BRITISH LABOR THREATENS TO DIET

HUGE CARGO OF BRITISH GUIANA RUM SAID OFF COAST

British Labor Is Strenuously Opposing Government Proposal to Curb Their Trade Unions

Will give up using beer, tobacco and tea in order to injure administration through revenue

LONDON, May 5.—Labor is putting up a strenuous fight against the trade union bill introduced by the government, the second of which is now under consideration in the House of Commons. Premier Baldwin was called a "liar" during the debate and Beckett, who refused to retract, was suspended for five days as the speaker. A storm of Laborite jeers halted the Premier's speech.

Baldwin made claims that the extreme section of labor controlled the whole party. The Laborites were angry over the statement and it was then that Beckett called Baldwin a liar. Later the Prime Minister asked to be allowed to state that it was the unions he had in mind. He blamed the Miners' Federation and claimed that the government had mandated for the proposed curb on the unions at the last general strike.

LONDON, May 5.—The Laborites propose going on a "no beer diet" and a "tobacco and tea fast" for six months in order to punish the government through curtailing their revenue as a retaliation to the trade union curb proposal.

ONE PER CENT ON CANADIAN MONEY

A local broker, receiving a United States $20 bill in payment for rent yesterday, presented it at one of the local banks this morning to be doctored a discount of one per cent. The Exchange rates are quite the reverse of what they were only a few years ago when United States money was paid a premium. It suggests the necessity of local business men demanding their own country's money.

BIG LEAGUE RACE CLOSE

THREE TEAMS BATTLING FOR NATIONAL LEADERSHIP AND TWO FOR AMERICAN

NEW YORK, May 5.—A three cornered battle for the lead in one league and a duel for the top in the other provides the fans with plenty of baseball drama today.

At Pittsburgh, the Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals are battling in a white hot series for National League leadership and matters have been complicated by the Giants, as a result of yesterday's games, crowding into second place with the Cardinals on top and the Pirates third on the standing sheet.

In the American League, things were tied up between the New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Athletics, when the former lost to the Mackmen won.

Yesterday's scores were as follows:

Brooklyn 3, New York 4.
Boston-Philadelphia, postponed.
St. Louis 8, Pittsburgh 3.

United States Asked to Remove Unfortunate Impression of the Mellon Statement But Will Not

LONDON, May 5.—In its note to the United States sent yesterday, the British government expresses the trust that the United States government will take steps to remove the unfortunate impression created by the Mellon statement.

The British note specifically declared that in no circumstances will Britain receive from reparations and inter-allied debts together more than she pays the United States and that it was not the desire of Great Britain to retain anything out of the receipts from reparations and inter-allied debts for the country. The note also cited what it regarded as inaccuracies in the Mellon statement.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Replying to the British note challenging the accuracy of recent statements of Secretary Mellon in which he said that Britain's debt payments to the United States do not constitute a drain on the British economic resources, the state department yesterday advised the British government that it did not desire to engage in formal diplomatic exchanges in a purely domestic discussion which the Mellon statement involved.

New breaks have occurred at Vicksburg and Natchez swelling the number of refugees to a present total of a quarter of a million. The state of Louisiana now has 15,000 miles in all under water and the area is increasing.

Liquor Vessel Supposed on Coast with a Cargo of British Guiana Rum

SEATTLE PAPER STATES PLAN IS TO DELUGE COAST WITH PRODUCT FROM FREIGHTER

SEATTLE, May 5.—The arrival in British Columbia waters of the first consignment of British Guiana rum with which a recently formed Seattle syndicate is planning to deluge the Pacific coast market is rumored in local liquor circles, says the Post Intelligencer of this city. The initial consignment is said to consist of upwards of 15,000 fifty-gallon barrels of 140 proof product. This forms the cargo of a steam freighter believed to be lying in a secluded spot along the coast for the purpose of transferring its load to smaller vessels.

None of the four Seattle men known to be interested in the venture could be reached for confirmation of the report and it was supposed they left Seattle to take charge of unloading operations.

ISLAND HIGHWAY WORK

Yesterday Hon. T. D. Pattullo announced that the work on the highway across Kaien Island as a part of the road to Terrace would proceed and be pushed to completion if possible this year. That is what we expected but it is good news all the same. We need just that assurance to keep us from feeling that perhaps there might have been a slipup and the money for the work might not be forthcoming. Those who expected to get steady employment on the road will be assured that the job will be there.

