CAPITALIST HAS FAITH IN RUPERT

SISTER LEA GAVE HER LIFE IN EFFORT TO SAVE CHILDREN

Hydro-Electric Head Recently Invested a Hundred Thousand

With Enthusiasm Undampened by Former Rebuff General Brutinel, Once Well Known Here, is Back Again

"The port of Prince Rupert has been suffering only a temporary set-back. Its natural advantages are bound to yet give it the place in the sun which was originally designed for it but the materialization of which, for a number of reasons, has been but delayed." Such is the opinion of General Raymond Brutinel, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., banker of Paris, France, and a man who was prominently identified with the early development of this city, who is revisiting here today. Hard work of a few capable men and plenty of capital are the main requisites in bringing about a successful future. "Dog-in-the-manger tactics, which were too much in evidence in the early days here, will not do," declares General Brutinel who, from past experience, probably knows whereof he speaks. Nor is his own confidence in the future of the place abated for only last year he paid over $100,000 for property holdings in the city.

BETTING EVEN ON BIG FIGHT

Critics Rather Favor Tunney Except for Knockout Which is Dempsey's Chance

TUNNEY'S EYE DANGER

Master Boxer Relies on Footwork and is Even More Confident Than Last Year

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Betting on tonight's heavyweight battle between Tunney and Dempsey is largely on the basis of even money and take your pick. Odds on a knockout are favored by Dempsey who is conceded to be the hardest puncher but a majority of newspaper experts give the choice to Tunney. Dempsey is declared to be close to the savage aggressive fighting machine of the days when he knocked out Willard, Carpentier and Firpo. Tunney, the master boxer, is pronounced to be more skilful, more confident, better equipped to defend the crown, despite his year of idleness, than when he beat Dempsey. Dempsey's hope is built on rushing with the give and take of attack. The champion's reliance is on his footwork. Tunney's right eye, which was injured in training and which to outward appearances is healed, may be the subject of renewed and fateful damage. The weather today is cloudy and cool but there is no rain.

SILK PLUNGED INTO FRASER

Million and Half Dollar Consignment Being Salvaged Following Derailment

CARS LEAVE TRACKS

Valuable Cargo Came Into Vancouver on Japanese Vessel Yesterday

VANCOUVER, Sept. 22.—Five cars of raw silk valued at a million and a half dollars being rushed east over the Canadian Pacific Railway plunged into the Fraser River near Yale yesterday when ten cars were derailed on the main line. Salvage crews are working to recover the silk.

The shipment came off the S.S. Paris Maru which discharged it here yesterday morning en route to New York. A defective rail is thought to have been responsible for the accident.

PITTSBURG WINS FROM BROOKLYN

Standing of National League Leaders Slightly Improved Yesterday—Yankees Beaten by Tigers

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The Pittsburgh Pirates turned the tables on the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday after having suffered two shut-outs at the hands of the Robins. With all other teams in the National League idle, the Pirates increased their margin of leadership to three-and-a-half games. In the American League, the New York Yankees, long since assured of the pennant, dropped the first game of a series with the Detroit Tigers by a score of 6 to 1. Washington Senators held third place by shutting out St. Louis Browns 10 to nil. The Cleveland Indians defeated the second place Philadelphia Athletics in a tight game and lowly Boston won over Chicago.

The only chance the New York Cardinals now have to capture the National League pennant will be to sweep a four game series with the Pittsburgh Pirates which will commence with a double-header to be played today. St. Louis Cardinals will play Boston.

The Yankees showed yesterday how badly a championship club can play on an off day. Sam Gibson of Detroit had them shut out until the ninth inning when Babe Ruth hit his fifty-fifth homer of the season.

The scores yesterday were as follows:
NATIONAL LEAGUE
Brooklyn 2, Pittsburgh 4.
AMERICAN LEAGUE
Chicago 2, Boston 4.
Detroit 6, New York 1.
Cleveland 6, Philadelphia 5.
St. Louis 0, Washington 10.

Heroic Efforts of Sister Lea at Beauval, Saskatchewan, in Giving Life for the Boys

BEAUVAL, Sask., September 22.—Through the grief overshadowing the death of 19 boys and a nun in the fire which destroyed the Catholic mission at Beauval emerges glowing praise of the efforts of Sister Lea, who sacrificed her life in an attempt to save the trapped boys.

Sister Lea, ascertaining that all the girls had escaped, rushed into the burning building, attracted by the screams of the boys in the upper storey of the dormitory, whose escape was cut off by the flames. She vanished in a cloud of smoke and died shouting encouragement to the inmates.

Five minutes after the alarm was given the building was a roaring furnace. The fire is thought to have broke out around the heating system.

Fight Last Night Lands One Man in Hospital and Another in Jail

(Special to Daily News)
Terrace, Sept. 22.—M. Dahlquist and W. Campbell started to fight out an old grievance in the lobby of the Terrace Hotel about 11.30 last night. The result was that Campbell was knocked through a window and was badly cut about the head.

