POLITICAL POT STILL IS BOILING MERRILY ALL OVER THE COUNTRY

W. J. Bowser Discusses the Election Issues In Skating Rink

Blames Liberals for all Customs Irregularities and Deals with Constitutional Questions: Brady also Speaks

Taking as the main subject of his discourse the condition of affairs in the customs department, which he declared was the most important issue before the people in the present campaign, Hon. W. J. Bowser, K.C., former premier of British Columbia, delivered an effective address at the Auditorium last night in support of the Conservative candidate in Skeena riding, J. C. Brady. Mr. Bowser, who has a pleasant and experienced platform manner, besides discussing matters in an able and convincing way, sustained his address with a running vein of sarcastic humor. The result was that the audience of over 400 persons was kept in the best of humor and what the people present may have lacked in the way of enthusiasm they fully made up for in the attention given the speaker of the evening. Besides the customs, Mr. Bowser also touched lightly on the dissolution of the last House and the constitutional question. He quoted precedents to justify the manner in which the House had been dissolved in July and dubbed the constitutional question as a "lawyer's argument" with which the public was not greatly concerned. The speaker dealt with the Old Age Pensions Bill and described it as a "camouflage measure" which the government knew would be turned out when it went to the Senate. Mr. Brady, the candidate, was also a speaker during the evening and the meeting was presided over by C. H. Orme, president of the Skeena District Liberal Conservative Association.

MEIGHEN IN HOME TOWN

Says Mackenzie King Opposed Formation of Canadian National System

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Aug. 28.—Premier Meighen, welcomed in his own home town which first sent him to Parliament, declared Mackenzie King, following his appointment as Liberal leader, had uttered a tirade against the establishment of the National Railway system and a trade especially against the inclusion of the Grand Trunk, which he said would ruin us. "This man," Mr. Meighen added, "who denounced the whole creation of the National System out of bankrupt elements which were bringing chaos in this country, had been trusted to see that the system lives. It is amusing, it is laughable."

F. Connor, K.C., that he visit the famous steamer Margaret. "I have already invited the commissioner," interjected Captain Lecouche of the Margaret. "And His Lordship is renowned for his wisdom," murmured O'Connor when Sir Francis declined to go aboard the vessel. The commission adjourned yesterday afternoon for the week end.

Many of the scenes in the spectacular picture were actually taken in France during the Great War and, in the part in which Mr. Rance appears, the hand of the Fifteenth Battalion was coming out of the lines after an engagement.

American Mother Swims Channel Making Almost as Good Time as Miss Ederlie: Englishman Fail

DOVER, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Glemington Corson, of New York, mother of two children, well known long distance swimmer, successfully negotiated the English Channel today. Leaving Cape Griz Nez shortly before midnight, she made the crossing in 15 hours and 28 minutes, the time being the fastest ever recorded except that made by Gertrude Ederlie, who made the crossing on August 7 in 14 hours, 31 minutes. Frank Perks, an Englishman, started at the same time, but was forced to quit when only a mile and a half from his objective. Another swimmer, Ishak Belmy, a giant Egyptian, was almost drowned after being swimming four hours. He was seized by cramps and was rescued by Jabez Wolfe, the famous trainer, who jumped from the accompanying tug.

Twenty-Four Convicts From State Reformatory Are at Large and Some Armed.

SCAIA, Mich., Aug. 28.—Twenty-four convicts from Michigan state reformatory, mostly young men and first offenders, are at large today, many of them armed, as the result of a sensational break in which they virtually took possession of the institution early this morning. Liberal Leader will Turn His Attention to The Fishing Industry

In Address in Nova Scotia King Promised to do Same for Basic Industries as Has Been Done for Manufacturers

PLYMOUTH, Nova Scotia, Aug. 28.—Belief that the Government should do for fishing and agriculture that we have done for manufacturers, was expressed here last night by Mackenzie King at a campaign meeting in the interests of the Liberal candidate. "Much more attention should be given to the fishing industry," Mr. King said. "We have done a lot to secure markets in all parts of the world for manufacturers who have been able to make their voices heard through boards of trade and chambers of commerce, but the men and women who toil in the basic industries of the nation cannot make themselves heard so readily. It should be possible for Canada to develop the industry. Canadian fish should go to the markets of Great Britain and Europe just as it now goes to Central Canada. It was the defeat of reciprocity which lost to the Maritimes their great natural market," declared the Liberal leader.

