FISHERMEN HEAR PROPOSAL CONSERVATION OF SALMON

New Scheme for Fish Conservation Is Laid Before The Fishermen

Well Attended Meeting in Moose Hall Last Night When Views Laid Before Director W. A. Found

A new scheme for protecting the salmon was suggested last night at the meeting of salmon fishermen and others presided over by W. A. Found, director of fisheries, for the purpose of discussing what measures might be taken to conserve the fish on this coast. This suggestion was made by Mr. Found himself and was as follows: That the district be divided into sub-districts and that a license be issued for that district only. The weekly close season in that district would depend upon the number of men engaged in fishing there. As the number increased so would the length of the

Fall Assizes Open With Few Cases to be Tried

Not Sufficient Jurymen Appear for Sankey Case to Proceed This Morning But Goes on This Afternoon

With no civil cases ready to be proceeded with and twenty out of forty-eight summoned petit jurors failing to appear, the fall session of the Supreme Court Assizes was opened this morning shortly before noon, adjournment being taken until 2:30 this afternoon so that the necessary additional jurors might be obtained. The prospect is that the Sankey murder case will be the first to be proceeded with although it was not definitely announced. In the meantime, the grand jury is considering the indictment of Peter Whitewash, Bella Coola Indian, who is charged with the attempted murder of Provincial Constable J. A. Williams.

In opening the court and outlining its duties to the Grand Jury, Mr. Justice W. A. MacD. said, presiding judge, congratulated the community, through the Grand Jury, on the fact that there was but one new criminal case during the past year in a district of such wide extent as this.

His Lordship announced that the only indictment the Grand Jury had to consider was that of Peter Whitewash, Joe Sankey, charged with the murder of Miss Loretta Chisholm, had already been indicted.

The judge then outlined the crown evidence in the Whitewash case, instructing the Grand Jury that it was merely for it to decide whether or not there was a prima facie case. It was not for the Grand Jury to try the case.

His Lordship stated to the Grand Jury that it was also its duty, if it was so desirous, of taking up matters of public business. One such matter he suggested would be to have the noise of a nearby boiler shop stopped during the sessions of the court. This was the third court, to his knowledge, he said, where that noise had proven a nuisance.

Considerable discussion arose as to the situation caused by the absence of so many persons who had been called for petit jury service. It was finally decided that the sheriff could call additional jurors to fill the vacancies and an order to that effect was made, court being then adjourned until 2:30 this afternoon. During the discussion, J. Edward Bird, counsel for Joseph Sankey, attempted to refer to the fact that he had time after time attempted to obtain a change of venue in this case.

Mr. Bird was quickly interrupted by A. M. Johnson, K.C., crown counsel, who stated that it was neither the place or the time to refer to a case which was to come before the court for trial.

His Lordship ruled that any reports as to the jury should come from the sheriff through crown counsel.

The original jury list was as follows, the Grand Jury being complete as named:

NEW PROPOSAL ALASKA FISH

Traps to be Two Miles Apart is Asked of U.S. Commissioner

KETCHIKAN, Nov. 23.—A proposal calling for the federal selection of all salmon traps, which are to be at least two miles apart, was adopted by the so-called "independent" trap owners for presentation to H. W. O'Malley, U.S. Commissioner of fisheries.

As an alternative, it is proposed that there be a 72 hour closed period with the season to extend through the full year.

Mr. O'Malley has asked for an expression of opinion of both independents, cannerymen and owners as to the most advisable way of reducing the annual catch.

ALBERTA POOL BIG OPERATION

Handled Forty-Five Million Bushels and Paid Out Fifty-two Million Dollars

In 1926 the Pool had only one terminal elevator in operation at Prince Rupert. This year it had the Vancouver Terminal under lease with a capacity of 1,600,000 bushels and a handling contract had been made with other elevator companies, the directors state, which could run for three years.

