SKEENA IS ROUTE FOR NEW HIGHWAY

EXPLOSION ON ESSINGTON BOAT BLOWS OWNER INTO AIR

Skeena River Gorge Only Possible Route Highway to Interior

P. M. Monckton Scoffs at Idea of Going by Way of Naas River Which Would be far off Direct Route

The only way to connect Prince Rupert and Terrace satisfactorily is by the Skeena River valley, according to P. M. Monckton, civil engineer and land surveyor of Terrace, who arrived from the interior yesterday and left this morning by the steamer Prince George enroute to Victoria to complete departmental work for the provincial government on which he has been engaged.

Mr. Monckton scoffed at the idea of building by way of the Naas River as it meant going many miles out of the way without any compensating advantages. He said the route from the mouth of the Naas River to Prince Rupert would prove more difficult than that up the Skeena River and there would be more of it.

As a man who knows the interior country well he assured his interviewer that no pass could possibly be satisfactory except the Skeena gorge.

Asked as to the difficulties of building that way, Mr. Monckton said he was inclined to favor the other side of the river, although he recognized that it might not be open quite as early in the spring. The physical difficulties would not be as great. It has been estimated that the road would cost three million dollars and he did not think it could be built for less than that amount.

Whatever the amount it would be much less than would be the cost of going by the Naas River, which was far out of the way. As for any other pass through the mountains, if it was found it would be so difficult and so clogged with snow that it would have no practical value.

Mr. Monckton saw considerable advantage in connecting up with the canneries on the Skeena River, that being an additional reason for following the Skeena route.

After completing his departmental work, Mr. Monckton plans to drive Mrs. Monckton and family to California before returning to Terrace in the spring.

DR. BLEECKER PASSES AWAY

Well Known Physician, Formerly of Terrace and Queen Charlotte City, Succumbs

A telegram received yesterday afternoon by R. V. G. LePine announced the death in Trenton, Ontario, deceased's birthplace, on Wednesday of Dr. G. H. Bleecker, well known medical practitioner of this district.

Accompanied by his widow, the late Dr. Bleecker, after having been a patient in the Prince Rupert General Hospital for some time suffering from a serious malady, left for the East only two weeks ago. While it was realized that his condition was grave, word of his demise was quite unexpected.

The funeral of the late Dr. Bleecker, who was 49 years of age, will take place in Trenton under Masonic auspices deceased having been a member of the blue lodge, chapter and preceptory as well as of Wa Wa Temple of the Mystic Shrine in Calgary. He practised in Terrace for a number of years and also conducted a drug store there. For the past few years he had been at Queen Charlotte City where he had charge of the hospital.

Relatives of the late Dr. Bleecker include his brother, W. A. Bleecker of Trenton.

PURSE SEINES ARE TROUBLE

A. W. Neill, Member for Alberni, Suggests Reduction or Abolition

VANCOUVER, Nov. 18.—A. W. Neill, member for Comox-Alberni in the Federal House, returned last night from Ottawa where he spent ten days chiefly connected with the fishing industry.

Apart from uncertainties as to the powers of the Dominion Government, Neill thought the greater part of the fishing trouble today was due to the use of too many purse seines. If this were remedied, he believed the industry would prosper.

"The obvious remedy is for the cannerymen collectively and voluntarily to agree to a reduction of the number of seines among themselves." If they were unable to do this, Mr. Neill suggested an increase in the number of gill net areas and prohibition of the use of purse and drag seines for a period of years.

