City Woman To Contest Council Seat

6 Enter Field for Aldermanic Office

The first woman to step forward and into this year's civic election race is Mrs. W. D. Smith who today told the Daily News she will run for alderman.

Mrs. Smith will be the fourth woman to enter civic politics in this city, and should she be elected, will be the third to hold civic office.

Mrs. Smith, a member of several women's organizations in the city including the Canadian Club, took out nomination papers this morning at city hall.

"I am a little afraid of two years of service," she said, "but I'm going to try it anyway."

While no one has so far filed nomination papers, the following are known to plan contesting the four aldermanic seats which become vacant this year-end.

Aldermen Ray McLean, Darrow Gomez and J. W. Prusky, whose terms expire; Ray Gardiner of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union; Hugo Krappner, dry cleaning and laundry operator;

Ald. George Hills, also CCF MLA, whose seat expires, has stated he will not run.

Among previous women in civic office here, Mrs. Nora Arnold saw the greatest success. She successfully contested the first election following Commissioner W. J. Alder's regime here in 1942 and continued to serve until 1948 as alderman. Then she was elected mayor, which post she held for two years.

FIRST WOMAN
First woman alderman in the city was Mrs. E. C. Kirkpatrick, now living in Victoria. She served for two years from 1918-1919.

Mrs. J. S. Black of the city contested aldermanic seats in 1946 and 1948, defeated both times.

Only one other person has taken out papers for civic office in the Dec. 11 election.

He is Dr. R. G. Large, whose term on the school board expires. Other trustees retiring are Mrs. E. W. Becker and A. B. Brown who haven't indicated whether or not they will run again.

Two vacancies will exist on the board of park commissioners. Two-year terms of Chairman Pat Forman and Commissioner Art Murray expire. They have not indicated whether or not they will contest their seats.

Other items to come before the voters are a $42,500 school bylaw and a referendum asking people to authorize an order that all milk to be distributed in the city must be pasteurized.

The Mormon Church was organized by Joseph Smith in Seneca County, New York state, in 1830.

Queen Mother, Princess Leave Buckingham For Modern Home

By KEN BOTWRIGHT
LONDON (Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret this winter will give up the "coldest house in Europe" to live in Britain's most modern home.

Early in the new year they will leave old-fashioned, grey-stoned Buckingham Palace. Their new home will be nearby Clarence House, a 127-year-old mansion now furnished with the last word in domestic luxury.

Cosy Clarence House was the residence of Princess Elizabeth before she came to the throne. This winter the Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh and their family will have to endure the discomfort of the palace.

The official royal residence, with its dozens of long, windy hallways and high-ceilinged rooms, is impossible to keep warm—especially since most of the huge building is not centrally heated.

Clarence House, big, three-storey mansion just off the stately Mall, has not always been a homemaker's dream. It was built in 1825 for the Duke of Clarence, who became King William IV.

TRANSFORMED
Later it was occupied by Queen Victoria's mother, the Duchess of Kent. Last royal occupant before Elizabeth and her husband moved in almost four years ago was the Duke of Connaught who died in 1942.

It was Elizabeth who transformed it into a modern home with labor-saving kitchen units, an intercommunication system and up-to-date furniture. Walls and ceilings were redecorated. A semi-basement playroom was equipped with a movie projector. TV antennae sprouted on the roof.

Many rooms were furnished with wedding gifts from all over the world.

Now, with Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret due to move in soon, carpenters are at work changing the interior—and the personality—of Clarence House.

The Queen Mother has been busy selecting new fabrics and deciding what furniture to move from her apartments in Buckingham Palace. The second floor, formerly the nursery suite, is being redecorated for Princess Margaret.

