SOUTH AFRICAN FLAG AN ISSUE

With the opening of another session of the Parliament of the Union of South Africa, the flag controversy will be resumed, but under what conditions it is difficult to say at this time. L. S. Amery's visit to South Africa may have done something to tone down the asperities of the rival factions. He has appealed for racial peace in an earnest and disinterested way, but it is significant that immediately on top of his appeal General Hertzog took occasion, in a bitterly uncompromising speech, to say that the Government "will not take a single step to make the smallest amendment to the Bill." A dispatch from Cape Town in commenting on this statement says: "The Union now seems committed to a racial struggle of a bitterness and severity unprecedented in the history even of this troubled land."

The design of the flag, as now approved by the government, transposes the positions of the old Transvaal and Free State flags, the latter occupying the second quarter. The shield also differs from that shown in the original government design, in that the flags of the provinces are now horizontal instead of vertical. It is claimed that the alterations have been made on artistic and heraldic grounds. The only alteration made as a concession to the opinion of the South African Party is the proportion of the Union Jack on the design and this is just under 1-625th of the whole. The new flag is striking only in its contrast of colors. Orange and blue predominate. The shield of which the Union Jack occupies one quarter contains colorings of red, white, blue, green and orange.

UNRESTRAINED OPTIMISM AT EDMONTON

The Edmonton Journal is always optimistic but just now it is particularly so and with good reason. It is publishing a series of front page editorials which are designed to impress the people of that city and as much of the rest of the world as the newspaper reaches, with the prominent position occupied by the most westerly province and by Edmonton as its capital and chief commercial centre.

We have often pointed out that Edmonton and Prince Rupert have much in common. We produce fish and lumber in large quantities and the mines of this district adds largely to the world supply of copper, gold, silver, lead and zinc. Alberta supplies wheat in abundance and it is already rolling this way to be shipped from our elevator. There is wealth in abundance in the Edmonton district as a result of the big crops.

But Edmonton, like Prince Rupert, is only at the beginning of development. Not only has she grain that comes through our port but every day we warm ourselves at fires which consume her coal. She has tar sands which will undoubtedly be used a great deal in British Columbia. Three times a day some of us have Edmonton butter on our tables.

Edmonton will become greater as the Peace River country develops and the interest in this development is shared by Prince Rupert because with the opening of a western route it is expected this port will benefit very materially.

It is a pleasure to congratulate Edmonton on having a newspaper that is able to vision the future as well as appreciate the present. Optimism is a great asset to any community and a newspaper can help in developing such a spirit. It can help induce the people of that city to invest money at home rather than send it aboard just as in our humble way we have tried to do here. We believe that Prince Rupert is the most promising port in the world and Edmonton is the best inland entrepot to one of the richest parts of Canada.

MORE PUBLICITY NEEDED

Last night the department of fisheries was under fire a great deal and there was no one present to defend it. Information was of a very vague nature.

One difficulty about the conduct of the fisheries department is that it is too much in the dark and darkness always breeds suspicion. When an arrest is made by the police, the public are apprized of the fact through the newspapers. When an arrest is made in the fisheries service, it is hushed up and the public are suspicious and rightly so. There must be something wrong if they fear to tell about it. It is almost impossible to get information in regard to activities of the patrol boats and the penalties placed on those who offend against the regulations. So much in the quiet is everything conducted that the public is always thinking there is something wrong.

This system is not peculiar to the present administration. It obtained just the same under former governments. It is not peculiar to Prince Rupert but has always been the same all along the coast. It resembles the customs service in this respect in that seizures are always kept quiet and penalties not announced. In both cases the suspicions of the public are aroused and investigations have shown that often they have been justified. The only excuse for refusing information to the public is to cover up something which is shady.

Publicity clarifies the body politic just like water is made pure from contact with the air.

In some sections of the police department there have been attempts more than once to hide things and at once suspicions are aroused. "Shady work" is expected when things are held back.

WHY NOT ADVERTISE SALE?

When there is a sale of confiscated gear, the natural thing would be to let the public know about it. Not so. The public are apparently not wanted there. In order to save their face the marine department puts up a notice in the postoffice or some place where no one expects it and the sale is held without the knowledge of the general public who might attend and make purchases. Why should not these sales be conducted like sale for private persons where the public are notified through advertisements in the newspapers? We quite agree with the fishermen that the affairs of the fisheries department look shady and it is largely because of the secrecy with which everything is done. Let in the light that the department may be purified. That is the suggestion we make. The patrol service is public business and the public have a right to know what is going on.

General Sutton Tells the People of Peace River About Plans for Building Railway

Suggested That His Money Comes From Chinese War Lords: Spectacular Figure is Man Who Proposes to Buy P.G.E.

General F. A. Sutton, who has been through the Peace River making investigations, has addressed several meetings while in the north. He also said he expected to have several survey parties in the country next year and expected to start construction the following spring.

The general's route as explained by himself will be along the P.G.E. railway, with a line through the Pine Pass and another north of the Peace River that would take in the upper Peace River country, and the mineral wealth of the Finlay River, and go down the north side of the Peace River and join up with the present E.D. and B.C. near Whiteclaw or Peace River.