Times are bad when you have to make the old car do another year.

MINING CAMPS EXPECT TO BE BUSY

The mining camps of northern and central British Columbia expect to be busy this year. Yesterday mention was made of the prospects at Alice Arm and we have at various times told of the mining going on or expected to go on at other places. Not only will the improvement be on Portland Canal Island but in almost every camp in the district. At Smithers the Duthie mine success is enticing others to emulate their example. The Topley find has given a stimulus to prospecting throughout the whole interior and it will probably be found at the end of the season that more men have been employed, more money invested, and more actual work done than in any previous year.

Since the labor unions have bossed the situation, their members have forgotten to use that antiquated expression, "wage slave."

FINE WEATHER CAUSES ACTIVITY

The fine weather of the past few days has improved business for the city merchants. People have been taking more interest in wearing apparel and in other things that make up civilized life. Money is being spent more freely and people are feeling better and more hopeful. As a matter of fact there is every reason for hopefulness in this district. We have a much better outlook than any other city of its size on the continent, and that is saying a good deal. But we are not children. We should not need stimulus of this kind. We are all aware that Prince Rupert is making steady progress and will likely find progress much more rapid in the future than it has been in past.

There used to be people who suffered from empty stomachs but today most of the suffering is from filling the stomach too often.

CHINA HAS NATURAL PAINS

China is awakening and has the pains which go naturally with the renewing of activity after a long slumber. Elsewhere Dr. Endicott tells of the improvement he saw in the country. A new ambition is taking hold there and in a few years it is to be hoped she will settle down and commence to build instead of tear down. An awakening was needed in China but it was a long time coming. Like the Japanese did a few years ago, they will soon be seized with new life, new aims and a new outlook. What seems to us like confusion is probably a most regular and proper disturbance of the cosmic consciousness finding vent in action.

A good executive never seems to be missed when he is away.

Dr. Endicott Tells of Chinese Problems but Sees a Bright Future Ahead for the Country

Pirates are Danger, and Labor Union Controls, but Still Improvements are Under way Everywhere in South

That in spite of the fact that pirates abound, disturbance is rife and labor unions control, China has a bright future according to Rev. Dr. Endicott, moderator of the United Church of Canada, who has been visiting Canton. "The faith of the Chinese people in their future is vastly more in evidence than twenty years ago," he says, pointing out that he has not once been insulted on this visit. He says:

My stay in South China has been most crowded and interesting in the midst of Cantonese Nationalistic and other influences. I have lived in an utterly impossible, topsy-turvy, Arabian Nights kind of a world during the whole time.

Coming to Hong Kong, I found the magnificent harbor dotted and dominated by the dark grey cruisers of the British Navy. A large hospital ship also out, marked by the Red Cross, and that modern monstrosity of the sea, a flying machine carrier, more like a warehouse than a ship, also caught the eye.

Met by Dr. MacDonald, of the Canadian Mission of the United Church, we left the same evening for Kongmoon. The little boat on which we sailed had had a history which admirably illustrates some aspects of latter-day Chinese life. Her name, up to a few years ago, was, "Tai On" or "Great Peace," and, naturally, passengers embarked on her with a deep sense of security and comfort. There came an evil hour when this good ship came into collision with a characteristic and ominous South China institution, the noble order of pirates.

PIRACY RIFE

Within fifty miles of Hongkong and with British officers in control of her, the "Great Peace" was boarded by armed pirates and a fierce conflict ensued.

The pirates failed to capture the bridge of the ship, but in revenge they set her on fire and she was burnt to the water's edge. The chief officers and others in charge were killed and some two hundred passengers perished. She was finally rebuilt above the water line and, of course, given a new name. She is now the "New South Sea."

All this encouraging and stimulating information was given me by the good doctor as we were getting settled in our wee cabins for the night journey. Moreover, I had visible proof that unwelcome visitors to the ship were feared.

Steel plates and doors guarded the navigating bridge. Heavy wire screens protected the passenger decks and prevented any easy boarding of these sections. Iron doors which could be quickly closed abounded, and all through the night the armed guards kept marching past our cabin door, ready for emergencies.