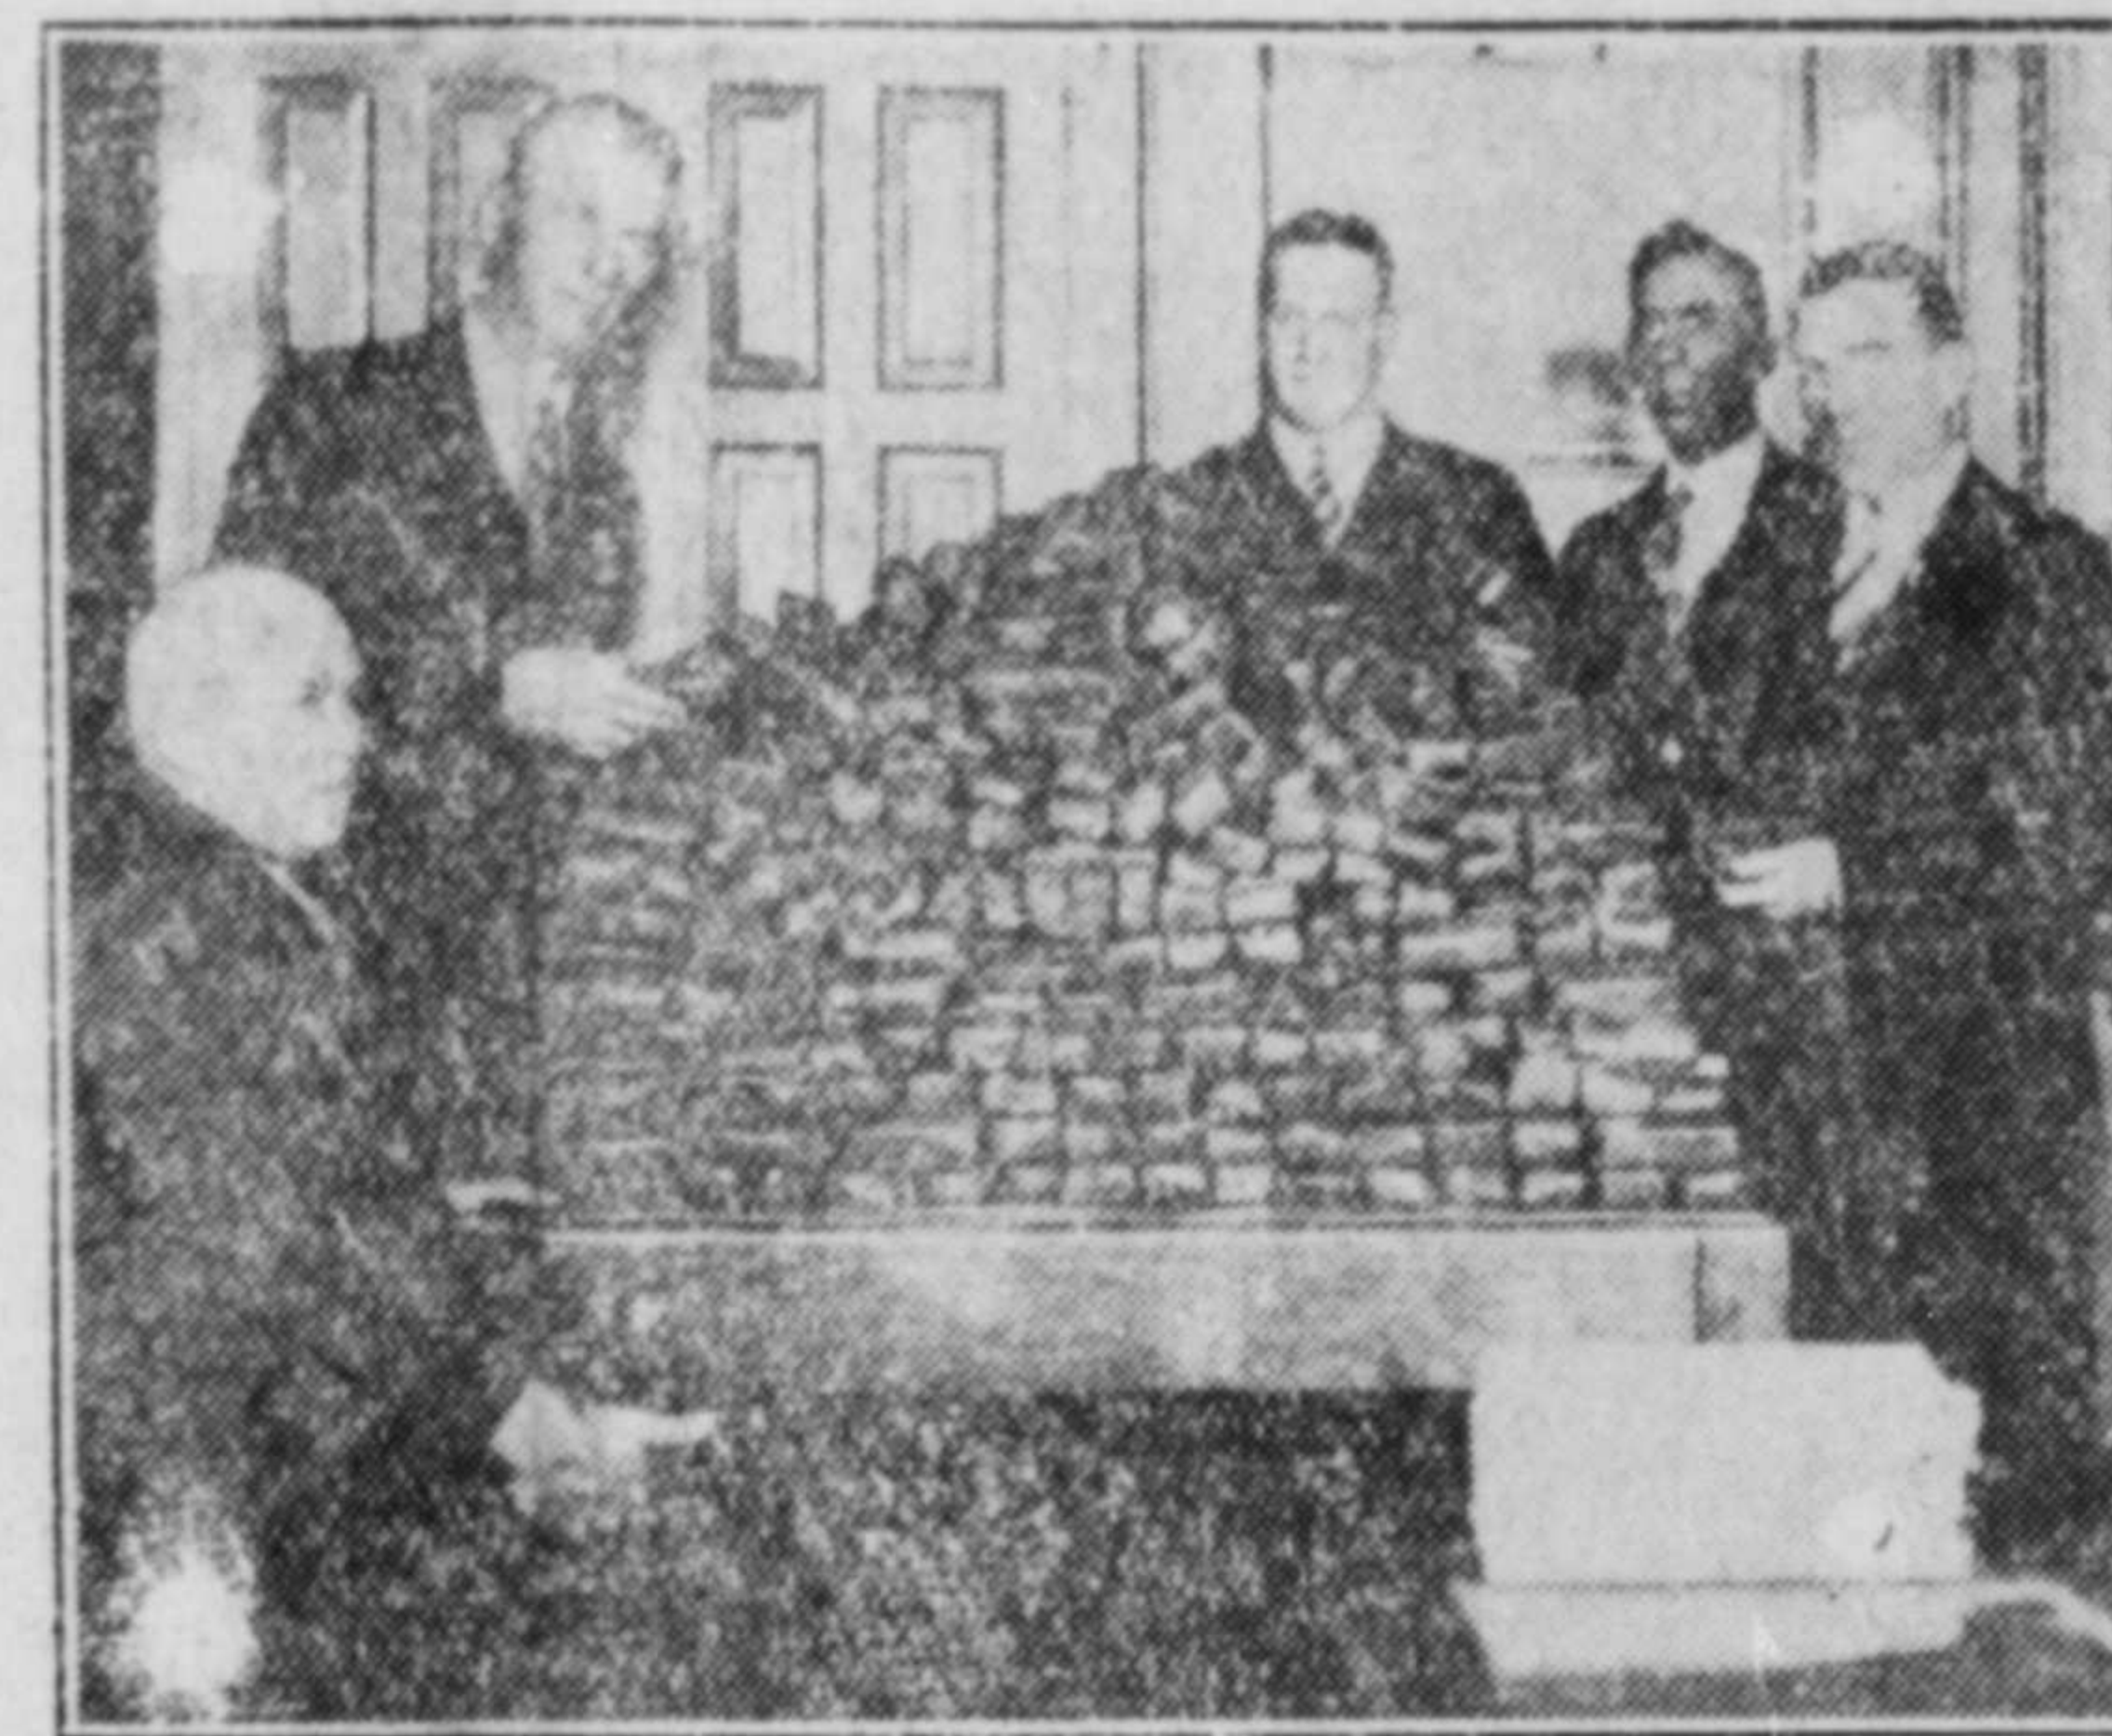

"This may seem revolutionary and impractical," he declared, "but more drastic action has been taken in Alaskan waters."

BEAR HOLED UP IN BOYS' PLAY CAVE AT SELKIRK, MANITOBA

WINNIPEG, Nov. 17.—A three hundred pound bear holed up in a Selkirk boys' cave on the Red River. On Friday morning Jack and Bill MacKerny concluded to examine their retreat. It was their first visit since snow arrived and they had started a fire before the visitor had been discovered. The big fellow regarded the intruders sleepily. Having been on the trap line with their father the boys did not get excited. They made a dicker for half the value of the pelt and all the carcass before they told a half breed neighbor of their find. The animal was shot where he lay. The larger variety of black and brown bears are more numerous near Winnipeg this winter than ever known and so plentiful are elk that the government has included them for the first time in the open season this year.

