FREIGHT RATES QUERY CONCLUDES DAMAGING CHARGES ISSUE FROM MOUTH OF GAUTHIER

Hearing at Ottawa of Western Case Took Up Record Space of Time

Hearing ENDED TODAY AFTER PROTEST HAD BEEN MADE
AT UNATTENDING COMMISSIONER PARTICIPAT-ING IN DECISION

OTTAWA, April 30.—Signed by counsel for British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, a protest was entered at the freight rate enquiry here yesterday against Commissioner Calvin Law, an absent member from the sittings on account of illness, participating in a decision to be given in the matter of western rates.

The protest read in part: This commissioner took no part in the eastern or western sittings of the board preceding the final hearing with the exception of four days in March when evidence was given in connection with the submissions of the Quebec Harbor Commission.

Since this commissioner ceased to attend the final hearing of the board which heard evidence fifty-one days and argument for an additional sixteen days and was present only three days of a week occupied with part of the argument of counsel for the railway companies, our clients' interest require that we point out to the board it is impossible for a commissioner so circumstanced to adequately deal with the many complex issues raised.

After 113 days of actual sittings, the Board concluded its investigations today. The cases made a record for the number of hours it was in progress and the amount of evidence taken.

H. MOLYNEAUX DEAD AT ATLIN

PIONEER ROAD SUPERINTENDENT IN NORTH PASSED AWAY AT ADVANCED AGE

ATLIN, April 30.—The death occurred here of Hugh Molyneaux, who for the past twenty-eight years has been in charge of the road work for the provincial government in this most northern district of the province, Mr. Molyneaux made his home in Victoria at 1773 Denman Street during the winter months, spending the summers in the north, where he superintended the work on the roads.

He was a native of County Antrim, Ireland, where he was born on August 3, 1848. Coming to Canada as a boy with his parents he lived for a number of years in Quebec province. There he was engaged in trading and in various capacities with companies operating in the lumber sections of the province.

He was the shipping agent of the firm of Gilmore & Co. in the handling of its timber in the days when this was run down the rivers for shipment to the Old Country.

Coming to British Columbia, Mr. Molyneaux came north in 1898 and located in Atlin. In the following year he was appointed to the position of superintendent of the road construction in the district, a position which he continued to fill up to the time of his death.

He was a member of Atlin Lodge A.F. & A.M. and stood very high among the residents of the northern mining district and with all the officials of the department.

He is survived by his widow, Margaret Carruthers Molyneaux, his daughter, Mrs. A. McGilvray Morrison, and two grandsons, Hugh M. and Allan D. Morrison; also an elder brother, James Molyneaux, of Ottawa, and a nephew, John Wilson Molyneaux, of Saanich.

MADDEN IS NEW ADMIRALTY HEAD

DISTINGUISHED NAVAL MAN SUCCEEDS EARL BEATTY AS SEA LORD

LONDON, April 30.—Earl Beatty, G.C.V.O., D.S.O., 1st class sea lord and chief of the British navy for the past seven years, will be succeeded by Admiral Sir Charles Madden, G.C.V., G.C.V.O., K.C.M.G., today, as announced yesterday.

The new sea lord has been commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet since 1919 when he succeeded Admiral Beatty in that post. He has had an active naval career and won distinction during the Great War.

The resignation of Earl Beatty, one of the most daring and valiant admirals in British history, had been expected some time. He was born in 1871 and has been a naval man all his life. His name became a household word during the Great War. From 1912 to 1916 he was commander of the First Battle Cruiser Squadron and on August 28, 1914, he made a historical dash with his squadron into a portion of the German fleet in the Heligoland Bight, sinking two German cruisers and two destroyers, escaping himself unscathed and with very little loss. On May 31, 1917, he won another great naval victory off Jutland, destroying many German warships and chasing the remainder back to port, this being practically the only naval engagement of the whole conflict. Earl Beatty was commander-in-chief of the British fleet from November 16 to 1919 when he was appointed First Sea Lord and Chief of the Naval Staff, which position he now relinquishes. He was granted an Earldom and £100,000 in 1919. It is understood to be his intention to retire to private life.

