Leafs Tie First Place With Hawks

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs moved into first place tie in the National Hockey League last night by plunking four goals past shaky Chuck Rayner for a 4-1 decision over last-place Rangers.

The victory gave Leafs 15 points and a tie with Chicago Black Hawks on top of the six-team league. The defeat left Rangers with only one victory in 12 games.

The Rangers also lost the services of left-winger Herb Dickenson before the game even started. Dickenson was caught in the left eye with a puck during the pre-game warm up and was taken to hospital.

Russ Objects To U.S. Naval Defence Zone

MOSCOW (CP)—Russia Wednesday night gave notice she refuses to recognize as legal the United States naval defensive zone in Korean waters.

She said the U.S. naval order of Sept. 27 was an extension of the 1950 blockade which violated freedom of seas.

The announcement was in a note delivered in Washington and broadcast by Moscow radio. The note called the order a "new aggressive act" and said Russia put full responsibility for the "consequences" on the U.S. government.

The order objected to was apparently a routine announcement by Gen. Mark Clark, UN commander, on Sept. 27, that the "sea defence zone" was being established in South Korean waters, particularly around islands on which war prisoners are held, to "eliminate infiltration of enemy agents."

Kitimat Story To be Aired Friday Night

The three-quarter hour feature marks the beginning of a series of documentary broadcasts of British Columbia industrial development.

This show is being carried by CBC's Bill Herbert. The story of Prince Rupert is scheduled to be broadcast soon on the same series. CBC's Bob Harlow recently visited the city to write the show.

NEW YORK (CP)—Three hundred United Airlines flight engineers struck late today in the United States, Hawaii and Europe.

Paper Firms Accused Of Combines

Report Made Public After 4-Year Probe

OTTAWA (CP)—Virtually the entire $50,000,000 fine paper industry in Canada is accused of operating an illegal price-fixing combine, in a report made public today by Justice Minister Garson. Forty-four companies—seven paper-making mills and 37 merchant companies spread from Vancouver to Halifax are named in the report by Combines Commissioner T. D. MacDonald prepared after four years of investigation.

MacDonald alleged the companies used "loyalty" discounts and other means to restrict competition and combined in one or more groups to maintain prices at fixed levels "detrimental to the public interest."

He suggested tariffs on imports be cut as one way of infusing new competition into the industry, which allegedly had maintained combines in one way or another for the last 17 years. Garson said he will seek legal advice before deciding whether to launch court prosecutions against the accused.

Fine papers include paper used in publishing books, magazines, writing paper and envelopes, but it does not include newsprint.

Those alleged having been involved include Barber-Edis of Vancouver Ltd., Coast Paper Ltd., Columbia Paper Co. Ltd., and Smith, Davidson and Wright Ltd., all of Vancouver.

B.C. Cabinet Changes Election Act

VICTORIA (CP)—The cabinet has passed an order-in-council removing one of the main obstacles in British Columbia's much-criticized Elections Act.

The obstacle, one which caused two applications for judicial recounts in Vancouver-Burrard and Vancouver-Point Grey to be disallowed after the June election, required returning officers to return ballots to their original envelopes and seal them after completion of counting.

Under the alternative voting system, this was found to be impractical so the government has now ruled that ballots do not have to go back in their original envelopes.

Now, the returning officer simply has to seal all ballots counted by himself in one parcel, and all rejected ballots in another.

House Dean Dies at Home

WASHINGTON (CP)—Adolph Sabath, dean of the United States House of Representatives, died early today.

Republicans Gain Congress Control With Thin Margin

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States Congress has returned to Republican control by a margin so thin that president-elect Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will depend upon bipartisan support to put through many of his policies.

While the General was winning with a landslide vote Tuesday, his supporters fought bitterly for seats in the 83rd Congress.

Eight congressional races went into the vote-by-vote counting, with at least three of them dependent upon absentee ballots.

In some close races defeated candidates have indicated they may contest the outcome. Complete Senate returns gave the Republicans 48 seats and the Democrats 47.

CONTROL HOUSE

The Democrats held a 49-47 edge in the 82nd Congress.

Republicans Tuesday won 220 seats in the House of Representatives, two more than necessary for control. Democrats took 206.

Meanwhile Gen. Dwight Eisenhower began a 30-day vacation today with a date for golf.

The president-elect put aside for the moment numerous pressing problems.

Eisenhower flew to Augusta, Ga., from New York yesterday.

Education Meet Ends

VICTORIA (CP)—No new formula for sharing education costs resulted from a six-party conference held Wednesday in Premier W. A. C. Bennett's office.

But delegates said they were satisfied the government now "is fully apprised of all angles of the problem" and were hopeful that a solution would be worked out eventually.

The conference was called by Education Minister Tilly Rolston who has been studying briefs on the subject since she took office Aug. 1.

'Eyesore Monument' Caused by Flooding

Secrecy to Estimate Clearing Cost 'Before It's Too Late'

Removal of the merchantable timber from the Tweedsmuir Park area now being flooded by the Aluminum Company of Canada "would never eliminate an eyesore that will stand as a monument to the callousness and thoughtlessness of the former B.C. Government."

This is the opinion of Robert E. Sommers, minister of lands and forests in the Social Credit Government, who arrived here yesterday from an inspection tour of the area which will be under water in four years.

However, said Mr. Sommers, the government hopes to send "competent engineers to the site to try to estimate cost of clearing the timber before it is too late."

TIME FACTOR

He admitted that time is against the government in any attempt to remove timber because the water being held back from the Nechako River by the recently-constructed Kenney Dam is rising daily and by the end of January, Ootsa Lake, one of four major lakes in the area, is expected to have risen at least 10 feet.