GAVE PREMIER BALDWIN BIG CHERRYWOOD PIPE

Birmingham University Graduates Pleased Premier With Presentation

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 18.—A three-foot cherrywood pipe, modelled on one of his favorites, was presented to Premier Stanley Baldwin by the undergraduates at Birmingham University when he opened the new biological block of the University recently.

The pipe appeared to give the Premier as much pleasure as the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws which had just been conferred on him. He smilingly swung the pipe over his shoulder, entered a burlesque Roman chariot (drawn by a pantomime "horse"), and escorted by a bodyguard of students in weird costumes and wearing false pointed noses, he made a triumphant exit.

Undergraduates crowded the galleries in the hall where the degree was conferred and showered confetti on the robes of the professors.

Gas Boat Explosion Throws Saw Mill Operator Into Air and Injures Him Severely

James A. Brown of Ecstall River was on his Boat at Port Essington When Accident Occurred: Now in Hospital

Victim of an explosion at Port Essington last night which virtually wrecked his gasboat and hurled him twenty-five or thirty feet into the air, James A. Brown, well known Ecstall River sawmill operator, is today a patient in the Prince Rupert General Hospital suffering from severe fractures of both legs as well as burns about the head and face.

It was about 8.45 when the accident occurred. Mr. Brown went down to his boat, which was moored at a float, to see that all was in order for the night. He carried a lantern and, as soon as he got to the door, the explosion occurred. Mr. Brown was hurled clear into the air, landing on his boat again. One of the fractures was at the ankle and the other at the knee. The wheelhouse was blown on to the dock.

Had it not been for the prompt action of Mr. Brown's stepson, Seward Donaldson, who pulled the victim out of the flames, there might have been much more serious consequences. Mr. Brown took it coolly himself, inquiring as to the time immediately after the accident occurred.

Dr. W. T. Kergin was called to the scene by wire immediately and, with his nurse, Miss Dorothy Gillingham, R.N., left aboard the B.C. Towing & Lightage Co.'s powerboat Naas River for the Skeena slough where transfer was made to the Salvage Princess, which had come down from Balmoral and took doctor and nurse on to Port Essington.

Mr. Brown's injuries were dressed during the night and he arrived in the city this morning to enter hospital where, according to last reports, he was resting as easily as could be expected.

DAILY EDITION Friday, Nov. 18, 1927

READING A NEWSPAPER

A subscriber to this paper writes that people find they cannot be without this paper. Of course they cannot. No person living in the district can afford to be without the home town paper. The Daily News is the representative paper for the Prince Rupert district. It is only by reading it that they can keep in touch with the various activities of the whole country around here.

Newspapers are made to be criticized. That is one thing they are for they help lighten the load of the mayor and council and authorities generally by taking part of the criticism which otherwise might be theirs. Of course it ought to be a large paper with plenty of features and all the news of the outside world and in time it may be that. However, like Prince Rupert, we have not yet quite grown up.

Never mind, the News is a stalwart youngster and is giving a little more telegraphic news than it ever gave before. It makes every possible effort to keep pace with the progress of the district. It is seen everywhere and very few people, who have once taken it, like to stop.

OPPORTUNITY FOR NEW PEOPLE

New people coming to Prince Rupert sometimes try to do without the local paper. They are not at first much interested in local doings and their interest is in the great outside world. But no person is really a citizen who does not read of the doings of his neighbors. By doing so they learn to cultivate a civic spirit and in real earnest become citizens of Prince Rupert.

IGNORANCE AND INNOCENCE

The old question of whether publicity is beneficial or detrimental comes up again today in connection with a letter published in this issue and signed "A Citizen."