In an apparently serious condition, he was taken by special train to the Hazelton Hospital for treatment. Dahlquist was placed under arrest and Sergeant W. J. Service, acting chief of the Prince Rupert district detachment of the provincial police, arrived here this afternoon to take him to the coast.

JAPANESE FISHERMAN DROWNED IN SLOUGH

Empty Boat of E. Yamasaki of North Pacific Found Near Skeena "Boneyard"

E. Yamasaki, Japanese fisherman for North Pacific Cannery, was presumably drowned in the Skeena Slough near what is known as the "boneyard" on Tuesday. The boat in which he had been fishing was picked up on the afternoon of that day with no one in it. His countryman and the police are making a search.

Yamasaki had been in the country for some twenty-years and, during the winter months, had been acting as a watchman at the cannery. He was about fifty years of age and has a family at North Pacific.

Eastern Speakers at Banquet Emphasize Movement Toward Elimination of East and West

That there had been a twofold outcome of the great convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce; first a sense of the manner in which seeming difficulties could be overcome when they got together and put their feet under the same table, and second the earnest desire of the east to give proper recognition to the western viewpoint and to eliminate differences between east and west. A new movement to knit the Dominion into one great unit had been set in motion. This sentiment was expressed by George Barr, K.C., of Regina, and echoed by the other speakers at the banquet given them last evening in Moose Hall with W. O. Fulton, president of the Board of Trade, presiding, and a large gathering of the foremost citizens, male and female in attendance. There were addresses from J. C. Brady, M.P., and Mr. Fulton and replies from Mrs. McKeen of Halifax, Mr. Barr, M. Beaubien of Outremont and William Birks of Montreal. The affair was a decided success, the catering good and all the arrangements excellent.

MOUNTAIN RATE IS DISCUSSED

British Columbia to Ask for Complete Removal Following Board's Judgment

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—Reasons for the judgment in the general freight rates case were made public today by the Board of Railway Commissioners. In the main Chief Commissioner McKeown and commissioners Vien, Boyce and Lawrence were in agreement. The chief commissioner favored the removal of the mountain differential whereas commissioner Boyce was opposed to it. Commissioner Oliver submitted a number of conclusions differing somewhat from the other members.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 22.—All I have to say about Mr. Keown's statement is that to me it is a complete guarantee of our success in an appeal to the Governor-General in council, said G. G. McGeer, who is preparing to appear in behalf of British Columbia, asking for complete removal of the mountain scale on all freight westbound across the Rockies.

FORKE DENIES ALLEGATIONS REV. DR. MOORE

Hon. P. C. Larkin Says Clergyman Wanted Job as Lecturer in Great Britain

COUNTER CHARGES MADE
Outcome of Statement as General Synod is an Unseemly Wrangle by Prominent Men

OTTAWA, Sept. 22.—"An issue of misrepresentations" was the characterization of Hon. Robert Forke, minister of immigration, of the criticism voiced at the General Synod of the Anglican Church at Kingston of the immigration policy of the government. Mr. Forke is preparing a reply.

With regard to the assertion that the Catholic Church had placed priests at strategic points, the minister said, that was a matter over which the government had no control and if other religious bodies wished similarly to shepherd their adherents there was nothing to stop them.

MOORE WANTED A JOB
TORONTO, Sept. 22.—Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner in London, who is visiting Canada said today regarding the criticisms of Dr. R. A. Moore of Halifax at the Anglican Synod at Kingston in which Dr. Moore quoted Mr. Larkin as saying "the trouble is not to get people to come to Canada but to keep them out," that Dr. Moore had visited him in London. Mr. Larkin proceeded:

"His proposition was that he should travel throughout Great Britain and lecture on Canadian affairs, his expenses to be paid by the government. In other words he wanted a job. I told Dr. Moore I had no authority nor had I any money to engage him for such work. That part of his story is true, but what follows, I am sorry to say, is made out of whole cloth. Unfortunately in London we are troubled with dozen of applicants like Dr. Moore who want to travel about the British Isles at the expense of the Canadian government and who get quite angry if we cannot employ them."

DENIAL BY MINISTER
KINGSTON, Sept. 22.—Dr. Moore of Halifax affirmed most strongly: "I never mentioned immigration to him nor did I seek a job," in speaking of Mr. Larkin's statement. "My offer was made to the minister of immigration and there was no reference to pay or expenses nor had I any thought concerning them."

JAY WALKING AND FAST DRIVING

Pedestrians complain of fast driving in the city and drivers complain of pedestrians jay walking. Probably both have grounds for complaint. There are people, especially some of the younger drivers, who seem unable to restrain their desire for speed. They are a decided danger to the community. On the other hand there are people who cross the streets at any point and at any angle and they are a decided annoyance to the people who have cars and are themselves in danger of being run down. There are certain places where it is legal to cross the street and the crossing should always be at right angles. Those who cross from Wallace's corner to the C.P.R. office in a direct line are jay-walking and are liable to punishment and likely to meet with a serious accident during a busy time.

The same thing that makes a woman sometimes breaks a man. Take cloths as an instance.

