JAPANESE SUPPORT STATES ON NAVY

STATUS OF CANADA AFFECTS RELATIONS WITH BRITAIN

Japanese Support U.S. on Her Naval Policy as Against Great Britain

FAVORS LIMITATION OF CRUISERS TO 250,000 GROSS TONNAGE AS BEST SERVING WORLD INTERESTS

GENEVA, July 7.—Intervening in the Anglo-American difficulty over cruiser tonnage the Japanese delegates to the naval conference not only supported the American contention for low limitations at a meeting of delegates last night but insisted that world interests would be best served by adhering to the United States original minimum figures of a gross tonnage for cruisers of 250,000 tons.

British self-control was shaken by this sudden and unexpected advocacy of the United States position which was made at an informal meeting. The British plenipotentiaries seemed stunned for the moment and then W. C. Bridgman, British First Lord of the Admiralty, is reported to have declared: "These figures are impossible as a basis for discussion."

FEW GAMES IN BIG LEAGUES

Travelling and Rain Prevented Most of Engagements Yesterday Philadelphia Beats Boston

NEW YORK, July 7.—Rainstorms and travelling were responsible for few games being played yesterday in the Big Leagues.

Philadelphia displaced Boston from sixth place in the National League by winning both games of a double-header. In the American League, Philadelphia also won a double-header from Boston. The only other game was between Detroit and St. Louis which the Tigers won 9-8.

After winning seven straight games, Chicago Cubs invade Pittsburgh this afternoon for a series of games which promises to be crucial as far as the leadership of the National League is concerned. Crippled by injuries, the Pirates have so far been able to keep ahead and they are very hopeful that the series starting in their city today may result in establishing them more firmly at the top.

Schulte, the St. Louis Browns' $100,000 outfielder, was seriously injured yesterday when he crashed into a concrete bleacher while attempting to catch against Detroit.

The day's scores were as follows:
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Boston 4-3, Philadelphia 6-5.
Brooklyn-New York, rain.
AMERICAN LEAGUE
Philadelphia 5-7, Boston 1-6.
Detroit 9, St. Louis 8.

POINT OF INTEREST IN LOCAL WAGE SUIT

Workmen Seeking Basis on Which to Sue Gold Mining Company in Cassiar District

Whether or not workmen hired in Seattle for a mining property in British Columbia come under the Master and Servants' Act of this province is a point upon which argument was based and upon which Judge Young will give judgment this afternoon in the case of H. W. Gallant et al vs the Pendleton Gold Mining Co., Ltd. This point is preparatory to suit which plaintiffs are launching against defendant company for wages while working on a mine in the Telegraph Creek district. Several thousand dollars pay is involved. The contract with the men was made in Seattle and they were to be paid when they reached bedrock, out of which, however, nothing was taken.

DR. KOO TELLS ABOUT CHINA

Threefold Aim of Country Being Accomplished and Democracy in Sight

VANCOUVER, July 7.—There are three objectives in the present upheaval in China, a struggle for a stable national government, an effort for improved economic status for China's masses and a recognized place in the family of nations.

This was the generalization by Dr. T. Z. Koo, international secretary of the Y.M.C.A., in an address. That China was in the first phase of her onward march toward a democratic nation was Dr. Koo's opinion. He believed that the close of the first phase was close at hand and that two or three months might witness the elimination of sufficient of the fighting war lords to enable China to march on the second phase of her development.

That phase would be the education in government of, and for the people. This might last five, ten or twenty years. It would mean the establishment of representative government. Then would come a final phase—China's entry as a modern world state. Dr. Koo outlined the spirit of Hinduism as man seeking relation with God. He spoke of China's genius as man seeking relations with man, and of the Western world as man seeking domination of material things.

NEW STATUS OF CANADA

Representative of Great Britain to be Appointed at Ottawa Very Soon

LONDON, July 7.—Now that the Governor General of Canada no longer represents the British Government but is the official representative of King George only, the government here is without any means of communicating with the Canadian government. It is proposed to appoint a representative at Ottawa for that purpose and the matter will be discussed with Premier Mackenzie King when Premier Baldwin visits Ottawa at the end of this month.