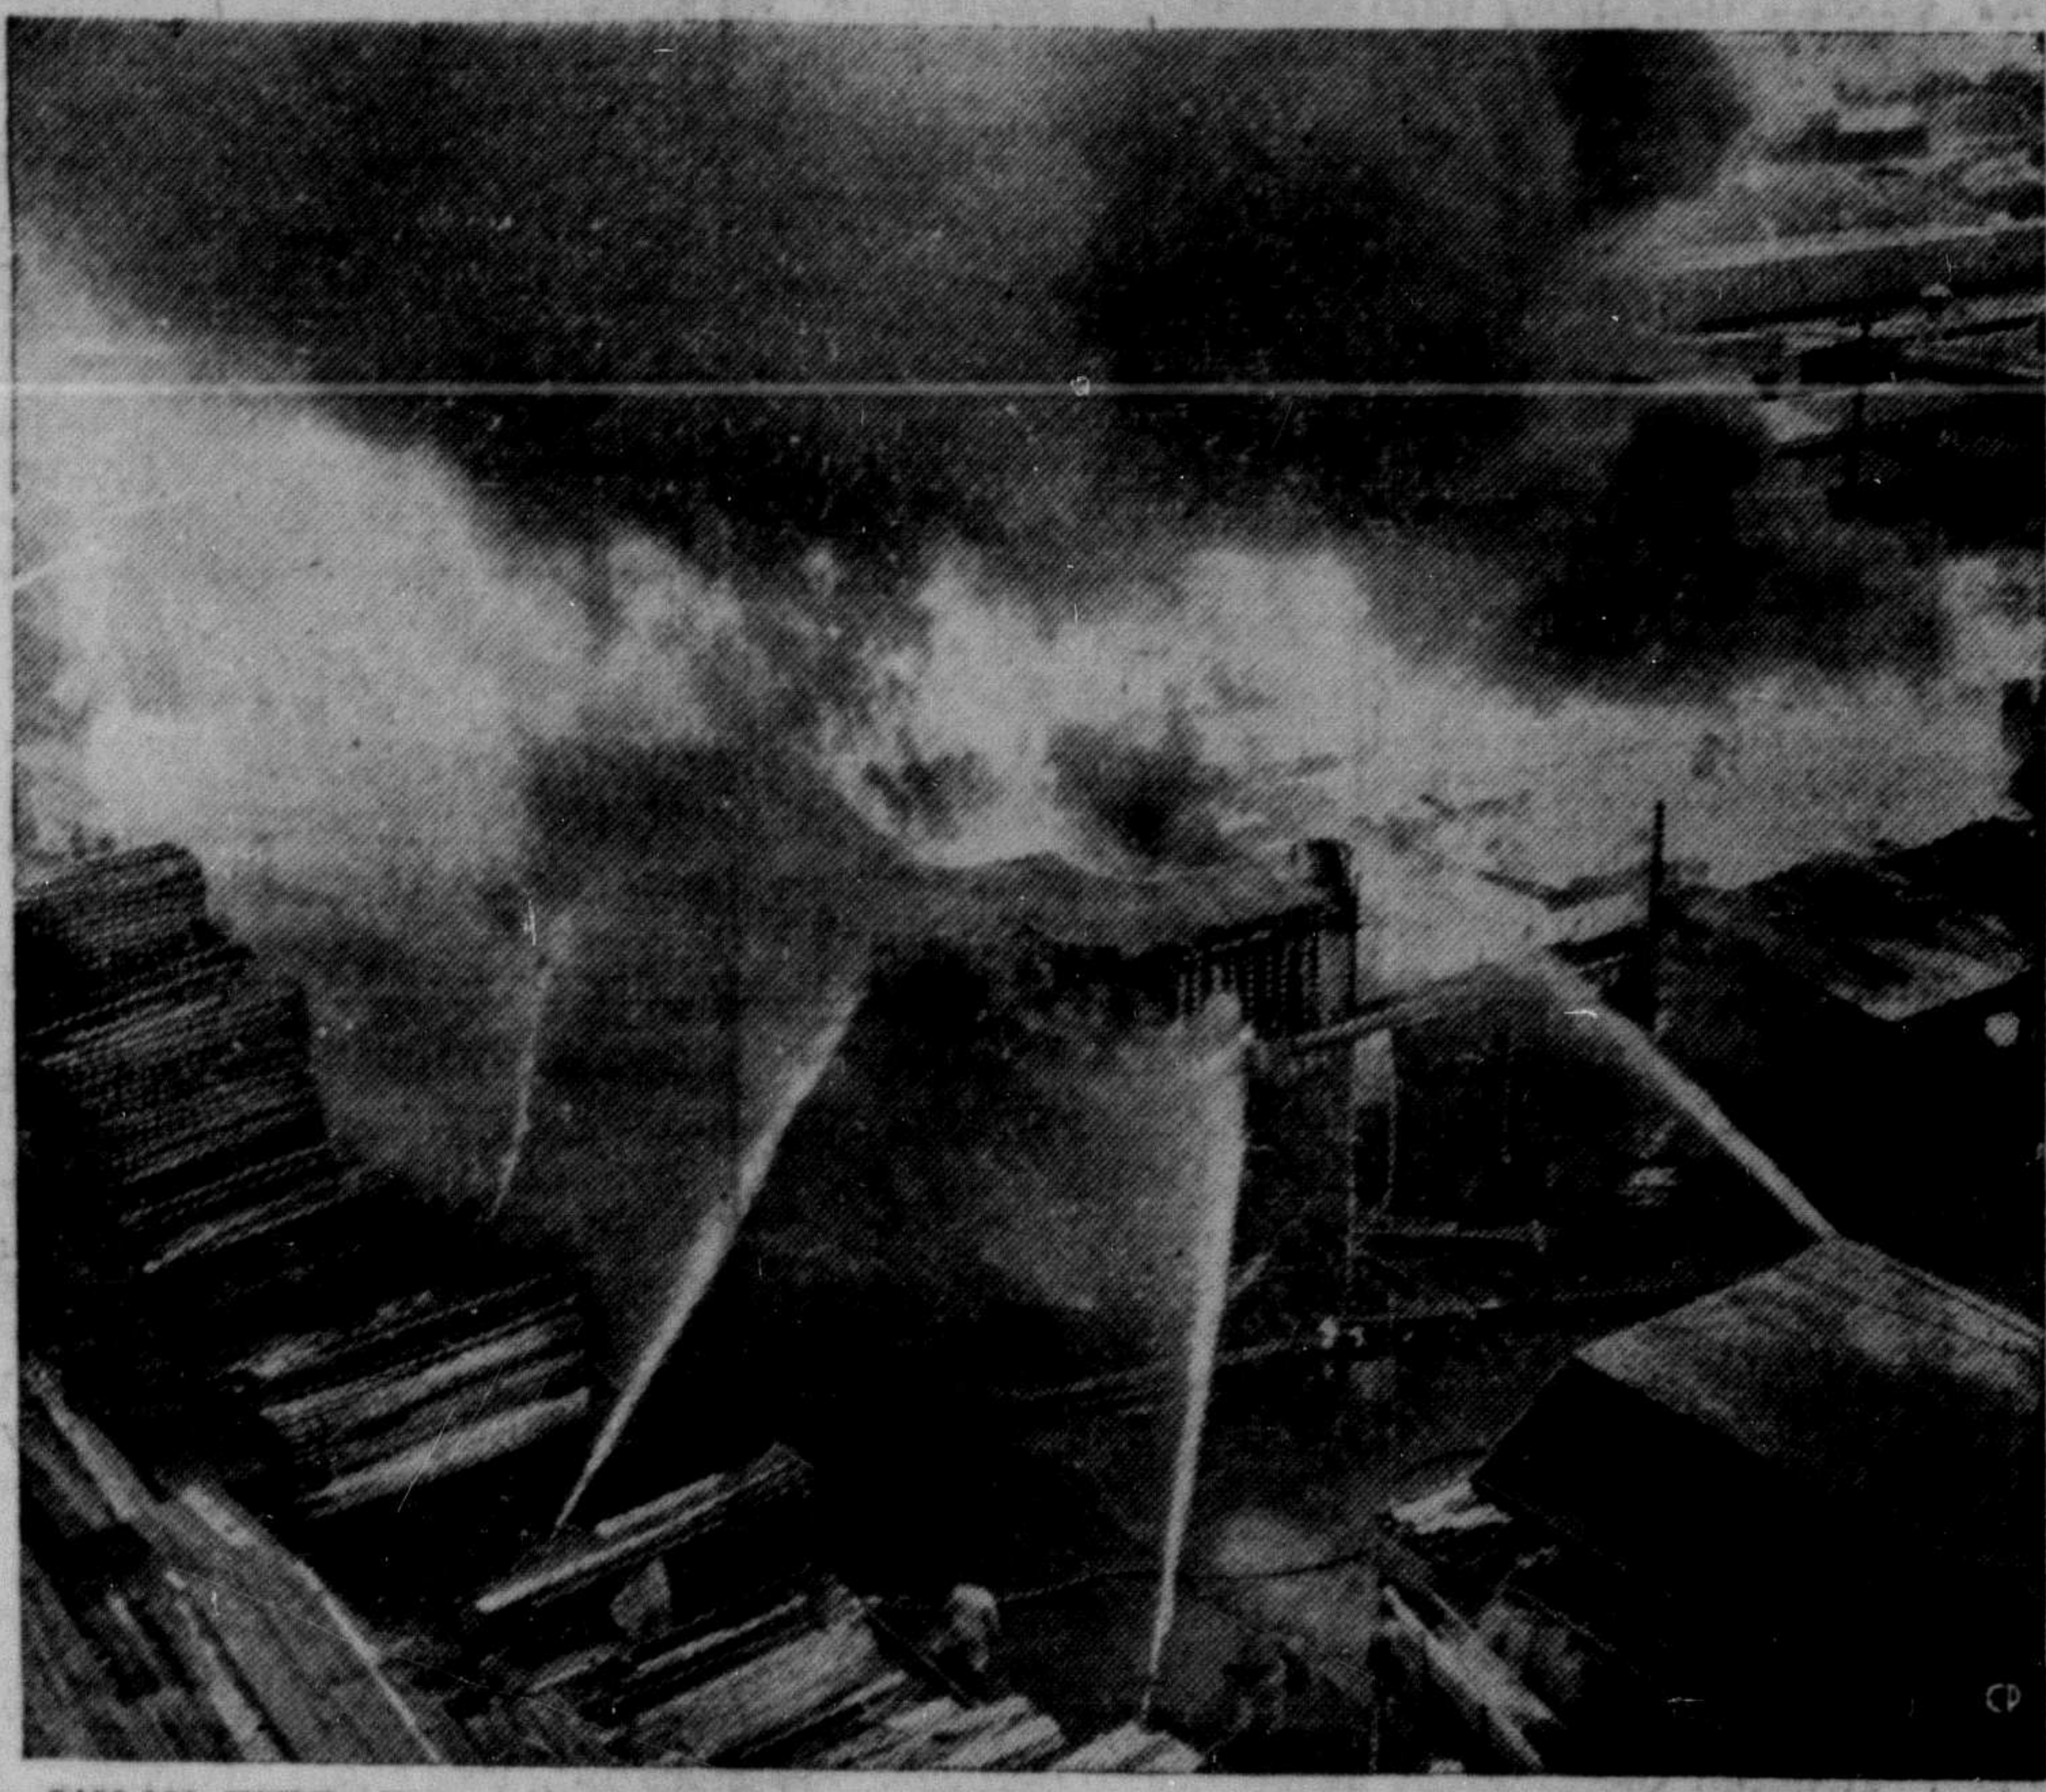

PUBLICITY STUNT 'Vulgar Hoax' Reports Birth Of Septuplets

SANTIAGO, Chile (P)—Federal police today announced the reported birth of septuplets to a Chilean woman was a "vulgar hoax."