PRIVATE HEADQUARTERS

We felt that on the whole it was just as well that the ship should drop her old name of "Great Peace." During the night, because of a heavy fog, we were compelled to anchor for a few hours, and sleep was not induced by the knowledge that we were anchored exactly opposite one of the well-known and most infamous headquarters of pirates in all South China.

Every day we spent multiplied the evidence that the pirate organizations are of the most powerful and ruthless character. No shipping is safe even in broad daylight unless protected by gunboats. For a few hours only on our journeys to the cities and stations we were escorted by a British gunboat, but most of the time by a Chinese junk mounted with cannon and towed by a launch.

All the protection secured by the Chinese boats and shipping firms was privately arranged, the Cantonese government being too busily engaged in other business to furnish protection.

TOWERS GUARD VILLAGES

But not alone on the waterways was there found proof of the dread of pirates, but every village gave similar proof. The blacksmiths are doing a thriving business making iron doors and shutters for shops and private houses. The whole countryside is dotted with new and strong watch towers and guard houses. We saw as many as eight of these in a single village.

Taking this phase of things only into view, one can readily see how easy it is for a really well-disciplined pessimist to find abundant proof that things are going from bad to worse and that a fearful doom is impending. Even an innocent and well-meaning optimist will admit that in matters affecting trade and public safety there is great room for improvement.

UNION IN COMMAND

While we were still on board the "New South Sea"—"Great Peace"—we also came sharply up against the amazing might of the new Labor organization of South China. The captain, a British officer, although the ship is Cantonese-owned, told us with deep chagrin that the representatives of the labor union had visited his ship the week before and dismissed every Chinese employe on board, from bottle washer to chief steward, and had put in a complete new staff of their own selection.

He declared that they were doing this on every Chinese-owned ship sailing out of Canton and Hongkong and throughout this entire area, and that a large proportion of the new men put on board were entirely ignorant of the work to be done and, however incapable or insubordinate they might be, not one of them could be dismissed without the consent of the union. Ship discipline as understood by us is at an end.

GOVERNMENT PREOCCUPIED

There seems to be no possibility of denying that the whole country is in the tight grip of a compact labor union of the kind favored in Moscow and, moreover, for the present at least, the Cantonese government is so dependent both upon Russia and upon their own labor union for support that it cannot act freely, even if it would.

One might go on in this strain almost indefinitely and make out a very dark picture indeed. Perhaps there is no more astonishing evidence of the spirit and power of the labor union of South China than is shown in their treatment of medical missionary work. One can understand, even if he cannot admire, their attitude to Christian propaganda, but their attitude to the hospitals passes comprehension.

STARVED PATIENTS OUT

I spent a night in Canton in one of the most famous hospitals in all Asia, the very first Christian hospital to be opened in China. It has had a magnificent history of nearly a century and has been the means of doing untold good to generations of suffering folk. It has been closed for a year by order of the labor union, which demanded that they should have complete control of the staff and nurses, assistants and servants. Until all the patients were finally got out of the building, the place was surrounded by pickets and no food was permitted to enter, even for those patients who were too ill to be moved. Instances of a like character abound.

Is there, then, no silver lining to this dark cloud? Verily there is! I have had the privilege of conversing with a number of very intelligent Chinese, old and young, during the past week or two, and while none of them deny the dark side of things, I have yet to meet a single Chinese who does not deeply believe that China is in a healthier condition fundamentally today than she has been for a hundred years or more.

The faith of the Chinese people in their future is unshaken and is vastly more in evidence than when I lived in China twenty years and more ago.

One has heard so much in recent years of anti-foreign and anti-British feeling in China, and notably in South China, and, doubtless, it exists, but during the week I have travelled in native junks and on dirty overcrowded trains (third class at that), have gone up and down for an hour and more at a time and in different cities and towns, through narrow, crowded Chinese streets, and have seen nothing and heard nothing to make me think that our presence among them was resented.

When I think of the sort of reception we used to get sometimes in West China thirty years ago, the attitude of the people of South China at the present time seems quite friendly.

Even in the closed hospital at Canton we heard a re-assuring note sounded. We were generously entertained by Dr. and Mrs. Old of the hospital, and they both declared with emphasis that, although the hospital was closed, their usefulness was not ended. The doctor insisted that the past year had probably been his most useful year in China, because, having been freed from the heavy routine work in the wards, he had been able to devote himself to very pressing needs in the way of preventive and public health work. In these activities the Chinese leading people welcomed his co-operation.