Eventually Eutsuk, Ootsa, Thatsa, and Whitesail lakes will become one body of water flowing westward to a multi-million dollar tunnel now being constructed out of Kemano to take the water to the coast to power Alcan's giant power plant.

Mr. Sommers told of visiting the Kenney Dam and of a trip to Ootsa Lake where home owners are being advised to leave. Houses now vacant have been marked with a huge white "A" to indicate they will be destroyed before the water reaches them.

He criticized the last government for "failing, at any time to discuss the timber situation with any of the technical advisers in the forestry department and I'd say the blame should fall entirely on the shoulders of the former minister of lands and forests (E. T. Kenney) who now is the House Leader of the Liberal Party."

INIQUITOUS

"The contract that was executed with Alcan was an iniquitous thing as far as B.C. was concerned and the flooding of parts of Tweedsmuir Park and adjacent lands will remain as a monument to the former Liberal regime for at least 100 years."

"The people of this province who still think in terms of Liberalism should remind themselves of the tragedy that is happening to Ootsa Lake."

Mr. Sommers, principal of four elementary schools in Castlegar for 17 years until his election last June, said that as far as "this government can gather, there are approximately 30 million board feet of merchantable timber in the area to be flooded. It must be remembered though that while estimates have ranged from 28 to 35 million feet, the figures were reached only after a cursory survey by Alcan, forestry services and milling interests."

COSTLY METHOD

The 41-year-old minister, who spent his vacations working for the B.C. Forest Service in the Kootenays, said that from facts he has gathered he estimates cost of removing the merchantable timber from the Tweedsmuir Park area would be "about 25 million dollars and it will be up to the government to decide whether to spend that kind of money there or use it for some other benefit to the people."

He pointed out, however, that whatever the cost the present government is not in a position now to spend money on any new project.

He will make a report to the Legislature when it convenes in February and it will be upon his recommendations that the government acts.

Mr. Sommers said his government reduced the stumpage and royalties to the statutory minimum a few weeks ago to try to induce millmen to cut the timber and "we also endeavored to subsidize or underwrite sawmills so they could expand their operations but there is no statute which will permit the government to do this."

The minister said that when the estimated 350,000 acres of Tweedsmuir Park is flooded, tops of trees will protrude above the water "forming an eyesore and a monument to the Liberal government."

He admitted time is against the government now in making a survey of the exact amount of merchantable timber or its removal before the water rises to the 140-foot level estimated by Alcan engineers.

"Everyone realizes a certain price must be paid for progress, but as far as this government is concerned there will never be as tragic an error committed as has been done at Tweedsmuir Park."

"My trip was to see if we can do something reasonable and economically sound before it is too late."

Sacred Lands Minister Visits Cellulose Mill

British Columbia's minister of mines, lands and forests, Hon. R. E. Sommers, today paid a visit to the Columbia Cellulose Company mill on Watson Island.

On a fact-finding trip through northern B.C., he leaves tonight for Vancouver to take part in the distribution of seedling trees to school children and then will head for the Columbia and Similkameen constituencies to speak in support of the Social Credit candidates in by-elections.

He expressed confidence that his party standard-bearers will win handily.

He said Premier Bennett, Education Minister, Mrs. Tilly Rolston and Agriculture Minister Kiernan also will speak in the ridings.

Mr. Sommers drove here from Prince George after attending the PGE celebration and said he thought the highway from Terrace to Prince Rupert was "reasonably good," but that the road for 20 miles east of that village "is in a very poor state."

Sabre Jets, MIGs in Air Battle

SEOUL (CP)—United States Sabre jets and Communist MIG-15s clashed today in four air battles deep in northwest Korea.

The Fifth Air Force said its airmen shot down one Red jet and damaged four.

The flare-up of air fighting came as ground battles along the 155-mile front tapered off to patrol skirmishes.

RURAL LABORATORY LAUNCHES INVESTIGATION

Tweedsmuir Flooding May Breed Damaging Beetles

—Flooding of Tweedsmuir Park, the huge Alcan development, may create a breeding ground for the damaging bark-beetle attacks weakened the timber.

Plots have been established in the lodgepole pine-spruce stands on the edge of Ootsa Lake. As the flooding progresses, they will be re-examined periodically.

It was determined from trap trees felled near the plots that an epidemic population of denotroctonus and ips beetles is present," an official said.

"If these potentially destructive insects increase due to the flooding, they will be capable of causing great damage to the adjacent green timber."

—The situation now is being conducted by the Federal forest insect laboratory on behalf of the Provincial government.

Officials fear that the bark-beetles will be attracted to the weakened trees in the park, as they are to timber weakened by other causes. If this is the case, and the beetle broods are able to survive under such wet conditions, there is a real danger of their eventual spread to the green healthy timber at the perimeter of the flooded area.

The Republican Mirror

WHAT happens now? The American people having made their revolutionary decision, that becomes the gilt-edged 64-dollar question that can be heard around the world, and probably no one would like the answer more than President-elect Eisenhower himself.

As the smoke clears it looks as though the new chief executive will be confronted with a Congress evenly divided between Republicans and Democrats almost to the last man. Were Eisenhower a full-blown Republican, the prospect no doubt would be a discouraging one. While the President has a certain executive independence of Congress, the time comes sooner or later when party support is needed to put major decisions into effect. Truman encountered this painful fact during his first term in office when the GOP had Congressional control.

In Eisenhower's own political creed, however, there is a division through the middle which is almost as distinct as that in the new Congress.

To agree with the more orthodox Republican policies of Taft was obviously painful to him, and he made gestures in that direction only for the apparent purpose of keeping the party intact through the election. It is now evident, however, that whatever continuing influence Taft may have will be greatly moderated by the presence of all those Democrats in the House and Senate.