A report of the births last night caused great excitement in the Chilean capital. All but one newspaper brought out banner headlines in extra editions to tell their readers the story.

High government officials hurried to the clinic where the mother and her babies supposedly had been taken.

Police said authors of the hoax had sought to gain publicity for a spring festival.

$400,000 FIRE—Flames leaped 150 feet into the air and a pall of smoke a mile high spread from the $400,000 fire at the T. H. Hancock Company's box-manufacturing plant in Toronto's suburban Leaside. The two-storey factory was destroyed. The fire was believed started from defective electric wiring in the plant. (CP PHOTO)

Mayor Urges Citizens to Support Group In Combatting Juvenile Delinquency Here

A city organization's move to investigate what action can be taken to prevent juvenile delinquency in Prince Rupert today was heartily endorsed by Mayor Harold Whalen.

The Prince Rupert branch of Business and Professional Women's Club has set up an investigation committee to find out whether or not a probation officer, or other form of counselling for juveniles is the answer to the problem.

Mayor Harold Whalen said in an interview today he had been approached by St. John Madeley, director of the Social Welfare Department here, to give his support.

"This I do with pleasure," said the mayor.

"And I believe something should be done in this direction."

The mayor, however, said he thought a probation officer would not provide the answer to a delinquency problem.

"I think the problem should be attacked before it comes to a climax and juveniles land in court for misdemeanors. That is the time when a probation officer takes over. We need some organization, or an individual who will take over before it comes to this point."

Mayor Whalen pointed out that several instances had come to his attention where in a family either parent—mother, or father—was not in the home and the burden of caring for children fell on one alone.

"In such cases very often the children are left alone too much. Too little parental interest can be taken in them and they are left to shift for themselves. That's how they get into trouble."

"If some individual could step in to take an interest in them, invite them to the Civic Centre, for instance, where they could mix with other children in recreation or handicraft classes, I'm sure it would be a big help."

In his letter to Mayor Whalen, Mr. Madeley encouraged the work of the women's club.

"It is heartening to note this development and I am sure you will concur in the thought that it is a healthy and hopeful sign when any community organization express an active concern for the causative and preventive factors at work in what is essentially a community problem affecting children," wrote Mr. Madeley.

"Concern for children and the conditions under which they live and grow up is a positive factor in community life ..."

Mayor Whalen suggested that the Social Welfare Department would be the first to find problem cases, but could not spend enough time with them to take individual interest in children.

Things looked a little rugged for Air Force Capt. Fred C. Seals of Dallas, Tex., when he fell out of the wide-open door of a mile-high C-46 cargo plane as the plane lurched violently in bad weather while dropping supplies to G.I.s in Korea. But just as he struggled desperately to pull the ripcord of his parachute, the plane hit an air pocket, dipped sharply downward and scooped the plunging airman neatly back aboard through the same door he had used as an exit.

Also surprised and grateful was Flier Joe Warfile of Salt Lake City, Utah, at the way his forced landing turned out. Heading for an open highway and an emergency landing when his single engine died, Warfile pulled up the nose of his small plane preparatory to touching ground. He felt the wheels hit and sat there waiting for the plane to stop rolling. Instead it continued briskly down the road. Perplexed, he peeked out and was understandingly astonished to discover the plane had landed astride a moving auto. The driver of the car was surprised too. Nobody was hurt, little damage done.

Trolley Motorman Albert J. Cooney of Philadelphia can't be blamed too much if he looks the other way the next time he has a chance to play good Samaritan. Cooney saw flames shooting out of a house, stopped his trolley car and turned in a box alarm. He continued his run and three minutes later met the fire truck as it raced to the fire he had reported—met it head-on. Five firemen and three trolley passengers were injured.

Mrs. Irene Collins, of Johnson City, N.Y., was in a hurry to get home. So when a standing freight train blocked her way, she started to crawl under one of the cars. The train started up. (Continued on page 8)

Pioneer City Carpenter Dies at 85

A pioneer carpenter of Prince Rupert who moved to Terrace in 1920 to farm died there last night.

He was William A. King, 85, who came to this city in 1910 after having arrived in Rossland, B.C. in 1906. He had been hospitalized for a year.

Mr. and Mrs. King celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary last Wednesday.

Mr. King had a hand in the construction of many of Prince Rupert's first buildings, and also the city hall. He moved to Terrace to take up farming where he developed an orchard. The Kings sold their farm after World War II.

Besides his wife Alice, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Lillian Redditt of Vancouver; a son, Victor King, engineer at B.C. Packers in Prince Rupert; a grandchild, Jean Redditt.

Mrs. Redditt was formerly a school teacher here.

Burial will take place in Terrace; funeral arrangements will be announced.

$10 Increase In Newsprint Announced

TORONTO (CP)—Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd. is advising its Canadian customers that price of their newsprint will be increased $10 ton, effective Jan. 1.

Increase is the same as that put into effect for United States customers last June 15, which did not apply in Canada.

Some other Canadian newsprint producers are also understood to have advised their customers of increase.

Under the $10 increase the Canadian base-area price will be $122 ton. Canadian publishers also pay a federal 10 per cent sales tax on all but the transportation part of price.

The uniform penny postage rate began in England in 1840, and first American stamps were sold in 1847.

The WEATHERMAN Says

This is the frosty Friday on the southern mainland of British Columbia.

Last night the mercury fell to twenty degrees at Vancouver, the coldest night since last January 3rd but still well above the record of ten degrees established in 1911.

Fog is confined to a few thick patches in low lying areas but this is expected to dissipate rapidly during the morning. It will not return tonight.

A moderately active disturbance is developing off the west coast and cloud cover is expected to spread to the lower mainland this evening. The cloud will prevent the formation of fog and produce somewhat higher overnight temperatures. Cloudiness is general over much of the interior.

Forecast
Cloudy today and Saturday. Intermittent rain today. Little change in temperature. Winds southeast 25 in the exposed areas today, lighter elsewhere. Light winds Saturday.

Low tonight and high Saturday at Port Hardy, 36 and 42; Sandspit, 40 and 45; Prince Rupert, 37 and 40.

Another Parking Problem

WHILE the parking rules of the city are under revision, it seems timely to investigate the problems of those merchants whose establishments have entrances facing a line of parked taxis.

It is a well-known condition of business that a customer, though looking for the best service, will often give it up in favor of the easiest approach.

Consequently those places which do not offer ready access because of parked taxis are at a disadvantage which is not of their own making. While the street traffic and parking bylaw restricts taxi zones to a single car, there appears to be nothing in it to prevent transient cabs from occupying, for the allowable time, spaces that would otherwise be available to non-commercial cars.

It is appreciated that the motives behind the introduction of half-hour parking on Third Avenue is to keep traffic moving so that more room will be available for more shoppers. This is a desirable objective and, on the face of it, the plan should work.