DECEIVING THE PUBLIC

The city council deceives the public at least once a month when it produces for publication the profits on the light and power and telephone systems and fails to produce for publication a statement of the losses on the water system, if there are any. Because one is handled by the utilities department and the other is not, makes no difference. Both are very closely connected and it is stated that the reason there is a loss on the water is because it has been loaded in the past in order to show a profit on the power and light.

We have great respect for the superintendent of utilities and also for the city engineer and all connected with the three utilities, light and power, telephone and water, but some of them are making a mistake in not giving the public the whole truth. The superintendent of utilities is doing his part. Now the city works department, or whoever is the official head of the waterworks, should be brave enough to publish the losses. Let us have the whole truth and not only the pleasant part of it.

Girls who think their face is their fortune had better watch out that they are not arrested for passing counterfeit money.

PROMINENT VISITORS SEE

Prominent visitors who come here all seem to see possibilities of great future development in Prince Rupert. Yesterday the members of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, who were entertained on their way through, all expressed their belief in the future of the place.

Another prominent visitor was a French banker who was here in the early days and has just returned. He is so sure of the position of the city that he has invested a large sum here, larger than most of the residents have invested.

It is good to hear these expressions and to know that at least some of them really mean something. The man who is willing to bet his money on our future is the one who really has the kind of faith we like to see.

A good recipe for success is to take a modicum of brains and stir well with a barrel of energy, covering the whole with a pretty thick layer of commonsense and courtesy.

Canadian Soldier Revisits Battlefields at Ypres and Tells of Big Change There

(By Sergt.-Maj. Percy Buttery, late of Canadian Field Artillery)

YPRES, Belgium, September 22.—There is no need for me here to tell over again the story of Ypres, and of all the memories it holds for Canadian men and women. It was with no small feeling of pride, mingled with sad and affectionate memories of the many personal friends who sleep for ever beneath the hallowed soil of Ypres, that I set out for the Salient for the first time since I was there in mud-soaked khaki—for I was a Canadian soldier in the war days, and as a humble artilleryman in the 3rd brigade I was privileged to play a modest part in the unforgettable stand at St. Julien in April, 1915. Though the articles which I have read on the New Ypres had always interested me, they lacked, I always felt, that personal touch which can only be supplied by a visit to the scene of those unforgettable events.

SCENE OF PEACE

Early one morning I arrived at Poelcapelle by train from Ostend. Instead of huge shell-holes gaping out of a sea of mud with the ruins of century-old houses lying in straggled heaps over what was once the countryside; instead of charred stumps of trees and long lines of trenches, the outlook was just suggestive of complete peace and happiness. On all sides were long stretches of land rich in cultivation, and scattered about here and there were large rectified farm-houses and sturdy little cottages. In the fields laborers were at work and returned to the plow. The remnants of pill-boxes and gun emplacements alone served to recall the tragic past, and even these were almost hidden from sight by the luxurious crops. Some of the outbuildings of the farms were roofed by sheets of corrugated iron, probably "scrounged" as we used to say, from the heaps of British war material left behind after the Armistice, while the barbed wire which formed the boundaries of many of the farms, was most likely, similarly acquired.

A walk of nearly a mile from Poelcapelle station brought me to Poelcapelle village. Soon I found myself on the road to St. Julien and Ypres, and was then on familiar ground, for the roads have been preserved, and, except that they have been repaired, are the same as they were before they were ripped open by the German shells. Flanked on either side by fields of ripening corn, and passing Langemark, I was soon at the little village rendered historic for all time by the great Canadian exploit. It was with mixed feelings that I entered the beautiful grounds of the memorial to the 2,000 Dominion soldiers who fell there in resisting the gas attack. These 2,000 brave souls lie buried beneath a huge stone slab, from the centre of which rises a column, simple in its grandeur, surmounted by the figure of a Canadian soldier with bowed head, who looks sorrowfully upon the grave of his comrades. In the road outside was a young woman selling picture post-cards. She told me her father was a soldier in an Ontario regiment and that he fell at St. Julien. She now spends most of the year at the Memorial, earning a meagre living by the sale of her post-cards. My sensations as I walked along the road from the Memorial to Wieldje were far different from those which assailed me when I last traversed a part of it in 1915. Our guns were well up beyond Wieldje when the gas attack opened, but after replying for some time we were forced to fall back. No part of the surrounding country of course was recognizable, but I remembered the direction of that retirement so well that I needed no guide. I was able to locate approximately all three of our gun positions. I had no difficulty in identifying the road beyond St. Jean and Ypres, across the canal onto the Brielen road (where our ammunition column was located), along which we had to dash at top speed with food for the guns. Passing along this road, now so calm and peaceful, it seemed impossible that a few short years ago it could have been such a shambles.

FORMER DESOLATION

I remembered, too, how, when the battle of April 22 began, those residents who had remained during the first battle for Ypres in October, 1914, began their final evacuation. Terror-stricken men and women rushed from their homes frantically gesticulating and pleading for help. That was the last they saw of the old houses which for years had been their homes. As I stood at this scene of former desolation and despair I wondered how many of the poor fugitives of 1915 had returned to occupy the neat red cottages which now stand on the sites of the shell-smashed dwellings.

