ANOTHER OFFER FOR P.G.E. RAILWAY DISPOSITION OF CATALA WRECK NOT YET DECIDED UPON

Catala May Be Abandoned by Underwriters to the Salvage Co. Investigations Being Made Today

Up to today no salvage work had been started on the wrecked steamer Catala which, it was found as a result of trips to the scene yesterday, is not really stranded on Sparrowhawk Reef proper as originally announced but, in fact, on the extreme tip of the reef extending north from and forming a part of Burnt Cliff Island. This is probably one hundred yards or so due south from Sparrowhawk Reef which lies midway in the channel between Finlayson Island and Burnt Cliff Island and was so named as a result of the wreck of the British warship Sparrowhawk there in 1874.

FIRST LAND MAIL CARRIED IN CANADA BY FLYING MACHINE

OTTAWA, Nov. 14.—The first air mail ever carried by land flying machine in Canada was relayed Friday from Rimouski to Montreal saving 24 hours. The experiment was an unqualified success.

Sparrowhawk Reef is marked by a can buoy to the north, of which steamers usually pass. The Catala is stranded at a distance estimated at some one hundred yards south of the buoy. This course between Finlayson and Burnt Cliff Islands is only a daylight one and, owing to the rocks which abound in it, is used neither at night or in fog at very low water.

The Catala was evidently far out of her course when the accident occurred, the officer on watch at the time having been apparently deceived by the high tide. Perhaps the sun was shining in his eyes.

Visits to the wreck confirm reports received of the serious position of the steamer. Listed over at an angle of probably sixty degrees off the rocks, the water flows in and out of her as the tide rises and falls. She shows no buoyancy indicating that she is as completely sunk as she can be at that point. At the high tide, the water is over her top deck at while her bow hangs out of water. The watchman states that the vessel has several holes in her, one of them twelve feet in length and that a pinnacle of rock, asking through both her skins, is the only thing that is holding her from sliding into deep water. It is said that the vessel swings gently in the waves and wind and it is certainly very doubtful whether she could remain there long if a storm came up though she would probably be sheltered to some extent by Burnt Cliff Island from a southeast blow.

The wreck has now been abandoned by her owners, the Union Steamship Co., and delay in getting the salvage work started has been caused on account of negotiations not being completed between the salvage company and underwriters as to what shall be done. The underwriters, who had the vessel insured for $200,000, have also been considering abandoning the ship, in which case the salvage people would take her over and get what they can out of her.

At 5:30 this morning, the Salvage King left port for the wreck after having spent the week-end in port. On board were E. F. Cribb, manager of the Vancouver Dry Dock & Salvage Co., who arrived from Vancouver on the Camosun last night, and Mr. Workman, representative of Lloyd's Underwriters, who are making a detailed examination of the wreck today with a view to ascertaining what shall be done. When they return to the city tonight, it will probably have been decided whether the insurance company will have the salvaging done or abandon the vessel to the salvage company.

To salvage the vessel, it would doubtless be necessary to blast the reef and, buoying the ship with scows or pontoons, tow her to shallow water and there put on temporary patches to enable her to float to dry dock. It is said that, owing to the rocks around, it is impossible for the big salvage vessel, Salvage King, to get very close to the wreck.

The Catala is the newest vessel of the Union Steamship Co.'s fleet. Built at Montrose, Scotland, in 1925 at a cost of $300,000, she is 1,490 tons gross, 218 feet long, 37 foot beam and 18.2 feet deep. Her bottom is flat and on the port side corrugations can be seen where she evidently went on the rocks with successive bumps.

Prince Rupert is full of photographs today of the wreck of the Catala. A hundred or more cameras clicked on it yesterday.

Federal regulations had prohibited the employment of Orientals in such establishments.

Protests against the action have been made to Ottawa by the interests opposed to Orientals on the West coast of Vancouver Island.

KING JAMES TO LEAVE SHORTLY

Second Grain Ship of Season to Clear for U.K. Continent on Tuesday or Wednesday

It is expected that the British motorship King James, having loaded a full cargo of grain at the local elevator, will sail Tuesday night or Wednesday morning for the United Kingdom or continent. Enroute to England, the vessel will call at San Pedro, California, to take oil.

Enquiry as to what the next grain ship would be and when she might be expected elicited no announcement from the elevator management this afternoon.

Grain continues to flow steadily to Prince Rupert. Over the week-end, fifty-four carloads arrived and it was stated at railway offices that 101 cars were west of Jasper this morning bound for Prince Rupert.

OUTSIDE JURY MAY HEAR SANKEY TRIAL

Preparations Being Made to Call Jurors Not Residents of City Itself

As an effort to remove any complaint which may be made by defence counsel in the Sankey murder case as to a Prince Rupert city jury being prejudiced, it is reported that summons for jury service at the session of the Supreme Court Assizes which will open here next week have been sent to residents of such points as Stewart, Anyox, Alice Arm, etc., which come within the jurisdiction of the Prince Rupert court. This if a jury of Prince Rupert residents is objected to, empannellment may be chosen from among outside people of the district.