If the suggestion of the writer of the letter is followed, it means that like the ostrich we bury our faces in the sand, refuse to see what is going on around us and fool ourselves with the idea that everything is lovely and we and our children are perfectly safe.

When a physician sets out to cure a festering sore, he opens it and lets it drain. He knows that if the putrid mess is kept confined it spreads and ends in death. So with the moral sore. The cure is to open it up and let the white light of publicity play upon it and it then tends to heal itself.

This is an age of democracy and if self-government is to be a success, the people who govern must be informed. How are they to vote at elections if not educated as to the true state of affairs.

The young people of this city are not unaware of the conditions at which our correspondent is shocked. The age of ignorant innocence is giving place to education. Young people today want to know and it is well that they should know. Ignorance has wrecked thousands of lives.

Contemplation of the good and the beautiful in life tends to create goodness and beauty but it does not educate a democracy in the art of self-government. If the people are to have a say as to the conduct of affairs they must know exactly what is going on in the community and how it is being done. If there is evil they must know it so that they may be in a position to change it.

Publicity in the community has a similar effect to sunshine and fresh air. It aids in expelling corrupting influences.

WIRELESS WONDER LAMBETH HOSPITAL

Remarkable Receiving Installation With 2,000 Head-phones

LONDON, Nov. 17.—What is described as one of the most remarkable wireless receiving installations yet invented has been fitted up at the Lambeth Hospital by the Marconi Company. Its total capacity is 2,000 head-phones and 80 loud-speakers. Its running cost is approximately nine pence a day. Automatically it switches over from London to Daventry and Daventry to London, choosing programs throughout the day in accordance with a prearranged scheme. The set consists of 17 valves, and a feature is that no high and low tension batteries are necessary because the supply is obtained from motor generator sets.

The installation can be used for making announcements throughout the institution. Also, when no broadcasting is taking place, gramophone records can be played for the benefit of all who are listening in. Services in the hospital chapel and concerts in the dining hall can be relayed to those patients and members of the staff who are unable to be present.

The total amount of wiring exceeds 9 1/2 miles. The cost of the installation, £1,500, was subscribed locally mainly in workshops.

The gift was formally handed over to the hospital authorities recently.

England over the utterances of Bishop Barnes of Birmingham the description of the scheming which preceded the expulsion of Robertson Smith from his chair at Aberdeen University, because he doubted the historic authenticity of Deuteronomy, makes excellent reading for men of all creeds. "One cannot contemplate the career of Robertson Smith without a mixture of feelings in which admiration for what he achieved contends with anger at the perverseness of his fellow-countrymen which prevented him from achieving more. Out of all his too short life five precious years were consumed in fighting the wild beasts of reaction, stupidity and expediency."

There is a brilliant study of Lord Overton, who paid his workmen fourpence an hour, some of whom toiled seven days a week and all of them twelve hours a day. His Lordship left £53,000, chiefly to charities. Keir Hardie, the author contends, made the one specifically Scottish contribution to British politics, consisting primarily of the destruction of a peculiar English institution—the Liberal party. The author narrates in his own ironic style how Keir Hardie, on the arrival of the Labor party proper, was slowly but irresistibly shelved. "The initial trouble with Keir Hardie was that he had been brought up in the superstition, still held north of the Tweed, that almost any Scotsman is superior to any Englishman whatsoever, in intellect, morals and spirituality."

COULD CROWD PEWS
Of "Claudius Clear" (Sir William Robertson Nicoll) the author furnishes an ironic-pathetic picture of Nicoll's early days, when his whole being was stunted by his father's overweening passion for book-learning. The son's rapid success in the Church (meanwhile he was coming forward as a writer, was because he could always crowd the pews just as he could always sell an article. "Fond as he was of money—and not even his most devoted friends would deny him that weakness—he would never preach or write anything that he did not after a fashion believe."