It will not, however, solve the problem presented by parked taxis. Since most cabs are radio-equipped, it should not create difficulties if they were located on less busy streets and received their calls through taxis stationed in authorized zones.

In raising this point we also express sympathy with those authorities who are doing their best to provide Prince Rupert with a workable traffic and parking scheme. It is a problem which besets all cities, large or small, and the answer can be found only through experiment.

We are sure that drivers will bear with our officials as they go through their trials in search of this answer.

Canada Must Buy

IN TWO speeches which had not the least connection with each other, Britain's Anthony Eden and Canada's C. D. Howe made two points which showed remarkably similar trains of thought concerning their country's mutual trade problems. Mr. Eden was talking to the Canadian Club at Ottawa, and Mr. Howe made his remarks earlier in a talk over CBC.

Point No. 1 was that Canada cannot expect to do any more business with Britain unless it increases British imports. Point No. 2 was that the only help for countries in the sterling area lies in what they can do for themselves.

Both points were embellished with tactful phrasing, but both were there strong and sharp nevertheless. While they are to some extent negative conclusions, they do provide a common basis of understanding which may assist discussion at the present conference in London of Commonwealth Prime Ministers.

As a preliminary to the first point, both agreed that Britain is proving a good customer for Canadian products.

Said Mr. Eden: "Last year we took from Canada $631 million worth of goods—34 per cent more than we took the year before. But we only sold $400 million worth to Canada."

Said Mr. Howe: "We are in fact selling more in total to Britain than we did last year and even more than in 1950."

Thus introduced, the point was driven home. Said Mr. Eden: "To buy more Canadian goods, we must earn more from our exports to you."

Said Mr. Howe: "Canada cannot sell goods abroad unless it is prepared to buy goods from other countries."

With the problem so delineated, both speakers sought a solution and again both agreed.

Said Mr. Eden: "The first solution is that the countries of the sterling area should endeavor to live each within its means."

Said Mr. Howe: "The solution depends not on the help of Canada or any outside country but, in the main, upon what the people of the sterling area do within their own countries to achieve stability and expand output."

Agreement of this kind between cabinet ministers of two leading countries could surely be found nowhere in the world outside the British Commonwealth and even within these confines it is an extraordinary display. We look forward to the Prime Ministers being just as agreeable around the table at London.

May Wake Up Ottawa

CONTRARY to too-sweeping reports Social Credit did not win the B.C. by-elections by such an overwhelming margin as to encourage the plunge into an unnecessary general election.

True, before the by-election campaign, Premier Bennett specifically promised another provincial election. But the Premier is too astute to mislead the facts. With the Conservatives, CCF and Liberals all in the field and not pulling punches in another election next spring, say next April or May, the outcome would be anything but certain.

THE MAIN result of the B.C. by-elections should be to wake up Ottawa to the realization that the Social Credit party is a real threat to all three larger parties — The Liberals, Conservatives and CCF alike. We now know that Social Credit candidates will run in nearly every constituency in western Canada in the 1953 federal election. There may be many secrets in Ontario.

In Ontario, Social Credit gains would almost certainly be at the expense of the Drew Conservatives. But in the west it is Liberals and CCF who have most to lose. If Social Credit swept B.C. in a provincial election, held just before a federal election, the momentum MIGHT carry over into the federal election. The 22 B.C. seats might well decide the fate of Canada for the next four years.

I STOPPED off in Ottawa last fall, on my way home from the British election. Within half an hour of arrival I was told by an M.P. from B.C. "The Social Credit organizers from Alberta have been working secretly in my riding for six months, and they are likely to win both provincial seats in it." They did, eight months later.

I was in the hall of the Hotel Vancouver during the B.C. Liberal convention. A top man walked out and I asked "How is it going?"

"It's a poor show," he answered, "because of the split between — and —. We are going to be beaten. And we are going to have a Social Credit government."

IN SPITE of the fact that astute Conservatives, Liberals and CCF leaders all were warned of the Social Credit invasion not a single one of the parties did anything effective to combat it. They were so busy destroying each other and they fell for the line. Socialists could hit them, but they should not hit back. So, till the very end of the campaign, not one of the three major parties even struck back at Social Credit.

The three parties at Ottawa will not likely be so plain dumb. The federal wing of the Social Credit party has the worst isolationist and Joe McCarthy-like record of any party that has ever been there.

Soldier Plans To Visit Unknown Kin

One Canadian soldier now on his way to Korea has two purposes in mind in going to the Far East—to fight the Reds and visit grandparents he has never seen.

He is Canadian-born Papanese Cpl. Takao Iizawa, 23, of Vancouver and Kelowna, B.C. Cpl. Iizawa, a member of the Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps has been stationed at Army Headquarters in Ottawa for the past 15 months and will join headquarters of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade shortly. He plans to visit his grandparents in Hiroshima as soon as he can get leave.

Cpl. Iizawa is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Iizawa of Kelowna. Another brother, Leading Seaman Masashiro Iizawa, is serving with the Royal Canadian Navy, having completed a tour of duty in Far Eastern waters with HMCS Sioux. L/S Iizawa is now stationed at HMCS Naden in Esquimalt. Cpl. Iizawa was educated in Vancouver and Kelowna.

CHILDREN HELPED—In terms they can understand the U.N. International Children's Emergency Fund makes world co-operation a reality to children everywhere. The youngsters in this Guatemalan school shown during a lunch recess know the U.N. agency as a reliable friend. This is but one example of its long-range programs to improve mother-child health and nutrition in the underdeveloped countries in many parts of the world.

Report From . . .

Parliament Hill

By GEORGE M. MURRAY, M.P., Cariboo

OTTAWA—On what issue will the Government stand in a general election which must come by the end of 1953 and may be announced for next June?

It was not in the Speech from the Throne. It is not in any formal statement by the Prime Minister. But the issue will be: lower tariffs, freer trade.

C. D. Howe is now touring USA cities and takes off shortly on a trade-building crusade into the South American Republics. He preaches free trade where ever he goes.

Trans-Canada opens new regular service to Germany. Freight subsidies on the high seas are being extended by Canada. The St. Lawrence Seaway at a cost of half a billion is a straight bid for industrial development and new world markets.

Our Canadian pro-consuls are now at all the capitals of the world. With more than a billion bushels of wheat to sell in 1952, Canada needs world markets more than ever before.

Canadian airlines are extending. CPA will be in business from Vancouver to Tokyo to Rio and return by Mexico to B.C. Commercial airlines are opening over the roof of the world from Edmonton to Norway and Germany (seventeen hours to Norway via Magnetic Pole).

R. W. Mayhew has been sent as Minister to Japan. He is a big industrialist and the man to explore and build trade possibilities in Asia.

Easing up on protective tariffs has already been started. Throwing off of export taxation has been undertaken. Our delegates at Washington will seek by every reasonable means to hasten the opening of USA market to our cattle, to keep it open to Canadian lumber, plywood, farm products, metals, natural gas and all the array of northern natural products.

Ottawa is hopeful that the ending of the Truman administration at Washington, D.C., will not make it tougher for Canada in trade matters. Our leaders of all parties here say, "If we are USA allies in Korea and in defence of the free world, how can we be USA enemies in the markets of the world?"

But wait and see. The old guard is getting back into the saddle at Washington. The USA is our biggest market for exports. Block us out and the whole industrial set-up in Canada could be thrown into a curve such as we experienced in the days before the advent of the NEW DEAL and FDR when Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was Prime Minister.