Thirty-Five Millions of Old Country Capital is Available for Railway

Philip will not disclose details of his scheme until he has conferred with Premier MacLean in regard to it.

Death and Destruction is Spread Over Area Mile Wide by Explosion of Natural Gas

PITTSBURG, November 14.—Fourteen persons are known to have been killed and more than five hundred injured, some seriously, here today when a giant natural gas tank at the Manchester works of the Equitable Company exploded spreading death and destruction over an area a mile wide. It is believed that others are buried in the ruins of the buildings.

From the Pittsburg Clay Pottery Company alone 150 men escaped with cuts and bruises while ten others were trapped in the basement and it is believed they must have been drowned by water escaping from the broken mains.

It is believed the blast was caused by workmen using acetylene torches.

STEPS TOWARD SECURING OF A BISHOP HERE

It will be of interest to the Church of England people throughout this district to be informed as to what stage the diocese of Caledonia has arrived at towards the obtaining of a bishop. There are several steps yet to be taken and it is possible some of them may not materialize.

During the last week in this month the executive committee for the Missionary Society of the Church in Canada will determine whether or not it will assume any responsibility for the financial costs involved, while decisions of that body will be passed on to the house of Bishops of British Columbia. If it is satisfactory to them and the whole financial position warrants proceeding, the Metropolitan, in consultation with the authorities of the diocese of Caledonia, may appoint a date upon which a synod will be convened for the purpose of an election, which could not be until some time in the new year.

Burial will take place here Saturday.

NEW SKATING LAKE

The availability of the skating lake adjoining the new highway on Kaien Island is one of the first fruits of the building of the new road which is now approaching the neighborhood of Galloway Rapids. Prince Rupert residents have just begun to enjoy the fun there. Yesterday they were out in large numbers and reports indicate that seldom if ever before have local people had an opportunity to enjoy outdoor skating to better advantage. If the weather keeps up, more will visit the lake and people who now have no skates will secure them.

Other advantages from the highway will develop in addition to that of reaching the outside world by way of Terrace. The local taxi services rose to the occasion immediately the ice was reported good and put on a good service at reasonable rates.

NEED OF SIGHT-SEEING BUS

The need of a sight-seeing bus for this city might well be mentioned just here. If there had been a good bus operating it could have made a harvest yesterday. By tying up with the railway and steamship company during the summer such a bus could secure some excellent business as people like to travel in large parties. There would still be plenty for the taxis to do. Prince Rupert will do well to develop the tourist business that is offering and try to make the stop-offs at this point so enjoyable that people will want to come. One of the things to do will be to make the most of our new drive and to hasten the construction of the road to the top of the mountain so that tourists may be taken there.

MINING ALONG SKEENA RIVER

E. A. Hagen, the mining engineer, points out that there is great possibility of developing mining along the Skeena River. He tells of transfers of mining property recently made at Usk which is looked upon as one of the most likely centres. But there are good prospects at Terrace, Cedarvale, Vanarsdol, Amsbury, and other places and it is probable that within a few years mining may develop into an important industry along the river. So far the attention of big capitalists have not been drawn to the district to any extent because development has not advanced to a point where they are in a position to talk business with the concerns that need ore. Mining at Hazelton has been going on for years in a small way and ore has been shipped in considerable quantities.

CENOTAPH FOR PRINCE RUPERT

The proposal to erect a cenotaph here in memory of those who lost their lives in the war is one that has met with general approval. Other places have been more active in this regard but it is not too late and the movement seems to have started and should not be allowed to stop. We have a duty to perform and it should be a pleasure to do it. Probably all that is needed in this regard is leadership.

DOROTHY LOGAN HOAX WAS A COSTLY ONE SAYS COMMENTATOR

When Dr. Dorothy Logan set out to swim the English Channel and arranged for the "feat" to be a "hoax to end hoaxes" she left out of her reckoning the long arm of the law. She and her trainer thought it was good fun to sign a declaration to the effect that a new time record for the swim had been established for women. But soon after she had explained to the public that the whole thing was a joke it began to be apparent that it might turn out to be a joke on her. There was little doubt in her mind on this score when she and her trainer were "invited" to discuss the matter with the police magistrate. It had not dawned upon them that the Forjery Act in Great Britain takes cognizance of all offences against it. In the police court Dr. Logan was reminded of this fact through having to pay a fine and costs amounting to $552.50, while her trainer's memory was jogged in just half this sum. We may assume in future, therefore, that this young medical practitioner will confine her attention to professional labors and not to hoaxes.

THRILLS AND HUMOR IN HOOT GIBSON PICTURE

In "Hey, Hey, Cowboy," he is Trying to Act as Peacemaker Among Hostile Cowboys

"Long years of experience have convinced motion picture producers that movie fans crave excitement and thrills lightly sprinkled with a seasoning of laughs. Motion picture devotees also are fond of dramatic and spectacular productions but appear to be satisfied with an occasional dish of that form of diversion. That is why Universal Pictures will continue to set aside a substantial portion of its production budget to the making of pictures which will fill the demand for farce-comedies, comedy-dramas and Westerns."

