Donald Edward Fisher of Toronto is charged with being the phantom sniper who fired at five persons, wounding three of them. He has been charged with three attempted murders with seven housebreaking charges. Fisher told police that he had seen a film "The Sniper" 12 times "because that character's name was the same as mine." He was committed to the Ontario Reformatory at Whitchurch for mental treatment last April and released three months later.

Jap Oranges To Be 'Cheaper' As Huge Cargo Unloads Here

The Japanese freighter Taigen Maru bringing 92,000 boxes of Japanese oranges to Prince Rupert should reach the city shortly after dark.

While grocers here did not disclose the price to be charged for a box when the oranges go on sale late Monday or early Tuesday, the owner of one large market said they would be cheaper than last year when the initial price was $1.35 a box.

'Quake Shakes' Frisco But Little Damage Done

SAN FRANCISCO.—A rolling earthquake collapsed a house at Oceano and rocked the California coastal mountains for 500 miles from San Francisco to Los Angeles before and after midnight today.

No deaths or injuries were reported, although the San Andreas earth fault, on which nearly all of California's disastrous quakes have occurred, was convulsed for more than 45 minutes.

Ceiling Falls

Radio station KVEC at San Luis Obispo said the ceiling fell in at the Jolins home at Oceano, 15 miles south along the coast.

Charles Herrick of the University of California seismological staff said the quake was severe at its epicentre near Parkfield in the desolate mountains 120 miles south of here.

Herrick said damage "undoubtedly would have been disastrous had the epicentre been in populated country."

Herring Talks Deadlocked

VANCOUVER (CP)—The dispute between coast herring fishermen and operators remained deadlocked Friday following separate meetings of both parties.

There was no indication that further talks might get the multi-million-dollar industry under way, a spokesman said.

Chinese Fined For Smuggling

The chief cook aboard the freighter Ocean Venus, Wah Chang Loong, was fined $100 and costs by Judge W. O. Fulton in County Court here Friday after he was convicted of a charge of smuggling.

Wah was arrested by RCMP after he left the ship carrying a shopping bag which, police said, contained imitation pearl necklaces and about a dozen cigarette lighters made in Japan.

The goods were seized by police and when disposed of the proceeds will go to the Crown.

Francois Lake Home Destroyed; Nothing Saved

FRANCOIS LAKE.—Grief struck John Geisbrecht with full force this week when fire destroyed his home and his father was injured in a fall.

John and Iris Geisbrecht were living in the little log cottage at nearby Southbank which "Auntie" Svenkenson occupied for several years. They saved only the clothes they were wearing when flames enveloped their home. Cause of the fire is not known.

Earlier in the day, John's father, Henry Geisbrecht, fell on a slippery plank and broke his arm.

Food Poisoning

Victoria Women Ill Following Social Luncheon

VICTORIA (CP)—Health authorities Friday took food samples from a Victoria home for analysis after a number of prominent women became ill following a luncheon.

The luncheon was given at the home of Mrs. A. H. Cox in honor of Mrs. R. W. Mayhew, wife of the newly-appointed Canadian ambassador to Japan.

Mrs. Mayhew was one of the chief sufferers, but was reported recovering.

Mrs. Clarence Wallace, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor, also was reported ill.

KATAMANDU, Nepal (CP)—Three Nepalese have lost their lives in the Swiss bid to climb Mount Everest. One was a guide and two were porters.

News of the bid to scale the peak was still scanty today. The Swiss team was reported to have turned back within feet of the summit of the 29,002-foot mountain.

The expedition must send news out by native runners, taking several days to reach here from the mountain camp.

Extension Of Emergency Powers Sought

OTTAWA (CP)—The government plans to ask parliament for a one-year extension of broad emergency powers given to it following the outbreak of war in Korea.

This was disclosed Friday in one of 11 resolutions on the Order Paper of commons.

The Emergency Powers Act was scheduled to expire May 31, 1953. The government will ask that it be extended to May 31, 1954.

On the Order Paper also are 15 resolutions sponsored by private members.

It is unusual for government to introduce so much legislation so early in the session. The move added to speculation that the government may be preparing for an election next spring rather than in the fall of 1953.

Fire Causes $1500 Damage To City Home

Fire caused an estimated $1500 damage to the home of Mr and Mrs. Tony Klamut, 333 Eighth Avenue East, shortly before 5 p.m. last night.

Homes on either side suffered minor damage.

The fire is believed to have started near an outside oil drum and shot several feet into the air.

Mrs. Klamut rushed out of the burning home with her four-month-old baby after neighbors first informed her of the fire.

Windows in the next-door home of Russell Cameron crashed from the heat but there was little other damage.

False Security Cited by State Secretary

OTTAWA (CP)—Dean Acheson deplores what he terms "false, and at best premature, sense of security" developing in the western world.

An attempt has been made to compete with cosmic serials by producing documentary films with a fantastic theme. Take Off the Blinkers

IT IS quite safe to predict that the busiest body in town for some time to come will be the housing authority designated to administer the 50 rental homes now under construction.

Of all the matters awaiting action in Prince Rupert, none is more pressing than the housing problem. Well before the present project was started it was established that there was an urgent demand for at least 100 new houses.

To draw the fine line of distinction which will cut off all but the lucky 50 is the task immediately confronting the housing committee.

Some of the strain would be off the committee if there was another housing project of similar size and nature now underway.

The reason for delay in this connection has never been given with any clarity.

In other words, the scheme is opposed because it does not look good in principle.

Yet those same families are now occupying shacks, cellars and attics at rents just as high, and higher.

Middle of the Compass

NEWS that Prince Rupert is about to receive its first cargo direct from the Asiatic coast since the days before World War I causes one to realize that the city is in a position to enjoy fresh prosperity from all four main points of the compass.

