinces and attention to it is often drawn here at election times and the party in power, whichever it happens to be, is twitted with being responsible for it.

In the first place the cost of education and hospitals is carried very largely by the provincial government and the second reason for the high cost is that this is a huge country with population more scattered than any other. Roads and bridge are very costly and other public works are also expensive. Possibly there is a third reason and that is that the tastes of the people of British Columbia are cultivated to such an extent that they demand things other provinces would do without. We want fine buildings and the best of everything in public works. And these things cost money.

SURVEY LANDS NEAR THE CITY

Instructions Given to Proceed With Preliminary Work With View to Marketing

A. E. Wright, the local land surveyor, has received instructions from the Provincial Department of lands at Victoria to proceed with a reconnaissance survey of lands at Digby Island between the quarantine station and the Indian reserve at Crippen's Point or the lands facing Shawatlan's Passage between Shawatlan's Lake and Butze Rapids on the opposite side from Kaien Island or both, with a view to having these cut into plots of from half an acre to two acres each for the use of chicken ranchers and those who would raise pigs, or undertake market gardening. Also they would be available for summer cottages or any other purpose people might wish.

The action has been taken in response to a request from the Board of Trade, through a committee appointed for the purpose. Mr. Wright will look over both tracts of land and make a rough sketch of what he thinks might be done with it and will then consult with the local committee before submitting his recommendations to Victoria.

Nearest Available

The sites mentioned are the nearest owned by the provincial government which would be suitable for the purposes required and which are accessible. The land on Kaien Island is almost all owned by the Railway Company, which will be asked to have a portion of their lands surveyed and placed on the market.

Some delay has been occasioned by the slowness of the departments concerned in completing the transfer of lands under a recent agreement between the Provincial Government and the Railway Company.

Hitherto there have been no lands available for purchase outside the Prince Rupert townsite nearer than Smith Island or Porelier Island.

EARTH IN THE CENTRE OF THE MILKY WAY IS A SCIENTIST'S IDEA

Dr. Baade Says We Are Only Tiny Speck in Centre of Great Constellation

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Mar. 26.—The earth, the sun and its entire solar system are in the very centre of the Milky Way; according to Dr. Walter Baade, noted German astronomer, who has just arrived in the United States to make a special study of measurements in the Milky Way and to accumulate "more facts about the great mass of stars in the nebula of which we are a part."

"We are only a tiny speck in the centre of this great constellation, with a diameter of 25,000 or 30,000 light years," Dr. Baade said, "and with the enormous telescopes in the United States we can see through our own milky way into thousands of other milky ways, just as large as our own. The nearest star in our nebula is only three light years away, while the nearest separate constellation, known as Andromeda, is more than a million light years away."

Dr. Baade declared that only the first page of the volumes which are still to be written about the distances of the stars in the Milky Way had been completed.

Announcing a Wonderful New Product

A PRODUCT which retains all the sweetness and richness of whole full-cream milk as Nature made it—
..... a product which makes fresh milk instantly and always available—
..... a product, which in every stage of its creation—from selected dairy herd to special container—is the symbol of cleanliness and purity—
..... a product which is imperishable and which brings to every Canadian household an ever-present supply of full-cream milk; in short, the New KLIM.

The New KLIM is made possible by a new and exclusive process of packing; one which permits the preservation, indefinitely, of whole-milk powder. It is nothing more nor less than fresh milk with the water removed; the mere addition of water gives you the milk as Nature created it.

The New KLIM is a perfect food for men, women and children. It defies change of climate and the flux of time. It is appetising, wholesome, nutritious, unadulterated—and clean. It is a veritable boon to mothers, housewives, campers and hunters.

DISPUTE OVER LONDON PUBS.

On One Side of Street They Stay Open One Hour Longer Than on Other

LONDON, March 26—Canadian Press Despatch.—For another year at least the discrepancy in the hours of closing of public houses in the West End of London is to continue. The Marylebone justices have decided to maintain the present hours—namely week-days 11 to 3 and 5 to 10, Sundays 12 to 2 and 7 to 10.

This means that public houses on one side of Oxford Street close at ten while houses on the other side remain open until eleven. The ten o'clock houses have strenuously petitioned to be granted the extra hour, on the ground that it is expedient to have uniformity. The eleven o'clock houses would not particularly object to their rivals being on the same footing as themselves, for they admit that when ten o'clock comes there is a sudden exodus from one side of the street to the other, and a large class of the migrants are not the best class of customer. Residents complain also of the disorder occasioned in the ten o'clock district by the incursion of gangs of more or less suddenlopers in search of more liquor. These, it is asserted, often intimidate bartenders into serving them when there is every justification to refuse them.

