S. Plans to Replace GI's in Battle with 'Streamlined' South Korea Troops

WASHINGTON — Debate on replacing American GI's with South Koreans in Korea mushroomed today, as the atomic explosion today, and the heat of the battle brought a White House official to Gen. James A. Van Fleet is being relieved as Army commander and United States Defense Department spokesman.

—from 10 to 20 divisions—was opposed as premature by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, then United Nations commander in Tokyo and now Supreme Commander of North Atlantic Treaty forces in Paris.

2. Ridgway's position was upheld by the joint chiefs of staff and Defence Secretary Robert Lovett.

3. The defence department says it has been carrying out a long-range program to turn over the defence of Korea to South Koreans as soon as leaders can be trained and seasoned in combat.

4. Gen. Mark Clark, Ridgway's successor in Tokyo, has pursued this program and has submitted a longer-range proposal for further expansion, now being studied in Washington.

The New York Daily News publishes a story today saying Van Fleet is being relieved for writing a letter quoted in a campaign speech by General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican candidate for president.

Alaska Ready if Russians Should Strike, Says Chief

By The Canadian Press

ELMENDORF AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska—Alaska, which might be the first to feel a Russian attack against North America, seems ready for a build up of fighting men and planes to parry an attack.

Gen. William Kepner, Alaskan command, told Thursday he believes the base point for north-defence of the United States is in far better condition than at anytime in the end of the war.

The powder keg position in the close proximity of two countries, so far as there is no known incipient war, is a strong suggestion that there are occasional high speed reconnoitering flights to see what the Russians are doing and that the westernmost Alaska and Aleutian chain.

Last Radical Sect Women Leave Prison

VANCOUVER — Prison doors were opened this week at Kingston, Ont., for 12 radical Doukhobor women from British Columbia, a member of the consultative committee on Doukhobor affairs reported here last night.

Member David Kahman said they were the last of 23 Sons of Freedom women sentenced to five years in 1947 for incendiarism in the Kootenays of British Columbia.

He said the 12, all of whom served their full terms, have returned to their homes in B.C. They were sentenced following a wave of arson which swept the Kootenays while Judge Harry Sullivan was conducting a Royal Commission investigation into the Doukhobor problem.

CCF Name City For Convention

Federal Nominations Closing Date Feb. 15

Prince Rupert has been designated as the site of the CCF nominating convention to select the candidate for Skeena riding in the next Federal election.

Nominations will be conducted by mail with closing date set for Feb. 15, it was announced at a well-attended meeting at CCF headquarters here last night.