Arrival of the Japanese ship could easily herald the opening of new business on our long-neglected western approaches.

To the north the prospects have taken more definite shape with the industrial development of Alaska.

To the east there is the bright picture of growing communities all along the line.

To the east, too, there is the possibility that one day grain will flow by rail from the Peace River country.

To the south is the vast development of Alean. So far its effect on Prince Rupert has been confined mainly to the shipment of machinery and equipment through this port.

Literally and figuratively, a place in the middle of the compass has its points.

HERE and NOW

By LARRY STANWOOD

THIS COLUMN on

Tuesday attempted to provoke some thinking by suggesting that the present eight-man city council of Prince Rupert be reduced to six aldermen to provide more democratic elections and greater efficiency in administration.

Civic elections in Prince Rupert are less than three weeks away; nomination day is less than two weeks away and there still hasn't been a move towards the city clerk's office by anyone to file nomination papers.

Two aldermen, Darrow Gomez and Ray McLean, say they will run again.

Ald. George Hills, also MLA for Prince Rupert, will abstain from running in order to devote more time to politics.

And no one outside the council even has been suggested as a likely candidate for office.

That leaves the situation in a worse plight than it was last year when four candidates gained their seats by acclamation.

Not Enough . . .

It appears that for some reason, Prince Rupert can no longer provide enough candidates for civic government.

And that leads us to an alternative provided for by a Provincial act, which is proving successful in one B.C. city and in 35 other cities in Canada.

There are many citizens in Prince Rupert highly qualified for aldermanic posts; there are but few of them who would devote some of their time in such a service to the community.

And there is, no doubt, available a man of executive ability capable of carrying out the administrations of a city manager.

Citizens . . .

According to statistics, this system is at present working very satisfactorily in 1,047 municipalities in the United States where it first started in 1908.

A city manager is an appointed executive, or administrator, who is capable of co-ordinating all departments of civic government in accordance with policies and plans approved and established by the council, an elected body.

The activities of municipal government have grown to such an extent in Prince Rupert in the last few years that more and more detail has come up before the council with the result that the overall civic organization has become knotted in tight little groups which aldermen as committee heads have endeavored to administer.

Who Care

This condition has a tendency not only to lead to confusion but also to the formation of separate and competing little governments within the council, which is not co-ordination. This is quite understandable, because policy making and the responsibility for administration can not go hand in hand.

A council-manager plan is obviously the answer in such a community as Prince Rupert. In all likelihood, four aldermen and a mayor under such a plan would be ample.

What's more, systematic co-ordination among all city departments—which is the main aim of such a system—should prove to be a major money saving device for the municipality in the resultant greater efficiency and less waste of time and labor.

A city municipal manager system, under the Municipal Manager Act of B.C. can be instituted in any municipality through by-law which must be presented to the electors on demand of a petition signed by five per cent of the municipality's tax payers.

This column, next Tuesday, will seek to clarify the duties of a municipal manager and his relation with city council.

UNDER OUR ROOF

By JOHN STURDY

It is now almost two weeks since Armistice Day and the annual Veterans' Dinner here on the Island, and they are still being flushed out of the woods—the veterans, that is.

At the last Legion roll-call it was reported that three members were still missing (two 1939-45ers and one Boer War laddie), and the president said that was a pretty good average for the Island.

Well, I wouldn't know about that, but I have been to a lot of reunions and can testify that the Veterans' Dinner on our Island, even today, is unique among such things, and I consider it something of a victory on my part to be able to hit the keys of a typewriter, even at this date.

The announcement of the dinner caused some embarrassment around the old homestead. Naturally Col. S. Skeffington-Smuts (Ret.) was a veteran, his record going back to the Ashanti Wars, or something like that, and Hamish had served in the 1914-18 war.

FELT BAD

We felt pretty badly about it. We had a meeting in the Colonel's room (I came over from the shed for the occasion) and we tried to figure out some way of not hurting Little Augie's feelings.

Well, after much discussion, we decided to tell Little Augie that we had been invited to a bridge party, which seemed an excellent excuse, because there is nothing Little Augie hates more than a game of cards unless it is the kind where you deal five to a customer and the deuces are sometimes wild.

So the night came for the Veterans' Dinner and it was around six o'clock when I ran across Little Augie in front of the house. He was dressed in his best pin-stripe suit with the hand-painted tie and the canary yellow shoes and he had a very serious look on his face.

"What is the mater, Little Augie?" I asked. "It's the Colonel," he said. "I'm disgusted. In fact, pal, I'm mortified."

DISGUSTED

"It's not what he's done. It's what he isn't going to do. Now, I can understand you and Hamish. If you didn't have the courage to enlist, or if you were physically or mentally unfit, then it is not your fault you are not a veteran.

