CHRISTIAN CHARITY

One hears a great deal about Christian charity but it is noticed that many Christians are very mean toward each other. Some Protestants dislike any person who is a Catholic and some Catholics have not much use for a Protestant. Usually slighting things are said about the smaller and newer denominations until they become strong, when increased tolerance is noticed.

Again it is very noticeable that persons of the same church often dislike each other worse than they do those of another. They say all sorts of mean things about those with whom they worship and thus indicate that their Christianity is only a veneer and has not changed their nature. The Church idea that a person could be born again was that the old evil tendencies were to be killed and their places taken by those pleasing tendencies which we usually associate with what we term a "real gentleman" or "real lady." They are the Christian attributes.

This little talk is given today because owing to the weather, many people did not go to church yesterday and they need something of a religious nature to prod them up for the work of life.

CUTTING CHRISTMAS TREES

This is the week when Christmas trees are cut and it is customary to step out to the nearest vacant lot and take the one that suits best. With the development of Prince Rupert it will have to be remembered that some people wish to keep their trees for decorative purposes and that to cut them is an act of vandalism. We suggest, therefore, that no trees be cut near buildings or at any place where they are likely to be needed for ornamental purposes, without the consent of the owner of the property.

There are few trees as ornamental as the three common trees here—the hemlock, spruce and cedar. The time will come when we shall be planting them instead of destroying. While we have not so far looked upon the trees as an asset in a general way, they will very soon be so viewed.

DECORATING GRAVES

There is in the city an organization which particularly devotes itself to the upkeep of the graves of soldiers, particularly those who died as a result of their efforts in the Great War. There are also in the city a few thoughtless or wilfully vicious persons who have stooped so low as to desecrate the graves in the local cemetery. Last year many people decorated the graves of departed relatives at Christmas and in some cases holly wreaths so placed were removed.

It is difficult to understand the mentality of those who would do such a thing as steal from graves. At any rate it is hoped there will be no repetition this year.

SHOPPING AT HOME

A Los Angeles newspaper has the following: In our serious moments, when we pause to consider our town and how can we help to improve it, we realize that the fundamental thing which makes a live town is its business. Without that no town can develop and improve. As persons of common sense it behooves us to look about in a practical way to determine how we can best increase that business. How better can this be done than by using the old and established method exemplified by the slogan, "Trade at Home?"

Every dollar spent has a potential value to business and it is for us in this day of civic awakening to be citizens alive and useful to our own community. Good citizens we have, and they are many who complacently do their shopping in other cities, and then wonder what is the matter with their own community. The spirit of the good citizen today should be civic pride, and he should help shoulder the common burden, and assist in a practical plan to make business better by doing all his buying from his local merchant, by putting his surplus earnings in the local bank, by taking an interest in all civic matters; to contribute to the extent of his ability to the welfare of his community and to do this in a constructive way. If you work or own property in a town you owe a duty to that place. You should "work for it, speak well of it, stand by it," and be loyal to it in every way.

Trade at Home—the greatest service to your city.

What Shall We Give?

BACK through the centuries Christmas has always been a time for the giving of presents—big or little things to delight and gladden the hearts of children and their elders.

But where are the Christmas presents of other years—the toys, the useful things? Broken—worn out—forgotten.

Keep alive the spirit of your gift. Let it bring happiness and contentment from year to year—add a Royal Bank Saving Book to your list of Christmas presents.

Christmas Presentation Covers are provided for Gift Books.

BEN SELF IS FOUND GUILTY

Fined $100 by Magistrate McClymont for Being Keeper of Gaming House—Notice of Appeal Given

Ben Self was convicted by Magistrate McClymont in city police court Saturday afternoon on a charge of being the keeper of a common gaming house. Notice of appeal was immediately given by Milton Gonzales, counsel for the defence, and the charges against seven men of being frequenters of the Grand Terminal Club were adjourned until Tuesday.