NELSON HEARS ALL SPEAKERS

Liberal at Conservative Meeting and Conservative at Liberal Gathering.

NELSON, Aug. 28.—Unusual spice was injected into the political situation here last night when two large meetings, one Conservative and one Liberal, enjoyed each other's speakers. Du-gald Donaghy, of Vancouver, had the opening 40 minutes at the Conservative meeting, being followed by a Conservative speaker, and at the Liberal meeting F. D. Stacey, ex-M.P., preached the Conservative doctrine for 40 minutes, after which Liberal speakers held forth.

KILLED WHEN AIRPLANE FELL

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—Commander John Rodgers, 44 years of age, hero of the Hawaiian seaplane flight, died late yesterday from injuries received earlier in the afternoon when a land plane was wrecked by a fall into the Delaware River off the naval base here. Samuel Schultz, a mechanic, was critically injured. Rodgers, who sustained a broken leg and severe bruises in the crash was also badly shocked by the accident and pain he was forced to endure while the seamen freed him from the wreckage in which he was pinned. The aviators were strapped to the seats and were unable to free themselves when the plane dived toward the shallow river, and stuck on the muddy bottom nose down in less than four feet of water.

Learning Trickery of Politicians.

The specious arguments presented by J. C. Brady, Conservative candidate, at the public meeting in the auditorium last night indicate that he is rapidly throwing off the mantle of the school teacher and adopting the role of the clever politician, the man whom he professes to abhor. The way he juggled the fish trap question was really clever. He set out to show that Fred Stork had been playing a two face game with the fishermen and that Mr. Meighen's Government, when it granted the licenses, was simply a common ignoramus and had not done it deliberately with malice aforethought. He forgot to mention that fishing continued to the end of the season, for a full week after the Meighen meeting here.

Mr. Brady, though tied to the tail of the Conservative party, makes a great play of his independence of party. Why then did he offer himself as a Conservative and why is he backed by W. J. Bowser, the most rabid of the old party machine gang? Mr. Brady poses as "the friend of the workingman," but he is in the wrong company to get away with any such pose. As we said before, Mr. Brady is in a fair way to become a clever politician and one term at Ottawa would complete the work, but happily he is not likely to be there, at any rate not on this occasion, because the fishermen and workmen, to whom he makes his smooth appeals, are too wise to be caught with that kind of bait. They have fished too long themselves.

Education is Very Important Matter.

The education of the young people is one of the most important affairs of the city. Just now there are several new teachers coming in, particularly in the High School, and it is up to the parents and others to give them every possible support. It is also up to the trustees to pay them what they are worth. Nothing is as important to the city as to have the young men and women given the right kind of start in the schools.

Value of Radio to the Country.

The radio is particularly valuable to those people who live a long way from cities and towns and who are therefore much isolated during the winter months. Recently questions were asked from women in regard to it and here is some of the information gathered from them:

To deprive the benefit of the hints on household economics, health, beauty, and all the other topics that appeal to the fair sex, radio clubs have been formed by women living away from the cities. Radio tea parties are the rule. The old-fashioned country woman is fast disappearing. She no longer specializes on neighborhood gossip nor the prices of chickens, butter and eggs, but can discuss the latest fashions, play bridge, and narrate all that is going on in the field of politics or about music and drama, not to mention baseball, football and prize fights; and she finds the French lessons very interesting too!

Parliament Decision is Being Flouted.