The post war Flemish child is experienced in the art of begging, and he regards the British visitor to the historic battlefields as his lawful prey. Every few yards on the road from St. Julien I was pestered by these urchins for "pennings." A group of these young mendicants had assembled at the wayside memorial—a small block of stone little larger than an ordinary English milestone—situated on the Wieldje road to mark the furthestmost point reached by the Germans in their endeavor to capture Ypres. During a pause I try to visualize the scene as the invader commenced the big retreat which was the beginning of the end of the Great World War. I was relieved of all my small change.

FAMOUS CATHEDRAL

The ruins of the Cloth Hall in the famous square at Ypres remain much as they were, but the rebuilding of the Cathedral of St. Martin is nearly as possible like the original is proceeding. The side of the square outside the Cloth Hall is occupied by cheap and flash-looking souvenir stalls and a sort of fun fair, complete with round-a-bouts, etc., the owners of which live in cars which I had just ridden. One of the ostinets near here was kept by an old lady with two daughters—Julie and Emma. Many of my old comrades will remember our gatherings at this establishment, and the kindly way we were received by these two girls. If we had no money Julie would supply our wants on credit, and accounts were always settled when the paymaster arrived. These establishments were destroyed later on, but new ones have been erected in their stead. I called to see if Julie and Emma had returned after hostilities ceased. They had not, but I found that the Canadians are well remembered in this part of Flanders. In the bar was a young man, who as a boy, used to sell chocolate to the troops in the Kemmel area. He told me that the old lady is dead, and that Julie and Emma are hospital nurses at Bailleul.

I returned to Ostend from my tour of the Salient convinced that there is only one way for an old soldier to visit the places he knew so well in war time, and that is on foot. Motor coach trips will perhaps serve the purpose of those who have no personal association with the scenes of sacrifice, but I want more time at St. Julien, Sanctuary Wood, Kemmel and other places than these stereotyped excursions follow.

NEGLECT is doubtless the cause of most of the ills that afflict humanity. This is so self evident that it seems hardly necessary to tell you. If your eyes are giving trouble, have them attended to—and at once.

OF ALL absurdities in the kingdom of foolishness, surely the loss of eyesight through neglect is the most inexcusable.

DON'T lose health and efficiency through neglect. Come and see!

FIRST ANNUAL ENTERTAINMENT GREAT SUCCESS

Music and Farce Entertains Packed House at Westholme Last Night

Entertained by a fine musical program and also by a song and dance sketch and by a roaring farce "Ici on Parle Francais" the Westholme Theatre was last night packed to the doors on the occasion of the first annual entertainment under the auspices of the St. Andrew's Society of Prince Rupert. The music was excellent and especially the part singing. The audience was generous in its applause and all the performers were recalled.

The finale of the evening was the farce "Ici on Parle Francais" which was conducted by Alex. A. Cannon who also took the leading part. The play was carried through with spirit and there was not a dull moment throughout. Mr. Cannon as Mr. Spriggins was excellent. Jimmie Farquhar as Major Regulus Rattan was vociferous and to the manner born. Dave Balfour as Victor Dubois, a dandified Frenchman very much in love, was a scream and was the most striking figure in the play, although he did not strike as much as the major.

Of the ladies it is impossible to speak too highly. The most difficult part was that of Mrs. Spriggins, which was taken with good effect by Mrs. E. W. Marenzette. Miss Norah Rivett made a wonderful Anna Maria, the maid of all work. Miss Virginia Riel and Mrs. Lock each carried out their respective characters without a flaw.

Of the two sketches that by the Idaho Sextette was excellent, but the funniest was "Motoring," put on by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ross and their daughter Dorothy and son Bob. It caused much amusement and was very clever and well acted.

The following was the musical program:
Overture—Westholme Orchestra.
"Home O' Mine"—Mrs. J. Waugh.
"Between Freights"—The Idaho's Sextette (All. Smalls, J. Sims, Mack Smith, Sam Joy, Mike Budenich and George Mitchell).
"The Vagabond"—Maurice Blott.
"Simple Simon"—The P.R. Harmonists (Messrs. Davis, Teng, Blott, and Clapperton).
"To a Highlander"—Mrs. H. N. Brocklesby.
"Motoring"—H. A. Ross & Company.
"Robin Adair"—Messrs. McLeod and Fraser, Messrs. A. Clapperton and J. E. Davey.
"For You Alone"—J. A. Teng.
"Highland Steps"—Elizabeth McLeod.
"Serenade"—Mrs. F. W. Allen and J. E. Davey.

Ushers were Misses Jean Grieve, Winnie Thomson, Wille Dyer, Caroline Mitchell, Miss McGuire and Miss Shiel. Trevor Williams was house-man, Bill Barton cashier, and Jack Doherty make-up man.