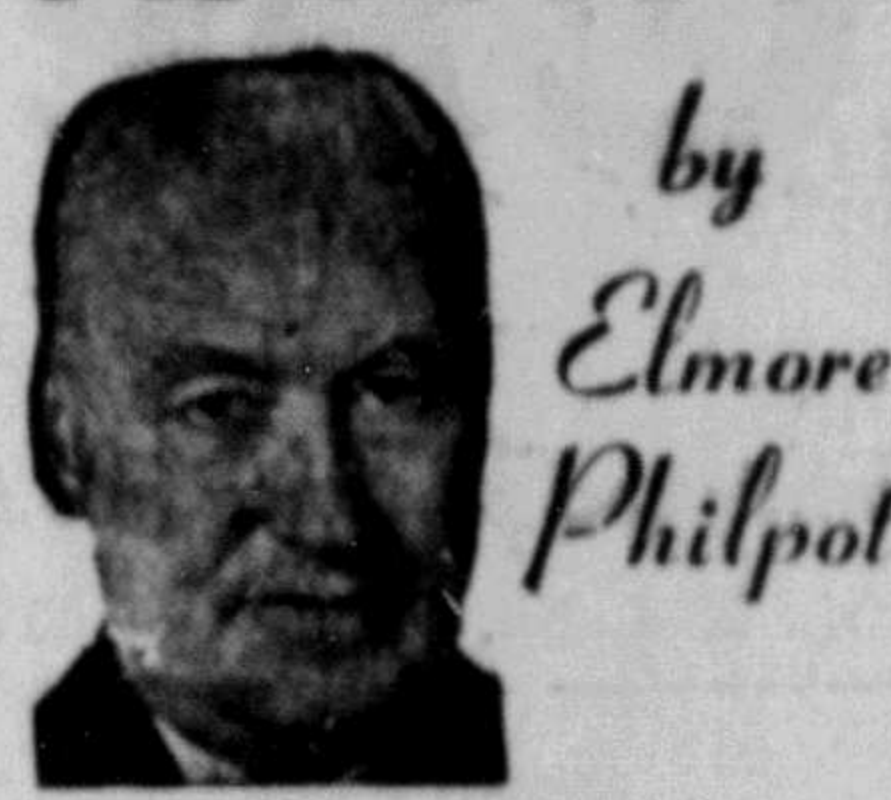

LOOKING AROUND

A casual drive or stroll will show you plenty. Here's a few: Along her scenic miles are beaches, suburbs, Table Mountain aerial cableway, golf links, seafishing, yachting, badminton, Kirstenbosch Park, parliament block, (Groote Schuur, built by Cecil Rhodes in '92), Claremont Park, the archives, the museum (anything like a full listing of what is on exhibit is impossible), and an art gallery.

RADIUM Hot Springs, B.C.—Here in the finest outdoor hot swimming pool in all the world I float on my back and look up at the Rocky Mountains.

The evergreens are covered with a thin mantle of soft white snow—like a lace veil on the dark hair of a Kashmir lady.

I am at peace with all the world, when I can keep away a bit from my friend in the pool who is feverently trying to convince me of the wonders of the garlic cure. Believe me brother I admit it is powerful stuff, for don't I have to keep to windward?

I CHUCKLE to myself to think of what a huge joke this by-election is. People up here are sure bending their elbows, but as they never did in any election of yore.

My mother was born in her father's hotel at Brampton, Ontario, and at age 87 her memory is clear. When she was a tiny girl, she says, the great Tory leader Sir John A. Macdonald used to visit the inn, and mother remembers the group singing "The Man on the Flying Trapeze" or something rollicking like that. She is still a staunch Tory, but adamant against liquor.

Sir John A. would surely be surprised if he could come back to see this by-election, for this is a battle of teacups, not hiccups. If this lasts much longer, all the political big-shots will be down with a new occupational disease, politicians' elbow, something like housemaids' knee.

THE SOCIAL Crediters know very well that they could be beaten in this by-election by the combined common-sense of the regular supporters of the Liberal, Conservative and CCF parties.

Everywhere they whisper to Liberals or Conservatives. "Oh, sure, we know very well that the Liberals could win this by-election. But if Social Credit loses, the Lieutenant-Governor would be compelled to dismiss the present government and call on Harold Winch to head a CCF government."

This, of course, is a flagrant untruth—downright nonsense. The present government of B.C. will remain the government until it resigns, or is beaten either in the Legislature on a straight vote of "no confidence."

FAR FROM

upsetting the applecart in B.C. the defeat of the Social Credit candidate by the Liberal would have the immediate effect of stabilizing politics in this province. Instead of bringing on another provincial general election, just before the federal election—with a view to using B.C. as a springboard to a federal mix-up—the chastened Social Credit ministry would be compelled to settle down to serious government.

The B.C. government would no longer be available as a cat's paw for Low and Co.

ELECTION of the Liberal would mean that the people of B.C. would be able to choose between the Liberal, Conservative, CCF and Social Credit parties to form the real government after the next province-wide election. Election of the Social Credit would clear the way for elimination of all but Social Credit and CCF.

That would be a bad thing for B.C. and would lead to a political disaster across all Canada.

A special assembly of Division One, Two and Three was held Friday afternoon at Borden Street School when A. D. Ritchie, chairman of the Prince Rupert Public Library Board presented prizes to Joanne Prockter, Leslie McLaren and Gail Davidson who were three of the winners in the Young Canada Book Week competition.

In introducing the speaker by principal J. S. Wilson tribute was paid to the work of public spirited citizens such as Mr. Ritchie who gave of their time and ability to organizations like the public library. The city was lucky to have such unselfish individuals.

Before making the presentations, Mr. Ritchie told of the priceless possessions readers of good books had. They far outweighed the discovery of gold. Like many other things in life the invaluable benefits of books could not be handled but they were very real and lasting.

Mr. Ritchie congratulated the school on winning three of the six prizes awarded to the schools of the city.

The children expressed their pleasure at Mr. Ritchie's visit and address with hearty applause and then sang the school song with enthusiasm. Joanne Prockter is in division one, Mr. Wilson's room, while Leslie McLaren and Gail Davidson are in Division Three, Mrs. Cobb's room.

Use of Oven Helps Out Fuel Costs

By KAY REX

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Efficient use of the oven saves time and energy and helps to cut down on fuel bills, says the Women's Institutes branch of the Ontario agriculture department.

Elaine Pound, home economist of the branch, suggests the following oven meal as an ideal fare on chilly autumn evenings.

"An hour before the meal, grease enough scrubbed potatoes for the family and bake in an oven set at 425 degrees Fahrenheit," says Miss Pound. "For dessert, prepare a whole wheat pastry shell and bake at the same time."

Meat patties may be baked in a greased casserole in the oven at about 350 degrees. Once the ingredients are mixed, the patties may be placed in the oven and left for 45 minutes.