In his argument for dismissal of the charge, Milton Gonzales pointed out that even Sergeant Hannah had admitted that the Grand Terminal was a lawful club in lawful possession of its club license. The defence conceded that it was a place where gambling was carried on but was there not gambling in every club in Canada and, indeed, in many private homes? The question was whether or not gambling had been carried on illegally on the night in question; whether or not the house had gained from the draw poker game. Only one crown witness—Knutsen—had testified as to there being a rake-off and it was noticeable how bitter he was after having lost his money. But it was also to be noticed that even when he had gone "broke" he had gone home to obtain more money in spite of the fact that he stated there was a banker who took a rake-off from the game. As a matter of fact the size of rake-offs that Knutsen alleged were taken from the 10c ante game was ridiculous. On the point of the rake-off, the case of the crown succeeded or fell. All defence witnesses had testified in contradiction of Knutsen as to the rake-off. Only was it admitted that Young, the book-keeper of the game, had drawn from the pot to pay for the cards—quite a usual and legitimate thing in any poker game. Moreover, Young had paid for the cards himself before the game started and when he drew from the pot he was drawing money not for the club but for himself. All the profit the club derived was that on the cards or cigars or such like that it was usual to sell in clubs of all descriptions. Moreover, all the evidence showed that the premises of the Grand Terminal Club were not public but a private club. Mr. Gonzales defined a club as a parallel to a home—not a place where a man resorted but where it was his right to go. There was no evidence where the club or Mr. Self, its secretary and employee, had gained from the game. It was merely a sociable game between members with no evidence of rake-off. Counsel submitted that the crown had not proven its case and that the charge should be dismissed.

At the conclusion of Mr. Gonzales' argument, Knutsen attempted to get an audience with the court but was ordered to sit down.

CROWN ARGUMENT

City Solicitor E. F. Jones, for the crown, congratulated Mr. Gonzales on the excellence of his argument. Were it not for undeniable facts in connection with the case, he (Mr. Jones) might well apprehend its dismissal following the argument of defence counsel. Mr. Jones contended that the Grand Terminal Club was a public place. If it was not public why was the card-room door locked and the door to the billiard room allowed to remain open? Men had been arrested playing in or watching the game who had no credentials of being members of the club. The evidence of Knutsen had been clear and concise to the effect that he had seen the rake-off being taken on this as well as all other occasions. It had been furthermore proved through Sergeant Hannah that the house had a bad reputation. The evidence of Knutsen was more plausible than that of the four defence witnesses—all of whom were interested parties. The "club," Mr. Jones submitted, was merely a blind to the carrying on of gambling operations. He cited a Saskatoon case where conviction was made on it being established that cards, fruit, gum, etc. had been sold in connection with the carrying on of gambling. In submitting evidence to the effect that a rake-off had been taken and that there had been the sale of cards, cigars, soft drinks, etc., the crown, Mr. Jones contended, had done its duty and made out a conclusive case against accused.

Magistrate McClymont remarked that there had been a great deal of evidence in the case, perhaps, more than was necessary. Four or five men on one side had said one thing and one man, on the other hand, had said something else. Perhaps, all the witnesses were biased. As a result of five-to-one testimony, one might hesitate in arriving at a conviction under such conditions. It was also to be considered that in such a case there was usually "an awful lot of lying." He attached considerable importance to the evidence of Rodgers, a defence witness, who testified that other than to pay for cards, "there was nothing else of no consequence" in the way of a rake-off. On the evidence before him, giving accused the benefit of all doubts, he found Mr. Self guilty on the charge and fined him $100 with the option of thirty days' imprisonment.

NOTICE OF APPEAL

Immediately upon the decision being given, Mr. Gonzales gave notice of appeal.

Capt. Gus Foellmer arrived in the city on the Camosun last night to join the grain ship Ainderby which he will pilot to Union Bay to coal after having loaded her full cargo of wheat at the local elevator for the United Kingdom or continent. Capt. Foellmer is one of the best known pioneer skippers of this coast and until recently has been with the Hudson Bay Co. in its Arctic trading service, having been master of the schooner Lady Kinderley when that vessel was lost off Point Barrow two or three years ago. Identified with Capt. Foellmer in the pilotage is Capt. W. E. Boyce, former master of the C.P.R. steamer Princess Marguerite and at one time skipper of the steamers Tees and Princess Beatrice in the Prince Rupert service.