Advocates of the ten o'clock rule declare that closing at this hour is beneficial to children and workers living in the district. It is urged that the Sunday evening closing time should be nine. When the chairman announced the decision to maintain the ten o'clock rule a woman licensee excitedly addressed the bench. "If you realized the seething discontent that faces us when we return to our houses you would sympathize with us, and grant the alteration which members of the public are justly entitled to," she declared.

CONSERVATION OF WILD LIFE IN CANADA IS COMMENDED BY LADY

MONTREAL, March 25.—"We should be proud of the work that our government is doing toward the conservation of wild life in Canada," said Miss Louise Murphy in addressing the Montreal Graduate Nurses Association on Canadian birds. "The wild life of the world is disappearing, but we have eleven national parks which are really succeeding in conserving ours." Illustrating her remarks with lantern slides and original songs from her book, "Sweet Canada," Miss Murphy said its title came from the call of the white-throated sparrow of the Laurentians.

In the garden of her Montreal residence on Summerhill Avenue, the speaker herself had twenty-four different species of birds nesting last summer.

GIRLS RETURN FROM ANYOX

Win Both Games But Only After Close Contest
PLEASED WITH TRIP

After a pleasant excursion to Anyox for a return series of games with the Mine Club for the ladies' basketball championship of Northern British Columbia, the first of which they won by 22 to 12 and the second by 12 to 11, the Maple Leaf basketball team of this city returned home on the steamer Prince George this morning. The last game, which was played on Wednesday, was the closest of the entire series and proved to be a good light contest all the way through although both teams were showing signs of fatigue after a very active week in which four games were played, the first two being here, all of which were won by the Maple Leafs. The Wednesday night ladies' game was only one feature of a big basketball night in the smelter town. Besides it, there were play-offs for Senior and Intermediate league championships, the Gophers winning over the Mine in the Senior game and the High School over the Concentrator in the Intermediate. These, as well as the ladies' game, were refereed by Dan McLeod, who gave entire satisfaction.

The local girls speak in terms of highest appreciation of the splendid reception that was accorded them at Anyox. There was a big dance at the Mine Hall on Tuesday night given by the Mine girls in honor of the locals and on Wednesday night the teams were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin. In addition to the social functions, the local girls were taken through the mine, smelter and concentrator all of which establishments proved very interesting to them.

J. D. Wells, the well known Usk mining man, arrived from the interior on this morning's train and proceeded by the steamer Prince George to Vancouver on a brief business trip.

ST. ANDREW'S WHIST WINNERS

Defeated War Veterans Last Night While Moose Lost to Oddfellows

By defeating the Great War Veterans 6 to 3 last night while the Moose were beaten 5 to 4 by the Oddfellows, the St. Andrew's Society emerged champions of the men's section of the Fraternal Whist League and will play off next week with the Daughters of England, ladies champions, next week for the city championship.

The results of last night's games were as follows:
Oddfellows, 5; Moose, 4.
Knights of Columbus, 5; Elks, 4.
St. Andrew's, 6; Great War Veterans, 3.

SPORT CHAT

In last year's Cambridge-Oxford rowing contest Cambridge started with a stroke of 34 and Oxford 33. The latter jumped into the lead and at the first quarter-mile was a quarter of a length ahead. Cambridge very soon overtook its rivals and at the mile post was leading by about three lengths. At Hammersmith Bridge, nearly two miles from the starting point, Cambridge led by more than 100 yards, and this lead had been increased to 120 yards when the Oxford crew was forced to quit on account of its boat being water-logged. Thereafter Cambridge rowed alone until the full distance of 4 1/4 miles had been covered. The extreme unfavorable conditions under which last year's race was rowed led old-timers to recall some interesting past experiences along a similar line.

In 1912, when the race was set for March 30, the Cambridge boat sank near Harrods, about a mile and a half from Putney, while the Oxford eight had to bail the water out of their boat before entering Chiswick Reach a mile further on. The umpires declared it no race and it was arranged that the race should be rowed on April 1. Oxford then won by six lengths. Away back in 1859 there was a sensational race between Oxford and Cambridge. Some idea of the conditions on that occasion follows: Oxford won in 24 minutes, 20 seconds, and Cambridge sank. On that memorable day Putney Reach was a veritable sea, and the Cambridge boat shipped water all the way down until it finally sank beneath the waves on passing Barnes Bridge, about a mile from the finishing point. Oxford paddled home in a sinking state.

SCOTTISH BOY REACHES TOP

Glasgow Newspaper Tells Story of Robert Randolph Bruce, New Lieut.-Governor SON OF MINISTER.

Old World Conditions Became Calling so he Migrated to this Country with $40.

The romantic story of a Highland lad's rise from a humble engineer to millionaire, lies behind the recent appointment of Mr. Robert Randolph Bruce, formerly of Elgin and Glasgow, to the position of Lieutenant-Governor of the Canadian Province of British Columbia says the Glasgow Weekly Record.