The vegetable is a casserole of baked, grated carrots. These are prepared and put in a greased casserole. Seasoning is added along with two tablespoons of water. The casserole is covered, and the whole baked at 350 degrees with meat and potatoes.

All foods may be served in their baking-dishes. Pie-filling is put in the baked pastry-shell and topped with meringue. The whole is put in to bake 15 minutes before the other dishes are removed.

We don't want to rush the season, but home economists of the consumer section, Canadian agriculture department, offer hints about preparing turkeys which you might like to set aside for further study just before Christmas.

The experts say it's best to allow three quarters to one pound, undrawn weight, for each serving.

Preparation: Clean bird thoroughly. Wipe inside and out with a clean cloth or wash in running water. Do not allow it to soak.

Rub the inside of the bird with salt and then fill loosely with dressing. Close the opening and truss—that means tie wings and legs close to body to make the bird more compact.

The turkey may be roasted breast down on a rack or crossed skewers in an uncovered pan, turned on its back the last hour of cooking for even browning. If the turkey is large and difficult to turn, you can roast it breast side up.

Place a piece of cheesecloth dipped in melted fat on top of the bird during roasting. This keeps it moist. No water should be added. Roast turkey in an oven of 300 degrees Fahrenheit, allowing 20 to 25 minutes for each pound, undrawn weight.

Women of Canada Equip 'Dream Kitchen' In Blue and Rose For Lady Alexander

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON — Duck-egg blue and deep rose red are the colors chosen by Countess Alexander for her new "dream kitchen," to be equipped as a gift from the women of Canada.

The Canadian equipment, worth an estimated $9,000, is expected to be installed within the next few weeks in the Alexanders' new country home, a red-brick, gabled house on the borders of Surrey and Berkshire.

When finally remodelled, the kitchen will include such up-to-date devices as an automatic dishwasher, food mixer and deep freeze, items as scarce as steaks in Britain.

Until the equipment arrives, Lady Alexander's plans for installation are tentative. But one thing is definite, the kitchen will include a breakfast nook, which has high-backed, leather-covered benches set before tall French windows overlooking the garden.

The slim, dark-haired Countess, who will be one of the Peeresses present in Westminster Abbey at next year's coronation ceremony, discussed the dream kitchen in an interview at her apartment in London's Belgravia district.

Set in five acres of ground surrounded by the pleasant woods and parkland that are part of Windsor's Royal estate, the property comprises four downstairs sitting rooms, including a study for Lord Alexander, and a radio room where 12-year-old Brian and 17-year-old Shane (Baron Rideau), can entertain friends when on leave from Harrow.

Surveying the nine months that have elapsed since she and her husband, Field Marshal Earl Alexander, left Canada to return to Britain, Lady Alexander said that they still talk constantly of the country where they spent six happy post-war years.

"We will be homesick for Canada for a long time yet," she said. "Our friends must be rather bored by all our talk about it, but after all in six years one puts down deep roots."

The Alexanders' new country home, called Beech Missing, was built in what Lady Alexander calls "the Victorian horror period" but it has many things to compensate for its out-of-date plumbing and a central heating system that does not cover upstairs rooms.

By the REV. JOHN S. TWINING
Rector of St. Peter's Anglican Church
St. Luke 2:49 (b) — "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's Business?"

Mary and Joseph went each year from their home of Nazareth to Jerusalem to attend the Jewish feast of the Passover which commemorated the deliverance of the Israelites from bondage in Egypt. When Jesus was twelve years old He accompanied them to this Passover feast.

The Passover was one of the great feasts of the Jewish people. The others were Pentecost and the Feast of Tabernacles. Verse 16 of chapter 16 of the Gospels says: "Three times in a year shall all males appear before the Lord thy God in the place which shall choose; in the feast of unleavened bread, and in the feast of weeks, and in the feast of tabernacles; and they shall appear before the Lord thy God."

for the Feast of the Passover. At twelve years of age the young Jew was bound to fulfill the requirements of the Jewish Law. Dr. A. J. Grieve says, "Like Samuel's parents, those of Jesus go to the central shrine once instead of three times a year. The Passover feast lasted seven days. When this festival was over, Jesus remained behind unknown to His Mother and Joseph who left Jerusalem to return to Nazareth.

"And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and His Mother knew not of it. But they supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought Him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances." (St. Luke 2:43, 44). Not being able to find Jesus, Mary and Joseph returned to Jerusalem to seek Him. How anxious and worried they must have been! After a three days' search they eventually did find Him in the Temple. "Joining intelligently in the discussions of the scribes," who were astonished at His wisdom. How happy Mary and Joseph must have been when they finally found Jesus!

Mary asked Him, "Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us? Behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing." Jesus' reply was, "How is it that ye sought me? Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" Apparently Jesus was now conscious of God as His Father.

Bishop Charles Gore says, "The reply of the youthful Jesus to His Mother is of special value, because it indicates already a sense that God only was His Father in such sense as made Him even in childhood independent in a measure of His parents and of other outside influences." "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" Are we about our Father's business? What place has God in our lives?

Many of us are so busy with the things of this world that there is no time left for prayer, worship, quiet meditation, and the reading of the Scriptures. Our lives will be greatly enriched if we will only let God have an opportunity to come into them.

"Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" There is much work to be done for God. There is suffering, hunger, want, and need in the world. There are those who long for the peace which the love of God can give them. The good news about God needs to be proclaimed. Yes, indeed, there is much work to be done for God!

Are we about our Father's business? Are we serving God, or are we serving ourselves? May our lives be wholly consecrated to the service of Almighty God.

RELIGIOUS FILM

A new type of religious film will be shown at the First Baptist Church Sunday and Monday evening. It is a color-production, 70-minute feature illustrating how a young girl accepts religion and a "new-born" way of life.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH "GREAT DISCOVERY"

Shown

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p.m. and MONDAY, Nov. 24, at 8 p.m.