Are the investment funds of the Chinese war lords being poured into British Columbia for want of a nearer place of profitable security? inquires a British Columbia correspondent of the Financial Post.

The question is raised in British Columbia as a result of the activity of General F. A. Sutton, who has recently come to this province from the turbulent Orient bringing with him substantial sums of money for investment.

General Sutton, a major in the British army, is an adventurer extraordinary, whose playground is the world and, more immediately, British Columbia. Prior to his arrival in Vancouver several months ago he was military adviser to Chang Tso Lin, war lord of Northern China.

PLENTY OF MONEY ON TAP

Successful war lords in China usually have surplus funds. In the past it has been their custom to invest in real estate in Hong Kong, which is British territory, and in British and other foreign concessions in China where property had some guarantee of stable ownership.

It is well known that real estate in Hong Kong is more valuable than property in the heart of London. Hong Kong's insular geography making expansion of the business and industrial section impossible. In large measure, say travellers from the Orient, this value has been given by the demand for Hong Kong real estate as a solid rock of inviolate rights in the political maelstrom that the rest of China today represents.

Latterly, however, the rising menace of the national party, sworn to oust all foreigners from property control in China, has seemed to imperil these investments.

BUYS HEAVILY ON COAST

Chang Tso Lin has been by far the most successful war lord of the north and much of the credit for his success is attributed to his right-hand-man, General Sutton.

General Sutton signalled his arrival in Vancouver by buying a placer mining property near Barkerville and a large ranch at Pleasant Valley in the Cariboo country. He has put a crew to work mining and is operating the ranch.

Then, for a sum stated to be well in excess of $1,000,000, he bought the Rogers Building, one of the largest office buildings in the heart of Vancouver.

More recently he bought the old Dominion Bank Building, now known as the Mutual Life Building on Pendet Street, the price paid being in the neighborhood of $400,000.

FLIES TO PEACE RIVER

He started British Columbia the other day by announcing that since there had been so much talk and so little action on the question of completing the Pacific Great Eastern Railway into the Peace River country, he would make a trip in there, look over the territory, then he would go to England and "there will be few words, but a lot of action," to use his own trenchant phrase.

The better to study the Peace River country he bought a Fokker airplane which had been brought to Vancouver for a trans-Pacific flight that never materialized.

Deciding to talk things over with the provincial government at Victoria he made a day trip down the Gulf of Georgia and one of the islands enroute caught his fancy. In Victoria he hunted up the owner and started negotiations with the object of buying and establishing an estate and a pheasant ranch there.

That is the record of his whirlwind British Columbia career to date.

He is easily the most talked of man in British Columbia at the moment.

IS TYPICAL ADVENTURER

Big, generally expansive, an outdoor man, typically the English sportsman and adventurer, General Sutton has been a stimulating tonic to British Columbia. He goes at least half way to let the public know, through the medium of the newspaper, that he is in their midst and, unlike many other large scale talkers who have visited British Columbia, he does things in a big way and backs up his bargains with cash.

British Columbia is not greatly concerned to know whether he is investing for Chang Tso Lin or for his own account. Apart from the famous white elephant, the government owned P.G.E., which has been circused politically for ten years and offered as a present to both the transcontinental railways, British Columbia has many other things it is willing to sell to General Sutton or to such cash customers as he may bring in.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. Johnstone, arrived in port at 6 o'clock this morning from Vancouver and wayports, sailing at 9 on her return south.

FISHERIES COMMISSION ASKED BY GATHERING OF FISHERMEN LAST NIGHT

ferent impression from Mr. Arnold. So far as he could gather all the canners were agreed as to the limitation of seines. He thought they must revert to the area system, allowing so many licenses to each. There would be so many canneries and so many licenses. Each license would have to be in connection with one or other of the areas.

Mr. Nickerson said he understood the licenses would not be handled by the canneries. Each cannerly would get so many and the fishermen would be compelled to sell to that cannerly. The idea as he understood it was to get the fishermen to where they would have to sell to certain canneries, however, this scheme had been abandoned and the latest move was to ask for a commission to take up the whole thing. He drew attention to the necessity of reducing the number of seines. The business of the government was to protect the fish by shortening the areas or the hours. At present the protection was a joke. The patrolmen were interested in their jobs and the protection of the fish was the least thing thought of. There should be a few good boats instead of the present tubs. The whole service he thought required thorough examination. He thought there should be a chief inspector in each district with a good fast boat. The fish were often unable to get to the spawning grounds and the seines came along and grabbed them up. The seine was the greatest menace and should be kept to the more open water. Often two seines would form a semi-circle and prevent any fish going by. They not only took the cheap fish but cohoes, sockeyes and springs were included in the catch. The government he felt should not be stampeded into taking action. The seines were the greatest menace, greater even than traps, but he was not in favor of traps. Often the seines fished right in the creeks.