WHIST DRIVE AND DANCE LAST NIGHT

Pythian Sisters Hostesses at Affair in Boston Hall

A good-sized crowd attended the whist drive and dance given last night in the Boston Hall by the Pythian Sisters. The following were winners at cards: Ladies' first, Mrs. Reg. Clarke; second, Mrs. W. N. Hoss; men's first, Mayor Newton; men's second, F. J. Fuller.

Refreshments were served and dancing followed, music being by Cliff Cameron, Dave Ross, J. Gawthorne, Brochu Bros. and Len Bond.

G. W. Johnstone was master of ceremonies and W. N. Hoss presided at the door. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. W. N. Hoss, Mrs. D. McCullough and Mrs. May Ratchford.

SPORT CHAT

The shouting and the tumult is nearly done and in four hours from now the half-an-hour ten round-bout at Chicago, described as the "battle of the age," as most such events are heralded, will go down in history. It has proven a fortune. How many will wonder if it is not also going to be a farce. Gene Tunney will be the richer by a million dollars and Dempsey by almost half as much. They are being well paid no matter what happens to them. Local betting is about even and no odds have been heard of. Local boxing fans are somewhat like the fraternity elsewhere. They are not so sure that Tunney is a real champion or that Dempsey is not a has-been vainly hoping to stage a comeback.

of the steadily growing influence of women, it being toward everything that was noble and refined. While man trusted largely in material wealth, woman believed in the great spiritual power.

LADY SPEAKER

Mrs. McKeen, representing the lady visitors, replied thanking the local people for their hospitality. The problems of the matrons from which she came, she said, were much the same as the problems here. They looked forward to having their elevators filled and their highways completed. They had come to a realization that the wheat produced in Canadian fields should be shipped through Canadian ports.

with the Montreal Board of Trade. The growth of the city since that time was more striking to him than to those who lived here or who came often. The view from Montreal Heights, which he visited that afternoon, was very striking. The city was by no means standing still. He saw very marked progress.

The British freighter Sedgepool, which was one of the ships loading grain at Prince Rupert last winter, is now in Vancouver taking on a cargo of lumber for Japan.

Colonel Crookshanks of England spoke of the educational effect of the trip and of the energy and enterprise of the transportation system. He paid a special tribute to the C.P.R. whose care they had just left and over whose road they had travelled. He spoke of the potentialities of Prince Rupert and urged free trade among the nations of the Empire and protection against the rest of the world. He also urged the advantage of having people here cultivating their own land. The feeling of ownership was a security against bolshevism. He thanked Prince Rupert people on behalf of Mr. Dean, the other British delegate and himself.