While politicians discuss possibilities of a rail extension into the Peace River country from Prince George, Canadian National Railway heads are willing to do this job and tie the Peace River into their Pacific divisions. There is only one reason why they will not go ahead right now:

No one will give them a legal guarantee that such railway extension would pay for itself, say over a stated period.

CNR got such a guarantee before beginning the Kitimat-Terrace cut-off; got it again on the Lynn Lake extension in Manitoba; again in the Labrador service to the iron industry. Perhaps the only body strong enough to give it to them on the Peace River project would be Her Majesty the Queen in the right of the Province of British Columbia.

The CNR officials say that they cannot afford to put the company into the position of taking the risk alone. The deal would no doubt pay off—and pay off handsomely—but they think today it would be a gamble. Mr. Donald Gordon, president of the road, stated to me at Montreal, that if the company had a guaranteed guarantee (and he made no mention of the B.C. government), that the way would be wide open to begin. And what an empire that would give Mr. Gordon's company!

I told him of the tonnage in coal, lumber, farm products and oil which lies there waiting between Grande Prairie, Alberta, and Hudson's Hope, B.C. To my mind Mr. Gordon is a big man in a big job with a heart for almost any solid enterprise. Unfortunately the public ownership chain is pretty well wound round his wrists and ankles and he simply cannot, of his own initiative, embark on the Peace River job.

The Government of British Columbia surely is bigger than the Aluminum Company, the Sherrit Gordon Mining Corporation or the Timmins group. If CNR could take on guarantees from these private corporations for tonnage and revenues for a long period, why not from the B.C. Government?

Loss of half a dozen big army aircraft on the Alaska run in the past few weeks is reviving interest in the USA in a rail line north to the defence area. The last crash destroyed 52 lives and a plane valued at $3,000,000.

Fort St. John, Prince George and Quesnel should be interested in an application now before Transport Commissioners for an air cargo licence. CPA would have as eastern terminals for the new air freight line: Quebec, Montreal and Toronto; Western depots would include Edmonton, Le Pas, Prince George and Vancouver. New freight transports would be put on.

LETTERBOX

APPRECIATES EDITORIAL

Editor,

The Daily News:

Through the courtesy of a reader, we have been shown copies of the editorial appearing in the October 24 issue of your newspaper. We wish to tend you our most sincere thanks for this.

With reference to the letter published in the October 28 issue and signed "Puzzled" re our plan for educating the Indians, it is our contention that if the present policy of the Federal Administration is maintained, the bulk of the Indians will "be hived on reserves for all eternity" as your correspondent writes.

The idea that, through individual enfranchisement, the reserves will disappear gradually and that the Indians will be truly assimilated is, to our experience of a hundred years as missionaries, a hopeless pipe-dream. Sending the brightest Indians away from the reserves is depriving the others, that is the majority, of their natural leaders. It is impossible to hope that such a beheaded group left behind could evolve into a well-organized community, along the lines suggested by the new Indian Act.

History is there to prove that, in a given social group, the majority of the individuals achieve progress only through the initiative of their leaders. Furthermore, history of education shows that the first objective of secondary education has always been the preparation of these qualified leaders. The plan we suggest for encouraging, not compelling, bright Indians to remain on the reserve and for enabling them to serve their community as leaders is based on the laws of sociology and of up-to-date educational research. Our only hope of bringing down the reserve fences is in gradually building up the whole group into a well-knitted self-administering social unit that will be able to take its place as such in the province in which it is located, with each and every one of its members, not only the brightest ones, assuming his responsibilities and privileges as a full fledged citizen of Canada.

May I remind your puzzled reader that assimilation as such is opposed by the majority of Indians now on the reserves, especially by the educated leaders who have remained with their people and who are hoping for the day when their communities will be mature enough to wish for a group enfranchisement.

(Editor's note: Father Renaud is general superintendent of the Indian welfare commission of the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate which is sponsoring the scheme to encourage promising young Indians to remain on their reserves.)

Fishery Workers Hold Shower For Popular Teresa Heroux

In honor of Miss Teresa Heroux whose marriage to Victor Pierce takes place at St. Peter's Church on Nov. 29, a pleasant shower was held at the home of Mrs. Anne Wilson by the girls of Atlin Fisheries Ltd.

An enjoyable evening was passed in playing bingo and other games. Prizes were won by Mrs. Thelma Denluck, Mrs. Dorothy Bagshaw, Mrs. Selma Overgard, Mrs. Kay Renwick and Miss Marjorie Tattersall.

The guest of honor was surprised when the comments she made while opening her gifts, having been written down without her knowing, were read to her. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Bagshaw and Mrs. Annie Wide.

Those present to honor Miss Heroux were: Mrs. Iva Fiva, Mrs. Renwick, Mrs. Dorothy Letourneau, Mrs. Marie Richards, Mrs. Jean Moorehead, Miss Tattersall, Mrs. Pauline Krause, Mrs. Overgard, Mrs. Wide, Mrs. Nan Eylvon, Mrs. Pauline Viktil, Mrs. Bagshaw, Mrs. Denluck, Miss Beate Sumner, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Rowena Rosedale, Mrs. Mollye

Lutz and Miss Marjorie McFarlane. Those unable to attend but sending gifts were: Miss Donald Letourneau, Mrs. Kay Elliott, Mrs. Peggy Campbell, Miss Jeanette Gable, Miss Jacqueline Moorehead, Mrs. Josephine Morrison and Mrs. Elda McGregor.

Former City Couple Leaves After Visit

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dyer of Brooklin, Ont., are leaving tonight by steamship for Vancouver after three weeks visiting their two sons, Ed and Bill, and other close relatives here which include: Mrs. A. G. Verieck, mother of Mrs. Dyer; George and Riley Verieck, brothers; Mrs. T. Glenn, a sister; Mrs. Darrow Gomez and Mrs. N. Hebb, nieces; Mrs. Willa Ray, cousin of Mr. Dyer.

The Dyers, formerly residents of the city, also renewed numerous old acquaintances during their stay here. They left 23 years ago for eastern Canada. They made the return trip on their 25th wedding anniversary.

New Members Initiated by Moose Women

Nine new members were initiated at a regular meeting of the Women of the Moose held in the Moose Temple with Mrs. F. DeBlass, senior regent, presiding.

The new members were Mrs. Dorothy Keen, Mrs. Wilma Fregin, Mrs. Joyce Duncan, Mrs. Barbara Bond, Mrs. Jean Young, husband, Mrs. Rose James, Mrs. Jean McDade, Mrs. V. Patrick and Mrs. Hazel Gambin.

After the ceremony the library committee entertained, with Mrs. D. Ross as chairman. Mrs. R. B. Gilmour won the raffle, for which the prize was a luncheon cloth.

The lucky box was won by Miss H. Saychuk.

Drapes Lend Warmth to Living Room

In fall and winter, the family spends more time indoors. You will want to make your living room look cosier and warmer.

Drapes can add to warmth in several ways. They protect from draughts. Their color can make the room look warmer. Their texture, and the way they are hung, can increase the feeling of warmth.

You live with your drapes a long time. More than any other single thing, they influence the atmosphere of your room. Good material chosen to last can be expensive. Women who sew particularly appreciate saving expenses by making their own drapes.

You will find that lined drapes on a traverse rod, with a pulley cord for drawing them, give the most physical warmth, as well as a warm appearance. Or you can use crosswise poles with rings. There are many new labor-saving accessories for gathering your drapes and for putting on rings of various kinds. Warmth is added by a valance, and by lining with sateen, cotton flannel or percale.