SMALL PARK LOOKS ATTRACTIVE.

A prominent visitor to the city who was driving around enjoying the sights of Prince Rupert was very much impressed with the view of McClymont Park at the corner of McBride Street and eleventh Avenue. The green sward and the Gyro apparatus and wading pool give it a very attractive appearance and indicate that the people here are interested in the welfare of the young people and in providing for other than the gross material needs of the community.

In most cities to the south a good deal of money is spent on parks and gardens. In one notable case a small city taxes itself two dollars a head for every man, woman and child in order to keep up the parks. They consider it a good investment and they make a fine showing.

Now that the city has commenced the work and that it is securing the co-operation of the railway company, it is probable that the work will be extended gradually until it is possible to show visitors that Prince Rupert is not located in the area of perpetual snows but is a city with great possibilities.

When you visit a store you get about all you pay for. If you pay a low price you get a cheap article.

NOISE IS NOT ONLY MEANS OF EXPRESSION.

The Toronto Star says editorially: 'A Toronto lady having won a ten thousand dollar prize for the best novel against twelve hundred competitors from all over the continent, the Hamilton Spectator asks whether Toronto will be as enthusiastic over the achievement of this writer as over George Young who won the great swimming race.'

'In Toronto there are several Torontos,' the Star continues. 'While the great throngs that welcome our athletes home do not turn out to cheer for those who make notable discoveries in medical science, or who achieve triumph in fiction, these do not pass unweeded or unacclaimed. In quieter ways their home city greets them. They get the approval they prize. And quieter though it is, it is enduring. The scientist is great only while he continues to excel others.'

Things are not always what they seem and it is a good thing for some people that they are not.

TOO GREATLY IMPRESSED TO CLAP OR SHOUT.

What is true of Toronto is true also of other places. It is not always the loud demonstration that indicates the true feelings of the people. Take as an example a concert in any large city. A humorist or clown is likely to get a large response from the audience. There are times, however, when the hearts of those present are deeply touched by some appealing music and they carry home with them the memory of the song or musical selection and it remains with them for many a day and has an effect on their lives and actions.

People too often mistake the frantic yells of the noisy throng for the real voice of the people.

General election announcements are starting early. There will probably be many dozen yet before the Legislature is dissolved.

MANY GOOD CANADIANS NOT BORN HERE.

The other day a Prince Rupert man, visiting in Oregon, was asked what his country. The reply was 'I am a Canadian, born in England.' The inquirer looked curiously at him as if he were some new and hitherto undiscovered species. Yet he was perfectly justified in calling himself a Canadian and had as much right to do so as any native son. The person born in Canada has no exclusive right to the word 'Canadian' although he possibly may feel he has more cause to be proud of his country than one who has spent only part of his life here.

Time is the most precious thing in the world. Watch the moments as they fly and use them well.

SERMON FROM REV. FRIZELL

'CHRIST THE LORD OMNIPOTENT REIGNETH ALL HAIL ALL HAIL.'

(By Rev. J. R. Frizell, B.A., LL.B., First Presbyterian Church)

Story has it that Columbus set sail from Spain in search of a shorter road to India, but found a continent. We are often nonplussed by life's surprises. We find what we do not expect and expect what we do not find. What a tragedy it would have been had these gentle Galleian women found the tomb as they had left it. They expected to see a seal intact, they found a broken one. They came to see a lifeless Christ, they found a living one. They came to view a body, they met a spirit.

'Life is real, life is earnest, And the grave is not its goal, Dust thou art, to dust returnest, Was not spoken of the soul.'

The subject is 'An Easter Greeting,' the scene, an 'Empty Tomb; the text, 'All hail! Matt. 28: 9.

This greeting comes ringing down the isles of time like the chimes of an ethereal bell, swinging from the belfrey of heaven.