The last Parliament was asked by Mr. Meighen for enough money to enable it to carry on. The request was refused, Parliament declaring that his Government was not legally constituted. Then Mr. Meighen appealed to the Governor and got a dissolution, something that was refused to Mackenzie King, and now the Governor is signing warrants to the extent of a million dollars a day to enable the affairs of the country to be carried on. The money belongs to the people and is paid by them in taxes, but they have no say in the spending of it. The Governor and Meighen are doing that between them. So far they have got through close to sixty million dollars and it is increasing every day. By the time the elections are over and Parliament can be called it will be close to one hundred millions, and perhaps more. This is an immense sum. Yet the people who pay have nothing to say about how it is spent. That is the Meighen method.

THE MAN IN THE MOON

Election day will soon be here, thank the powers.

Women are always worrying about what to put on and men worry about what they can take off.

Stealing is wicked except it be to steal second.

What makes cigarette smoking expensive is the large number of cigarette smokers who never seem to buy any.

The most disappointing thing is to go to a movie show that is advertised as being wicked and find it is just a little tamer than the average.

Jake says if he was a Liberal he'd hate himself and if he were a Conservative he'd commit suicide. All the same he thinks Stork is the boy.

The trouble with Jake is he hates to lose his vote.

The only thing that worries me about this election is that I can't get a dollar of Conservative money. They just aren't offering any.

Brady will win
On election day.
So Conservative
People here say;
But when they are asked
To put up a dollar
They at once get
Hot under the collar.

Easy money is the kind most of us do not get.

I saw some easy money
And I thought I'd like a lot,
But when I reached my hand out,
The scheme went all to pot.

I'd have some easy money
I'd take it if I durst,
One time I thought I had some
And then the bubble burst.

Fruit gets canned in summer, but there's danger of any too ripe employee being canned at any time.

Most of our success comes as a result of someone else's failure. When fishermen succeed it is because of the foolish action of some poor fish.

BIRTH RATE DROPS.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 28.—The birth rate in Argentina—with 9,500,000 inhabitants in an area of 1,400,000 square miles—is slowly decreasing but on the other hand the mortality rate is steadily diminishing.

Though falling, the birth rate is considerably in excess of many countries and in Europe only Poland gives a higher percentage. The birth rate during the 1920-24 period is given as 3.3 per cent.

CANADIAN BOOM LIKE FLORIDA

Same System Adopted by Same People as in Southern States With Success

LONDON, Aug. 27.—With the suddenness of war and the punctuality of a parade, a land boom of great significance for the whole of Western Ontario has developed at Pelee Point. For months past, persistent messages have been circulated in London and Western Ontario about the coming of a boom along the Lake Erie front.

Engineered by Experts The boom was engineered by Florida experts in accordance with latest Florida methods and the principles of mob psychology, says the London Free Press.

Line Up and Pay The remainder lined up before open-air desks of the promoters and paid their money. The event proved rich in dramatic interest and is noteworthy as the first successful attempt to practice Florida methods in Ontario.

GOT GOAT OF H. H. STEVENS

The Vancouver Sun says: To an unknown individual attending last night's Conservative meeting in the Grandview Theatre must go the distinction of having unlabeled Hon. Harry Stevens' Tug-boat. Professor E. Odum, chairman of the meeting, had assured his fellow residents in Grandview that if they would write out any questions they might wish to put to Mr. Stevens or General Clark he would undertake to have the queries answered.

For an hour and a half by the clock, Mr. Stevens devoted his undivided attention to the Old Age Pensions plan proposed by his political opponents.

He raked it over, ridiculed it, rent it clause from clause, railed at it, rolled it up and wrote "N. G." on it. When he had finished with it elderly Conservatives were trembling lest it come into effect. It began to take on the outward attributes of a sinister plot of the Liberal leader, Mackenzie King, to hound the aged and enfeebled into pauperism.

When he had finished he wiped his perspiring brow and was about to resume his seat when Professor Odum placed in his hand a slip of blue paper received from a member of the audience.

Mr. Stevens read it and wheeled about, face pale, eyes blazing and hands trembling. "Who sent this question to me?" he shouted. Passion was in every word.