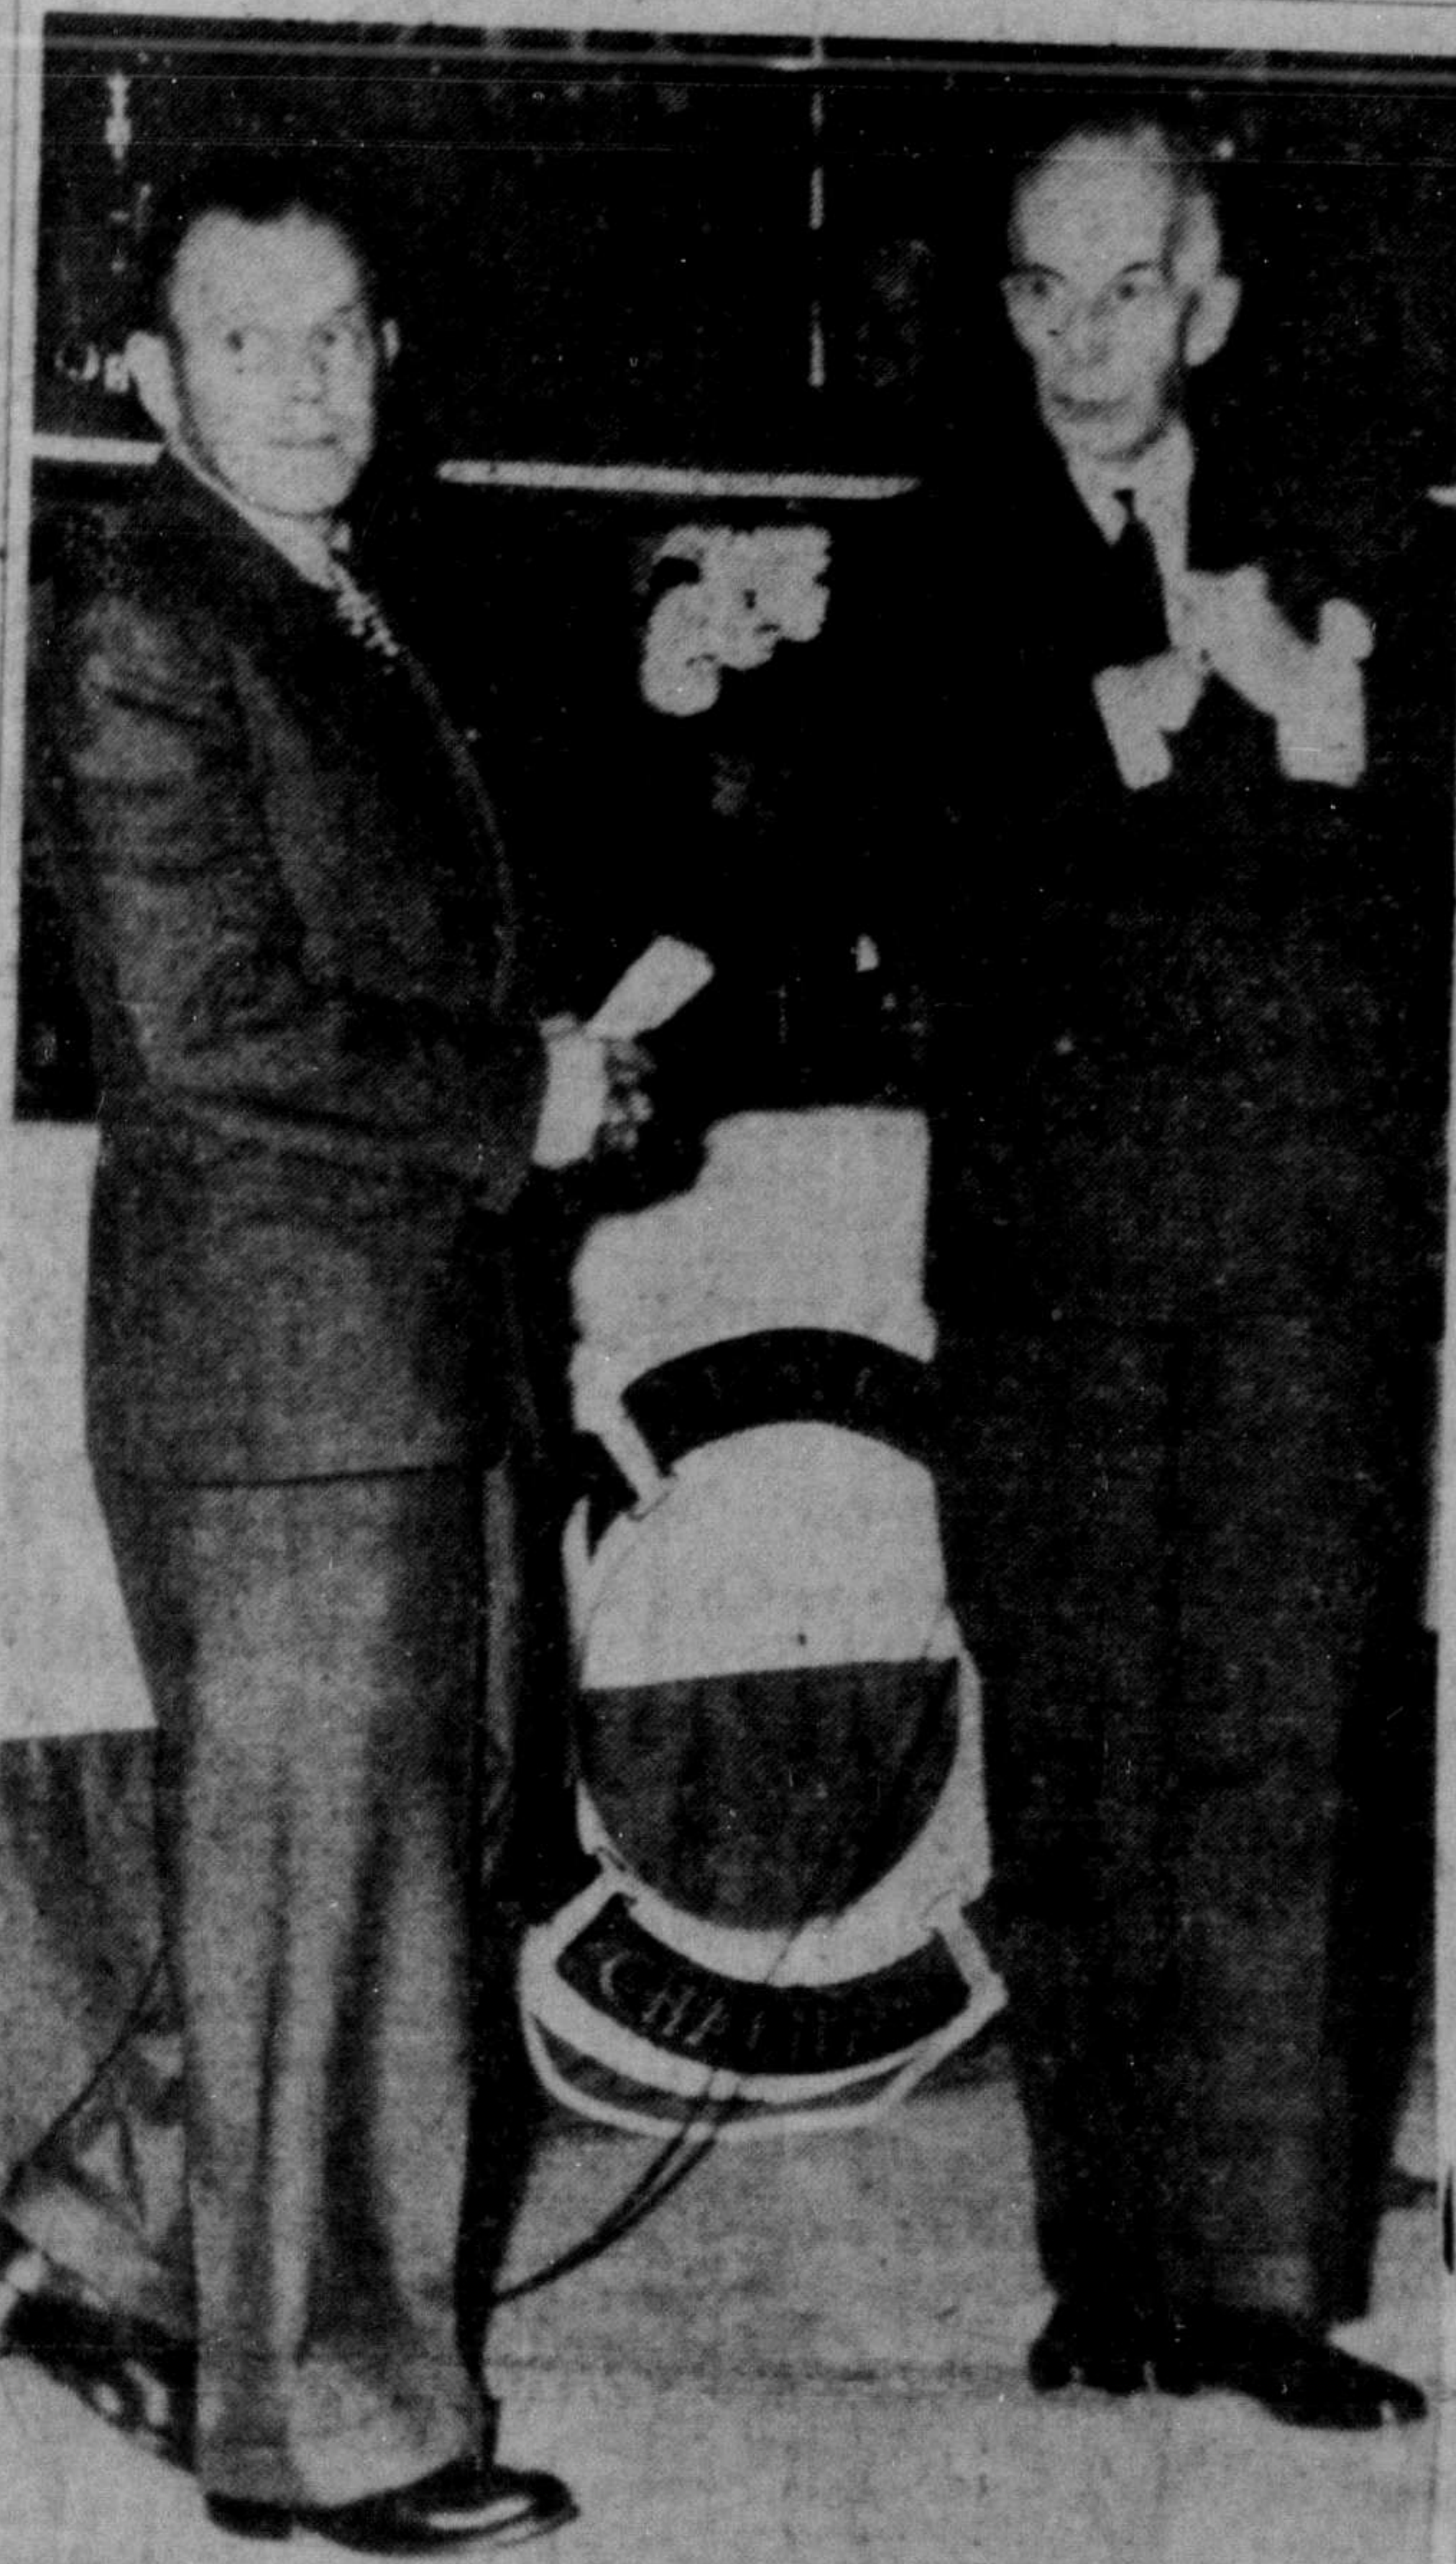

(No date has been set for a Federal election. E. T. Applewhite is the present member for Skeena. He was elected as Liberal party representative in the general election in 1949.)

Roald Dahlen, auto court operator at Dawson Creek and CCF organizer for the northern area, spoke briefly to the meeting after which a full discussion on policy and organizational work took place.

FOLLOWS CONFERENCE

The meeting followed by only three weeks the conference of representatives from all northern ridings at Prince George.

Bill Brett, president of the Prince Rupert CCF club was in the chair and George Hillis, CCF-MLA elect for Prince Rupert in the Provincial Legislature, also spoke briefly.

Hallowe'en A Night of Fun For Kids

Watch out, folks! It's Hallowe'en again tonight and the kids will be on the loose. A lot of grown-ups too, will be sharing the fun at parties across the city.

But the wild pranks that used to cause alarm have gone out of fashion and most cities, like Prince Rupert, now have got their community celebrations perfected to the last detail with the objective of getting the most enjoyment with the least—or preferably no damage.

The Kinsmen are in the forefront tonight in providing entertainment for the youngsters—fun, prizes, fireworks in three separate localities in the city: Conrad Street School grounds, Gyro Park (Sixth Avenue and McBride), and at Totem Park, across from the city hall.

Festivities in the three places begin at 8:30 tonight with lighting of huge bonfires. All kids are most welcome, and they'll have fun.

While no rowdyism is anticipated, Sgt. Ross Clayton, head of the city force, said at least half a dozen cars will patrol city streets throughout the night and officers will arrest anyone causing damage.

Hallowe'en in this city has been a night of fun and frolic for the past several years with no major vandalism occurring.