To Eisenhower such a state of affairs can mean nothing but happiness. His only concern now is likely to be that some of the key positions will fall to a few isolationists who can put a crimp in his foreign policy, which has no more resemblance to anything Republican than a donkey has to an elephant.

In Canada, as well as in other countries, the shuffle for power will be watched almost as closely as in the U.S. itself. There is, in fact, a substantial chance that the results may cancel in Ottawa any notions of calling an election this spring.

It will be many months yet before the picture is sufficiently clear in the States to allow the Dominion government to settle on any fixed course of international policy. The Smoot-Hawley tariff of the last Republican administration still arouses uneasy memories at Ottawa, and it remains to be seen whether or not its ghost will rise again to become an issue in the next election.

Another possible cause for hesitation is that change is often infectious. Conceivably the upset in the States could create a restless frame of mind this side of the border. From the Liberal point of view, therefore, it would seem that now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the party by holding their horses.

Punishment Doesn't Reform

PRISON riots in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec, and the jail-break of the Boyd gang, have caused Ontario to take a step in the handling of convicts which is in complete contradiction to the modern trend in penal reform.

The plan of that province is to build what is described as a "maximum security" penal institution. According to Reform Institution Minister J. W. Foote, this present-day Bastille will offer no recreation, no training program and no "pampering and frills."

Although the rash of prison outbreaks in this country and the States has assumed serious proportions, it is by no means clear that correction lies in a backward direction. On the contrary, it would appear that those prisons where trouble has occurred are institutions which have failed to keep pace with the times.

"It has been amply demonstrated that punishment and repression do not lead to reform," says the Canadian Welfare Council at Ottawa. "Reform flourishes where restraint is at a minimum. The value of open institutions has been shown in Great Britain's borstals, in British Columbia's forestry camps, and in the American federal prison system whose director asserts that fewer than one-third of the inmates are in maximum security institutions."

If, by "pampering," Mr. Foote means the behavior of corrupt guards, he is certainly right in trying to eliminate it. But care should be taken not to confuse this with an enlightened attitude which may turn a prisoner into a decent citizen.

Wheat Crisis Seen in Huge Surplus Stock

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The world is slowly but surely heading for a crisis in wheat. The problem: too much wheat chasing too few dollars.

It threatens to become one of the biggest fights involving wheat prices. In the midst of it will be Canada with huge supplies of wheat stored in her elevators.

Washington will be the scene of a possible critical turning point. Next Jan. 12 Canada and 43 other member countries of the International Wheat Agreement will meet in a final attempt to reach agreement on a new pact when the current one ends next July 31.

Canadian experts are not too hopeful. The big conflict is in price. And as a result, the whole world wheat stabilization program, which Canada helped to construct, may crumble.

The four-year international wheat pact, under which Canada exports most of her wheat at relatively stable prices, has been both praised and criticized. But most Canadian farmers want it continued—if they can get higher prices.

Importing countries have refused to give in. Some of them may feel they can do better in open competition than through a fixed contract. Both Canada and the United States have huge surpluses.

FARMERS WANT BOOST
Currently, the ceiling under I.W.A. is $1.80 (U.S.) a bushel, basis No. 1 northern. Some Canadian farmers want it raised to $2.35. The U.S. figure should be boosted to $2.50.

With importers balking and the outlook for a new pact discouraging, Canadian cabinet ministers have begun to drop warnings of the future.

"We can, of course, get along without such an agreement and its renewal can by no means be taken for granted," Trade Minister Howe recently told a Toronto audience.

At North Battleford, Sask., Agriculture Minister Gardiner said last Tuesday:

"Long before the crop is marketed our people will be wishing we had another four-year contract with Britain to take 400,000,000 bushels of our wheat."

Mr. Howe pointed out that grain production is still the bedrock of the Canadian economy. Anything that affects grain sales could have a wide impact on other segments of the economy.

However, there is one thing in Canada's favor. Argentina and Australia, normally large world exporters of wheat, have had poor crops. Canada will be able to dispose of a large portion of her record crop this year without trouble. But still she will have large carryovers next Aug. 1.

And should Australia and the Argentine enter the export picture in a big way in the next crop year, Canada may face a tough job in wheat sales without long-term firm buying commitments by the large importing countries.

ray ... Reflects and Reminisces

Great disturbances of nature last Tuesday—earthquakes along the Alaska coast, gigantic tidal waves away out over the Pacific Ocean, and land slides of national scope in the United States.

MUCH HARDIER HERE
Russian janitors are reported to be winning decorations for saving fuel. But it's not at all necessary to go to Russia to find a cold apartment or icy room—as well as paying for each.

The mechanical heart has created a national sensation. Yet, this is nothing that could be called new. Some bankers have had them for years.

There is strong likelihood of abolition of the $2.50 radio licence fee in Canada becoming a fact. It is known the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation feels disposed toward such action for there does exist a belief that the use of radio is rapidly becoming universal.

HANDSHAKES FIRST
Feeling he had earned it, Eisenhower lost no time in flying to Georgia to take a rest of at least two weeks' duration. But he had barely stepped from the plane before he was met by a reception party of about six thousand. There might have been a few more.

As I See It

● BY-ELECTION REALITY

THE FINANCIAL POST recently quizzed a cross section of Canadians on this question: "Do recent provincial and by-election results portend new coalitions, stalemates, or what in the next federal election?"

I answered:
The prospect is that confusion will be worse founded before politics clarify in Canada. My guess is a complete stalemate is a strong possibility in the next federal election. Political parties won't admit the facts as yet which are that Social Crediters are disguised Tories, with whiskers shaved off, and Saskatchewan CCF is the best liberal provincial government we have ever had in Canada. It is social welfare, not socialism.