The audience was stunned into silence.

"I want to know what man in this audience sent me this!"—brandishing the paper in the air.

A man at the back of the hall admitted authorship. His note read: "What is your attitude on old age pensions?"

"In the name of Heaven, man!" But it was too much. Mr. Stevens tore the paper to pieces and walked on it.

SPORT CHAT

With the Gold Storage withdrawing from the league, the prospect is that there will only be the two Senior football teams for the Gilhuly Cup series which, it is announced, will open on Monday. Due perhaps to the fact that there was a scarcity of talent, there does not seem to have been as much interest taken in the game this year as usual.

Why Home-brewed Beer Can Be Bad For Your Health

BREWING beer at home, a habit that has become widespread in the United States since prohibition deprived the people of the right to purchase pure and healthful beer legally and openly, presents difficulties and dangers of which those who engage in it are rarely aware.

HOME-BREWED beer can be actually dangerous to those who drink it, for the home brewer works by rule of thumb, perforce, and usually has no acquaintance with or control over the complex physical and chemical reactions that take place in the brewing of beer.

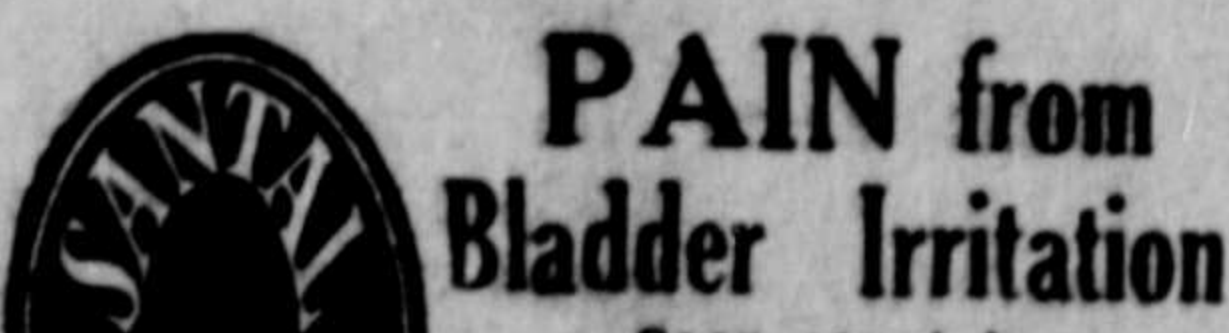

THE same materials which, in a modern brewery, are made into pure, healthful beer, can become, in the hands of a home brewer, a raw, incompletely fermented, indigestible and harmful mixture unfit for consumption.

THE home brewer is hampered not only by lack of knowledge of the science of brewing, but home equipment does not include the elaborate plant necessary for prolonged sterilization and filtering to assure a pure, healthful beer free from bacterial infection.

HOME-BREWED beers are usually higher in alcoholic content than they should be. In the beers supplied by the Amalgamated Breweries to the people of British Columbia through licensed premises or through Government stores the alcoholic strength is only 4 1/2 per cent, the most favorable strength for the stimulation of the stomach toward aiding digestion.

ANY physician can tell of the dangers of home-brewed beer, from which, happily, the people of British Columbia are free; for they have the privilege of obtaining pure, good beer made by the Amalgamated Breweries of British Columbia in plants that are equipped with every facility for the brewing of pure beer, perfectly flavored, well matured and healthful.

Visitors are cordially welcomed at the plants of the members of the Amalgamated Breweries of British Columbia: Vancouver Breweries, Limited; Rainier Brewing Co. of Canada, Limited; Westminster Brewery, Limited; Silver Spring Brewery, Limited; and the Victoria Phoenix Brewing Co. Limited.

Salmon Season Nearing Close--Seining for Dogs Next on Program--Halibut Arrivals Above Average

Salmon fishing and packing is now on the last lap and the short season is approaching an end. Hump back seining is about over the heavy rain at the first of this week having been followed by virtually a complete disappearance of the fish which left the seining areas to continue their course up the streams. With the trollers still busy fishing coho and, incidentally, reported to be doing better now than at any time this year, there remains for the seiners only dog salmon, but it is expected that there will be a good deal of activity along this line because there is a better demand than usual from the canneries.