ENTERTAINMENT

First on the list of entertainment for the city's children were parties at the city schools this afternoon.

parties at the city schools this afternoon.

Next follow the costume "parade" through the residential sections and the Kinsmen Club bonfires which begin about 8:30. By the 8:30 curfew most youngsters will be indoors and it is after dark that older youths join in the fun at the many parties and dances planned throughout the city.

Many of the older citizens will attend benefit dances, some of them masquerade affairs. A large crowd is expected at Miller Bay Hospital where the staff are holding a dance to raise funds to buy and install a centrally-controlled radio and public address system for the patients.

Police, in their continued drive to enforce the traffic bylaw, will check all speeders and motorists are warned against excessive speed on the Port Edward highway.

Forecast

Convicts End 4-Day Siege In Answer to Ultimatum

By The Canadian Press

CHESTER, Ill.—Convicts ended their four-day rebellion at Menard State prison today and released their seven hostages before Governor Adlai Stevenson carried out plans for making a personal appeal to them.

The rebel convicts capitulated after an ultimatum was delivered by Michael Seyfrid, state director of public safety.

Seyfrid told the insurgents, who had been bottled up in prison's east cell block since Monday, that unless they surrendered, heavily-armed state troopers would cut through the cell house doors with torches and "use whatever force necessary to restore order."

Seyfrid said the prisoners were expected to issue an appeal or ultimatum to the convicts. The Democratic presidential nominee had broken off his campaign tour in the east to hurry here.

Plan to Cut Coho Prices

VANCOUVER — Canneries receiving coho salmon caught in the Fraser River have indicated they want to cut the price from 13 to 10 cents a pound, a Fishermen's Union spokesman said last night.

Secretary-treasurer Homer Stevens said he was told at a special meeting that canneries want to re-open the section of the union contract covering coho prices.

Mr. Stevens said less than 10 per cent of the Fraser River catches are coho "with a further drop expected after the first week in November."

Mass Roundup Of Mau Mau

NAIROBI, Kenya — Police and military authorities arrested 227 persons today in a new drive to crush Kenya's dreaded Mau Mau, the native secret society pledged to wipe out the white man.

CNR Orders Long List Of New Cars

MONTREAL — The Canadian National Railways has placed orders for 300 units of new passenger equipment, E. A. Bromley, vice-president of purchases and stores announced here today.

The orders call for deliveries to be made at the earliest possible date, but it will be some months before the first cars are ready for use. It is expected deliveries will be spread over the next two years. The cost of the new equipment, estimated in excess of $50 million, will be spread over the same period.

Canadian Car and Foundry Company received orders for 161 first class coaches of 76 seat capacity each.

The Pullman Standard Car Company, which has advanced engineering and planning already available, has been given orders for 84 sleeping cars embracing duplex roomette, bedroom, roomettes, compartment and drawing room accommodations, six dinette cars equipped for lunch counter service, 14 standard dining cars, nine cafe parlor cars, six parlor cars, 10 buffet sleepers, eight buffet lounge cars and two parlor buffet cars.

Labor Protests Go Slow Order For VMD Yard

VICTORIA — A report that the department of national defence issued a go slow order to the shipyard of Victoria Machinery Depot brought a protest from labor representatives.

The shipyard is engaged in construction of mine sweepers for the Navy.

J. A. Cornthwaite, business agent for the Machinists' Union (CCL), wired a protest to the Minister of National Defence in Ottawa.

Communist War Main Issue in Presidential Election Campaign

Strong, too, were the words of Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democrats' nominee. During a strenuous day in New England he asserted that Eisenhower had made vote-luring promises of "a quick and easy end" to the conflict and said his opponent "may have delayed an armistice."

Eisenhower has attributed to the State Department the 1948 decision to withdraw troops from Korea. He has termed this part of the "ferocious record" which led to the Communist invasion of South Korea in 1949. He has promised that, if elected, he will go to Korea to try to "diminish this flow of American blood."

The pig-gun cannonading took the spotlight from Wisconsin's Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, who laid before the American people his promised "coldy-documented background of this man who wants to be president."

Truman added: "I did not say that the decision to withdraw the troops was wrong. It was made with the knowledge of the facts and of the risks and dangers involved. But I do say that if it was wrong, then Gen. Eisenhower's advice was wrong."

Asked to comment on the President's assertion, Eisenhower aides said in Pittsburgh that the General had answered it in San Francisco Oct. 8 when he said the administration's decision that the Asian "defence perimeter" did not touch Korea was made by civilian officials.

"The military has never decided questions of foreign policy," he said.

On other aspects of the campaign, meanwhile, Eisenhower in Pittsburgh said Stevenson has a mentality "completely untutored to meet tough world problems. Stevenson, in New York, said his opponent "speaks with every voice in the Republican party except his own."

Truman, on a seven-state tour of the Midwest on behalf of Stevenson, said at Gary that fate—meaning the possible death in office of Eisenhower—could put a reactionary, anti-labor Republican in the White House in the event of a Republican victory next Tuesday. He was referring to Eisenhower's vice-presidential running mate, Senator Richard M. Nixon of California.

Just Nature for the North

ALTHOUGH it is comforting to know that the work of straightening out this end of Highway 16 still continues, it is incredible that there was ever any thought of calling it off.

For the sake of $50,000-Prince Rupert was left hanging for a while in a state of horrible doubt. For an unbelievable moment—to put it generously—it looked as if this port was to be relegated indefinitely to a junior position at the end of a twisting mud track which frequently calls for more nerve than good sense on the part of those who navigate it.

This extraordinary uncertainty over parting with a comparatively meagre sum which, to make matters worse, had already been committed by contract, betrays some equally extraordinary thinking in Victoria. It suggests that north, say, of North Vancouver, nothing is regarded as particularly important about the coastline, excepting perhaps the occasional industry which has received some attention by financial editors.

Ignore Prince Rupert if it will, this kind of thinking also ignores the remarkable growth of Terrace and other points along the line. It fails entirely to visualize the importance of providing good highway access to the coast for those communities in the northern interior which are expanding faster than some bureaucrat can say "cancel the $50,000."

Living on the outermost fringe of political wisdom in Victoria, it must be confessed that we are after all still pioneers. If we plow successfully through the treacherous mire to Terrace, maybe we should be thankful instead of indignant.

The settlers who crossed the mountains in their wagons did not revile nature. Instead they went to their knees in humble gratitude, and perhaps we should do the same because it seems that nature is all we are going to get.

New Deal With East Asia

AS FORMER fisheries minister R. W. Mayhew prepares to assume his post of ambassador to Japan, there is considerable expectancy in the province over the possible revival of substantial traffic between Canada and the east coast of Asia.

Having had a part in negotiating the Japanese fishing pact, Mr. Mayhew is able to approach the problem with a more or less experienced hand. His knowledge should prove useful as there are certain obstacles to any such trade revival which might present an impasse to anyone with less training.

Principally there is the very natural fear of some Canadian industries that increased trade with Japan might lead to an invasion of Japanese goods to undersell the home market. Before an agreement could be reached, therefore, firm provisions would have to be made to keep this possible menace under control.

In entering negotiations, Mr. Mayhew will undoubtedly endeavor to work out a plan for the export of British Columbia lumber and other goods to Japan with a realization that there must be a two-way flow in any deal that will encourage trade between the two countries.

Lumber offers a likely start as Japan today is using up some of its own timber reserves rather than spending money for imports. As these reserves are severely limited, the time is probably not far off when that country will look to outside sources of supply. It is here that Mr. Mayhew could make a suitable entrance into the picture and, with his thorough knowledge of the circumstances affecting both sides, effect a deal that would be mutually advantageous.

First to gain by renewed trans-Pacific trade would be the ports of B.C., and the movements of Mr. Mayhew, therefore, are watched here with interest.

As I See It

by Elmore Philpott

Author Philpott Coming

I AM no relation to Oliver Philpott, the famous author of the escape book "Stolen Journey."