Robert Bruce was the second son of the Rev. Charles Bruce, who was school-master at St. Andrews, Lhanbryde. His mother was Miss Maggie Sellar, of Longhill, Lhanbryde, and the school-master was in the habit of recalling how he had chastised the pupil who, later, became his wife.

Bachelor of Science
The Rev. Mr. Bruce ultimately became minister of Glenrines, a Banffshire glen, and it was at the local public school that Randolph, as he was generally called, got his early education. Later he went to Glasgow University and graduated B.Sc.

The early '80's of last century found young Randolph working in a large engineering establishment in Glasgow. Like many of his fellow Scotsmen, he was convinced that worldly success was only to be attained through the engineering profession. However, Bruce was different from his fellow-workers in that he was anxious to get on, unwilling to wait for promotion which could only come to him through the retirement or death of superior officers.

Reaches Canada
This method of promotion became so galling to the young Scotsman that he decided to try his luck in the new world, where he believed that fortune could be acquired by a young, ambitious man in comparatively few years. Accordingly, Bruce arrived in New York in 1887 with the paltry sum of $40 in his pockets, but he also had something which was of more value than money—an indomitable will to make good in the new country of adoption.

After working at various jobs in and around New York, he drifted north into Canada, and a few years later became attached to the construction department of the Canadian Pacific Railway, working as an engineer on a new railway line through the Crow's Nest Pass.

Bruce had to thank Lord Mount Stephen, who was a native of Glenrines, for his post with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

In the Native Glen
Lord Mount Stephen had returned to visit his relatives in the glen, and they were so numerous that they assembled at the home of the Rev. Mr. Bruce in order to save his Lordship the trouble of individual calls.

During this visit, Randolph's father took the opportunity of interesting Lord Mount Stephen in his engineer son, who thereafter joined the staff of the famous company.

Bruce remained with the Canadian Pacific for a number of years, and when the slump in railway building came in 1897, he decided to take a "shot" at the new mining field, north of Cranbrook, in the Selkirk Mountains of British Columbia.

At this time many glowing tales of wealth had filtered through to the construction camps, and Bruce became convinced that this time he would grasp the "fortune" for which he had been seeking since coming to Canada. He worked in various camps, and finally came to the Columbia Valley, where he secured a job as assistant engineer at the Paradise Mine, then being operated by the late B. C. Hammond.

Doing the Impossible
Bruce worked faithfully and well at his new occupation. His wages were considered good in those days. Living expenses were small, and a considerable portion of his salary was saved, but somehow he was not quite satisfied with conditions. He continued his work at the mine, however, until he had to give up active mining work owing to lead poisoning in his eyes, which he had contracted in assaying work. While Bruce was keenly interested in mining operations, he, like many of his countrymen, was at heart an agriculturalist.

The land in the Columbia Valley was extremely fertile, but was of little or no use for agricultural purposes, owing to the scarcity of water, so, having to find a new vocation, he became interested in the agricultural development of the valley. He interested Mr. Hammond in his scheme, and the latter decided to give the young man financial assistance in his undertaking.

Options on Land
It was not long before young Bruce had options on large blocks of land in the valley, and he shortly afterwards sold out to the Columbia Valley Irrigated Fruit Land, Limited. The old-timers of the valley laughed at the idea of farming operations in the valley, saying that it was impossible to grow anything on the land. Bruce, however, went his way, and with the aid of others, soon had an extensive irrigation system in the valley. Settlers started to dribble in, and soon the fertility of the soil, and the remarkable range of products grown on the irrigated lands, attracted the interest of people not only in Canada, but in the Old Country, and Bruce's project became not a folly, but a far-sighted vision.

Settlers now began to go into the valley in ever-increasing numbers, attracted by the stories of the remarkable fertility of the soil. Not only were Bruce's convictions justified, but he was beginning to realise on his ambition—a fortune and success in Canada.

Tenacity Succeeded
Material success brought happiness, and with happiness the desire to do what he could to benefit others. He is of those who do not let their right hand know what their left is doing.

Every man, woman and child in the Columbia Valley knows, and is known, by Robert Randolph Bruce, and he is one of the most respected men in the province of British Columbia. His success was not achieved without a struggle, but his inherent faith in the valley, and a determination to succeed, plus Scottish cannyness and tenacity, brought about his success quicker than it would ever have been possible in his native country.

His home is a beautiful one, standing as it does on the shores of picturesque Lake Windermere, reflecting on its surface the snow-capped peaks of the surrounding Selkirk Mountains. It is fitted with every comfort and convenience, and is easily accessible to the outer world via the Canadian Pacific Golden to Cranbrook Line, and the new Banff-Windermere Motor Road.

MONTREAL, March 26.—The Alpine Club of Canada will hold its annual meeting this year in the Tonquin Valley, Jasper National Park, Alberta. Admittedly the vagaries of English orthography have been the despair of foreigners and the exasperation of a good many native-born. Proposals for a reform on the lines of adopting a