Yes, China is an enigma. She is carrying burdens and ices enough to swamp a nation, one would think, but she is getting ready for a better day, notwithstanding.

While all this disturbance is proceeding, and while business is being crushed with taxation and the pressure of labor organizations, great structural changes are being effected in the life of the people.

TRANSFORMATION

It is simply astonishing to an old resident to see the way, for example, the Chinese down here are transforming their sleepy old cities. Relentlessly, and without compensation to owners of property, they are widening their city streets, tearing down buildings by the hundred in order to provide more and more spacious river bays, removing the ancient city walls, putting down modern paving, installing electric lights and changing the total appearance of every city we visited.

The Chinese people obviously and almost fiercely believe in the future of their country and they are getting ready for it. They are suffering more from the evils which exist than are the foreigners living among them; but they give no evidence that we have found, that they are heading for final defeat. They are marching to the dawn of a better day.

MUST HAVE TAG ON EVERY AIRPLANE IN THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 5.—Aeroplane from now on must carry license tags similar to those on automobiles. In line with recent legislation by Congress the commerce department has issued regulations governing markings for aerial traffic.

The letter "C" in front of the license number, will signify a commercial plane, the letter "S," a plane belonging to a state, the letter "X," an experimental plane and a straight number, a private plane.

Air pilots will be divided into four classifications, ranging from the grade of private certificate to the highest distinction of "transport pilot," a term applied to the driver of a big machine for long distance carriage of goods and people. Besides there is a commercial pilot grade, and a "limited commercial pilot" grade, the latter permit going to a pilot competent to take up passengers for short trips around an air field.

COSTLY PRISONERS ARE TAKEN AT EDMONTON

All Have to be Fed and Police Department Does Not Like the Cost

EDMONTON, May 5.—The police of this city are faced with a problem that bids fair to wreck the finances of the department. The trouble started over the eviction of a local family for non-payment of their rent. Sheriffs armed with seizure papers found the tenants had departed, but also found nine large dogs that the tenants had left. There were eight Danes and a St. Bernard.

The sheriff and his party were non-plussed. Reinforcements were summoned and the pound wagon called. The huge size of the dogs made several trips necessary to the pound enclosure. Then came the problem of feeding the dogs, and the sheriff discovered the dogs were very hungry, and there were no supplies on hand. The chief of police was called on.

"Buy 'em biscuits," said the chief. "How much," came the answer. "All they want" responded the chief. Fifty pounds were bought. A few minutes later the chief was again called to the rescue. "They're still hungry," appealed the sheriff. "O.K. with me," responded the chief, "keep feeling them." But 30 pounds of dog biscuits appeared to be but an hors d'oeuvre to the dogs.

Now the chief is wondering where he'll come out, for the dogs must be fed, or the owners can sue the city.

Its Richness Means Economy

IT is the double-richness of Carnation Milk which makes it so economical. So rich that it can be used in place of cream at one-third cream cost. So rich that it can be greatly diluted when used in cooking and for other milk uses. Carnation is the most completely useful milk you can buy.

And it has the additional economy of keeping. None is wasted. It keeps several days after opening— indefinitely in the tin.

Carnation is just pure, fresh milk evaporated to double richness, kept safe by sterilization. Order from your grocer several tins or a case of 48 tins.

Send for a free copy of Mary Blake's Cook Book. Address Carnation Milk Products Company, Limited, Aylmer, Ont.

CARNATION CAMEL CUSTARD—Two cups Carnation Milk diluted with 2 cups hot water, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 5 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Caramelize sugar and add to scalded, diluted milk. Let remain in double boiler until sugar dissolves. Add this mixture to slightly beaten eggs; then add salt and vanilla. Pour into buttered custard cups. Bulger's Eye Glass Service

THE word "service" in connection with the care of the eyesight should mean conscientious, careful examination with all scientific resources at command.

We have modern equipment and can tell the exact condition.

From this we have the proper lense ground to suit the eye.

Sometimes the eyes do not need much correction—sometimes otherwise. That is why some glasses cost more. Come in—any time!

Neglected Eyes

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once.

OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable.

DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

EGGS PLANTED BY MILLIONS

TROUT, AS WELL AS SALMON ARTIFICIALLY PROPAGATED BY HATCHERIES

MONTREAL, May 5.—Fish eggs, fry, fingerlings and young game fish were "planted" in Canadian waters by the hundreds of millions during 1926, by the various hatcheries operated by the Dominion government according to a report of these hatcheries operations, received by E. G. Poole, sportsmen's representative of the Canadian National Railways. The majority of the fry and eggs planted were of salmon, while game fish included various species of trout, planted in waters favored by Canadian sportsmen.

The report shows a total of more than 713,300,000 eggs, fry, fingerlings and older fish, up to four and five years old, placed in waters where they will be allowed to develop into the fighting game fish for which Canadian waters and particularly those waters adjacent to the lines of the Canadian National Railways are famous.

BOTH TYPES

Salmon eggs and fry planted included Atlantic and Pacific types of salmon, canoes, steelheads, springs and albinos. Trout eggs and fry included those of speckled, Loch Leven, cutthroats and Kamloops trout. Pickerel, whitefish, salmon trout and ciscoes were all placed in various waters during the year for commercial fishing as well as angling. No planting of eggs or fish was carried out in Jasper National Park waters during the year, the report says, because a thorough investigation of the food con-

When this investigation is completed and it is determined which species of game fish are best suited to the different waters extensive planting is expected to be made to provide an additional sport for visitors to Canada's largest national park. Excellent fishing is enjoyed in many of the lakes and streams within the park at present. Dolly Varden and Rainbow trout are being taken with the fly. PLAYERS' CLUB STAGES FARCE

SCORED DECIDED HIT IN STAGING OF "NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH." IT'S BEST PRODUCTION YET

The Prince Rupert Players Club has scored several stage successes but the best of all in the organization's history was the production, before an audience which crowded the Westholme Theatre last night, of the three-act farce, "Nothing But The Truth." A well selected cast and a theme which permitted of much action and meriment provided a vehicle which was handled by eleven amateur players in a manner which left little to be desired. There might have been a few minor criticisms to make out the general excellence of the thing minimized these to a point of disappearance. The largeness of the audience and its enthusiasm was ample tribute to the efforts and ability of the members of the cast, indicating that the club now holds an enviable position of popularity as an organization of entertainment.

The motif of "Nothing But The Truth" depicted the occurrences following the resolution of the leading man, with a $10,000 bet against his business associates that he would be able to carry out the undertaking, to tell the truth for a space of twenty-four hours, even refraining from "white lies." The involving situations which followed with his partners, his friends and even his fiancée were the setting for an evening of hilarious merriment before the bet was won and it became possible for Robert Bennett to put things right again.

Jimmy Palmer was the player selected for the leading role and he carried out a difficult and exacting part of an essentially men's play in an admirable manner.

The part of E. M. Ralston, unscrupulous New York stock broker in whose office and country home the scenes were laid, taken by Alex. Connors, was equally important and almost as heavy and was executed by the director of the club in his usual capable style.

George Hartlin, as Dick Donnelly, an employee of Ralston's and Dave Balfour, as Clarence Van Dusen, a sophisticated young investor, had important supporting roles.

The leading lady was Miss Margaret Palmer, who appeared to advantage as Bennet's winsome young fiancée, Gwen Ralston. She was quite capable in handling many situations which called upon her talents. Miss Dorothy Gillingham, always popular, made an adequately dignified and indignant wife and mother while Miss Etanda Marsh took with credit the role of the ingenua daughter of the summer community's wealthiest parents.

CHARACTER ROLES

Character roles are an essential part of any farce and in this production they were happily selected. Arthur Sharpe made an inimitable bishop seeking funds for his seaside home for children. Naturally gifted for such a part, his execution of it left nothing to be desired. He proved that the bishop was quite as good a business man as the rest.

A difficult part was that of the cabaret girl, Mable Jackson, who involved the company generally, Gaudily garbed, Miss Josephine Charlebois carried the role out to perfection. Dramatic allusions were needed and Miss Charlebois ably supplied them. On this occasion, she was far from being a sedate young High School teacher. Miss Margaret McGuire took a companion role with effect.

Miss Lillian Worsfold as Martha, a winsome maid, completed the cast.