SEEING BIG MONEY IN RAILWAY

There are now plenty of rival schemes for building into the Peace River country and doubtless some scheme will be evolved which will eventually result in construction of the railway. Apparently there are men who see all sorts of financial advantages in promoting a scheme and they are willing to give their efforts for a consideration. The whole matter is badly complicated.

If it were not for the desire of the Provincial Government to get rid of the P.G.E. everything would be simple enough. The line would be built either to Prince Rupert or Stewart. As it is, there is some excuse for the effort to link up the P.G.E. with the other lines in the hope that some day it may pay. The hope may be a vain one but at any rate if the government can sell it they will have money to devote to other purposes.

From a strictly railway point of view the whole movement is ridiculous. It is noticed that neither E. W. Beatty nor Sir Henry Thornton will have anything to do with it. They want a line that will pay. It is understood that with reasonable help Mr. Beatty would build to Stewart and if the government would back him there is no doubt Sir Henry Thornton would be glad to add a Peace River feeder to his system. Either of those systems would stand to profit from the addition of the line. If run as an independent concern the line would probably follow the example of other small concerns and go broke and the government would then have to come to the rescue.

IN PUBLIC INTEREST ONLY

A good deal of interest seems to have been taken in a critical editorial article published two days ago in regard to the conduct of the Provincial Police in this district. Our chief criticism has been in regard to the semi-military dictatorship set up under the system by which efforts are made to keep the newspapers from publishing news which we claim the public is entitled to have.

Whenever it is seen that an attempt is being made to keep the people in the dark, there is something behind which will not bear the light of day.

We have had several communications in regard to the matter and also visitors, most of whom urge new points of attack or try to introduce personalities. However, we refuse to make this in any way a personal matter. We know nothing of the inspector and object to him only in his official capacity, in that he tries to set himself up as a dictator and adopts Mussolini methods. We are not concerned with whether he is to blame for this or whether there is someone behind him. We are dealing only with a condition that exists.

Our attention has been drawn to a number of things that are somewhat outside the scope of this paper. What we are primarily concerned with is in giving the public the news and when the police chief sets himself as opposed to that, we are opposed to him.

The fact that we fail to publish reports of Chinese cases which seem to be hushed up does not lose us any subscribers nor would their publication increase the sale of the paper in the least. That is not the point. What is at stake is the liberty of the press. We refuse to be muzzled in regard to police news. It is not allowed elsewhere and we do not propose that it shall continue here.

We recognize that there are times when news must be withheld temporarily when the police are working on a case. We have always tried to co-operate in connection with such cases and shall continue to do so, but when it is set up as a hard and fast rule that news must not be given out to the public but everything must be done in the dark, we are against such a system and shall fight it to the best of our ability. The fight has only just begun.

As we have said before, we refuse to admit personalities into this discussion. We have absolutely nothing personal against Inspector Spiller. It is only his official attitude to which we object.

THOMPSON'S INTERESTING REPORT

The report of Will F. Thompson on the habits of the halibut based on information gleaned during the past two years, proved interesting to those who heard it and to those who read the report in this paper yesterday. There was a good deal of biological information in the report that has never before been published. Hitherto the life of the halibut has been a sealed book, but, little by little, Mr. Thompson and his staff have been delving into the secrets of the ocean and finding out about things. They have worked systematically and thoroughly and one by one the facts concerning the life history of the halibut are being pieced together.

If the fishermen would co-operate he looked with confidence on future efforts. He reminded them that there were three hundred small streams up which salmon went to spawn in addition to the rivers. It was no easy job to watch all these and if the attitude was to break the law whenever possible the patrol would be expensive. The department aimed to secure the co-operation of those engaged in the fisheries. The aim of the department was to serve those engaged in the industry to the best advantage.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AND LICENSES

On the Atlantic, Mr. Found said, they had got the fishermen to form associations which agreed not to break the law and to inform of any law breaking. He was convinced that law enforcement was what the fishermen wanted. The great majority desired that the law be observed. If a man depleted a stream it was not fair to the rest of the fishermen.