With the sockeye season over, the movement of the seiners and fish packers that came north this spring back to the lower coast has started. During the past week boats have been leaving various points in the district, most of the vessels coming here to outfit before making the long hop. Some of these boats will go right through to Vancouver and New Westminster, while others will engage in dog seining at points around Vancouver Island.

While the peak of the salmon season is now over, it will be well into October before the seining of dogs is finished and all the canneries are closed.

Powerboat Leila R., henceforth to be known by the unimaginative nomenclature of P. R. B. H. 28, made a trip to Wetcome Harbor, Porcher Island, during the week for a load of gravel for delivery to Albert & McCaffery.

The provincial police boat Adanac is now nearing the end of an extensive repair and alteration job at the dry dock and will be out soon, ready to give a service which in her former shape it was found impossible for her to perform. Besides having had the former 30 h.p. medium duty engine replaced with a 24 h.p. heavy duty Buffalo, the Adanac has undergone extensive alterations on deck, a pilot house having been put in where the open bridge used to be and another cabin installed. Finishing touches such as painting are now being put on.

Caygeon Squeezed

The rumor going along the waterfront early in the week that the well known local halibut schooner Caygeon had been sunk at Butedale was happily discounted on Thursday when word was received that the vessel had sustained little more than a little squeezing with no serious damage as a result of being jammed between a wharf and steamer. It appears that the Caygeon had sold her catch at Butedale and was fitting out to proceed to the halibut grounds again when one of the Union freighters nosed in and squeezed her against the piles. Something had to give and, fortunately, it was the piling of the wharf and the Caygeon had a lucky escape from what might have been more serious damage. In any case, Capt. John Wick was able to proceed to sea with the boat. The Caygeon was formerly the property of Capt. "Handsome" Jim Morrison, but is now owned by Dominic Mara of this city.

The Cow Bay floats, as is usual at this time of the year, have become crowded to capacity with native boats on their way to the respective homes in the district following the closing of salmon fishing in which they have been engaged. The coming two or three weeks until after the Exhibition will see many such boats in port, those on board being attracted to the bright lights of the city to pass a little time and spend a little money before "holing up" for the winter.

Capt. Claude Ketchum have in to port during the week from the Queen Charlotte Islands, where he was engaged in fish towing during the past few months. The Viner, which shares the berth of the Wigwam, has been notable for the past few months on account of her absence, but it seems safe to predict that "Jimmy" Thomas ought to be in from the Skeena before September 14, for there is nothing Jimmy likes better than a political argument and it is giving away no secret to say that Jimmy is needed to counteract some of the philosophy of the other side which is being generously spread.

to Vancouver in order to have a heart to heart talk with the prominent lawyer of that city who sold him the Kelpie on the understanding that the seal fishing was to be opened.

The Bradbury & Yelf outfit has not been blessed with the best of luck this season but Jack Bradbury still exhibits the stiff upper lip and says they will pull through somehow or other. The new seine boat and packer built during the spring in Vancouver for the outfit was not able to come out on account of delay in the arrival of the engine. That, however, was not half so annoying as the accident to the Bethune recently when she broke her crank shaft, being laid up at the dry dock ever since awaiting the arrival of the new shaft. The accident happened just at the peak of the season when the boat was most useful. The two other boats of the company, Tip Top and Belleville, are seining pinks in Cumshewa Inlet.

Word has been received that Jack Toner is now a member of the crew of one of the United States Shipping Board vessels operating out of New York. He has made two trips to England and has also had a voyage to South Africa. In spite of all these travels, he still has a warm spot in his heart for Prince Rupert and a rather cooler regard for the party who stole the door of the famous Ark.