This appointment is one of the steps in the development of the Canadian constitution and is a direct outcome of the recent imperial conference here when it was officially declared that Canada was an independent nation within the British Empire and had equal standing with Great Britain or any of the self-governing Dominions. Under the new system Premier King advises King George through the Governor General in regard to Canadian affairs just as Premier Baldwin advises the King in regard to affairs in Great Britain.

RAILWAY IS DROPPING BACK

Cost of Operating Increases Faster Than Increase in Gross Receipts

MONTREAL, July 7.—Net earnings of $2,769,757.09 are shown in the operating statement of the Canadian National Railways for May, issued today. Increased working expenses of the system, due to increases in rates of pay and to a large amount of maintenance of work being carried on during the month, are also shown. Both gross and net earnings for May show decreases as compared with the figures for the corresponding month of 1926.

For the five months' period, from January 1, gross earnings of the National system were $107,153,564.00, compared with $102,346,994.49 in the similar period of 1926, an increase of $4,806,569.51 or 4.70 per cent. Working expenses during the period were $93,729,341.73 as compared with $88,816,840.16 an increase of $4,912,501.57 or 5.53 per cent. Net earnings for the five months period were $13,424,222.27 as against $13,530,154.33, a decrease of $105,932.06 or 0.78 per cent.

The operating ratio for the month of May, 1927 was 87.89 per cent against 85.54 per cent in May, 1926 and for the five months' period since January 1, 87.47 per cent against 86.78 per cent for the first five months of 1926.

EDMONTON BUILDING INCREASING STEADILY

Activity is in Both Residential and Other Structures: Dwellings 33 During Month

EDMONTON, July 7.—Building activity in Edmonton continued setting new high records for the month of June, and adding a quota which will undoubtedly stamp 1927 as the greatest year of construction in the history of the city. Already the building program for 1927 has passed the one and three-quarter million mark, which is $750,000 greater than for the corresponding period in 1926.

Building permits calling for construction costing more than $500,000 were issued at the civic block, the greatest item of course being the $386,000 permit for the new Canadian National depot. Dwellings totalling 33 and costing $105,625 were placed under construction last month while more than $30,000 was expended in repairs and alterations.

Up until the present time 145 new homes have been ordered built this year, one of the heaviest home-building campaigns in recent years.

BARBEAU ON WAY NAAS RIVER POINTS INSPECTED TOTEMS

USK, July 7.—Dr. Marius Barbeau, ethnologist of the National Museum of Canada and world expert on the lore of the totem poles of this region left here today to continue his work after having inspected the totems of Kitselas Canyon where the Canadian government party is preserving some fine old totem poles, carved house posts and a frame of a huge Kitselas Indian house that have long been neglected. Two of the totems have decayed so much that they cannot be preserved. Dr. Barbeau will now work among the Indians of Naas River Valley.

At Victoria it is stated that the exclusion of women was a voluntary move by the licensees of the board which has no power to require such proceedings.

GREAT RECORD ANYOX MINES

Smelter Not Working to Great Capacity Because Concentrator Takes Place

ORES ARE LOW GRADE
 Immense Quantity Handled in Order to Get Adequate Returns for Work Done

It is quite thirty years now since the Granby Company first began its mining and smelting operations in British Columbia; and almost continuously since that time it has been smelting ores taken from properties developed and operated under its own management says the Granby News. During those thirty years many changes have been brought about in the business of winning from the earth and recovering from the ore what are known as the essential metals of man's modern progress, and Granby has helped to make this pace, attaining an honorable reputation as a result in the science and practice of copper metallurgy particularly. From the early days of Poonik and Grand Forks, where the Company was able to make a profit on the mining and smelting of a one percent ore to the present day at Anyox where it is still operating with a full measure of success on a low-grade proposition, its record has been continuous, chiefly because of its ability to adjust and adapt operating conditions to the complex metallurgical problems which continually present themselves where large bodies of ore are being mined and their metals recovered.