The director was A. A. Connors who was assisted by H. F. Glassey, George Mitchell was business and stage manager. Miss Violet Cameron acted as prompter while B. W. Cameron assisted with the clock which played an important part in two acts. The costuming was in the hands of Mrs. David Thomson, assisted by Miss Etanda Marsh, and the furniture was supplied by Barrie's Home Furnishings. Bert Walters acted as cashier with the following ladies as ushers: Miss Caroline Mitchell, Miss E. MacKay, Miss Nora Rivett, Miss M. Shiel, Miss Frances Cross and Miss Lillian Cross.

KING GEORGE NOT CROSSING

WILL NOT TAKE LONG VOYAGES HEREAFTER IT IS UNDERSTOOD

LONDON, May 5.—King George, the most widely travelled royal personage in history has made his last long voyage.

Since the king and queen were unable to accept an invitation of the Canadian government to visit that country in July, it has been whispered about in authoritative court circles that their majesties had concluded not to contemplate any ventures so far from home again.

The report is that both the king and queen, considering their ages (the king will be 62 on June 3), have deemed it wise that any further voyages, such as crossing the Atlantic, may be considered out of the question, partly because of the fatigue accompanying such excursions and the nervous strain imposed by state functions and other social affairs.

Hereafter, it seems, any trips their majesties may take to foreign lands will be merely to the continent, enroute to the Riviera, perhaps, during the winter months, when, as is sometimes the case, the king is bothered with a tender throat, aggravated by the English damp weather.

VISITED CANADA

The king before his coronation visited Canada on six different occasions and made numerous voyages to India, Australia and other parts of the world, having begun his travels as a boy of 14.

Since the war the travels of the king and queen have been limited to a visit to Belfast in 1921 to inaugurate the new parliament of northern Ireland, a state visit to Belgium in 1922 and a similar visit to France and Italy two years ago.

The king is fond of the sea, but Queen Mary is a bad sailor—and admits it.

MAKE YANKEES FEEL AT HOME

THAT WILL BE AIM OF ONTARIO PEOPLE AFTER MAY 15

BUFFALO, N.Y., May 5.—Canadian "homes" for thirsty Americans are being prepared along the Ontario border. The real estate activity is in anticipation of the inauguration of Ontario's liquor control system, tentatively set for May 15. Repeal of the province's temperance act has aroused interest over a stretch of miles on the Canadian side of the border in possibilities for developing places that will meet the Ontario definition of "homes."

The government will sell "hard" liquor, and either residents or tourists may drink in their homes, tourists' camps, hotels and boarding houses/cofaling under this classification. Liquor permits will be sold to citizens, and a citizen, under the meaning of the law, is anyone who has resided 30 days in the community. A liquor permit, good for 30 days, will be sold for $2.00.

A rush of millions of Americans, is expected during the summer months, and extensive plans are being made to assist them in being "at home."

PRINCESS ASKS WHITE HUSBAND

CHIEF OF AUSTRALIAN SAVAGES WOULD MARRY HIS DAUGHTER TO PALE FACE

SYDNEY, Australia, May 6.—Narakad, chief of a tribe of North Australian savages who until recently believed himself the only monarch in the world, has taken to modern ideas "findly now that he has an idea "how the other half lives." The chief wants a white husband for his 16-year-old daughter.

Narakad has commissioned John McLaren, a British explorer, to find a real be-man, blonde or brunette, who is a good fellow and whom the ruler would be willing to take into his family fold as a son-in-law.

Mr. McLaren was the first white man Narakad had ever seen and it was the explorer who disillusioned the chief who rules the Ellice group of "islands in the South Pacific, that there were other big chiefs here and there. He also learned that he has better become a devoted member of John Bull's family. The chief thereupon framed peaceful greetings to King George which Mr. McLaren was commissioned to deliver, as well as the appeal for a husband for his daughter.

The women of the gem-like islands, lying near the Equator, are known for their beauty, their lengthy luxurious hair, and their clear brown complexions. "Princess" is Ishih, the chief's daughter, is considered most beautiful by the missionaries.

ARMIES WILL MARCH ON RUBBER HEELS

LONDON, May 6.—The British army soon will be marching on rubber heels.

The familiar tramp of soldiers marching at dawn along the Thames embankment, to or from their job of guarding the Bank of England, has ceased.

No sound is heard because the guards are wearing rubber heels as an experiment, which is said to have been so successful that the army authorities are sanctioning rubber heels for all army ranks.

It has been established that rubber heels lessen fatigue and increase efficiency.