Eureka and Lincoln

The American halibut schooner Eureka, damaged in a recent explosion, is just about ready for the high spots again following the making of repairs at the dry dock. Tanks are yet to be installed and the decking put on but this should all be done within a week's time.

As for the Lincoln, more seriously damaged, that vessel is still lying at the dry dock, nothing having yet been done. Although the Lincoln looks almost a hopeless wreck, steps are under way to have the vessel repaired.

Alex. Wylie came in during the week with the Koyousu from the west coast, where he had been trolling all summer, and went out again to finish up the season at Dundas Island.

The cruiser Sunbeam II, belonging to Douglas Stark, is to have her present 13-15 heavy duty Buffalo engine replaced with a 14-30 motor of the same make which will be more suitable for the craft. Doug. expects to have the change made before the hunting season opens.

With the season well advanced and but two-and-a-half months before the close, halibut fishing is now going on intensively and will continue so until November 15. During the past week, the total landings were well above average at 847,300 pounds—607,000 from American bottoms and 240,300 pounds from Canadian. A notable feature was the number of large American schooners that sold their catches here. Prices fluctuated little during the week and Canadians received as high

LOW PRICES OF HALIBUT NOW

Low prices for halibut at this time of year are not unusual. During the summer months production tends to increase and the demand to decrease, according to a prominent fish authority here. He says that there has been very little demand from the big eastern cities of late. Halibut there is a luxury and the people who can afford to buy luxuries are away holidaying. The result is that the fish used are mostly the lower and cheaper grades and not halibut.

From this time on there should be an improvement. The holidays will be over in a few days and people will settle down to their regular modes of life. Then the demand for Prince Rupert's specialty will increase.

W. J. BOWSER DISCUSSES THE ELECTION ISSUES IN SKATING RINK.

tonight to show that such was not the case."

Mr. Bowser then plunged into the whole question of the customs probe tracing events leading up to the investigation from the time complaints had been made by the Merchants' Protective Association as to smuggling until the report of the parliamentary committee appointed by the government had resulted in "the defeat" of the Mackenzie King administration. Never before in the history of Canada had it been necessary for private people to spend $20,000 to force a government to do its duty and Mr. Bowser expressed the hope that it would never happen again. The speaker claimed that Mackenzie King knew of the rascality and villainy in the customs service but that he would not raise his voice against one of his ministers who was not doing his duty because of the fear of the effect in Quebec province. When Mackenzie King would do nothing, the Merchants' Protective Association placed the information in the hands of Hon. H. H. Stevens who brought the matter up in the House and was responsible for the formation of the investigation committee.

Irregularities
Mr. Bowser referred to many instances of irregularities that had been brought before the committee in sworn evidence. He cited the Halifax liquor warehouse scandals where boats had loaded liquor for foreign destinations to return it to Nova Scotia illegally. Boats cleared from Halifax for Peru, a four-months' trip, and returned in four days. According to clearance and entry papers, three trips could be made to the Bahamas in five days. Boats cleared with cargoes of liquor for St. Pierre and Miquelon Islands where there was liquor to burn. The situation became so bad that the clergy of Nova Scotia got together and brought matters to the attention of Mackenzie King but they did not even receive a reply. Millions of dollars were being lost to the government coffers through smuggling. A boat belonging to William Duff, a government member, had been caught laden with liquor within the three mile limit but the vessel, though seized by a government cruiser and fined, was released and the fine ordered remitted. The Mounted Police had been taken away from the Quebec border because they were interfering with smuggling and placed under the orders of Inspector Bisailon at Montreal who was involved in smuggling and bootlegging. Mr. Bowser then referred to the scandals in which Bisailon was involved and charged Hon. Jacques Bureau with connivance therein. The minister, inspectors and even the civil service commissioners were recipients of presents of liquor. In connection with the smuggling of prison-made goods from United States into Canada, Mr. Bowser stated that three firms alone had bought $250,000 worth of such goods in a year at the expense of Canadian factories which were compelled to close down.