This year's Family Gift!

Plan now to give your family a new Orthophonic Victrola. Select and reserve your Christmas instrument. At His Master's Voice Dealers only.

Here is a family gift which repays not merely in the joy of giving, but in the enjoyment you receive from it forever after. It is not too early to begin planning for one of these wonderful musical instruments. Today, His Master's Voice dealers have complete selections of models, but no one dares predict for how long. Your instrument reserved,—is your instrument assured.

People often wonder why the new Orthophonic Victrola is "so much alone" in its musical superiority. The secret lies in the practical application of the principle of "matched impedance" as scientists call it,—or, in simpler words "smooth flow of sound". The patents are Victor-controlled. You will find them in no other instrument.

With Victor music at home, you can turn on the flow of entertainment as the mood impels. When a record finishes playing—don't rush to get up—it stops itself. Electrical drive, if you wish—at slight additional cost—eliminates winding. Seven beautiful models to choose from, from $790 down to as low as $115, all obtainable on convenient terms from His Master's Voice dealers

Bank of Montreal Holds Annual Meeting

Leading Officials, in Addresses to Shareholders, Review Strides Canada is Making in Commerce and Industry

The annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal brought to a close a year in which the Bank had enjoyed almost record growth. Sir Vincent Meredith, President, and Sir Frederick Williams-Taylor, General Manager, in their addresses, stressed the rapid strides that Canada was making but struck a warning note against possible over speculation.

Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., in his address, said in part: "It is a pleasure to report that your Bank has had another satisfactory year. The increase in our commercial loans has been gratifying, notwithstanding the fact that many of our important borrowers have taken advantage of present money market conditions to fund their indebtedness by issuing to the public long-term obligations at a low rate of interest."

"The banks of Canada have a combined capital and rest of $253,608,000, which is more than ample to take care of the demands of our present population of 9,389,300. The excess of capital over Canadian business requirements is so great that we are obliged to employ in New York and abroad large sums that would otherwise be idle. It is not your directors' intention, therefore, to increase the capital stock of the Bank at the present time, but rather to strengthen our Rest Account, and with this in view we are transferring $1,000,000 from profit and loss account, bringing the Rest Account up to $30,916,700."

BUSINESS CONDITIONS
"Trade conditions in Canada during the year have been active, and while there is still keen competition in many lines, balance sheets generally show satisfactory profits. Manifest evidence supports this statement. Bank debits, bank clearings, bank deposits, car loadings, railway gross earnings, imports, note circulation and lower mercantile mortality, all reveal that the tide of business has risen during the year."

"Speaking generally, manufacturing industries thrive; textile mills are fully employed; iron and steel operators continue to face strong competition from abroad, as an increasing volume of imports attests; the lumber trade shows a slight improvement; newsprint output in-

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

In the Matter of the Administration Act; and In the Matter of the Estate of George Clifford Adolphus Wilson, Deceased.

TAKE NOTICE that by order of His Honor, F. McE. Young, the 1st day of December, A.D. 1927, I was appointed Administrator of the estate of George Clifford Adolphus Wilson, deceased, and all parties having claims against the said estate are hereby required to furnish same, properly verified, to me on or before the 3rd day of January, A.D. 1928, and all parties indebted to the estate are required to pay the amount of their indebtedness to me forthwith.

Dated the 3rd day of December, A.D. 1927.

situation bearing on our year's business. "First, then—in two fundamental respects, earning power and liquid strength of resources, our position continues highly satisfactory. Never have we been better prepared to care for all the normal needs of the public and to meet any business or financial exigency."

"At the close of our bank year, total assets stood at $631,500,000 and of this amount $481,900,000 was in liquid form—cash, call loans, securities, or other items readily realizable. These quick assets equal 63.78% of our total liabilities to the public, and this reflects the usual position in which your Bank is maintained."