CHANGES IN ORE
 Having ore bodies blocked out with years of tonnage in sight would seem to be all that was necessary in this business of mining. It makes a fair start to be sure, and gives abundance of promise for a successful future; but it is only the beginning of things. At any time (and Nature has a happy knack of contributing generously to such conditions) the rock may alter, necessitating changes which must be met if the economic treatment and recovery of metals is the first consideration. Here, in Anyox, such has always been the case. That is why we are gradually passing from a community of "gas-eaters" to a camp of "web-footers." Fire is no longer the main element of the operation; we are taking the water from the hills in greater quantities as time goes on in order to get as near as possible to the maximum recovery of metal values. When the furnaces of Anyox were first blown in there were four in all, each one being capable of treating 800 tons of original ore every twenty-four hours, or a total of some 3,000 tons a day for the four units. Because the character of the ore has continued to change since that time, at present only one furnace is operating, the bulk of the ore now mined being treated by concentrating process. The Concentrator handling in the neighborhood of 8,000 tons of ore in the twenty-four hours constituting a day's run.

SPLENDID RECORD
 The first unit of the Concentrator was completed in 1924 when 3,818,691 lbs. of copper were recovered. Since considerably enlarged, and with the possibilities of further additions to its capacity in the future, some 8,664,781 lbs. of copper was the Concentrator record for 1925. 1926 saw this increased to 9,523,902 lbs., while a total considerably in excess of this is expected for 1927. The copper output for the present year, combining smelting and milling recovery, should be well over 35,000,000 lbs., which on a 13c market would have a value of $4,500,000.00. To recover these aggregate values in concentrates and blister copper requires the handling of 1,300,000 tons of ore. Its transportation is provided by means of six miles of railroad, the rolling stock consisting of seven locomotives and seventy-five cars. Since smelting began in 1914, well over ten million tons of ore have been shipped from Hidden Creek mines. Two methods of mining are followed. Underground, the open stopp method; on the surface the glory-hole system.

DOES PUBLICITY PREVENT CRIME?

British Columbia Newspaper Says That it Does and Also it Aids in Detection

(Nelson News)
 When a double killing occurred in Durview a couple of years ago, a good subscriber of the Daily News wrote privately to the editor regretting that the matter had been mentioned in its columns. This was an extreme case of the absolutely untenable theory that the public should not be informed of crimes committed. Had he known that in the end, this particular crime was resolved into a murder and a suicide, with the identity of the slayer reasonably established. But if it had been necessary to conduct a search for the slayer, the publicity given would have been the greatest agent tending toward his detection. This is apart from the undoubted right of the public to be informed of major things going on.

THE STRANGLER
 Who captured the "Strangler?" He was captured by the Winnipeg police and the people of southern Manitoba. Gowing to the newspaper publicity, which the Winnipeg police and the Manitoba authorities assisted in every way, a million eyes in western Canada, and probably several million across the line, were watching for a man who would fit a certain description. In the final running to earth of this desperate criminal and archfiend, at stage after stage citizens of Manitoba communicated to the police at top speed their contacts with him. Storekeepers, motorists, farmers figured in his running down with unerring finality.

They did this, they were able to do this, because the newspapers had given them all possible information to be had, and because his Winnipeg crimes, added to those attributed to him in many states in the Union—which again were known through the newspapers—constituted a record that made every good citizen realize it was every person's business to aid in getting him behind the bars of steel.

The above remarks refer to crime detection.

But publicity is equally potent for crime prevention.

PREVENTION
 If cases of snoopers, intruders, and burglars—to take the simplest class of crime in any community—are hushed up, the public will go on in its careless way of leaving doors unlocked and windows unprotected, and committing sums of money to bureau drawers, trusting to the "decent average" of humanity to bring them through without financial loss, or harm to family.

But if, through reading of all such cases, the citizens of a community are watchful, and take all precautions, there will certainly be fewer successful burglaries and holdups, and fewer people attacked in their own homes.

Publication of the facts of criminal occurrences is not educating a few to commit crime, it is educating the many to prevent crime by making crime hard to accomplish, and to assist in the detection of crime. In short, publicity of the essential facts of crime is, next to sure and swift justice on those convicted, the greatest deterrent of crime known.