Life in Senate
The minister who had been charged with dereliction of duty, Mr. Bowser said, had been sentenced to life in the Senate at a salary of $4,000 per year. That was the way Mackenzie King went about cleaning out the Senate which he had talked so much about. In order to be able to look their constituents in the face, Mr. Bowser declared that the Progressives had been compelled to withdraw from the support of the Liberals, so vile were the disclosures in the private reports of the customs committee to which the members had access but which were not published. And the Liberals now came back and asked for support after being guilty of villainy so disgusting that even the Progressive and Labor members could no longer support the government. Mr. Bowser appealed to the women by stating that it was his hope that they would lend by their votes to elevate public life by refusing to countenance immorality or wrong doing.

Mr. Stork knew what was in those private reports, Mr. Bowser said, and he should have no fear in taking his constituents into his confidence and telling them what was in those reports. If the contents of those reports were so unspeakable that they could not be told, then it was time that the women expressed their disapproval by voting for Brady instead of Stork.

Speaking of Mackenzie King's request for dissolution, Mr. Bowser likened it to asking that the jury be dismissed before it had rendered its verdict. Mr. King had no right to ask for dissolution or to have it granted. Then when Mr. Meighen had wanted to get the business of the session completed by sending the Liberal government's own bills up for Royal Assent, Mr. Mackenzie King had blocked this being done by moving adjournment. Mr. Bowser pointed to such a parallel in the British Columbia legislature when Col. Prior's government had been dismissed and Sir Richard McBride called upon to take over the reins of government. It was a case of where Col. Prior had seen his duty, but where Mackenzie King had failed to see his responsibility.

Then regarding dissolution, Mr. Bowser said that just as the 1926 parliament had been dissolved so had parliament been dissolved in 1911, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was premier. A crisis arose on the question of reciprocity while Sir Wilfrid Laurier was in England. He cabled to Ottawa between Friday and Monday and asked for dissolution which was granted in spite of the fact that members had risen on Friday with the understanding that the House would sit again on Monday. "If dissolution was proper in the case of Laurier was it not also in the case of Meighen?" asked Mr. Bowser.

Old Age Pensions
Regarding the Old Age Pensions which it was claimed the Tory Senate killed, Mr. Bowser said that the Conservatives in the House knew the bill as constituted could not be effective, but they had allowed it to pass so that it could not be said they opposed old age pensions. The provinces were called upon to share in the payment of the pensions without having been consulted, as the Conservatives felt they should be. Quebec, where the church took care of its poor and aged, would not consent to it and the attorney general of British Columbia on two occasions had written that this province did not concur with the province contributing a share. Mr. Bowser charged that the bill had only been introduced to pacify J. S. Woodsworth, the Winnipeg Labor member, and that the Liberals knew it would be turned out by the Senate and sent it up for that very purpose. Mr. Bowser pointed out that Liberal members of the Senate from Quebec had deliberately absented themselves so the bill would be defeated. The whole thing, Mr. Bowser charged, was a camouflage as far as the Liberals were concerned. Mr. Meighen, on the other hand, declared that he favored old age pensions, but he wanted a workable act. Mr. Meighen had given the undertaking that he would call a conference of the provinces on this matter and, if no agreement could be reached, the federal government would take care of the matter itself.

Short and Interesting
At this point, Mr. Bowser remarked that he had spoken longer than he had intended. As Ambassador Harvey had said, the ideal speech was like the ladies' skirt—just long enough to cover the subject and just short enough to be interesting. He (Mr. Bowser) regretted that his speech might not have been short enough.

Concluding, Mr. Bowser asked if there was to be another statement in parliament or if there was to be a strong, honest government that would be able to carry on the country's business. As an indication that Mr. Meighen was going to win, Mr. Bowser referred to the number of seats the Conservatives had gained in the 1925 election and the number the Progressives and Liberals had lost. The Conservative party had risen from the position of third in strength to first and it was still gaining. The party needed only six seats for a majority and ten for a working majority. The decreased majorities of the Liberals in Quebec indicated that the pendulum was swinging even in that province toward the Conservatives.