The singular fellow spells our family name with only one "T." But when I heard that this author of the greatest escape story of modern times was crossing U.S.A. on one lecture tour and beginning another a few days later in Saskatoon, I took the liberty of demanding that he stop off, as my guest, at his birthplace, Vancouver.

Most of us now know the story of the three-man escape from the German prison camp Stalag Luft III. We saw in the thrilling movie, THE WOODEN HORSE, how Escape Officer Oliver Philpott MC, DFC organized the famous getaway under the very noses of the German guards.

Each day the British prisoners carried out their famous contraption, under which a man was concealed. All day long the prisoners leaped and vaulted over the horse, while down underneath the hidden man was tunneling furiously. Each day the mouth of the tunnel had to be covered, in time.

The whole operation was one of the most suspense-full stories of all time. It made a grand movie, a grand book, and according to the British papers it makes a gripping story when Philpott tells it in person.

I AM not in the lecture bureau business. But if I were I would surely stage some kind of public speech or dinner, for Vancouver's famous native son, when he comes here on November 16 and 17. I think a very large crowd would gather to hear from Oliver Philpott himself a first hand story of the famous escape.

If any interested organizations, RCAF Auxiliaries, or clubs contact me I will be glad to put them in touch with Oliver Philpott's agents.

Oliver Philpott was born here in Vancouver of British parents. His father was the well known hydro-electric engineer, Lawrence B. Philpott, who did key jobs for the B.C. Electric and Western Canada Power. At age 12 Oliver was sent off to England, where he attended Aynstrey Court, Radley College and Oxford. He seems to have spent most of his time on the athletic fields, but got by at academics.

In the RAF he served faithfully till he was shot down over the North Sea in December 1941.

Every prison camp had an Escape Officer, whose duty it was to plan escapes. Now all the world knows how well Oliver Philpott carried out that duty in Stalag Luft III.

I MUST confess I swiped my faint wisecrack about the spelling of Philpott's name from English history. There were two rather notorious English bishops—one Philpott who spelled his name with two "Ts", the other with only one. The double "T" used to refer to the other as "my singular brother." As I read it, one was about the worst diarist that ever appeared on the scene. He made a famous or infamous speech in the House of Lords warning of utter doom to Britain if they ever passed the Reform Bill of 1832.