These views regarding the tastes of the movie-going public in the matter of film diversion were expressed by Hoot Gibson, Western motion picture star, whose "Hey! Hey! Cowboy" will be screened here tonight.

Hoot has made millions of moviegoers the world over laugh at his antics on the screen. Continually steaming in a pot of trouble of his own cooking, he nevertheless succeeds in arousing the sympathy that usually goes out to the underdog. A horseman of usual ability even among the pick of riders of unbroken broncs, Gibson is just as much at home behind the steering wheel of a racing car as he is in the seat of his silver-mounted saddle.

In "Hey! Hey! Cowboy" you will see with Gibson in the spirit as you see him trying to act as a peacemaker among opposing bands of hostile cowboys, receiving beatings and ill-treatment for his pains.

"WHITE PANTS WILLIE" JOHNNY HINES COMEDY

Story has to do With Putting Over an Invention and Winning a Girl

To Willie Bascom, a pair of white pants are the last word in the fashion world, and his joy is complete when his money order brings him a pair from a mail order house. Even though he works in a garage and is bullied by his boss, Mock Epply, Willie decides to shine in Sloanville wearing his new trousers. Troubles galore immediately come Willie's way. Things happen to his pants, and his best girl, Judy Downs because of the attention he attracts.

Willie has other ideas beside white pants. He has invented an automobile device—a magnetic bumper that picks nails and tacks out of the road and prevents tire trouble. If he only had the money to finance his idea.

On a certain day, a car drives up with Phillip Charters, president of International Motors, and his pretty daughter, Helen. Johnny is attracted to Helen, and Charters is mildly interested in Willie's invention. When they depart, Willie discovers they are on their way to Cold Springs, a fashionable summer resort. Willie imagines that Cold Springs must be a place where one can wear white pants without being jeered at.

Willie's opportunity comes when he has to repair a car and take it to Cold Springs. Dressing in his white pants, he summons Wong, a Chinese laundry man, to act as his chauffeur. They arrive at the fashionable resort, and Willie is immediately mistaken for a crack polo player.

Charters welcomes him and presents him to Helen, and it is up to Willie to become a polo champ or lose out all around. A series of hilarious and fast moving incidents follow showing Willie winning the polo game, winning the girl, and winning Charters' support in putting over his magnetic bumper.

"FASHIONS FOR WOMEN" FULL OF RARE HUMOR

Picture to be Shown at the Mid-Week is Based on Fashion Show in Paris

From a bobbed haired French cafe cigarette girl to the most famous woman in Paris and then back again to the restaurant—all in the brief space of seven days goes to make a "large" night's entertainment. "Fashions for Women" the photoplay which comes for the mid-week, contains much rare humor and an orgy of beautiful gowns.

Embodied by beautiful blonde Esther Ralston, the picture itself has the four-fold attraction of humorous situations, fairy tale romance, the fascination of a dual role and styles enough to touch any woman's heart.

Just because she resembles a famous mannequin, the most talked of woman in Paris, Esther Ralston, an impish devil-may-care cigarette girl is selected to impersonate the noted model at a huge fashion show. The double role is particularly well filmed and the different personalities of the two women, the cigarette girl and the model, is exceedingly convincing for, being the same person, only a careful differentiation of mannerism—a stride, or a tilt of the head—can serve to distinguish between them.

Elmer Hanson, as the aviator lover, looks to be the best European leading man importation thus far. Raymond Hatton, the modiste shop's press agent, lends much comedy through his banter-like gestures.

The story was made for Paramount by Dorothy Arzner, one of the few women directors in picturedom. Her knowledge of women's clothing and deftness of direction during the huge fashion show assisted much in the film's success.

"SLIDE, KELLY, SLIDE" IS BASEBALL PICTURE

Gives Pictures of World Series and Intimate Life of Ball Players

The World Series, America's baseball classic, has been utilized as the background for a motion picture, just as the Yale-Harvard game formed the background for "Brown of Harvard"—and with the same hero, too, in William Haines.

This is "Slide, Kelly, Slide," spectacular romance of big league baseball, which comes at the week-end with Haines as the redoubtable "Kelly," and a number of well known professional ball players; such men as Bob Meusel, "Irish" Meusel, Tony Lazzeri, and other heroes of the New York Yankees, Mike Donlin, Gibraltar of the Giants, and others.

Edward Sedgwick, director of "Tin Hat," directed the new picture, a vivid story of intimate life with ball players in training camp, on the road and, finally, in the championship contest in New York.

The World Series was actually photographed, with William Haines in Yankee uniform, as a background for the production, and crucial plays in the big game are used as dramatic highlights for the story.

Man in the Moon

ONE little boy went skating A skooting o'er the pond, But he fell such a cropper That struck him a whopper. He went to the long beyond.