Discussing the suggested reduction of licenses, Mr. Found asked who was to be eliminated. They were dealing with something that was a public right and not something like houses or property which could be bought or sold. If the number of licenses were not restricted conditions must be made such that it would pay. He was not sure the government had power to restrict the number of licenses. This matter was now before the courts and would be argued at the February sitting of the Supreme Court.

Under his proposed scheme for districts, if there were, say, 700 fishermen in the district, and the close time was 48 hours each week then, should the number of fishermen increase to 800, the close time would be raised to 60 hours, leaving it at the discretion of the department to stop all fishing at any time. A similar arrangement could be made with purse seiners. If fishermen moved to another district, a second license would be required. The idea would be to promote an economic condition whereby the fishermen would regulate affairs themselves.

OTHER SPEAKERS

Mr. Reid of Kitkatla, chairman of the committee of the North B.C. Salmon Fishermen's Association read over the resolutions which had been passed by the fishermen at a previous meeting and commented on them. They had to do with airplane patrol, law enforcement, reduction of licenses, suspension of all seining for four years, seining of herring for reduction plants, confiscation of boats and the appointment of a Royal commission of inquiry.

Mr. Reid, who is a native, spoke also on their behalf. He stated that in Kitkatla there were about twenty seining boats partly owned by the natives and partly by the canners. If seining were abolished these men would be "up against it" as all their savings had been put into their boats. The aborigines were entitled to consideration. He also asked for the right of Indians to catch fish in the creeks. An Indian family would take from 150 to 200 fish while the whites took them by the thousand. (Laughter). Indians owned the country and should have special rights. Nine drag seines were also operated by Indians and he asked that these be allowed to continue.

Mr. Found objected to discriminating against newcomers to the country in the issuing of licenses. If all occupations followed the same line of reasoning there would be no new people come to the country.

In regard to the native situation, it must be remembered that the Indian today is different from the native of the early days and was quite a factor in industry.

Harry Streehorse complained of the methods of seiners, who he claimed were depleting the fisheries.

One fisherman told of pulling wire net out of a creek on Dundas Island which was now depleted. He urged better publicity in regard to fishing cases. This would help some.

Captain Hanson complained of setting of nets in the Tiel River.

Major Motherwell explained that Tiel River was different from other streams in that it flowed into unprotected waters where seiners could not well operate. Representations had been made to the department that several returned men resided on the banks of the stream and that they found it hard to make a living there. Licenses were issued to five of them to use nets opposite their property and, according to the report had taken 1589 cohoes, 2 steelheads and 6 pinks. If anyone could inform them that the privilege had been abused action would be taken.

John Murray told of the manner in which creeks all over the district were depleted where formerly thousands of fish had spawned. It was the common belief among fishermen that seining was the cause of the depletion.

SKEENA FISHERMEN

Mr. Beynon urged that in all prosecutions all due publicity be given to them in the public press and that broader advertising be given of sales of seized gear. He had never seen anything in the press about these. He handed a number of resolutions just read him which had been passed by the fishermen of the Skeena River. These had to do with the reduction in Oriental licenses and suggested that in reducing the number of licenses the Orientals be wholly eliminated. It was suggested that one Japanese cut meant the addition of one Canadian. They asked that no licenses be issued through canneries, that adequate protection against seals be instituted.

Sam Olsen suggested that a lawyer be appointed to assist the patrolmen in proving their cases. This suggestion was received favorably.

Harry Streehorse told of the ravages of trout on salmon eggs.

Sam Olsen objected to so many licenses being issued. He had watched the salmon in the creeks get fewer and fewer since the seiners had been operated. Now in some of the creeks all the fish were gone. The only remedy was to abolish the seine.

PLAGUE OF SEALS

Mr. Hoffman suggested that one side of the mouths of streams be kept clear of nets. As it was the fish had no chance to get past. He also spoke of the seal plague.