Democracy is a two-party road and more than two national parties make good government unlikely. But both parties must be based on social realities at any given time. The reality in Canada today is that the CCF is the left wing of liberalism and Social Credit is the extreme right wing of B.C. conservatism. Unfortunately, Canadians unlike the British are not politically mature enough to face these political facts and re-organize accordingly.

THE GREATEST danger that I see in Canadian politics is that the disguised Tory party—the Conservatives without whiskers who call themselves Social Crediters—should repeat in next year's federal election the strategem which succeeded so well in the B.C. confusion last June.

They plan to stage a B.C. election in which they might induce the old parties openly or secretly to abdicate and leave them a clear field to sweep in on a completely phony issue—Social Credit versus Socialism. They hope to use the momentum thus gained in B.C. as a springboard to make great gains all across western Canada. In the mix-up, they hope to emerge with the whip hand in the federal field exactly as they emerged with the whip hand in B.C. though in fact they polled only 26 percent of the votes.

THE KEY to this whole Social Credit scheme is the willingness of the tired or timid Liberals to abdicate, to quit, to curl up in a corner and die—or at least go into a state of suspended animation.

Hence the way to defeat the scheme is for the Liberals NOT to abdicate. They should fight in BOTH by-elections—but above all they should make sure of giving a stinging defeat to Social Credit in Columbia. For there in a traditional Liberal riding they have an excellent candidate, George Keenleyside, already in the field.

SOCIALISM is not now practical politics in Canada, as the excellent CCF government in Saskatchewan has clearly shown. Neither for that matter is Social Credit—which has become a Tory false-face.

But Social Welfare IS practical politics and the Liberals and CCF have more in common in this field—as well as in the field of international cooperation—than they have with any other parties.

In its few months in office in B.C. Social Credit has worked havoc with hospital insurance, and the labor relations set-up. Common sense voters have a chance to show all Canada that they know the true score. Any true Liberal or intelligent CCFer who gives his first or second choice votes to Social Credit should have his head read for that reactionary, extreme right wing party is furthest removed from everything he really wants.

B.C. Actor Lands Part in Broadway Hit
Overseas While London Holiday Visitor

By MUREL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON—Height six feet one, chest 42, waist 27—these are the measurements that landed Vancouver-born Beverley Patterson a part in the London production of Broadway's "South Pacific."

"It's crazy things like that that sometimes turn an audition in your favor," he said with a laugh. "Of course, you've got to be able to act too."

In "South Pacific" he plays two parts—that of the slouching marine who heckles the comedian lead and the pilot who files the Frenchman off the island.

JOINED IN AUGUST
Dark-haired Beverley, known as Lee, joined the play in August, two months before the departure of American singing star, Mary Martin. When she quits the role Nov. 8, Miss Martin's portrayal of Nellie Forbush, here and on Broadway, will have lasted just under 4 1/2 years.

"I'll be sorry to see her go," said Patterson. "She's absolutely wonderful."

The 23-year-old Canadian came to London on holiday late in 1950, after two years in the Canadian army and a spell as free lance artist, cartoonist and designer of the Christmas parade, for a Canadian chain store.

His visit started in real holiday spirit. He spent his first evening in London circling the restaurants with a Norwegian friend. They ate three meals in three different restaurants. "We just couldn't get enough to eat," he said.

Not until he'd spent most of the money saved for the trip, did he think of work and the stage.

CANADIAN ROLES
In Canada, Patterson always "dabbled" in the theatre, sometimes acting, mostly designing. In Vancouver and Ottawa he portrayed such parts as the stage manager in "Our Town," the idiot in "Dracula," and a lead part in "Rope."

His first British part came as a bit of luck. He went to a theatre agent to pick up a pay cheque for an actor pal—and was given the part of Happy in "Death of a Salesman," then playing at Windsor's Theatre Royal. He followed this with Locky in "Joanny Belinda," lead parts in television films and "dubbing" English dialogue to foreign films.

Patterson is just one more Canadian to find better scope for stage work here than in Canada. Like the rest, he is hoping to stay a while and intends to bring his mother over for a visit. She resides at present in Oshawa, Ont.

Super-Valu Celebrates Second
Year of Successful Operation

A Prince Rupert store joins today a province-wide organization in celebrating its second anniversary of successful operation and a remarkable history.

Super-Valu in this city and 47 other Super-Valu stores have built up a consumer confidence which is recognized throughout the province and has enabled the stores collectively to become one of the biggest boosters of B.C. products.

Super-Valu stores buy products collectively, then distribute them to the various retail stores in the organization which are independently owned and operated.

Within the two-year period, the organization has grown from 16 to 48 stores.

Super-Valu here goes into its second year of operation next month.

As a standard practice, Super-Valu periodically conducts promotion campaigns to acquaint B.C. consumers with home products and to stimulate the sale of these products. One such campaign is its big promotion of B.C. Macintosh apples.

Successful growth of the stores is nowhere better symbolized than in Prince Rupert. Just over nine years ago two brothers, Bill and Alan Sheardown, opened a grocery on Third Avenue at the present location of Northland Dairy.

That original store had a floor area of 1440 square feet.

Last December the Sheardowns, who had meanwhile been joined by a third brother, Harry, entered the Super-Valu organization. They now have a spacious new store on Third Avenue which is doing business far beyond their expectations.

The new building occupies 11,000 square feet and the number of employees has increased from eight to 26.

Their store was designed after the giant super markets in California and the color scheme of pleasing pastel shades now is being followed by other Super-Valu stores in the province.