THE trippers to the Catala wreck yesterday got their money's worth. Wonder Paul Armour did not go round and collect another dollar each from his passengers for the extra show staged on their behalf.

THEY visited the Catala To see a stranded wreck. But when they got to the scene that day They saw a lot more, by heck.

THE person who enjoys a good reputation is selfish. The really unselfish man is the one who gets a bad reputation and lets others enjoy it.

THE trip to the wreck of the Catala yesterday reminded me of the man who went to Europe for rest and change but got neither. On his return he said the hotels got the change and the sea got the rest.

PLENTY of people who have little idea how to bring up a family think they were born to run the country.

THERE used to be a blacksmith in every village and the cities were full of them but now they usually call themselves motor mechanics or motorboat experts.

FORCES ATTEND THE CATHEDRAL

Veterans and Naval and Military Units Represented Yesterday Morning

The Cathedral was packed yesterday morning to join with representatives of the fighting forces at a church parade. There were the war veterans, members of the local Naval Volunteers and Sea Cadets, North B.C. Regiment, and Royal Canadian Mounted Police as well as the Boys' Band.

Special music was provided by the choir, the soloist in the anthem being Mrs. Anderson. The Last Post was sounded by Sergeant Bance.

Archdeacon Rix preached an appropriate sermon.

In the evening the Archdeacon spoke of the affairs of the Church, particularly in connection with the campaign for the appointment of a bishop for the diocese. He also told of the new Anglican College at Vancouver, which was a splendid building and spoke particularly of the eulogy of the late Archbishop Du Vernet made by the Primate, Archbishop Mathieson.

Union Steamer Arrives From South With Light Passenger List and Several Catala Officers

Taking the place of the wrecked steamer Catala, Union steamer Camosun reached port at 8 o'clock last night from Vancouver and waypoints and sailed at 10 for Anyox, Stewart and other northern ports of call. It is expected that in a few weeks' time, the Catala will be brought over to the Prince Rupert-Anyox-Stewart run and that another vessel will be placed on the week-end cannery and Ocean Falls-Prince Rupert service.

Officers coming north on the Camosun include Capt. J. A. Findlay, in command; Chief Officer W. W. Mounce, Chief Steward Bert Hebdien and Purser Gilbert Rennie, the last-mentioned being relieved here by Purser A. W. Robinson who remained here following the wreck of the Catala. The present chief officer, chief steward and purser are thus regular officers of the Catala. Chief Officer Mounce was interrupted as a result of the wreck of the Catala in his plans for a holiday trip to California.

The Camosun brought north a light passenger list.

BRINGING UP FATHER

PREMIER TELLS ALBERTA CLUB ABOUT ENGLAND

Brownlee Also Urges Edmonton Organization to Help in Proper Development of Canada

Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta, addressing the Women's Canadian Club of Edmonton, talked about conditions in England and urged co-operation with a view to improvements in Canada. The British Empire, Mr. Brownlee said, is in a healthy condition. He saw no evidence of war except the war memorials; no evidence of unemployment; no business depression. He advised his hearers not to take the question of unemployment in Great Britain too seriously. The Old Land has always had its unemployment problem. Before the war in normal times 800,000 persons were in receipt of charity to enable them to live. Now they have the dole which did not exist before or during the war and, even with that, the increase in people receiving assistance is only half a million. Business in England is improved, and England is showing the same resilient spirit and standing up manfully to the task, as she did before the war. The great purpose of Premier Baldwin's visit to Canada was to assure the people that all was well in the Old Land, and Premier Brownlee found it so.

THE LAND OF OPPORTUNITY
Turning his eyes homeward the premier pointed out that in Canada the door of opportunity stands wide open and if people take advantage of this opportunity and face the next five years with a progressive spirit, no one can begin to imagine what the development may be. Canada offers greater opportunity in every field than any other country in the world. Great Britain is burdened with taxation but, with the exception of the United States, Canada has the lowest taxation of any country in the world. Canada has also the feeling of prosperity without hampering things. She has not, for instance, the problems between labor and capital that exist in Great Britain and the United States.

BASED ON AGRICULTURE
But the prosperity of Canada is based on her agricultural development. Premier Brownlee spoke of the farming conditions, and the uncertainty of farming. For weeks past the "music of the harvest" has been heard throughout the land, but not without hard gripping toil can the farmer see his work come to fruition. Elevator and granary cannot be filled until nature takes its toll in sweat and toil. However, time has eased the situation to a certain extent. Machinery is taking away the drudgery on the land and in the farm home; the development of highways has brought people within reach of city advantages; the coming of the telephone, radio and motor car, and the establishment of better high and public school systems, leaves the farming industry one of the most pleasant in the world. Yet, in spite of this, people are flocking from the farms to the cities, and from both farms and cities to the United States. This is one of Canada's great problems. Mr. Brownlee expressed the opinion that the movement will never be stopped until farming is placed on the same basis as other businesses. Make agriculture prosperous in Canada and everything else will take care of itself. It is not right to expect the farmer to work on any

CRICKET TAUGHT THE ENGLISHMAN TO PLAY THE GAME OF LIFE

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Lord Desborough, speaking as the guest of the Lord Mayor of London at the Mansion House, said: "Cricket has taught us to play the game, and so long as we do play it England will maintain her position."