Mr. Found explained the difficulty in dealing with seals. They could attack the sea lions in their breeding places as had been done successfully at Rivers Inlet but the hair seal was different. They were so scattered that it was difficult to attack them effectively. This was not a problem that was peculiar to this district of the coast. It obtained everywhere.

John Murray brought up the question of the use of herring for fertilizer and objected to it.

Mr. Found did not think the department should tell people how they should dispose of their catches. They should be consumed in the most profitable manner. The products of the reduction plants today such as fish meal and oils utilized more labor in the process than did boxing of fish and sending them to the Orient. It was important that too many fish be not taken for any purpose but what was done with them did not affect the situation. The question of whether they should be caught on the spawning grounds was one to be decided.

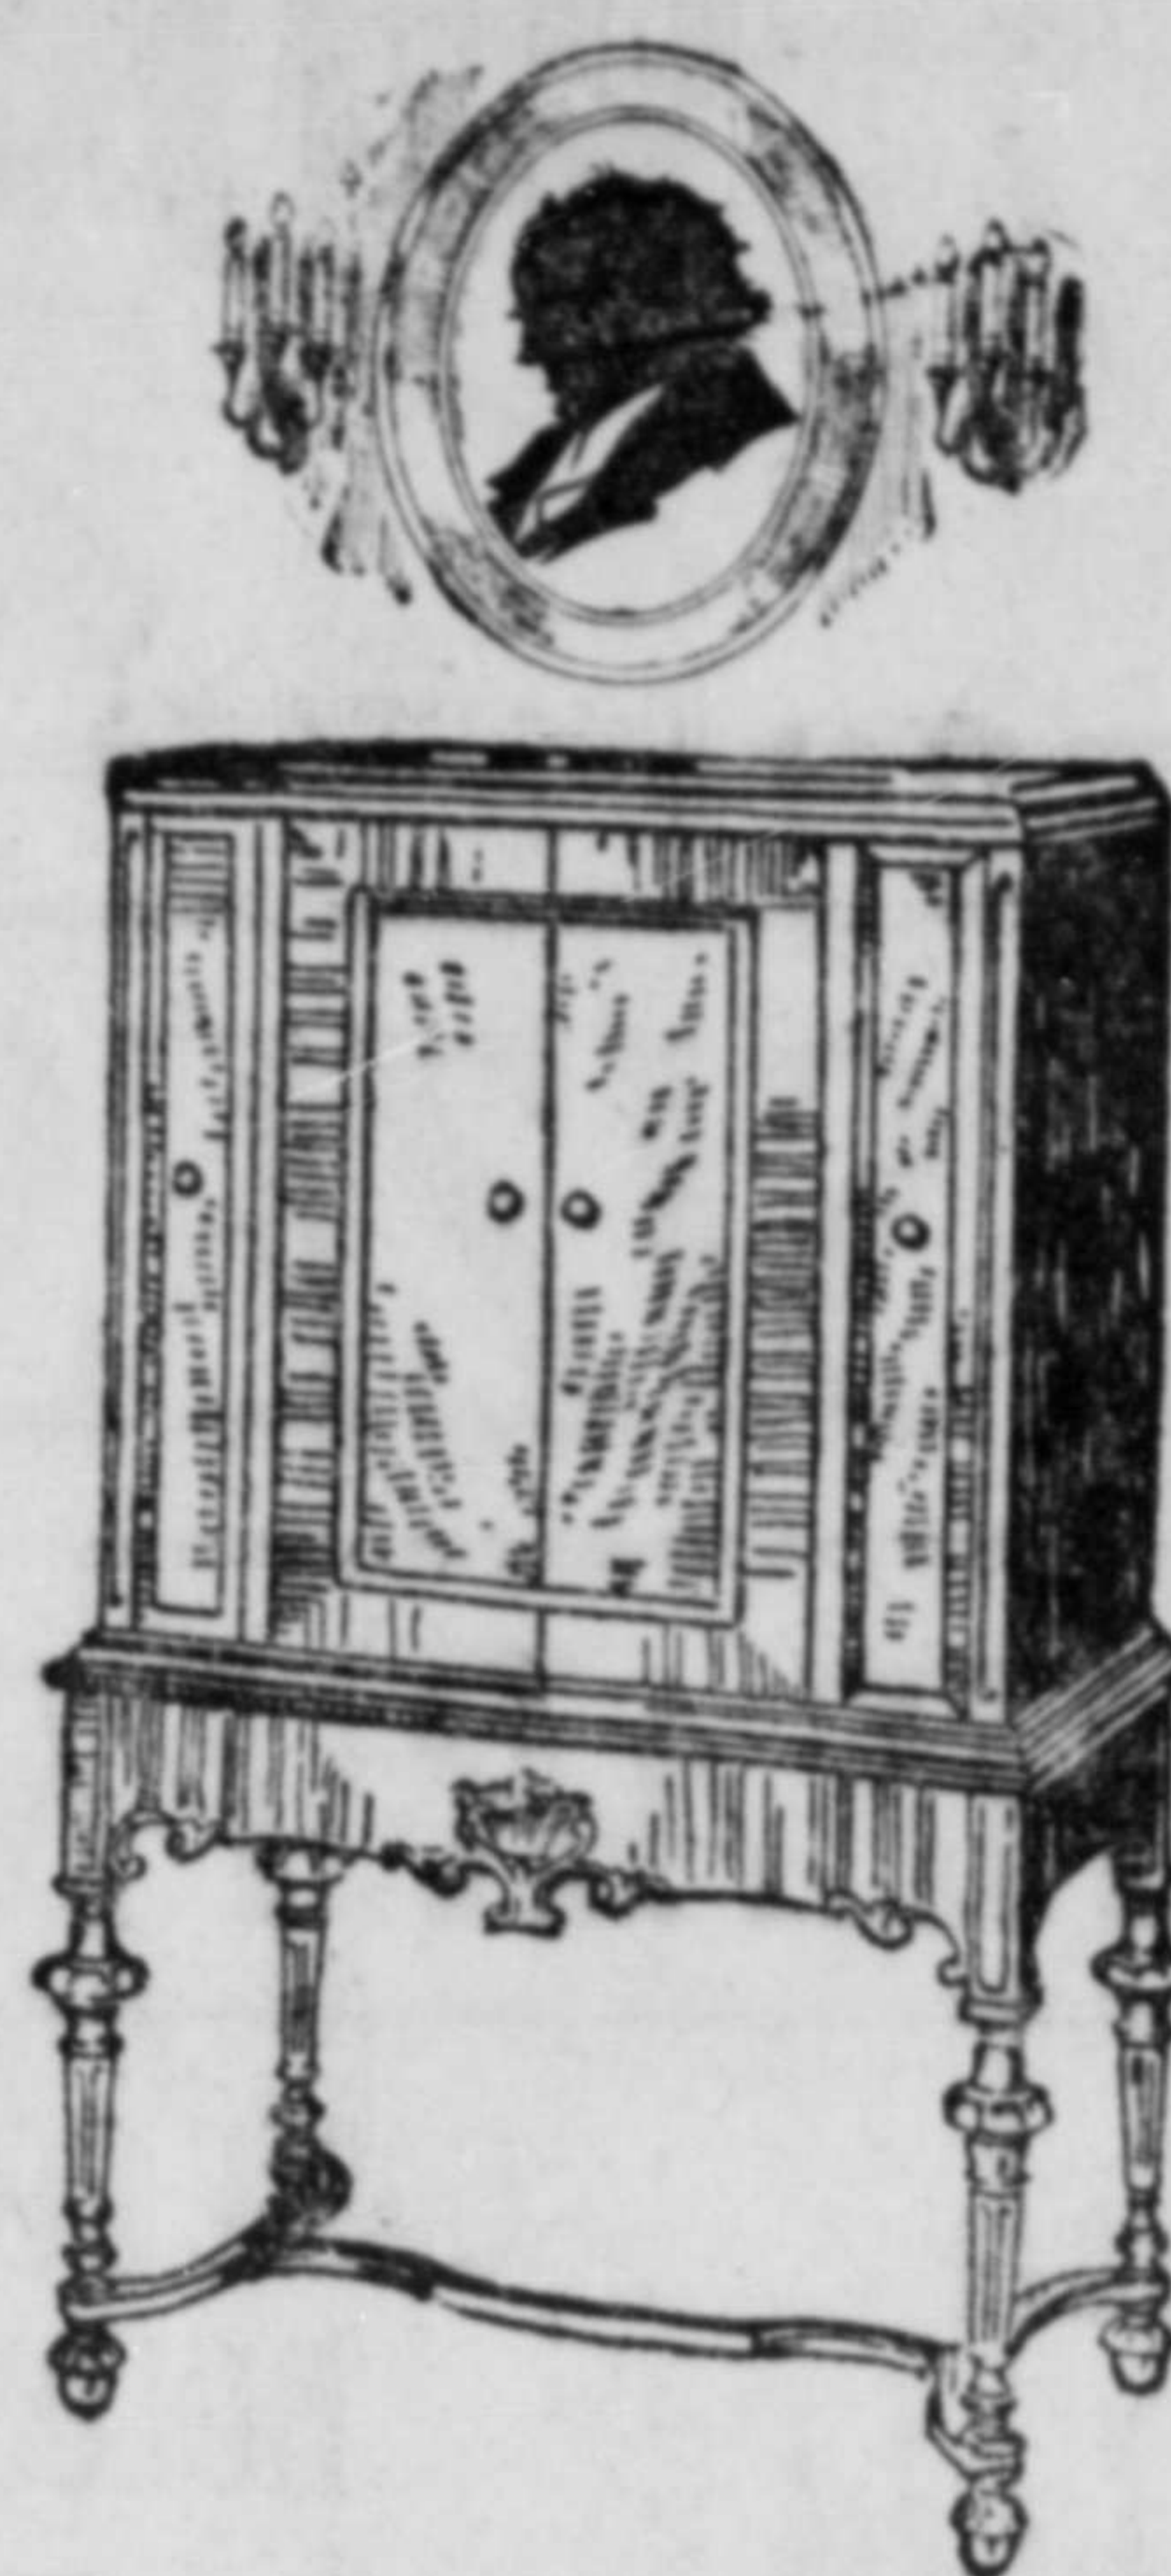

Capt. John Morrison, secretary of the Halibut Fishermen's Union said they asked that no fish be taken for fertilizer. Herring was scarce and this year bait had gone as high as $120 a ton whereas usually they paid about $40. Some of the big boats were laid up as long as three weeks owing to scarcity of bait. The herring had been depleted in Alaska and the same thing would occur here. They had no objection to taking them in Hecate Straits but not on the spawning grounds.

SUGGESTION FOR PROTECTION

Bob Hanna made a number of suggestions for closing fishing grounds and changing the areas which would have a good effect in protecting the salmon.

BOUGHT DRINKS COMOX AVENUE

Charles Barseth of Ketchikan Assessed $50 or 30 Days for Being Drunk and Abusive

Claiming that he had come to complain to the police about not getting his change at Comox Avenue, Charles Barseth of Ketchikan was this morning fined $50 or thirty days by Magistrate McClymont for being drunk and abusive, this being his second offense.

Constable Richard McKinley told of prisoner coming to the station about 1:30 Monday night and making a complaint about not receiving change for a five dollar bill at Comox Avenue. They told him to go home and come back at 8 in the morning. In a couple of minutes he returned and resumed the argument. He was abusively drunk so they put him in the cell.