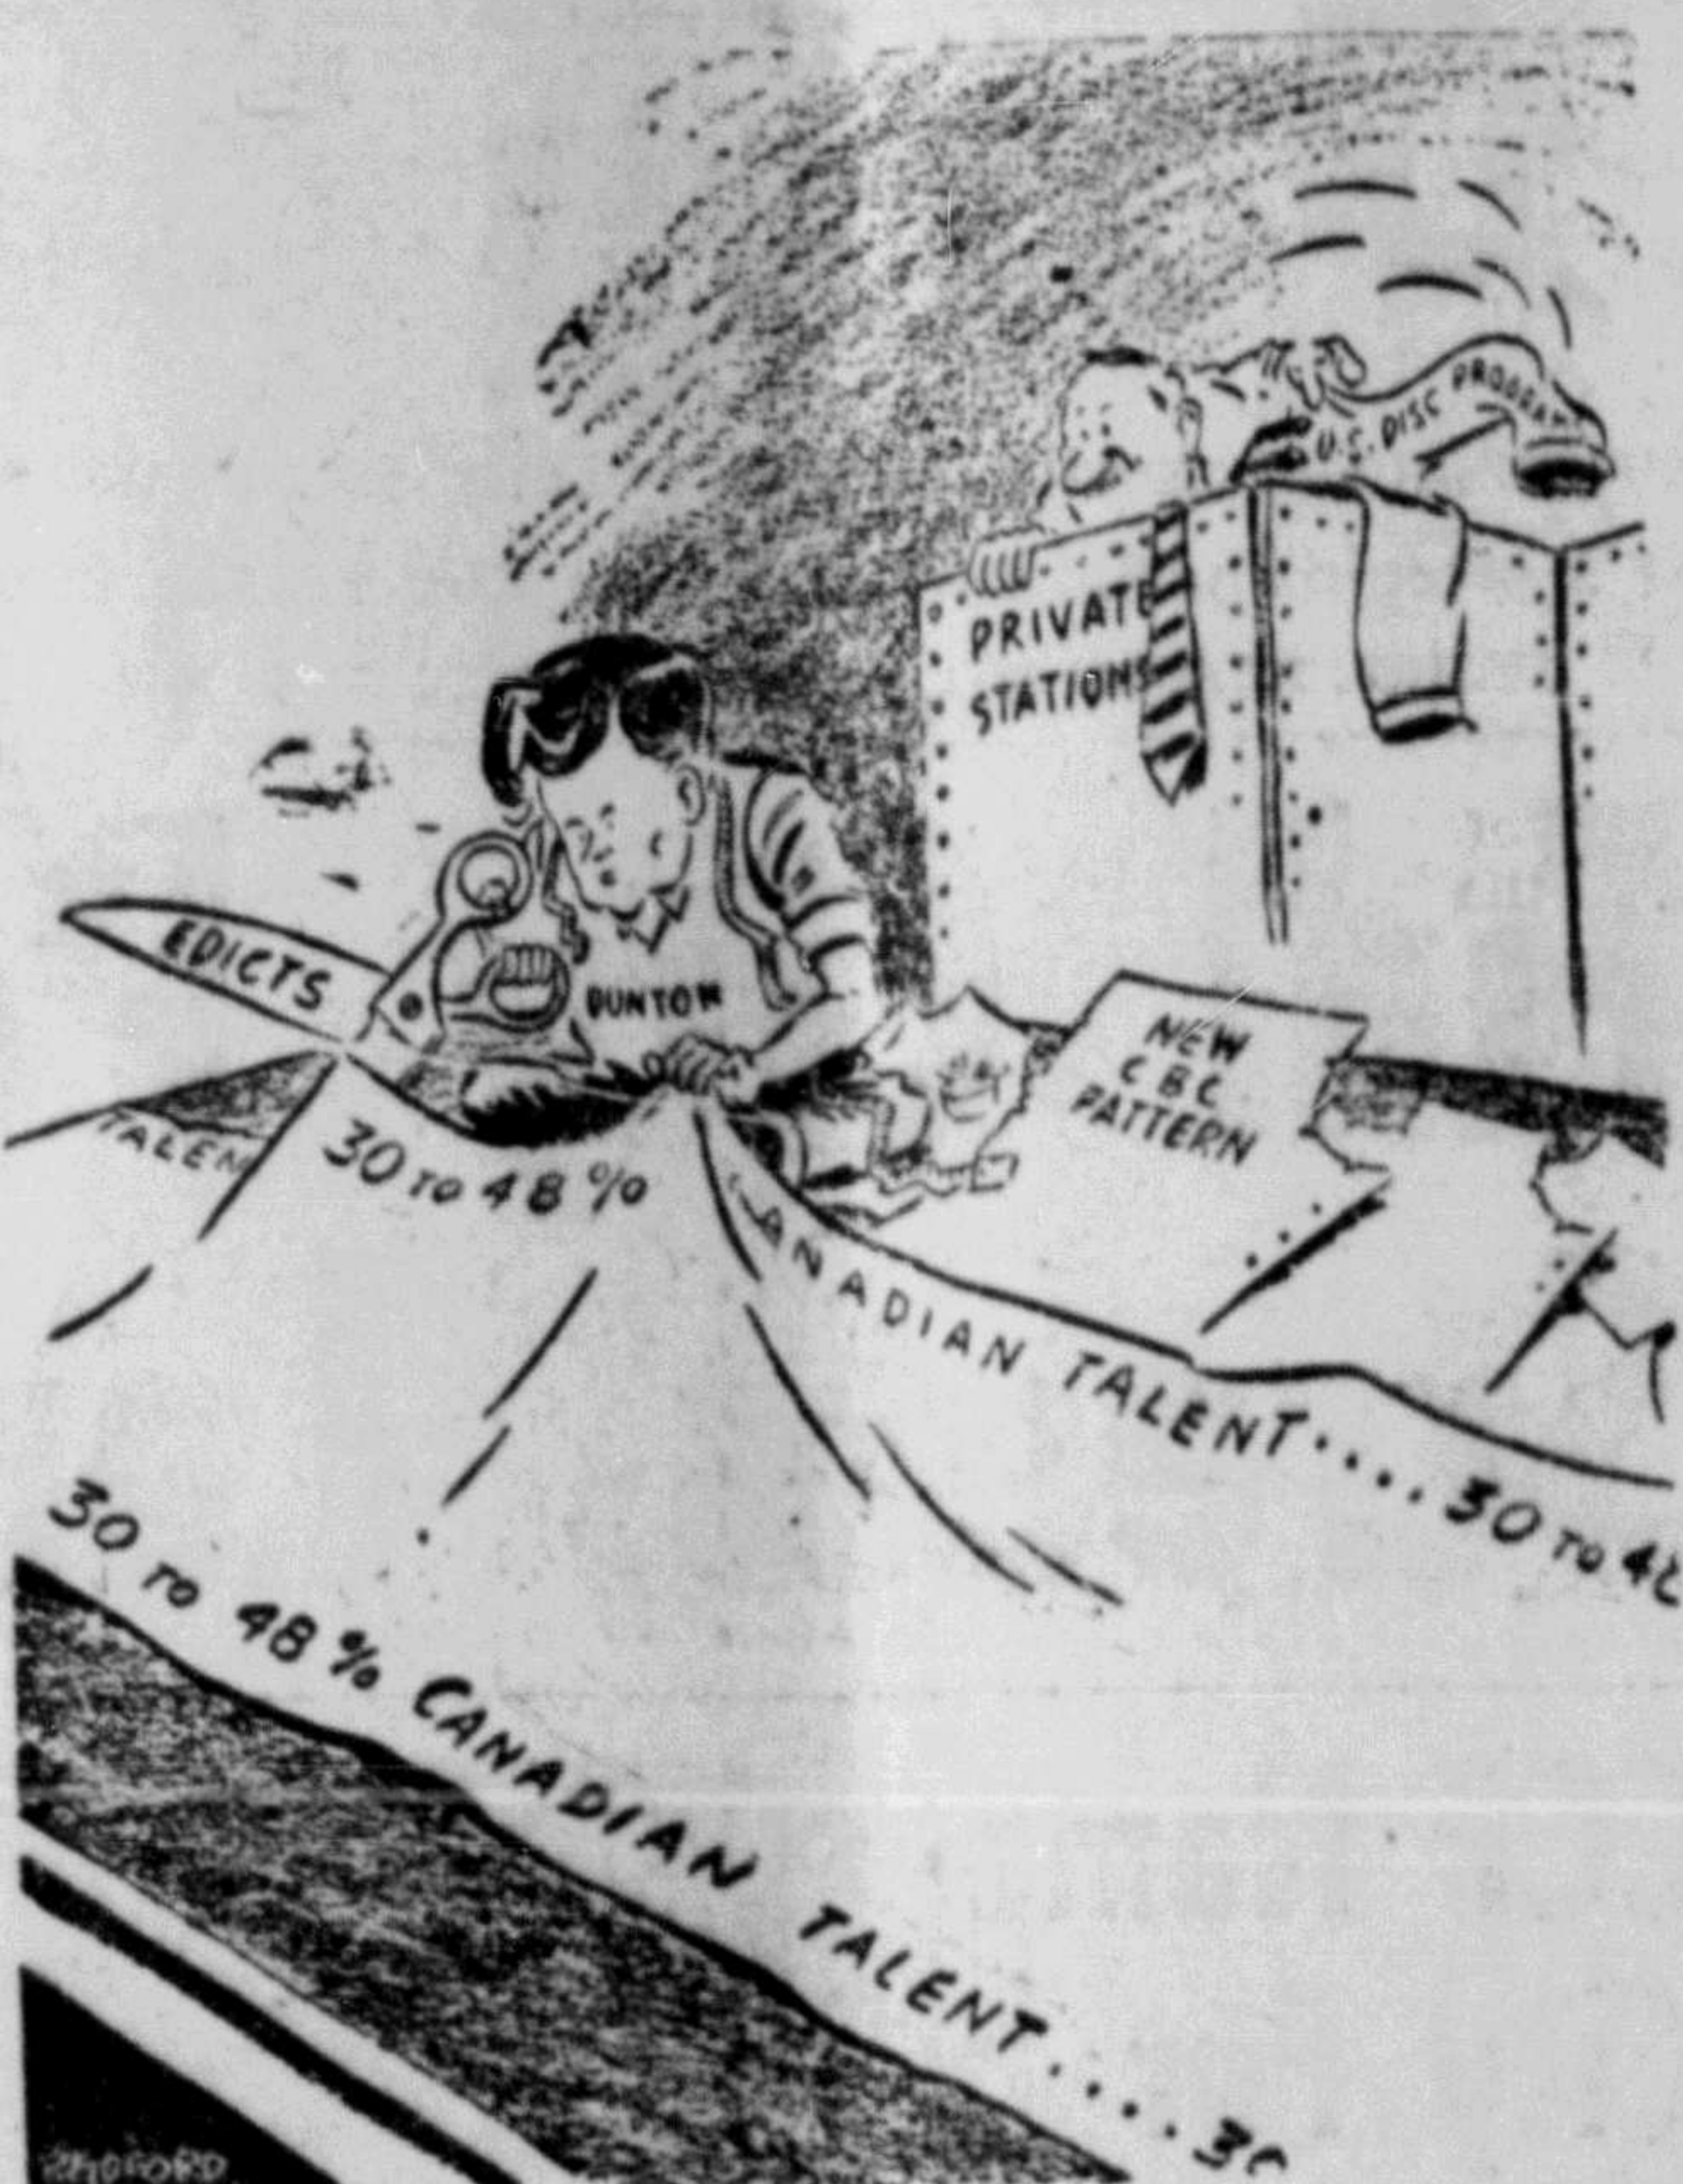

The name Philpott, or Philpot, is of course Norman French. Literally it means "Little Horse Lover." But another version of it meant "Fool in the Kitchen" or kitchen scullion. The Saxons could not pronounce either in French or distinguish the high-born from low-born so the Norman French name became straight Fill-Pot.

IN U.S. CAMPAIGN

Election Wounds May Never Heal

By R. J. ANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK—In the wake of the United States presidential election of 1952 will be wounds that likely will never heal.

As the campaign roars toward its climax next Tuesday, does the victor in Europe now regret stepping from his pedestal into the hurly-burly of American politics?

Perhaps no one ever will know the answer to that question which has interested observers of one of the roughest name-calling campaigns of modern times.

A long, cordial relationship between Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman seems irrevocably broken. How does Adlai Stevenson now view the General whom he admired and respected?

America was Eisenhower's June 18, 1945, when he made his triumphant return from Europe where he had led the Allied armies to victory over Nazi Germany. The presidency could have been his for the asking.

Truman himself told the General: "There is nothing that you may want that I won't try to help you get. That definitely and specifically in 1948." But Eisenhower said he would never run for the White House. Among his reasons was his thought that he could not be disloyal to his commander-in-chief, Truman, for whom he had great affection.

In 1949, the President and Eisenhower "talked politics." Truman later related that Eisenhower told him he was not going to run for president.

Little more than two years later Truman said his 1945 offer to help Eisenhower get the presidency in 1952 still held good. He was "just as fond of Gen. Eisenhower as I can be."

But on Jan. 10, 1952, Truman said he had just found out that Eisenhower was a Republican. He did not think a Republican administration would be of benefit to the country.

The 235-member advisory council of the National Liberal Federation made the recommendation to the government at the opening session of a two-day conference. Observers felt the government would agree to the resolution.

The council also discussed a stepping-up of party organization and the possibility of lower taxes.

Its major action, however, was the resolution asking the government to consider "immediate abolition" of the radio licence fee. It said the use of radio has become universal in Canada and a necessity of modern life.