HONORED FOR WORK WITH YOUNG PEOPLE

Captain St. Clair of Victoria is Awarded Her Best Citizen

Capt. Ian St. Clair is the winner of the first Appreciation Medal for Good Citizenship donated by the Native Sons and Daughters of British Columbia, and the popularity of the judges' choice was evidenced in unmistakable fashion when thousands of his fellow-citizens assembled in Beacon Hill Park cheered Capt. St. Clair to the echo as he received the award at the hands of Mayor Pendray says the Victoria Times.

For thirty-three years Capt. St. Clair was instructor of physical education in the public schools of Victoria, and many of former pupils who received their early physical training at his hands were in the throngs who pressed forward after the formal ceremony to add their personal need of congratulation to the recipient, who was obviously overcome by the public tribute. Mrs. St. Clair, who has always been her husband's "right-hand" man in his work among the young people, shared in the honor paid to her husband, when she was presented with a beautiful basket of flowers and a letter of appreciation.

Ten Years Ago
 in Prince Rupert

JULY 7, 1917
 The federal government is attempting to organize its financial resources so that millions spent annually in Canada, on luxuries may be used to support further forces in the war.

An interesting wedding was solemnized yesterday in St. Andrew's Church by Canon G. A. Rix when Miss Phyllis McCoskie, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. McCoskie, 251 Fifth Avenue East, was united in marriage to Dr. J. S. Brown, local dentist. After the ceremony, the couple left for a brief honeymoon trip to Anyox. On their return to the city they will take up residence at the corner of Third Avenue and First Street.

News has reached the city of the shooting near Telkwa of a bridge guard named Olsen who came within an ace of being killed. The alleged assailant, a native, has been taken into custody.

NEED OF IMPROVEMENT

The salt lake across the harbor is the great summer resort for the people of Prince Rupert, especially for the younger people who enjoy a swim under the best possible conditions. Salt Lake Park so far costs the city nothing except the small amount contributed through the swimming club for the upkeep of the floats. Because it is outside the city limits, difficulty is found in properly financing the undertaking in order to bring it up to date and make it as attractive as possible. What is needed is a man there for two or three months during the summer who would act as caretaker and swimming instructor and life saver. If the waters were kept clear of weeds they would be much more attractive and a lot of minor improvements could be made by a man who was handy with tools and who had the time to attend to it. The same man could rake out the weeds, see that the dressing rooms are kept clean and orderly and care for a boat and lifebuoys and generally make the place modern and sanitary. At present the lake is filling a great need and is used a good deal. If swimming lessons were given the young people, the value of the lake would be much increased and parents who today hesitate at allowing their children to go there unattended would not hesitate to do so if there was some responsible party in charge to see that everything is safe.

It's a good thing to have a jubilee sometimes in order that we may see the pictures of the men who were reviled as politicians while they were alive and after death were canonized as statesmen and fathers of the country.

Don't be jealous of the joyous. There are too many long faces in the world today. What is needed is more sunny smiles.

CATER TO TOURISTS

In catering to tourists here is one of the difficulties encountered. A man and wife from Chicago came in a few days ago. On the train they inquired how they might employ the time they planned to stay in the city, something like three or four days. When told that there were no sidetrips except to Stewart and no way of getting out to visit the points of interest except by chartering a launch they were disappointed. It was pointed out that the work of organizing parties of tourists and arranging for launch trips was usually done by the tourist hotels but as there was not a tourist hotel in Prince Rupert there was no one to do it. If the railway had a hotel here, parties would be made up often at Jasper and the hotel management would either have launches to take guests on trips or would make arrangements with local people to handle them at so much each. They could be taken to various points of interest, to Metlakatla, to Shawatlans, to the canneries, to Butze Rapids. They could be given fishing parties, crabbing parties, clam bakes, beach parties and other amusements which would keep them in the city and would provide just as enjoyable times as could be secured elsewhere.

Now that we have done our part nobly to show our appreciation of this great dominion let us ask the federal government to do its part in giving us a proper mail service. We shall then appreciate our Canadian privileges much better.

A foreman is a person who loafs and watches the other chap work.