PREMIUM ON LAWBREAKER

J. P. Hoffman, president of the North Arm Trollers' Association, suggested that if the present regulations had been lived up to it would have solved the problem to some extent. If there was cutting to be done it should be in the number of seines. Many of the so-called independent seines were controlled by the canneries and were compelled to sell their fish to some particular cannerly. The seines had to get fish and so they broke the law to do it. There was a premium on the man who broke the law.

Bob Hanna confirmed what the previous speaker had said. Every man wanted a pack and the canners encouraged the Indians to fish in the creeks. He told of the manner in which the creeks had been depleted. The only way he suggested to stop illegal fishing was to stop buying after September 20. The patrol business was on the bum. Those taken should be tried by an independent magistrate. A lot of boats seized were allowed to go.

LOST HIS JOB

E. A. Hudson said he had been on the Skeena River for many years. The regulations were a joke to the fishermen. He had told them so in the office and the result was he did not get his job as patrolman this spring. He thought fishing began too early. It should not begin until July 20 in order to let the early fish get up to the spawning grounds. The boundaries in the creeks did not amount to anything. He thought the boundaries should be removed to deep waters.

Speaking of the difficulties of patrol work, Mr. Hudson said if a patrolman took a tip from interested parties he usually lost his job. The present patrol boats were a waste of money. They made about six miles an hour and it was easy to dodge them. They were as bad, as nothing. He suggested having a watchman at each creek. He urged fishermen to take more interest in the preservation of the fish and not to break the law.

Mr. Brady said he was anxious to hear the views of the fishermen. Emphasis had been laid on two things. The seine boat question demanded consideration and limitation. He had been

Why Firestone Dips the Cords of the Carcass in a Rubber Solution

In the old Fabric Tire, internal friction was excessive, and mileage low, the square-woven construction of the fabric being impossible to insulate with rubber. Then came the Cord tire, with cords in each ply laid parallel—no interwoven cross-threads—permitting greater insulation of the cords, one from another, but the cords were not insulated with rubber.

After much research, Firestone chemists found a method of insulating every fibre of every cord with rubber and called it "Gum-Dipping." This process reduces internal friction and gives thousands of extra miles.

Your local Firestone Dealer will gladly explain the many advantages that only Firestone tires can give. See him today.

Make This Your Last Day of Constipation

"Fruit-a-tives" gives Sure, Positive Relief

MRS. H. GODIN

"After suffering many years from constipation, I was advised to try 'Fruit-a-tives'. All my ills are gone now. I am fleshy and in good health. I tried all kinds of remedies, but only 'Fruit-a-tives' brought back my health. In appreciation I am ready to certify that 'Fruit-a-tives' lives up to every claim." Such is the sincere testimony of Mrs. Henri Godin, 34 McGuire St., Montreal.

If your body is handicapped by weak intestines—if you have headaches, dizzy spells, feel dependent, unable to enjoy work or play, by all means try "Fruit-a-tives". It is the ideal tonic-laxative—the most natural medicine to restore you to health, because it is made from pure, fresh fruit juices intensified and blended with tonics; nothing else. Natural, gentle, safe. Step into your druggist's. Buy a 25c or 50c box. Make Mrs. Godin's happy experience come true for you, also.

ORCHARD-ROBBER BEARS NUMEROUS ROUND UCLUELET

USLUELET, Oct. 20. — Black bears, usually plentiful around Ucluelet, are very numerous this year. A number have been seen in and about the settlement and have created quite a disturbance in the orchards. One was shot from an apple tree in George Fraser's famous gardens within fifty yards of his house after having been driven away several times previously, and several trees in orchards nearby have been destroyed. The scarcity of wild small fruits this autumn is suggested as a probable reason for the boldness of the bears.

GIANT STING-RAY IS IN AQUARIUM IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—A giant sting-ray, nine and one-half feet long, is now the chief attraction at the New York Aquarium. The fish, which has a body about two and one-half feet in diameter, and a tail seven feet long, is described as a distant relative of the shark and is one of the largest fish of its kind ever lodged in the aquarium. The fish was badly injured when it was captured in the ocean off Sandy Hook, and aquarium workers fear it may die in its new surroundings, however.

The fish derives its name from the sharp spinal appendage at the end of its long tail, with which it cuts at an assailant. The sting-ray never grows longer than twelve feet, and rarely in excess of nine, authorities say.

Final Estimates on Salmon Pack—Relief Coming for Bait Shortage—McLean's Seal Cove Project an Ambitious One

While final figures on the boxed-up salmon pack for the 1927 season in District No. 2 are not yet complete, official final estimates of the pack show a total of 626,738 cases as compared with the 1926 pack of 1,057,613 cases.

Table with 3 columns: Species, 1927 cases, 1926 cases. Rows include Sockeye, Springs, Cohoes, Pinks, Chums, Steelheads, and Totals.

More detailed figures, region by region, will be available when the final computation of the boxed-up pack for the district has been computed.

Reports received during the week indicate an improvement in the halibut bait situation and the probability now is that the danger of a serious shortage will be averted.

CONGESTION AT DOCKS