Let us stand close to the two Marys and make a mental note of what they found.

WHAT MARYS FOUND

(1) They found the stone rolled away. Mountains are not barriers in the pathway of Omnipotence. He rolls back the sea. His storms sweep towns and cities from the face of the earth, and plough passages through the thickest forest. But the storms of life, the doubts, the fears, the mountains of difficulty, how they cause us to stand hesitant upon the life's threshold! 'Letting I dare not wait upon I would.' With the faith, however, of a grain of mustard seed God's saints move mountains, clouds fade away upon the horizon, the blackest night is shot through and through with starlight, and icy leviathans rising up in the path of the faith-filled mariner melt into the sea.

(2) The seal broken! Before and behind us, and on every side we face sealed mysteries; sin, pain, death. The doors are locked and the keys are lost. Then we lost faith, because we appear to be hemmed in. We will not trust, because we cannot see the other side. Many a man has kept locked within the walls of his heart sealed secrets, because of love and pride. Many a woman hides away some injury, and while her heart aches she faces the world with a smile. Many a mother pays the penalty for her wandering boy, trusts him to the uttermost, and when he falls into an untimely grave takes her stand by his bier like the angel with the flaming sword, to guard him from all slander. 'Silence,' says Carlyle, 'is deep as sternity, speech is shallow as time.' One day God will pull aside the veil and allow us to pass into the Holy of Holies where we shall understand the mystery of his redeeming love and death, and taste the glory that excels.

Speaking of Lazarus, Tennyson writes: 'Behold a man raised up by Christ. The rest remaineth unrevealed. He told it not, something sealed The lips of that evangelist.'

Sealed doors, sealed hearts, sealed lips. (3) The tomb empty! Empty did we say? Ah, no, filled with the invisible presence of Christ, the fragrance of his memory, the shadow of his person, the glory of his victory, the splendor of his power. The invisible is more real than the visible. Thoughts are more potent than things. God is everywhere, Christ is omnipresent. 'The dew on the hillside is as fresh as when the morning stars first sang together for joy.' What God was he is, what he did he does, what he said he says. Thou art here, thou fillest the solitude, thou art in the soft winds that run along the summit of the trees in music. 'We are living in a whispering gallery. Television is now an established fact. Radio eliminates space. God's messenger was right, when he said: 'In him 'we live and move and have our being.'

A NEW CHRIST

(4) Found Christ, but not the Christ they expected to find, nor where they expected to find him. We do not always want God's Christ, nor do we search for him where we know he is sure to be found. We like to make our own gods, take them with us into our temple of idolatry and worship them there. Our palates have not yet lost the flavor of the cucumbers, the melons, the onions, leeks and garlic of Egypt. We would like to make God's will bend to ours and God's methods conform to ours. Knowing that we are transgressing his laws and thrusting the steel into his bosom we want to gloss over our sins, and persuade ourselves that he thinks well of us.

'All Hail!' a greeting from the risen Christ. Could it be established as an historical fact that Jesus never rose from the dead, then the whole structure upon which our Christianity is founded would come tumbling to the ground with a crash. Gethsemane would mean nothing more than the setting up of the will of man against 'the power not ourselves which makes for righteousness,' the crucifixion, the work of designing and pitiless friends and man must gaze hopelessly into impenetrable darkness.

'All Hail!' the voice that called back Lazarus from behind the bolted doors of mystery, caused the widow's son to rise from the bier, and whose presence and power filled with wonder and confusion the hoary headed scholar from the synagogue. I am not here, but risen, As God's sun rises over the eastern horizon gladdening the heart of nature and causing her to smile, suddenly the seal breaks, the stone rolls away, and the Son of Righteousness rises over sin and death with healing in his wings. 'All Hail!' fretful and troubled souls; be of good cheer! the chains of death are snapped as threads. 'The wages of sin is death,' but death hath no power over the sinless. No longer is man called upon to grope in the darkness and uncertainty of the past. 'For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.'

ALL HAIL! ALL HAIL!