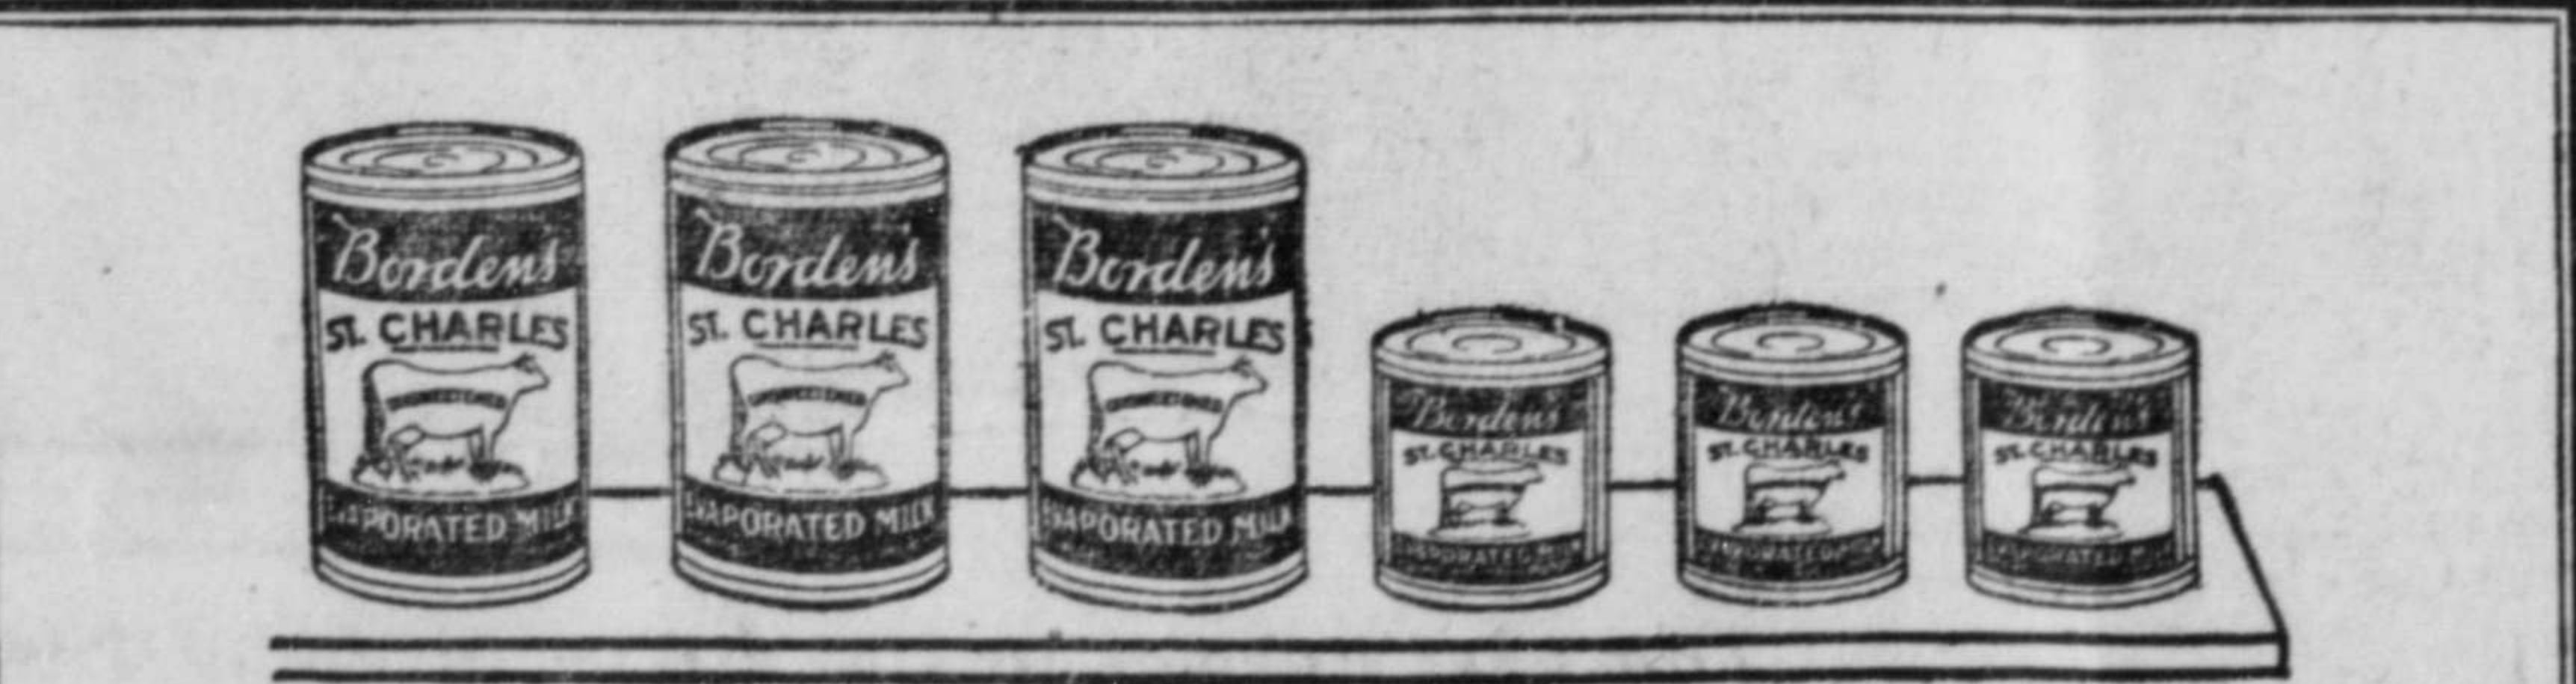

Col. J. W. Nicholls in moving a vote of thanks to the visitors expressed appreciation of the visit and suggested that this contact between east and west would make the west look to them for aid in developing this garden province.

MUTUAL THANKS
M. P. McCaffery seconded the motion and said he believed they did well in taking in this city. He spoke of the idea of the originators of the road in providing the most direct route to the Orient and the railway still had the best grade of any crossing the mountains.

William Birks, president of the Canadian Chamber, recalled his visit sixteen years ago when a banquet was given in the old Prince Rupert Inn. Then again he was here five years ago and shared the hospitality of the city speech of the evening for the local people, welcomed the visitors on behalf of the board of trade. He emphasized the need of opening the Peace River route and doing it in such a way that the grain would come to Prince Rupert. The idea should be how best to serve the people of the country to be opened up. He told of the first effort in shipping grain last year and its success. He feared Canadians were too prone to stand around and watch the prosperity of Americans and this had paralyzed them. However it was now agreed that there must be immigration. The aid to immigration from the advertising secured through the opening of the Peace River would be great.

THE vacation of the Prince Rupert radio sets is almost over and for the next six months they will have to stick steadily to work.

Certainly the lady lion-tamer appeared to fulfill all the advertisements said of her, for she performed some very daring feats. One evening she beckoned to the fercest lion in the circus, and he strolled up and meekly took a piece of sugar out of her mouth.

"Anybody could do that," cried a man from the audience.

"Do you dare to say you would?" stormed the indignant woman.

"Certainly," was the answer. "Just as well as any blinkin' lion."

FISHERY PROTECTION.
Skidegate, B.C.
Editor, Daily News.