You may have casement or arched windows and be at a loss how to make drapes for them. In any sewing centre you will find out how to make the correct drape headings for the swinging crane rod for casement windows, or the new arched metal rod for arched windows. You can get good advice on choice of color and fabric. The colors which give the greatest feeling of warmth are at the red-orange end of the rainbow. Blues and greens are colder. But there are in between tones, bluish or reddish purple, for instance, that you can choose to harmonize with the rest of your room. In texture, a glazed surface is not as warm as a softer finish.

Hems and sides of interlining and drapes should be sewn by machine, but sew the heading which is lined with buckram by hand. A real labor-saving device for hemming is the blind hemmer attachment. This can be used to make regularly spaced invisible tacking stitches on your hems.

1. Plans and Supervision	5,000.00
2. Grounds, Clearing, Draining and Grading	5,300.00
TOTAL ESTIMATE	$167,900.00

AND WHEREAS the proposed expenditure has been submitted to and approved by the Superintendent of Education and the Inspector of Municipalities:

AND WHEREAS the Department of Education has agreed that a grant of $83,950.00 will be made available, leaving an amount of $83,950.00 to be otherwise provided:

AND WHEREAS the amount to be provided by each constituent part of the School District is:

City of Prince Rupert (50.81%)	$39,311.00
The Rural Portion of School District No. 52 (Prince Rupert) (49.19%)	$44,589.00
TOTAL 100%	$83,900.00

AND WHEREAS the above-recited estimates were approved by the said Municipal Council subject to a By-law to raise by way of loan the required amount of $39,311.00 plus $3,180.00 for By-law and Debenture expense receiving the assent of the electors:

AND WHEREAS it is deemed expedient to borrow the sum of $42,500.00 which is the amount of debt intended to be created by this By-law:

AND WHEREAS the amount of the assessed value of the taxable land or land and improvements within the Municipality according to the last revised Assessment Roll, being the Assessment Roll for the year 1952, is $9,533,126.00:

AND WHEREAS the amount of the rateable value of land plus seventy-five per cent (75%) of the rateable value of improvements in each constituent part of the school district is:

City of Prince Rupert (46.81%)	$7,719,795.00
The Rural Portion of School District No. 52 (Prince Rupert) (53.19%)	8,771,054.00
TOTAL	$16,490,849.00

AND WHEREAS it will be necessary to raise throughout the whole school district for the payment of debt created by concurrent By-laws and for the payment of the interest in the respective years the amounts as follows:

AND WHEREAS it will be necessary to provide during the currency of the debentures authorized by this By-law for payment of the debt and for payment of interest in the respective years the amounts as set out in Section 6 hereof:

THEREFORE the Municipal Council of the City of Prince Rupert in open meeting assembled, enacts as follows:

1. There shall be placed to the credit of the City of Prince Rupert, the sum of $39,311.00 for payment over to the Board of School Trustees of School District No. 52 as the said City's share of extraordinary expenses of said Board, plus the sum of $3,180.00 for By-law and Debenture expenses, making a total of $42,500.00.

2. That for the purpose and with the object aforesaid there shall be borrowed upon the credit of the municipality subject to the consent of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council given upon the recommendation of the Minister of Municipal Affairs of the Province of British Columbia pursuant to the City of Prince Rupert Refunding Act, 1938, the sum of $42,500.00 and debentures shall be issued therefor in denominations of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100.00) and all such debentures shall be sealed with the seal of the City and signed by the Mayor and Treasurer.

3. The said debentures shall be dated the fifteenth day of April 1953, and shall be payable as follows:

No Poker Game With B.C. Say U.S. Bankroll Boys

VANCOUVER (CP)—The big bankroll boys of U.S. Pacific Northwest gas industries are saying they won't sit around the poker table with British Columbia.

But in their reply to B.C.'s announcement of an "international poker game" with water rights and natural gas the stakes, they add they have no thoughts of shunning the conference table.

Lands Minister Robert Sommers said Americans, who are on power rationing in the Pacific Northwest, won't get water rights on the Kootenay River system unless they agree to take Peace River natural gas.

Without an American market, construction of a pipeline through B.C. is not economically feasible. Without an agreement with B.C., the U.S. can't increase storage for the Columbia River hydro system.

U.S. gas industries spokesmen said water power is none of their concern and Canadian natural gas must be judged strictly on its own economic merits.

The most tart comment came from N. Henry Gellert, president of Seattle Gas Co., which would be the biggest gas customer if a pipeline winds down from the Peace.

"Nobody is going to force my hand," said Mr. Gellert. Westcoast Transmission Co. now has an application before

Khan's Wonder Horse Wins $50,000 in Season's Racing

EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Press Staff Writer
ON (CP)—A three-year-old horse, Tulyar, has the Aga Khan his 13th British leading prize-bred and breeder of racing horses. Tulyar won a comparatively easy race for the poly Indian show total winnings of $130,000 for the season and established an all-time record.
The wealthy Moslem leader, who has won many races, had to be congratulated by King George V, the Aga Khan confessed he had failed to put a shilling on his first Derby winner.
Yet as his stable grew so did his winnings and prize trophies. Practically all the classics and stake races have been won, in turn by his horses, some several times. Of his horses the prize number before Tulyar was the 1947 winner of the Derby, the Two Thousand Guineas and the St. Leger in 1935.

Tulyar had pre-empted his fifth Derby win by his first Derby win. He broke convalescence on the French Riviera, picked off for England, to master in the royal race at Ascot, Tulyar didn't lose and subsequently won the St. Leger to his victory. Tulyar's total winnings are more than $200,000. His previous record set in 1932.
When he first took part of racing as a horse, the Aga Khan is reported to have earned a fortune of several million dollars in breeding fees of thoroughbreds. On occasions he has bet a plunge on a

So Says Chuck Rayner

Toughest Role in Sports—Hockey Goalie

NEW YORK (AP)—What's the toughest job in sports?
Chuck Rayner, a 12-year man in the National Hockey League, says it's goal-tending.

If I had a boy, says the New York Ranger veteran who was once named the most valuable player in the game, "I'd never raise him to be a goalie."

Rayner was in the opposite nets at Madison Square Garden the other night when a sizzling drive crashed off the jaw of Detroit

Sawchuk was stunned and bleeding when Rayner skated over to him.

Red Wings' Terry Sawchuk. "I know how you feel," Chuck said.

"Thanks," said Terry. "I'll be all right."

From his television booth, as the crowd watched Sawchuk stagger to his feet, Bud Palmer produced a bottle showing 30-odd bone chips in an alcohol solution.

"Sawchuk let me borrow these chips," Palmer said. "They're a on goalies. This one is starting memento of Sawchuk's elbow operation last summer."

Every year seems to be rough out the same way.

Gerry McNeil of Montreal Canadiens has had a broken cheekbone. Rayner missed most of the games so far this season with a charley horse.

But Sawchuk has had the worst luck. The elbow operation was his third in as many summers. At 170 pounds, he is 15 pounds under his normal weight.

"Now it looks as if I might lose some front teeth," he rued. "I guess there are easier ways of making a living. But I still like this best."

Dental Clinic Shows Valuable Contribution to Community

Reports of the number of children treated by city dentists in connection with the activities of the Prince Rupert Children's Preventive Dental Clinic prove that a valuable contribution is being made to the health of the community, it was agreed at the organization's regular monthly meeting.

With seven children from each of the four elementary schools being treated every week by the three dentists, more than 100 young pupils monthly are receiving this necessary attention.