MANY WOULD CATCH SALMON

One of the wails of visiting tourists is "Can't we catch salmon?" There is the best of salmon fishing to be obtained at Dundas Island, yet it is seldom capitalized as a sport because nobody has bothered to do it. If this were made a tourist resort parties would go out each morning to catch salmon. Usually they would get one but if they did not they would have had the sport and would have seen others catch them. What a wonderful time they would have and the cost need not be very great. At Jasper Park they charge $7.50 each for a ride in a car over the Pochohortas Road. For ten dollars each tourists could be taken in a good boat to Dundas Island and given the best of salmon fishing for a day. If the thing were properly organized there would be more money in it than in commercial fishing and it would be another industry added to the port.

Cloud is as necessary as sunshine and in hot weather much more refreshing.

KID BROTHER
LLOYD PICTURE

Plenty of Laughs in Harold Lloyd Feature Coming Here Tomorrow

Harold Lloyd, the lovable spectacled laughster, comes tomorrow night and Saturday in "The Kid Brother."
"The Kid Brother" is the sort of thing we expect from Lloyd. That is, its very unusualness—of plot, gag and action—make it stand out and alone. In a field as crowded as it is large, Harold's friendly face shines out. Truly has he been crowned and truly does he deserve a scepter as the king of comedy.

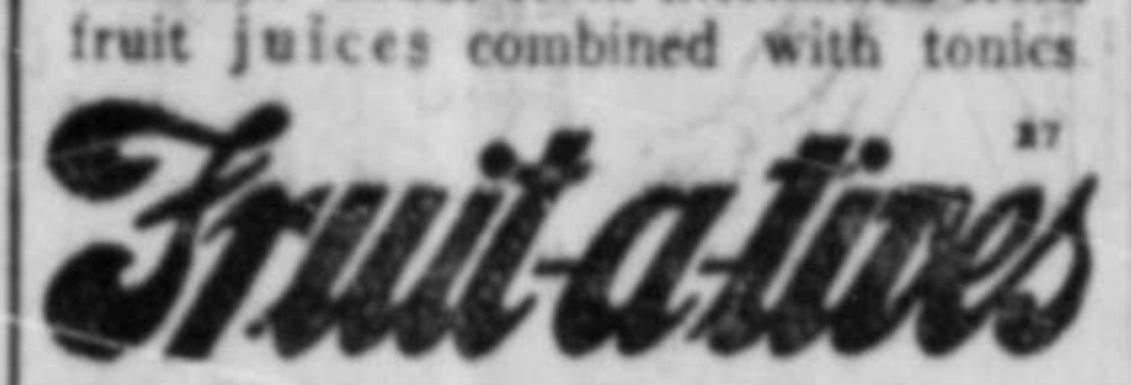

His latest, in which he receives able support from a company headed by Jobyna Ralston, Ralph Yearsley, Eddie Boland and Walter James, takes place "up in them thar hills." As Harold Hickory, youngest son of the biggest man in town, Lloyd creates a character that's slightly reminiscent of "Grandma's Boy."
The actual story starts when a medicine show comes to town. The whole outfit—strong man, "spieler" and dancing girl—arrive at Sheriff Hickory's for a permit. With father's badge on his chest, Harold, under the soulful appeal of the girl's eyes, signs their document. Then, when Hickory gets home, things start humming. Father insists that if Harold had enough authority to issue a license, he'll have to make them leave. Harold, victim of an inferiority complex, starts off. The laughs do too, and they don't stop till the final coup.

But that's not all! While Harold is endeavoring to stop the performance, the tent catches fire, Sheriff Hickory's money is stolen, the thieves escape, there's a terrible fight aboard an abandon-

Plans Laid for English Company to Operate in Malahat District

VICTORIA, July 6.—The southern part of this Island near Victoria may be chosen as the site for a big Canadian-English moving picture plant, it was announced today by officials of the company, following recent interviews with Mayor J. C. Pendray.

Options were taken on two sites near Victoria, but they are found to be unsuitable and have been dropped, it was explained.