Much has been written in the press lately on the salmon fishing industry, but little mention has been made of the very serious depletion of fish taking place. Unless the government takes drastic action now in the protection of fish on the spawning grounds, the outlook for the future of the industry seems hopeless.

Here on the Islands the fishing season is in full swing, with a greater number of seine boats than ever before. These small streams cannot stand this number of seine boats fishing them. The government closed down fishing operations for ten days at the beginning of the season, while there were but few fish. Why not at the end of the season?

One of the new regulations in the setting here is, all seine nets must be back at the cannery before close season. That is Saturdays and Sundays, or if not at the cannery they must be put down in the fish holds. Some of the seine boats have no holds but well decks, so they are up against it.

One can imagine some poor seiners stornbound at the West Coast, gravely putting his seine down the hold before the closed time, or some other coming home with his hold full of fish, throwing overboard two thousand salmon to make room for his seine in the hold. Such funny regulations are good proof that the men that make these regulations are not practical.

Again the government policy of engaging men for the fishery service, who for the most part have no knowledge of fish or fishing, is entirely unsatisfactory. These positions are more often given to applicants on account of their political leanings. Let them appoint practical fishermen who understand conditions.

Has it ever occurred to the powers that be what method nature has employed for keeping down surplus fish?

This process still goes on, and now coupled with man's intensive fishing operations, it is merely a matter of a few short years before the salmon becomes as extinct as the dodo.

The writer has taken pains to study the so-called drastic action taken by the government in the preservation of fish, and this along a greater part of our coastline, but the story is the same. The unwieldy machinery of government starts to move only locking the door after the horse has gone.

Ten Years Ago in Prince Rupert

SEPTEMBER 22, 1917.

Prince Rupert and Anxox staged a tight ten inning baseball game yesterday afternoon before a large crowd of fans. The visitors finally won out on the long end of a 5-4 score.

Mitchell Albert has been married in Vancouver to Miss Aileen Allen, a well known vocalist whose birthplace was Juneau, Alaska.

FORMER LOCAL GIRL RECEIVES IN SOUTH FOLLOWING WEDDING

Mrs. Bert Stevens, formerly Miss Thelma Dingwell of Victoria, received for the first time since her marriage this afternoon, at her home on 3055 Alma road, wearing her wedding dress of white satin and silver lace. Mrs. W. H. Stevens assisted her daughter-in-law, and chose a champagne georgette costume applied in silk crepe having golden embroidered design.

The tea table was lovely with mauve and peach shaded cosmos in a silver basket in the centre, and the same flowers in bud vases at each corner. Silver sconces, held mauve tapers. Pale pink and white sweet peas were in the drawing room, and mont brets and other vividly colored flowers in the hall.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. H. H. Stevens and Mrs. H. Harford. Ices were cut by Mrs. Oscar Brown and Mrs. Gordon Keatley, and assisting in serving were Miss Hanna Smith, of Victoria, Miss Gladys Harford, Miss Marjorie and Miss Lillian Stevens—Vancouver Province.

CAPTAIN JOHNSTON OF CARDENA THANKED FOR AID GIVEN TO RUPERT

Official recognition has been expressed by the Canadian National Coast Steamship offices to the Union Steamship Co., Ltd. and Capt. A. Johnstone of the steamer Cardena for the assistance given to the steamer Prince Rupert when the latter vessel struck on Ripple Rock in Seymour Narrows on August 22. It was stated that Capt. Johnstone exercised courage and fine judgment in getting a line from the Cardena to the Prince Rupert and assisting her to safe anchorage after the Prince Rupert's rudder had been made useless.

Repairs to the Prince Rupert are being made at the Burrard dry dock, North Vancouver, and it is planned that the vessel shall resume service on October 10, taking the run that the Prince George is now on, the latter vessel reverting to the week-end run.

From Guesswork to Scientific Accuracy.

MOST home owners heap abuse on their furnace. To it is attributed high fuel bills, coughs and colds, chilly inside temperatures—

Yet the furnace is seldom to blame. Its inefficiency is usually due to slipshod installation. Properly installed warm air is the most effective heating system obtainable. Yet even the best warm air furnaces become inefficient and wasteful if they are not installed according to Standard Code.

"Code Installed" means that your system is planned by experts according to tried and proven scientific principles. It guarantees the most healthful, efficient and economical heating plant your home can accommodate—raising warm air heating to a plane far and above that of any other type of heating system in the country.

A WOMAN CAME FACE TO FACE WITH GRIZZLY

They Meat She Was Cooking at Big Creature and Rushed for Tree DROWNED IN RIVER

Lure of Gold Draws Party From Tacoma to Far North to Face Disaster

EDMONTON, Sept. 21.—How death and disaster defeated a party from Tacoma, Wash., prospecting in the wild and little-known hinterland of northern British Columbia, was graphically related by the survivors of the ill-fated expedition drawn to the wilderness by the age-old lure of gold. The experiences of the woman of the party were particularly thrilling.