The licence fee now grosses about $5,000,000 a year. Collection costs take up a large part of this.

The money goes to the publicly-owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. The resolution made no suggestion as to how this loss of revenue would be made up to the CBC.

The call for early organization for a general election was made by Allan L. Woodrow of Toronto.

He asked members to "pass along the word" when they got home, advising workers that "a successful election is contingent upon an efficient and early organization." The election is expected next year.

Mr. Woodrow said the Liberals have a tremendous task in administering plans for improving living standards and at the same time spending heavily on defence.

"This is reflected in the tax rate," he said. "But with a continued increase in national production, one may hope for a reduction in the rate."

In another resolution, the council endorsed the Federal Liberal administration and called on Prime Minister St. Laurent to lead the party in the next general election.

Ride to Church

FINEDON, England (CP)—Bishop Vernon hired a coach to enable the aged and infirm to attend services in the parish church of this Northamptonshire community. The coach now goes through the town and brings worshippers to the church door.

Ray REFLECTS and REMINISCES

A college education is one of the few things a person is willing to pay for and not get.

Eleven men, out of a total of 100,000 have symptoms of mouth cancer, according to a recent survey in New York State. There's nothing in that to cause symptoms of hysteria.

Of course there are two sides to every question if we really are not interested in either of them.—Greensboro (N.C.) News.

The late William D. Mansfield, Pennsylvania newspaperman, believed in "keeping it brief." He had this in mind when he wrote his will consisting of three typewritten lines. The estate he estimated at three millions. But it does not necessarily follow he made it in the newspaper business.

LEO IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood lions are said to be fully grown cowards, for the screen has been the only life screen juveniles jerking his teeth have known. To watch the king of beasts being fondled by a partly nude studio star, or see tail is a sorry sight. No brute has a more majestic look than a lion, and the proper environment is his native wilds.

Perhaps, in the early days, local old timers felt more disposed to jest, than do the folks today. For years a passenger rig linked Seal Cove with Prince Rupert. One morning, the late "Dad" Corley (father of Bud) looking mighty serious, inquired if anyone had details of the "erratic smash."

"Smash? Good Lord no." What happened?" "They all went over Hays Creek bridge, as I understand it," said Dad, mentioning by name the pioneer who drove Rupert's first bus. "That is, they crossed right over."

The population of the United States is somewhere around 150 million and the general election is to take place next Tuesday. But there is not one who can say in his heart he knows who will be the new president.

All the same, it's said to be gospel truth—that Nome, Alaska, is farther west than the Hawaiian Islands and part of Ontario farther south than Oregon.

P-TA Council Welcomes New Booth Association

Representatives of the newly formed Booth Memorial High School Parent-Teacher Association were given a hearty welcome by members of the Prince Rupert Parent-Teacher Council at its monthly meeting in the Civic Centre.

After several years of having only three Parent-Teacher Associations, (Borden, King Edward and Conrad) the Council is now once more complete with the addition of Booth to its ranks, stated Mrs. H. Mark, Council president, welcoming the new members from Booth.

Delegates were President Stan Holgate; Mrs. H. Lindseth, secretary-treasurer, and P-T Council representative, Mrs. A. E. Carlson.

Word was received by the Council a regional convention of northern B.C. P-TA's was held Oct. 17 and 18 at Prince George, but because notification of the convention was received too late, Prince Rupert associations were unable to send delegates.

CHILDREN MOVIES
Mrs. Mark reported a committee from the Council had recently met with J. Harry Black, manager of both local theatres, to discuss possibility of obtaining and showing films more suitable for the large audiences of children who attend week-end showings.

Following Mr. Black's suggestion, each association was asked to compile a list of movies regarded as suitable for children. P-T Council will consolidate the lists from the separate P-TA's and submit it to Mr. Black, who promised to do all in his power to procure the films requested by the PTA's.

Members decided unanimously to send for a supply of a luminous tape highly recommended by safety authorities as reflectors for bicycles. The tape will be applied to bicycles of all city school children as a safety measure, and the separate associations will be asked to finance the purchase.

Favor of "dual membership" if a parent becomes a member of one Association by paying dues, membership becomes automatic in PTA's of other schools — was unanimous. This would eliminate necessity of parents paying PTA dues twice, or even three times, if they have children attending

Take Care in Preparing Lunch Box for Children

By KAY REX

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Far from being a snatch-snack affair, the noon-day meal should be taken slowly and the food should be the kind that provides energy for the afternoon's work.

Batteries of office-workers fresh from the battle of the crowded lunch counter might snicker at this. But since Utopia hasn't yet arrived, the best we can do is give the children a chance to benefit in their growing years before they join the lunch-counter rush.

LUNCH-BOX CARE
Margaret Smith, director of nutrition for the Health Association of Canada, warns that as much care and planning should go into the lunch that youngsters take to school as a mother puts into any meal served on the dining-room table.

"The noon-day lunch should provide one-third of the whole day's requirements of energy-producing, body-building foods," says Miss Smith. "This means protein, minerals and vitamins for growth and repair of body tissues, carbohydrates or starches, fats and proteins to yield energy for work and play."

The Ontario Department of Agriculture in its pamphlet "Good School Lunches" recommends the following menu:

Vegetable soup, sandwiches (whole wheat bread) of minced beef and pickle or salmon and celery; carrot strips, whole orange, oatmeal cookies and milk.

Another lunch: cream of tomato soup; sandwiches (whole wheat bread) of cold roast pork or chopped egg and celery; raisin and cabbage salad; fresh whole peach; gingerbread and milk.

Those present at the meeting included Mrs. N. Halliday, Mrs. A. E. Carlson, Mrs. D. Rensvold, Mrs. W. Murdoch, Mrs. J. W. Webster, T. G. Bateman, Mrs. J. F. Denning, J. S. Wilson, Mrs. A. Logan, Mrs. F. Gilmour, Mrs. H. Lindseth, W. D. Griffiths, Mrs. K. Hardy, Mrs. J. Riddsdale, Mrs. H. Mark, Mr. Holgate and Mrs. G. Cook.

The next meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent-Teacher Council will be held on Nov. 24.

NEW HOSPITAL
WEYBURN, Sask. (CP)—The new four-storey Weyburn Union Hospital was officially opened recently by Premier T. C. Douglas. More than 1,500 persons were on hand for the opening of the modern 80-bed institution, built at a cost of $825,000.

Make the school lunch good to look at, good to eat and 'good for you,' says the Department. 'Introduce new foods gradually and children will accept them. Vary foods from day to day.' You can get variety even in a peanut-butter sandwich. Try mixing the peanut-butter with grated carrot, orange, banana, prunes, nuts or raisins; boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

SWAMP BERRIES
Cranberries are rapidly becoming an important product in Canadian agriculture. Their cultivation is spreading from the Maritime provinces into the central and even the western areas. The consumer section of the Federal Agriculture Department says the berries grow best in swamp soil, and to obtain similar growing conditions bogs frequently are built on low-lying ground. The fruit is picked in the fall as soon as it is ripe and before the frost comes. Scoops with comb-like teeth are pulled through the vines to gather the berries.

The celebration closed with prayer and singing of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

Christening Opens New Kitwancool Home

KITWANCOOL — The new, large two-storey home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Good here was the scene last Saturday of traditional opening and christening ceremonies attended by many villagers and dignitaries.

The new home, built by the owner, is a frame building and follows the modern trend of increased window space and arrangement of rooms which include kitchen, dining room, living room, bedrooms and bathroom.

A symbol of good taste and ability of the owner, the home is modernly furnished inside. The exterior of neat siding finish ends a sharp contrast to the old log buildings in the area, but is in accordance with the new school across the street.

Chiefs Johnny Derrick and Walter Douse, Mrs. Maggie Good and Gregory Rush gave speeches.

Chief Derrick recalled the naming of Mr. Good's first house, 15 years ago, which name—Kski Gain Nii—was now passed on to the new home. The original name was derived from a site on the old "Grease Trail," a large area 50 miles north of here renowned for its excellent hunting and trapping grounds as well as for its abundance of fish.