This FILM tells the story of spiritual rebirth in these modern days, as it actually happens. Colleen Townsend (in real life a recent convert from moviedom) enacts the role of an attractive teen-ager, who, unconscious of her spiritual poverty, enters a Christian College, mainly to be close to a young chap who has missionary ideas and ambitions. The contrast and conflicts between the worldly and Christian viewpoints are all brought out, and the crisis through which she passes are well portrayed.

Churches To Discuss Varied Topics

LONDON, Ont.—The Canadian Council of Churches, meeting here, will consider a request from the World Council of Churches to continue its work in receiving and placing refugees from Europe.

The Canadian Council has already received 406 displaced persons and placed them with Church families.

Establishment of a committee on Christian Stewardship will also take place. Previously Canadian Churches have participated in the United Stewardship Council of the United States. That work has now become a part of the National Council of Churches in the United States.

The Canadian Council of Churches will also set up a department of overseas missions. Previously the missionary departments of various Churches have co-operated with the Canadian Overseas Missions Council, which is now being abandoned.

The department of Christian education reported that in the past year 1131 church vacation schools with 5400 leaders and 77,507 children were held.

A survey of religious education in the schools of Canada will come before the delegates to the Canadian Council for discussion.

More extensive evangelistic programs in the churches of Canada will be discussed by the delegates. The use of radio in promoting evangelistic programs will be discussed.

Rev. Dr. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the United Church of Canada, will present a report from the World Council of Churches.

Rev. Dr. W. J. Gallagher is general secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches. President is the Very Rev. Dr. William Barclay.