It was pointed out that while some children must make several visits to the dental offices, others are through in short time. In October, 28 children had their treatment completed.

Co-operation of members of the various Parent-Teacher Associations has been of "inestimable value," it was reported. These parents collect the children at school and take them to the respective dentists. They also see that they are safely returned.

Each parent pays $4 for required dental treatment for each child during the school year, and the provincial department of health pays an equal amount.

Other expenses have to be met from local sources.

In view of this the clinic will send a circular letter to various interested organizations soliciting financial support for the movement. Since support was generous last year and the scheme has proved successful, members expressed belief that similar support would be forthcoming this year.

Chairman at the meeting was J. S. Wilson, who also represents the Parent-Teacher Council.

Others present were: Mrs. James Pinniger and Mrs. A. A. Ogilvie, of the Borden Street School P-TA; Mrs. O. R. Green, of King Edward School; J. D. Robertson and Frank Derry, of Conrad Street School. Mr. Derry is secretary-treasurer for the organization.

Chihawks Retain Lead While Freak Goal Gives Wings Tie

TORONTO (CP)—Chicago's Black Hawks retained their National Hockey League lead by playing to a 3-3 tie with Toronto Maple Leafs last night.

In other games, Boston Bruins clipped New York Rangers 3-1 and Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens tied 2-2.

Gordie Howe, skidding off balance on his hands and knees, scored one of the all-time freak goals in the NHL to earn the tie for Detroit.

The freak tying goal came at 1:10 of the final period when Detroit's Prystai fired a 50-footer towards the net. Howe had tripped to the ice and his back was to the puck as he skidded. It hit him from behind, flipped between his legs, and he shoved it past amazed Gerry McNeil, Montreal goalie.

British May Supply New RCAF Planes

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF, searching for a speedy new aircraft to boost its anti-submarine air power, may find the answer in Britain's Britannia, a new and powerful 70-ton turbo-prop aircraft.

Officials say that a team of Canadian experts is in England to evaluate the Britannia and compare it with similar United States aircraft as possible replacements for the air force's Second World War Lancasters.

No final decision on a replacement choice is expected until early 1953, but if the Britannia wins over her American competitors, it will mean new production in Canada.

Officials said Canadair Ltd., of Montreal, Canada's biggest aircraft company, likely will get the production contract.

But since Canadair currently is busy producing the F-86 Sabre jet as well as a number of other aircraft, production of the new plane likely will be elsewhere than at Montreal.

Canadair currently is negotiating to take over the Fleet Aircraft Company at Port Erie, Ont., possibly on a rental basis.

If the deal goes through part of Canadair's Montreal production may be shifted to the Port Erie site.

However, all this still is in the realm of possibility. All officials will say now is that they are looking for a new plane and the Britannia is being considered.

The RCAF wants a plane that will be used in co-operation with the navy on coastal jobs, to spot and attack enemy subs and for long transport work.

At least 100 or more of the new planes will be needed, principally in the Maritimes.

Department of Trade and Industry reports that prospects for sale of B.C. lumber to Britain are brightening but there's still no certainty any sizeable amount will be taken next year. About 80 million feet remains to be shipped on last year's contracts, mostly from west coast, and no new commitments have been made.

British Columbia's new Minister of Fisheries, Hon. James Sinclair, will have an important job on his hands within the next few weeks when he will pilot through the House the Fisheries Treaty with the Japanese as provided for under the Treaty of Peace. The Speech from the Throne refers to Vancouver harbor where a large expenditure will be made as a result of representations made by the new Solicitor-General, Hon. Ralph Campney, MP for Vancouver Centre. Both these new ministers were cordially welcomed when they took their seats at the opening of the Session.

Dean Acheson, the United States Secretary for Foreign Affairs, came to Ottawa to address the Canadian Club. Serious world problems were discussed but when introduced, Acheson, whose forebears came from Toronto, caused much laughter when he said:

"As you know, my middle name is Gooderham. It is quite appropriate therefore that I should appear today under the distinguished auspices of Canadian Club." (Easterners have learned for generations to connect Canadian Club whiskey with the name of Gooderham and Worts, distillers of Toronto).

A pall of gloom fell upon the House on the opening day when the Prime Minister drew attention to the death since last session of Joseph H. Harris, a popular Toronto industrialist who represented Danforth and who stood next to Hon. C. G. Power as senior Member of the House.

Mr. Harris was 64 years of age and had been a member since 1921. A dyed-in-the-wool Conservative, he was beloved by all and was famous for his vigorous speeches delivered with great oratorical flourish. He was a livestock man in his own right and sought at all times to encourage development of the agricultural regions of Canada. He was always saying a good word for the Cariboo country and newer members of the House were greatly encouraged by his friendly, robust ways.

He died in a hospital which he helped to build. Possessed of great wealth, he was very generous in scattering money to hospitals, colleges, charitable institutions or other places where good might be done for those who needed help.

Following the Prime Minister's eulogy, several Members of the House paid their respects to the memory of this outstanding parliamentarian. Mr. J. G. Diefenbaker, Member for Lake Centre, was particularly eloquent. He recalled that when five years old he attended school where Joe Harris was one of the senior students. Mr. Diefenbaker's father was the teacher at the little rural school.

He stated that of a group of 27 urchins at the Plains Road school in East Toronto, fear got through to the House of Commons — Mr. Hargis, R. H. McGregor of East York, Mr. G. J. Tustin of Prince Edward-Lennox, and the renowned Johnny himself.

BLACKWOOD on Bridge

By EASLEY BLACKWOOD

Mr. Abel Could Have Made Opponents Help Him Out

After the opening spade bid, Mr. Champion knew the final contract would be in spades. There was no danger, then, in making a jump takeout in a suit not strictly biddable, clubs. When this action is necessary, it is best to make the jump bid in the suit where your principal side strength lies.

When Mr. Champion later bid five spades, Mr. Abel correctly interpreted it to mean that he was being requested to bid six if he did not have two quick losers in the unbid suit, diamonds.

The six spade contract, while not a laydown, was a reasonable spot and, in fact, 12 tricks should have been made without difficulty. But unfortunately, Mr. Abel's play was not as good as his bidding.

Mr. Dale led his fourth best diamond, the four spot, and Mr. Abel properly won with the ace. He was disappointed to note that dummy's club suit was only three long, so that sufficient discards from the South hand could not be made.

The way Mr. Abel analyzed the situation, there was one sure diamond loser and a possible heart loser, depending on the position of the queen of hearts.

On this analysis it could be said that Mr. Abel wanted to do all the work himself. In other words, he completely overlooked the possibility of forcing his opponents to help him out.

After winning the first trick, he took two rounds of trumps. Then he cashed the ace of hearts, followed with a low heart and finessed the jack. This lost to the queen and the enemy promptly cashed a diamond for the setting trick.

Proper play, after picking up the outstanding trumps, was to cash dummy's clubs, discarding a diamond from the closed hand, then lead a diamond. If Mrs. Keen won she would have to lead a heart into dummy's king-jack or return a club or diamond which would let Mr. Abel ruff in his hand while discarding a heart from the board.

If Mr. Dale won the diamond trick, he too, would have to return a heart as the only hope. And again Mr. Abel would have twelve tricks in the bag.

East German Communists Plan To Break Peasant Resistance

BERLIN (Reuters)—East German authorities have started a drive to break peasant resistance against the government's Russian-style collective farm program, East German press reports show.

About 1,000 collective farms, with some 38,000 members, were formed in four months after East German Deputy Premier Walter Ulbricht last July announced the start of the program.