Chief Douse expressed his wish that other young people here follow Mr. Good's example in achievement, which though dif-

Muzz Patrick Really Works Hockey Field

VANCOUVER — Nobody ever accused the Patrick family of not working at hockey. And least of all Muzz, son of Lester, brother of Lynn, nephew of Frank, Guy and Stan.

Muzz not only is majority stockholder in Tacoma Rockets of the Western Hockey League. He also manages and coaches them. He also manages the Tacoma Arena. And sells ads and writes stories for his hockey program. And runs the Pacific Northwest Agency for a manufacturer of hockey sticks.

Muzz recently appeared on a Seattle television show to talk about hockey. He used a blackboard to outline a "typically thrilling play which all Americans would love to see."

Asked after the show what kind of play he was describing with his confusion of chalk lines, arrows and dots, Muzz confided:

"Nobody down here understands the game, so I tried to show something which Americans might recognize. Actually, it was a football play—the only one I remember from my high school days, a cross-buck."

Last season, Tacoma drew scarcely 60,000 customers. This year, Muzz started out by handing out a bucketful of free passes, hoping this would attract paying customers to later games. Hardly anybody would come even on the passes.

Muzz isn't too down-hearted about all this.

"We're still operating and I've still got my shirt—or most of it," he says.

Demand For Newsprint to Rise in West

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Demand for newsprint will increase twice as fast in the western part of Canada and the United States as it will in the rest of North America in the next decade, Stanford Research Institute predicts.

By 1961 the west will need 35 per cent more newsprint than it uses now, the institute reported in a study made for a group of newspaper publishers.

United States consumption of newsprint for the 10-year period probably will increase by about 18 per cent, the report said.

DEAL, England (CP)—Decorating the bar of his public house in this Kent town was Tom Hayward's latest catch — a crab measuring nearly 12 inches and weighing nine pounds.

Textbooks Can't Replace Judgment in Bidding

The textbooks on bidding tell you exactly what to bid—provided you have the hand shown in the textbook. Usually, you don't. Then you have to use your best judgment.

What do you bid with Mrs. Keen's hand in today's deal after your partner opens the bidding with one spade? Three spades? It's not quite the type of hand for this bid and you really should have at least four of partner's suit. . . . Two spades? You're too strong for that. . . . Two no trump? Not so good, since you're wide open in two suits.

Your best bet is to make a waiting bid in one of the minor suits. Partner must rebid, so you're sure to have a chance to make a strong bid on the second round. Mrs. Keen was on the right track with her two-club bid and while I have no serious criticism of that call, I much prefer a two-diamond bid. The reason is that it is more specific as to the location of your principal high card strength.

Mr. Champion had to make a beautiful play to bring home 10 tricks at spades. Mr. Abel opened the eight of clubs and Mr. Meek was permitted to hold the

VICTORY—Rollin Prather, Edmonton Eskimos end, heads Calgary Stampeders goal line after catching a pass from Claude Arnold. Edmonton, on home grounds, took a 19-point deficit after the first game in the interprovincial football conference to defeat Calgary in the two-game, total-point playoff series. Prather, import and Conference all-star, scored one touchdown and many ground-gaining passes in the second game. He now meets Winnipeg for the western title. (CP Photo)

NEW YORK (AP) — The last snowy day we saw away from Larry MacPhail's 800-acre truck farm in Maryland, he was up to his hips in battle which were beginning to win blue ribbons in cow competitions.

MacPhail laid down the burden of the New York Yankees, banked the cheque for $100,000. MacPhail was a man. His only interest in the cattle and the life of the farm.

MacPhail dimly that a numbing-looking maresing out of their stalls. MacPhail said he didn't know anything. He had no interest in getting serious about the cattle and the life of the farm.

MacPhail just goes to show, something less than a year ago, and friends in the same MacPhail $195,200 worth of colts at the last Saratoga and $116,200 worth at Saratoga before that.

NEW YORK (AP)—Payment of $100,000 bonuses to managers to sign with major league clubs may be curtailed in 1953.

Major league clubs, and minor league clubs, at December meeting in Ariz., will be asked to proposed new bonus would restrict such to $36,000 "tops."

The proposal follows the out of vast sums by major league clubs on green in the last several months, for Boston Red Sox spent $100,000 for high school stars.

The proposal was drawn up by a special committee of the major-league executive committee.

The major league club would agree—in a sort of "gentlemen's agreement"—not to a bonus exceeding $36,000.

Under this agreement, subject to a year's suspension, a player and loss of the player. Major League clubs would agree to a similar agreement to the ceiling for open season, triple and double $10,000 for double A and B, C and D organization.

bonus players, regardless of amount they received, subject to unrestricted bonus called up to their club within one year. It would be forbidden to make special payments to friends, relatives or other persons in forms of cash, homes, automobiles, etc.

'Big Bill' Mawhinney Turns to Pro Golf

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rangy Bill Mawhinney, whose style still horrifies the golf puritans, has announced he has turned professional and intends to hit the golf trail this winter.

He thus follows in the footsteps of Stan Leonard, another Vancouverite who made his mark on the American professional circuit after the Second World War.

Mawhinney, the "ugly duckling" of Canadian golf, won his first big match in 1947 when, only 18, he beat Leonard in a city tournament. Leonard at that time had already won the Canadian professional title twice and was to win it again.

In 1948, Mawhinney won the Canadian junior championship with a record score of 147. A year later, he was Canadian amateur medalist at Saint John, N.B., and played on the Morse Cup (Pacific Northwest amateurs versus California amateurs) and Hudson Cup (Northwest professionals versus Northwest amateurs) teams.

In 1950, Big Bill beat Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., in the final to win the Canadian amateur title at Saskatoon.

Last year, he shot a 63 at Vancouver Shaughnessy to tie a course record set by Ken Black of Vancouver, former Canadian amateur champion. With Walt McElroy of Vancouver, 1951 amateur king, he beat U.S. Walker cuppers Frank Stranahan and Scotty Campbell at Bethlehem, Pa.

This year, the 23-year-old bond salesman became the first Canadian to win the Pacific Northwest Gold Association championship and then went to the semi-finals of the U.S. amateur, the best performance in that tournament by a Canadian since 1932 when Sandy Somerville of London, Ont., won it all.

A few days later, he helped British Columbia take the Willingdon Cup inter-provincial championship with as gritty a display as has been seen on a Canadian course. Troubled for days by a lame back, he finally collapsed on the last green and had to be taken to hospital.

Mawhinney has little natural grace, such as stylist McElroy, for instance, but this has never troubled him or his game.

"I want to play in and win as many tournaments as I can," Bill said. "I will never be entirely happy except in the immediate vicinity of a golf course."

Hawks Dazzle Fans With 8-Goal Blast

TORONTO (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks, in their most dazzling display of scoring power before a home crowd in nine years, Thursday night boosted their first-place lead in the National Hockey League to three points over Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings.

The Hawks scored four goals within the first 10 minutes of their game against last-place New York Rangers to coast to an 8-3 win, while Stanley Cup champions Red Wings snapped their three-game losing streak with a 4-1 win over Boston Bruins at Detroit.

Red Wings victory moved them into second-place tie with Canadiens who with Toronto Maple Leafs were idle.

The Hawks scoring outburst was their largest in Chicago since Jan. 28, 1943 when they defeated the Rangers 10-1. Rookie Pete Gonacher and Jimmy McFadden got two goals apiece as Pete Babando, Gerry Couture, Cal Gardner and George Gee connected for one each.

Other scores:
WHL — New Westminster 2, Calgary 1; Edmonton 4, Saskatoon 5.
WIHL—Spokane 5, Trail 7.

KIDNEY ACIDS Rob your Rest..

Many people never seem to get a good night's rest. They turn and toss—blame it on nerves—when it may be their kidneys. Healthy kidneys filter poisons and excess acids from the blood. If they fail and impurities stay in the system—disturbed rest often follows. If you don't rest well get and use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help the kidneys so that you can rest better—and feel better.