Survey Shows Majority Believe Non-Testifiers Are Communists

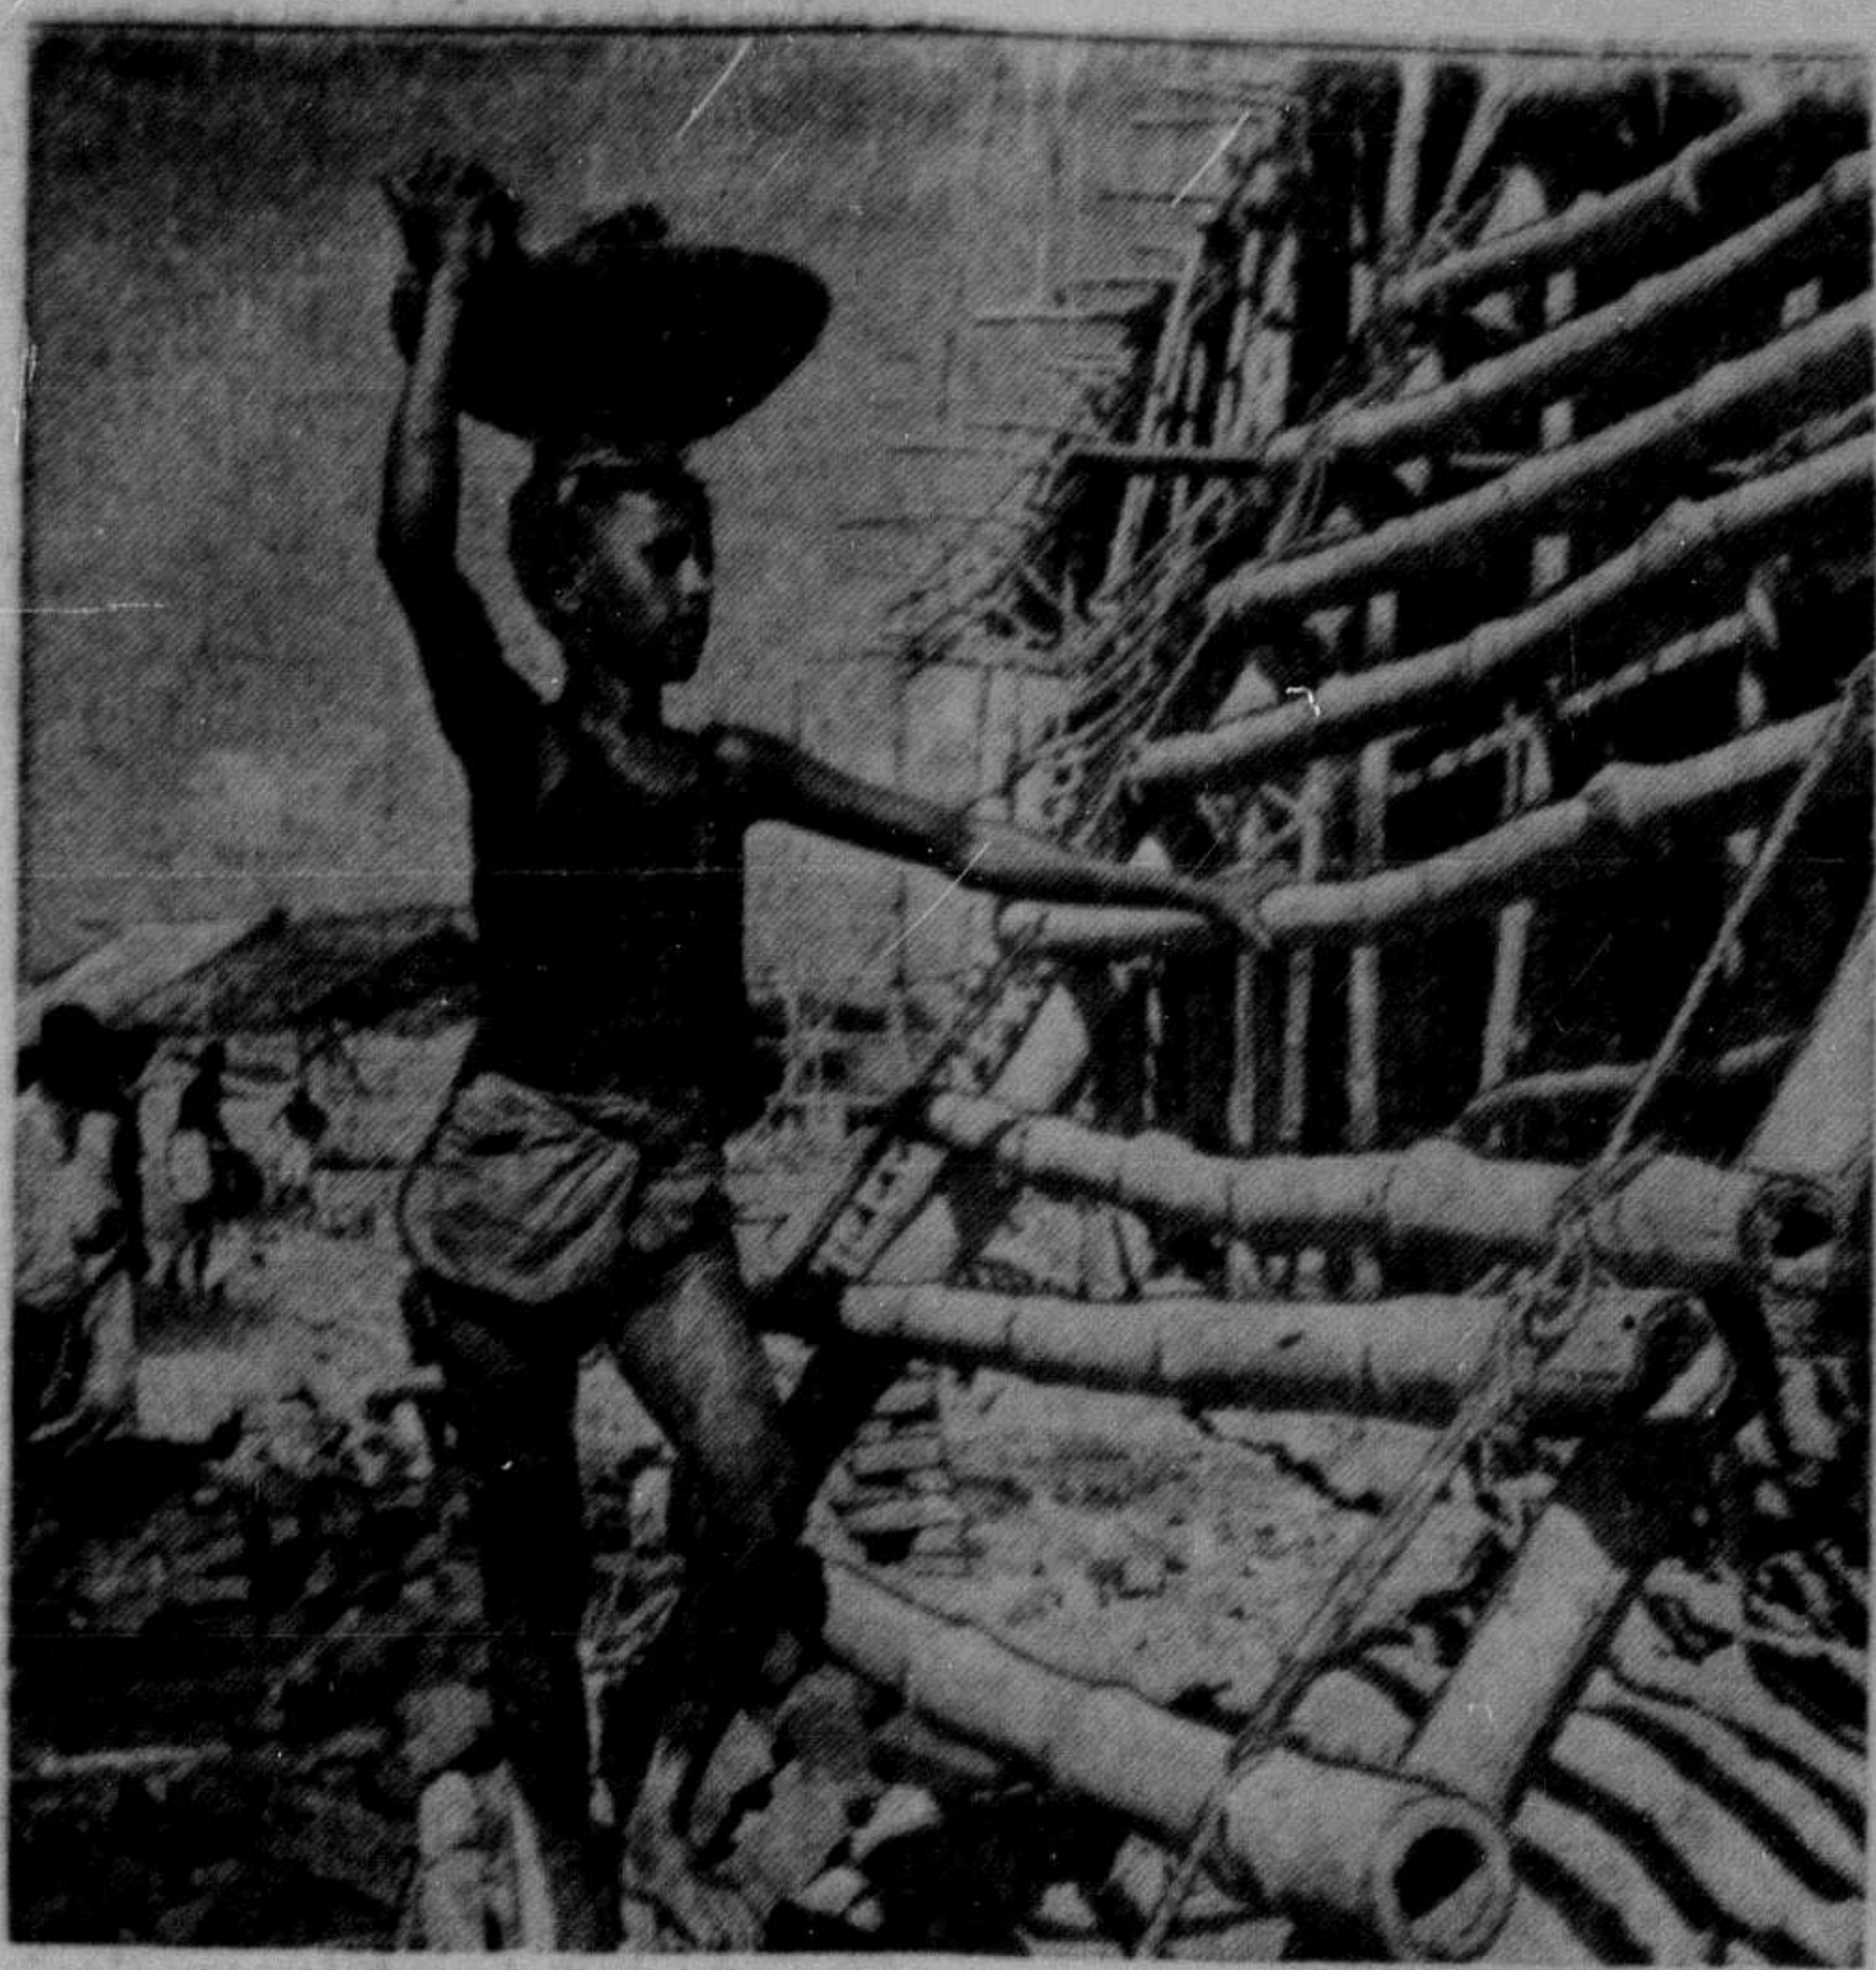

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A psychologist conducted a poll and found that two-thirds of the persons he interviewed believe a man is or has been a Communist when he declines to testify on that score.

Dr. Floyd L. Rush, professor of applied psychology at the University of Southern California, expressed that conclusion in the trial of contract suits involving RKO studio and screen writer Paul Jarrico. Jarrico was fired in 1951 by Howard Hughes, then owner of RKO, because he refused to tell a U.S. congressional committee whether he was or had been a Communist.

Dr. Rush testified that he conducted a poll for RKO in Munich, Ind., interviewed 531 persons and learned that 68.7 per cent believed persons declining to testify about Communist party membership really do belong, and that 30.3 per cent voted no, with one per cent undecided.

Dr. Rush said he and his staff also asked those interviewed if they would hold any ill will toward those refusing to answer the "communism" question. The answers were 61.4 per cent yes, 37.1 per cent no.

RKO seeks a court decree that it had the right to deny Jarrico screen credit after firing him. Jarrico's counter-suit asks for $350,000 on the ground his contract entitled him to such credit.

CHILD LABOR—Until living standards can be improved, millions of Asian children, like the youngster pictured, must work. Meanwhile, the International Labor Organization (I.L.O.), a U.N. specialized agency, seeks to eliminate harmful practices through international action. At present, young people are sometimes sold for their services or given over to contractors on a long-term indenture. Asian countries will soon meet under I.L.O. auspices to discuss measures to abolish such procedures and improve employment conditions for young workers.

First Woman Graduates from Singular Aviation Law Course

By CHRISTINE SIROIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL.—Janine de Lubac, 26-year-old French girl, will have the honor of being the first woman to graduate from the Institute of International Aviation Law at McGill University.

It is the only course of its kind in the world and Mile. de Lubac is the only girl to enrol since its establishment two years ago.