'All Hail!' The voice that stilled the tempest on the turbulent Galilean sea—the look that shrivelled the soul of Peter like a blast from a fiery furnace, and melted the heart of a Magdalene—the hand, that, pulsating with the power of Omnipotence, touched the eyes of the blind man and they opened, and lifted the damsel from the bed of death—'Oh, death where is thy sting? Oh, grave where is thy victory?' Christ the Lord's Omnipotent reigneth. 'All Hail! All Hail!'

SALVATION ARMY SELF-DENIAL WEEK

For Purpose of Raising Money for Unusually Heavy Demands

The announcement is made from the headquarters of the Salvation Army that the annual period of Self-Denial in the organization will occur during the second week in the month of May. For this period the officers of the army are asked to give up the use of tea, coffee, butter or some other articles of food and from this and other sources to make a special contribution to Army funds. All the soldiers and officers of the Army look forward to this period in the year and make preparations for service beyond the ordinary at that time.

The service which the Salvation Army renders is well understood and the funds collected in the period of Self-Denial are used to maintain these services. From the beginning the Army has sought to feed the hungry, to provide homes for the homeless, to care for the unfortunate, and in general to minister to all in distress. In Canada it has discharged these duties on a large scale in cities and towns from coast to coast and each year it is asked to assume new responsibilities to meet pressing needs. None of the money collected in Canada is used in Army work in the Mother Country. The Army in Britain sends money to all countries, and receives for the work at home from none.

During the past few years the demands made on the Salvation Army in Western Canada have been unusually heavy, and the organization has undertaken responsibilities in all the provinces, including British Columbia. In the effort in connection with Self-Denial it is hoped that money may be provided to cover, at least in part, some of these large undertakings.

'Fruit-a-tives' Make and Keep You Well

MRS. O. MONACH

Thousands and thousands of women have tried 'Fruit-a-tives' during the past quarter of a century. Many of these, like Mrs. O. Monach, took 'Fruit-a-tives' as a last resort after having failed to get relief from any other remedy. And their experience has been invariably the same—'Fruit-a-tives' saved them from constipation, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, backache and kindred troubles when they had almost given up hope of ever being well again.

CANNING AT ANCHORAGE

ALASKA GENERAL FISHERIES DOUBLES PLANT CAPACITY; GORMAN COMPANY PLANT TO BE FULL TWO-LINER
ANCHORAGE, April 30.—The salmon packing industry will be carried on in Anchorage this year on a much larger scale than last year, according to announcement made by the management of the two canneries to operate here, and as a result the pack is expected to be in the neighborhood of 50,000 cases.
Joseph Magill of the Alaska General Fisheries made arrangements while in the states to materially add to the plant in the way of machinery, the new equipment including a retort, exhaust box and iron chink.

Hill 60 Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, is giving a children's party tonight for schoolgirls in the I.O.D.E. Hall in aid of the children's ward of the Prince Rupert General hospital. During the evening a beautiful basket of candy and fruit will be presented to the child holding the lucky ticket.
During the month of April so far the fire department answered three calls with the total loss amounting to $150. On April 1 there was a grass fire on First Avenue, with no loss, on April 9 a chimney fire at 1428 Second Avenue also resulted in no loss. On April 15 the department answered a call to the dry dock where the gas boat Tootie became ignited while the owner was making some repairs. The loss amounted to $150.

SURGERY FIXES 'EM UP O.K.
APPLICATION OF SCIENCE HELPS CONVICTS FROM PENITENTIARIES
SAN QUENTIN, Cal., April 30.—The plaint of ex-convicts that they seldom have a chance to 'go straight' after having run the gauntlet of a penitentiary may find its end in a science popularized by the post-war age—plastic surgery.
Plastic surgery has remodelled the ugly countenance of Jim Daly, 55 year old convict about to be discharged from San Quentin! Ten days after the operation he walked among his cellmates, unrecognized.
Believing he was about to be turned into a world which would slam the door of success in his villainous looking face, Daly requested Dr. Leo Stanley, prison physician, to perform the operation.