Outfitting in Edmonton last spring, the party, headed by Deckert, with Joe Kinsky, cook, and Mr. and Mrs. Morris Larson, all of Tacoma, detrained at Prince George, 400 miles west, where they took packhorses up through the "No Man's Land" of the little known plateau country north of the railway. The country is inhabited by roving bands of semi-savage Indians and a few prospectors and trappers. It is a series of rolling mountain ranges, interspersed with timbered plateaus. It is said to be rich in fur, game and fish. Here, say the survivors of the stampede of '98 to the Yukon, the next "big strike" will be made.

REPLENISH SUPPLIES

For 21 days they traveled through the wilderness without meeting another soul, finally arriving at Fort Nelson, more than 400 miles north of the railway. This is a Hudson's Bay company's post on the Nelson River, a tributary of the Liard, which, in turn flows into the Mackenzie River. At the fort they replenished some of their supplies and set off again into the last north, determined to explore the country for gold. It was while fording the Half-way river that disaster first overtook the

BETTER COWS BETTER MILK

IN order to bring to you, under the red and white Carnation label, as fine milk as the world produces, we are constantly introducing the high milk producing strain of our blue ribbon "Contented Cows" into the herds that daily supply milk to the Carnation Condenseries. In fact, one of the most famous Holstein herds in all the world is owned by the Carnation Milk Farms.

In this, as in many other ways, we insure the quality of Carnation Milk. Insure that it really will add richness and flavor whenever you use it. For Carnation is just pure, fresh milk—evaporated to double richness, "homogenized" so that every drop has its full share of cream. Diluted, it is used in cooking to give greater smoothness and richness. Undiluted, it takes the place of cream at one-third the cost of cream. ill-fated party. Deckert was in front and it is thought that the horse he was riding was none too steady. Below the ford, there was a ledge, where the bed of the river suddenly took a drop of several feet. The horrified riders behind suddenly saw the horse rear up and with a half-human scream plunge under the surface of the rapids.

BODY NEVER RECOVERED

Deckert apparently kicked himself free of the heavy western stirrups, for the others spurring their horses through the water to his aid, saw the horse come up free of its rider, though Deckert himself was never seen again.

Unable to approach too close to the fatal ledge, the two men and the woman crossed the river, dashing at a reckless gallop down the boulder and windfall-strewn bank, swinging their lariats in readiness to help Deckert should he be seen. All they saw was his sombrero floating gently along the river. The body was never recovered. Deckert is said to have had a large sum of money in bills in his possession at the time that he was drowned.

Despite the gloom cast over the survivors by the drowning, they decided to carry out their original intention of searching for the precious yellow metal which has called so many to their ends beyond the ranges and the frontiers of the world.

It was some time later that the adventure in which she nearly lost her reason, befell Mrs. Larson.

WOMAN TIED BY BEAR

She was sitting by their tent on the banks of a mountain stream, preparing some moose meat which the men had shot early the previous day. They had left that same morning to prospect the headwaters of the little creek on which the camp was situated. Hearing footsteps behind her, Mrs. Larson thought that one of the party had returned and turned with a smile, which froze in a look of horror as she was confronted by a monster grizzly. The bear, rose to its hind feet, standing erect and growling, the saliva drooling from its fanged mouth as it swayed from side to side in readiness to charge. It had been attracted by the smell of cooking meat.

"I felt as though I had been turned to a block of ice," said Mrs. Larson, relating the affair. Recovering her senses with an effort, she threw the meat towards the bear and staggered to a nearby tree. With growls of satisfaction, the bear advanced on the food, uttering a squeal of rage as the hot meat burned its tender snout.

KEPT VIGIL FOR HOURS

Its small piglike eyes glaring with the lust to kill, it advanced to the base of the tree, where it sat for hours, leaving at intervals to devour some of the food. At other times it stood erect, leaning its massive and hairy body against the tree as it strove to shake the woman down from her perch.

It seems to Mrs. Larson that she was in a half-woon with the horror of it all. She seems to remember the bear going away, while she tumbled out of the tree and dashed to the tent. Here she secured a heavy Colt .45 and started to shoot it with the hope that the men would be attracted by the sound of the firing. The shooting only brought back the bear, however, and once again it took up its grim vigil at the foot of the tree which was Mrs. Larson's tower of refuge.

Finally the bear went away, and the woman, uttering sobs of relief, staggered to a nearby cabin, the relic of some old-timer who had trapped these valleys.

FINDS SAFE REFUGE

Although the cabin was dirty, it seemed to Mrs. Larson to be a safer refuge than the tent or the tree and she barricaded the door. Before long she heard footsteps. It was her husband returning. He had found the camp in disorder and searching, had discovered the track leading to the old cabin. So great was Mrs. Larson's terror and hysteria, however, that she huddled in the corner, closing her eyes and sobbing as her husband, near crazed with anxiety, burst in the stout door with the butt of his gun. Even then, she could scarcely believe that she had been saved.

Despite the unfortunate adventures which marred the trip, the party said that the country was a regular paradise. They refused to disclose what the result of their search for gold had been.