Sheardown's Super-Valu is one of the first grocery stores in the province to supply a continuous musical program over a public address system, a feature pleasing to customers.

One of the largest Super-Valu stores in the province, it has a full staff of 20 with seven additional part-time workers.

Besides its general foods department, the store keeps and operates fresh produce and fresh meats departments.

Staff and management cooperation seems to be one of the reasons for Super-Valu success. At Steveston, on Lulu Island, there is another three-brother operation. There, the bring his mother over for a visit. She resides at present in Oshawa, Ont.

In "South Pacific" he met two Canadians who opened with Mary Martin last November—Calgary-born John McLaren and Bill Nagy, a native of Hamilton, Ont.

African Sisters
Wed Canadians

CAPETOWN — A South African woman sails for Montreal shortly to catch up with her three daughters, all of whom married Canadian seamen.

During the shipping strike of 1949, Mrs. Ruth Styles collected groceries and made cakes for seamen from Canadian cargo ships whose food supplies were cut off by the strike.

Later three of the men came to thank me for my help, and they met my three daughters," said Mrs. Styles.

Mona married Stewart Christie, Peggy married Walter Fortin and now my third daughter has married Fred Bryce."

Mona and Peggy are living in Montreal with their husbands, who have quit the sea. The Bryces are to live in Toronto. Mrs. Styles, accompanied by her small son, may divide her time between the two cities.

One Over-Bid on Four-Card Suit Not Always Practical

Those extremists who believe in a one over one response on any four-card suit, no matter how weak, would have responded one spade on Mr. Dale's hand. Their theory is that partner might have four spades, too, in which case spades would be a good playable trump suit.

But there are disadvantages. In my opinion, when you hold a suit as weak as four to the eight spot, it will not usually turn out to be your best trump suit, unless partner himself can and does bid it. True, when you bid a very weak suit, partner will not give you a double raise without as many as four cards in the suit. But he can properly give you a single raise with only three to the queen or king, in which event you will be sorry you brought up the subject.

And there is also the prospect of partner barging into three no trump, counting on you (reasonably enough) to have at least a stopper in your bid suit. When the opponents rattle off five or six tricks in your suit, partner's reaction will be somewhat grim.

Mr. Dale made the sensible response of one no trump in today's deal and a final contract of four hearts was reached.

Many optimistic players would go set at this contract, but it was made to order for Mr. Meek. He expects the worst on every hand and this time he got it. But he was prepared.

The queen of diamonds was opened and won by the ace in dummy. The careless play is start trumps at this point and if you do that, you're through.

Not Mr. Meek. He counted on trumps being divided 5-0. At trick two he ruffed a diamond in his hand. He cashed the king and ace of trumps and ruffed another diamond. He then laid down his two remaining high trumps, the ace and king of spades and the ace of clubs for 10 tricks.

False Teeth Give Divorce

SEATTLE (AP)—Judge Henry Clay Agnew decided yesterday that Algie R. Hendley, 47, could not have an annulment for his 1947 Mexican marriage, but gave him a divorce instead.

The judge said he could grant the divorce on basis of Hendley's testimony that Mrs. Hendley had once refused to let him have his false teeth.

That, said the judge, is cruelty. The western meadowlark somewhat larger than the robin, is a greatly superior songster to the eastern species.

Texas is the only state of the U.S. that was an independent Republic before annexation.

Taxi Driver Complains of Jail Treatment

VANCOUVER (CP)—Indignities to which Lloyd Charles Ritter says he was subjected in Oakalla jail, if true, should be investigated, Mr. Justice Whitaker said here in Supreme Court.

Ritter, now reported to be a taxi driver in Prince Rupert, said he was ordered on arrival at the jail to take off his clothes and then his body was searched, he was told for drugs.

"If this is so, there should be some investigation made," the judge remarked.

At the time of his arrest in Victoria in May, 1951, on two NSF cheque charges, Ritter was a trucking operator. He is suing Ducek Chevrolet Olds Ltd., 1300 West Broadway, and their credit manager, Arwan Morgan, for $31,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution.

He issued cheques to that firm for $44 and $65 for work done on a truck engine. He said the failure of the engine when he arrived in Kamloops prevented him from getting to Victoria in time to "cover" the cheques which were on his account there and where he had money available.

Ritter testified that he was "thrown in with drug addicts and drunks" in Victoria jail and again in Vancouver, after he was flown here under police escort.

He sat on the floor all night in Vancouver jail, Ritter said, because there were no mattresses on the cots and the blankets were filthy.

It was 11 days before he got out on bail. On May 29, the charge concerning a $44 cheque was dismissed by Magistrate Mackenzie Matheson and the second count, on a $63 cheque, was withdrawn.

LOST JOB
Ritter told the judge he lost hauling contracts while he was in custody and afterwards, that his credit was impaired and his bank overdraft at Kamloops was cancelled as a result of the charges.

"But the worst effect of the case," he said, "was that my laws—rather religious people—asked me not to come to their place any more as they thought I was a bad example for their children.

"I left Kamloops as a result of the trouble and went to work for other people."

The trial is continuing with P. J. Sinnott conducting the case of Ritter, D. J. McPhee and D. H. Campbell that of the defendants.

Foul Line Judge Catches Many Bowlers

The bowling season is now well under way and some good scores are being turned in, but still many players are being caught by the foul line judge.

One league official said the foul lies in the fact few bowlers practice during the week and as a result are still rolling below their average.

Team captains are reminded once again to turn in neat, completed score sheets each night before leaving the alleys.

A large number of score sheets in all leagues last week were incomplete, causing hours of extra work for secretaries.

Agnes Pierce and Peggy Thompson shared honors in "A" Division of the ladies' five-in bowling league this week, each rolling three-game scores of 871, although Agnes added to her laurels by posting high single of 298.