Dr. Stanley, who had studied plastic surgery, consented. He pared Daly's cauliflower ear down to normal size and used the pieces to fill a gap in his nose.
An iron mask could not have been more effective in concealing his identity. When he told his fellow prisoners, those who felt the same affliction also applied to Dr. Stanley for help. The physician said 22 others have asked for operations, some of which already have been performed.
The prisoners insist that with facial alterations they would be free to really become 'new men' to the outside world; that they could pass by the 'old gang' and the ever suspicious detective without giving away their identity.
Dr. Stanley said he would comply with all requests thus far received.

R. B. Mays, well known cannery man who has spent many years in Alaska, and who for the past several years was in the employ of the government as inspector of the pack at various points along the coast, has become associated with the Alaska General Fisheries as superintendent and the plant here will be operated under his direct supervision. The new machinery for the plant was selected by Mays, who arrived here this week from the south. With its installation, he says, the plant will have a capacity of 20,000 cases for the season, provided the salmon necessary for a pack of that size are available.
GORMAN CANNERY TWO-LINER
The Gorman Packing Co. plant here, which put up a pack of 23,000 cases last year, will be operated this season as a full two-line cannery, arrangements having been made for additional machinery and alterations which will considerably increase its capacity over last season.
Superintendent Samuel Asp of the Gorman canneries in this section, who arrived from the south two weeks ago, announces a goal of 25,000 cases for the Anchorage plant this season.
H. J. Enard, manager of the local plant, returned from the south this week and on the arrival of the new equipment from Seward, its installation and general renovation of the cannery will be immediately put under way.
The Gorman Packing Co. is also making extensive improvements at its recently acquired plant at Drier Bay, and that plant will be operated this season as one of the most up-to-date two-line canneries in Alaska.

Neglected Eyes

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once. OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable. DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

Prince Rupert is Leading Fish Boat Building Centre—Halibut Vessel Cape Spencer Changes Hands—Landings Here Beginning to Pick up.

Long since admitted to be the centre of the Pacific coast halibut fishing industry and the geographical if not the business centre of salmon canning operations, Prince Rupert can very nearly now lay claim to the title of being the British Columbia coast's premier fish boat building community. Though no statistics to date have been kept, those who know what is going on in both Vancouver and Prince Rupert yards declare that, if anything, more halibut and seine boats have been this winter and are now building in the various shops of this port than there are in Vancouver, although, of course, there are probably more under construction in the vicinity of the southern port such as at Steveston and other points in the Fraser River. An unprecedented era of activity in this line still prevails here and conservative estimates place the number of new boats that have come into being here in the past four or five months and which are now under construction at something not very far below fifty.

ALBERT & McCaffery

freezing. His trips into port average about twice a week with the big power boat Viner.

At the Prince Rupert Boat House everybody is busy getting ready for the advent of the spring season which it is hoped will be even bigger and better than ever before.

The "28" is at the dry dock undergoing an overhaul which includes the installation of a new keel, stem post and a general painting up, all of which work is being supervised by Capt. Alex Saint with his hawk eye and nose for idlers. With the other boats, Pachena and Myranway, probably engaged in charter work during the summer, the "28" will likely be the mainstay and flagship of the P.R.B.H. fleet this summer.

The Pachena will be taken out shortly for an overhaul before she starts on a cannery charter about June 15. The Myranway may go on a fishery patrol charter this season but this has not yet been definitely decided on. The "23" is still lying on the beach in the dry dock yards where she has spent the winter but a little more summery-like weather than we have been getting lately will see some movement with her in anticipation of the annual Salt Lake service.

Bob Gammon and Tom Watt are beginning to wonder if they'll be able to get that dry dock gang to work fast enough to turn out the big new 64-foot seneboat ready in time for the opening of charter season about June 15, but are hoping for the best. The fact that the delivery of the 90 h.p. Washington-Estep diesel engine, which is to go into the vessel, is somewhat delayed, being not now expected much before the middle of May, may also hold matters up a little.