Already a graduate in law at the University of Lyon in France, she plans to complete her two-year course at McGill in a single year. Then she will write her thesis and return to France to receive, in absentia, her master's degree.

Mile. de Lubac worked for three years for the French civil aviation general secretariat. Through it she obtained a Rockefeller Foundation scholarship to attend McGill.

The institute was founded by an American, John Cobb Cooper, a former vice-president of Pan-American Airways and a director of many civil aviation organizations.

Janine de Lubac was born near Bordeaux. She was only 20 years old when she received her law degree at the University of Lyon.

GIRLS STUDY LAW

It is no novelty for French girls to study law, she said. The best secretaries and those who want to get the best positions are law graduates. The law course in France embraces more cultural subjects than the law course here and includes such studies as history, political economy and economics.

Mile. de Lubac was asked about the way her male classmates received the lone girl student in the course.

"There was surprise at first and even the dean of the faculty wondered what in the world I was doing there. But everyone immediately became very nice to me. Now the presence of someone in the classroom in skirts instead of trousers is simply taken for granted."

Story About Skating Girl Appeals to Contest Winner

(This is another in a group of prize-winning book reviews written for the contest sponsored by the Prince Rupert Public Library Association in connection with Young Canada Book Week. The following review was written by Joanne Procter, grade 6 pupil of Borden Street School.)

The Bells on Finland Street, by Lyn Cook, is a story about a little Finnish girl named Elin Laukka who lived in Sudbury, Ontario.

Elin's family were not very well off. She had a friend named Anna who took figure skating lessons. One day she took Elin with her. Elin loved figure skating and made up her mind to work and earn the money for lessons. She worked all summer in a store and put her earnings in the bank.

Her father had an accident in the mine and was ill for a month. Coming home one day she found her mother crying because there was no money left in the pickle jar. Elin took her money out of the bank and gave it to her mother and gave up all hope of taking figure skating lessons.