The reply to the toast of "Cricket" was entrusted, most appropriately, to Lord Harris, who recalled that some of Sir Rowland Blades' predecessors had not ignored athletics. Sir Sydney Waterlow, for instance, had entertained the Oxford and Cambridge crews. In 1880, a Lord Mayor entertained the Australian eleven of that year. On a more recent occasion a team of cricketers which was to visit South Africa was entertained. This, however, was the first occasion on which honor had been done to the game itself. Recurring to these recollections, Lord Ullswater, in proposing the health of the host, said he could remember when Sir Robert Fowler, who was a great hunting man, entertained a number of masters of foxhounds, and others interested in hunting. In the middle of the banquet the news arrived of an import division in the House of Commons. Those of the guests who happened to be member of parliament hurried off to the House of Commons. He himself happened to be in the chair, and nearly had a fit when he saw Mr. Munz walking down the House in a scarlet coat. Fortunately, the House was not now sitting—it not being the cricket season—or they might have seen Sir Rowland Blades appearing in the House in an M.C.C. blazer and white trousers.

WOULD BEAUTIFY CANADA
In conclusion Mr. Brownlee emphasized the necessity of immediately adopting an aggressive policy in regard to the beautification of Canada. He had found, he said, that one of the gripping things that keep men true to the soil and the country, are the beauty spots. In this young country of great spaces no time should be lost in acquiring spaces for the creation of playgrounds and breathing spaces such as the parks of London afford. Tree planting along the highways was also urged. He urged the Women's Canadian Club to get behind this movement in full strength.

SKATING WAS GOOD YESTERDAY ON LAKE ALONG NEW HIGHWAY

There was a good crowd out yesterday and Saturday to enjoy the skating on the lake on the New Highway. The weather was splendid and the ice like glass. The city taxis were kept busy all afternoon taking out parties and bringing them home. A few of the boys took out their sticks and tried a game of shinty. Small fires were built to keep those warm who were watching the fun, many spectators making the trip as well as skaters.

Chas. Bricker of Galt and Howard Webster, of Hamilton, have been definitely assured of places as members of the Canadian Olympic team, competing in the Olympic marathon at Amsterdam next year. Two of the following may also be selected: Billy Reynolds of Galt, Percy Weyer of Toronto, Johnny Cuthbert of Guelph, Johnny Miles of Sydney, N.S., and Orville Garbut of Toronto. This decision was reached following the marathon trial of 26 miles 385 yards, at Hamilton, which Bricker won handily, despite the terrific heat, in 2 hours, 51 minutes and 46 seconds, leading Webster by nearly 7 minutes. Conditions were very similar to what will be expected in Amsterdam next July—hot and oppressive, and hard pavements. Bricker keeps in condition chiefly by walking, with his Alreadale dog as company, and junks his thirty miles one day each week. Johnny Miles, the Maritime sensation, who months ago was touted as a sure thing for the Olympics, finished ninth, but confidently expects to show sufficient class next spring to be selected as one of the additional pair of marathoners possibly named to accompany Bricker and Webster.

Neglected Eyes

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once.

OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable.

DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

EXCITEMENT AT CATALAWRECK

Two Big Powerboats Nearly Come to Grief on Dangerous Shoal Between Burnt Cliff Id. and Belletti Pt.

Prince Rupert people who went out on Sunday by gasboat to visit the wreck of the steamer Catala on Burnt Cliff Island near Port Simpson had plenty of thrills besides that of looking over the big derelict. While the situation for some of them looked probably serious enough for a few minutes at least, the attending incidents afforded enough excitement for the large majority making the trip, which was sufficiently rough and cold, fully worth while. Two near strandings, which, happily turned out to have no serious consequences, featured the excursions.

It was about 3:30 in the afternoon when the forestry boat Lillian D. with Ranger R. C. Scott at the wheel and having on board a party consisting of District Forester R. E. Allen and Mrs. Allen and family, Assistant Forester E. E. Gregg, Fire Inspector and Mrs. R. H. Leighton, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. McMillan, R. Knox and others, as she was about to leave the wreck for home, bumped at the high tide on the perilous reef which extends across the southerly mouth of Pearl Harbor between Burnt Cliff Island and Belletti Point. As the vessel keeled over on the port side and started to swing up and down in the swell that was rolling in from Chatham Sound, the near panic that occurred on board could easily be imagined. The powerboat Pull Moon, with Dr. W. T. Kergin, the owner, in charge, and George Frizzell with the Laura F., both of which were nearby, proceeded immediately to the rescue and took the passengers off the stranded vessel. The Pull Moon then put a line on board the Lillian D. but efforts to pull her off failed. Happily the B.C. Towage & Lightering Co.'s wrecking boat Salvage Princess, Capt. Paul Armour, with a big crowd of excursionists, within half an hour, hove in sight from Prince Rupert, and with the tide still making, released the Lillian D. with one good yank.