From the foregoing it will easily be realized that "Brother Scots" is a highly provocative book. One reviewer here remarks if Mr. Carswell still continues to live in Scotland, or if he goes back there, he will well know how to defend himself.

GETTING READY FOR CHRISTMAS
Trimnings for Festive Season Will Arrive in City Next Week

This week's survey of the local markets indicates little change in prices in staple commodities. There has been a slight drop in sugar but not enough to affect the retail price. All brands of Canadian butter remain stationary and no advance is anticipated until the New Zealand supplies are used up. Eggs are still scarce although extras which have been practically off the market, should be coming in more plentifully soon.

After being off the Rupert market for more than a year, Robin Hood flour is again available, a carload having come in this week to Thos. Trotter, the local distributor. This is an old favorite brand with many consumers who will welcome it back after having asked for it in vain for some time.

All the trimmings for the Christmas dinner in the way of dried fruits, peels and nuts are expected to arrive in town next week, and Jerusalem artichokes will be coming in at the same time, the price of which is expected to be around 10c per lb.

Now only five weeks away, preparations for the Christmas business are already being seen and the mail box for Santa Claus is now in use on Third Avenue. The business of presents is already engaging the attention of the prudent while the choice is good and before the rush starts in the last few days.

BROTHER SCOTS IS NEW BOOK

Donald Carswell's Work Delivers Shrewd Thrusts at Scottish Character and Deals With Personalities

LONDON, Nov. 18.—In Caledonian Clubs the world over there are sure to be interesting little discussions this winter, especially among the middle-aged, concerning "Brother Scots," a book just published by Constable. The author is Donald Carswell. One of the most responsible of the London reviews describes the work as "unquestionably one of the most brilliant series of biographical essays since Lytton Strachey's Victorian studies." Living persons do not figure in Donald Carswell's gallery—a departure from the prevailing and sometimes questionable fashion. Neither are the six Scotsmen under discussion, though very prominent in their day, entirely representative of life and character north of the Tweed towards the close of last century. What constitutes the chief attraction of the book is the shrewd thrusts which Donald Carswell delivers at Scottish character in general, at the same time providing an engaging picture of modern culture development in his native country.

SUBJECT OF SKETCH
The personalities dealt with by the author are Henry Drummond, "Smith o' Aberdeen," John Stuart Blackie, Keir Hardie, Lord Overton, and "Claudius Clear." In view of the present controversy in the Established Church of

In The Letter Box

SORDID DETAILS OBJECTIONABLE.

To the Editor,
Surely it is high time that the people of Prince Rupert were waking up to the realization of the moral atmosphere of the town. It would look as if we had fallen into such a state of lethargy and indifference that we have altogether forgotten our responsibility to the growing young. It was brought very poignantly to my attention on reading last Tuesday's issue of your paper.

We must ever take into account that we are a small community where every item of "small town" news in the paper is devoured. Surely it would be all to the good were the paper to go short of news than be filled up with the sordid, sullied details of the arranging of characters in downtown brothels such as were reported in Tuesday night's account of the liquor cases. Were the citizens alive to the insidious influence of such disclosures, they would insist on their being confined to the walls of the police court.

PEOPLE GO TO PEACE RIVER
 Movement Into That Country Continues But Grain Goes out Slowly

EDMONTON, Nov. 18.—A special dispatch to the Journal says:
 The staff of the local Dominion lands office is working at full speed with the first few days of November giving every indication that a record would be established if kept up.
 Armistice day proved a boom day, forty-four entries being made. The majority of these are taking up land north-west of the Falher district which is in between the main highway and the Smoky River.
 Fully 95 per cent of the grain in the Peace River country is safely put away. Two inches of snow has covered the country, but with the thermometer averaging around 15 above threshing is not impeded and a clean up is only a question of a short time. Everywhere in the country with all elevators bulging full, farmers are curtailed from hauling as trains are not provided fast enough to keep the elevators moving.
 In contrast to a year ago engines now on the run are hauling eleven loaded cars up the hill, whereas a year ago five loads was the limit, so that instead of trains comprising ten or a dozen cars they now consist of 20 to 25, but even at that more engines are badly needed.
 George Roberson of Battle River, is taking down a threshing outfit, the first one to enter that district. He anticipates a run of around 25,000 bushels. All the grain there is in the stack and quite a large acreage for that new territory is ready for next year. With this season's fillings a couple of years hence will see that district coming in to its own in the matter of grain production, even though it is now over 50 miles from the nearest railway.