B.C. Sergeant Becomes Hero on Battlefield

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA (CP)—The name on everyone's lips when the patrol was over was that of its leader—25-year-old Sgt. John H. Richardson of Victoria.

Richardson, who quit an officers' training course to come to Korea with his unit, fought off one attack, suffered five wounds, fought off a second attack, directed the withdrawal, helped two casualties part of the way and guided artillery and mortar fire being sent down to help the operation.

Pearl Harbor Attack Leader Now Sky Pilot

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Japanese pilot who led the attack on Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941, says he has become a sky pilot. Capt. Mitsuo Fuchida, 50, said today in an interview he was converted to Christianity after the war and will devote the rest of his life to preaching. He is en route to San Francisco, where he will train as a missionary for a year before returning home.

He said that for the attack on Pearl Harbor he trained 360 pilots for a month and a half. As he attacked, he said, he was filled with love of his country and hatred for the Americans "but there was no real joy in my heart."

Capt. Fuchida was tried as a war criminal and acquitted.

CARSHALTON, England (CP)—Nurse Winifred Jeffery left this Surrey district for a post in Canada's far north. She will handle a medical position at Aklavik, where most of her patients will be trappers and Eskimos.

It was a laborious process. Nine were wounded, some severely, and they had to improvise stretchers. About 800 yards back they joined forces with Pachel's men.

Hastings and Johnstone are both listed as missing.

Hastings' known wounds were in the legs and he is thought to be alive.

The 26-man patrol from the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry was out to catch a prisoner on the night of Oct. 15-16.

Instead, they lost two men to the Chinese—the first two Patricias listed missing in almost two years in Korea.

HILL WAS OBJECTIVE
Richardson's objective was the base of a 600-foot hill 2,000 yards ahead of the Patricias' lines. About 100 yards short of it he paralled them out in two groups.

The first under Cpl. Ed Pachel of Yorkton, Sask., was a fire group to support any attack the other group might make onto the objective Richardson's party was about 100 yards away from Pachel's.

Leaving Lt. Cpl. William E. Johnstone of Westville, N.S., and Calgary, in charge of the second party, Richardson went ahead with Sgt. Rhodes (Rocky) Prentice of Toronto and Calgary, the sniper sergeant, and Cpl. Don Hastings of Vancouver and Calgary, one of Prentice's snipers.

The trio established that Chinese were working right on their objective and withdrew 100 yards to Johnstone's position, where Richardson radioed fire orders.

Before he'd finished issuing them he had a fight on his hands.

AT CLOSE QUARTERS
He later told Lt.-Col. John Cameron of Ottawa, officer commanding:

"When I saw the first Chinaman he was only three feet away."

Pte. C. H. Chute of Bear River, N.S., said:

"When I first saw them there were seven, and they were only six or seven feet away." Chute said he felled them all with his Bren gun.

The Chinese weren't discovered until they were right in among the Canadians, shooting low.

It was as though the Chinese were determined to get a prisoner, and one able to talk, said Cameron.

"It was really hot and heavy there for five minutes. Their men emptied their burp-gun magazines over and over and our fellows answered the fire whenever they got the chance. It was an old-fashioned fight above the ground."

SEVERAL WOUNDED
Richardson, Hastings, Prentice, Johnstone and the signal-lieut.—Pte. F. M. Holloway of Vancouver—were wounded.

The surprised Canadians fought back grimly. The radio set on Holloway's back probably saved his life. It was riddled to uselessness by machine-gun bullets—putting the group out of communication with headquarters.

Richardson organized a withdrawal, shouting directions to Pachel's fire group. Chinese bullets laced the 100 yards between the groups, preventing them getting together.

Just as the withdrawal was getting under way the Chinese launched their second assault, mainly with grenades. It, too, was beaten off.

But Richardson, who had been supporting Prentice on one side and Hastings on the other, was separated from them by the blast of a concussion grenade.

Groping in the darkness, he found Prentice and drew him aside. He could not find Hastings. Nor could the other men find Johnstone, who had been severely injured.

MADE THOROUGH SEARCH
Richardson held up the withdrawal while the ground was searched thoroughly and finally ordered the men back.

Johnstone, however, was more severely wounded, and Pte. Reo Pilon of Duck Lake, Sask., said he doubted that Johnstone lived.

Others wounded that night were Ptes. George L. Mark of Carrot River, Sask., Fred E. Waugh of Woodstock, Ont., G. E. McEachen of Brandon, Man., and T.P. Nolan of Brandon, Man.

Chute was slightly hurt but not severely enough to be evacuated.

Within 24 hours, most of the others, including Richardson, had been operated upon and were on their way to the Commonwealth Hospital at Kure, Japan.

Pioneer Mountie Thinks Old Ways Better Than New

REGINA (CP)—One of Canada's oldest living ex-Mounties thinks the changes in the methods of law and order may not have all been for the better.

He's 88-year-old Fred Smith of Regina, who served with the Redcoats from 1887 to 1913. Now he lives on pension at the Veterans' Home in Regina. He's still active, mentally and physically.

Reminiscing on the early days when the Indians were still potential trouble-makers, and the Yukon was gripped by the gold fever, Mr. Smith made some comparisons between the old and the new.

"We didn't baby the criminals in my day," he said.

RUGGED TIMES
He enlisted in Toronto with the old Northwest Mounted Police and spent two years in Saskatoon before going to the Yukon and the Northwest Territories.

Smith considers his best case was at Whitehorse in the Yukon. He said: "There was a Hudson's Bay Company factor robbed and murdered and I had an idea that the men were two Yanks and a fellow known as Black Jack. The Yanks escaped to the United States but I thought I knew where Black Jack was and set out after him."

After tracking the suspect to a settler's cabin, Smith turned his horse into a nearby barn before searching the cabin.

"I wasn't in the barn more than a minute before some straw fell from above and as I looked up, Black Jack jumped. My horse started to kick, which didn't help much, but I managed to get Black Jack under control and took him back."

The trial was held promptly and Black Jack was hanged the following day. Justice was swift in those times.

After retiring from the force, Mr. Smith enlisted in the Army Provost Corps and served in England during the First World War. Now he spends his time making leather wallets, and frequently plays billiards.

"I don't know much about radios and fingerprints," he says, "but I'm always willing to tell those young fellows a few things that helped me when I was maintaining the right."

SCREEN FLASHES

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What happens to an actor's career after he confesses he has once been a Communist?

Some actors have fallen into obscurity. Others have managed to continue their careers. One of the latter is Sterling Hayden, who testified last year in Washington that he had been a member of the Communist party for six months in 1946.

How did the Washington headlines affect his career immediately afterward?

"If anything, I was in a better position than I was before. Before I had testified, there was a cloud over my name, a sort of uncertainty about whether I was 'safe' or not. Afterward, everything was out in the open.

"As to the immediate reaction, I don't know. Nobody wanted to hire me, because they didn't know how public opinion would turn. I never heard of any producers who said they would not hire me. There may have been some but my agents didn't tell me of any."

Since then he has made eight pictures, including "The Star" with Bette Davis and his current "Flame of Timberline" with Ann Sheridan.

What was the personal reaction to his confession of Red membership?

"With two exceptions, I have had no adverse comment made to me personally. The exceptions were a couple of guys whom I suspect of still being Commies . . .

"Once it came up during a forum some of us were attending at a drama festival in Rochester, N.Y. Someone asked about Communism in Hollywood and we had previously agreed that I would answer such a question if it came up. I talked for 10 or 15 minutes on the subject and got a nice hand when I sat down."

Why has Hayden's career continued while Larry Parks has not had a film job since he also testified he had been a Red?

"I don't know," replied Hayden. "I've thought about it a great deal. It could have been the difference in presentation."

(Hayden had testified that joining the party was "the stupidest thing" he had ever done and talked freely. Parks admitted his membership, but first said he "didn't want to crawl through the mud as an informer." Later he named names.)

"I was fortunate to get mine over with one shot," Hayden added.