Marg Kearley marked up high single in "B" Division of 305 and Marg McGreish had high three of 647.

Gordon & Anderson chalked up high game in "A" Division with 974 and Lyons had high three of 2,719. McKays chalked up high single in "B" Division with a score of 893 and also had high three of 2,438.

Here are results:
"A" Division—Lucky Strikes 4, Annettes 0; Dibb Printing 3,

Stars 1; Lyons 3, Sunrise 1; Gordon & Anderson 2, Dom's Dept. 2; Mansons 2, Savoy's 2; Cloverleafs 2, New Laurels 2.

"B" Division—7th Ave. Market 4, 75 Taxi 0; Big Sisters 3, Cooks 1; Rupert Radio 3, Commercial 1; McKays 3, Bulgers 1; Toilers 2, Prince Rupert Plumbing, 2; Co-op 2, Skeena Grocery 2.

In the men's five-pin league, scores were down from last week although P. Piche had a high single of 314 and Ian Dunbar with 763, had high three.

High team single game of 1,195 and high three of 3,309 were chalked up by Mansons.

Prize for hidden score of 136 was split between P. Pierce and F. Hicks.

Here are results of games—Watts & Nickerson 1, Short Circuits 3; Sedgewicks 0, Woodbutchers 4; North Star 4, Kaen Industries 0; Mansons 3, J.C.'s 1; Firemen 3, Industrials 1; CNRA 3, Cook's Jewellers 1; Electroflux

3, 70 Taxi 1; Watson Islanders 3, Nelson Bros. 1; CGE 3, Family Market 1; Moose 3, Savoy Hotel 1.

Boilermakers

Attention is drawn by Jim Prusky, local secretary for the Marine Workers and Boilermakers Union, to an omission in yesterday's news dispatch from Vancouver announcing a wage increase received by the union from Vancouver shipyards.

In addition to the 7½-cent basic wage increase, which was reported, there is a 2½-cent increase which will cover MSA dues. This makes a 10-cent increase "package deal," it is pointed out by Mr. Prusky. Six hundred men are affected by the settlement.

Army Awards 21 Decorations For Valor in Korea

OTTAWA—The Army has announced its largest periodic awards list of the Korean War, topped by decorations to five former unit commanding officers and a couple of courageous non-commissioned officers.

At the head of the list of 21 decorations were two awards of the distinguished service order, the fourth and fifth awarded in the two years the Canadians have been fighting.

They went to Lt.-Col. Norman G. Wilson-Smith, MBE, of Winnipeg and Calgary, for gallantry and leadership while commanding the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, and to Maj. Victor W. Jewkes, MC, of St. John's, Que., who demonstrated the same qualities while commanding the brigade's armored squadron.

At the bottom of the list, but unsurpassed in gallantry, were the two NCOs.

Cpl. James Rimmer of the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, a tough infantryman from Foam Lake, Sask., and Wymesold, England, won the military medal for "cool and exemplary" soldiering as leader of a mortar section. In particular his citation mentioned one time when he ignored heavy fire to complete a patrol, then got his heavily-attacked section back to safety; another time when he exposed himself repeatedly under tremendous shelling to play a large role in holding an attacked position.

Sgt. George William Elliott of Vancouver and North Battleford, Sask., a stretcher-bearer with the same unit, won the British Empire Medal because he never left a wounded man without care, repeatedly took risks to go to the aid of his fellows and "undoubtedly saved the lives of many wounded."

The list raised to 89 the number of decorations awarded to Canadian soldiers in Korea. Another 63 have been mentioned in dispatches. Today's list includes the 8th, 9th and 10th of officers of the Order of the British Empire; 11 members of the same order, raising the total to 17; two Military Crosses, one Military Medal and two British Empire Medals. Most of the 21 on today's list have returned to Canada.

Col. Wilson-Smith's citation lauded his "coolness under fire and his disregard for personal safety and his determination." It said he made an "outstanding contribution to the efficiency of the whole brigade."

Maj. Jewkes was cited for "indefatigable" courage in seeing that his Lord Strathcona's tanks gave the closest possible support to the infantry.

The other awards:
O.B.E.
Lt.-Col. Edward G. Brooks, DSO, of Montreal, as commanding officer of the 2nd Artillery Regiment.
Lt.-Col. Gordon C. Corbould, DSO, of New Westminster, B.C., as CO of the 2nd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment.
Lt.-Col. Joseph A. A. G. Vallee of Quebec City, as a company commander and later officer commanding the 2nd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment.

Mauled Alaska Hunter Swears Revenge on Pesky Brown Bruin

SEATTLE (AP)—Bears had best beware when Henry (Red) Knackstedt, 39, gets back to his home-stead near Kenai, Alaska. He wants revenge for the near-fatal mauling he suffered on Labor Day at the hands of a 900-pound brown bruin.

A long road of skin grafting and hospitals lies ahead of Knackstedt but doctors tell him he will save the sight of his left eye, which was nearly ripped from its broken socket by a swipe of the bear's massive paw. The Alaskan encountered the mother bear and her two cubs while hunting moose near his home on the Kenai Peninsula.

"I was looking right down her throat when she reared up and roared," Knackstedt said.

The bear swung and smashed the hunter's left eye socket and cheek bone. He lost consciousness, and when he revived the bear was gone. A series of shots brought another hunter, who helped him out of the woods.

Knackstedt, a commercial fisherman who has lived in Alaska five years, was flown to Anchorage and then to a Seattle hospital Sept. 4.

He never killed a bear, but says "of course that's changed now; I'm going to have some revenge."

October Sets Rainless Record in B.C.