Constable Charles Kirsh confirmed what the other man had said. The prisoner had lots of chances to go home but he would not take it.

In his own defense Barseth said he had had one drink at the Royal and then took a taxi to Comox Avenue where he had a drink of gin and several beers. He complained about price and when he went to pay they did not give him change out of a five dollar bill and told him to return for it. He then went to the police and was told to go home and it would be looked into in the morning. He met three of his friends and then came back to tell the police that his friends would look into it. The police refused to listen and threw him into the cell.

When questioned by Sergeant Hanna he admitted having at least ten beers between 9 and 1:30 and one gin. (not hot rum). He admitted he had often been so drunk he would not know what he was doing but he was not drunk this time. The Sergeant questioned this.

WHIST DRIVE SERIES INAUGURATED BY ELKS

Good Attendance Last Night at Opening Event of Special Winter Series

The Elks' Lodge last night in the new home of the Brother Bills in the Heigerson Block, formerly the Knights of Pythias Hall, instituted a series of seventeen whist tournaments which it is planned to hold weekly every Monday night henceforth. Each night two prizes will be offered and, at the end of the season, grand prizes valued at $100, $75 and $25 will be presented to the players holding the highest scores on the series, the competition being open to either men or women. Any proceeds that may be derived will go in the Elks' welfare work fund.

There was a good turnout on the opening night, comfort of the new home, which has been renovated and redecorated, being generally commented upon. Prizes were won by Mrs. Ben Self, with a score of 207, and W. D. Vance with 201. The fact that it has been arranged to play seven tables accounted for the large scores.

The committee in charge of the staging of the series consists of W. D. Vance, Eddie Clapp, W. Hearst, Kenny McQuig, A. Donald, Alf. Smalie, G. E. Gulick and Frank Taylor.

LECTURE GIVEN ON QUEEN CHARLOTTES

W. W. Newcombe Tells of Naming the Islands and Other Interesting Matters

VICTORIA, Nov. 23.—W. A. Newcombe gave an illustrated lecture here on "Queen Charlotte Islands 43 Years Ago," under the auspices of the B.C. Historical Association. The address was illustrated by lantern pictures.

The lecturer told something of the history of Queen Charlottes. The place was named after one of the vessels that visited the islands in 1781 in the King George and Queen Charlotte. They also named North Island, Cloak Bay, Cape St. James, Hippo Island, Kennel's Sound, and Ibbertson's Sound, now known as Houston Stewart Channel.

An American trader later named the group Washington Island and this was used by fur traders from the states until the present name was restored.

Pictures were shown of scenery around Skidegate including totem poles now long destroyed or removed. Natives of that day were seen in the pictures as well as views of Cape St. James and other scenic points. A. H. Maynard showed the pictures.

OTHER FISH IN THE SEA

Salmon and Halibut Have so Far Been Almost Only Taken Commercially

With the depletion of halibut and salmon in northern waters it is certain that attention will be devoted to other varieties of fish. What applies here also applies in Alaska and here is what a Ketchikan paper says:

As another illustration of the wealth of fish in Alaskan waters which may be utilized for commercial purposes, two small boats, one of them a troller, filled their dories with cod fish while the boats were tied to the face of the dock today.

The men on board used hand lines and soon had a "deck load" of fine gray cod. They salt them and ship them to the states.

There is one man in Ketchikan who has made a small fortune in catching and salting cod fish. He does not make a lot of money at any one time but he has kept at it steadily and his small profits have made him practically independent.

"This all goes to show," remarked a dealer today, "that we have not begun to farm the best of our sea crops. Many varieties of edible fish swarm in the bays surrounding Ketchikan, but our people, of course, have gone after the salmon and the halibut, in which there is the most money.

It was only a few years ago that any attention was paid to Alaska herring. Since that time fortunes have been made and the herring is now in danger of extinction from extensive fishing.