Ships of relief at the salvage of the Lillian D. were soon to be changed to further gasps of excitement when, just as the first vessel was pulled off, Prince Rupert Boat House powerboat "28," with a large group of excursionists on board, and Capt. Hans Berquist in charge, bumped onto the same shoal a short distance farther out and also stuck, swinging in the rollers. Apparently there was even further excitement on that vessel for constant blasts from her whistle was sounded and the distress flag was promptly run up. Some of the passengers had been put in the lifeboats of the Salvage Princess, having towed the Lillian D. to the Salvage dredge, was just turning out to go to the aid when the "28" floated herself off the reef.

While standing by the Lillian D., the Pull Moon drifted to the reef herself but was in no trouble. The clump of rocks where the accidents occurred is a mean place, requiring fullest of knowledge of the surroundings to successfully navigate.

Five boats made the trip out to the wreck during the day. They were the Pull Moon, Laura F., Lillian D., Salvage Princess and "28." All had rough trips and many people were seasick, a fresh northwest wind cutting up the waters of Chatham Sound considerably.

Those making the trip aboard the Laura F. were George Frizzell, Douglas Frizzell, Bob Frizzell, Harry Astori, H. F. Pullen, Fred Smith, Sid Hunter and G. A. Hunter.

All the excursionists were safely home by 8 o'clock in the evening, a big fire, apparently in the bush west of Metlakatla providing the final subject of the day for interest and speculation. As far as could be made out, the blaze must have been started by hunters or campers and had spread up the hillside from the shore. From a distance it looked like a fire in Metlakatla but, on coming closer up, it was found that that was not the case.

BRITISH WOULD NOT TOLERATE FASCIST MOVE

(Toronto Globe)

Fascism is now five years old. It was at the end of October, 1922, that the King of Italy, fearing a revolution, called Mussolini to Rome and made him Prime Minister. Since then he has been not only undisputed dictator, but the idol of a very large body of his fellow-countrymen, both at home and abroad.

Created for the purpose of combating communism, Fascism has set up a system almost equally dangerous, and one which would never be tolerated by people who had been reared under British institutions. Mussolini has established a powerful State machine, under which everything is made subservient to his will. Capital and labor are completely under his command; and neither the employer nor the worker is a free agent. The inexorable decrees of the dictator must be obeyed, down to some of the minutest details of home life, for even at the baptism of children parents are forbidden to bestow names of their own choice and its leader disapprove. Freedom is dead in Italy, and no one dares to express an opinion which is not in accord with Fascist principles.

For five years the system has met with a considerable degree of success, but this has been almost entirely due to the popularity of Mussolini himself. The members of his Government have been of little real assistance to him, and it is doubtful if he would wish that it should be otherwise, for it is essential that neither his personal popularity nor his power should be shared by others. He has, of course, a militia which is devoted to him, and a servile press. But there can be nothing really permanent about Fascism. If Il Duce should lose his grip on the people, or be removed from the scene, the whole fabric which he has set up would probably topple over, and Italy would be faced with revolution.

LONDON FASHIONS

Tweed is Popular This Year in World's Metropolis but Most of Coats Trimmed With Fur

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Complete outfits are now designed for every time of day so that no wrong choice of an accessory may spoil the whole.

This passion for detail starts with the correct building up of a tweed outfit with its necessary jumper suit, usually a tweed skirt and an angora jumper, with perhaps a suitable cardigan. Tweed is popular this year and a great many top coats of brown tweed, trimmed with fur, are made. Usually a jumper suit matches them in color. Sometimes the accessory suits are of fancy woollens or jersey mixtures and many of the jumpers are striped or patterned in new ways. On others the patterns are of plaids of the material of the skirt if it is not too heavy. All kinds of jumper tops seem permissible if made simply, and wool and metal woven materials are freely used. The covering tweed coat is better designed than tweed coats were formerly, and there are homespuns where the patterns suggest seams and pockets, fine "nervures" or pinched tucks. Tweed coats for travelling are worn over tweed suits with jerseys or angora jumpers, the top coats being roomy with wide crossover fronts. Few of them, however, are not trimmed with fur on the roll collars, cuffs, and even on fronts and sides.

Afternoon Wear Afternoon outfits take various forms. There are tailored suits with long coats of velvet or fancy woollen materials made with diagonal crossovers. They are usually trimmed with fur, dyed fox, lynx, or some short curled fur; the sleeves widen towards the wrist or into big pointed cuffs, and the skirt of the coat often flares and shows a fur piecing running upwards from the hem in a point. The frock that is worn with velvet cloth coats may be simply tailored in satin beaute made with plaicings in the reverse, or there may be a more complicated lame jumper and skirt of velvet or satin, or a velvet, silk, or crepe afternoon frock. Many afternoon frocks have jabots at the side of the bodice and draperies at the side of the skirt and they are almost all longer in the skirt than they have been.