October was an abnormally dry month throughout B.C. Precipitation amounts were considerably below normal on the north coast and much below normal on the south coast and throughout the interior.

On the north coast, 3.2 inches compared to a normal 6.5 and Vancouver's 1.39 inches compared to a normal 4.57 set a new October record.

In the interior, Lytton had 13 inches compared to a normal of 1.73. Most of the rain fell in the latter half of the month. Some interior stations received their only rainfall on the last two days of the month.

Number of days without precipitation was also much below normal at most stations. New hours of sunshine records were set at Vancouver and Victoria.

Temperatures were decidedly above normal during the first two weeks of October in all areas except the north coast. Temperatures began to drop during the middle of the month and were normal or slightly below normal for the last two weeks.

North coast regions had near normal temperatures throughout the month. No freezing temperatures were recorded on the coast but frost occurred fairly regularly in the interior valleys.

Gales occurred on nine days of the month in north coast waters on the 1, 2, 19 to 21, 23, 26, 27 and 29. No gales occurred in south coast waters. Highest reported steady wind was southwest 45 at Sandspit on the 19th.

PHONIC TEST—Senior naval officers and scientists concerned with Britain's first atomic explosion in the Monte Bello islands off Australia are shown together aboard H.M.S. ...

TERRIBLE BATTLES WAGED BY BOTH SIDES

Hills Korean War's Bloodiest Theatre

Two weeks and more fighting has been swirling through the hills and ridges of Korea. Why have both sides fought so hard to sacrifice so many lives for these hills? ...

Osong is made up of five towering ridges that curve inward to a central crest. Its top rises 3,500 feet. Its Korean name, Osongsan, derives from its five ridges and means "five in one mountain."

To the Chinese it is "Five Finger Mountain" and to them it is a Communist Gibraltar. The allies are on both the south-eastern ridges leading to the Sphinx itself and about half way up the legs.

Just off the Sphinx's right paw is Kumhwa Junction, once a bustling provincial capital, but now only a flat pasture. Kumhwa is without wais and people but it is an important place—the exact strategic centre of the 155-mile Korean front and one of the most important allied positions in Korea.

It still is the junction of five roads, a river and a railroad that may someday run again. It also is the eastern anchor of the central Korean plain that is known as the Iron Triangle which is held half by the United Nations and half by the Communists.

More important than that, Kumhwa is the Seoul invasion gateway on the northeast, just as Kaesong is the northwestern gate and Chorwon—the Yonchon-Uijongbu Corridor—is the invasion route from the north. An enemy force that takes Kumhwa can also, if it chooses, strike south into central Korea through Chungwon over a somewhat more difficult route.

The object of this bloody battle is not altogether clear, and even some higher officers involved in the fight find it difficult to explain concisely. That does not mean that the UN is fighting for fighting's sake, but it does mean that there are so many possible reasons that it is hard to select the most important ones.

There are at least four major reasons for the assault to the north, which is taking the allies closer to Osong's bulk. 1. As long as the enemy holds Osong, Kumhwa is not safe. 2. If the enemy should hold the Sphinx's lower legs, and the two ridges would be natural corridors for the Chinese. 3. Someday, if the UN steels launch a new general offensive, itself taking Osong in a frontal push, the seizure of the ridges now under attack would be a logical preparation. As for taking Osong, it would give the allies all the advantages for a northern offensive that it now offers the Communists for a southern push.

4. Such battles of attrition, although costly to the allies, are probably even more costly to the Chinese—since the Reds still use their men's bodies like ammunition, to be expended in lavish mass attacks and counter-attacks.

Mover of the resolution, T. F. Marron of Eccles, said circumstances demanded stern action should be taken to cope with the growing menace of brutal crimes. Razors, bicycle chains, black-jacks and even sten guns, were all-too-often used by law-breakers who could not be deterred by normal punishment.

W. Provost of Birmingham said the records proved that brute force treated leniency with contempt. The hardened criminal cared nothing about corrective training or two to three years imprisonment. Severe punishment was the only answer.

But the resolution was described as "barbarous" by Charles Royle, Socialist member of parliament for Salford.

TOO BARBAROUS "It is a reversion to the Gospel of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth," he said. "I believe the State should never reply to barbarous behaviour with barbarous legal practices. We cannot cure violence by administration of violence."

Viscount Templewood, chairman of the association and author of several reference works on the subject, said increased crime was not something exclusively confined to Britain. In New York the rise had been much steeper than in London, proving the fallacy of claims that reform of the 1948 act had led to an increase of crime in Britain in 1952.

"It has been widely said that the new methods are too lenient," Lord Templewood declared. "My answer to that is that the methods are not at fault but the fact that they are not being fully used." He urged immediate action to strengthen the under-manned police forces of the country. At present London's metropolitan force was 20 per cent under establishment and the provincial police 12 per cent.

Chinese Abandon Hope of Far East Burial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's oldest Chinese have practically abandoned hope that their bones will be buried in China. "The older people now expect they will be buried in Canada," said Foon Sien, head of Vancouver's Chinese Benevolent Association. "We would have to get permission from the Red government of China to ship the remains to that country, and they probably would refuse because they are not interested in that sort of thing."

Magistrates Vote Against Use Of Lash in British Penal System

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — More than 500 magistrates from all parts of the United Kingdom have voted against re-introduction of the lash as a form of punishment for crimes involving acts of violence.

The decision was taken on a motion urging the annual meeting of the Magistrates' Association to call for repeal of legislation which in 1948 abolished the power of the courts to impose sentence of whipping. The vote was 219 to 166.

The association's action came in the midst of an indignant outcry in the daily press and a spirited debate in the House of Lords against inadequate measures to deal with the "reign of terror" which has swept the country.

sociation. "We would have to get permission from the Red government of China to ship the remains to that country, and they probably would refuse because they are not interested in that sort of thing."