One day her parents received a letter from her grandfather in Finland to say he was coming for a visit to Canada. Elin loved him and took him out for walks. He told her all about Finland and how he was a famous figure skater.

On Christmas morning her grandfather gave her a pair of figure skates which was what she wanted most in all the world.

Grandfather took her to the lake every day for lessons and she became a very good figure skater.

Mr. Crane, the skating teacher, let her be in the skating carnival representing Finland. She did very well and grandfather said:

"Remember, little one, some day you skate for Canada."

I enjoyed this book because I like to read about skating and I liked Elin because she was unselfish and gave her lesson money to her parents when they were in trouble and so kept the bells of happiness ringing on Finland Street.

Rehearsals by Little Theatre are in full swing for the play "Ask Me No Questions" which will be presented at the Civic Centre Dec. 1 and 2.

Shy, but purposeful hero Keith Faught is back on the job after his stay in hospital. The impossible predicaments in which the hero finds himself are made even more hilarious by his naive fiancée, played by Nina Youngman who takes the part of a temperamental southern belle.

The fiancée turns into a rage when she finds her hero in the arms of a scheming rival, a part played by Phyllis Tomlinson. Then there is the sneering, sarcastic housekeeper, played by Diane Kennedy, and Maresa Winkle is cast as a seductive siren. Alice MacNeil's antics as a deaf-mute are sure to provide a howl of laughter.

Mixed 5-Pinners Divided for League Play

Teams in the mixed five-pin bowling league have been split into two "leagues" following 11 weeks of pin-crashing to set individual and team handicaps.

Under the league rules, the top 12 teams at the end of the first 11 weeks form "A" League and the remaining 12 are in "B" League. Each section will now play for 22 weeks before deciding the championship.

Individual averages made since play began will count and team averages established over the 11-week period also will change weekly, but the first 33 games will not count in deciding the winners.

Individual averages will be taken for the whole 99 games of the season, and all high marks will be carried into the "league play" to determine winners at the end of the season.

At the end of 22 weeks of play—beginning next Thursday—playoffs will be held in each "league" with the winners playing off for the grand championship. Winners each night will be determined by the point system—one point for a win and one for the best three-game total.

In this week's games, Art Hewitt had high single in Group 2 with 304, and Steve Dziapka rolled high three of 767. Shenton's had top game of 1271 and Fashion Footwear, with 3687, scored high three.

League secretary Bertha Dunbar led the ladies with high single of 385 and also had high three of 736.

Rusty Ford topped men in Group 2 with a 281 game, and George Goodwin had high three of 689. Jessie Collins had high single for ladies of 245 and Sophia Giske scored high three of 612.

The Daily News sextet, which moves into "B" League next week, set a new mark, rolling more than 1,100 in each match to rack up a three-game total of 3412.

In forming the league, three teams—Daily News, Hi-Jackers and Acme Clothiers—moved from Group 1 to "B" League, and Jersey Farms, Hill's Shoe Store and Northern Glass were transferred into "B" League from Group 2.

Here are this week's results:
Group 1—Bulgars 4, Booth 0; Daily News 4, Hi-Jackers 0; Penguin Hobby 3, Acme Clothiers 1; Orphans 3, Harold's 1; Miller

Bay 3, Jerry's 1; Thom Sheet Metal 3, Conrad 1.

Group 2—Shenton's 4, Jersey Farms 0; Woodbutchers 4, Head-pinners 0; Pushovers 4, Broadway Cafe 0; 99 Taxi 3, Canada Life 1; Fashion Footwear 3, Cook's Jewellers 1; Northern Glass 2, Hill's Shoe Store 2.

Following is the schedule for next Thursday:

"A" League—Cook's Jewellers vs. Canada Life; Penguin Hobby vs. Broadway Cafe; Orphans vs. Ocean View Hotel; Fashion Footwear vs. Pushovers; 99 Taxi vs. Miller Bly; Shenton's vs. Headpinners.

"B" League—Harold's vs. Daily News; Jersey Farms vs. Jerry's; Thom Sheet Metal vs. Bulger's; Northern Glass vs. Hi-Jackers; Conrad Street School vs. Hill's Shoe Store; Acme Clothiers vs. Booth School.

Second Place Hoop Battle Set Tonight

Two unproven senior "B" league hoop teams tonight battle for supremacy and second place when Helge Holkestad's CCC pulp millers and Don Hartwig's Mansons face each other in the Civic Centre at 8:30.

Both teams have taken decided defeats at the hands of top place Gordon & Anderson coached by veteran Alex Bill and sparked by high-scoring Joe Davis and Jim Flaten, and play-making Rufe Holkestad.

Mansons, last year league champions, showed little of the spark in the opening game last Saturday with which they came from behind to down Elks in the playoffs last year. But a single game means little, says Hartwig, playing coach who has learned some new hoopia tricks during his U of Washington sojourn.

Hartwig, who teaches at Booth High, fully expects Ray Spring, 1951-52 most valuable player award winner, Mickey Webster and Art Olson to produce tonight.

As for the millers, who have gained such standouts as Don and Sid Scherk and Tiny Carlson in this season's shuffle, behind their captain Mel Thompson will try to overturn the opposition to be in line as league-leader contenders next week, says Helge Holkestad. As their coach, he has reappeared in the hoop circuit after several years' absence.

In Inter "A" competition, Mansons and North Star also battle for second position, each having been downed by the all-school Fraser & Payne squad coached by Hartwig. Game time here is 7:30.

"A" League—Cook's Jewellers vs. Canada Life; Penguin Hobby vs. Broadway Cafe; Orphans vs. Ocean View Hotel; Fashion Footwear vs. Pushovers; 99 Taxi vs. Miller Bly; Shenton's vs. Headpinners.