A Communist central committee meeting has demanded that more farmers must be won over to the Communist cause.

Masses of peasants are unwilling to give up the land the Communists gave them after splitting East German estates. The core of resistance, under heavy fire in the Communist press, is the class of "large farmers"—those with between 50 and 250 acres of land.

The campaign against them has taken a heavy toll. In October alone, Western refugee authorities report, 2,100 large farmers fled to the West. Despite the poor harvest this year, additional burdens have been placed on the private farms, which pay more taxes and deliver more produce to the state than collective farms. They are also last in line for state help.

These obstacles have resulted in some farmers being heavily fined for non-delivery of their full quotas.

East Germany's two leading newspapers earlier this month printed identical articles attacking the large farm holders and calling for increased party help to peasants wanting to form collectives.

The article said peasants wanting to form a collective near Frankfurt-On-Oder had been attacked by "reactionary elements."

East Germany's first "model" collective farm at Worin, near Frankfurt-On-Oder, has posted a round-the-clock guard on its pigsty to ward off "hate attacks," according to West Berlin reports.

There is much evidence in the East German press that the Communists are collecting data for the trial of many large anti-collective farmers.

Failure to fulfil quotas and raise cattle on party lines or the concealment of food are some of the "crimes" which can send a large farmer to jail for up to five years of hard labor for "sabotaging the food supply of the people."

Rum stories...

"To train the shark was not so simple as you may think," said the bosun.

"Fortunately, the brig when she grounded was loaded to the marks with Lamb's Navy Rum. By judiciously rewarding my finny friend with dark invigorating tots, I so influenced his mind that he would give me the better fish such as turbot, retaining for himself only inferior qualities like cod. A trivial point, perhaps, but I thought good for discipline. I was about to send him to bring me a wife from among the girls bathing in a distant lagoon, when suddenly I sighted a sail. Instantly mounting the shark I went alongside and passing only to present him with the corkscrew, climbed aboard."

"That's a Rum Story," said the wedding guest incautiously. "Very kind of you, I'm sure, sir," replied the mariner. "I could just fancy a Lamb's Navy Rum."

FUTURE TRADESMEN—First applicants for the Canadian Army's new soldier apprentice plan are interviewed by Lieut. Frank Holyoake, at No. 13 Personnel Depot in Ottawa. This plan will provide trades-training to young Canadians with the desire to make the army their career. (National Defence Photo)

Armed Forces Recruiting Boosted With Heavy October Enlistments

Canada's three Armed Services recruited a total of 2,368 officers and men for the regular force during October, it was announced today at National Defence Headquarters. This raised the total strength of the services as of Oct. 31 to 99,822 officers and men.

On Nov. 11, Defence Minister Brooke Claxton announced that the strength of the services had passed the 100,000 mark, based on available recruiting figures for the early part of November. Entries into the RCN during October totalled 305, including 33 officers and 272 men. It raised the over-all strength of the Navy to 14,730 personnel. The intake figure was higher than for the same month last year, when 291 officers and men joined the RCN. Releases for October amounted to 132 officers and men.

Recruiting for the Army continued its seasonal upswing during October, when 67 officers and 849 men were enrolled, compared with 42 officers and 669 men during September. The strength of the Army was 47,540 all ranks on October 31. The total attrition of 1014 personnel includes 409 who were Special Force discharges during the month. The attrition rate for October was down from a figure of 2024 in August and 1249 in September.

The Army rotation plan is continuing, with troops of the 1st Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry now on their way home from a year's service with the United Nations in Korea and married personnel of the 27th Brigade on the way home after a year in Europe under NATO command.

The RCAF in October recruited a total of 1,147 officers, men and women to bring the strength of the Air Force up to 37,552 all ranks, as of Oct. 31. The month's intake was higher than for the same period last year. Releases for October amounted to 356 largely due to course failures, and resulted in a net gain of 791 personnel, 22 greater than for the month of September.

Areas which produced particularly well were Montreal, Van-cover, Saint John, Halifax and Toronto. Many of the recruits enrolled at these centres were recruited by mobile units operating in the surrounding districts.

The Army announced that recruiting has been brisk for its soldier-apprentice training scheme, which was made known on Oct. 14. Under the scheme a limited number of men 16 years of age are being accepted for training in selected trades beginning in January. The Navy launched a similar scheme in June and the quota has already been reached, with apprentices now in training.

Things Are the Way They Used to be

Mrs. Johnson flattened herself out on the ground and lay motionless between the rails while 25 cars rolled slowly over her. She wasn't injured, but she was late getting home, after all.

It is probable that no one has ever seen a train go past from a closer vantage point than George Thomas, of Jeffersonville, Ind. Mr. Thomas stalled his car on a railroad track just as a fast train bore down on him. The train struck the car at 65 miles an hour. It sheared off the entire front of the auto neat as a pin, but didn't do a thing to the car from the windshield back. In fact, the windshield didn't even get a scratch. Neither did Mr. Thomas.

Some experts say television can be harmful to youngsters. They are telling Johnny Carmichael! Five-year-old Johnny was watching some acrobatic dancers on the Carmichael TV set in Newmarket, N.H., decided to try a few of those fancy steps himself, slipped and broke his hip. Without a sponsor, too!

Very few people are complaining these days that they are overloaded with dough. But it literally happened to baker Rufus Frank in of Atlanta, Ga., when 70 pounds of the stuff slipped from a mixing table, fell on his foot, fractured a bone.

The average patient can expect to wait awhile when he drops in to see a doctor without an appointment. But Gus Smith found not one but a group of doctors actually springing to attention when he dropped in on them in St. Louis one day. Gus, a maintenance man, made his entrance via a glass ceiling in the City Hospital and landed on a conference table surrounded by physicians.

Have you ever had anyone almost talk the arm off of you? Mrs. John Ayers of Memphis, Tenn., almost did it to herself. Chatting amiably to a friend over the phone, she flung an arm in an emphatic gesture, hit the corner of a desk, and broke a bone.

Robert Moses, of Brockton, Mass., had one consolation when his truck ripped through nine highway posts, rolled over on its side, and lay there quietly. It could have been worse. The truck was loaded with dynamite.

On a highway near Meridian, Miss., Mrs. G. D. Middleton saw something fall from a station wagon travelling ahead of her. She picked it up, figured the people in the station wagon would eventually miss it and want it back and took off to overtake them. She had a time doing it, too, for the couple in the station wagon thought the pursuing driver just wanted to play games. Mrs. Middleton finally caught up, after a 15-mile chase, and returned the lost object. And was the couple in the station wagon ever glad to get it back, practically undamaged. It was their two-year-old son!

The cleanest toy in all Indiana on the evening of Sept. 12 was three-year-old Michael Cannon, of Elwood. That was the day Mike climbed into the family washing machine just before his mother started to do the laundry. She turned on the motor and was startled to hear loud and sassy screams. Mike was rescued—undamaged but alarmed, and abnormally shiny for a boy of his age.

Cliff Gill, operations manager of radio station KBIG in Los Angeles, won't forget Washington's birthday in 1952 for a long time. That was the day he was elected a director of the L.A. chapter of the National Safety Council and (2) slipped in his bathtub and broke two ribs.

Yes, things are still quite normal in the odd accident world. In fact, the only tried and true member of the freak squad who failed to get into the act as usual in 1952 was the perennial field mouse who each year meanders out of the field, climbs into an automobile and proceeds to scare the daylight out of a woman driver.