HALIBUT BANKS MAY BE FOUND
 Member of Ketchikan Fishermen's Union Optimistic Over Future of Industry

KETCHIKAN, Nov. 18.—Now that the halibut season is practically closed for the present year, and the members of the International Fisheries Commission will meet in Ketchikan tomorrow, there is much discussion on the water front among halibut men and others about the halibut supply of next year.
 Frank Semers, of the Fishermen's Union, is one who takes an optimistic view of the situation. He keeps in close touch with the fishing industry.
 "There are lots of halibut banks to be discovered," said Mr. Semers. "Naturally, however, halibut men will not do any more prospecting than is necessary for it is expensive for them to do so and they will continue to fish known grounds as long as they can secure catches. However, they deserve the credit for discovering the banks from which fish are taken."
 "A good many of us believe that the government could greatly aid the halibut business by employing one or two medium sized boats, manned by practical halibut men, and pay them for prospecting and locating new banks."
 "When one considers the great extent of coast waters in and about Alaska, and the comparatively few places from which halibut are now caught, it may be readily understood there is a lot of exploration work to be done."
 "To my mind, and I am not alone in that belief, the halibut industry in Alaska is still young. However, as we all know proper conservation methods must be invoked in order to perpetuate it."

 "THE BUSINESS OF HOUSEKEEPING"

Aside from the weight of tradition there is no fundamental argument for washing at home. From a social point of view, extra expense, and from an individual standpoint, it involves much waste of labor.

From the larger economic point of view the commercial laundry will be supported by the progressive woman who wants to see home work brought to a higher level of harmony with our present industrial development.

DRIVING CASE IS DISMISSED

Personal Grudge Said to be Factor Entering Into Cow Bay Suit

Personal factors having been deemed by the bench to have entered into the matter, Magistrate McClymont in city police court this morning dismissed a charge brought by J. A. McRae, city foreman, against Thomas Howe of driving to the common danger. The incident was alleged to have occurred on November 14 on the Cow Bay bridge.

Giving his evidence, McRae stated that tarvia operations were under way on the Cow Bay Bridge and he had been ordered to close the road, using his own discretion about letting cars by. When Howe came along, the tarvia was in such shape that cars should not pass over it. He told Howe to stop and asked him what was his business. Howe replied that it was none of his business, disregarding his order. McRae stated that he was in the middle of the road with his arms held out. Howe, he stated, deliberately ran against him. W. A. McKinnon, driver of a steam roller, which was passing at the time, gave corroborative evidence.

Howe stated that, when he arrived at Cow Bay, a car passed over the road right in front of him. As soon as McRae saw him, he attempted to stop him by putting his shoulder against the radiator of his car which was proceeding very slowly. He did not know whether he had hit him but, if he had actually been driving to the common danger, he would have "knocked him flat." Howe held that McRae had no authority to close the road. No notices so that effect had been published in the papers. Witness said that he had already stopped the car dead and waited for two or three minutes. He admitted that there was a grudge between himself and McRae.

Robert Arthur, Jr., who was in the car with Howe, gave evidence of a corroborative nature. There was no barrier across the road at the time he said. He never saw McRae waving his hands.

In closing the case, Sergeant J. P. M. Hannah said that it looked like a personal grudge between both parties.

"This is no place for such disputes," remarked the Magistrate. "The duty of the court is merely to deal with the law." He could see no evidence of driving to the common danger though McRae was evidently carrying out his orders. He could also see the viewpoint of the defendant so he dismissed the case.