Looking to Meighen
Canada in 1925, Mr. Bowser said, showed that it did not want Mackenzie King any longer. His unsportsmanlike conduct and the customs revelations had not improved his position since then. The people were looking toward Meighen in their desire for less constitutional discussion and more prosperity. Stability in the tariff was needed and more population, as the great Dominion was rich in great resources given her by nature.

"Above all," Mr. Bowser concluded, "there is needed a government with a working majority and, if the people of Prince Rupert do their share toward that end, they will support Brady and send him to Ottawa like all the other constituencies which are helping to elect Meighen and bring prosperity to Canada in the next ten years."

Brady Speaks
Mr. Brady, who is evidently beginning to feel the strain of the campaign, asked his audience to distinguish between the sham and the real in this campaign. When petty politics blinded people those who stood between in such matters were not the ones who sought the well-being of the country. He believed in the old motto: "Trust the people." What he wanted to ask was whether the Liberal party was justifying itself. That was the issue for all. Were the people satisfied that Mackenzie King and the Liberals were doing their best for the people of Canada? Mr. Brady then showed a great interest in the Daily News and from time to time referred to that paper and its editor. He said he wanted him to show how impossible it would be for the Liberals to go back.

Referring to the customs scandal, Mr. Brady quoted from Mackenzie King. He urged that those who were independent voters and not party followers should place in power a government best able to give clean administration. He claimed that King failed as a statesman, legislator and leader. At the last election everything was in favor of Mackenzie King, but he had lost ground. Now when everything was against him he was bound to lose out more. In the last campaign the Liberal leader spoke of the Progressives as outcasts of Parliament and promised if not returned stronger than before he would resign. For a man in private life to break his word was bad enough but what were they to say of a man who did it in public? Such a man had to be watched carefully. He asked if he thought after the record of the last ten months the Government should go back. The voice of the people, he believed, was for clean government. King broke his promise, placed himself in the hands of the Progressive party, a party that stood for free trade (applause from the rear seats). Free trade was not the King policy. Mr. King believed in safeguarding the industries. Mr. King was really the prime minister of Canada for the past ten months. The fiscal policy of the Conservatives was one of protection of industries by a moderate tariff. Were they going to allow the chaotic condition of the group system to continue? The hour of the party system had come and the power was to be with the people.

Fish Traps
Mr. Brady then took up the matter of fish traps and denied that he had held back anything at Ocean Falls or other meetings. He said he wanted the Daily News to make a special note of this. He wanted to show that Fred Stork was no longer a friend of the trawlers. He went back to November 5, 1924, when the Canadian Fishing Company made its first application for traps at Wales Island. On December 1 of that year the company was told that licenses would be granted at Wales Island and Dogfish Bay. Another asked for at Pierre Island was also granted.

In May, 1925, locations for the traps were made and construction commenced. On June 11 the license fee of $50 each was paid for eight traps but on June 13, after a protest, had been made, it was decided that the trap licenses would not be granted. Mr. Brady then read the two telegrams which were recently published on the front page of the Daily News in which Mr. Stork agreed that as the company had been promised the licenses last year he would not oppose their being granted for that year only as long as the company was notified that from that time on there would be no traps.

Mr. Brady claimed that Fred Stork, when asking for the votes of the people had denied knowledge of the granting of the licenses and it had been done without his consent or the consent of the ministers. In fact he had been very emphatic and had said he would fight fish traps until Hell froze over. He claimed that Stork was playing a double game to either side. Owing to the change of government he had been able to get the telegrams from the files at Ottawa. It was time they called a halt and party politics was buried.

Mr. Brady then excused the act of the Meighen Government in granting the licenses by stating that he did not know the conditions. As soon as the matter had been taken up with him the licenses had been cancelled. He was not speaking half truth, but dealing with facts.

Mr. Brady closed by saying he would answer the questionnaire of the Labor Party and the Native Sons and when he did so he believed both would be satisfied. He had no axe to grind. He was out to work for the people and not for himself.