An option has now been taken on a third site up the Malahat way and this location has been reported on favorably, the officials here said. Confirmation of the selection is now being awaited from the financing headquarters. The site chosen consists of several hundred acres and is spacious enough to permit of big operations and the creation on this Island of another Universal City.

Plans for proposed buildings have been drawn by a Victoria architect and were shown today.

The officials, who are here now, have had the co-operation of the First National organization, which has been operating at Tacoma and Lake Lewis with Richard Barthelme as the star.

The company will be operated as a private organization with no public financing or backing sought, an official said. Its operations here will be backed by an international financial and distributing organization, he added.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Parker left on this morning's train for a trip to the prairies. They will visit Calgary, where Mr. Parker will represent the local assembly of the convention of the Native Sons of Canada, and will also go to Rosebush, Saskatchewan, where relatives of Mrs. Parker live.

BRITAIN MAY FIGHT SOVIET

That is Opinion of Noted War Correspondent and Special Writer

ENDURANCE REACHES LIMIT
Combination Being Formed by Diplomatic Means to Offset Communists

NEW YORK, June 7.—"Sooner or later Britain will have to fight Soviet Russia, unless the Russian regime changes, which is exceeding unlikely."

This is the forecast of Frank H. Simonds, noted war correspondent and authority on international affairs, who, in the July issue of the Review of Reviews, views the severance of relations between Britain and Russia, following the government raid upon the Soviet House in London, as a most significant link in a series of antagonistic moves which may involve all Europe in a war between Russian nationalism and the British empire.

UNDER COVER WARFARE
In point of fact, he declares, a state of under-cover warfare exists between the two powers today, with Russia inciting anti-British uprisings in China and elsewhere, while actual military aggression on the part of the British government is checked only by the empire's economic unfitness for war and the weariness of its people.

Nevertheless, he says, "It is not possible to mistake the fact that British endurance has reached the limit" as evidenced by the diplomatic break.

"Russian hostility to Britain has been expressed in a number of operations both within and without the British Empire, which has been not only expensive but even disastrous," he says. "In China, these Russian operations have fallen little short of actual war. Nor has there been any real concealment of the fact that the Soviets are carrying on a campaign against Britain all over the world, with the open design to promote its ruin."

EYE IS INDIA
"Turkey in 1922 was an admirable instrument for this purpose, China is today even better. India may tomorrow serve the same purpose. Peace with Russia is impossible because those who rule Russia base their power upon the principle of the overthrow of capitalism; and even temporary compromise is out of the question, because the Russians believe that British misfortunes and difficulties lead out the promise of success."

But, he points out, Britain cannot make war on Russia directly and alone, with the government faced, as it is, not only by economic weakness and anti-war sentiment, but by a strong communist tendency in its Labor party at home. And he sees in current British diplomatic movements the operations of a tentative program for forming a strong combination of European states against Russia.

"Particularly important in any such combination would be the Russian border states, Finland, Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania, Poland and Rumania, as well as Turkey in Asia. All of these, with the possible exception of Turkey, are under an immediate threat of Bolshevik attack, all are in part or wholly composed of former Russian territory. Were it conceivable that in addition Britain could enlist the adherence of France, Italy and Germany, she would have accomplished the isolation and frustration of Bolshevik power in Europe."

FRANCE AND GERMANY
But, he says such an accord is made impossible by territorial differences arising out of the war settlements and still existing actually, if not officially between Germany and Poland, with France as a Polish ally, and between Poland and Lithuania. The difficulty of bringing France and Italy, rivals for Mediterranean power, into such an alliance on an equal basis, also is pointed out.

"Nevertheless, British policy seems plainly aiming at certain combinations," says the Review of Reviews article. "It appears that London is looking to the strengthening of the bonds between Paris and the British capital, while maintaining toward all the border states an increasing sympathy and a degree of economic and financial interest. Along with this goes the obvious attempt to expand Anglo-Italian friendship, but always with the clear indication that this must not have any anti-French character."

"Meantime toward Germany, British policy is, at least temporarily, hardening. The Nationalist purpose to keep open the door to Moscow has been met by a growing British criticism of German Nationalists and a rapidly diminishing British support for the idea of an early evacuation of the Rhineland and the Sarre."