The uneven line is seen on most of the formal afternoon frocks but not on tailored frocks, many of which have unobtrusive lingerie trimmings and are decorated with fancy buttons and finished with a belt. All kinds of incrustations are put on tailored frocks, which are more complicated than they look at first. Tops and skirts are contrasted in some dresses; there are also separate jumpers and skirts; afternoon materials vary and the materials decide the cut and design. Besides velvets, satins, and silks there are fibre-antique in light weaves and patterns, mouseline, crepe de sole, and metal materials; but the jumper tunic with a velvet skirt is expressed in various ways.

For Evenings For the evening indoor wraps make a complete ensemble with dinner and dance frocks. They take many forms; the material of the dress is usually allied with lame, velvet, or metal lace. A white crepe chiffon frock has a long shawl cape with a design of black ring velvet scimitars; another, of pale gold lame, has a great square of the lame with a deep metal lace border as its trimming. Some are finished with wired Medici collars or Elizabethan ruffles. Picture frocks have picture wraps to complete them.

Styles in Shoes The new autumn and winter shoes are in keeping with the fashions. Many out-of-door shoes are dark brown to tone in with the havanas and cocoa tones that are in favor, and there are the usual trimmed shoes. On Court shapes are contrasting collars that give an elegant line. Toes are shorter and heels are straighter for indoors, and for out-of-door heels are fairly low. A new leather called "vici," which is as soft as glove kid, is popular for out-of-door shoes, as it goes well with dark-colored stockings. A new walking shoe called the "monk's shoe" is made with a long plain front, a short tongue, and a button fastening; it is comfortable and is made of cabrogoya lizard, patent leather, and brown sealskin. Embossed leather in autumn shades and light gold markings is for afternoon shoes. For evening there is a return to multicolored brocades; they are now made in Court shapes, they look well, and they go with a number of frocks.

Gaiters Boxcloth gaiters that come over the knees, stockinette gaiters, and Highland spatees are for chilly days. A new Wellington rubber boot sometimes with an astrakhan top is for wet days in the country. There are also new goshettes of proofed gabardine with turnover velveteen tops to protect evening shoes on damp nights, and velveteen proofed evening boots serve the same purpose.

"THE BUSINESS OF HOUSEKEEPING"

Aside from the weight of tradition there is no fundamental argument for washing at home. From a social point of view, extra expense, and from an individual standpoint, it involves much waste of labor.

From the larger economic point of view the commercial laundry will be supported by the progressive woman who wants to see home work brought to a higher level of harmony with our present industrial development.

FINED $300 LIQUOR CHARGE

Taxi-Operator Gets Sentence This Morning in Police Court

Found guilty on a charge of selling liquor, James Currie, taxi operator, was fined $300, with the option of three months' imprisonment with hard labor by Magistrate McClymont in city police court this morning. Thus was disposed of the fourth case of seven of a similar nature which have resulted from the recent activities in the city of operations of the Liquor Control Board, whose identity became disclosed for the first time this morning when they appeared in court to give their evidence against Currie. The first to be tried of those who pleaded not guilty to the charges. The second case, that of Georgia Snowden, is proceeding this afternoon.

E. F. Jones appeared for the crown and L. W. Patmore acted on behalf of the defendant in the Currie case which was very similar in nature to many of such kind that have been heard here. Bickering of counsel featured the hearing and His Worship called for order on some occasions when several persons involved got vociferously arguing all at the same time.

CHARGES FRAME-UP
 The first witness, Provincial Constable Daniel Darroch of the Liquor Control Board, several times had differences with Mr. Patmore and took issue with him on a number of points of law. Mr. Jones accused Mr. Patmore of bullying the witness and, at one juncture, told the court that he had reason to believe that an attempt was being made to frame up the various defences and that this could be proven. Mr. Jones would not say that Mr. Patmore was involved in any such attempt. The assertion of Mr. Jones was made when Mr. Patmore endeavored to ascertain from witness one other place, beside that in question, where he had bought liquor. Crown counsel and witness refused to answer the question and the magistrate ruled in favor of their contention to this end. Mr. Patmore was successful in having several other disputable questions admitted.

Briefly, the story of the witness was that at 11.30 p.m. on November 9 in room 24 of the Savoy Hotel accused brought him up a small bottle of brandy for which he charged him $3. When money being paid. A few minutes previous, witness had arranged on the street with accused for the bottle. Constable Macdonald, also of the Liquor Control Board, was present at the time of the sale as was also accused and a man named Stewart. Witness paid for the bottle with two 2-dollar bills, receiving a one-dollar bill in change.

The bottle was drawn and everybody had a drink.

WAS NOT DRUNK

Under cross-examination, witness denied having been "puking drunk." The liquor was so strong that it was true that he was gagged and some assistance came to his lips. He was not intoxicated. He denied having "puked" on other occasions. In Prince Rupert drinks were smaller than those in Vancouver, possibly because of the freight that had to be paid. This drew a titter from the crowd in the courtroom.