"Our commercial loans in Canada have increased by about $3,000,000 and now stand at $255,100,000. Many of our largest industrial customers, owing to their strong liquid condition need less banking accommodation from us than heretofore; also, certain loans of a special nature which appeared upon our books last year have in the interim been paid, being replaced by advances more widely spread—an indication of greater business activity in the country generally. The total commercial loans of all Canadian banks at the end of September, the latest figures available, aggregated $1,031,900,000."

"Our deposits total $709,100,000, an increase of $52,900,000 from the corresponding date last year. While much of this represents deposits of a commercial and special nature, a goodly portion of the increase has occurred in our savings department, showing both widespread prosperity and continued public confidence in the Bank of Montreal."

"As a sign of this country's growing capital resources—the deposits payable after notice in all banks exceed the total commercial loans by 360 millions, whereas 15 years ago these loans exceeded such deposits by 219 millions."

INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT

"I have referred to the past year as the most expansive in the country's commercial history. That Canadians have experienced a greater degree of individual prosperity than ever before is, I think, undisputed. The high general level of employment, and the enhanced spending power of the people, are attributable to a succession of good harvests and to a great broadening of the basis of production. Until a few years ago Canada was best known abroad as an agricultural country, and outside capital sought investment here chiefly in government and municipal issues and in railway building to provide transportation for an ever-increasing agricultural area. Today most of the largely increased capital coming in for investment is for industrial development. It is now fully recognized that Canada has the natural resources for the building up of a vast variety of indigenous industries, and is fitted by the character and spirit of her population to take an increasingly important place among the industrial nations of the world. The great expansion in recent years of mining and metallurgy, with their field now extending into agricultural Manitoba, and of the manufacture of pulp and paper, and of those various fabrics commonly referred to as artificial silk, are spectacular instances. Scarcely less impressive is the great progress in a variety of other industries, for which the extraordinary development of hydro-electrical energy is providing the cheapest and most convenient of all motive powers. It is obvious, therefore, that whereas in earlier days we dwelt almost wholly upon our agricultural, fishery and forest resources when appraising our national wealth, we must now also take into account the country's untold wealth in water powers and in minerals."

IMPORTANCE OF AGRICULTURE

"We should not lose sight of the fact, however, that agriculture is still our great fundamental industry, its importance is only intensified by its increase in urban industries. Nor should we lose sight of the fact that wheat is the most valuable single item not only of our production but also of our export trade. At a meeting of the Board, Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., was elected Chairman of the Board and Chairman of the Executive Committee; Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., was elected President, and H. R. Drummond and Major-General the Honourable S. C. Mewburn, C.M.G., were elected Vice-Presidents. An Executive Committee of the Board was appointed, consisting of Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., (Chairman), Sir Charles Gordon, G.B.E., H. R. Drummond, and Major-General the Honourable S. C. Mewburn, C.M.G."

HUMAN NATURE IN THE RAW

Salvation Army Deals With Many Cases and Sometimes Makes Mistakes

About a month ago there arrived in Prince Rupert a down-at-heel yet likely enough looking middle aged man of quiet appearance and apparently frank face. He claimed to have been at one time a successful newspaperman in the East who had come west on a business venture which failed and left him stranded with the exception of enough money to get him to the coast. He made himself known at a local newspaper office and asked employment. His shoes, he said, were falling to pieces and he sadly exhibited a pipe for which he had no tobacco. He had not the wherewithal, he declared, for his next meal and did not know where he would sleep. Furthermore, according to his story, he had served in the War and had been gassed, leaving his lungs in a condition where he could not chance sleeping under nature's canopy. To all appearances, his plight was a sorry one.

The next day Mrs. Stobart sought from her dresser, where she had left it, a valuable watch, the gift of her father. The watch was gone and the man had flown the coop. The newspaperman who sought shelter from the appearing unfortunate, on being informed of the circumstances of the man's departure, expressed his regrets at having been in any way responsible. "But those things often happen in our work. We have to take the good with the bad, the well meaning with the otherwise," cheered Capt. Stobart. Once again the faith of the Army had been tried and once again it had remained firm.