The new service boat "Granby" for the Granby Co., which was built at the local dry dock, made a good delivery run up to Anxox last week, covering the ninety mile distance in about ten hours without troubling herself. According to Ben Fox of the Vancouver Machinery Depot, who installed the 120 h.p. Washington-Estep diesel engine in the vessel and who went up with the boat and returned to the city on Tuesday, she was quite the cynosure of all eyes at the smelter town and the populace flocked down to the waterfront to look her over. There are a few finishing touches to be put on the big 78-footer before she is actually commissioned in the company's service.

INSTALLING ENGINE

Installation of the 50 h.p. Washington-Estep engine in the 50-foot Skeena River Japanese selfboat is now proceeding at the dry dock. The vessel has been denied the originally selected name by the authorities and is to be renamed Nagoya, after the owner's birthplace in Japan.

By error, it was stated in the Waterfront Whiffs last week that a fine crustacean specimen had been presented to the local Fisheries Experimental Station by Indian Agent W. E. Collison. It was instead, J. M. Collison, his brother. We hope this explanation will be the cause of preventing any fraternal crabbing.

Thirty-five halibut tags have so far been turned over to him by vessels arriving in this port since the opening of the present season states Norman L. Freeman, local representative of the International Fisheries Commission. Seven of the tags were from the Yakutat and westward banks, where the fish were tagged for the first time last winter, while the balance came from near by in banks such as Hecate Straits where operations were carried on by the commission over a year ago. The tags are forwarded as they arrive by Mr. Freeman to Seattle, the commission's headquarters, where they are more specifically traced.

Capt. Casper Edwards, well known local fisherman and former owner of the ill fated Azores and also associated at one time with Jim Batt in the Joe Baker, arrived in port this week for his first call with the combination halibut boat and seiner Emma K. The Emma K, which was built last year in Vancouver, is a chunky vessel with a length of 65 feet, deriving her power from a 65 h.p. diesel engine. Last year the vessel was engaged in packing salmon down the coast, which work she will return to shortly. She is being outfitted here and will leave early next week on another halibut trip, it being the intention to deliver the next catch to Vancouver where the boat will be prepared for her other work.

The local halibut boat N. and S. Capt. Bob Thompson, has been on the Edward Lipsett ways this week for minor hull work and painting.

PAINT MANUFACTURER

If we are to believe what we hear, we would think that the Thompson yacht club caretaker and keeper of canine grass widows, would be putting his time to better advantage as an efficiency expert in a paint manufacturer (now that's not right, is it?) It's hard to judge the capacity of one who can conduct such a clean-up campaign with the scrapings of old paint cans and a little turps. Such a man, one would think, should not long continue in the role of wet nurse to a bunch of gasboats and amateur yachtsmen.

CAPE SPENCER SOLD

Planning to leave early next month for his native health of Norway, Capt. Dan Larsen, president of the Halibut Boat Owners' Association and one of the best known local fishermen, is disposing of his halibut boat Cape Spencer to Richard Giske, who has been one of his crew. The Cape Spencer, which is now out on a trip at the conclusion of which Capt. Larsen will leave her, is a familiar craft of many years standing here. Built some ten years ago, she was first owned by Capt. Winnie Pierce of the Tahoma but for the most of her career has been the property of Capt. Larsen. She is 48 feet long and is powered with a 30 h.p. Standard engine.

Donning the old overalls in which he seems to be about as happy as when arguing with his colleagues in the city council, and we know he likes that, Auld M. M. Stephens has been busy a good part of the time these last few days supervising the installation of a new 30 h.p. Kelvin engine, to replace an old 20 h.p. Palmer which has seen better though many useful days, in the Vera S. Fry at Cow Bay.

The port of Prince Rupert may perhaps, console itself to some extent with the fact that the decrease of halibut arrivals at this port since the season opened has been by no means a local (continued on page six)