Darroch gave much other evidence in detail and the next witness was Constable R. N. McDonald, another officer of the Liquor Control Board.

Witnesses for the defence were R. Stewart and accused. The defence consisted of a straight denial which the magistrate refused to accept, giving decision and imposing sentence as recorded above.

EDMONTON WARNED NOT TO SPEND MUCH

Financial Houses Say Credit Will be Impaired if Capital Expenditures Made

EDMONTON, Nov. 14.—Edmonton city has been warned by the Eastern financial houses that it must keep the capital expenditures for the coming year down. To spend more than three quarters of a million dollars beyond current revenue would impair the credit of the city.

A few years ago the finances of Edmonton were badly involved and her credit gone. A period of entrenchment followed with a steady improvement but of late there has been rather rapid development in the city with a tendency to increase expenditures.

TOOTLER GETS RIGHT OF WAY

Queer Device Used by Pedestrian to Protect Himself Crossing Streets

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The "tootler" is a bright idea of a Southampton man who recently asserted the rights of the pedestrian by having a motor-horn attached to his walking stick and tooting it when he wished to cross the street. A Londoner was fascinated with the idea and tried the experiment here. He relates his experiences as follows:

"All pioneers are misunderstood. I carefully selected an efficient motor-horn. It was a terror for its size. I clamped it on to my walking-stick, and as I walked I honked. In Holborn an old gentleman heard me honk, jumped, looked round, noticed nothing, and scowled accusingly at an innocent messenger boy on the opposite side of the street.

"My first crossing was Gray's Inn-road at Holborn Bars. There was a steady stream of traffic. I honked and walked sedately across—to the blank amazement of the policeman on traffic duty and the apologetic speechlessness of a bus driver.

STARTLED POLICEMAN
 "At the Kingsway traffic jam, I got behind the policeman as he blocked the stream of traffic. Honk, honk, honk. The policeman turned and glared at the coal-lorry behind. Got a date? he asked the unwitting driver. Then he spotted the horn. All right, sir, he grinned and, stopping the crossing traffic, waved me on. The pedestrian was two up.

"By the time I got as far as Tottenham Court Road, I had entered fully into the spirit of the thing. I was the Complete Pedestrian, the Apostle of the Rights of the Pedestrian. I honked my defiance to the world at large.

"I shook off a following trail of messenger boys by jumping on a bus that took me to Piccadilly. This is the circus where pedestrians are put through their paces and taught to 'jump to it.' That's all wrong, and as I stood and watched the traffic rushing past oblivious to my querulous honking, I fretted and fumed. I stretched out an enquiring toe and drew it back hurriedly, as a taxi flashed past in a cloud of bad language from the driver.

ALSO USED FLAG
 Something must be done. I took out a red handkerchief, tied it to my stick, honked, and waved my flag. The torrent was stemmed. The buses drew up out of sheer amazement. I waved on the crowd that was patiently waiting, and like the Israelites crossing the Red Sea, ushered my band of pilgrims across the road. I walked down Haymarket. There was a Rolls-Royce in front, cruising along with dignity and I honked impatiently. A heavy furred glove reached out and waved me on. I trotted alongside and passed on.

"Crossing Pall Mall I demanded precedence over a furniture-moving van. The driver laughed. He made derisive remarks and showed no disposition to accede to my demand. By this time the crowd was becoming uncomfortably facetious at my expense, so I caught a bus and called it a day for the tootler.

ELIZABETHS ASKED CONTRIBUTE TO COT IN EXETER HOSPITAL

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The hospital for Crippled Children which has been erected at Exeter is to be opened on November 16 by the Duchess of York, who, with the Duke of York, will visit Exeter for the purpose. In connection with their coming visit Dame Georgiana Bulmer, daughter of the late Sir Bedvers Bulmer, writes:

"It is thought that it would be a graceful act if Her Royal Highness were on that occasion asked to dedicate a Princess Cot, named after herself and her small daughter, and to accept on behalf of the hospital the £500 required for the cot's endowment. The organizers of this scheme are inviting contributions from all who may be in sympathy with its object, but especially from those who bear the name of Elizabeth or any of its derivatives, such as Betty, Elsie, Lizzie, etc.

TRINIDAD COOLIES ENTER PROFESSIONS

STRAFORD, Nov. 14.—"It is time we quit talking about race pride," said Rev. J. A. Scrimgeour, of Trinidad, the island home of asphalt, addressing a farewell gathering in his honor. "The Indians of Trinidad were outscouring and street sweepings of India, who came over as coolies. Today, these very people are members of legislatures, expert lawyers, trained medical men and men of scientific research, teachers and successful business men. Missionary teaching and preaching wrought the miracle." Mr. Scrimgeour will be in Trinidad to help celebrate the 60th anniversary of the Canadian Mission to the East Indians of Trinidad, founded by Dr. John Morton, of Nova Scotia. The festivities come next January.