"Also, we no longer have ship connection from British Columbia to China and to tranship down through the United States would be too expensive for most families," he said.

Sien said only the very old people are interested in being buried in the Far East anyway.

THINK DIFFERENTLY "The young people have the same views as any other Canadians," he said.

Sien explained that the discrimination met by the first Chinese in B.C. was the origin of the desire to "go home" in death. They would return to their homeland when they had enough money to live there comfortably or at least return to die.

Some never did get enough money, he said, but these still wanted their bodies to be buried in their native villages.

In the 1930s the Benevolent Association and the Ming Yung Association started a scheme to remove all the bones of elder Chinese to the Far East. Thousands were shipped at $16 to $18 per set. The last shipment went in 1937.

Then came the Japanese War, the Second World War, the Civil War and now the Korean War. The bones remain on this side of the Pacific.

Airman Back Canadian Flying Jets

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—Sqr. Ldr. Cal Bricker of Grenfell, Sask., commander of the R.C.A.F.'s No. 439 Squadron, is back at the controls of his Sabre jet after an enforced absence of nearly four months. Last May the 31-year-old pilot set out with his squadron to fly from Canada to North Luffenham on "Operation Leap-frog," but was stricken with appendicitis in Bagotville, Que. He insisted on continuing and completed the journey to North Luffenham under medical supervision.

Bricker, a wartime Spitfire ace and the first R.C.A.F. officer to fly a jet fighter across the Atlantic, recently underwent a successful operation. On his first day back in the air, he logged nearly two hours' flying time.

Damage High In Mill Fire

SMOOTH ROCK FALLS, Ont. — Fire Tuesday destroyed the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company commissary, swept through the town works department shops and spread to the Hudson's Bay Company store.

Early estimates of damage in the blaze, worst in the history of this northern Ontario pulp mill town 100 miles northwest of Timmins, placed the loss at several hundred thousand dollars.

Let Children Play With Matches Says Doctor, But Watch Them

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It's okay for little children to play with matches, light cigarettes, fire up the incinerator, study explosives, electric shock and dangerous chemicals—as long as such things are done under parental supervision.

That's the opinion of Dr. Harry F. Dietrich of Beverly Hills, Calif., and presented in a paper delivered to the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Dr. Dietrich is recognized as one of the United States' top authorities on accident prevention among children.

When junior wants to light matches, break out the kitchen box, plant him in the driveway or on the sidewalk and make him light and blow out each match, one at a time, the whole box.

"This usually will give the parent a respite of three to 12 months from the match problem," Dr. Dietrich said.

All children should be taught that some lights are inflammable; that some strong acids and alkalis will burn the flesh. The facts about electric shock should be taught gradually.

"I personally feel," Dr. Dietrich added, "that the firecracker has an overlooked educational role in demonstrating on a safe scale the concept and effect of an explosion."

LAW LEADERS HONORED—Dalhousie University of Halifax conferred honorary degrees upon five outstanding legal figures at a special convocation to mark the opening of a new law school. Copper Nickel Mine Booming Business In North Manitoba

LYNN LAKE, Man., (CP)—This booming mine town, one of the brightest new stars in Canada's mineral world, soon will be diffusing new wealth into the national economy.

Nesling in the Manitoba wilds just south of the 57th parallel, the town's expanding mine is considered the world's richest source of copper-nickel apart from the great mines at Sudbury, Ont.

Within a year a 145-mile rail line will link it with supply routes to the south, hauling ore estimated to be worth $14,000,000 yearly to world markets. Much of it will go to Canada's defence production and for stockpiling.

COSTLY DEVELOPMENT
Development costs at Lynn Lake are great. About $50,000,000 will have been spent by late fall of 1953 when the Sherritt Gordon mine is expected to start production. Already ore worth $175,000,000 at current prices has been blocked out.

The rail line, estimated to cost about $15,000,000, is being pushed through rocky terrain and muskeg by the Canadian National Railways. When completed it will reach north-east from Sherridon, 390 miles northwest of Winnipeg.

Aircraft and tractor trains have been the only forms of transportation since the district was opened 11 years ago. A few made the trip by canoe and on foot.

Some 500 men now are working on the line, clearing the right-of-way, moving in ties and tracks, then advancing to a new railhead. At Oct. 5 the complete right-of-way had been cleared, the roadbed graded for 85 miles and 25 miles of track laid.

Engineering and construction problems — despite modern equipment — are as challenging as those which faced the men who built the first transcontinental line across northern Ontario 70 years ago.

PIONEER AREA
Lynn Lake seven years ago had only three log shacks. Now the population is approaching 500 and is expected to grow between 1,500 and 2,000 when production starts.

The town's history began in 1941 with an ore discovery by a translated prospector, Austin McVeigh, born in lower Litchfield, 60 miles west of Ottawa.

An old-time prospector who leaves mining promotion to others, he has only two secrets—he won't reveal his age or how much he has earned. He's been tramping Canada's northland for four decades and hopes to die with boots on, preferably the hobnailed boots of the prospector.

McVeigh was induced into the mining game when a boy after reading of the big money made by prospectors in Cripple Creek and Cobalt. He learned his business the hard way, working in practically all Ontario mining camps before heading for British Columbia and back to Manitoba.

Although there are stories that he discovered Lynn Lake through luck, he insists the find was the result of careful prospecting with modern gadgets.

McVeigh's discovery was kept quiet until 1945 when further prospecting showed there was something to work on. As soon as news leaked out in 1947, one of the biggest staking sprees in Manitoba's history blanketed the Lynn district.