"Formerly halibut fishermen used to throw away the red snappers and sable fish, caught on the halibut gear, but these are now saved and brought to market. The bays swarm with sea bass, deposits of clams can be found along many of the beaches, crabs are thick in many bays, shrimps can be found in paying quantities, and there are so many other varieties of edible fish that it is difficult to enumerate them. In time these fish will furnish year round industries with numerous by-product plants to utilize the waste."

THRILLERS OF COAST GUARDS

Number of Recent Combats in Which Lives Have Been Lost off Florida

SMUGGLING ALIENS

Planes Sighted in the Air and Kept From Landing Liquor From Bahamas

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Nov. 23.—One thrilling adventure after another, rivaling those of days when pirate ships sailed the high seas and buccaneers compelled their prisoners to walk the plank, makes up the life of the coast guardsmen battling rum runners in Florida waters.

Prices have been put upon the heads of several guardsmen, officers declare, as the struggle to halt the smuggling of liquor becomes more acute. Winter's icy winds in the north are turning the bows of many runners southward, resulting in increased activity along the Florida coast.

When a slim, speedy government chaser, armed with one-pounders, closes up on the boat filled with illegal cargo, the officers seldom know whether the crew will surrender, abandon the vessel or choose to "fight it out."

THREE OFFICERS KILLED

There was, for example, the recent battle about 30 miles off Fort Lauderdale in which three officers were killed and a fourth wounded when Coast Guard Boat No. 249 captured a rum runner.

The 249 was on its way to Nassau, in the Bahamas, carrying Robert K. Weeche, secret service operative, to trace counterfeit $50 bills used in rum transactions, when it spotted and closed in on the rum boat and captured Horace Alderman and Robert E. Weech.

While officers transferred the cargo, Sidney Sanderlin, boatswain, sought to get in touch by radio with the Fort Lauderdale base. Suddenly, the account goes, Alderman fired down the hatch and killed Sanderlin. Victor A. Lamby, motor machinist, rushed to aid the fallen man and was mortally wounded by a bullet through his spine.

Alderman grabbed Lamby's gun, gave it to Weech and ordered the other six government men to "line up."

"Move the whisky back to our boat," he instructed Weech, "and then go below and set this government boat on fire."

As Weech went into the hold Webster jumped for Alderman. He was killed instantly with a bullet through his head. Jodie L. Hollingsworth, following the secret service man, was wounded through the eye and nose. But it was the "break" and the rest of the small crew rushed upon Alderman and Weech and overpowered them, and brought them to port. They now await trial at Jacksonville for first degree murder.

ALIENS AND NARCOTICS

Closely allied with rum running is the smuggling of aliens and narcotics. An affidavit in government possession tells how a rum boat took 27 aliens from Cuba to an island off Florida, only to return in a few days to rob them of all they had. Other stories tell of aliens paying the smuggling fees, being taken aboard, and being set adrift at sea or drowned.

Strategy is used oftener than force to land liquor. Submersible steel tanks, carrying about 600 cases of liquor, were used with success for awhile, towed behind boats and cut adrift if guardsmen pressed too closely.

Attempts to smuggle by aeroplane are no longer novel. Planes can easily fly between the British Bahamas and Florida, but federal operatives now know how to deal with them. They are sighted in the air and kept from landing.

Even when rum runners desert their boats, danger lurks often in bombs with time fuses or explosives attached to the ignition. More than 5,000 miles of coast line around Florida offer innumerable bays and inlets where rum runners try to land cargo. To meet the situation reinforcements are being added and a section base is to be set up at St. Petersburg with an off-shore patrol of six vessels. The coast guard also uses planes.

An article in the Daily Northwestern, undergraduate paper, says "Woman is getting to be a nuisance—in college and out of it." The article points out that woman is in all man's activities now—club, church, social and political, and that "she is always in the way."
